Terrell County Oil Activities

Vast interest is being shown in this county toward the path of oil development. Geologists of three major companies and several independents are now working in the county. Mr. Goldberg here from Hollywood, Calif., following after the interest of the Peck Pecos Trust's Hamilton No. 1 well and reports they have resumed operations and states that the well will be put down to sufficient depth to test the area in which they are drilling. Mrs. Jessie McPhee of Los Angeles, Calif., was here last week attending to her interest in the Sam Bell No. 1 well, and it is reported that she is resuming developments. It is reported that the Woodley Jones well is also resuming operations. W. J. Banner's test on the Pecos river bed is reported progressing. Transcontinental's Goode No. 1 well reported still drilling in the big time, and production is contemplated. Big Bend Oil Corporation's Bassett No. 1 is reported drilling in a very favorable formation, exact depth not obtainable. G. E. Cornelius arrived from the east last week and spent some time on the Stansell and Jones ranch inspecting various caverns along the north boundary of said ranch and various outcroppings over the ranch in general. Pyatt brothers from the state of Louisiana were visitors on this ranch last Sunday a week ago and investigated three different sink holes, and carried away a huge amount of samples of various descriptions. Two different geologists of major companies have been seen this week doing detail work on the Stansell and Jones ranch, and seemed particular about getting around on said ranch in order to avoid meeting or discussing with anyone. Mr. Stansell still contemplates continuing his development work in this ranch toward the path of mining and prospecting for oil, and is very optimistic about finding either asphalt or oil at a very shallow depth in paying quantities as a condition seems to exist on his ranch similar to a condition in the Southwestern portion of Val Verde county where asphalt is found between the Eagle Ford and Edwards limestone. At one certain place on the Stansell ranch Mr. Cornelius has discovered a small seepage of oil coming out of a non-conformity between the Georgetown and Edwards limestone. Mr. Stansell is also very optimistic about finding silver and gold along with other minerals in his No. 2 test, which seems similar to a condition existing around the mines at Shafter, Texas. Up to date, Mr. Stansell has been able to obtain definite information from the School of Mines relating to the various samples submitted. Mr. Cornelius seems to agree with a mineralogist that some of the cuttings or samples from Stansell's No. 2 well contains a showing of quick-silver in addition to other minerals. A prominent prospector has recently visited the district and sees the gypsum beds alone on Stansell ranch are worth looking from a paying proposition, and is also of the opinion silver and gold, quicksilver, lead, and polonium can be produced in paying quantities when the ore of the calcite and resins are properly developed.

To The Citizens Of Terrell County

At the request of my many friends I am offering myself as candidate for sheriff and Tax Collector of Terrell County. I wish to say that my platform will be one of law enforcement. I have had twelve years of experience as an officer, and will say that the duties of the sheriff's office will not be new to me. It is well known to most citizens that only a short time ago at the request of my friends I accepted the appointment to the office of sheriff and tax collector of Terrell county, after the resignation of my friend W. J. Banner. At that time as most people know and as was announced in the paper, the office paid very little as practically all taxes had been paid. It seems that owing to this fact that no one else cared for the appointment for I was the only applicant. Since I was appointed to the office I have done my very best to enforce the laws in a reasonable and sensible manner, and in a way that would meet with the approval of the good citizens. And if elected at the next election will assure the citizens of Terrell county to do my very best to enforce the law to their entire satisfaction; keeping at heart at all times the interest of our county and community. It has been rumored that I may have opposition, this is more or less to be expected since there are a few, and I am proud to say a very few in our county who do not like to have the laws enforced. To those I would say they would best have some one else, for since I have sworn to uphold the law I will surely do all in my power to do so. Some complain of some certain laws, an infraction of which should be overlooked. To those I would say I am not responsible for the laws enacted by our legislature, nor by our congress. And whether we like a law or not it is our duty as citizens to respect and obey them. I might also add that the laws of the land must be respected and obeyed, for if local officers tolerate lawlessness, sooner or later outside interference may be expected. So let us all pull together for the upbuilding and betterment of our county and community. I earnestly solicit your vote, support and good will. Sincerely, Lee A. Cook.

LaCrosse Asks For Re-Election

In our announcement column this week you will find the name of Julian LaCrosse who is announcing for re-election as district attorney. Mr. LaCrosse was elected district attorney six years ago in a spirited contest, and was re-elected in 1926 and 1928 without opposition. Being a young married man of marked energy he has devoted his time and attention to the office since elected, and promises the voters to continue to do so if returned to office in the Democratic primaries this summer and the general election in the fall. Mr. LaCrosse was elected district clerk in 1914 and re-elected two years later, holding the office four years. In 1918 he was elected county attorney. He had no opposition in these three campaigns. Julian LaCrosse is a young man of good habits and clean morals. He is married and is the father of two children, Jimmie, five years old, and Nanny Lou, three years old. If returned to office again he promises to devote his time and attention to the office of district attorney, trying to the best of his ability to see that both the State and all defendants are given fair treatment in all matters that pass through the district attorney's office. The Times feels that the voters will be making no mistake should they choose him in the coming election, if only on the merits of this office which he has and is now filling.

Successful School Term Just Closed

Today completes what has been termed by some people a successful school year. After viewing the work that has been accomplished, there are a few things which stand out as important elements of the school's program, important because they welded a uniting influence over the three factors of school life—the child, the parent, and the teacher. One of the steps taken in the fall toward an indissoluble school, built to withstand the buffeting of criticisms, was the organization of a Faculty Club, which held regular monthly meetings of a professional and social nature. Studies of the newest trends in educational practices were discussed and analyzed. The health drive organized under the leadership of Miss Nancy Pettus, University of Texas, Austin, heightened the morals of the school and has been one of the vital points of contact between the parent, child and teacher. In November the Sanderson teachers reported a 100 per cent membership in the Texas State Teachers Association, which is one of the indications of a first-class school. American Education Week in November was observed by daily programs in the high school auditorium, and already plans are being made for American Educational week programs this fall. The Parent-Teachers Association co-operated with the librarian, Miss Ophelia Spradling, in buying new books for the library. The P. T. A. spent $100.00 for books this spring. Another feature of unusual interest to the community was the debate tour, which was made possible by the enthusiasm of some of the foremost citizens. The erection of the new high school building will make a successful finish for the school program undertaken this year. It is the realization of the aims of the public school administrators for several years.

