Terrell County Oil Activities

Sanderson, Tex., Sept. 1.—Mr. Allfred E. Creigh Jr. of this city reported to our correspondent that he was in the city of San Antonio, Texas, a week or so ago and attended a meeting in which Mr. Joe Cook stated that he had a sub-contract on the continuation of the drilling of the Big Bend well on the W. T. Carpenter ranch. Mr. Cook stated he expected to be on the job with a full crew of men shortly, and that this well would be drilled to a depth of 4000 feet soon, and that he would not lose any time, but would hurry up their drilling campaign.

Drillers from the test well being drilled by the Trans-Pecos Development Company were in the city attending the rodeo, and report that they have recommended that this well be shot at present depth, but refused to comment on the present formation, and would not give out any information, due to the fact that a representative of the company is expected here this week to make a complete inspection for the company.

Reports from the test wells being made by the Transcontinental Oil Company, Wooley & Jones, W. J. Banner, et al indicate that considerable headway is being made on their projects.

FAVORITE COLORS FOR SHOES INCLUDE BROWN, GREEN, WINE

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

According to orders from fashion headquarters footwear must be as lovely and as colorful as the gown, suit or ensemble with which it is worn. Which means with the costumes in the new and exceedingly handsome dark greens, deep wine and various brown colorings which are scheduled for the coming months we are going to wear shoes made of fine supple kid in perfect match colorings.

It is very evident that the creators of our frocks, our wraps, our headwear and our footwear have made it a point to "get together" and talk it over with the result that we are going to match from head to foot especially in view of the fact that the jeweler, the pocketbook maker and even the handkerchief designer have joined this matchmaking group.

It is a matter for rejoicing that shoe stylists have selected fine soft and supple kid as the medium-elect for our fall and winter shoes. A kid shoe, like a kid glove, has a decided elasticity which the smartly attired woman demands in her footwear, for the woman with a reputation for being well dressed at all times—who is invariably the subject of admiring glances—is the woman who is absolutely comfortable in her clothes. One among many arguments in favor of kid for millady's shoe is that being more or less porous, it allows the foot to breathe, as it were, hence its comfort. Then again it is resilient and a shoe made of it conforms to the foot like a glove to the hand.

The well dressed woman selects her shoes with the same discrimination that is exercised in choosing a gown or a hat, for the footwear can make or mar the entire costume. Today color is one of the greatest factors in shoes. Leather specialists have recognized and appreciated this fashion consideration. In typical American spirit they have met the challenge with the result that kid shoes are easily obtainable in almost any color from deep wine, green and copper brown to the most esthetic pastel shades.

Shoes in tuneful color play an important part in achieving sartorial perfections for each of the costumes in the picture. The afternoon frock to the left is of rose-rust faille silk with the inevitable lingerie touch of dainty lace at the neck and the wrists. Brown kid pumps with beige trim complete the color symphony.

The ensemble is of silk in that very new dark color designated as date-plem—one of the off-black shades heralded for this fall. Please to observe the three-quarter length of the coat for it confirms the news of a coming vogue for long-coat ensembles. The coat is lined with a lightweight matching wool fabric with stitched bands of the same trimming as the dress. The hat is in self-color and the kid shoes are a deep wine tone.

How to Make the Blueberry Pudding

Easy enough for an inexperienced bride to get ready, and delicious enough to offer to the most distinguished person you know, is this quick blueberry pudding for which the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture furnishes a recipe:

- 1 quart blueberries
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1/2 lbs. salted butter
- 1/2 lb. lemon juice, if desired.

Pick over the berries, wash, drain, mix with the sugar, water and salt and boil for five minutes. Combine the bread crumbs and butter, add to the hot fruit, stir until well mixed, and let stand on the back of the stove for about 30 minutes, but do not let the pudding cook. Add the lemon juice and serve the pudding while still warm with plain or whipped cream.

HOMEMAKERS PREFER KITCHENS THAT ARE LIGHT AND AIRY

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

When a homemaker looks over a house with the possible intention of renting or buying it, she lingers in the kitchen longer than in any other room. It is vital to her that her workshop should be light and airy, of good proportions and with a pleasant exposure and outlook. Of special importance is the equipment—not only what it is, but how each piece is placed with relation to all the others. The homemaker has to think of the work that will go on in the kitchen, of how she goes about each task, and what equipment and tools she will need to do it easily.

