Give wildlife a chance. Choppers should not throw rocks at birds and rabbits. They also should give every protection possible to flowers, shrubs and trees.

Miss Beth Crawford, left, and Miss Nancy Meredith, right, will present their piano-organ recital Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

Recital Tuesday Evening Presents Two Music Majors

Mrs. Obmer Kirk will present Miss Beth Crawford and Miss Nancy Meredith in a piano-organ graduation recital Tuesday evening, May 21, at 8 o'clock at the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

Beth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Crawford of the Dougherty Community, and Nancy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Meredith, 717 West Mississippi St., have the distinction of being the first local graduates in Social Music. They both made a Superior rating in the recent National Auditions under Miss Aurora Ragan, New York teacher and concert pianist.

Each girl played, by memory, a 12-piece program including all the music phases which are: all scales, parallel and contrary motion, psalms and original and plagal cadences, arpeggios with all inversions. Theses included three extra keys besides original and a sight reading examination.

The public is cordially invited to attend this program.

Graduation time is a-drawin' near. The round of parties for sweet girl graduates, newspaper stories of outstanding seniors, commencement speakers, trips and jobs, remind us of the thousands of young Americans are finishing the first leg of the journey toward Grown-up-dom.

If we could slip back into the wings where caps and gowns are being put on, what would we find?

Well, even as in the past generations, we'd find a lot of just plain kids -- teasing pranksters, giggling girls, shy onlookers, arrogant bullies, popular personality youngsters, and all the rest.

But we'd find some with real dimensions, too. There are the boys and girls who reached out for mature responsibilities while still children. They have married; some of them are parents. There are those with what teachers call "a bright future," who have won scholarships to good colleges. Many others will get college training because their parents are sending them, with no particular ambition of their own.

There are others whose high school records show they deserve a chance for more education, but whose parents either cannot or for selfish reasons will not send them away to school.

Happy and carefree . . . serious and purposeful . . . lost and bewildered . . . the thousands who march down auditorium aisles this month toward flower-decked stages are entering a new world. And parents, watchful and worried, watch these lines of gray, blue, white, maroon or black flowing gowns and mortar boards until one certain one comes along.

Then their eyes become telescopic. They see 17 years of questions and planning and growth. Through loving eyes, they see yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Yes, for many, May of 1937 will be a month to remember!

Rev. and Mrs. James E. Giles stand in front of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board headquarters building in Richmond, Va. Rev. Giles is the grandson of Mrs. Lindsey Warren, 115 West Jeffie Street of this city (she is a brother of Mrs. Clifford Helms of the Lakeview Community. He is a nephew of Mrs. Clarence Foster and Miss Ruth Warren of Floydada.

Morrison was born near Gruver, Tex. She received the bachelor of arts degree from Hardin-Simmons University and the master of religious education degree from Southwestern Seminary.

She has taught in the public schools of Dalhart, Tex.; in the day school of First Baptist Church, Sherman; and as a substitute in Fort Worth. She has also been a Vacation Bible School worker for the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

Concerning her commitment to mission service, Mrs. Giles said that one morning as she was listening to the radio she heard some girls from Cuba tell about the work of missionaries there. "The Lord spoke to me," she said. "At this time I promised him I would serve him with my life."

During college days her interest in foreign missions grew stronger and after seeing a mission film and realizing the need of people in other lands she made public her decision to serve on a mission field.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles have two children: David Wayne, 20 months, and Karen Ruth, two months.

They are among 14 young people appointed for overseas service at the May meeting of the Board, bringing the total number of active Southern Baptist foreign missionaries to 1,154.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Whitaker of Smyer, Miss Peggy McKinney of Plainview and Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Snell and children of Lubbock were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McKinney on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Snell visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Snell and other relatives while in Floydada.

THE FLOYD COUNTY HESPERIAN

Published by the Hesperian Publishing Co. Inc. at 212 South Main St., Floydada, Texas. HOMER STEEN, Editor. THURSDAY, MAY 18, 1957

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION Member 1957

Established 1896 by Entered as second class post office at Floydada, Texas April 10, 1907. Registered with the Post Office at Floydada, Texas as Second Class Matter, March 10, 1954. Post Office No. 107. Postmaster: Daniel J. Steen.