Margaret Lattimore, who had a scholastic average of 94 plus for this year, was awarded the ten-dollar gold piece given by Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell last night at the commencement exercises in the high school auditorium. Margaret is a member of this year's graduating class. She came here from the Menard schools, and has made a name for herself in Sanderson high school literary circles. Margaret was also awarded a scholarship to the state university of college of her choice for being the senior girl with the highest scholastic average for this year in the graduating class. Elmer Haass won a similar scholarship for the senior boys. His average was 90 plus. Elmer has done all of his high school work in the Sanderson school, and has ranked in the upper ten per cent the entire four years. He is now making his plans to attend A. & M. College, Bryan, Texas, next year. The following students were awarded perfect attendance certificates at the commencement exercises last night: Louis Woodward, Elizabeth Brown, Amanda Haass, Howard Black, Bertha Mae O'Bryant, Robert Kerr, Bernard Kerr, Tom Stovell, Junior Lemons, Maurice Griffith, Lillian Halley, Lorene Haass, Austella Stirman, Jim Stovell, Felipe Escamilla, Guillermo Rodriguez, Ellen Appell, Bays Robertson, J. R. Black, Beatrice Nichols, Marybelle O'Bryant, Elmer Haass, Eugene Bander, Russell MacMillan

McFarland Seeks District Office

In this week's issue of the Sanderson Times will be seen the announcement of Van Haile McFarland, Eagle Pass attorney, who is in the race for district attorney subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. Attorney McFarland has had six years of experience in the law profession. He practiced one year at Houston, one year at San Antonio, two years in Asherton and two years in Eagle Pass, his home town. He has an L.L.B. degree from the University of Texas, having been graduated from that institution in 1924. Mr. McFarland is the son of Dr. and Mrs. McFarland of Eagle Pass where he was born in 1901 and where he was also a graduate from the Eagle Pass high school in 1919. The support of the voters of this district will be appreciated. Before the primaries in July, Mr. McFarland will announce his platform. The writer is not acquainted with Mr. McFarland, but feel that he will make a good race in the coming election owing to the fact that on our desk this week we have several interesting notes relating to his ability and interest, which he will most surely use provided he is successful in the July primaries.

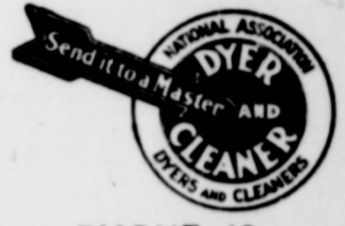

"Show Boat" At Princess Theatre

Manager Mrs. White of the Princess Theatre announces that "Show Boat," the super of the famous Edna Ferber novel, is coming to the screen of that theatre, Mar. 19th. This should be interesting news for theatre goers here, as "Show Boat" is reported to be one of the most entertaining films ever made. It is a Universal production, sponsored by Carl Laemmle, and directed by Harry Pollard, with Laura LaPlante and Joseph Schildkraut in the leading roles. Such favorites as Otis Harlan, Emily Fitzroy and Alma Rubens are featured in the strong cast. Much of the action and gripping drama of this production takes place on a real Mississippi River Show Boat, constructed especially for the picture. The romance and young love amidst these bizarre surroundings make one of the most touching sweetheart stories ever filmed. In this week's issue of The Times you will find the list of lands and lots delinquent for the year of 1929 in full for Terrell county.

Society

Bridge Party.

The Tuesday afternoon bridge club met at the home of Mrs. Jim Nance. Three tables of bridge were enjoyed.

Refreshments consisted of a delicious salad course, at which time prizes were presented to Mesdames Bozart Brown, P. Dishman and B. Davis.

Saturday Night Club

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Daggett entertained the Saturday night bridge club at their home Saturday night of last week. Four tables of bridge were royally entertained. R. S. Wilkinson won high score for the gentlemen and Mrs. W. H. Savage high score for the ladies.

Refreshments were served consisting of chicken salad, olives, crackers, lemon pie and coffee.

Travel Bridge Party

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Fletcher entertained a few of their friends with a travel bridge party Monday night, using novel score pads representing airplane, bus, and train. Highest plus scores were awarded Mrs. P. J. Holman and Frank Robertson; lowest plus score to Herbert Buchanan. A delicious ice course was served to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Barksdale, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Holman, Mr. and Mrs. F. Younger, and Mrs. Jack Reinke.

Cactus Bridge Club

The Cactus Bridge Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Carlton White, May 7th, at her home. After the usual number of games were played, prizes were awarded to Miss Novice White, first, and Miss Myrtle Harrell second. Delicious strawberry pie with whipped cream was served to the following: Mesdames Bodkin, Fletcher, Robertson, Buchanan, Mason, Harrell, Sterrett, Henshaw, Reinke, Stansell; Misses Myrtle Harrell and Novice White.

Surprise Shower

The teachers of the primary department of the Baptist Church honored Miss Ophelia Spradling with a surprise bridal shower at the home of Mrs. O. H. McAdams at 8:00 o'clock last Tuesday evening.

After the guests assembled, they were entertained with a piano duet by Miss Myrtle Harrell and Bess McAdams. Miss Harrell played Lohrengin's wedding march while Laverne Halley and Troy Druse dressed as bride and groom entered and presented Miss Spradling with a wagon load of gifts.

