Thailand Major Heroin Conduit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report to a congressional committee says a major share of heroin coming to the United States flows almost freely from Thailand, unhampered by corrupt Thai officials and meager U.S. anti-drug efforts.

The report to the House Foreign Affairs Committee was written by Rep. Lester L. Wolff, D-N.Y., recently named chairman of a special narcotics subcommittee. The report is to be released Thursday. A copy was obtained by The Associated Press.

GOLDEN TRIANGLE

The report says that of 1,400 tons of opium grown annually, 700 tons comes from the so-called Golden Triangle area of Burma, Laos and Thailand—with the latter country the key to the trafficking of heroin base and heroin, derivatives of opium.

"Thailand . . . is the major conduit for the flow of opium and its derivatives to the illicit market in Vietnam, Hong Kong and ultimately to the United States," the report states.

It quotes American officials as saying Thai police seldom seize opium caravans "partly because of a lack of expertise and partly because of an unwillingness on the part of some officials to exert the effort necessary to intercept the smugglers."

Although conceding a lack of manpower, the report adds that "much of the blame seems more properly attributable to corruption and lack of cooperation among middle and lower echelon law enforcement officials."

It says Thai police have increased seizures of narcotics but the information that led to them came from U.S. officials and the increase has not kept up with the increased volume of heroin traffic in and through Thailand.

AVAILABLE

Drugs of all types "are readily available throughout Thailand and are widely used by American personnel" stationed there, according to the report.

U.S. attempts to gain the cooperation of Thai officials have largely failed, the report says. It cites as an example a plan developed by the United States last October for an aerial photographic survey of Thailand to evaluate opium production and assist in crop substitution planning.

But for more than four months, it says, "Thai officials 'passed the poppy' among themselves on the decision whether to allow the survey to take place."

"By that time, it was February and the rainy season was beginning and the poppy season was over."

Sidewalk Sale Set This Week

Merchants all over town will take to the sidewalks Thursday and Friday to offer bargains on all types of merchandise in a special "sidewalk sale."

Racks of clothes, tables of store items, appliances and furniture will be sold at bargain prices outside of the participating businesses during regular store hours.

Participating merchants will be listed in the Herald later this week.

Reviewing the . . . Big Spring Week . . . with Joe Pickle

A rare type of mishap, but a tragedy nevertheless, claimed the life of Bobbie Jo Briggs, at Gail a week ago. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Briggs, and would have been a senior at Borden High. Bobbie Jo was killed when she fell beneath her horse during a jumping practice.

Added to the prospective economic developments are improvements at Ramada Inn. Now under new ownership, the Inn will undergo a $50,000 remodeling and refurbishing program, then is slated for a possible 40-room addition next season. On another front, a formal announcement concerning plans of Hospital Corporation of America is expected at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon Friday.

Phase IV, announced during the week, is expected to be felt immediately in food prices related most directly to raw products. For instance, milk—due for an increase when Phase III caught it—will go up eight cents a gallon. Meat may rise; poultry and poultry products could advance, too.

This week brings up the Junior Rodeo. It doesn't have the big names like the pro circuit, but it more than makes up in daring effort and

Reprieve Too Late For Asian Father

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — The reprieve came just too late for Bangladesh war victim A. A. Naseem.

Naseem, a Pakistani, had been held by India since the war two years ago.

Then he learned his 3½-year-old daughter Hina was dying of cancer. Starting two months ago appeals were made to Indian Premier Indira Gandhi, so that Naseem could be released in time to see his daughter alive.

The Indian government finally decided to free him and Friday morning he was whisked across the India-Pakistan border and rushed to Lahore.

But the family said that just 12 hours before he arrived she had died.

Driftwood Check; It Won't Bounce

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When Shirley Bruton found herself without a checkbook, she improvised with a piece of driftwood and soldering iron.

Now bank officials are faced with the problem of how to cancel it.

"I bought a door from my brother-in-law and he wanted his money, so I looked around for something to write on," Miss Bruton, 21, a Bank of America teller, said Friday.

She used the soldering iron to mark the hunk of wood with the necessary information. The out-sized check was cashed at the Wells Fargo bank and delivered to Bank of America for collection.

"They had to take it," said Frank Hunt, an assistant vice president at the Bank of America branch where Miss Bruton works. "It meets all the requirements for a check. Now, our problem is how to cancel it. I guess we'll have to get a soldering iron."

Bomb Is Exploded

WELLINGTON (AP) — France exploded its controversial nuclear bomb at Mururoa atoll in the South Pacific on Saturday, New Zealand naval headquarters announced.

The blast was observed by the New Zealand protest frigate Otago, stationed about 20 miles upwind of the explosion, the naval headquarters said.

The explosion, it said, took place at 1 p.m. CDT.

Terrorism Is Aimed At All Peace Moves

BEIRUT, Lebanon, (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas and their foreign supporters are escalating terrorism inside Israeli-held territory and abroad in a new campaign to torpedo any hopes of a Middle East peace effort.

The hijacking of a Japan Air Lines plane to Dubai, an Arab sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, is the latest example of the terrorism campaign. The plane was on the ground at Dubai today and the terrorists said they were "awaiting instructions."

The terror campaign began June 30 when an Israeli military attaché, Yusef Alon, was gunned down beside his Washington, D.C., home. Since then a bomb exploded in a crowded Jerusalem vegetable market, bombs were found in Israeli movie houses and a Palestinian held 15 persons hostage in an Athens hotel before negotiating safe passage to Kuwait.

NO LONGER CONTENT

The Palestinian news agency Wafa bluntly announced Friday "this new phenomenon" in guerrilla tactics "has passed the reaction stage" — meaning that the guerrillas are no longer content to let Israel strike first.

These headline-grabbing terrorist attacks against civilians could be timed to coincide with the United Nations Security Council debate on the Middle East which is to resume soon in New York.

And the guerrillas also want to prove to their own Palestinian people, as well as other Arab governments, that they have not been weakened by April 10 Israeli commando raid on Beirut. Three top guerrilla leaders were killed in the raid which sparked subsequent fighting between the guerrillas and the Lebanese army.

The guerrillas also are eager to disprove charges that they are becoming ineffective in the Palestine liberation war and spend most of their time creating trouble in Arab host countries.

SPEECH CAN LIFT OR FLOOR YOU

Do You Panic On Podium?

WASHINGTON — It's your turn to give a speech at the monthly meeting of your club.

You're terrified. But you dig in and prepare yourself by reading on the subject and practicing your speech before a mirror. On the day before the date you are to give the speech, you feel fairly calm and confident that things will go all right. You reassure yourself that "the audience will be made up of my friends. So cool it."

The morning of the day you are to give the luncheon talk arrives and you awaken with a queasy feeling in your stomach. Today's the day! "I'll never be able to go through with it," you tell yourself.

Three cups of coffee make the nervousness increase. A walk around the block only intensifies your anxiety.

Your palms perspire. Your knees give out. Your mouth becomes dry. The chairman introduces you and you stand up. Your voice cracks a couple of times but then you give a pretty good speech.

WHY THE BUTTERFLIES? "Wasn't so bad after all," you tell yourself after it's all over. "But why did I get so nervous beforehand? Why the butterflies in the stomach?" If that routine sounds familiar, it should.

Something similar happens to almost everyone at one time or another, according to a Georgetown University professor who has made a study of "nerves."

Dr. Charles R. Tartaglia, associate professor of psychiatry, said "being nervous is a universal experience. It can be useful in 'keying up' alertness, or it can inhibit and overwhelm. "Anything seen as a challenge or a threat can trigger anxiety or nervousness."

How does one go about getting un-nervous or bringing on a state of relaxation?

Tartaglia said that anxiety is so common that everyday things like weather and fatigue can bring on anxiety and that these are hard to alter.

"What does help," he said, "is to shoot down phantoms which feed anxiety and try to face facts instead. Another remedy is to understand what anxiety or 'a case of the nerves' really means. Still another way to beat butterflies is to get support from a good listener. Talk to people. Another's calm and understanding is very contagious."

HE CAN COPE

Tartaglia said that when a person learns that others have suffered from "nerves" with a dry mouth, jittery stomach, heart palpitations, shaking knees and sweaty palms, he can better cope with this discomfort.

The psychiatrist, whose office is furnished with several chairs but no couch, said that in modern society there is a preoccupation with avoiding discomfort, so many people turn to alcohol or drugs for relief.

Change Is Coming

Class reunions are going to be confusing 25 years from now when everyone has a haircut and some people comb their hair with a wash cloth.

Terror Grips Community

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Neighborhood streets are deserted as terrified parents lock their children indoors until police can locate a driver they say killed two young girls in a deliberate hit-and-run incident.

Scuffed red wagons sit abandoned along a deserted oak shaded block which children use as a playground. Hobby horses and shiny bikes lay idle.

GHOST TOWN

"Parents won't let their children outside anymore. They're afraid," said Betty Grace, a mother of two who lives two doors from the family of the victims, Roxanne Caton, 13, and her sister, Rabyn, 5.

Highland Avenue, a row of modest wood frame houses in populous north Tampa, is like a ghost town.

"Death hangs over this neighborhood," said Mrs. Grace. "It's like he took the whole neighborhood with him."

Morris Blake, a father of three, said: "You can't find a kid on the street since this thing happened. And you won't not until they catch this guy. People are afraid he might come back."

Police have asked the FBI to help in the six-day-old nationwide manhunt for Charles Alwyn McMahon, 31, charged with two counts of murder in the deaths of Rabyn and Roxanne last Saturday night.

Witnesses told police a blue and white car had been cruising slowly as it made several passes through the block, then suddenly swerved from the opposite lane and lunged into the Caton children from behind. Curtis Caton, 12, who was walking along with his sisters, was injured slightly.

The driver scooped up the body of Roxanne and sped away, leaving the other two children lying beside the road. Roxanne's body was found later in a ditch.

ELUDES POLICE

The shaggy haired McMahon, a former bible student, has eluded police since the tragedy. He was last seen Wednesday, 100 miles across the state in Orlando where he visited his mother. He left her promising to turn himself in to mental health authorities and vanished. McMahon has a confused and troubled history. Investigators say the more they dig into his background the more baffling it looks.

Official records show that McMahon served time for kidnapping a 7-year-old girl in Atlanta in 1959, went back to jail in 1964 for parole violation and was incarcerated four years later in Cook County, Ill. for assault and battery.

Filipino Is Title Winner

ATHENS (AP) — Maria Margarita Moran of the Philippines was crowned Miss Universe Saturday night.

Miss Moran, 19, wept as the crown was placed on her head on the stage of ancient Herod Atticus theater at the foot of the Acropolis.

Miss U.S.A. Amanda Jones of Evanston, Ill., was chosen as first runner up in the 22nd pageant to select the prettiest girl in the world.

Norway's Aina Walle emerged as second runnerup, Spanish beauty Maria Rocio Martin was third, and Israeli's Limor Schreiberman, fourth.

Other finalists selected by the international panel of 11 judges were from Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, India, Lebanon, Japan, and Greece.

EVERYONE BLOWS ONE ONCE IN A WHILE—Not all the Big Spring street signs above concur with the actual (or popular) spelling. It's either Aylford or Ayleford, but can't be both. Actually, the street was named for the Earl of Aylesford, a one-time resident of this area. The city's street-sign maker made a run at Brunels, Twelfth and Comanche, but didn't quite pull it off.

WELCOME HOME NEWLYWEDS—A Willmar, Minn., couple found quite a job awaiting them when they returned home this week from their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Ted Groat discovered friends had filled their bedroom from floor to ceiling with crumpled newspapers.

THE WEEK

good humor. Around 250 contestants will vie Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

There may be no way of stopping burglaries, but police put a crimp in this despicable business last week. They caught three youths emerging from the school with various items, including a typewriter. Earlier police picked up three others who made statements about a number of burglaries.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is prepared to spend up to $200,000 to improve the quality water going into Lake Spence. The plan is to empty salt lakes on Beals Creek above Big Spring so that runoff will more nearly get downstream without contamination. On the strength of this the city has won a delay in a costly sewage project to cure salt-water infiltration (its main outfall line lies in the salt-water underflow of Beals' Creek).

The Howard County Fair Association is getting down to serious business; it ordered catalogue's printed last week. The show is being revived Sept. 17-22 after a 20-year lapse, and under Johnnie Walker and James Earr it shapes up as a good one.

It will cost Big Spring school children a nickel more for the lunches this next school year. Trustees made the adjustment last week to balance the cafeteria budget. Virtually all schools are making similar changes. The school board also heard another plea for air conditioning all buildings, but again it was a case of no-money, no-action.

Howard County commissioners court resolved the issue of industrial values, sitting as a board of equalization, agreeing on a 60 per cent factor for refineries, black plants, etc. If this was good news to the industries, the taxpayer had a bit of good news, too — the tax rate will remain at $1.04.

The grand jury, convening here Monday, won't lack for something to do. At latest count, there were 45 cases which District Attorney Bob Moore plans to lay before the jurors.

There's nothing to those rumors that Cong. Omar Burleson might not run next year for another term. Puzzled how a Dallas newsmagazine started the rumor, Rep. Burleson says unequivocally he will run. He also advised the Herald that the compromise highway bill, which was backed to the House and Senate last week for action, contains authorization for a feasibility study of extending Interstate 27 south from Lubbock. It's not like actual funding for the work, but a start.

Tentative approval has been given a $1,759,333 budget for the year beginning Sept. 1. Of this, $1,631,650 is tied to the tax-supported activities, up $108,534 from the comparable figure a year ago. The budget is up about 6 per cent over the revised budget for this year, but about 11 per cent over the original budget adopted last August. Hearing date is Aug. 7.

Imagine the surprise of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Hardy when they got a phone call from Kampala, Uganda last week. It was from their son, James M. (Bobo) Hardy, research director for the national YMCA council, who with his wife, Betty, has been making some international conferences for the Y. In Kampala, they were honored at a presidential reception.

News of another home town "boy" told of the election of W. C. (Buddy) Blankenship Jr., being elected president of the 1,300-member Dallas Life Underwriters Association. Considering Dallas is a financial capital, that's not bad.