VIEWES AND COMMENT

Their declared war against the State Democratic Committee will be furthered this week-end by the convention of Democrats of Texas. These Democrats have organized county by county, precinct by precinct, to do battle at the behest of the organizers who say they are loyal to the National Democratic Committee but are unwilling to accept the leadership of the presently-organized state committee. Soon they anticipate theirs will be the acknowledged leaders of the state organization. They say they are out to bring integrity to the state organization, to sponsor legislation guaranteeing democratic and legal conventions, and require all party officers to support the nominees of the party or forfeit their jobs. Plain Democrats, who take their conventions like their elections, winner take all, will watch the new development with tongue in cheek. They are not sure some of their neighbors are not being used as catspaws. Time will tell.

Could Happen Here. An understanding should be reached and a policy adopted relative to answering fire calls by fire departments in Floyd County outside the municipal limits. It is only common sense and neighborliness for a fire department to answer calls of distress from an adjoining community, and nothing has been thought of it for years. However a recent incident in which some lives were lost and other persons were injured, raised the question of responsibility. The municipality involved now has a problem of doing the right thing for surviving families of firemen. Protective insurance apparently did not cover outside of city limits. In some counties agreements are being reached by city and county authorities. It can be readily seen that city authorities should be concerned. A man in a neighboring community whose house is afire wants help and a flat "no" sounds pretty cruel to him. On the other hand if the city sends help out and somebody gets maimed or killed either at the fire or enroute somebody is responsible and it may be the mayor and the councilmen.

Them Awful Mistakes. Nobody who writes at his leisure does as good a job as he does when he has a deadline that he has to make. But sometimes we wish we'd have a day 11 hours long instead of eight to get the job done. A newspaper man spends or should about half of his time writing, the other half checking on what he has done. It is usually when you don't check that the errors creep in. Next day the mis-statements and errors in news handling begin to come back by telephone and by word of mouth, even by letter to plague the red-faced newsman.

Next Monday is the extended deadline for a farmer who has put wheat land into the Soil Bank to have all his wheat and volunteer crop plowed up, if he has requested the extension time. The big rains in the southwest occasioned the extension of time in the first place. Rules are made to be broken and the weather in the plains country is a good one to break anybody's rule. You can't put your finger on the weather in this man's part of the domain.

Cotton raisers ought to take out more of their money to use for research than they do. We note that the National Cotton Council, which we have taken for granted as an all-cotton industry organization, is viewed as a bunch of fakers by some cotton raisers. Those who do so view ought to find somebody that will do research in growing, manufacturing and marketing that they can back and back them. The cotton people have got to spend more of their time and money on promoting and research for their product. Growers spend a dime per bale now. It will cost 50 cents or a dollar and be money well spent, counting the kind of times we are in and the back to the wall fight American cotton is making for a place in the world's markets.

Stimulate the Sales of cotton. That is the slogan and intent for all of next week. Plains husbands need to do one of two things: (1) Work up materials that will make their women folk anxious to have cotton in their wardrobes, or (2) give their women folks a talking to. The former is next to impossible, the latter is inadvisable. Practically all the incomes hereabouts are based on cotton, but the people seem to think it is made to sell so something that is better liked can be bought.

Man-made fabrics, at first experimental, now have attained the point in production know-how which gives them the whip-hand over cotton. Note that as cotton goes down the competing fabrics also drop a bit in price, just enough to be quoted lower. Cotton production costs must be cut some more somewhere between the field and the retailers counter. A more uniform staple, with fewer leaves, stems and spots might be part of the solution. "They say" that a bale of cotton is processed six times after it reaches the mill before it goes to the spindle, whereas the other fabrics are processed only once.

Alas! Many a child is spoiled because you can't spank two grandmothers. —Star, Elberton, Ga.