Mrs. McAdams was assisted by Mrs. E. P. Halley in serving refreshments of marshmallow pudding, angel food cake, and punch to about fifty guests.

Class Party

Billy Ferguson Jr. was host to the seventh grade when the class gave a farewell party in honor of Russell MacMillan at 8 o'clock Tuesday night at the W. J. Ferguson home.

Six tables of bunco were arranged on the porch. Floriene Thompson won high score for the girls and Bays Robertson won high score for the boys. They were awarded boxes of games as first prizes.

Mary Arrington, president of the class, presented Russell with a shower of gifts from his classmates, and she expressed their sentiment when she said that they regretted losing one of their grammar school friends. R. E. Griffith then presented Miss Gladine Bowers, sponsor of the seventh grade, with a class gift.

Refreshments of home-made strawberry ice cream and vanilla wafers were served the twenty-two students of the seventh grade; Mesdames J. A. MacMillan, T. R. Arrington, and Kate Harrell, who assisted with the party.

Interesting Program.

The ladies of the Sanderson Culture Club, with the aid of Mr. Morgan and his assistants of the Mexican school, put on a very interesting program at C. A. C. Hall, Tuesday night.

A splendid paper on Americanization was given by Mrs. H. L. Stuckey, which was translated into Spanish by Ramon Sepeda. The program of songs and readings by the children of the Mexican school was greatly enjoyed by the club members and their families and by the families of the children participating. The program proved the great good that the Mexican school is doing to Americanize the foreign born of our little city.

Mellon Knows How
He Might Kill Some One
Wanted, More U. S. Prisons
59 Dead, 58 Unknown

In one day, in this prosperous country, there was a "turn over" of one billion eight hundred million dollars in tax payments and treasury financing alone. Not a ripple on the surface of the financial waters.

Interest rates didn't go up. "Call money," the kind used for Wall Street speculation, remained at 4 1/2 per cent, with unorganized lenders "on the outside" offering to lend at 4 per cent.

Secretary Mellon knows how to handle big finance smoothly. To him a billion dollars is only a billion dollars. Perhaps that's because he has a billion or so of his own.

A mother with a baby handles other babies easily.

Carnera, the Italian giant, weighing 260 pounds, six feet ten inches tall, is forbidden to box again in England. They like the good natured Italian, but are afraid he might kill some man in the ring, and hurt the "noble sport."

What an advertisement that will be for the Italian prize fighting giant when he arrives in America.

Here, if you knock a man down on the sidewalk, with no gate receipts, that's a crime.

If you knock a man down and even kill him in the prize ring, with big gate receipts, and a rakeoff for the right politicians, that's "sport," and perfectly legal.

Mr. Mitchell, President Hoover's Democratic attorney-general, wants $7,000,000 to build new prisons for the United States. He says the problem of prisons is the major one before the Department of Justice.

In Great Britain they are closing prisons, renting prison buildings for other purposes, because crime is diminishing.

At Linares, Spain, a woman dreamed that a lottery ticket with a certain number would win the grand $2,100,000 prize in the forthcoming lottery.

In Spain the people are encouraged to buy lottery tickets, as they once were in this country. People don't like to pay taxes, but are willing to contribute to the state by gambling.

After the lady dreamed, the crowd broke in and wrecked the store of the man that owned the ticket, and police rescued him.

ACCEPTS POSITION

Niss Anna Lena Wirz, teacher of English in the Sanderson high school, has accepted a position as part-time instructor of freshman English in the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, Texas, for next year.

The board of regents of the college of industrial arts created fellowship for post-graduate work, and Dr. L.M. Ellison, head of the english department of C. I. A., was instructed by Dr. L. H. Hubbard, president of the college, to offer the english fellowship to Miss Wirz.

Miss Wirz will have two classes in freshman English, and in addition, will do work on her master's degree. She received her B. A. Degree from C. I. A. last June and her B. S. degree in August. She majored in English at college, and was one of the honor graduates. Miss Wirz acted as student assistant in the english department while she was in C. I. A.

During her stay here Miss Wirz taught all of the high school english, seventh grade english, and one journalism class. She was responsible for the entrance of The Eagle News into the Texas high school press association and the quill and scroll, a national honor literary society.

"The Ideal English Room", a paper completed by Miss Wirz this spring, was published in the May issue of the English Section Journal, a magazine which is edited in Dallas.

Mothers Day Program

A very interesting Mothers Day program was given at the Methodist church Sunday Morning Program as follows:

Violin solo, "Minuet In G" Henry Goldwire.

Origin of Mother's Day.. Mrs. H. L. Stuckey.

Song, "My Mother", Choir

Reading, "Nobody Knows But Mother", Sevell Lee Sharp.

Song "Mother Machree", Miss Noble.

Reading, "My Mother's Songs" Rosa Lee Harper.

Talk, "Mother" Rev. J. A. MacMillan.

Song, "My Mother's Bible" Choir.

Benediction, Prof. B. J. Brannan.

The Methodist ladies met at the church Tuesday afternoon, May, 13th, for Bible study. They studied the sixteenth chapter of acts. There were about twelve ladies present and they report a nice meeting.

We hope to be able to give the correct figures in our next weeks issue of the census, which are now about finished in Terrell County.

Womans Auxiliary

Circle No. 1 of the Womans Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church met Monday afternoon May 12th. at the home of Mrs. N. E. Charlton. Devotional, "Forward" was given by Mrs. H. R. Laurence. A short business session was held, the members answering roll call with a Bible verse. Mrs. Lochausen read an interesting article on "Our Auxiliary Heritage".

A social hour was greatly enjoyed after which was served ice cream and cake to about 12 members.

Mrs. B. F. Dawson was a Dry-don visitor Wednesday.