Most of our county got only light showers, but on the heels of those last week, most of the area was left in good condition. Even parts of the hailed-out fields — which couldn't be replanted — are raising hopes. Dawson County — which led all the state in cotton production last year, got good showers that virtually assured another bumper crop.

Funds Included For River Project

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen told The Herald Saturday that the public works appropriations bill for fiscal year 1974 includes $140,000 in funds for a project on the Colorado River. This presumably has to do with a study for mineralization on the Colorado River shed. The U.S. Corps of Engineers has set a conference with Colorado River Municipal Water District officials July 31. The bill, approved in committee, now goes to the Senate floor for consideration.

Nixon Shapes Response To Committee Inquiry

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon met with aides Saturday at his Maryland mountain retreat to map a firm position against allowing the Senate Watergate committee to extend its inquiry to his files and the operations of his office. White House officials said presidential aides have been ordered not to answer questions from committee investigators about White House procedures. The officials denied the limits represented any change from earlier Nixon promises of cooperation with the committee.

It was understood the President is reviewing his promise to meet with Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., of the Watergate committee.

Dad Of Paralyzed Girl Slain By Shotgun Fire

HUGO, Okla. (AP) — The father of a paralyzed girl, who auctioned her pony to pay hospital bills and received a get well letter from President Nixon, was shot and killed late Friday. Police said George I. Melvin, 42, a brother-in-law of Hugo Police Chief Carroll Parker, went to the door of his home when he heard a car honk. He stepped outside to be met by sources said it would be premature to speculate that Nixon will cancel plans to meet with Ervin. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler would say only that "no date has been set."

The President was said to be completing a letter to Ervin rejecting the committee's request for tapes of Nixon's meetings and telephone conversations with key figures in the Watergate investigation.

Health Club Taking Shape

Construction on the YMCA health club addition is running somewhat ahead of the Nov. 1 target date, according to Pat Owens, physical director.

The November completion date was set last week after a lag in delivery of necessary supplies halted construction for a month or so. Progress in the past week, however, has informed officials also said the automatic recording system was shut down this week because it had been compromised by public testimony Monday by former White House aide Alexander Butterfield, who disclosed its existence.

He said the walls on the addition are up, the new swimming pool has been dug and the plumbing installed. Workers for Basin Construction Co., have begun enlarging the game room in the present Y building and are preparing to connect the present building with the new one.

Melvin's daughter, 11-year-old Linda, made headlines early this year when she auctioned her pony.

The officials said Nixon felt some people might be inhibited in their conversations with him if they felt their remarks were being taped.

If the President as expected, takes a very hard stance against providing any tapes of presidential papers to the committee, a conference with Ervin might be deemed unnecessary.

He said the walls on the addition are up, the new swimming pool has been dug and the plumbing installed. Workers for Basin Construction Co., have begun enlarging the game room in the present Y building and are preparing to connect the present building with the new one.

Linda was paralyzed from the waist down last December when she was wounded accidentally as her father's gun discharged while he was cleaning it.

However, it was understood that some influential Senate Republicans and at least one key Nixon assistant still hoped to promote some type of accommodation between the White House and the committee.

The whole health club project will add 5,500 square feet of space and is costing $160,000.

Linda wrote in January: "Dear auctioneer, I am Linda Dean Melvin, 11 years old. I want to sell my pony to help pay on my hospital bill. I love him very much so be good to him whoever buys him. His name is Jacob. I rode him some with my daddy holding him and he threw me once, but he is a good pony. Thank you, Linda Dean Melvin."

Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., a member of the Watergate committee, predicted Friday that if the President refuses to turn over the tapes, all committee members would vote to subpoena them.

Odessa Expires En Route Here

Sidney Louis Simmons, 51, of the Central Hotel in Odessa was dead on arrival at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring Friday afternoon.

When the bidding on the Shetland ended and all contributions were in, Linda had nearly $2,000, probably the highest price ever paid for a horse in the small Hugo ring. She also had her pony back because the "buyers" returned the pony to her.

Meeting with Nixon here Saturday were chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., acting counsel Leonard Garment, special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, executive assistant Rose Mary Woods and Ziegler.

THEFTS

Sheriff's office reported to police at 11:57 a.m. Friday a break-in at Lakeview Elementary. Eighty cents was missing from a coke machine and $10 damage was done to a window.

VANDALISM

Ben Faulkner, West Texas Roofing, reported that a gas pump had been broken into. Damage was estimated at $15.

Indictments Are Dismissed

Four indictments returned against two defendants have been dismissed in 118th District Court.

Murder Trial Opens Monday In Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A former dental supply salesman goes on trial here Monday charged with the alleged "murder for hire" death of a Central Texas grain dealer.

Charles V. Harrelson, 34, of Houston, is being tried for the second time on a charge of murder with malice in the July 6, 1968, shooting death of Sam Degelia Jr. of Hearne.

The prosecution alleges Harrelson killed Degelia after he was offered $2,000 by Pete Thomas Scamardo, a longtime friend and former business partner of Degelia. Scamardo was convicted at Edinburg as an accomplice in the Degelia slaying and was given seven years probation.

Harrelson was then tried at Edinburg in the Degelia slaying. The trial took about five weeks and wound up as a mistrial when a jury deadlocked at 11-1 in favor of conviction.

A furor told the Associated Press that the lone holdout voted that way because she believed Las Vegas nightclub singer Louise Scott Gannon's testimony that she was having dinner with Harrelson at the time Degelia was shot to death.

Mrs. Gannon, who uses the name "Louise Scott" for singing engagements, was later indicted by a Hidalgo County grand jury on a charge of perjury. She is free on $5,000 bond posted for her by Percy Foreman of Houston, Harrelson's lawyer.

Hidalgo County Dist. Atty. Oscar McInnis and foreman have subpoenaed a total of 82 witnesses. Foreman estimates that the trial may last five weeks, but both McInnis and District Court Judge Darrell Hester have said they don't believe it will take that long.

Testimony in the case will be heard by a jury of eight men and four women selected in more than three days of intensive questioning.

Key prosecution witnesses will be Jerry O. Watkins of Houston and Mrs. Sandra Sue Ataway of Los Angeles, Calif.

Watkins is a former convict who was charged with murder in the Degelia slaying until just before he testified at Scamardo's trial. The charges were dropped.

Garage Sale Is Often End Result Of House Cleaning

By ANN STEVENS
A couple of women sometimes a child or a pet dog, sit in a garage with a fan turned towards them and a couple of tables spread with articles in front of them.

What ensues is a special type of house-cleaning known as a garage sale. It offers that down-home atmosphere and dirt-cheap prices which a merchant could rarely match.

There are no figures available, not even ball park estimates, on how many garage sales are held in Big Spring each year.

Advertised through word of mouth, homemade posters and sometimes classified ads, these sales are held more for the purpose of reducing "household inventory" than for making any real money.

"MONEY NICE, BUT . . . Of course the money is nice, but I'm holding the sale mainly to get rid of stuff," said Mrs. Ben Costin, 2513 Larry, who held a garage sale Friday and Saturday.

"I've been accumulating these things for about 33 years. I just got tired of looking at them," she said.

Mrs. Costin went together with a friend from Colorado City to offer a garage full of clothes, dishes, appliances and miscellaneous items at which a merchant might term "unheard of prices."

Next door at 2511 Larry, Mrs. Paul Hood was holding a simultaneous garage sale of her own. Her main purpose was also to reduce household accumulation.

"I've always been a packrat by nature," she remarked. "I hate to throw any of this stuff away — it's too good to throw away — but if I can get any money out of it, that's better."

CLOTHES GO SLOWEST
Both said they had heard of people making as much as $300 in a garage sale, but $50 is probably the normal take-in, they added.

The neighbors rated clothes as the hardest items to sell and dishes as the best sellers. They revealed that unwanted gifts often find their place among the offerings.

While a garage sale is somewhat a neighborhood affair, the women said that people will drive from all over town to attend the sales. And, the shoppers are not limited to housewives and children, they attested. A lot of men come in looking for used tools and yard equipment.

The garage sale, while it seems harmless, can carry some bad effects if held too often. City Attorney Jim Gregg pointed out that a person is violating the zoning ordinance if he lives in a residential zone and holds more than two garage sales in his home.

If held on a frequent regular basis, the garage sale begins to be considered a commercial venture which belongs only in commercial or retail zones.

Also, those who hold more than two of the sales may be required by the state to pay sales tax, Gregg noted.

It seems rather doubtful, however, that many local citizens will face fines from the law. Most people never hold more than one or two garage sales in their lifetimes. And keeping up with the number of sales might prove rather difficult for city officials.

FIRES

Garage fire at 1105 E. 13th at 10:55 a.m. Friday was under control by local firemen when police arrived.

Car on fire in 600 block of Edwards Blvd. at 8:42 a.m. Saturday was under control by fire department when police arrived.

LOSS OF WIFE CAN MEAN TRAUMA
Widower's Readjustment
Is Too Often Ignored

Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — Everyone pities "poor widow Jones" but no one seems to consider the plight of the widower.

Each year roughly 280,000 men are left wifeless by the deaths of their spouses. In many cases, they face taking over the dual role of father and mother in raising children and coping with heavy expenses.

"The widower's predicament can be as traumatic as that of the widow," according to Sabino Marinella, president of Continental Investment Corp., whose subsidiaries include several U.S. and Canadian life insurance companies.

Marinella is an insurance industry leader in the campaign to have more wives covered by life insurance, rather than only husbands.

NOT CONSIDERED

The rule of thumb in the industry used to be that the husband should be very heavily insured because he was the breadwinner. The wife, because she worked daily around the house, was seldom considered for insurance coverage.

All that is changing now, says Marinella.

"Realizing the contributions of a wife and mother, an increasing number of husbands are now insisting that their wives take out insurance policies — particularly during the years when the children are young," he said.

Recent national surveys indicate that term insurance is increasingly the choice in these situations, because it offers pure protection at lower cost.

An example of a young widower with children still in their formative years was cited in one recent survey.

"He will continue to go to work at the office or plant — no problem there. But who will take care of the children, run the house and perform all the other tasks or duties that his late spouse had been providing?"

The survey report continued, "People are wonderful in times of tragedy and emergencies. Neighbors, friends and relatives all may pitch in and help take care of things during the first weeks immediately following the wife's death.

"But after that, what? The widower is on his own — and full responsibility for maintaining the 'status quo' of the home is now entirely up to him."

BIG PROBLEMS

The widower is also confronted by financial problems, some of them unique to modern society, according to Marinella and other insurance executives.

Among the problems: —The costs of dying have spiraled in recent years. The widower must face steep hospital, medical and burial bills, plus expenses incurred in settling an estate.

—The costs of hiring a governess-housekeeper are continually rising and could form a large part of the new widower's budgetary requirements.

—Readjustment expenses might dictate provision of a private room for the housekeeper. This could involve decorating expenses or even addition of a room and bath.

—While a wife might have been expert at stretching the household budget dollars, a housekeeper assigned the same task might not have similar motivation.

One recent estimate put a housewife's worth at "about $2.50" per hour, in terms of the salary that she should be paid for her contribution to the household.

Marinella says a wife's economic worth is "beyond estimation. Insurance can help ease the financial burden on husband and family in the event of the wife's death.

IA Part Of Vocation Unit

Industrial arts, a traditional component of general education in Texas public schools since the early 1900s, began a gradual shift into vocational education programs following action by the State Board of Education during the past week.

In Big Spring High School, classes listed under industrial arts include drafting a shop. The junior high shop program is also presently under the Industrial Arts program. No word has been received here in connection with the possibilities of the department being switched over to the vocational division.

The board acted in response to House Concurrent Resolution No. 77 recently enacted by the 63rd Legislature and approved by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The intent of the legislation create awareness of occupational skills while in school an integral part of education in grades seven through 12. Industrial arts operates within the 55 minute periods; vocational courses in three-hour spans.

Industrial arts will now be included in the State Plan for Vocational Education in order to strengthen career interest and vocational skills objectives in industrial arts courses.

It's about time you relaxed. Let us do the chores, the cooking and the dishes.

TEEN FORUM

TWO GIRLS: I am going with two very beautiful girls. I have been carrying both of them out (not at the same time). I take Marge out on Friday night and Janis on Saturday night. Marge is 15, Janis is 16. I like both of them very much.

Yesterday, which was Sunday, I saw both of them at Sunday school, and each of them gave me a note. Both notes invited me to go with both girls to the same party on the same night. I asked my friend what would he do. He said, "I would take sick before the party."

What can I do, and how do you feel about having two girl friends? — Sweating in Louisiana.

(A.) Having two girl friends is great, as long as you tell the exact truth to both of them, and do not mislead either of them in any way.

You not only have two girl friends but two honorable choices:

(1.) Accept the invitation you received first. Or:

(2.) Arrange to be out of town visiting relatives or friends on the night of the party.

Man Is Freed

Peace Justice Walter Grice has dismissed a complaint charging Jessie Alvin Adair with theft over $50. The man who signed the complaint requested the dismissal.

Walk Or Run, Author Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, who jogs five miles to work each day, has written a book on physical fitness because "as a nation we are in one hell of a mess."

The Wisconsin Democrat complains, "We are too fat, too soft, too tense. We are prone to alcoholism."

Proxmire's book, "You Can Do It!" calls for exercise, dieting, and relaxation. If that is insufficient, he adds that with plastic surgery you can have "more hair on your head, a beautiful nose, no bags around the eyes, and fewer wrinkles."

The latter is from a man who, it should be noted, has had hair transplants and reportedly a face lifting.

Even such a confirmed physical fitness buff as the senator sometimes throws his diet out the window, Proxmire reveals.

After such repast, he felt "as wicked as most guys must feel after a night at Hugh Hefner's Playboy Club, complete with bunnies and booze," he said.

Proxmire suggests you walk or run to work, decline most foods, especially refined sugar, and "practice transcendental meditation for a serene future."

"Walking in the heat of a humid 90-degree day in Washington, with the sweat coursing down your face, under your arms, down your back can also be a pleasant experience," he says, apparently oblivious to the complaints of nearly every summertime tourist to Washington.

