Commissioners Meeting Is Routine For The Most Part

Crockett County Commissioners Court met Monday in regular session, and for the most part held a routine monthly meeting. What might have been a confrontation between the court and the county judge was interrupted by other business, and never really came to a head. Plans to rid the city of stray dogs were discussed with Dr. Gary Vannoy. Dr. Blanton was re-appointed county health officer, bids were opened for a new ambulance for the county, and Keith Peters, hospital administrator, reported that the care center roof still leaks, in spite of numerous protests and as many promises by the contractor that it would be fixed.

A heated discussion arose over the letter sent by the county judge to the four election judges the morning of the May 1. Democratic Primary. The letter, written on official county stationery, "strongly recommended" that voters be allowed to vote in whatever precinct they wished as long as they signed an affidavit swearing that they lived in the precinct in which they were voting.

This was done, according to the letter to "avoid confrontation" at the polls. The majority of the court felt the action was out of order and that the judge had over-stepped his authority. Commissioner Jesse Marley pointed out that election judges were responsible to the district judge. Judge Williams said he had no apology to make and he felt it his duty to write the letter. He also said he had shown the letter to District Judge Charles Sherril and that he said it was "acceptable".

It was pointed out to the judge that there was no confusion about which precinct a list of 82 voters lived who wanted to jump from precinct 4 and vote in precinct 1. The judge said District Court was the place to decide that matter and he did not know what the "big hassle" was all about.

Commissioner Jack Williams said he had gone over the list of voters in the election, and discovered that several who voted were not registered to vote on the county rolls. Some discussion followed but no action was taken before the court turned to the problem of stray dogs in the town.

Dr. Gary Vannoy appeared before the court to advise on the problem. He had been asked to meet with the court when his time allowed. He suggested that the county build four or five dog runs at the veterinary clinic and provide a first class dog pound. He recommended that dogs picked up should be vaccinated and tagged and kept for three days before being disposed of. He said anyone who has a pet will know it is gone within 72 hours and may claim it at the pound by paying the expense entailed.

The court voted to place the running of the pound under the sheriff's department and appointed the sheriff to look into hiring a dogcatcher, part time or full time as needed. Rules were set up as follows: All unattended dogs will be picked up, vaccinated and tagged. Owners, upon claiming their pets, will be responsible for expenses plus a fine. Unclaimed dogs will be sold for the costs after three days.

Other county reports were given and following the lunch break bids were opened for a new ambulance for the county. The court voted unanimously to purchase a Chevrolet ambulance from Beck-Rank, Inc. of Arlington for a price of $13,000.

The leaking roof at the care center was taken up one more time. It was reported that the bonding company had been advised by the contractor, I. D. Burk, that he had inspected the roof and found no leaks. Keith Peters, hospital administrator, said the roof leaks as it has since the center was opened.

Bill Cooper, manager of the Crockett County Water District, appeared and

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — A hot Railroad Commission runoff campaign between Jerry Sadler, 68, and State Rep. Jon Newton, 34, is under way.

Sadler, a pre-World War II Railroad Commissioner and former Land Commissioner, led the big May 1 Democratic primary field of candidates for the oil and gas regulatory agency.

Newton, a state lawmaker from Beeville, came in second and is rounding up endorsements from most of the other Democratic candidates.

Sadler, of Grapeland in East Texas, is zeroing in on Newton's campaign financing from oilmen. He says he will accept no oil money "above the filling station level."

Newton, who barely mentioned Sadler in the first primary campaign, is citing the former commissioner's record which includes a reprimand by the House of Representatives in 1969 and refusal to open some of his land office records to the press.

Another statewide runoff on the June ballot is for the Court of Criminal Appeals. Carl Dally of Houston and W.T. Phillips of Waco are the candidates for the judicial place.

Don Yarbrough of Houston was a surprise winner of the May 1 State Supreme Court race over veteran Court of Civil Appeals Judge Charles Barrow of San Antonio. Some lawyers talked about chances of an independent candidate or write-in candidate against Yarbrough, but it's too late for an independent to get on the ballot.

Recession Ending

Texas worst recession since the 1930's seems to be coming to an end, according to The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

The rate of inflation has been reduced substantially, and business activity for the first quarter of 1976 was 14 per cent above the first quarter of the previous year and seven per cent above February level, the bureau reported.