If you have read any of the South Seas stories by Beatrice Grimshaw you know how wonderfully thrilling and thoroughly worth while they are. And you can also appreciate the fact that her novels have practically "cornered" the literature of that fascinating district. You will find "Black Sheep's Gold" quite up to the Grimshaw high standard in romance, color, and adventurous incidents.

Men have gone down to the South Seas, stayed a few months or a year or two and have come back and written novels of varying degrees of accuracy; mostly romantic, glamorous and colorful tales which have captured public interest. Not one of them has the authenticity of the novels of Beatrice Grimshaw. All of the other South Seas writers combined have not equaled her output of stories, neither have they attained to anything like her huge audience in Europe, America and other parts of the world.

During nearly a quarter of a century she has lived in that romantic district and has written its novels for about the same length of time. She has sailed the sapphire and turquoise-tinted waters and visited the spice-scented, tropic-laden, coral-built atolls and islands from Papua to the limits of Polynesia and groups farther eastward. She knows not only the various types of natives that have been attracted from other parts of the world, and she has first-hand knowledge of the physical attributes and the flora and fauna of that fascinating section of the globe.

Beatrice Grimshaw is an authority on the South Seas. She draws with a sure hand whether she be depicting world vagabonds and beach-combers, natives, traders, sailors, gold hunters, explorers, government officials or adventurers of type. Above all she draws the country, with its waters, its mountains, its verdure and its detached mystical characteristics. And with it all she has the gift of romanticism; the ability to construct plots and weave the fascinating elements of the region into novels. One has never read a real South Seas story until he has read the fiction of Beatrice Grimshaw.

CHAPTER I

The cigar was unwontedly good; it had made me peaceful and dreamy—that, or the reaction after the fuss of getting aboard and away. At all events, I leaned back in the cushioned smoke-room chair, and gave myself up to enjoyment; let the sounds and sights and the smells of the great liner flow pleasantly over me. They were all there, the things that I had known and forgotten. And the beat, beat of the great steamer heart, that was to carry on, day and night, until Hongkong; and the barely heard, long wash of the Coral sea, as we ran north from Cairns in Queensland up towards Torres straits, through all the sapphire and topaz glory of a tropic winter day.

I had the sum of one hundred and seventy-two solid pounds, mine since yesterday, in the care of the ship's majestic purser. There's nothing makes a man feel so innocently drunk, as a hatful of cash, when he has been a long time short. This cash of mine was the result of a lucky win in a sweep on the English Derby; nothing more respectable than that—but the strictest purist could hardly have found fault with my way of spending it. I was down in Cairns upon business (very small business and cheap) when the windfall came; and wisely, I decided to go home at once, instead of waiting for the monthly B. P. boat. One treat I must have, I decided; and the call of the Catalina suggested its kind. I would spend eight of my precious pounds on a two-day run to Thursday Island, and get back thence to New Guinea by cutter. For two days, I would dream that I was back in the spacious days of Home and riches; the years when my father owned a fine country house, and a smallish town house, and I had been going to be an English squire, some time or other, and life and society and the "right people," and what one was going to do with oneself after Harrow and the Varsity had all been changeless, solid as fixed stars.

Nothing sadder than that house, the long avenue with the firs and the crackling gravel, the cottages and farms that were ours, the garden and its strange old-fashioned roses—rice roses, Scotch yellow, moss roses, cabbage. Nothing more sure than the passing for ever and ever the same, of those slow summers and winters in the north of England climate; pale suns and pretty, passionless flowers, rain and short days and snow. Everything set, unalterable. . . . In one half hour, it was swept away. My father fell dead of unsuspected heart trouble. The solid house, the firs and the avenue, the cottages and farms, Harrow, Cambridge, the "right people," the set, unalterable way of living, all went down the winds of the world together, swept by the same great hurricane. He had speculated. . . . Anyone can fill in the rest.

That was in '14. You know what followed. I was eighteen years of age, hearty and husky of build. There was only one thing to do; I did it. In '19, demobilized, aged twenty-three, I faced the world with some scars and medals to my credit; also two crosses. Nothing much more. . . . I had been in Egypt! Mesopotamia. The sun lands had got me. I took up land in Australia; failed; went north and north; landed at last at Papua. I had a trading store at the wild west end of the country. I was some years older, a little wiser, a little tougher than even the war had left me. The wild lands had marked me for their own.

And, on that jeweled day of equatorial winter, I was on board the Eastern liner Catalina, having my treat; with no thought of anything but a couple of days' enjoyment, under circumstances that had been mine, and were not; with no dream of anything fateful, anything significant, in the brief journey. I was merely going back to Daru by "T. I." So I thought, What I did not know (—you remember; you did not know—) was that I was, on that day, running right into the double fate that was to change my life.

It began in the oddest manner conceivable. I had finished my cigar, looked at myself in the long mirror as I strolled out on deck, and decided that I was at least not unrepresentable. I was in a peaceful mood; I found a chair, and dropped into it, wishing I knew how to purr like a cat; for I felt that way.

I was simply lifted out of the chair, before I had time to settle down, by shrieks proceeding from forward, where there was a wide unoccupied space of deck. Girls' shrieks—at least three were in it; and they were screaming at the top of their voices. Of course I made for the space of foredeck, extremely ready to come to the aid of beauty in distress. I don't know what I expected; certainly it was not what I saw.

Three ship's officers, attired in all their tropic glory of white drill and gold, were centering down the deck like horses. On the shoulders of each sat, astride, an extremely pretty girl, dressed in a bathing suit of the kind known as "one-piece." The girls had jockey caps on their heads, and they were flinging their mounts along with silk handkerchiefs, and screaming encouragement at the top of their rather high voices.

