FLOYD COUNTY FARMERS MAKE PLANS TO JOIN IN NATIONAL COTTON ACREAGE REDUCTION MOVE; COMMUNITIES COMMITTEES NAMED

Floyd County farmers, landowners and cotton dealers, this week joined in the plan for the reduction of cotton acreage throughout the United States. The cotton acreage reduction plan, which will insure a better price for cotton next fall, was announced last week by secretary of the Agriculture Wallace.

The immediate aim is to remove 3,000,000 bales of this year's cotton production through agreements by farmers to plow up 25 to 40 percent of the cotton now growing. In Texas this will entail plowing up about 4,500,000 acres now planted in cotton.

Under the plans as outlined the farmers will be paid for plowing up a certain percent of his cotton acreage. Contracts this week are being distributed in Floyd County to farmers to find out how much cotton they will be willing to plow under.

Washington, June 27.—A processing tax of 30c a bushel for wheat, to be effective midnight, July 8, was ordered Tuesday by Acting Secretary of Agriculture Rexford G. Tugwell, with the approval of President Roosevelt.

At the same time, in accordance with the farm relief act, a compensating tariff on wheat imports was ordered by the farm administration. Proceeds of the new levy, which may amount to $150,000,000 the first year, will be used to pay benefits to wheat farmers who sign contracts promising acreage reduction in 1934 and 1935.

Schedule of Cotton Plan

Washington, June 19.—The schedule of payments for individual cotton farmers who agree to plow under or otherwise abandon a portion of their cotton acreage was announced by the agriculture department as follows:

Yield per Acre (Pounds—)	Benefit Payment per Acre With Option
100-124	$6
125-149	$7
150-174	$8
175-224	$10
225-274	$11
275 and over	$12

All of the foregoing are the cash plus option.

Cash benefits for farmers who elect Plan No. 2, which does not include the option on Government cotton ranges as follows:

100-124	$7
125-149	$9
150-174	$11
175-224	$14
225-274	$17
275 and over	$20

"Plan 1—Receive in cash this summer, from $5 to $12 per acre for land retired from cotton, the exact amount depending on former average yields per acre; and an option at six cents per pound on as many bales of government owned cotton as the acreage retired would yield as determined by former average yields. This cotton may be sold by the government some time during the year and the difference between the selling price and option price paid the farmer.

Scale Announced
"The cash payments on this plan are to be paid according to the following scale: land yielding 100 to 124 pounds lint per acre, $6 per acre; 125 to 149 pounds lint, $7;

Cotton and row crops in many sections of the county will benefit greatly from the rainfall received Monday night of this week. Precipitation, varying from light showers to an inch of moisture, was reported in the county. Lighter rain was reported from the south, west and northern edges of the county.

In the southwest section of the county around Blanco and McCoy the rainfall was light and the crops are still badly in need of moisture. At the M. D. Ramsey place, 14 miles west and slightly south of Floydada, rainfall was estimated at one half an inch with the fall some heavier toward town. The rain was general in the Harmony community.

Harvesting was renewed Tuesday afternoon at Sandhill where the rain varied from one quarter to half an inch. One half an inch was reported at the A. S. Cummings place, nine miles from town.

Five eighths of an inch of rain was reported at the Center school house, seven and one half miles northeast of Floydada. West of there the rain was estimated at around three fourths and more. AMERICA HAS GROWN UP

Thirty-five years ago, on the 3rd of July, 1898, the naval battle of Santiago put an end to Spain's pretensions of being a world power and put the United States of America on the map as one of the great powers of the world. It is not putting the case too strongly to say that until the Spanish War the American nation counted for very little in world affairs except as a source of food supplies, and our politicians and most of our people felt themselves somehow inferior to Europe and the Europeans.

Some of that inferiority idea still persists and crops up every now and then, whenever the United States takes part in any discussion of international affairs. Foolish people get the notion that somehow America's diplomats and delegates are going to be "outsmarted" whenever they try to dick with Europeans. And Europe, of course, does its best to make that notion stick.

We don't believe that European statesmen and politicians are any smarter than our own. We have every confidence that the American delegation to the present World Monetary and Economic Conference will get all they want after, whether Europe likes it or not. America has grown up.

WE NEED A NEW TUNE

There'll be a lot more enthusiasm in this year's celebration of the Fourth of July than there has been for two or three years past. Folks who had been wondering whether the Declaration of Independence was out of date are beginning to chirk up and admit that Uncle Sam is still doing nicely, thank you.

There'll be more people trying to sing the Star-Spangled Banner than there were last year. We say "trying" advisedly. Did anybody ever hear any singer or group of singers who could really sing our national anthem? Among professional singers it is conceded that nobody but Anna Case can do it properly.