Builders have been known to supply excellent ranges, cabinets, sinks and ice boxes, all placed so that many unnecessary steps were taken by the housewife in her daily work. After the water and gas pipes and the electric wiring have been put in and the sink installed with cement, it is expensive to make changes. When one is planning and building a new home this difficulty can be anticipated while the house is still on paper.

Even when mistakes have been made with some of the fixed equipment, it may be possible to move other pieces about to correct matters somewhat. One of the larger kitchen furnishings which can usually be moved is the kitchen cabinet, if it is on casters. As the sink and the work table or cabinet are the nucleus of the food preparation center, it saves steps to have the cabinet as close to the sink as space permits. In the illustration, taken by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, the cabinet is at right angles to the sink in a rather small kitchen. After mixing a cake, for instance, bowls and other utensils can be put immediately on the drainboard to be washed, without any extra steps. Water is within reach for filling saucepans or using in recipes, as well as for washing vegetables or fruits or cleaning up dishes.

At the sink there should be brushes for cleaning vegetables, paring knives, measuring cup, scissors, strainers, colander and other small articles, hung up if possible. The garbage can should also be near the sink. As one thinks over the various tasks to be done in the kitchen in the course of a day, it will be realized that sometimes the same kind of tools are wanted in more than one place. A few duplicate articles which can be found quickly and without walking about will be worth many times their cost. For instance, sharp knives are wanted for paring and cutting foods in the food preparation center, and also in the serving center. A bread knife kept by the bread box and board or placed on the table with the bread will save extra steps and unused cut slices of bread. One might have two measuring cups; one at the work table or cabinet, and one near the sink.

STORY FOR THE CHILDREN WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

The Twins, Latitude and Longitude, were telling their story to David, and all that they did and all the help they gave.

"It all sounds very fine," agreed David. He really couldn't help liking the twins.

"We're all over the world," Latitude said, "but perhaps we mean more to ships and the people on ships than to any others."

"When anything happens they can always send word just exactly where they are by telling what we measure."

"If it weren't for us they'd have a hard time."

"It would be pretty difficult to simply send word they were somewhere on the Atlantic Ocean, for example."

"We heard you were adventuring, and as we're most important inhabitants of the Living Map, we stopped to have a chat."

"We called out to you awhile ago, but then we were so busy for a few moments we didn't have time to chat ourselves."

"Then we thought we'd talk to you here, you see."

"That's mighty kind of you," David said. He really did like the twins immensely.

"We have an engagement to lecture this afternoon," said Latitude, "on the 'Long and Short of It'—that is the subject of our lecture, but before we go we'd like you to hear our song."

"We're Longitude and Latitude."

"I'd be delighted to hear the song," David exclaimed, and he meant it. He thought it would certainly be something to tell them when he got back home again.

"We'll sing the first verse, then the chorus, then go back to the second verse," they said.

"We're Longitude and Latitude, the twins who measure the earth. One is fat, the other is thin; to see us causes you mirth. In books we're very complicated, and often we are greatly hated, but we take it off with a grin and a laugh. As we distance the earth up, down and in half."

We're Longitude and Latitude, the twins without a last name. But even lacking that, you know, we certainly have gained fame. In books it really is a sin The way they so dully put us in.

Chorus.

Latitude is very fat. He moves from East to West; Longitude is very thin. He thinks his way is best— He has his up and downs it's true, He goes from North to South but—

They suddenly broke off singing, and Longitude shouted:

"We'll be late, Brother Twin, if we don't hurry. We really must hurry and not linger any longer."

So David never heard the end of that poem which they had made up about themselves and which they had sung to him.

With a good-by wave to David they had rushed off, leaving him sitting alone, and saying to himself:

"It's a pity one is so fat and the other so thin. It makes them both look so queer!"

"But in spite of that, I like them. They are as jolly as can be, and really, I feel as though those Twins were certainly my friends now."

Mites Attack Oranges

Oranges or grapefruit which have a rusty appearance have been attacked by rust mites, animals so small that it has been estimated that half a million of them could find room on a grapefruit. These insects puncture the outer cells of the rind and suck the oil from it. Although the food value of such fruit is not reduced greatly, buyers generally prefer bright fruit, consequently the russets sell at a discount of 25 to 50 cents a box.

HINTS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

Salads and fresh fruit desserts are good for the family and are simple to prepare in summer.