I saw all this in a moment and guessed, without much difficulty, that the riders were three musical comedy actresses, going to join a revue company touring the East, of whom I had heard when taking by passage. One of them—a tall, white-limbed lass with red bobbed hair—was apparently winning; her mount, the chief officer, was yards ahead of the rest. I saw that. I saw, too, the face of a girl on the opposite side of the deck; staring hard at the racers; she had a profile like an Italian coin, dark hair close shingled, and exceedingly blue eyes. That face held me for an instant; it was as if the owner had suddenly called. . . . Then I saw what made me leap across the deck, tear off my jacket and fling myself over the rail of the Catalina, down thirty feet into the sea.

In the excitement of winning, the red-haired girl had let go her hold of the chief officer's forehead, waved her arms, and lost balance completely. They were near the rail; she began to topple, and I saw she was bound to go. I didn't wait for her to fall; I sprang first. I think we went through the air almost together; she struck the water about as soon as I, and we both went down, in a smother of foam and boiling blue.

We came up well in the rear; when I had grabbed the girl, and got the water and my own hair out of my eyes, I could see the steamer's immensely tall stern already hundreds of yards away, and leaving us as if nobody had seen us go overboard.

Of course they had; they were getting a boat out, and taking the way off the ship, as quickly as might be—but if ever you have been left in the midst of the inhospitable ocean by a liner running at full speed, you will realize that I had plenty of time to grasp the situation; plenty of time, too, to wonder if we weren't both likely to be drowned before help could reach us. Because the red-haired girl, in spite of her stage bathing costume, couldn't swim at all.

She was plucky; no one could have been pluckier. She gasped a good bit, but did not cling; she did as I told her, put her hands on my shoulders, and let her legs swing out to support her. "I—I can float—a bit," she said chokingly. "I—I'm not a scrap afraid. Never say die; th—that's my motto."

If she was not afraid, I was; abominably so. Because I had seen something she, with her face toward my back, had not seen; something I did not want her to see. A black, sharp finger, the finger of death, and ugly death, that beckoned to us both

I didn't need to look at the Catalina—now motionless, a long way off—to know that the boat she had lowered stood no chance in that life-and-death race. I knew what a shark could do in the way of speed, when once it scented food. This shark was only cruising—so I thought—but if it made up its mind to attack us, twenty seconds would see the finish.

The shark was getting curious; zig-zagging about; coming nearer with every tack. "Look here," I said suddenly, "are you game to do just what I tell you and ask no questions?"

"Aren't I? Try me."

"Then put your mouth down to the water, and blow as hard as you can." She stared; was about to speak—but something in my face (I think) checked her. Awkwardly she bent her lips to the swaying green that barely held us up; struggling but determinedly blew. I blew also. Bubbles went streaming from our lips under water; a string of silver bells, a web of pearls. Years ago, in mid-Pacific, I had heard about this way of keeping off sharks; had even seen the girls who swam in the Prussian-blue pools of Niue, blowing bubbles every now and then, just as a measure of precaution.

But was there really anything in it? Had any human creature, attacked, or in danger of attack ever kept away these tigers of the deep by merely puffing bubbles at them? I didn't know. I only knew that there was nothing else to do.

It was impossible to go on blowing forever. We halted, for a rest. By this time the girl had certainly guessed what was happening; but she said never a word. Her laughter, her silly bravado, had vanished; she held to my shoulder with a clutch of iron, and her breath came short as sobs, but she still kept her head, still refrained from grabbing or hampering me.

I looked at the fin again. "G—d," I said, and didn't know I spoke, "it's coming"—for it had turned end on, and I saw it as a black spike sticking out of the water, incredibly huge.

I put my mouth down again, and blew—blew till my lungs were one hot pain all down my back. The black fin poised. I felt the girl's finger nails like claws in my neck; heard her spluttering uselessly into the water, game to the last; swung her round, I don't know how, so as to get my body between her and the sea tiger that was hungering for our blood; saw it go off with a rush like a torpedo, and thought the end was come.

What I had forgotten about was the boat.

I don't think for a moment that our blowings and bubblings had any effect upon the shark, other than to excite its curiosity. It was the near approach of the ship's whaleboat, furiously rowed, that gave it pause. Pause, I say, because, when the boat had dashed between us and the shark, and four strong arms were busy hauling us up over the gunwale—a thing that can't be done in seconds, try how you may—the shark suddenly seemed to realize that its dinner was leaving it, and made such a determined charge that the sailors had to fight it off with all the available oars.

They got us into the boat, and the chief had a tot of whisky ready. I never saw a man look more as if he wanted one himself, but that was small wonder; if he had not been playing the giddy god, nothing would have happened. I think I told him as much; also, that I was not in the least cold, and would have a dry shift in ten minutes; didn't need a drink. The lady, I said, had better have one.

She and he shared it. Her face looked very white, under her wet red hair, and I dare say he may have thought she would take cold; anyhow, he put his uniform coat round her, and was making all fast with his arm when she wriggled apart from him, and flung herself down on the seat beside me.

"I'm going to sit next the bravest man I ever met," she said, her breast heaving up and down very fast under the white and gold coat. I saw she was almost in hysterics, so I simply answered, "Rats. We fell over together." And nobody said anything more, till the whaleboat nosed against the ship's side.

When they got us on board, it was the very devil for five minutes. People came and shook my hand, and told me I was a brave man; some of them thumped my back; several wanted me to come and have a drink.

"We all know Gin-Sling is game," said somebody, "but you're gamier." "We couldn't have done without Jinny," cut in some one else. "No, by Jove!"—"Jinny for ever!"—"Gin-Sling's preserver!"—"Hooray!"

They would have it; I was fairly mobbed. I could hardly get to my cabin for a change of clothes without being carried on the shoulders of the crowd. But that I was determined against; I slipped down a steward's companion, and got away.