It's a swell anthem, all right, but we think that, as a part of the New Deal, somebody ought to dig up or invent a National song that everybody can sing. "America" is good, but it's the same tune as "God Save the King" and "Heil Dir in Siegerkranz." Why not go back to the Revolution of 1776 and revive the tune the Continental soldiers sang, which is "Yankee Doodle!" That's a good, lively tune, but it needs some new words.

Are You a Better Judge of Value Than Your Grandmother Was?

YOUR GRANDMOTHER had her hands full when she went shopping. She was as interested in getting the best value for her money as you are. But to be sure of getting the best value she had to go to every store in town that carried the things she wanted . . . then she had to bargain with the merchant to find his real price . . . and then she had to use an eagle eye, a sniffing nose, experienced fingers and her trained taster to be sure that the merchandise was all that the merchant claimed it to be.

Your Grandmother knew value alright—but Oh My! how she had to work using that knowledge.

Miss Hester West Writes Interestingly of Orient Experiences

I will write you some of my experiences and some things I have had in my stay of over eight months in this land of "the celestials." Now that winter has been survived without chilblains or similar ills, I feel in the mood to put some incidents on paper.

I think I have already told you that my first surprise in China was to see so many bound feet. I expected to see one or two in the interior but found that there were many in Shanghai. In the hospital here are three girls who had bound feet in their childhood but they were unbound before the girls were grown. It makes a difference in the size and shape of their feet and makes them walk a little string-halt-ed.

I want to tell you a little about riding in a rickshaw. I didn't want to do it at all but there is really no other way of getting around from place to place. I have had to be resigned to it but when it is very hot, very cold or rainy and I have to make a human being stay out in the weather while I stay inside protected, I have a very unhappy feeling. But if they are not used they stand out in the weather begging for trade besides having no money. I get amused when they are pulling me through a narrow street and to make the people clear the way they yell out "a gorgeiner is coming."

Oh and something else that I have noticed in the Orient. The first thing I saw in Japan was a rickshaw, the next was a man wearing a hat that looked like an inverted washbasin, the next was a man in a kimono with a hardboiled straw hat, if you know what I mean. These hard straw kinds that look like boards. The hat in itself was not bad but in common usage with a kimono it seemed out of place. I have found that to be true in China too. The women are very reluctant to give up their own Oriental styles but many of the modern generation wear coats and leather shoes. The men, however, are not so slow. Some wear foreign clothes altogether, some only wear the hat, others only the leather shoes, other only the trousers, others only the overcoats of the West. Chinese men look so neat and trim in their gowns when they are neat and trim, that I am sorry they adopt the fashions of the West.

The women of education are very careful to see that they wear clothes of the latest styles, color, pattern, material, length, etc. The women rarely ever wear anything on their heads. In the winter time they wear caps and the old women wear an outfit that looks like ear muffs to me.

I have been to several Chinese homes and am impressed by the fact that the rigid customs of the "Old China" are giving away to the more liberal ones of the new day. Not that politeness has been done away with, not at all but that artificial, formal politeness is on the wane. Tea, peanuts, watermelon seeds are always offered guests sometimes the Western fashion of handshaking is adopted sometimes the custom of shaking hands with one's self is used.

I have been especially interested in seeing the temples in China. Whenever we go out on a pleasure trip we nearly always go to a temple. I think that is partly because the pretty places in the hills are already taken by the monks as a sort of refuge. Temples have been built on every hill I have been to. I think here is another reason we go to temples. The grounds are usually large (in China almost every available space is occupied either by houses or by fields) then we go largely out of curiosity. In Soochow, a city of great historical interest, I don't know when it began but Marco Polo in writing of his trip to China, tells of visiting Soochow and it was a city of no mean size even in those days. But I would guess about 500,000 now. All three of the religions of China have temples in Soochow. I have been to at least one of all three. The Buddhist Temples are more numerous, and there is one Confucian Temple here. It is not being used since the days of the republic and is inhabited by bats which smell to the skies.

We have seen many images of the goddess of mercy who to me is the God I could most respect. First of all she is very kind faced, she has 1000 hands with which to aid those who pray to her. I am sending her picture.

Miss Chambers has just called me in to see her worms start to spin. She has had them for about a week and we have all enjoyed watching them grow from less than an inch long to longer than my little finger and almost as big around. They eat mulberry leaves at a very rapid rate, in fact they eat so fast that they can be heard at it. They shed their skins four times during growing season then they rest a few hours and start spitting out the thread of silk. One of these has started to spin. When it spins itself into its cocoon then it sleeps. Unless wanted for breeding purposes, the cocoons are dipped into boiling water, killing the worms and loosening the thread as they can be unwound and wound onto spindles then into thread, then into silk material.

