B. & G. OFFERS NEW AND EXCLUSIVE QUALITY IN AUTOMOBILE SALES

"With Ford Dealers the day of the 'used car' is gone," according to J. B. Bishop, of the Bishop Motor Company. "You are now offered an exclusive new standard of automotive quality in R. & G. cars, which you may buy with as much confidence and assurance of satisfaction as a completely new automobile."

"This new term—R. & G.—stands for Renewed and Guaranteed. It means that each car offered under it must meet a rigid set of specifications as to mechanical condition and appearance. And the result is a product so fine that it can be sold with a written guarantee of 'Satisfaction or your money back!'"

"Under this guarantee, you are the judge of the car's quality. After purchase, you may drive it two days, and put it to any driving test you please. If it fails to measure up to your expectations in any way, you may return it to your Ford Dealer's and have your money refunded in full—cheerfully, and with no questions asked."

"In addition, you will receive a written service warranty as a further protection. This double guarantee removes the elements of doubt and uncertainty that have troubled buyers of used cars for years."

"Now you can know the facts before you buy. There's no need to rely on the opinion of some one else, or trust to verbal claims. You know what you're getting for your money when you select an R. & G. car or truck at your Ford dealers."

DAWN AT THE ALAMO—MARCH 6, 1836

"I shall die like a soldier who never forgets what is due his own honor and that of his country". Shortly after William Barrett Travis penned the most heroic document in American history, the Alamo garrison which he commanded was put to the sword. One hundred and eighty stalwart Texans gave their lives; none survived. Erupted in the devotion of all Texans today to the "Grade of Texas Liberty" is the ideal for which its defenders fought and died. Shown above is the painting which hangs in capitol halls in Austin.

Reestablishment, at as rapid a rate as the Secretary of Agriculture determines to be practicable and in the general public interest, of the ratio between purchasing power of the net income per person on farms and that of the income per person not on farms which prevailed during the five year period August 1909 to July 1914, inclusive, and the maintenance of this ratio.

Floyd County Pioneers Day Will Be Celebrated As Centennial Event May 28

The City of Floydada has been added to the list of Texas cities which are planning Centennial year celebrations, according to officials of the department of information for Texas Centennial celebrations.

The Floydada celebration was added to the official calendar of Centennial events, following receipt of information from Floydada, that the annual Pioneer Day Celebration will be held May 28 as a Centennial event.

The department of information is carrying on an extensive program of advertising and publicizing the state wide Centennial celebrations and the State of Texas. The work is promoted through newspapers and magazines, radio, travel bureau activities, and club and school projects. It is nation wide in scope. Officers of the department are maintained in Dallas.

More than 158 Centennial celebrations, planned in all parts of the state, now are included on the official calendar. Centennial year officially was opened last November with the "opening shot" celebration held at Gonzales. Several celebrations have been held since that time and the others, including the magnificent exposition at Dallas, will be held at various times throughout 1936.

Famous Coins Will Be Collected For Texas Memorial Museum

Austin.—The famous Swenson collection of coins, numbering more than 5,000 pieces and valued at almost $100,000, will be available for the Texas Memorial Museum upon its completion, it has been announced here in connection with the sale of the Texas Centennial half-dollars, proceeds from which will be used to complete the first unit of the museum. The Swenson coins donated to The University some years ago, and said to be one of the most famous collections in the entire country, will be exhibited by The University of Texas in the Texas Memorial Museum, to be built on the campus of the university.

Included in this famous collection are many of the earliest known coins. They were collected during the latter years of the famous Texas rancher's life, and he valued them highly. The University has carefully kept them in vaults, due to lack of suitable place for exhibiting them, but with the building of the Memorial Museum, proper facilities will be on hand for this and many other famous historical relics which are now owned by The University of Texas.

Many famous collections of nature and of historical relics are owned by The University of Texas.

CAUSE OF RISE IN SUICIDE IS SOUGHT

Scientists Organize to Study Individuals' Habits.

New York.—Emotional distress, culminating in mental disease, and not material misfortune such as poverty or unemployment is the primary factor to be considered in determining the cause of suicide. Potential suicidal patients can be recognized long before they attempt to destroy themselves, and their motives and impulses can be treated as a preventable disease.