Proxmire manages to negate the effects of the heat by taking a swim in a hotel pool midway on his jog to work, and a shower in the Senate gym when he arrives at his office.

For those who don't have access to a tax-paid gymnasium, he suggests taking a sponge bath in the office bathroom.

Deputy Finishes Drug Course

STANTON — Deputy Sheriff Tim Hudson, Staton, was among the area law officers who completed a course in Advanced Narcotics Friday at the Permian Basin Law Enforcement Academy.

Passage Of Bond Issue Vital To CC Schools

By MARJ CARPENTER

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City school board will meet July 30 to take their next step in a plan of action designed to culminate with the construction of a new high school and improvements to most of the schools in the system.

A $17 million dollar bond issue is tentatively scheduled, with the final steps requesting about within the next few weeks. An election date will probably be scheduled sometime in September, according to Supt. Lloyd McKee.

McKee, in discussing the need for the bond issue states, "a good educational program cannot be offered in obsolete facilities. When a school plant reaches a certain age, it begins to have a prohibitive cost to maintain and operate the facilities. Then it is time to look to something new and better. We also need to add programs in the vocational line and need updated facilities for this program."

WILL PICK SITE

The bond issue would include a brand new high school plant, with a site to be selected. The school owns eight acres in the northeast corner of the city near IS 20, but "we have not yet decided whether this would be the location," McKee added.

The board, following a lengthy study by a committee that included teachers, administrators, businessmen and civic leaders, have made plans for growth and remodeling of the schools and have named both a fiscal agent and an architect to plan the needed growth.

The architect is Tommy Huckabee of Rihard and Huckabee of Andrews and Lubbock who has recently done plans for Monahans and Stanton schools.

The issue will include a new high school, use of the old high school as a middle school and changeover of the present junior high to an administrative center, air conditioning for all schools, addition of a cafeteria at Hutcheson, and closing down of the old Wallace School.

WILL KEEP GYM

The game gymnasium at the present high school would still be used, with a practice gym built in the new facility. The plans for the future will also include an early childhood program for below-kindergarten level.

The school that would be closed has Mike Burt, may of Colorado City, as principal. The administrator and teachers in that school would be reassigned to other locations in the system, McKee added.

OLDEST SCHOOL

Out at Hutcheson, where there would be some renovating and a new cafeteria, the oldest building in the system is presently being used as a cafeteria.

It is a 1909 building that was originally an auditorium. It is an odd-shaped building that has been brightened up with pastel doorways and windows, but still shows its age. It is behind the main school plant at Hutcheson.

Colorado City high school students present take vocational courses at the college in Snyder. Most of these would be offered within the new school plant. The exception would be diesel mechanics, which would still have to be offered in Snyder. School buildings used in Colorado City include buildings constructed in 1909, 1920, 1925, 1937 and the last bond issue was around 1965 for improvements. The present football stadium would still be utilized. There are no major changes in the athletic department.

HCA Plans C-C Topic

The Chamber of Commerce monthly membership "breakfast" will be a luncheon Friday, July 27, when the Hospital Corporation of America is due to announce plans concerning facilities here.

The session will be held at the Big Spring Country Club, and reservations should be made through the Chamber office.

Dr. Thomas Frist Sr., Nashville, Tenn., vice chairman of the executive committee and the medical director of HCA, is expected to be here for the occasion.

Light Agenda

LAMESA — A light docket of business faces the Dawson County Commissioners court Monday. The court is due to approve the delinquent-tax roll.

It also will consider ordering an independent audit of county records, as is the custom, and make a minor correction in a legal description for a pipeline easement.

Fem Truck Drivers Have Different Motivations

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — The trucker leaps out of the cab of the 100,000-pound rig, saunters into the dust-covered roadside cafe and orders a beer to beat the desert heat.

The truck is attended by a codriver, who is sleeping behind the driver's seat. The trucker finishes the beer, flips 50 cents on the counter and heads back toward the rig. Within minutes the million-dollar payload is moving again.

The rest stop has taken pretty 27-year-old Gail Ricker just 14 minutes. Meanwhile, her husband, Terry, continues an afternoon nap.

The Rickers are one of a growing number of couples who have found the way to take the loneliness out of trucking and make a fantastic salary to boot. They own their own rig and drive it as owner-operators.

ALWAYS ON ROAD — "Men who drive are away from home for long periods of time," said Terry. "The first two years of our marriage I was on the road almost constantly."

"Yeah," added Gail. "He'd come home, take a shower and leave again. I didn't feel married. So I decided to join him. And I love it. Why, we've been to just about every state and we don't get lonely for each other."

Trucking industry spokesmen say the trend toward married couples driving together is growing rapidly, but only in the area of cross-country truckload carriers, where no loading or unloading is done by the driver. John Hughes, counselor for the California Trucking Association's Driver Testing Center, said about 25 women each year go through his school's four-week course and "we're getting more of them every week."

The Rickers, part-time residents of Orange Park, Fla., near Jacksonville, grossed more than $55,000 last year, but Terry says: "That's not all profit, not by a long shot."

COSTS $31,000 — His 3-year-old semitractor cost $31,000 and may last another 18 months before he'll buy another. Payments run $850 a month, "and that so-called gas shortage has really hurt diesel prices more'n you could guess. If you get stuck in the boonies, you pay 39 cents a gallon. I used to pay 21, 22 cents."

There are two types of drivers, the independent owner operators, like the Rickers, who own their own tractor and drive for the firm of their choice, and those who drive the rigs of the companies that employ them.

The owner operators normally get 60 per cent of the hauling charge.

Gail, a lovely blonde with a smallish 5-foot-4, 110-pound figure says when she started driving three years ago, rest room facilities on the road were for men only.

"Now all the major stops have clean places, some of 'em with showers and lounges," she says.

The Rickers drive for Leonard Bros. Trucking Co., which transports machinery, missile and aircraft parts and used to take Atlas missiles from General Dynamics in San Diego to Cape Kennedy for a fee of $17,000 round trip.

"Local short-line scale is $6.75 an hour," said Hughes, "but some operations pay by the mile and some pay by the hour and others by a percentage of the revenues and still others by a combination of the three. I'd figure a trucker could easily make $300 to $375 a week if he's working 40 hours a week."

"But most drivers work more than 40 hours because most of the time he's driving more than eight hours a day."

"That's why married couples can really make a good living, because they usually don't ask for time off, the way married men driving alone would."

Jim Powers, a dispatcher for Leonard Bros., said: "I think you get better production out of man-and-wife teams. First off, two man on the road together tend to make longer stops. Then, too, when a guy pulls into his home town he usually wants to take a day or two off, to be with his family."

FEEL NEGLECTED — One major problem with the hard-working trucker who is making a good salary is his absence from home. Wives begin to feel neglected and divorce and legal separations are common.

"But you'd never see that with the couples driving for us," says Steve Mallard, a dispatcher for Big Sky Growers Coop., a firm handling fresh produce.

U.S. Dollar Is Pilloried Again

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar faltered and closed with a loss on European exchanges Friday, despite a token effort by the West German state bank which spent $2.2 million to bolster the U.S. currency.

Gold staged a sharp recovery after Peter Flanigan, President Nixon's aide for international policy, predicted government banks were not likely to sell gold in the near future.

The dollar opened slightly higher Friday in Frankfurt at 2.3350 marks but declined to 2.31 at the close of trading. In Zurich, the dollar declined from 2.8495 to 2.81875 Swiss francs; and in Paris from 4.0975 to 4.0725 French francs. The British pound recovered slightly in relation to the dollar from Thursday's $2.5340 to Friday's close of $2.54.

Enriched By Books, Man Can't Stop Being Cop

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Joseph Wambaugh is "The Blue Knight." Made rich by his books, he still can't quit being a cop. Like Bumper Morgan in the book — which NBC is now turning into a mini-series — Wambaugh couldn't give up what he calls a cop's way of life.

He took a six-month leave of absence to write his third novel, "The Onion Field," which he sold to the movies for $300,000, and created a new television series for NBC. It's titled, appropriately, "Police Story."

But compulsively, Wambaugh pinned on his badge one morning and went back to work as a Los Angeles police detective.

"Perhaps it was some inner need of mine that may not be healthy that requires me to go back to the Hollenback station for 8½ hours a day," he said.

"Maybe an inner insecurity."

"INNER NEED"

"I'm not a dedicated policeman. I don't do police work because I'm dedicated to serving humanity. . . . I do it because of this inner need for police work. I have this inner compulsion."

That doesn't sound like the kind of a policeman you'd meet on the television screen. It's a refreshing change from the Boy Scout-view that pervades the tube. TV is saturated with supercops. You won't meet any in Joe Wambaugh's books and you won't find any in "Police Story," a one-hour anthology series premiering in the fall.

In the pilot movie the policeman hero was obsessed with the destruction of a two-bit hood named Slow Boy. He made threats, he broke rules, he stepped on a lot of toes. That obsession lifted the story above the usual cops and robbers. In a Wambaugh story, the caper is merely window dressing for the characterization.

"Not all cops are obsessed," said Wambaugh. "but the fictional cop is a recognizable casualty of the police business. The show related to the whole concept of a way of life. Police can understand one little fact of being a cop."

"There's an identity within him he can't escape. He doesn't carry a gun or do police work at home, that's true. But he can't escape it. Certain feelings and attitudes he can't shake."

"The Blue Knight" was a cop who couldn't quit. I couldn't quit. There is a way of life that has to be dealt with in police show. Most police series don't recognize it or even attempt to deal with it."

WRONG MISSION

Wambaugh feels the trouble with most police series is that they attempt realism when they shouldn't. He said, "They should remain light en-

SHORTAGE A REALITY—There must really be a shortage if other gasoline distributors have, like this Conoco truck driver, run out of gas. Kandy Penner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Penner, 2610 Carol, snapped this driver short-handed on the highway south of Pueblo, Colo. two weeks ago.

Mom Rejoices Over Mistake

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A Niagara Falls, N.Y., mother was about to bury her daughter when she discovered another girl's body was in the coffin and her daughter was alive in Florida.

"Friends tell me this is the kind of thing that happens only in books," said Frances Sootheran in a telephone interview with the Daytona Beach News Journal.

Her daughter, Sandy, 18, was in a Daytona Beach jail after she was found guilty Friday of obstructing justice by disguise and giving false information to police.

Police said the dead girl was Debra Henderson, 14, also of Niagara Falls, who was traveling through Florida with Sandy.

Debra died Sunday after being hit by a car while walking along a Daytona Beach street. Police found Sandy's identity papers on the body and said the elder girl gave her name as Patricia Bodkin.

Police said they telephoned Mrs. Sootheran that her daughter was dead. The body was shipped to a Niagara Falls funeral home, where a boyfriend of Sandy's saw the body and recognized it as that of Debra.

Debra's mother went to the funeral home to identify the body.

Getty Abductors After Big Money

ROME (AP) — The Italian press reported today that kidnapers are demanding a ransom of 300 million lire, or $500-

000, for J. Paul Getty III, 16-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire. The press reports said that Mrs. Getty, the former actress Gail Harris, received two telephone calls in the past several days stating a ransom demand and telling her when and where to leave the money.

Four Members Of Party Perish On Canoe Trip

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Five young Explorer Scouts are home in Albuquerque today after their tragic excursion to Yellowstone National Park in which four of their companions drowned.

When the five returned Friday, they brought with them the grim tale of a canoe ride on a Yellowstone lake that ended violently when a sudden thunderstorm swamped their boats.

All nine persons were from the Boy Scouts of America Explorer Post 406 of the Mormon Church's 6th Ward in Albuquerque. They were on the first day of a six-day outing.

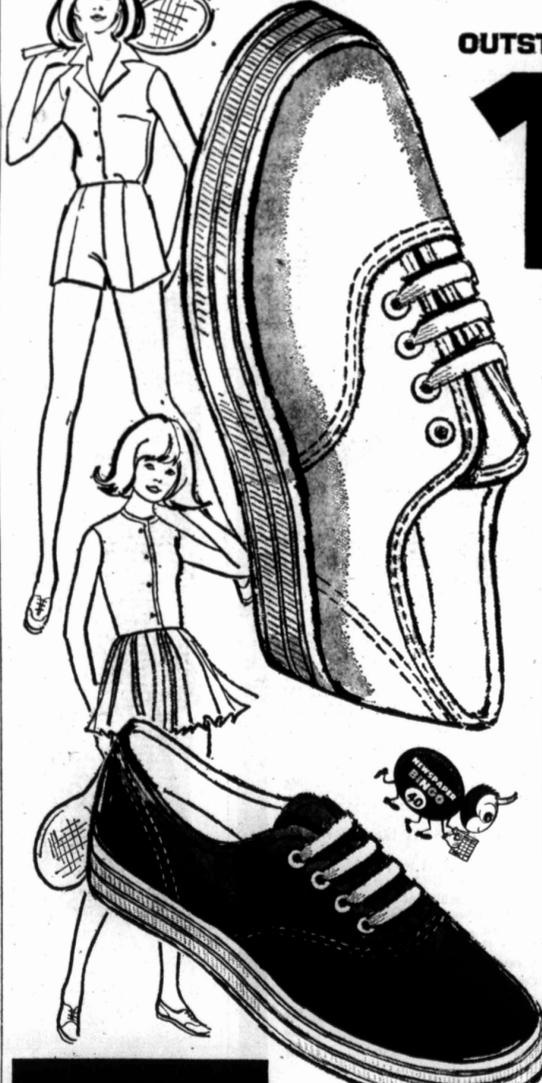

The storm Wednesday "hit like a bomb," said Harlam Kim Jones. "It scattered us all over the lake."

Jones, 16, swam to shore and stumbled for 20 hours through 17 miles of wilderness to find help.

"My feet are stone bruised and my ankles are all twisted. I want to get home and be with my family and I want to help others who have lost their loved ones," Jones said when he arrived in Albuquerque.

After 2 Decades, There's Talk Of Unity In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — Crumbling combat boots, half-buried helmets, strained bayonets still litter the old battlegrounds. But two decades after the Korean War, the American influence has diminished, U.S. style democracy has been abandoned and leaders of the divided peninsula actively talk reunification.

