OILS FROM GRASSES

One of the "war baby" industries of Latin America is the production in Guatemala of the grass oils--citronella and lemongrass oils. The products are used in soap and perfumery, for scenting insecticides, and for other technical purposes. The grass oil growers pioneered in the decade before the war and found tough going, according to Graham S. Quate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, reporting to the Office of Foreign Agricultural Relations.

The decade of trade depression in the 30's made for small profits and discouragement. With competition reduced by war, prices were good, acreage was expanded, and the grass specialists have returned profits to improving both the growing and distilling branches. They hope to be able to continue as producers of these oils.

Citronella and lemongrass are related plants and the practices of production and the products are similar. In a warm climate and with good moisture-- either from rain or from irrigation -- these perennial grasses sprout promptly after harvest and are ready for cutting every 90 days, making the growing and distilling year round operations. After about three years (12 cuttings) a field deteriorates and needs a rest or the planting of a soil building crop. Growers keep down weed competition because weeds in the harvested grass would injure the quality of the distilled oil. The crop is cut by hand, allowed to wilt for a day, and is then hauled to the steam distilling plant for extraction of the oil.

MUMS AT ANY SEASON

The chrysanthemum is the football flower and the Thanksgiving standby because it is so regular in its fall blooming habits. But by taking advantage of this habit that is regular as a football schedule, the florist can offer chrysanthemums for St. Valentine's Day -- if customers favor the idea -- or for Christmas or New Year decorations.

More than many plants, the chrysanthemums of a given variety are regular in blooming at a given date, because the blooming habit is controlled by the length of day. When Drs. Garner and Allard of the U. S. Department of Agriculture were making their studies a generation ago of what is known as photoperiodism in plants, they soon identified the chrysanthemum as a plant that formed flower buds as the days shortened. By moving a chrysanthemum into a dark house each afternoon and so shortening the day artificially, they found they could force a plant to bloom weeks ahead of a sister plant left in natural sunshine. Florists were able to take advantage of this discovery and could force early blooming by covering a bench of chrysanthemums with a tent of dark cloth each day -- an artificial sunset.

Continuing similar studies, Neil W. Stuart of the Bureau of Plant Industry, Soils and Agricultural Engineering has found a way to get the opposite effect. He finds it is possible to delay the forming of buds in chrysanthemums by growing them in a greenhouse and breaking the long nights by exposing the plants to electric lighting. This then has the effects of two short nights instead of one long one, and budding is prevented or delayed. For simplicity and practical results an hour of light at midnight seemed most desirable in the early experiments. But similar delays in blooming followed short exposures several times during the night.

The timing experiments were interrupted by the war, but have been resumed. It will be necessary for florists to work out lighting schedules to suit early and late varieties of the flower. By moving potted flower into and from the midnight lighted greenhouse at successive dates and allowing the buds to form normally, it will be practical to keep different pots of a single variety blooming for two months or more of the winter. The same effect, a succession of bloom from a single variety, will be obtained if the plants are moved, but instead use of the lights is discontinued successively along the bench.

Lighting should be started before the buds have formed. Otherwise the quality and number of the flowers may be reduced. Use of lights in winter and dark cloth in summer will permit the florist to grow only the best varieties and have them in bloom throughout the year.

BUSIER TELEPHONES DELAY THE OPERATOR'S ANSWER

Lately you may have found your telephone operator's "Number, please?" delayed a few seconds. It is because the telephone system here is extra busy. Her voice will come on the line in just a few seconds, usually, if you will wait.

We are doing all we can to bring service back to prewar standards, but to help tide over this period of telephone shortages we have had to stretch the present telephone system—stretch it to serve more families.

This crowds the switchboard at times with more calls than can be handled quickly, especially in mid-morning and early evening. Only so many operators can be seated at the switchboards, so when calling is quite heavy, some telephones cannot be answered as quickly.

However, more people who would otherwise still be waiting now have service. Others will have telephones as soon as we can get switchboards in and working. It is not a short or easy job but we are glad to report it is getting on.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain
 Cardui, many women say, has brought relief from the cramp-like agony and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build up reserves for the "blimey" to come. Started 3 days before "your time", it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes. Try it!

Martin Resigns Hale County Post to Operate Farms

Petersburg, August 2.—C. B. Martin this afternoon bade farewell to the Hale county agent's office which he has occupied the past 10 years, half of the 20 years he has been with the extension service. His resignation became effective August 1.