Saul Declares Texas New REA Law All Right

AUSTIN — West Texas Legislator Leroy Saul revealed his satisfaction over the final passage of House Bill 547, commonly known as the REA bill. The House bill, Saul explained, permits the REA to keep and maintain their customers in annexed areas of cities and legalizes other areas of operations.

Representative Saul of Kress was chairman of the sub-committee which wrote and pushed the measure out of State Affairs Committee and through the House of Representatives. Saul had refused to include suggested provisions that the REA be limited to ten years in their rights to remain in annexed areas. The bill as recommended by the sub-committee and finally passed, allows the REA to remain in any annexed area in which they are now operating forever.

The West Texas Legislator declared, "In my opinion the Senate used great wisdom in passing the House version of the REA bill. I sincerely believe that if the Senate had placed one amendment on the House bill, which would have forced it into a conference committee, the measure would have died there and there would have been no REA bill. I am proud that there was not one single amendment or change in the bill my sub-committee wrote from the time we recommended it to the State Affairs Committee in the House until it reached the Governor's desk."

Saul stated that an article in the April issue of TEXAS CO-OP, official publication of the REA Co-operatives, demanded that the REA be legally authorized to do the following:

1. Serve the farm of a man who lives in town.
2. Serve an oil well pump in the country for an oil company whose principal office is in the city.
3. Continue to serve a house in an area annexed to a city after the owner sells it to a person who was not previously a co-op member.

Accomplishments Cited PTA Officers Take Over

Publicity, Mrs. Malcolm McNeil; Room Mothers, Mrs. John Stapleton; Little Theatre (Talent Hour), Mrs. Billy Brown.

These chairmen with the officers make up the executive card. The responsibility to youth, was as of this date, handed over to this new group, who have already surveyed the present opportunities that Andrews Ward School, offers our youth, and who have compiled written reports of the further supply and equipment needs of our school.

It is pleasing to us that the board and superintendent desire to carefully consider these reports and to give our organization the opportunity to discuss with them ways and means that we may help the school fulfill these needs.

We are proud of our Andrews Ward School, and the fine progress it has made under the present administration. We have confidence in the integrity of the board and respect for its decisions. We wish to pledge to this school board and superintendent our whole-hearted co-operation in furthering opportunities for every youth.

Our survey, done by more than 50 parents, has revealed the following good and substantial accomplishments:

1. A building, which with some repair, is safe and spacious enough to accommodate a growing enrollment. (We have 5 vacant rooms.)
2. A large playground, which with some improvement, offers all that could be asked for — for outside play.

The Press Battles for its Freedom

JOHN PETER ZENGER was arrested for printing and publishing several seditious libels dispersed throughout his journals or newspapers.

Zenger was a New York printer in the days when Governor Cosby ruled the colony. Governor Cosby ruled in such an autocratic, overbearing manner that several indignant citizens started a newspaper to arouse the public against his tyranny. Zenger undertook to publish the newspaper.

Zenger was thrown into prison, and his bail was fixed at 800 pounds, a large sum for those days and quite beyond his ability to furnish. He stayed in jail for months, and his situation appeared hopeless.

The case finally was called to the attention of Andrew Hamilton, a distinguished Pennsylvania lawyer, who took up Zenger's case as a public service. Hamilton forced the case to trial, and his speech to the jury, which led to Zenger's acquittal, is a ringing statement of what the press in America must still vigilantly fight for.

All men have the right, Hamilton maintained, "publicly to retrace the abuses of power... and to assert with courage the sense they have of the blessing of liberty... and their resolution at all hazards to preserve it."

Today in our country encroachments by governments and private interests alike upon freedom of the press are counter to law. Nevertheless, even today the press must battle constantly to keep that freedom intact.

Floyd County 14 Years Ago

(Taken from the files of the Hesperian, issue dated May 20, 1943.)

Weather conditions for planting and for growing crops already in the ground unfavorable during practically the entire week, have been ideal for the development of the small grain crops, farmers and dealers report this week.