The Korean conflict broke out at dawn on June 25, 1950, when 10 Communist North Korean infantry divisions sliced across the 38th parallel to attack the young, United Nations-sponsored Republic of Korea in the south.

When the war limped to a close on July 27, 1953, it had taken the lives of 54,246 Americans, 3,486 soldiers from 15 United Nations powers, 500,000 South Korean soldiers and civilians, 300,000 North Koreans and 200,000 Chinese.

The fighting, directly pitting non-Communist powers for the first time on the Asian mainland against China and the Soviet Union — the Russians contributed material and technical aid — was a forerunner of the struggles by France and the United States to deny the Communists control of the Indochina peninsula.

NEW PERIOD

With the close of this last great struggle — as inconclusive as that in Korea — the great powers embarked on a period of thaw.

The first signs of detente had appeared between the United States and China, marked by the Ping Pong diplomacy of 1971 and climaxed by President Richard Nixon's journey to Peking in 1972.

Clearly, the confrontations of the cold war were giving way to a period of accommodation between the Communist camp and the West.

This change in international relations was reflected in Korea during the summer of 1971 with an announcement that Red Cross representatives would begin meetings to work on the problems of divided families.

Then on July 4, 1972, a joint statement issued in Seoul and Pyongyang disclosed that secret political meetings had been held between high ranking officials of each side during May.

The conferees adopted a seven-point program for reunification of the country over the succeeding months. By mutual agreement, the propaganda war between the old enemies died down and, more importantly, armed clashes all but ceased. A year later, these bold initiatives had produced nothing concrete, largely because, though they agreed on the end, the two sides could not see eye to eye on the means. The North said it wanted to dramatically tear down all the barriers; the South supported a more modest step-by-step approach which would establish the mood of mutual trust and later agreements.

NEW EVIDENCE

Late in June came new evidence that the two Koreas remained highly sensitive to the climate of international rapprochement. Soon after the U.N. Security Council approved entry of both West and East Germany into the world organization, President Park Chunghee announced that he no longer would oppose North Korean membership. He agreed to the North's participation on the Korean question in the autumn.

North Korean President Kim Il-sung simultaneously declared in Pyongyang: "We hold that the North and South should not enter the U.N. until reunification of the country is achieved, they should enter it as one state at least under the name of the Confederal Republic of Koryo after the confederation is enforced." Kim's proposal of confederation would leave both systems intact until a grand national assembly worked out the details of unification. The kingdom of Koryo, from which foreigners got the name Korea, existed from 935 to 1392.

Of the 5.7 million Americans engaged during the three years of the Korean War, only 34,000 now remain, a token force the South is reluctant to dispense with and one which the North insists must withdraw.

From 1953 to 1973, the Republic of Korea which so many Americans once knew has undergone deep and dramatic political changes. With the overthrow early in the 1960s of old, dictatorial Syngman Rhee, the country experimented with full-blown democracy. But the civilian politicians who took over divided in their moment of power, paralyzing the governing process.

Soon after, Park, a tough, taciturn military man, took over. Under his rule, the nation's economy began to move upward.

New highways, industrial plants, housing projects, transportation systems, power plants and hotels sprang up in and around the major cities. Heavy smoke from thousands of factory chimneys and some automobiles clouded the Seoul sky, giving the capital the dubious distinction of being one of the most polluted cities in Asia.

NO WRONG

For most Koreans, Park seemingly could do little wrong. He won easily in two elections against spirited but disunited opposition. When he sought a third term, barred by the constitution, a national referendum gave it to him.

Power was something the president felt, rightly or wrongly, he could not pass on to others until the job, as he saw it, was done. Thus, in 1971 he rewrote the constitution and with it the last chapter to democracy, as the South Koreans had known it, since the republic's creation in 1948.

TOKEN OPPOSITION

When he took his fourth presidential oath for a new six-year term in December, 1972, the legislature was partly handpicked, the opposition a token.

Thousands Of Teenagers Have Jobs This Summer

By The Associated Press
 More than 600,000 teenagers are getting summer jobs during the last half of July in a frantic effort spawned by a federal court order. But hundreds of thousands of others who sought jobs will not get them.

An Associated Press survey of 10 major cities shows that more teenagers will have jobs this summer than last, both in government and private business. But young people living in poverty generally will make less money and have less valuable work experiences than in the past.

Largely shut out of the private market which recruits along family lines and by word of mouth, poor teenagers depend on federally funded Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) jobs with local governments. These are designed to keep them out of mischief, give them money for entertainment and school costs and introduce them to the world of work.

WITHHELD

The $239 million for this program was withheld by the Nixon administration as part of its fight against inflation, until the administration lost two federal court battles over the money. The funds were released July 11, the latest start in the program's nine-year history. It covers youths 14 to 21 in 930 cities, counties and school districts and usually starts when schools recess for the summer.

City halls around the country were thrown into helter skelter activity to try to place enormous backlogs of applicants, with these results, among others:

—Some teenagers in Detroit, which was placing 1,000 a day last week, will make only $256, almost $120 less than in previous summers.

—In Baltimore, girls will be mowing grass in parks for the first time, and teenagers work fewer jobs.

—A day care association in Houston had less than five days to find and train 60 supervisors while 280 people from three agencies worked until 9 at night telephoning, canvassing and processing more than 2,000 previously unsuccessful job applicants.

Before release of the NYC money, cities were scraping up summer jobs from their own funds and limited federal funds diverted from the Public Employment Program (PEP), under which cities hire adults full time.

The result was that up to mid-July the 10 cities surveyed had produced 95,995 jobs for poor teenagers, down from the 143,240 jobs last summer with NYC money. The cities are Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Milwaukee, New Orleans, New York, San Diego and San Francisco.

DOWN SLIGHTLY

Nevertheless, unemployment in June for teenagers was down to 13.3 per cent from 14.9 per cent the previous June. The big improvement was among whites, down from 13.4 per cent to 11.6, while minority teen-age unemployment dropped from 28.9 per cent to 28.1.

Most manpower administrators in the 10 cities attributed this to an improved private market this summer, but observed that their local situations were worse than the national figures.

In Boston the youth unemployment rate is 25 per cent; in some parts of Detroit as high as 50 per cent; in San Diego, as high as 30 per cent in some neighborhoods. Only Houston, surveyed only New York reported an increase in delinquency in the beginning of the summer when jobs were more scarce.

"That's been the surprising thing to me," said Lewis Earl, manpower planning officer in Houston. "It hasn't produced the ill effects I thought it might. But I'm glad we got the money so we don't have to test the hypothesis over the whole summer."

Costly
 The jobs produce dollar figures which may seem small, but it is estimated to cost a public high school senior in Chicago between $500 and $700 to get through the school year with school supplies and clothing just decent enough to prevent his being ridiculed. And NYC teenagers come from poverty families, those which have less than $4,200 a year in income for a family of four.

The teenagers also are expected to spend some of the money on movies, records or other entertainment to help keep them out of trouble in idle hours. But among the 10 cities in Boston's parks will do get a numerical fix," said Norm Miller, an aide to the mayor of Detroit. "But in my parents' neighborhood, there have been bonfires in the park at night and it scares the older people. If those kids were working there would be less opportunity for that."

The most severely affected aspect of the program is that which tries to give teenagers a sense of the demands and possibilities of work. The program is intended to teach them to be on time, to meet the expectations of supervisors and to acquaint them with careers.

"Youth crime doesn't tend to get reported. It's mischief — an occasional broken window or boisterous behavior so we can't acquaint them with careers.

NEW TREAT FOR TERMITES?—As far as Emery Thompson knows, his "Plywagen" is the only one of its kind in America. Built from a Volkswagen chassis, the car is completely made from Marine plywood except for the running gear.

It's A Machine! A Balloon? No, No—It's A Plywagen!

By ANN STEVENS

Emery Thompson's home-built car isn't much of a highway vehicle but is a real conversation piece around town. It is the only "Plywagen" Thompson knows of.

A retired aircraft mechanic whose hobby is woodwork, Thompson saw the plans for the car advertised in "Mechanic Illustrated" and sent away for them. While others can send for the plans and build the wooden car which has been dubbed a "Plywagen," no one else, to Thompson's knowledge, has done so.

Starting with a rusted 1963 Volkswagen, Thompson stripped it down to the chassis, removed the wiring and began building the new body of Marine plywood, a commonly used material for boats.

FINAL CHALLENGE
The whole process took about 16 months. Thompson finished the car, which is all wood except for the running gear, in May.

"It was really a challenge. That's why I did it. Now I feel like I've accomplished my final goal in cabinet making," he said.

Cost of materials was some $1,100 but the real cost was in man-hours. Thompson spent a total of 1,200 hours working on his car.

"I really have to watch it when I'm driving around," Thompson said of the town's new conversation piece. "It draws an enormous amount of attention, much more than I expected."

At stoplights, drivers of other cars lean out the windows to ask him if he built it and other specifics. At service stations, attendants scratch their heads wondering where the gas tank is (it's in the front like all Volkswagens).

"It's not much of a road car," he noted. "It's at a disadvantage on the highway because it is so light. I've run it up to 70 miles per hour, but it feels like it's about to float off the road."

The car, which originally weighed 1,900 pounds as a 1963 VW, now weighs 1,440 pounds with its wooden body. It still gets 28 miles to the gallon of gas, just like a regular Volks.

Thompson, 53, a master sergeant who retired from aircraft maintenance at Webb in 1970, is now working as a delivery man for Ponca Wholesale Merchandise Co. A fellow employee at Ponca told the Herald that the firm has trouble getting any work done because of the numerous inquiries about the strange wooden car in the parking lot.

WIFE LOVES IT
"My wife (Georgia) didn't think much of it when I first started working on it, but now I can't get her out of it," Thompson said. The couple takes it for weekend drives.

He said he was surprised that his wife, who cannot drive herself, enjoys riding in the plywagen since it is a convertible. He plans, however, to make a canvas top for the car.

The wooden car is the biggest project in woodwork he has undertaken, Thompson said. He has also made knick-knacks, planters, room dividers, chairs and a kitchen table. He and his wife live at 4063 Vicky.

Although he has had several offers from people wanting to buy the woodmobile, Thompson said he isn't interested in selling. He also remarked that he does not want to build another one.

"You couldn't pay me enough," he commented.

Tower Seeks Raise Of Exemption

WASHINGTON — Sen. John Tower (R-Texas) Thursday offered an amendment to the minimum wage bill to increase the small business exemption for retail and service firms from $250,000 to $325,000.

Tower noted that prior to 1961, all retail and service companies were exempt from the minimum wage provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act. Since the exemption was lifted in 1961, it has been changed twice and in 1969 was set at $250,000.

Tower said under current inflationary prices, it would now take about $307,000 in retail sales or service fees to equal the $250,000 in similar sales or services in 1969 when the exemption was lowered to that figure.

Crooker Cites Revenue Loss

The decision to tax 60 per cent of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., inventories resulted in a reduction of $6,240 in taxes to the state, Howard County Junior College and Howard County.

This information comes from Bill Crooker, the sole commissioner opposing the tax break.

Levying 100 per cent based on the plant's report to the State Comptroller would have brought Howard County about $3,400 more in taxes and HCJC, $1,950 more, he said.

missioners Court felt other businesses present report less than 100 per cent inventories for taxation. Taxes are assessed on Jan. 1 inventories.

Therefore, the 60 per cent figure was established on $13 million in materials at Cosden and the others. Asphalt inventories are reported separately.

For What It's Worth

Jack Cowan

What's wrong with our beloved Cowboys, you ask? What has happened to this fine group of hero-types whom we name our boats and our pets after? What has caused this sudden, great rift in a team that a year ago reigned as world champions?

Good questions, but don't ask me. I don't know any Cowboys. I did meet Bob Lilly's mother once, and my wife thinks Walt Garrison flirted with her a year or so ago, but that's about the extent of my relationship with the organization. I wouldn't know Dave Manders if he cleated me on the forehead.

Still, I can have my opinions just like everybody else. Personally, I think they're all leaving because Tom Landry... has perspiration odor...

Pro basketball scouts moaned and groaned about the lack of talent to choose from in the colleges this year, but right now the colleges are raving about the class of upcoming schoolboys.
Letterman Magazine named its Top Thirty in its July-August issue, and the group is an impressive one. Only one Texan, 6-7 Eddie Owens of Houston Wheatley, is on the list, which is dominated by players from California, the East and the Midwest. And not one of the hotshots will bounce his college basketball in the Lone Star State.

As expected, UCLA ranks right at the top in recruiting, with three of the aces pledged to the Bruins, including 7-0 Richard Washington of Portland, Ore. But Nevada-Las Vegas also got three of the stars, including Owens.

You don't have to believe that the American League's Designated Hitter is making a difference if you don't want to, but the facts seem to be indicating otherwise. After 325 games this year, the over-all batting average in the AL was .253, 27 points higher than the same time a year ago.

Not only that, there had been 102 more home runs and 425 more runs scored, and since the pitchers laid down their bats, there were 343 fewer strikeouts.

Ahhh, what would you people do without us sports-type folks handing out critical morsels of information for you to gobble up...

Sands School Supt. M. B. Maxwell hasn't begun to panic yet, but unless he gets some action awfully quick — or he's the coolest administrator around — it shouldn't be long before he hits the button.

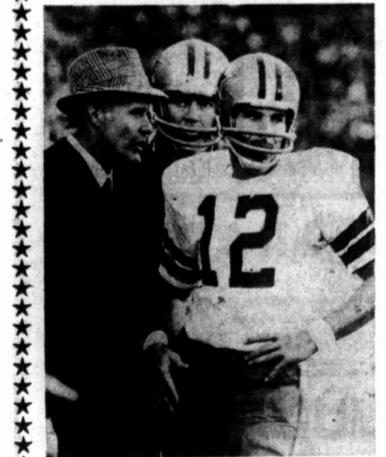

The athletic system calls for two coaches to carry out the sports activities for the upcoming year, and with school less than four weeks away, both spots are still empty. Bob Davis did it all for the past two years — high school and junior high football, basketball and track — but Davis is headed for Follett, where the pay is a little higher and the job a bit less strenuous.