About the same time, Secretary of State Mark White reported Texas led the Central U.S. in new businesses formed in January — with 1,709 new business corporations formed.

Liquor Sales O.K.

Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission offered guidelines as to how out-of-state-owned firms can continue to sell alcoholic beverages and stay within the law specifying ownership by Texans.

ABC set off a flurry of concern with an announcement it would enforce the in-state ownership law.

New guidelines tell how such chain operations as grocery stores and hotels can sell beer, wine or liquor at their premises by setting up a separate Texas firm to obtain the required state permit. The Texas entity would then lease space from the parent corporation. Joint cash registers could be used, with separate coding for the alcoholic beverage sales.

Courts Speak

Reversing earlier rulings, the State Supreme Court held Farmers Branch can collect property taxes on Panasonic television sets and Honda motorcycle parts warehoused within the city.

The Court of Criminal Appeals turned down a request for a new trial by a Nueces County man sentenced to from two to 10 years imprisonment for letting a baby starve.

A burglary case was remanded by the Court of Criminal Appeals to the trial court for a hearing to determine if an appeal waiver was made knowingly.

The Court of Criminal Appeals, in a rape case from Coryell County, directed a further hearing on competency to stand trial.

AG Opinions

Meetings of a municipal police officers association are not subject to the open meetings act, Atty. Gen. John Hill said in a new opinion.

Hill said internal deliberations of a city's collective bargaining team and its preliminary discussions with elected city officials are open to the public, but can be closed if counsel takes part.

In another new opinion, Hill said misdemeanor cases in Eastland County should be filed in county court only where there is reasonable chance the defendant will enter a guilty plea. Others should go to district court, Hill said.

Appointments

T.G. Ferguson will head the Department of Public Safety Diver and Vehicle Records division. Capt. Ralph R. Maddoux and Capt. William J. McLean were promoted to major in the DPS force and assigned to command Corpus Christi and Houston regions for the department.

John Davenport of Austin is new assistant administrator of Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

William C. Bednar Jr. will become legal counselor of Texas Education Agency June 1, succeeding Cester Ollison who is retiring.

James Crews, West Orange-Cove Independent School District, was honored last week as Texas Teacher of the Year.

Milt L. Fegenbush Jr. of Austin and Carmen Ramos of Laredo have joined the Texas Railroad Commission staff as an engineer and hearings examiner.

UNCLE SAM GROWS FATTER

Is there a family in the country that wouldn't scream if it came home from a weekend trip to find it had been robbed of $2,000? Unbeknown to most families, that's how much they're losing every year. The culprit doesn't wear a mask; he wears a beard and top hat. His weapons are a myriad of federal regulations. And his name, of course, is Uncle Sam.

"The magnitude of the federal regulatory apparatus is staggering," writes Idaho Congressman George Hansen in a recent newsletter to his constituents. "Just in the area of the standard independent regulatory agencies, the number has doubled in the past 10 years to 24. There are now more than 63,000 federal bureaucrats with regulatory functions in these agencies. A Library of Congress study indicated that in 1974, while Congress was passing 404 laws, the federal bureaucracy was churning out 7,496 regulations!"

Hansen, a Republican, continues: "The Office of Management and Budget - the Executive Branch's bookkeeper - estimates that regulations cost $130 billion a year, or $2,000 per family, in artificially inflated prices, additional costs to consumers, and lost productivity."

"For example, there are more than 5,146 different government forms which are required to be filed by businesses at a total annual estimated cost of $40 billion. Some of the regulations even go so far as to stifle competition and create monopolies. For instance, the Interstate Commerce Commission prohibits competition by prescribing routes carriers may travel, commodities they may carry, and the size and conditions of loading."

Two other agencies singled out by the Idahoan as being both in conflict with the Bill of Rights and "doing violence to the small businesses and small towns of the nation" are the Environmental Protection Agency and the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. The Congressman also indicts the Consumer Product Safety Commission - two of whose "memorable" reports were on how to strike book matches and how to get into and out of bathtubs.

Hansen recently launched a national effort to alert citizens as to their legal rights when confronted with Big Brotherism in violation of such Constitutional guarantees as trial by jury and no illegal search and seizure. He also makes a good case for a bill before Congress called the Regulatory Reform Act of 1976. The bill would require the President to submit reorganization plans for these agencies at specified times during the next four years - plans that would make the agencies leaner, less oppressive, less duplicative, and less costly.