This season of the year is called the "Yellow Mold Weather." It began last Saturday with a shower. Every day this week we have had rain and sunshine. In the morning it is steaming hot then in the afternoon and night we have a thunder storm and rain. It never gets dry from now until the end of the season which now is about five weeks off. All our winter things are packed away in hope that the mold won't be able to find them.

I have just had a glass of lemonade and my, but it was good. We get our supply of ice from the country people who cut it in winter and pack it in straw houses for summer use. We are not permitted to hear the tinkle of ice in our glasses as the ice is not clean. In Soochow we are able to get sure enough cows milk from Dr. Snell's dairy. Other cities are not so fortunate and have only the milk from water buffaloes. This is all right in its way but it not quite the same as the sure enough cows milk.

I was over in the hospital this afternoon helping one of the nurses with two of the little boys. They are both very sweet children and I like to work with them. We gave them a violet ray treatment. They both have T. B. of the spine.

The other day when I was sunning my trunks getting ready to put my winter things away, one of the nurses was interested in seeing what I had. She liked my pansy quilt and asked me where I bought it. It was given to me by one of our missionary societies at home and the bed spread it was given to me too. What pretty patterns of print, it too was given to me. These blankets are very nice, and those are your summer bedroom slippers. Were they very expensive? They too were given to me by my friends in the home land. She finally looked at me in dismay and said: "Is there anything here that was not given to you? I have never seen a girl with so many friends."

When the spring sewing season opened up it was amazing how many calls were made on my work basket. May I borrow your scissors, your needles, your thread, your hooks and eyes, your buttons, May I make a dress like this dress, and on and on. But the thing that delights me is that I have been able to meet the demands made and still have more than enough left over. I have decided why. Those gifts you made for me were gifts of love and they last longer than those of any other kind. I never did thank any of you sufficiently for so bountifully supplying my needs but in my heart I wish you could be thanked. To keep well, happy and busy at my work is the best way I know of thanking you.

I read the other day that an air route from Shanghai to Chicago in four days was being planned on. When that is completed, if ever, I will invite you over to spend China New Year with me, and meet some of the lovely friends I have made among the people of the "Middle Kingdom."

If this letter makes China any nearer to you, I am glad. If they make you love and respect the people of China more, I am glad.

I could hardly close without saying that I am very happy. I was thinking just this past week that I don't know when I have ever been so happy and so busy. But I am doing what I like to do and living what I do. That makes a great deal of difference. I was amused this week when one of the language school teachers was looking at a picture of me in my Chinese dress. She said: "Will you not get angry if I tell you something?" I said, of course not. She said: "You are just like a Chinese girl in this picture." I thanked her very much.

Lovingly,
HESTER.

150 to 174 pounds lint, $8; 175 to 224 pounds lint, $10; 225 to 274 pounds lint, $11; and 275 pounds lint and over, $12.

"An example of how plan 1 would apply: A man has 100 acres planted to cotton. He retired 30 per cent of this, or 30 acres. It is determined his average yields have been one quarter bale per acre ($125 pounds lint). He would be paid this summer $7 per acre for the 30 acres retired or $120. He would also be given an option at six cents a pound on 75 bales (the amount 30 acres would produce according to the former yields). If the cotton is sold and when the price goes to 10 cents per pound, he would be paid the difference between what 7.5 bales brought at 10 cents and the six cents option price, a difference of four cents per pound, or $20 per bale. He would receive from this $150. His total payments from having cooperated on plan No. 1 would be in this case, $360.

The Next Plan.
"Plan No. 2: Farmers wanting all cash payments and not desiring to take an option on government cotton are offered a higher scale of cash rental payments than offered under the first plan:
-The cash payments on class 2 are made according to this production table, yields to be determined on the basis of former average yields per acre—land yielding 100 to 124 pounds of lint per acre, $7 per acre; 125 to 149 pounds, $9; 150 to 174 pounds, $11; 175 to 224 pounds, $14; 225 to 275 pounds, $17 and all over 275 pounds, $20 per acre.

Example is cited
"Example of how plan 2 would apply: Taking the same case of a man who retired 30 acres out of 100 acres planted in cotton, and whose former average yields are determined to have been one-quarter bale per acre, he would be paid this summer $9 per acre for 30 acres, or a total of $270."

County agents were given a sample form on which farmers who desire to retire cotton are asked to sign. The agents will have prepared for their community meetings. These forms read:
"Volunteer offers to retire 25 to 40 per cent present cotton acreage: Subject to contract agreement, acreage and average yield as determined by inspection, to approval of local cotton committee, and finally subject to the voluntary cotton retirement plan being authorized by the U. S. secretary of agriculture. Space is given for the name of the farmer, his address, the number of acres in cotton in 1933 and the acreage the farmer offers to retire."