That prompted the Sands officials to believe that maybe it really was a job for two men, and since Davis' resignation about six weeks ago, they've been hunting. They've had three different men accept the positions, but all have found something better almost immediately and departed as quickly as they had arrived.

While the football prowess of the school isn't exactly phenomenal, since you can count the Sands victories of the last five years on one hand, it's a different story in basketball. The Ponies have won district the past two years, and four starters return from last year's 25-7 team. Not a bad place for young coach to start.

One thing that might have something to do with it concerns what the new coach will be teaching. One will be asked to teach history, health and driver's education and the other — well, they'd like for him to be able to teach English and Spanish, or act as a librarian. Now that's interesting...

Ramp Work Aids Spence

Work may start within a week or two on extending three boat ramps at Lake E. V. Spence to elevations that they will be out of the water even when the lake catches full.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has pledged funds to pour additional concrete slab on proper grade at three boat launching areas at the lake. The project will cost around $22,000, estimated R. A. Schooling, administrative assistant for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

A sudden, dramatic rise at this stage could put the boat ramps under water.

The sites are at the north end of the dam, in a location just to the southwest of the dam, and at a recreational area on the southwest side (where a concessions building now is located). These are in public recreational areas.

One of the ramps will call for 4-in. concrete slab 195 x 30 feet; another 210 x 45 feet; and a third 250 x 35 feet.

Brantley Sets Munry Record

Municipal Golf Course pro Charles Brantley fired a 61 over his home turf Friday, breaking the three-year old course record by one shot.

Brantley, whose best previous score had been a 64, had eight birdies and two eagles in lowering the mark set in 1970 by Tommy Jackson. His round included seven one-putt greens on the front nine and eight on the back of the par 73 layout.

A 50-yard wedge shot gave Brantley an eagle on the par four second hole as he finished the first nine in six-under par 30, and on the par five 15th a four-iron shot two feet from the hole gave him a tap-in for an eagle. He missed a five-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole.

He was also six-under on the back nine with a 31.

Bob Waters, Max Pitts, Howard Stewart, Jack Mundell and Don Hale were playing with Brantley.

Feller Still Speaks Out

Copy News Service
 Robert William Andrew Feller says it's time major league baseball hitched up its knickers and made the game more attractive to both television and in-the-park fans.

At 54, the Old Fireballer from Van Meter, Iowa, still can chuck it in there. His forearms are tan and firm and his interest in baseball is as consuming as it was in the days (1936-1956) when he pitched himself into baseball's Hall of Fame for the Cleveland Indians.

The mod glasses don't hide the grin wrinkles. Bob Feller is a man who criticizes organized baseball because he loves it. He can take on the bigwigs with a fine touch of wry humor.

"The new designated hitter rule is a Mickey Mouse gimmick," observes Feller in an interview. "If one league (American) is going to use the system of letting a hitter stand up for the pitcher, then both leagues should do so."

"As it stands now, the designated hitter rule won't apply in the 1973 World Series."

The greatest box office "gimmick," in Feller's view, would be interleague play like that fostered by the National Football League.

"A series between Cincinnati and Cleveland, for example, would really draw big," says the man who pitched the first major league opening day no-hit game against the Chicago White Sox in 1946.

"The Chicago Cubs and White Sox would fill the stands, too, and so would the Los Angeles Dodgers and the California Angels."

"These interleague series — one or two each year perhaps — would build up a big cross-town rivalry which always attracts the fans. It would be real box office. And I think it will come. The idea was proposed 25 years ago but turned down by the American League."

"The owners felt the National League wasn't ready to play against American League teams."

"Today the National League feels the same way about the American League. So I don't know when interleague play will come. It should be right away, to help sustain America's interest in baseball."

Feller concedes some of baseball's time-consuming habits could be dropped. The intentional base on balls, for example, he believes, should be automatic, the batter moving to first on a signal to the umpire from the catcher without a ball being pitched.

"Only Ty Cobb and a few others have reached out and hit an intentional ball," Feller recalls.

"It doesn't happen often enough to make that much difference, and the automatic walk would save some time."

Unfortunately, says Feller, there is too much emphasis these days on the dollars-and-cents side of baseball.

"There's too much talk by the club owners, the players and their attorneys, too much argument over contracts and salaries, too much dirty linen put out for the public to view," insists the hurler selected as the world's greatest living right hand pitcher at the 1969 Baseball Centennial.

"The fans are more interested in how good the players are, not what their financial and psychological problems are."

As for some of the towering salaries reported being paid to the superstars, Feller says most of them are puffed up with stock and other fringe benefits to make the figure look impressive.

From where Feller sits,

WAY BACK WHEN—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indian fireballer of another era and Baseball Hall of Famer, holds up a photograph snapped in July, 1935 when 16-year-old Bobby was signed to an Indian contract. At left in the photo is C. C. Slapnicka of the Indians and at right is Bobby's father, who used to catch his son's schoolboy pitches outside their home in Van Meter, Iowa.

"there's no way" Atlanta's nothing new, according to Hank Aaron can eclipse Babe Ruth's all-time home run record of 714 this year.

"But he will be back next year, playing enough games to give him another chance at the record," Feller predicts.

"That's good box office. Aaron may be around for several more years as a part-time player, because the fans like to see those great hitters as long as they can connect with the long ball."

The slider, so popular with pitchers and fans today, is there.

"We were throwing sliders in 1941," he recalls. "I think there's too much emphasis on 'junk' pitching today — the grease ball and stuff like that."

"There is no pitcher in the Hall of Fame who didn't have a good fast ball at one time or another."

"As you get older, of course, you have to spin the ball and change your style to stay in there."

Taylor-Jones Foursome Wins

Eight foursomes participated in the weekly Louisiana Draw tournament at Big Spring Country Club Friday evening.

The foursome of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor and Mr. and Mrs. Harral Jones tied with one comprised of Jack Cook, Norma Griffin, Peggy Marshall and Bob Sharp. Second place went to Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Cook.

On the closest to the pin contest (on No. 12), Richard Terry won the prize.

Foursomes are urged to register for next Friday's play at the pro shop.

DEDICATION—The Cedar Ridge Church of Christ located at 2110 Birdwell Lane will hold a dedication service for their new building and open house today at 3 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

All Controls May End, Says Shultz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz thinks Phase 4 will bring an end to wage and price controls.

A free economy is the desirable objective and "I think that when this phase is over, that will be the end," he said at a news conference Friday.

Phase 4 is designed to spread a bulge of price increases, backlogged by the Phase 3 3 1/2 price freeze, over the next three or four months, he said.

"What President Nixon is trying to do is to use wage and price controls to get through the period immediately ahead," Shultz explained.

"If we stick with control of federal spending to get our budget policy in good shape, then increasing supplies will start meeting the demand for those things in short supply."

On Your Formal Dedication, We Wish Cedar Ridge Church of Christ Many Years Of HAPPINESS

New Building, Volunteer Ministers For New Plant

The public is invited to share a dedication service with members of the Cedar Ridge Church of Christ at 2110 Birdwell Lane at 3 p.m. today.

Regular worship services will also be held at 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m.

Back in the fall of 1952, a small group of about 15 people began meeting in the American Legion Hall in Coahoma.

They soon moved into a building and called in the South Side Church of Christ in Coahoma. They moved to Big Spring in the summer of 1960, holding services in a building located at the northwest corner of the intersection of Marcy Drive and Birdwell Lane.

The congregation then included 35 members and was called the Marcy Street Church of Christ.

The congregation has never had a full-time minister but meets its pastoral responsibility through the volunteer services from within its membership.

Most of this responsibility is met at present by Paul Keele, Grady Teague, Randall Morton and Lester Young.

The church purchased property at the northwest corner of Birdwell Lane and Cole Lane. Members have now completed a new sanctuary, furnishings and a paved parking area.

The congregation, now designated as the Cedar Ridge Church of Christ has around 100 members with an additional 30 children in attendance.

County Benefits From Downpour

Heavy rain that soaked Dawson County Tuesday night also fell on about a third of Howard County, Bruce Griffith, county extension agent, said.

He said the rain fell as far south as Coahoma.

There are two critical times when rain is needed most, he said, at the start of blooming and at peak blooming. The Howard County cotton has been planted at different times but generally peak blooming should be in about a week.

Lomax, which was severely hurt during a hail and wind storm in June has replanted grain sorghum and is a little dry, he said. It is getting too late to replant, he said.

The area in Howard County that did not receive the Dawson County rain is still not in a severely dry situation and the rainy season of August is near, Griffith said.

Menninger Is Going Strong At Age Of 80

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Dr. Karl Menninger turns 80 Sunday, still a fighter of social injustices, still recognized as one of America's greatest minds in psychiatry and still working to make life more pleasant.

"I don't believe in goals," he says. "Life isn't a 100-yard dash or a basketball game. Everybody's got hundreds of goals."

"But maybe I ought to sit down and decide on a goal before I die. I've always believed in amelioration. But it's not a goal; it's more a philosophy."

STILL PREACHING
He's still preaching with the fervor of a revivalist against the inhumanity he sees in the nation's correctional system and trying to educate others that you don't rehabilitate a man by beating him, which he says was the real message of his book, "The Crime of Punishment."

Dr. Karl—as he is known—sees some rays of hope that the system is slowly doing some of the things he's advocated in prison reform, as well as efforts to prevent "bad" youngsters from becoming criminals.

"We've got to study crime scientifically," he said in a birthday interview. "Crime is never a surprise; there are causes which explain it."

The Menninger Foundation, which grew from the psychiatric clinic that Dr. Karl founded with his father here over 50 years ago, friends and public officials honored him at a pre-birthday party last week.

The foundation published a collection of his previously unpublished works for the occasion.

"Karl Menninger remains a youthful and vigorous thinker, still the dominant figure on the scene of American psychiatry," is how Dr. Sidney Smith, editor of the Menninger Clinic Bulletin, introduced the special edition of Menninger's unpublished papers.

"Everybody's been so nice to me," Dr. Karl said. "And I don't just mean all this birthday folderl."

Menninger said he feels great—"no different from any other birthday."

"Young people don't believe that, when they see us old buzzards running around, that we can feel good," he added. "But I feel just as good as I did 20 or 30 years ago. I just expect to go on working all my life."

On attaining 80, he said: "I don't attach any particular achievement to reaching 80. I thank God I reached it. It's more His doing than mine. And I had good parents, you know."

NO SIGN
If he has slowed his pace, it's not noticeable. He remains chairman of the board of the foundation—which entails, he said, "listening to everybody else, then deciding what to do."

He just completed another book, "Sparks," and has another in the works for late summer or early fall publication, "Take Heart—Your Sins Are Forgiven."

He divides his time between Topeka, where he was born in 1893 and has his residence and an office suite at the foundation, and Chicago, where he also has an office.

He spends his days here attending to correspondence, working on the books, conversing with a steady stream of persons seeking advice or just stopping by for a chat and painting—an avocation he took up "five or six years ago."

He also cultivates his deep interest in history and Indian cultures, with the Indians of Costa Rica a current fascination.

Menninger returned to Topeka in 1919 to practice medicine with his father, Dr. Charles Menninger, after graduating with honors from Harvard Medical School in 1917 and after practicing in Kansas City.

Car And Visibility Codes On City Council Agenda

Leaving a car parked unattended on public property for over 48 hours at a time, or letting plants grow higher than two feet above the curb level on corner lots will become illegal here if the City Commission approves two new ordinances at its 5:15 p.m. meeting Tuesday.

One, designed to supplement the existing "junk car" ordinance, would make it unlawful to leave a motor vehicle unattended on any street, alley or other public property for a period exceeding 48 hours.

The other regulation, designed to eliminate visibility obstruction on corners, would make it illegal for anyone owning or residing on any corner lot on which a yard is required to build a wall, fence, sign or other structure or allow any plant to grow higher than two feet above the curb level within 15 feet of the intersection of the property line.

The two measures were drafted by City Attorney Jim Gregg at the request of City Manager Harry Nagel.

Also on the agenda for the commission is discussion of changing FM 700's zoning classification from residential to commercial, retail and industrial and discussion on annexing the Big Spring State Hospital to the city.

In other business, the commission will consider hiring Russel Krous of the sheriff's office as a patrolman, award a contract for purchase of sanitation containers, discuss leasing land at the State Hospital for a softball complex and consider changing commission meeting time from 5:15 p.m. to 10 a.m.

Public hearings will be held on the requests of Foodway and Piggly Wiggly to sell beer and wine for off-premises consumption.

Freed For Not Checking Book

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A jury has acquitted a university student of charges he stole a library book. The man contended he could not be accused of stealing public property.

Police said Kevin McNamara, 20, was stopped by a guard at the public library as he left the building without checking out the book.

McNamara said he intended to return the book after reading it and that, as a taxpayer, he could not be accused of stealing the book.

BINGO BUG

THIS WEEK'S BINGO CARD COLOR ORANGE

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

RULES OF THE GAME

PLAY AS MANY CARDS AS YOU WISH!

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS: Each week (adults only, please) pick up your Free Bingo Cards from the sponsoring merchants listed below. Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish each day of the week. THE MORE CARDS YOU PLAY — THE BETTER YOUR CHANCES ARE TO WIN.
HOW TO PLAY: Check the ads in EACH DAY'S issue of The Big Spring Herald. The ads of the merchants listed below will contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol (shown above). Occasionally, numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol may be found elsewhere in the paper. Check the classified ad section for additional numbers. IF YOU CAN MATCH (JUST CIRCLE OR "X" THE MATCHING NUMBERS) ALL 24 NUMBERS ON ONE OF YOUR BINGO CARDS WITH THE TOTAL OF THE NUMBERS PUBLISHED IN ALL ISSUES OF THE BIG SPRING HERALD EACH WEEK — YOU HAVE A "BINGO!" — AND YOU ARE A WINNER!!!
AT LEAST $50.00 WEEKLY!!! Winners will share a weekly prize of $50.00 (in "Bingo Bucks" — they spend the same as cash with any of the sponsoring merchants listed below). If there is only one winner, he wins all of the $50.00. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share the $50.00 equally. If there are no winners any week, the $50.00 weekly prize will be added to the following week's prize fund.