"These are just some of the much steps we can take to bring this monster under control," he argues persuasively. "We will have to do it if democratic government is to survive."

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club by Mrs. Bailey Post

Now that we have had more rain, plants should really get going this month. After all, getting ready and planting may be your most exciting part of gardening. Move around and observe all you have done and that you want to do in May.

All flowers, fruits or shrubs, herbs, vegetables, and plants must be free of weeds or grass competition to do well and to look good. Cultivation helps plants grow by cracking the crust to allow moisture to soak in, and air to come into the soil.

Someone asked about the control of black spot on rose foliage. You can get a combination rose spray that contains an insecticide and a fungicide, or another of Isotox and Benomyl. Both of these will be good and can be bought locally.

Lawns should be given proper care to make them beautiful and attractive throughout the long growing season. To do this they must have adequate maintenance. This means regular feeding, watering, and mowing. With this care, your lawn should be healthy and little trouble with weeds, insects and diseases.

Improper mowing is responsible for the decline of many lawns, and most should be mowed weekly. It's a good practice to collect the clippings each time you mow to prevent thatch build-up. This thatch hampers the penetration of water and air into the soil and ultimately can cause the decline of large areas of lawn. Mow so that you remove only about a third of the leaf blade at any one clipping. Grass manufactures food in the leaf blades, so if too much of the blade is removed, the entire plant suffers.

Frequency of watering will depend on the amount of rainfall, soil type, age of lawn, root competition with other plants, and the efficiency of watering system. Deep irrigation once a week is far more beneficial than a light daily sprinkling.

Most lawns should be fertilized in early spring and early fall at the rate of about 20 pounds of complete fertilizer per 1,000 sq. feet. The University of Florida has found that lawns of St. Augustine grass fertilized heavily during the summer months with high rates of inorganic nitrogen fertilizer suffer more injury from chinch bugs than lawns that received no nitrogen fertilizer at all.

Night-crawling slugs can be a bad problem for both garden plants and potted plants kept outdoors. Some ways to combat these that you may want to try - 1. Use bait containing metaldehyde. Follow label. 2. Use the liquid eradicant called Slugit, sprinkled over area. Follow label. 3. Remove mulches, boards, bricks, debris or other shelter where slugs harbor during daytime or lay eggs. 4. Ring area to be protected with sand, ashes, or lime.

STOCKMAN WANT ADS GET RESULTS

Debra Says

by Debra Price

Children facing the summer after their first grade year often find the summertime boring. They may miss the social life of many friends and the fun that outdoor equipment of school provides. When all the busy activities of school stop, children search for something to do.

At 7, children are beginning to settle down. They are at a stage when collections and sharing them are fun.

Airplanes, space travel, prehistoric times--especially dinosaurs--are favorite topics for reading and discussing. Their sharp little minds store exact terms, sizes and records.

Young children look for quick action and mounting suspense in what they read or have read to them. They welcome information presented straight without watering down the drama.

When you 7-year-old gets restless this summer, check out a few of these books from the public library. H. A. Rey's Curious George books present a monkey with a fascinating personality. Each book is full of monkeyshines.

Horse lovers will enjoy C. W. Anderson's Billy and Blaze and other Blaze books. A wild pony book is A Pony Called Lightning by Miriam E. Mason.

Exaggerated humor fascinated 7 year olds in Why Cowboys Sing in Texas, Captain Dow, and The Hole in the Doughnut by Le Grand. Fantasy appeals to boys and girls in My Father's Dragon by R. S. Garrett or Alphonse That Bearded One by N.S. Carlson.

Stories of children like themselves include Lentil by Robert McCloskey and Little Eddie and other Eddie Books by Carolyn Haywood.

Local librarians or book store owners can offer much assistance. Reading to children helps both parents and children build a warmer relationship.

THAT VITAL SOMETHING

The trust of a child is a beautiful thing. Do you merit it?

Sure, you work hard every day to keep up payments on the nice, modern house where he has a room of his own — with enough toys in it to make two kids happy. You give him the best modern medical and dental care. You even started a special bank account for him — for the years when he will be going to college.