Floyd County Organizes
Floyd County farmers Tuesday of this week started first organization procedure. Y. S. Payne, of Abertown, has been appointed and stationed in Floydada to conduct a survey of Floyd County to find out the sentiment of Floyd County farmers toward the plan.
Mr. Payne arrived in Floydada Tuesday morning. He is at the present making his headquarters in the County Tax Assessor's Office. O. T. Williams, vocational agriculture instructor of Floydada, is actively connected with activities in Floyd, Farmer and Abiley counties.
County Judge J. W. Howard and Roe McCleskey of Floydada Saturday conferred with Sterling C. Evans, district farm agent, in a meeting at Lubbock of south plains business men, County officials and representative farmers. Plans were made for the county operation in the cotton reduction acreage plan.
Mr. Payne, special agent, upon arriving in Floydada started his plan to working in Floyd County. Contact men were selected for every community in the county, with the exception of one or two where they were combined, who went to the various districts to arrange meetings with ginmen, prominent farmers and others to start the plan working. Roe McCleskey held a meeting in Dougherty Tuesday night with a degree of success.
Outlines Cotton Plan
Special Agent P. Payne, in a meeting of some 200 gin men, cotton farmers and other business men Wednesday morning at ten o'clock in the district court room, outlined the cotton acreage reduction plan.
Mr. Payne explained the plan to organize the county to make a complete check of the amount of cotton farmers would agree to plow under the federal reduction plan. Representative committees from communities in the county were present and these were named by Mr. Payne. Duties of the committees in the communities are the outlining of the plans to farmers, explaining the cotton option benefit contract, and securing the completed contract from the farmer.

Committees Are Selected
Committees for the south end of Floyd County as announced by representatives from the communities Wednesday morning are:

McCoy—D. F. Payne, Clara Smith and John R. Gray. Mr. Gray chairman; Lakeview—John Lloyd, Jim Warren, Claud Patton, Patton chairman; Blanco—W. H. Simpson, chairman, J. W. Treadwell and J. R. Bennett; Fairview—L. B. Cozby, chairman, F. O. Connor and Lee Burgett. Starkey—J. K. Holmes, Jim Hassell and J. A. Massa, the latter to be chairman; Center—Olin S. Miller, chairman; C. M. Meredith and W. B. Jordan; Dougherty—J. A. Hatley, W. W. Payne and W. D. Newell; Harmony—L. A. Williams, chairman, R. B. Gray and M. Carr.

Sandhill—J. C. Cates, Walter Travis, and Ed Holmes, Holmes chairman; Campbell—Ray Smith, Walter Baxter, A. P. Norton with Norton chairman; Floydada—E. C. Nelson, chairman, W. N. Jones and E. C. King; Pleasant Hill—J. S. Cummings, R. M. Battey, chairman; Auselope—C. A. Cumbie, J. A. Jones, C. W. Nickels, Nickels chairman; Allmon—J. E. Jones, H. A. Krause and G. W. deCordova; Cedar—C. O. Wise, N. Williams, W. H. Holmes.

"By selecting a committee of men from each community we will get the job done quicker and we will have men there who will be acquainted with the farmers and the conditions in his vicinity. He will be better able to understand the questions that will arise and answer them", Mr. Payne said in beginning.

"The committees in the communities will be in charge of the contracts which will be presented and explained to the farmers of that vicinity. I will give the community committees instructions to follow.

"One of the main things is to go slow as many questions will arise. Do not get into this contract unless you understand what you are doing.

"We tried to select energetic men who would put forth effort and work hard to secure the contracts from the farmers. It will be necessary that the committee use typewriters in making out the contracts as they will be filled in triplicate.

"Members of the local committees will be paid $2.55 per day for their services in securing a contract survey of the community. Each day the local committee will send the contracts to Floydada to Mr. Payne and he will in turn send them to state and national agriculture committees. 1000 contracts were sent to Mr. Payne this week, which will mean that 330 farmers can make contracts in the present time. Sample contracts were distributed to committee members present in order that they might study them and be prepared to explain to fellow farmers in their respective communities.

Mr. Payne read and explained the plans and the contract to the group, using a completed 'dummy' contract as an example. Several questions arising were settled in the session.

Special Agent Payne suggested that committees in the communities select a certain place to make their headquarters, probably at the school buildings, and meet the farmers there.

Farmers interested in the cotton acreage reduction plan are to see their community committees to make arrangements for completing contracts agreeing to plow under a certain percent of this year's cotton crop. Farmers who have expressed their views are wholeheartedly supporting the plan, as a method to obtain a better price for their cotton next fall and yet get some pay for their cotton now planted.