Showers and overcast skies have kept plows and planters out of the field for the 10 days following last week's heavy rains and in some fields another two or three days of sunshine are needed before row crop farming operations can be resumed. A thunder shower Wednesday morning had considerable hail in it to damage crops to some extent across the central portion of the county.

Come Friday a week and the pioneers of Floyd County will have their day. It marks the fifty-third anniversary of Floyd County and has been observed as a day of get-together by the early-day settlers for many years. The date is May 28 and Ervin Bennett is president of the association for this year.

Tomorrow night at 8:45 o'clock, 78 graduates will receive their diplomas at Floydada High School. Those named honor students, with highest scholastic rating, based on two year averages are La Juana Leibfried, James Robertson and Mary Helen Mickey. Eight grade commencement programs will be held this evening at 8:45 o'clock at the Andrews Ward School with 38 students receiving diplomas.

Mrs. J. O. Warren was hostess at a party Saturday afternoon honoring her daughter, Darlynn, on her eighth birthday. Various games were played and delightful refreshments were served to Norma Britton, Jo Clark, Del Jansine Graves, Margaret Lovell, Judy Moss, Alice Latta, Carolyn McDonald, Louise Parrish, Fern Patterson, Harold Snell, James Stanley, Beverly Thomas and Ann Welborn.

A birthday party in honor of her daughter, Vanda Dale, was given Monday afternoon by Mrs. Ernest Carter at her home on West Mississippi street. The occasion was the daughter's fourth birthday.

Due to recent changes in Selective Service regulations, it is necessary that the Local Board reclassify a large percent of registrants who have been in deferred classes since their original registration, and the following explanation is made with the intention of clarifying the different classification cards that are being mailed as rapidly as the Board clerk can get through the files.

Reports from the early alfalfa cuttings indicate that the first crop is not a tall one but that it is well-leaved and of good quality. Several farms in the irrigation area cut before the rains and most of them saved the crop. Others will begin their first cutting this year, or as soon as the ground dries sufficiently. Much or most of this first crop is being sold in bulk.

Seaman Sanford Shaw, third class gunner, will return to the West Coast this week to resume his duties following a furlough visit at Dumas with his wife and at Floydada with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw. His wife accompanied him to Floydada.

Mrs. Ernest Kendrick resigned as 4-H leader and a new leader is to be appointed.

Mrs. Harriette Brunnett, county home demonstration agent, gave a demonstration of "Planning the Wardrobe."

The next meeting will be Friday, May 17, at the kitchen with Mrs. W. H. Bethel as hostess. A demonstration on making a "Buddy Burner" will be given.

Those present for the meeting were Mesdames W. H. Bethel, C. W. Denison, W. C. Sims, S. J. Latta, Ernest Kendrick, J. J. McKinney, W. H. Hilton, Will Snell, W. O. Tye, Roy Curry and Mrs. Ethel Sawyer.

"They mean a little more," Russell says, "when you get them from the commander of the unit."

He didn't come by them all that way, but his European Theater of Operations patch he claims was handed him in 1947 by General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Mother Has Fallen Asleep

Mother was tired and weary,
Weary with toil and with pain;
Put by her glasses and rocker,
She will not need them again.
Into Heaven's mansions she's entered,
Never to sigh or to weep.
After long years with life's struggles,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Rest the tired feet now forever,
Dear wrinkled hands are so still;
Blast of the earth shall no longer
Throw o'er our loved one a chill.
Angels through Heaven will guide her,
Jesus will still bless and keep;
Not for the world would we wake her,
Mother has fallen asleep.

Beautiful rest for the weary,
Well deserved rest for the true;
When our life's journey is ended
We shall again be with you.
This helps to quiet our weeping,
Hark! Angel music so sweet!
He giveth to His beloved
Beautiful, beautiful sleep.

"They had finished her crown in glory, and she couldn't stay away from the coronation."

Mrs. Katherine Laminack was our son-in-law's mother. Lying down for a few minutes, she said to her faithful husband, "Why, I can't see through my glasses," and she was gone from this world.