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER: A new game will start each Sunday and be completed the following Friday. Be sure to check each day's issue of The Big Spring Herald because some of the numbers may appear in each day's issue. All numbers needed to complete each week's game will have appeared by each Friday's issue. A new set of Bingo numbers will be published for each week's game. A new color of Bingo cards will be available each week at the sponsoring merchants' stores. To be eligible to win, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week's game. The color of the cards for each week's game will be announced each week on this page.
IF YOU ARE A WINNER: If you have a winning Bingo card, on which all 24 numbers have been matched with the total of numbers published during the week in The Big Spring Herald, print your name, address, phone number, and the name of the store where you got your winning card, on the back of your card and mail to: The Big Spring Herald, 710 Scurry Street, Big Spring, Texas 79720, Box 1431 (the envelope containing your card must be received by 5:00 P.M. Monday of the following week) — or bring your card to the office of this newspaper at 710 Scurry Street, Big Spring, Texas, by 5:00 P.M. Monday of the following week.
NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY: There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at the office of this newspaper — also at the public library — also a Bingo card and/or copies of The Big Spring Herald, containing the Bingo numbers may be obtained by mailing your request to this newspaper (please print your name and address clearly). You may play as many cards as you wish — they are free. Get additional cards — one at a time — each day of the week — from the merchants listed below (ADULTS ONLY).

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK: The color of the cards change each week. To be a winner, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week. Mutilated or altered cards will not be honored. ALL 24 NUMBERS ON A CARD MUST BE MATCHED TO WIN.
CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS: Bingo numbers for each week's game are drawn strictly at random at the office of this newspaper. Some duplication of Bingo numbers may appear in the merchants' ads — or elsewhere in the paper. This duplication does not affect the game or the total numbers drawn. All numbers for each week's game will appear somewhere in the sponsoring merchants' ads — and possibly elsewhere in the paper. Employees of this newspaper and members of their families are not eligible to win any of the prizes. Newspaper Bingo is a program copyrighted and registered by Marketing-Research Associates, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

'IT'S EASY RIDIN'' on the ribbons of concrete that wind through Comanche Trail Park. These cyclists are Gary and Janet Nash, left, and Leroy and Lois Kalbfleish. The men, both of whom are stationed at Webb Air Force Base, built the motorcycles.

Sunday In The Park

By JO BRIGHT

It's early morning when the first cars turn off Marcy Drive or Highway 87 and wind their way to the south side of Comanche Trail Park.

There, by the clubhouse, sleepy-eyed golfers unload their gear and follow a cleat-marked trail to the first tee.

It's Sunday in the park, and the first arrivals savor the cool mist of morning as their eyes measure the fairway.

Soon, they'll be followed by the tennis players, the swimmers, the cycle riders, the baseball buffs, the croquet fans, the picnickers, the hikers, the walkers and the watchers.

By noon, a holiday air has spread to every corner of the park.

Family groups stake claim to the pavilions for annual reunions; the long tables laden with food for the feast. Nearby, young mothers seek the shade of walnut trees to watch water-glistened babies splash in a pint-sized pool. At the main swimming pool, a pretty girl lies toasting in the sun — pretending not to notice the muscular young men who look her way.

Around the bend, pedal-pushing bikers hug the curb, making way for faster moving motorcycles, and cruising cars jockey for position on the winding road.

Sweaty, squirming boys race and wrestle in the grass, and skinny little girls stretch coltish legs to push their swings a little higher.

Soon the evening comes, and an old moon shines on new lovers who linger in the sheltering shadows of the night.

It's Sunday in the park — and the day ends all too soon.

THE SPACIOUS swimming pool in the city's park has long attracted scores of young people on long, summer days. Heidi Roman chats with Linda Hendon of Lawton, Okla., as life guards, Orville Rau and Larry Stanley, keep an eye on action in the pool.

Miss Welsh Weds Jimmy L. Johnson

Miss Leslie Jeanne Welsh became the bride of Jimmy L. Johnson in a candlelight ceremony performed at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in St. Mary's Episcopal Church by the Rev. Harlan B. Birdwell, rector.

Mrs. Gail Bonner, organist, played traditional music, and the sanctuary setting was enhanced with altar vases holding white spider chrysanthemums, daisies and carnations interspersed with greenery.

The bride is the daughter of Chap. (Capt.) and Mrs. H. E. Welsh of Goldsboro, N.C., and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Johnson Jr., 706 Birdwell.

For her wedding attire, the bride chose a full-length dress of white dotted Swiss styled with stand-up collar, bib ruffle and long sleeves with ruffled cuffs. Detailing included a pink checked belt; the fabric repeated in trim on the cuffs. Her garden hat of white illusion was fashioned with crown of dotted Swiss, lace and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white daisies and featured carnations centered with pink Sweetheart roses.

Miss Claudia Welsh of Goldsboro, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a floor-length, empire gown of pink dotted Swiss with scooped neckline and puffed sleeves. Matching fabric trimmed her garden hat of pink illusion. Her Victorian bouquet was of white chrysanthemums and pink roses.

Terry Fields served as best man, and ushers were Gary Turner and Dick Nicholson.

TO MARRY — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Love, Urbana, Ill., announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Lynne, to Sgt. William Alan Chappelle, son of Mrs. Dorothy H. Chappelle, Montgomery, Ill., and the late William Arthur Chappelle. Miss Lynne is a graduate of Northern Illinois University, and her fiancé attended Troy State University in Alabama. He is currently stationed with the Air Force at Webb AFB.

Ready To Wed

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'll soon be 30 and I want very much to get married (preferably to a nurse or teacher) but I have trouble finding marriageable girls because I don't drink, smoke, or dance.

I'm a college graduate, not repulsively ugly, and I'm a stay-at-home person. So how does a stay-at-home person meet another stay-at-home person?

Pickings are mighty slim — someone else's castoffs (divorcees with kids) or a girl with a face that only her mother could love.

Guys tell me to go to a bar and order a soft drink, but bars are so noisy you can't hear yourself think, let alone carry on a conversation with someone.

Mom says go to church, an idea which doesn't appeal to me much. And computer dating is a "bad trip."

When I was working I met girls who only made it through high school. If I'd say I was interested in anthropology, they'd say something like, "Oh, I like gardening, too."

If I don't find work by September, I'll go to technical school where the girls will be 10 to 20 years younger than me, and unless you are Sonny and Cher I don't think that will work out.

Any suggestions? B.B.
DEAR B. B.: Volunteer work and community-sponsored social programs attract the kind of girl you want. And don't put down your mother's suggestion. "Stay-at-home" girls usually go to church.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for seven months to a real "he man" — or so I thought until recently.

Now I find that he puts himself to sleep by sucking his right thumb and rubbing his left earlobe! I have caught him at this several times and it really bothers me to be married to a man who has such baby ways.

I haven't said anything to him about it because it's too embarrassing. Now I'm wondering if maybe I should tell him I have seen the way he puts himself to sleep and ask him to please try to get over it.

Abby, this man is 6 feet 2 inches, loves all kinds of sports, and he's seen active duty in Viet Nam, so I can't understand it.

How should I handle it?

Salads Are Prepared For Club

Three salads were prepared and served by Mrs. Frank Wilson and Mrs. Lonnie Griffith when they presented a food program Tuesday afternoon for the Fairview Home Demonstration Club.

Recipes for the potato, avocado and congealed fruit salads were provided for members.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. P. P. Van Pelt, with Miss Lisa Morris as a guest. Refreshments were served, and the attendance prize was won by Mrs. O. D. Engle.

MRS. MICHAEL L. McCALEB

Methodist Church Is Scene Of Ceremony

Wesley United Methodist Church was the setting Saturday evening for the wedding of Miss Catherine Lee Macklin and Michael Lewis McCaleb. The Rev. Jarrell Sharp, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church, Stamford, performed the ceremony, and Mrs. John Birdwell served as organist.

Vocalists were Charles P. Macklin of Bloomington, Ind., brother of the bride, and Mrs. Doug Clemens, Bedford. The wedding party stood before an altar on which was placed an open Bible flanked by white candelabra holding yellow tapers. Baskets of assorted summer flowers completed the setting.

The bride, daughter of Lt. Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. Thomas Patrick Macklin, 1403 E. 19th, graduated from Big Spring High School. She is a junior at McMurry College, Abilene, where she is a member of Delta Beta Epsilon and Wah Wah-tay-see.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McCaleb, Abilene. Currently employed at KRBC-TV, Abilene, he is a graduate of Cooper High School and received a BA degree in business administration at McMurry College. He was a cheerleader and a member of KIVA social club.

Carrying a bouquet of yellow roses and white daisies, the bride was attired in a formal-length gown of candlelight silk crepe fashioned with an empire bodice overlaid with ivory Chantilly lace. The gown featured a scooped neckline, lantern sleeves and a slightly-gathered skirt which formed a cathedral train. Her veil was a mantilla of Chantilly lace.

ATTENDANTS

bridesmatrons. Their gowns were styled on the lines of the bride's gown; skirts of blue and green floral chiffon with blue or green bodices. They carried long-stemmed, yellow roses.

John Gordon Poer, Abilene, served as best man, with groomsmen being Paul Lenker, Jim Crockett and Bob Bartlett, all of Abilene; Gary Harris, San Angelo; and Jim Schultz, Dallas. Carroll Broussard, Houston, and Kirk Harruff, Abilene, served as ushers. Altar tapers were lighted by Roger Holmes, Burke, Va., and Brad Broussard, Houston.

RECEPTION
The reception was held in the fellowship hall, with members of the house party being Mrs. Charles Macklin, Mrs. Paul Lenker, Abilene; Mrs. Carroll Broussard, Houston; Miss Teresa Johnson, Miss Donna

Stanley, Mrs. James Page of Abilene and Miss Pam Clemens, Bedford.

A floor-length white net cloth covered the bride's table which was appointed with crystal and centered with the attendants' flowers at the base of a silver candelabrum. The cake was adorned with white doves. The bridegroom's table was laid with a gold cloth and centered with a large candle.

Out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. J. E. McCaleb Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Battles, Mr. and Mrs. George Herchenhahn, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Latimer, Mr. and Mrs. Don Sims, Mr. and Mrs. John Lenker, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. The newlyweds will reside in Abilene.

Wedding Vows Are Exchanged Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Teriann Ashley and Billy Don Fishback at 7:30 p.m., Saturday in College Baptist Church.

The Rev. Monroe Teeters, pastor of First Baptist Church of Coahoma, performed the rites before a heart-shaped archway flanked by spiral candelabra entwined with greenery and white Shasta daisies. Baskets of gladioli, daisies and greenery flanked the arch, and palm trees and gypsophylla completed the setting.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lyndell Ashley, Route 1, Big Spring, and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Fishback, Coahoma.

Nuptial music was by Mrs. Osey Mason, organist. Vocalists were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Shelton Ashley, and Erwin Dabb, both of San Angelo.

The bride was attired in a formal-length gown of candlelight peau de soie, with overlay of silk organza and scalloped lace. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped V-neckline and long tapered sleeves which reached a ruffle over the wrist. The A-line skirt swept to a chapel-length train ending in a flounce ruffle overlaid with lace. Her veil of silk illusion was elbow-length and attached to a Juliet cap accented with lace motifs. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies, yellow Sweetheart roses and babies'-breath tied with satin streamers and string of pearls.

Miss Mona Honea was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Beal, Miss Marsha Day and Miss Judy Mathies. They wore matching gowns of pale green dotted Swiss, fashioned with scooped, ruffled necklines and short butterfly sleeves. They carried nosegays of white and yellow daisy mums, accented with English ivy and satin streamers.

BEST MAN

Wayne Morris served as best man, and groomsmen were Skip Mains, Colorado City; and Guy White and Tommy Overman, both of Lubbock. Serving as ushers were the bride's brother, Shelton Ashley, San Angelo; David Miller, Lubbock; Steve Fraser, Mark Millican and the bridegroom's brother, Bennie Ray Fishback.

Karen Spears, flower girl, wore a gown styled like the other attendants in yellow dotted Swiss. Ring bearer was Tony Carpenter, Austin. Altar tapers were lighted by Gary Tatum, Brownwood, and the bridegroom's brother, Bobbie Gene Fishback.

The newlyweds are on a trip to Ruidoso, N.M., after which they will reside at 307 Main, Coahoma. In January, they will move to Lubbock where Fishback will resume studies at Texas Tech. He is a graduate of Coahoma High School and is currently employed at Fiber Glass Systems, Inc. Mrs. Fishback graduated from CHS and is employed at College Park American Handicrafts.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall, where the bride's table was covered with pale yellow linen. A silver candelabrum held yellow tapers and an arrangement of yellow and white daisies and English ivy. The bridegroom's table was covered with a beige cloth and featured brass candle holders with yellow candles.

Serving were Mrs. Cecil Drake, Mrs. Bobbie Roman, Mrs. Elgin Jones, Odessa; Miss Paula Dodson, Miss Sheryl Bohannon, Miss Jeannie Kohanek and Miss Sheryl Hulm.

GUESTS

Relatives from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Carpenter, Austin; Capt. and Mrs. Joe Trujillo, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Don Tatum, Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. Price Lawson, and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Barrentine, all of Fort Worth.

A rehearsal dinner was

Marry In Texarkana Ceremony

Miss Amy Virginia McCulloch and Raymond Edward French exchanged wedding vows July 14 in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Amos McCulloch, at Texarkana.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. French Jr. of Carrollton, formerly of Big Spring.

The Rev. Warren Martin officiated. Attendants for the bride were her sisters, Miss Margaret McCulloch and Miss Karen McCulloch, and Miss Becky Brantson, the latter of Dallas. Miss Meredith French, Dallas, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl.

W. A. French III, Dallas, was best man, and groomsmen were Randy Thomas and Chris Saylor, both of Austin.

After a wedding trip to Little River, Ark., the couple will reside at 3700 Kerbey Lane, Austin, where the bridegroom is attending the University of Texas.

Guests at the wedding included Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, Texarkana, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Morris, Pine Bluff, Ark., grandparents of the bride; and Mrs. Lottie King and Mrs. W. A. French, both of Abilene, grandmothers of the bridegroom.