These are the cardinal points to be driven home to the layman in a national publicity campaign by the Committee for the Study of Suicides, Inc., recently organized here. Dr. Gregory Zilboorg, psychiatrist, who has made important contributions to the psychological investigation of suicide, will be director of research.

Another member, Dr. Gerald R. Jamieson, is particularly interested in the project because he long has been an advocate of better psychiatric training on the part of the general medical practitioner.

Spurred by the steady climbing of the nation's suicide rate, the psychiatrists will leave no stone unturned in their study of the habits of thought and general activities of the individual that lead to emotional instability and perhaps ultimately to self-destruction.

Other members of the "Suicide Institute" include Dr. Dudley D. Shoemaker, whose articles on the Lindbergh kidnaping case in 1932 attracted wide attention, and Dr. Franklin G. Ebaugh of Denver, director of the division of psychiatric education of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene.

Auto Industry Takes 24 Per Cent of Steel Output

Chicago.—The automotive industry was the leading consumer of finished steel in 1935, being the fourth consecutive year, according to the magazine Steel. Automobile, parts, and allied manufacturers took 24.04 per cent of the steel industry's output during the year, compared with 20.57 per cent a year ago, 20.95 per cent in 1933, and 18.15 per cent in 1932.

Second leading consuming outlet for finished steel during 1935 was the building industry at 13.01 per cent, maintaining the same rating as in 1934, when the consumption amounted to 12.70 per cent.

The container industry went into third place, pushing down the railroads, due largely to the trend toward merchandising beer, oil, and other products in cans. This industry took 9.30 per cent of total finished steel production, against 8.68 per cent in 1934. Railroads used 7.75 per cent of output, the lowest in the 14 years that the magazine made the survey, and compared with 12.96 per cent in 1934.

Other principal outlets for steel during 1935 were: Agriculture, 4.74 per cent; machinery, 4.37 per cent; oil, gas, and water, 4.29 per cent; and exports, 3.85 per cent.

Learn Jiu-Jitsu, Advice of Veteran Policewoman

New York.—"Every woman, in every walk of life, needs Jiu-Jitsu," declares Mary E. Hamilton, New York's first policewoman. "No one looks as good as she does alone, day and evening, but that does not protect her from annoyances and attack."

Strength is not important in this ancient Japanese method of self-defense, Miss Hamilton points out. "There are a number of points in the body where pressure or a slight blow is sufficient to disable a 'tough.' A knowledge of such facts and of how to secure the requisite pressure, with skill in balancing the body, are the essentials of Jiu-Jitsu."

Nor does proficiency in this form of wrestling develop the physique of a feminine Danno O'Mahony or "Strangler" Lewis, she assures women who are solicitous of their figures. It strengthens the body without creating bulging muscles. "Even the woman quietly at home is exposed to any ruffian who rings her door bell or enters through a window," Miss Hamilton contends. "She dare not be dependent on a police whistle or a scream."

French Cows Journey South for Winter

Chambery, France.—A special vacation train for cows is the latest innovation of the French railroads.

One hundred and twenty-four de luxe cows boarded the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranean special recently to pass the winter months in the sunny climate of southern Provence. Enjoying the same privileges as public celebrities, these bovine passengers were able to take advantage of a 10 per cent reduction in railroad fare.

Coconut Tree of Ceylon Mainstay of the Natives

In Ceylon, we claim that the coconut tree is the most useful tree in the world, states a correspondent in Pearson's Weekly. The coconut palm has been established in the island for hundreds of years. Each palm yields from 40 to 100 nuts a year for 70 or 80 years. Copra comes from the dried kernel, and is exported in large quantities for the manufacture of margarine and soap, etc., and desiccated coconut, coconut oil, and coir-fiber, made from the husks of the nuts, are also exported.

But to the Ceylon villager, his coconut trees are not merely his source of income, but his mainstay.

With the wood he builds his hut, and his fishing boat is a trunk hollowed out. His simple furniture is made from the same wood, and his drinking cup is a coconut shell. His lamp is a shell filled with coconut oil, the mat on which he sleeps, his broom and his ropes are made of coir-fiber.