But — haven't you missed something? In your concern for his mental and physical well-being, haven't you overlooked that elusive, vital "something" called the soul?

Remember, man is neither all mind nor all body. He has a spiritual side, too!

Officials Warn Against Get Rich Savings Bond Schemes

Jesse L. Adams, Deputy National Director, U. S. Savings Bonds Division, Department of the Treasury, today cautioned residents of Texas about becoming involved in chain-letter or similar schemes "to get rich" with Savings Bonds. Many years' experience with chain schemes indicates that most participants lost their entire investment, according to Mr. Adams. This outcome is inevitable, because the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted. The greater the amount to be invested, the sooner the saturation point is reached.

Banks and other issuing agencies are, therefore, authorized by the Treasury to refuse applications for Bonds where there is reason to believe they will be used in a chain-letter scheme. Chain-letter schemes which use the mails to facilitate their purpose are considered by the Postal Service as a violation of the postal lottery and fraud laws. Further, postal officials have warned that, even though the lists of participants are not circulated in the mails, this does not alter the illegality of the operation since, usually, the Bonds or other evidence of participation in the schemes are mailed. There is also the possibility that the scheme may violate anti-lottery laws, even if the mails are not used in any way. In addition to the fact that chain-letter schemes violate federal law, the Treasury believes that the public should be made aware that such schemes--which are essentially get-rich-quick activities--do a distinct disservice to the Savings Bonds Program. Rather than encouraging persons to make genuine investments, they create the illusion that participants are both aiding their government and themselves. Even in the rare case where an individual receives a large return, it is likely that he would quickly redeem the Bonds, thereby placing a further burden on the Treasury. Individuals who purchase Savings Bonds for such chain letter schemes, and who discover that participation may violate certain laws and regulations, may request a refund, using Treasury Form PD-2966--provided they have the Bonds in their possession. This form is available at many banks; it may also be requested from the Bureau of the Public Debt, 200 Third St., Parkersburg, W. Va. 26101.

Kathol Petroleum Makes Buys In Crockett County Oil & Gas Fields

Kathol Petroleum, Inc. announced today that it has consummated its previously announced purchase of the one-half interest in certain oil and gas leases, a gas processing plant and gas transmission and gathering system in Crockett County, Texas from Tomlinson Oil Co., Inc. George J. McLernon, Jr., president of Kathol Petroleum, Inc. said that with the acquisition of Tomlinson's interest in the properties, "Kathol is now the sole owner of the Indian Wells gas processing plant, pipeline system and Crockett County leases." The processing plant receives natural gas produced from approximately 120 natural gas wells located in the Ozona Southwest Field. Liquid hydrocarbon products are removed from the gas at the processing plant and the natural gas is then delivered to pipelines for distribution.

Kathol also announced that it has successfully negotiated the acquisition of leasehold interests in approximately 7,500 additional acres of land located in Crockett County, Texas. Such property, which is adjacent to other acreage leased by Kathol will be developed for natural gas wells.

Kathol also announced that it consummated a loan agreement with a Tulsa, Oklahoma, bank providing for the lending to Kathol of up to $4,750,000. The proceeds of such loan are to be used by Kathol in making payment for the

Stripes Are High Fashion This Season

Stripes point to high fashion this season--in horizontals, verticals and diagonals, Mrs. Becky Culp, area clothing specialist, reports.

"From narrow to wide to bold to subtle, the stripe variety is endless. And often stripes combine with other patterns, such as prints or florals, in the same fabric design or as trim or separate companion garments," she noted.

Mrs. Culp is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Stripes affect the way we look. They can make us appear shorter, heavier, taller or thinner, depending on the garment design, fabric texture and the stripe's color contrast, size, boldness, direction and placement on the body," she said.

She said that when choosing stripe fabric for sewing or when buying a garment ready made, visualize its effect. Ask yourself if it's the look you want.

"Stripes should match visually where seams or separate garment pieces meet. When buying a stripe garment, choose the one best matched if several are available.

"Look for horizontal stripes to match at center front, center back, side, and front armhole seams. Back armhole seams may be impossible to match due to needed ease and the shape of set-in sleeves. Due to their shape, some garment designs are impossible to match at side seams, and these patterns are labeled as unsuitable for horizontal stripes or designs," she noted. Lengthwise stripes are generally more becoming if the dominant design is centered on the body. Curved or angular seams in lengthwise stripes, bias cut or diagonally printed stripes should also match at major seams, she pointed out.