Working Women Demanding Changes In 'Market Place'

"The working wife and mother is the emerging woman of the new consumer era," said Mrs. George Weeks, Thursday at Big Spring Credit Women at the Settles Hotel. Her program was based on an article by Mrs. Margaret Wilson, president of Scarbrough's Department Store, Austin.

Mrs. Weeks said traditional roles of women have been devalued, and that the market place is changing to operate with women in the new roles. In four out of 10 households, both husband and wife are employed, and 38 per cent of the current work force is female, she said.

The median age for working women is 37.9 years, compared to 47.4 years for women not employed outside the home. Working women are generally better educated. According to Mrs. Wilson, 32 per cent have some college background, whereas 20 per cent of non-working women have attended college. Also, she said households with a working wife average about 50 per cent more income.

"Women may be the budget experts of the decade," said Mrs. Weeks. They budget the hours of the day to have time for work and running an efficient home; they feed and cloth families; provide physical needs of their families; oversee education of their children and cope with a million other chores that appear out of nowhere. She said less than half of all working women work not because they have to, but rather work to provide "extras" in convenience and aesthetics.

"The working woman of the 70's knows that time is money," concluded Mrs. Weeks. "Hours are precious and must be well-spent, so convenience and easy upkeep are prime motivations for purchases." She said the working status of women has made a direct and demanding effect on the needs of consumers, and manufacturers and stores must recognize and fulfill customer needs based on woman's new buying power. During the business portion, Mrs. W. E. Moren

MR. AND MRS. BILL REXROAT AND MELONY

New Residents Like Dune Buggy Races

By BARBARA LORD
Dune buggy races, water skiing, camping and fishing are just a few of the activities enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rexroat and their daughter, Melony, 5.

The Rexroats are new residents in the community, and they have already explored some of the nearby camping and recreational areas. Rexroat is used car sales manager to Bob Brock Ford. The family moved here in May from Amarillo where they had resided for three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Rexroat were born and reared in Pampa, and they like the atmosphere of a small town. Although they have several hobbies to keep them busy, they are happiest when camping. They have a self-contained camper truck and a dune buggy which they pull behind it to out-of-the-way locations.

"I built our dune buggy, and it took 350 hours of long, hard work," said Rexroat. However, he's anxious to start building another one. "Now I know what I did wrong on the first one, and I think I could build a better one next time around," he said.

include fishing and water skiing, and it's a toss-up as to which the couple enjoys most.

"I like fishing better as long as I'm catching something," said Rexroat, "but if they aren't biting, I'd rather be on skis. All boating sports are real good. We like the water."

The family has camped at Moss Creek since arriving here, and future plans include trips to Spence and J. B. Thomas lake.

Mrs. Rexroat (Elayne), although busy with getting settled and organized, finds herself with a lot of leisure time. Since being married six years ago, this is the first time she hasn't had a job.

One of those activities was ceramics, and Mrs. Rexroat has already begun lessons here, with a long list of items she intends to make.

"I used to paint some," she said. "As a matter of fact, I majored in art when I went to college, but decided I wasn't really very good." She attended the University of New Mexico and West Texas State University in Canyon.

The Rexroats, now residing in the new Sandra Gale Apartments, are looking for a home to rent. Mrs. Rexroat is anxious to get all of their home items out of storage. She is a creative homemaker and decorator, with a particular liking for orange colors. Being from the Panhandle, Mrs. Rexroat doesn't really mind the wind and dust some Big Springers complain about.

"You people don't really know what wind is," she said. "In April we had a 10-hour period in Pampa when the wind remained between 85 and 110 miles per hour."

HOBBIES

"I'm not sure if I'll go to work here or not," said Mrs. Rexroat. "I find myself hurrying to get things done around the house, because I'm so used to not having much time. I don't know what I'll do with myself if I don't get a job, but on the other hand, there are a lot of things I used to wish I had time for."

WATER SPORTS

In Amarillo, the couple belonged to a "buggy club" which had weekend get-togethers and races down the Canadian River. They agreed that dune buggies can go places that even horses can't reach.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SEC. D -BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 22, 1973 SEC. D

Pay Increases In Store For College Faculty

Salary increases, a stepped-up extension program, new positions, and special items account for the bulk of the $107,905 increase in the proposed budget of Howard County Junior College for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1 as compared to the revised budget.

The gap between the proposed budget and the original budget for the current year is $221,058, about half of which was closed with a revision of the budget last week to conform with actual expenditures.

OVER-ALL FIGURES
The over-all proposed budget for the upcoming fiscal year is $1,759,373; the revised budget for this year was $1,651,468; the original budget for this year was $1,538,315.

For purposes of this study, comparisons are based on the revised budget. Exact comparisons are impossible because the budget format is being changed to meet standard requirements of the Coordinating Board for Texas Colleges and Universities.

An example is in resident instruction (academic) which shows a decline of $72,483. While there has been some attrition of faculty, part of this decline is in assessing some salaries and programs (previously charged to instruction) to other areas such as notably to auxiliary enterprises. Another area which showed a decline in budgeting was major repairs in the amount of $7,157, but last year contingency was listed with this item; the proposed budget has contingency as a special item (a new category).

NEW GROUPINGS
The most notable increase in administration which is up by $45,933, but the office of vice president (which absorbed some duties from other areas, that of personnel director, and an additional secretary were assigned for the first time purely to administration.

Next was auxiliary enterprises, which increased $43,199. A good part of this is due to add-on which came from the instructional category last year. For instance, the salary of the athletic director now is charged entirely to auxiliary enterprise; in the current budget it is listed as instructional.

Extension and public service made a dramatic jump of $20,484 which is more than double its present allocation. However, the modest appropriation heretofore has stepped up with activation with centers at Lamesa and San Angelo as well as the one with Webb AFB. It should be noted also that these increased costs are offset by revenues or state aid.

DOWN - AND UP
While the academic instructional charge was going down by $72,488, the cost of vocational-technical instruction is going up by $25,559 under the new budget.

One entirely new category in the proposed budget is special items in the amount of $21,264. Of this $7,100 is earmarked for development of a research center on the farm lands acquired recently in Maricopa County from the federal government. (This includes $3,000 for clearing, $1,000 for fencing, $1,200 for windmill, and $600 for planting.) The other portion of the special item, as mentioned previously is the contingency item of $14,164. To be candid about it, this is the cushion between estimated receipts and disbursements.

PAYROLL
The payroll under revised budget is $873,177, under the proposed budget it will be $910,133, or up nearly $40,000.

revenue it generates (the student housing system) is $211,818, compared with a proposed $211,189, or down $639.

INCOME
The proposed new budget envisions $516,463 in state appropriations, plus $202,518 in Texas Education Agency funds $20,377 in federal funds; $206,383 in local funds (mostly tuition and fees; $503,529 in local taxes (and I&S earnings); and $7,919 miscellaneous income for a total educational and general income of $1,457,189. Income from interscholastic athletics is $70,570 (but $70,310 is transferred from other funds so that athletics actually generates very little net revenue); $11,920 in student fees; $3,315 from student publications; and $52,890 net from student housing.

Flap, Flap And Up, Up And Away

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bob Waligunda broke the starter rope on a fan that was to funnel air into his balloon for a trial flight in preparation for this weekend's hot air balloon races.

A dozen spectators were recruited on an emergency basis. They manually flapped the open end of the nylon balloon, eventually drawing enough air into the bag so that it could be heated as a prelude to flight.

After 35 minutes of flapping, Waligunda was up, up and away. He landed about an hour later, some 20 miles from where he went aloft.

Finding Right Address In Caracas Takes Luck

CARACAS (AP) — The invitation to a party is accompanied by a map. It shows streets, squares, commercial buildings and other reference points.

The guest sets out. His wife holds the map while he drives. "Turn right at the next corner, then look for a supermarket with a blue neon sign," she says, squinting to see in the light from the dashboard. He turns right, but there is no supermarket in sight. They must have made a mistake. They go back and start the search over again.

A new game? An odd occurrence caused by an out-of-the-way location?

No. A typical evening out in Caracas, the city without street numbers. Houses have names, like dogs or boats, and it takes a map, diligence and good luck to find them.

Guests have been known to arrive at midnight after setting out in the early evening. Some just give up and go back home.

Caracas has grown to a city of 2 million without any municipal government bothering to introduce numbers or other means of easily establishing locations. It climbs up mountains on either side of a narrow valley. Winding roads, unmarked by street signs, carry the unwary traveler off into the distance. Often a dead-end awaits him.

Downtown the corners have names. But these help only the long-time inhabitants who are familiar with them.

A stranger hearing "Peel Your Eye To Danger, Sucre Building" might think he was being warned of some dread fate ahead. But "Peel Your Eye" and "Danger" are simply the names of corners.

"Take off your pants" might give either a woman or a man the wrong idea. But that's just another corner name that a Caracas inhabitant of Caracas would use without a second thought.

Three Short Years

Within three short years, we will have crossed the 200th milestone of our declaration that embarked us upon the course as a free and independent nation.

When one considers the many problems besetting like giant mountains without passes, the faint may despair that we will attain to that historic anniversary. But we will; and we are persuaded that there will have been a new commitment to moral values now voiced with abrasive unorthodoxy by many of our young people and yet compelling enough eventually to demand support of most adults; that there will have been — out of sheer necessity — a new adventure in economic sanity; and that there will have been a recognition of the unacceptable consequences of blind disunity within the society and of contempt for the basic rights.

In short, we are optimistic that the challenge of the third century can spur us over the mountains, and that somehow we will go forward as a stronger people.

All over the land bicentennial will be celebrated, and we hope with exuberant, unifying spirit. The effect of the enthusiasm generated by mass promotion will be beyond imagination.

What will be our role in all of this?

Well, three years is a short time to get ready for this, if we intend to get ready.

It seems to us that perhaps the governmental boards and the Chamber of Commerce might pool thinking on how best to establish goals for our part in the bicentennial; how best to create the machinery to coordinate the efforts toward achieving these; how to devise means of involving to the maximum the various segments of our community — ethnic, economic, cultural, etc.; to conceive projects; and finally, to appraise the possibility or wisdom of a birthday celebration. In this latter respect, we do undertake one, it ought to be something that will be remembered, if not for the next 100 years, then for a long, long time.

Worthy Of Discussion

Rep. Peter W. Rodino of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, is preparing to introduce a bill which should create a great deal of discussion. His bill would bar an attorney general of the United States from managing a presidential campaign or raising funds for it for two years after leaving office.

This may be the first piece of legislation stemming directly from the Watergate scandal. It is directed at the ubiquitous role of John N. Mitchell as President Nixon's 1968 and 1972 campaign manager.

Almost without exception in recent history, an attorney general has been a close friend and active party worker for the president who gains office. This has been accepted almost as a matter of course. It was conceded that within limits a president is entitled to appoint to his cabinet those individuals who could work harmoniously with him.

The office of the attorney general is a powerful one. What, for instance, would be the predictable reaction of a corporation executive who has been asked for a campaign contribution by a man who might become attorney general, or who is the attorney general? Tax investigation and antitrust actions, after all, come within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice.

The process has produced some good attorneys general in the past. It has also produced some who lacked legal distinction or a nice sense of propriety, or both.

A better way to select an attorney general must be found. And while about it, how about broadening it to cover other cabinet members?

He Got An A

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

Ex-Gov. John Connally of Texas announced that he was no longer a Democrat, now he is a Republican. He didn't really say much else, parrying reporters' questions and explaining:

"I don't want to close any doors." Don't look now, Mr. Connally, but you'd just closed one.

PAUL LYONS, editor of the Rotary Driller, says that years ago his teacher asked him "What animal never forgets?" and he said "That's irrelevant" and she gave him an A.

Rule of Thumb: If you lose weight and your friends still call you "fathead" it removes all doubt.

But what are friends for?

MY DRINKING cousin, Bobby Harris, called to tell me that when television of his favorite show — Josie and the Pussycats — was postponed for 30 minutes or so a TV exec flashed on a short subject in which Rudd Weatherwax showed viewers how to train a dog.

"Weatherwax had it easy, since the dog he was training was Lassie," Bobby said.

Weatherwax told how to slip a chain over the dog's neck and say "Come here" and gave him (Lassie is a male, I must inform you) a slight tug to train him to go there.

"I tried that with my dog Brandie and she just said 'I'm not thirty' and sat down," Bobby said.

"Then he showed us how to say 'Stay' to a dog and the dog would 'stay.' But I said 'Stay' to Brandie and she said 'If you don't quit ordering me around, I'm going to run away.'"

"WEATHERWAX said the way to make a dog go to sleep was to put a ticking clock near his sleeping place, turn the radio on low and give him a hot water bottle.

"I did that, and Brandie said 'Why don't you just let sleeping dogs lie?'"

"What can you do with a no-talent dog like Brandie?" Bob asked plaintively.

"Do as I do not as I say," I advised him. "I never, never argue with my six-month-old Boston Screwtail Bulldog — Moon Child."

IT IS becoming clear to me that man can solve any problem concerning things. It's the human problems that vex us.

Maybe we should see if we can get the things working on the human problems.

How does Women's Wear Daily find out about things like that? The newspaper says plastic surgeons told them so, and I suppose they'd be in a position to know.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

McNEELY THE CHICAGO NEWS-LEADER
© 1973 BY CHICAGO TRIBUNE

My family accuses me of being a "worrywart." I claim that I am just being a prudent person who looks ahead and plans for the future. Is it wrong to be concerned about the problems of tomorrow, especially if they would affect the conduct of today? O.B.

As in many of the issues covered in these columns, the need is a proper balance. The apostle Paul put it well suggesting "moderation" in all things, Philippians 4:5.

In our Association, we are obliged to plan for the future. You just don't drop into towns casually and say you're going to hold a crusade. On the other hand, we try to put future problems in the right perspective.

Thomas Carlyle gave us some good insight when he wrote: "Our main business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what lies clearly at hand."

Now the teaching of Christ in this regard is very plain. Read Luke 12. Having addressed the crowds he then turned to his followers, telling them to observe the ravens and the lilies, and see how God provided for them. He forbade them to be full of care, or may I use the term your family does, "worrywarts." Luke 12 is not a statement forbidding diligence, or hard work, or foresight, or thrift, but it is a condemnation of anxiety.