The fresh juice of the young nuts forms his drink, and the soft kernel gives him a staple dish; it's a delicious, jelly-like substance.

Grated coconut ekes out his meal of rice, and from the coconut flowers are made arrack and toddy, potent spirits, much appreciated at village festivals. Jaggery, a kind of brown sugar, is made from the juice of the trunk. The beautiful cream-colored blossom, and the tender young leaves are used in every form of decoration in this land of sunshine.

Pine Tree Is Classed as Favorite of the Forests

There is something knightly about a pine tree. It raises itself on sturdy trunk into the atmosphere, great arms sweeping the air, and shoulders its stalwart bulk against the elements. It can be among the most quiet of trees, producing an utter forest stillness, a breathless hush, or, when roused, among the most tempestuous. It is a communal tree, observes a writer in the Rural New Yorker, pitched in encampments, marching in mighty armies, but is also to be seen riding along some barren wind-whipped hillside or lonely lake shore. It is somber, dignified, with a protective strength about it.

It is one of those trees that have a personality, not graceful like the white birch, nor domestic like the maple, but a thing of the wild, a little aloof, serene, fearless, with a certain majesty, but the majesty of a strong man of the people rather than of courtly places.

That the pine is a favorite among trees is small cause for wonderment. It can be gentle, as a true knight should be, murmuring low words of consolation and comfort. It has about it something of gloomy romance and mystery, the spirit of moat and castle, in battle its war song rises high on the blast and its great body, assembling all its forces, struggles mightily with the enemy, the grim conflict showing wild against the storm clouds of the sky.

Meaning of "Layman"

The first part of the word "layman" is derived from the Greek "laikos," meaning "of or from the people," and "layman" is most generally applied to the people in general who are not members of the clergy; in other words, to members of the laity. Thus in various churches we have lay deacons, lay preachers, lay elders, lay readers, etc., persons who perform such church duties and continue with their outside occupations. In religious orders lay brothers and lay sisters are occupied chiefly with domestic or manual work. Apart from church usage, the term "layman" is applied to outsiders or non-experts in relation to some profession, art or branch of knowledge, especially with reference to law or medicine.

Discoverer of Eucalyptus

Sir Joseph Banks fitted out a vessel at his own expense and accompanied the famous Captain Cook on his first voyage around the world in 1768, and when they touched the shores of Australia (then called New Holland), Sir Joseph was the first man to see and describe the Eucalyptus which grow by the millions in California. He called them "Gum" trees because of the exudations of gum on the trunks and Gum trees they still remain to us. The Araucaria was first introduced from the Society Islands in the Pacific and named by him, while the same is true of the famous "Bird of Paradise," Streptocarpus, which he introduced from South Africa and named in honor of his friend Queen Charlotte Sophia of Mecklenburg-Strelitz.

Famous Greek Monastery

The famous Greek Orthodox monastery of Valamo, on one of a group of islands in the northern part of Lake Ladoga, Finland, is said to have been founded A. D. 992, and was at its height of fame toward the end of the last century, when pilgrims visited it in enormous numbers. The most noteworthy sight is the magnificently equipped Church of the Transfiguration, which consists of two churches placed one over the other. There are several smaller sanctuaries and hermitages.

HEROES OF AMERICAN HISTORY

GEORGE WASHINGTON

Washington, who was over six feet tall, whose father died when he was eleven, who received his education from the outdoors and practical men, not from books, who was awkward with women, who at 16 was a public surveyor, who made a perilous 100-mile journey in dead winter through Indian country to warn the French away from the Ohio Valley and fell into an ice-filled river from a raft, who saved the British army under Braddock after a surprise attack during the French and Indian war.

Washington, who was one of the largest and richest of Virginia tobacco planters, who was chosen commander-in-chief of the army when the Colonies revolted, who led a weak, untrained, unequipped band of patriots through the privations of Valley Forge to victory over the trained British regulars, who served two terms as First President of the new-born republic — general and statesman, he was truly "First in war, first in peace, first in the hearts of his countrymen."