You won't have to pay extra for tires, brakes, and gasoline, if you avoid rushing up to red lights and stop signs when driving.

You won't have to pay for receiving mail if, according to the National Association of Letter Carriers, concerned legislators succeed in getting the government to subsidize the Post Office, the way it does universities.

You won't have to pay for distilled water for your steam iron if you catch rainwater in a clean container.

You won't have to pay for too many electrical equipment failures if you oil the equipment once a month.

A tempting offer on a gas grill.

Right now, we're making you a tempting offer on gas grills with twin burners! Independently controlled twin burners never use more gas than you need. For big meals, use both burners. For smaller meals, save gas and money by using one burner and half the grill. A gas grill adds a new dimension to family meals and entertaining. It eliminates the fuss and bother of cooking outside while it keeps the flavor and the fun. And, because you take cooking heat out of the house and the burden off your air conditioning, you save energy, too.

Buy one of these grills before August 1, 1976, and save.

Job Hunting Is Full Time Job

Job hunting itself has to be a full time job to provide good results. Mrs. Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist, contends. She pointed out that it's hard work, often means a lot of rejections and a great deal of pavement-pounding and can be very discouraging--but stick to it, she added.

Mrs. McCormack is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Plan a forceful, investigative campaign that will help find a job you like.

"Begin with a notebook to fit with your appointment book, Record all efforts at job hunting in this notebook. No lead or possibility is too small to get an entry."

She suggested including the following information:

- name of the firm
- person you are to contact and his title
- your source
- when you are to make the contact
- what reply you got and when
- indication if you need a follow-up
- name of person who interviews you, his title, interview date and when you should send a note of thanks for the interview.

"Leave a space for friends' comments hints or leads about the company, its products and services. You may want to note any of your reactions to the firm based on prior contact you may have had. Keep the notebook up to date."

"Also in the job campaign, make some personal contacts among friends. At first it may be embarrassing--but how will they know to tell you about any good job openings otherwise? You literally have nothing to lose," she reminded.

"Once you have thought of about 10 people to ask about jobs, find out some information about their companies. Write this in the notebook. Then prepare a letter to cover your resume," she said.

A personal letter has a better chance for a positive reply, and you may want to mention the following:

- the name of the friend who suggested you get in touch
- the reason why you are interested in working for the company
- similar work you have done in the past
- say you will phone to set up an appointment at some specific time in the future. Then do so.

"Once you have mailed out the first batch of letters, start on a second group. Do not stop looking now. Continue to investigate any new leads," she advised.

Resident Of Center Places In Contest

A resident of the Crockett County Care Center won second place in a statewide letter writing contest commemorating National Nursing Home Week. Mrs. Juanita R. DePriest was presented with a plaque and $15 for her entry.

The prize winning letter, which was printed in the nursing home periodical, follows:

"Crockett County Care Center is truly a home away from home. I came from San Antonio and the people accepted me as if I were a native of the town. Everyone has been so nice and helped me so much, about a year old.

All the nurses and doctors, even the kitchen help are nice to me. I may go home soon and I will want to take everyone of them home with me.

We have activities every morning. We either play games or do some

IS THERE A THIEF IN YOUR ATTIC?

Just as sure as heat rises, there may be a thief in your attic. It's the attic ceiling.

That high-cost heat your furnace turns out rises to the ceiling... but unless your home is fully insulated it doesn't stop there. It keeps right on going. And you keep right on paying... up to 30% more than you need to pay to keep your home comfortable.

You can stop this heat thievery quickly and inexpensively by having us install Certain-teed Fiber Glass Insulation.

How do you know if your attic is properly insulated? Call us. We'll send over a trained insulation specialist. He'll give you the facts. If you do need insulation, you'll be amazed at how little it costs... and how much you'll save in expensive fuel costs. In fact, Certain-teed Fiber Glass usually pays for itself within two to three years.

If you see a small amount of white fluffy mold on food, it's a good idea to throw away the item. The fluff is actually the "bloom" of the mold—and where there is bloom, there are often deep, widespread roots.