You didn't tell me how you practice your concern for the future. You probably become so occupied by future eventualities that you aggravate your family. Your apprehension of tomorrow's events is not shared by them, and alienation results.

I suggest, if you are a Christian, you overcome this weakness. Read Matthew 6:34. You will be excited over the quiet daily trust that the believer in Christ possesses.

Packaging Bill

William F. Buckley Jr.

Further on the Food and Drug Administration, would you believe that the big issue over there is a thing called "slack fill?" Slack fill is loosely defined as that percentage of the cubic space within the package which is not occupied by the advertised product.

THE PEOPLE over at FDA do not sleep at night, one gathers, for worrying that Post Toasties has too much slack fill. But, say the packagers, what difference does it make, if the packagers advertise the net weight within a package of the food they are selling? Suppose you decide, for the fun of it, to put 10 ounces of Corn Flakes into a package two feet high by two feet wide by two feet thick? The consumer, buying such a package, would go so either because she thought it a bofo way to package a few spoonfuls of Corn Flakes, or, if she did it in error, she would either demand her money back, which the grocery store manager would probably give her, or the grocery store would politely point out that the 10 ounces were plainly listed on the package, and that in fact she had paid for the Corn Flakes, not for the package, which was simply razzmatazz.

BUT THUS it goes for the shower-adjusters, the felicitous phrase once used to describe the intrusive hand of those who cannot bear to permit you to set the temperature of your own shower. It is, of course, implicit in the exercise by the FDA of its consumerist dogmas that the consumer is certifiably helpless, that if you have a lot of "slack fill" in the package, she isn't going to discover it; or, if she does, that she will not reason over into the cost she is actually paying for the cereal, rather than the space accordingly, the gentlemen of the FDA go into retreat for months at a time and emerge with complicated findings, which they seek to use as life and death formulae against the packagers.

For instance, did you know that Kellogg's Corn Flakes has a net weight of 18 ounces, and a percentage of air of 15.5? Whereas Nabisco Quick Cream of Wheat has 28 ounces of net weight and 0.0 percentage of air. If you object by observing that Corn Flakes in the nature of things uses up more air space than quick cream of wheat, or even unquick cream of wheat, you are being elitist.

I LIKE BEST of all the proposed new mandate for the FDA, as written into a bill submitted last month by Senators Frank Moss of Utah, and Warren Magnuson of Washington. This bill says that no package for sale at a grocery store carry a picture of something that isn't actually contained in a package.

Take, for instance, Quaker Quick Grits. Well, if you go to buy a package of same you will find on the cover a picture of William Penn, and then the identifying label, and then a frying pan with grits, bacon, and fried eggs. But, the senators point out, open the package — and what do you find? Nothing but grits — no bacon, and no egg.

NOW NEVER mind that I for one would not welcome an old fried egg inside a package of grits, and would be incensed with the packager not at finding one in a package marked "grits," but at finding one. But what about William Penn? Open the package and there is not a trace of William Penn.

Big Board Resists Central Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The unveiling of Phase 4 economic controls drew more attention, but there was new jostling this past week in the effort to change the way Americans do their investing.

The New York Stock Exchange, biggest of the American stock markets, warned the days of such auction markets could be numbered under the central market system being prodded into existence by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The central market plan would break down barriers between the various stock exchanges and other securities markets, establish some form of nationwide ticker tape and in theory allow a broker to go freely to the best price, regardless of his membership or non-membership in a specific exchange.

"UNFAIR ADVANTAGE"

The NYSE, which is jockeying to hold a dominant position in the new central market, warned this might give dealers outside exchange memberships and over brokers paying to maintain exchange memberships and restricted by exchange rules. The result, it said, could be to draw both business and members off the exchange floors.

In exchanges, auction-type bidding establishes prices. Dealers outside exchanges can make their own markets and their prices can be higher or lower than auction prices, depending on the dealer's own decisions or needs.

The Big Board contended that a dealer-dominated market — by no means a certain result of central market plans — could drive small regional brokers out of business and reduce a flow of investor money sometimes channeled to fledgling industry stock issues too small or uncertain to be of interest to bigger commercial backers. That contention is also open to debate.

URNS DEAF EAR

The SEC this week turned down Big Board urgings that the central market's unified ticker not be started until uniform rules are worked out to reduce price differences among the various markets. The reporting system is set for a 20-week test later this year and could go into operation some time next year.

Hugh F. Owens, acting chairman of the SEC, said the agency wasn't aware of any legal basis for NYSE worries and "under no circumstances" expected to delay the project

The Week's Business

- Removing inter-market barriers dooms auction says NYSE
- SEC, however, refuses to delay its unified ticker plan
- NYSE claims regional brokers be driven out of business
- FTC charges eight major oil companies with trade restraint
- Prime rate hiked to tie all-time high; may go higher

WASHINGTON — The most interesting information about President Nixon having all his offices in the White House bugged was "voice activated" — that is to say, they automatically went on when someone started to talk.

Not all the conversations in the Oval Office had to do with the President and his visitors. I have in my possession a tape of two cleaning women who did not know the office was bugged. The time of the taping was 12:05 a.m.

(SOUND OF VACUUM CLEANER. VOICE SINGING: "Carry me back to ol' Virginia." VACUUM CLEANER STOPS.)

"Okay, Mathilde, it's my turn to be President of the United States."

"You were President last night, Clementine. It's my turn to be the President."

"I was off last night. Bethlyn must have been President last night. Now I'm going to sit in the big chair behind the desk. Who you want to be, Mathilde?"

Bugging Tape

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — The most interesting information about President Nixon having all his offices in the White House bugged was "voice activated" — that is to say, they automatically went on when someone started to talk.

Not all the conversations in the Oval Office had to do with the President and his visitors. I have in my possession a tape of two cleaning women who did not know the office was bugged. The time of the taping was 12:05 a.m.

Bigger Cattle

John Cuniff

By TOM SIEBERT
(Substituting for John Cuniff)

DENVER (AP) — Bigger cattle could mean more meat for America's consumers and the world markets, but the cattle industry isn't sure larger steers would be economical.

In fact some agricultural researchers say the long term solution may lie in the other direction: slaughtering lighter and younger steers if the animals could provide high quality meat.

ONE LARGER packer says freezing beef cuts in retail-size packages would help save money by allowing inventories to be built up. But he acknowledges housewives would rebel against a lack of fresh meat at the supermarket.

Cattle feeders say something is going to have to be done. They say they are caught in a squeeze by the federal ban on the growth stimulant DES, soaring feed prices and a dwindling amount of open range lands to grass-feed the young steers.

THE ANIMALS arriving at feedlots are smaller than ever and have to be kept on feed longer. The longer feed time, coupled with President Nixon's anti-inflation price controls, are shrinking profit margins and raising the threat of meat shortages, the cattle industry contends.

The push for the bigger cattle solution comes primarily from breeders, who have experimented with crossing some of the new "exotic" steers with their lighter English breed cousins. This produces a steer that matures at a heavier weight and can be slaughtered into a 800 to 900-pound carcass — about 200 pounds heavier than average.

Dr. L. S. Pope of Texas A&M University, who moderated the recent Great Western Beef Expo at Sterling, Colo., said objections that bigger cattle provide cuts that are too big for the retail market can be overcome by the butcher.

Kenneth W. Monfort, whose Greeley, Colo., feedlots turn out over 200,000 steers a year, says the industry recognizes the need to create more beef but is hampered by lack of heavy animals to put on feed.

"A YEAR ago we bought two thirds of the weight and added one-third," said Monfort. "Today we're buying 58 per cent and adding 42."

Types Of Arthritis

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Doctor: In the last year and a half I have had five or six cortisone injections for tendonitis in my right elbow. Being a pitcher on a baseball team, my arm bothers me when I pitch.

Are these injections harmful to my arm if taken every two weeks over a period of two or three months? If so, is there any other pain remedy that would be sufficient to ease the pain? My physician seems unable to supply sufficient information — R.R.

Small correction — It's "tendonitis," with an I after the D. Inflammation of a tendon. Doubtless the injections are hydrocortisone, but the harm would come not from the injections so much as from the lack of the rest of the treatment that is essential.

Inflamed tendons can be helped with cortisone, but they need rest and heat for proper healing. If you've been having this problem for a year and a half, I would have to suspect that nowhere along the line did you give that arm the rest it needed.

Yes, there are other medications that will lessen pain — aspirin and aspirin substitutes, phenylbutazone, etc. How much relief in anything as strenuous as pitching is problematical, though. Tendonitis can lapse into a chronic stage, requiring more radical treatment.

So my advice is not to take chances. If your doctor thinks it is safe for you to go on pitching, that's one thing. If he thinks you ought to rest that arm until it is properly recovered, then do it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any danger to the baby if the mother got a shot from the doctor to start her menstruation, without knowing that she was already a month or two pregnant? — Mrs. M.C.

It would depend on the "shot" that was used. Certain hormones can affect the fetus — some may cause masculinization of a female fetus.

Since a missed menstrual cycle is the first sign of pregnancy, before any kind of "shot" is given — hormones, vaccines or whatever — it should be determined whether the patient is pregnant.

STRANGE MIXTURE

Hitler: Champagne, Cyanide

Champagne and cyanide capsules marked the date of April 29, 1945 in Adolf Hitler's Fuehrerbunker beneath the city of Berlin. While the world crumbled above them, Hitler married Eva Braun, his long-time mistress, in a hastily performed wedding ceremony.

HITLER (SIR ALEC GUINNESS) ... relaxing with his mistress

"HITLER: The Last Ten Days" (PG) will hit the R-70 Theatre screen Wednesday. In the presence of Joseph Goebbels, the Fuehrer's Propaganda Minister, his wife, Magda, and Martin Bormann, the head of the Reichschancellery, Hitler married Fraulein Braun.

At the wedding celebration the members of Hitler's "inner circle" toasted the bride and groom with French champagne. The conversation soon turned from nuptial congratulations to talk of suicide since the Fuehrer's gifts to the members of the wedding party were little boxes containing cyanide capsules to be used at the time the Russians entered the city of Berlin.

The bizarre wedding party would be followed within twenty-four hours by the double suicide of Hitler and his bride. The Russian army was only a few hundred yards away when Hitler shot himself through the head and Eva bit down on a cyanide capsule. The others in the bunker, however, did not follow in their footsteps. Only Magda Goebbels died with her husband after they had supervised the murders of their five children who had been in the bunker with them.

"Hitler took the Goetterdammerung seriously," says Ennio de Concini, the director of "Hitler: The Last Ten Days," the Paramount Pictures release starring Sir Alec Guinness as Adolf Hitler. The film focuses on the final hours of the Third Reich as played out in the vacuum world of the Fuehrerbunker beneath Berlin. "Once he knew that the situation was hopeless, he was quite willing to have everybody die with him. Hitler felt the Germans had betrayed him, and they deserved to share his fate."

"I tried to read 'Mein Kampf,' but I couldn't get through it," confesses Sir Alec Guinness as he glances into the dressing table mirror to make sure his make-up for his role as Adolph Hitler is correct. From the plastered-down hairpiece that frames the actor's chameleon face to the tiny black mustache he grew for the assignment, to the ill-fitting military jacket and the Iron Cross and swastika, the illusion is uncannily right.

The physical mannerisms and idiosyncracies of the Fuehrer aside, how does Guinness intend to play the man in Paramount Pictures' "Hitler: The Last Ten Days?" The actor pauses before answering the question: "This is an anti-Hitler film, no doubt about that, but we have got to be very careful to balance it so that it doesn't become propaganda itself.

"Hitler was an evil man. He planned and condoned evil things, but he obviously had great charm, great charisma. No one can become a dictator without it. Mussolini had charm. Atilla the Hun probably had charm... I don't mean I am attempting to play Hitler with charm. But we've got to remember that some of these people loved him, right up to the end.

"Let's face it," Sir Alec continues. "Wicked or evil people are fundamentally more interesting dramatically than good ones." While Guinness' family and friends had some misgivings about the film assignment, worrying that it might depress him, the actor had discovered that rather than become depressed, he has become obsessed by the role. Portraying Hitler with accuracy is his decided approach and he has been reading up on his subject thoroughly, studying articles, looking at newsreels, listening to recordings.

"It's astonishing how many people don't remember what Hitler looked like," Guinness says incredulously. "When we photographed uniform tests in Hyde Park, with me made up and in uniform, not a soul turned around. But the taxi drivers know. I had one the other day who kept looking at me. When I got out, he went around the block and came back again. He stopped alongside of me and asked, 'You are an actor/ aren't you?' I reassured him, and he went on his way."

Hitler is not the first real-life character Guinness has portrayed in films. A couple of seasons ago he astonished audiences with his physical resemblance to Charles I. "It's a question of trying to feel like the person," he modestly explains.

ARISTOCATS and SONG OF THE SOUTH (G). James Baskett and Hattie McDaniel, first Black artists to receive Academy Awards, are teamed in Walt Disney's classic "Song of the South." Baskett plays Uncle Remus in the musical production, which combines live action with animated characters such as Brer Rabbit, Brer Fox and Brer Bear. Hattie McDaniel plays Sis Tempy, who presides over the plantation kitchen.

The late Maurice Chevalier, who had officially retired from show business, came out of retirement to record the theme song for "The Aristocats." Set in Paris, 1910, this is an original story about a kind, elderly ler realized his vision of world domination would not be.

Deep Purple Offering Belated Explanation

NEW YORK (AP) — An hour and a half rock and debris-throwing incident happened June 12 at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., after the rock group, Deep Purple, failed to appear and no explanation was given to a crowd of 12,000, a news story said at that time.

Four persons received minor injuries. Promoters said then they contacted Richard Blackmore, lead guitarist, and he declined to explain why the group didn't perform, the story went on.

On June 25, the group mailed out a statement. It said: "It became evident early in the day that because of electrical storms the outdoor concert might have to be canceled." Z. Z. Top went on for three songs when the group's manager felt that performing during an electrical storm outdoors might be dangerous.