Martin resigned his post to accept management of the Nannie farms, 7,000 acres of agriculture land in Swisher and Castro counties. His headquarters will be about 20 miles northwest of Plainview, a half mile off the Dimmitt highway.

The Nannie land, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Perry of Denver, Colorado, is all under cultivation and plans are to eventually have it all under irrigation, Martin said. There are now 11 irrigation wells on the land and about 2,500 acres watered. Tenant farms are to be developed to accommodate a large number of families.

Hale county Judge Ernest Tibbets said the commissioners court has taken no action on employing a county agent to succeed Martin. He said several prospects are available.

Martin is a graduate of Texas A. and M., of the class of 1916.

He taught vocational agriculture at Kress for three years and was county agent at Lamona, Dawson county, two years. He was county agent in Swisher county eight years before coming to Plainview.

The 10 years Martin has been Hale county agent have brought great improvement in agriculture in general and his efforts have been directed toward numerous advancements.

Dry Weather
Crops to Damage
Losses in Crosby

BYTON, August 2—Hot dry weather this week began to leave its mark on Crosby county's row crops. Crops soared to 102 degrees Sunday, dropped to 97 Monday, but were back to 97 Tuesday. Clouds formed this week until Wednesday, but no rain outside of a light shower has been reported. Crops are needing moisture farmers report, and unless it rains within a short time the crop will be short. Cotton is still good, but could use moisture. There is no underground moisture and crops can go only a few days without rain.

Fire Truck Offer

PETERSBURG, August 2—For some time the mayor and city commission has had a deal pending with the government for a surplus Army fire truck. An inspection of the truck was made by Commissioner Hoss Heard and Warren Embree about 10 days ago at Big Spring. They gave a favorable report on the condition of the truck and its equipment and city officials notified the Government Surplus Property department they would accept the truck at the price quoted, but so far have not received confirmation of the purchase, but perhaps will when the red tape has been reeled off.

The truck is not equipped as it should be equipped for a city fire department, but additional equipment can be added.

Sec. 3 The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Sec. 4 The sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of such publication and election.

NOTICE --- Water Users In City of Floydada

New Hours for Use of Water for Irrigation are

Mornings Before 8 o'clock
Evenings After 5 o'clock

Your Co-operation in conserving the water supply in the city has been very fine and the Council and Waterworks department appreciate your help a great deal and with your continued support we are announcing the new hours from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. instead of 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. when we ask that you do not use water for irrigation.

During the Emergency we want to keep our Trees, Shrubbery and Lawns in good condition. We can do this and still not jeopardize Commercial and Domestic supplies if the hours set are observed by most of the people.

Only a very few have not been co-operating and this, doubtless by many, through forgetfulness.

PLEASE NOTE THIS—In case of a Fire Alarm, be sure to cut off all running water on your premises to be certain that ample pressure is afforded for fire fighting equipment.

"Pay dirt" on the farm is soil that yields a profit after labor. You may have good soil; but if you work it to death without proper rotation and use of fertilizer, it won't be "pay dirt" for you. You may be a good farmer, favored by good weather all year; but if you use poor machinery and equipment and bad business management, the ledger page will show up in red. # Youth Activities Week in Church Begins Monday

(By Marjorie Oden)

"We have not begun to fight!" (and we don't intend to) so young folks, pick up your ears and learn where to have some real fun that is beneficiary to boot.

Maybe you have noticed a few rather peculiar things going on around Floydada these last few weeks, like maybe a red barrel that contains -- nobody knows what until they look in it. Or maybe you have seen some bright yellow stickers on cars (many about half scraped off) where some ambitious people tried to clear their rear car window) advertising "Youth Activity Week". Then lend an ear and see what the commotion is about.

August 12 through 16, the Methodist church, and different churches of the town are sponsoring a week of youth activity. We urge all young of the town who have had one year in high school or more, to attend.

All denominations have gone together to try to furnish five nights of entertainment and education to all who will but come.

It is to start at the Methodist church at six thirty, with the thing that is nearest to all our hearts --- Food! Every night they will serve a Fellowship supper. This is to be followed by a class period on boy and girl relationship, and one on alcohol. We are going to have several well known speakers for this feature. Then we will have vespers, followed by the regular evening feature, which will be movies, a play, and book-review, and other attractions.

Young folks everywhere, don't miss this golden opportunity, and be on hand to join us for five pleasant evenings.