A life of good living, work in her home, in her neighborhood, in her beloved Methodist Church, always going about doing her Master's bidding, holding her light clear and shining that others might see the way in the darkness of the world. Love shone from her eyes. Love for her family and her many friends. We loved her. Loved the straightforwardness of her talk. She made a good wife. Living to celebrate her Golden Wedding and some five more years of living together. When I think of her I recall the words of

Renner Field Day Tour Is Scheduled

RENNER, Texas — Invitation to the annual Field Day and award dinner at the Texas Research Foundation have been received by a large number of citizens in the High Plains Area. The tours of the 850 acre research farm and the laboratories start at 1:00 P. M., Wednesday, May 22.

Renner is located on the north city limits of Dallas. The highlight of the evening program will be the presentation of an award of $5,000 and medal to the farmer who has contributed the most to the advancement of Texas Rural Life during the past three years.

Information received at the High Plains Station office at Halfway indicated several communities from this area will be represented by a number of farmers and business men. Field days at the High Plains Station will be scheduled in the fall.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

County Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors are encouraging the use of Blue Panic grass on land that has been put in the conservation reserve. This grass has its advantages for this purpose because it is easy to plant and get a stand, grows fairly fast, drought resistant and a good soil conditioner.

Blue panic is a warm season Perennial bunch grass that was introduced to the United States by way of India and Australia.

It grows in large dense tufts. It has a bluish-green color and grows to height of four inches and above. The plant has a short, bulbous rhizome or rootstock that enables it to live through droughts. Blue panic is often described as a "perennial Sudan grass". It will however furnish grazing two to six weeks earlier in the spring and later in the fall than Sudan. The plant grows throughout the warm season of the year as long as moisture and plant food are available.

Blue panic is adapted to the soils of the South Plains. Soils range from fine sandy loams to clays. Like other crops, blue panic does best on naturally fertile or well fertilized soils.

Blue panic is primarily used as a cultivated grazing crop. It is not a range plant and is not suitable for over-seedings among native range grasses. It should be sown in rows and the land maintained in a soil soulder in cropping systems. It is a good hay plant and a fair silage crop when cut at the proper stage of growth.

Seeding time for blue panic is in the spring after danger of frost is past. Young plants are easily killed by cold, and a hard frost kills established plants back to the ground.

Seedbeds for blue panic should be prepared very carefully. The seed, smaller than turnip seed, require a clean, firm seedbed. The land should be prepared for enough in advance to seeding to allow it to settle. Seed should always be in rows—never broadcast or close-dribbled such plantings have not been satisfactory.

Rate of seeding to provide enough plants for a good stand is one pound of good quality seed per acre. Seed should be covered not more than 1/2 inch deep and soil firmed over the seed with a packer-wheel or roller.

Fertilizer will be needed in some areas for rapid establishment. A soil test is the best means of determining the type and amount of fertilizer needed.

Grazing management of blue panic is about the same as for Sudan grass. Rotation grazing of small blocks with relatively large numbers of animals is necessary to get good utilization in forage produced during the peak growing season. This system of grazing calls for cross fencing. Blocks not needed for grazing should be used for hay or silage. The plants should be well established before grazing starts and they should not be grazed shorter than 6 to 10 inches. Grazing could begin by the time established plants have 18 inches of growth and should not be delayed past boot stage.

Cultivation will be necessary to control weeds and volunteer seedlings.

If hay or silage is made from blue panic it should be cut in the soft dough stage or earlier for ensilage.

Seed harvest runs from 75-200 pounds seed per acre from dryland stands. Seed may be combined direct from standing plants, if the growth is not too high.

The cutter bar would need to be set high or a heading attachment used. A row binder can be used but much seed is lost by shattering. Cleaning the seed too well should not be attempted when combining. After the seed have been dried, they may be cleaned with a seed cleaner.

For further information regarding the seeding and care of this grass contact the local SCS office, located at Floydada.

Good carbon paper goes further the seeding and care of this grass. Try Sure-Rite.