I dropped on the lounge; it was some time before I even thought of dragging off my sodden shoes, and shedding my wet clothing. I had not touched the chief officer's flask, or accepted the champagne that others had been anxious to uncork for me, but I was drunk, mind and body, on one look that I had caught as I came slowly—drenched with weariness and wet—up the ship's ladder. A look from blue eyes below black shingled hair. A look that cast a girl's fair soul at my feet.

Devil Aids Doctors

For several years the British authorities in New Guinea tried every way possible to induce the natives to be vaccinated for smallpox. Finally Sir Herbert Murray, the lieutenant governor, was successful by calling the leading chiefs together and informing them that a great black devil was coming out of the mountains to destroy them and that their only escape would be to have the government charm branded on their arms. Thousands of the natives immediately flocked to the government clinic and were vaccinated.

This Little Girl Got Well Quick

"Just after her third birthday, my little daughter, Connie, had a serious attack of intestinal flu," says Mrs. H. W. Turnage, 217 Cadwalder St., San Antonio, Texas. "It left her very weak and pale. Her bowels wouldn't act right, she had no appetite and nothing agreed with her. Our physician told us to give her some California Fig Syrup. It made her pick up right away, and now she is as robust and happy as any child in our neighborhood. I give California Fig Syrup full credit for her wonderful condition. It is a great thing for children."

Children like the rich, fruity taste of California Fig Syrup, and you can give it to them as often as they need it, because it is purely vegetable. For over 50 years leading physicians have recommended it, and its overwhelming sales record of over four million bottles a year shows its satisfaction. Nothing compares with it as a gentle but certain laxative, and it goes further than this. It regulates the stomach and bowels and gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

There are many imitations of California Fig Syrup, so look for the name "California" on the carton to be sure you get the genuine.

Revenue From Forest

Dornberg, a Baden village, is in the same fortunate position as the small Franconian city Ebern, whose inhabitants not only pay no taxes, but receive about 60 marks a year from the city. Dornberg owns large forests which bring in so much revenue that no local taxes have been assessed for many years, and each citizen receives 31 cubic meters of firewood and 100 wooden ties yearly.

Good sewing machine needs best oil, say repair men

If all housewives knew what repair men know about sewing machines, they wouldn't think "any kind of oil will do." Three-fourths of all repairs on sewing machines are due to neglect or the wrong kind of oil.

There's only one oil good enough for your machine—the best. Regardless of price, you can't find better oil than 3-in-One. It is a scientific blend of high grade animal, mineral and vegetable oils and contains unique properties not possessed by ordinary oil. It cleans and protects as well as lubricates. It is unsurpassed for sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, lawn mowers, washers, electric fans, refrigerators, locks, hinges and general household lubrication.

Don't endanger the life of your sewing machine and expensive household equipment with ordinary oil. 3-in-One Oil costs only a trifle more and will save you lots of money in repairs. At good stores everywhere, in 15c and 30c sizes. For your protection, look for the trade mark "3-in-One" printed in Red on every package.

Longfellow calls attention to the fact that the Spanish people greatly admire "emerald eyes" and celebrate them in song.

Doctor's PRESCRIPTION when system is sluggish; costs nothing to try

When your bowels need help, the mildest thing that will do the work is always the sensible choice. Take a laxative that a family doctor has used for all sorts of cases of constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is so pleasant to the taste, so gentle in its action, it is given children of tender age and yet it is just as thorough and effective as stronger preparations. Pure senna, and harmless laxative herbs; ingredients that soon start a gentle muscular action. Avoid a coated tongue, bad breath, bilious headaches, etc. Every drug store has Dr. Caldwell's famous prescription in big bottles. Or just write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle.

Free from pimples!

What a relief it is to know that your skin can be free of pimples. Anoint it gently with CUTICURA OINTMENT, then wash off in a few minutes with CUTICURA SOAP and warm water. A very simple but satisfying treatment of pimples! The CUTICURA Treatment has been used for years in thousands of homes throughout the world.

Brave Youngsters

Defending themselves with a bow and arrow, Robert A. Martenson, eight years of age, and five-year-old sister drove off a vicious attack of a lynx at their home at Warmley, Saskatchewan. The two children had gone out into the brush to play Indian. The lynx sprang on the girl, clawing and biting her. Her brother kicked it and drew his bow. The arrow hit the animal and it disappeared in the brush.

TIRED WHEN SHE GOT UP

Strengthened by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I used to be as tired when I got up in the morning as when I went to bed. I had fainting spells and palpitation. Of course it was my age. I read a Lydia E. Pinkham booklet and started taking the Vegetable Compound three times a day. I am now a well woman. Three of my neighbors know what it did for me so they are taking it too. I will write to any woman if Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her as it did me. I feel like a young woman now and I thank you."—Mrs. H. C. HENRY, 296 Fuller Ave., St. Paul, Minnesota.

Antonio Man's appetite Like a Boy's

Some time in my life I thought the worst luck of any man was mine," says Sam Smith, manager of San Antonio's heavyweights. "I had to be careful I ate or I would almost die from the gas on my stomach. That was many years ago, until I started taking the Remedy (NR Tablets). Since then I eat what I want and let NR take care of the gas because those little Remedy (NR Tablets) sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the gas and sugar wastes can't re-form your system to form those which sour your stomach, sour your bowels and rob the life of the red corpuscles it must have to keep you from the pain, biliousness, sick headaches, indigestion and rheumatism. More than 3 million NR Tablets are used a day. Get the NR Tablets at any drug store.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS,
 To the Sheriff or any Constable of Terrell County, Greetings:

You are hereby commanded to summon Virgil Scott by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in the nearest county where a newspaper is published, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Terrell County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Sanderson, Texas, on the second Monday in July, A. D. 1930, the same being the 14th day of July, A. D. 1930, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 9th day of December, A. D. 1929, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court as No. 1755, wherein Lucille Powell Scott is Plaintiff, and Virgil Scott is defendant, and said petition alleging the Plaintiff to have been a resident of Terrell County more than twelve (12) months at the time of exhibiting her petition herein, and an actual bona fide inhabitant of the State of Texas
 having resided in Terrell County six (6) months next preceding the filing of this suit. That the Plaintiff and Defendant were lawfully married on or about the 14th day of January, A. D. 1928, and that they lived together as man and wife until on or about the first day of October, A. D., 1928. That the Plaintiff was at all times kind, and affectionate, and a faithful wife. That six
 (6) months prior to October 1, 1928, without provocation on the part of the Plaintiff, Defendant began a course of harsh, cruel and unkind treatment toward the Plaintiff, and that such cruel and unkind treatment was done by Defendant with the intention of injuring and harrasing the Plaintiff. That the Plaintiff herein became ill as a result of such continued harsh and cruel treatment. That such treatment by the Defendant was vicious, studied, willful, deliberate.
 That Defendant was guilty of excesses, cruel treatment, and outrages toward her of such nature as to render Plaintiff's further living with Defendant as his wife insupportable.
WHEREFORE, the Plaintiff prays that the Defendant be cited to appear in answer herein as the law directs, and that appearing upon hearing hereof she have judgment dissolving the Bonds of Matrimony existing between Plaintiff and Defendant, and decreeing Plaintiff absolute divorce, etc; for costs of suit, etc.

Alfred E. Creigh Jr.
 Attorney for Plaintiff.

"In plain blunt words, Bill, your pipe smells like a 'Hot-Box'!"

ONLY an old and trusted friend would venture to speak so frankly. A new pipe, or an old one carefully broken in with Sir Walter Raleigh's favorite smoking mixture, changes everything. And why shouldn't it? Sir Walter is milder and more fragrant. And it has the body and flavor found only in the finest of Burley, skillfully seasoned and blended. What more could we offer any pipe smoker? What more could he ask?

Norse Up-Helly-A in Scotland
Up-Helly-A, one of the most spectacular festivals ever held in Scotland, was given in Lerwick recently. Twenty-eight squads of "guisers," each consisting of from eight to ten men, and a band of 23 representing a Shetland lifeboat, gathered at the dock. The Up-Helly-A song was heartily sung and at a signal the 300 torches were lighted. The variegated and brilliant dresses of the guisers, as the torchlight procession escorted a large replica of a magnificent Norse galley through the streets, was beautiful and imposing. At the esplanade the guisers gathered around the galley, and to the strains of the "Hardy Norseman" the torches were thrown into the ship, which made a magnificent bonfire.

OLD-TIMER RECALLS STAGE COACH DAYS

Says 72 Miles 8 Hours Was Hard Work

Glacier Park, Mont.—Jack Brown, veteran Glacier park guide, used to "drive" on a western stagecoach line in the days of horse-drawn vehicles and he gives some interesting information about life in the West in those days. He says:

"When I came to Montana it was a territory and travel, of course, was all either by horseback or by the old horse stagecoach. All these coaches were Concord, drawn by six horses. We lived on the old Holiday line. The coaches ran night and day from Helena to Corrine, Utah. As a boy I used to mingle with the drivers a good deal and when I was twelve years old I could pull the ribbons on a six better'n a green hand.

Changed Horses Often.

"My first job at stage driving was on the old Allard line in 1891. We used to make the round trip, Ravalli to Polson Landing, which was seventy-two miles, in eight and one-half hours. We changed horses four times. That may look slow to automobile drivers today, but when you've sat perched up on one of those high coaches that distance and handled six horses that are nearly all bronchos, you'll find that the motorist at a wheel has a pretty easy time of it.

"I never was held up while driving stage, but I've had my piano players up several times in my life in the West and I know how it goes. I know that it's an occasion when even a woman wouldn't argue much.

"One time when driving stage I had a lady riding up on top with me, and she said: 'Mister Driver, how is it you've got such a ruddy complexion?' I just kicked a bottle of Old Crow from under a mail sack at my feet and said: 'There's the point I use, lady.' It was rather a chilly day and I found that I had to paint her face several times before we got in. It just showed that all good drinking people in the West in those days weren't stage drivers. However, all good stage drivers were good drinking men. Seemed like it was the qualifications to drink, hold yer head and the hosses, as they used to say facetiously.

Horses Still Have Place.

"Of course, the horse is out of date now in most places, but I still find lots of places in the old West where a good saddle horse is the best means of travel. Bad roads and trails have no terrors for the old cow pony. We had some good ones in the old cattle days in Montana. I rode one horse eighty-two miles in one day once. I guess even Teddy Roosevelt would've admitted that was too much for one horse, but when the sheriff don't like a fellow it makes it necessary to leave lots of country behind you. I made that ride in nine hours. I suppose the motorist of today would laugh at that as slow driving, but I swear I thought I got along at a lively clip.

"In the earlier frontier days of freer personal liberties the cowpunchers didn't think anything of riding forty miles across country to a dance. And we took the girls along with us. Guess they must've been tough girls, because I know now, when guiding tourists through Glacier Park in the summer time, after some of 'em have ridden nine miles they're ready to eat their supper off'n the mantel. But, then, these are automobile riding days and not many people are used to horseback riding."

Fountain Pen Pistol

Rouses Gotham Police

New York.—An innocent-appearing fountain pen pistol found on a Chinese could be converted into one of the deadliest of short range weapons by substituting a lead bullet for the tear gas cartridge the pistol was designed to shoot. Detective Harry Butts, police department ballistics expert, reported to Commissioner Whalen and Chief Inspector O'Brien, after an experiment.

A .38-caliber lead slug fired by the pistol was split in half, lengthwise, by a steel wire in the tube. At one foot the halves tore through a board seven-eighths of an inch thick. The effect was that of a dum-dum bullet, for the holes were larger at the point of exit. The holes were three inches apart.

The bullet is projected by a powerful spring. The wire is intended to break the gas cartridge, releasing its contents.

The pen-pistol is manufactured in Chicago, and sells for $7.50. Police intimated they would attempt to have the weapon barred from New York.

The pistol in the test was found on Yee Kim, who was arrested in the Bronx on March 15 by Detective Herman Rave. Detective Butts will demonstrate the gun in Bronx special sessions, when Yee Kim goes on trial.

JESUS TEACHING IN THE TEMPLE

(Temperance Lesson.)

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 22:1-22, 24-40.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. The second is like unto it. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself (22:37-39).

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaching in the Temple.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus in the Temple.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Become a Good Citizen.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Who Is a Good Citizen?

In the previous parable, the responsibilities of the subjects of the kingdom were set before us in the light of the obligation to render to the householder the fruits of his vineyard. In this one the emphasis is placed upon the privileges and blessings of the kingdom. Christ's kingdom is infinitely more than a system of laws and regulations to be obeyed.

I. The Marriage Feast (vv. 1-14).

The benefits of the kingdom are set forth under the figure of marriage. The highest ideal of love and friendship known to the world is expressed in marriage.

1. The king's invitation despised (vv. 1-7).

The previous parable showed the attitude of the Jewish people toward the king up to the crucifixion. This one carries us beyond the cross, even to the present age of the Gentiles. The marriage feast which the king made for his son and to which he invited guests, represents the gracious offer of God to give joy and blessing to His creatures. This feast has been made in honor of his son, and is an exceeding rich one. The repeated invitations show God's earnestness in seeking to bless men. They not only neglected it, but made light of it and hurried on to their worldly business, shunning their disregard for the salvation of their souls. Some did violence to the messengers of the king, even killing them. Primarily, this is a picture of the attitude of the Jews from Christ's crucifixion to the destruction of Jerusalem, but it has its counterpart in the present day.

2. The king's invitation accepted (vv. 8-10).

When those first invited refused, the king sent his servants to others, for his table must be provided with guests. The Lord's table has been prepared at infinite cost.

3. The king inspecting the guests (vv. 11-14).

As a result of this inspection, one was found without a wedding garment. Failure, therefore, to conform to the regulation of the feast was an insult to the king. The wedding garment provided for each one invited to the Lord's table is the righteousness of Christ.

II. The Wonderful Wisdom of the King (vv. 15-22, 34-40).

That which called forth this wisdom was the effort of the leaders to entrap Jesus.

1. The tribute money (vv. 15-22).

The Herodians sought to test His loyalty to the Roman government; therefore, they came to him with the subtle question, "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?" For Christ to have answered "Yes" would have conveyed the impression of endorsement of the Roman government, and "No" would have brought him into conflict with the government. Christ's reply to this question is the final word on the Christian's relationship to civil government.

2. Concerning the resurrection (vv. 23-33).

The Sadducees did not believe in the resurrection. To entrap Him they placed before Him a hypothetical case of a woman who had had seven husbands—as to whose wife she would be in the resurrection. The Scriptures make it clear that marriage is only for this life; that in the resurrection human beings will be as angels of God.

3. The great commandment in the law (vv. 34-40).

(1) The first commandment (vv. 34-38). "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart." Supreme and undivided love to God is the first and great commandment. (2) The second commandment (vv. 39, 40). This is like the first, in that it centers in love. The measure of love to my neighbor is my self-love.

4. The question put by Christ (vv. 41-46).

The mystery of Christ being the son of David and at the same time being David's Lord put to silence all those who had sought to embarrass Him.

Our Prayers

Our prayers are ships. We send them to no uncertain port. They are destined for the throne of grace; and while they take a cargo of supplications from us, they come back cargoes laden with the riches of divine grace.—Presbyterian of the South.

Our Supreme Duty

Our supreme duty is to give ourselves to Christ, and with ourselves all that we possess.—Bishop E. E. Hoos.

Bruce Attack Disputed
Loyal admirers of Robert the Bruce are aroused over the recent attack on the Scotch hero made by Thomas Johnston, undersecretary for Scotland. During an address at Greenock, Scotland, Johnston said that "Robert the Bruce was a feudal bully and the story of Bruce and the spider is an invention." He added that in the winter of 1306-7 Bruce was spending his time not in semi-starvation watching spiders in an island cave, but amid the rude comforts obtainable at the court of the Norwegian king. Champions of Bruce declare the charges are untrue.

Record Steam Shovel
What is said to be the largest steam shovel is in use at Colstrip, Mont., in the Northern Pacific's surface coal mines. It lifts 15 tons of earth at a time, raises it 100 feet in the air and dumps it 300 feet distant. The giant shovel weighs 1,100 tons, has a 120-foot boom, 90-foot dipper sticks and a 10-cubic-yard dipper. It strips the earth from the top of the coal.

Threat for Jazz Inventor
Jazz players of Hungary are alarmed over the new invention of Francis Szeheres, a Hungarian musician, by which one man, playing the keys, can produce every sound known to jazz band players. Szeheres recently received a letter signed "Desperate Jazz Players, Hungary," threatening a bomb explosion at his home if he does not stop the manufacture of the apparatus.

Silence can substitute for brains.

Ins and Outs of It
Julia Peterkin, the novelist, at a luncheon in New York was talking about husbands.

"The best husbands, be they white or black," she said, "are those who make companions of their wives. Beware of the other kind, the superior kind, who keep themselves to themselves—the kind who never take their wives out."

"The husband," Mrs. Peterkin concluded, "who never takes his wife out always takes her in."