In the efficient kitchen food moves in only one direction from the time it arrives at the kitchen until it is ready to serve.

The tomato has taken its place beside the orange as a source of necessary vitamins in the diet. Can plenty of tomatoes this year.

A backyard playground equipped with slides, swings, a sandpile, or toys for both active and quiet play may keep the child away from the danger of passing motorists.

SOME TIMELY HINTS ABOUT FOOD FOR THE FAMILY TABLE

By NELLIE MAXWELL

It is often in the early fall days we suffer from the stifling heat; then, if ever, we need to serve food that will be appealing and refreshing.

Apple Surprise.—Peel and core six good flavored apples and place them in a shallow pan. Sprinkle with three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and pour over one-half cupful of water, simmer for a few minutes, then fill the cavities with one small can of diced pineapple and place half a cupful of cinnamon candies around the apples. Cook for twenty or more minutes, then add one-half cupful of nuts and one marshmallow for each apple. Cook again until the apples are tender, remove and cool. Serve with whipped cream.

Chocolate Butterscotch Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of scalded milk, two and one-half tablespoonfuls of cornstarch, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of cocoa and a pinch of salt. Mix until well blended, then cook until smooth and thick. Add the vanilla (a few drops), twelve marshmallows and six pieces of butterscotch. Mix until all the ingredients are well blended. Pour into molds and chill. Serve with whipped cream.

Plum Pudding.—Dissolve one package of lemon gelatin in boiling water or half water and the other fruit juice, using a pint of liquid; stir in three-fourths of a cupful of grape-nuts, three-fourths of a cupful of cooked chopped prunes, three-fourths of a cupful of raisins and nuts chopped, and one cupful of ground peanut brittle. Stir all into the hot gelatin and when well mixed set away to mold. Serve with whipped cream.

Salmon Souffle.—Flake a can of salmon and season with paprika, salt and lemon juice. Cook one-half cupful each of bread crumbs and milk ten minutes and add to the salmon; then add the yolks of three eggs, beaten thick and lemon colored and cut and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake until firm.

Egg Sandwich.—Chop hard cooked eggs, moisten with lemon juice, season with salt and pepper, spread over a lettuce leaf, place on a buttered slice of bread. Cover with a plain buttered slice.

Raisin Sandwich.—Butter brown bread cut very thin and cover one slice with chopped raisins mixed with mayonnaise.

Brabant Dressing.—Beat four egg yolks, add one teaspoonful each of mustard and salt and one tablespoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, four tablespoonfuls of vinegar and a dash of red pepper. Cook all until thick, in a double boiler. Cool and

Dry Air Is Necessary to Avoid Mildew

Protection from mildew is best afforded by having a dry atmosphere where susceptible articles are stored. The attic is better than the cellar for articles not in immediate use, because the air in it is drier. Where mildew is prevalent, the atmosphere inside closets may be dried off to some extent by keeping a pail of unslaked lump lime in the closet, replacing it as soon as it becomes slaked. The door of the closet should be snug and tight when closed.

A mildew wall paper is likely to spread mildew through to any fresh layer of paper that is put over it, especially since wall papers are put on the walls with a starchy paste. A method that has been suggested for removing mold spots is to apply with a soft sponge a solution of one part salicylic acid in four parts alcohol. If this fails to remove the spots satisfactorily, the old paper should be removed and the walls repapered in dry weather.

Good ventilation and plenty of sunlight will help materially to prevent the development of mildew.

add cupful of whipped cream and one cupful of nut meats.

Where the child must carry a lunch at school, every effort should be made to make the food appetizing. Fresh fruit when it is possible should always be included. Jams, jellies, dried fruits such as figs, prunes and raisins or dates will help out when apples, oranges and fresh fruits are not available.

Fruit Paste.—Thoroughly mix chopped dates, raisins, dry figs and finely ground nuts with orange juice and a little cream. Spread generously on thin, buttered bread.

Quick Orange Jam.—Take two cupfuls of orange pulp and juice, one lemon, pulp and juice, and one and one-half cupfuls of sugar. Boil ten minutes. Put into jelly glasses and seal. Serve in sandwiches or with toast. A small glass of this jam makes a dainty addition to the lunch-basket.

For a wholesome sandwich, spread one slice of the buttered bread with orange marmalade and the other with cottage cheese. Put together and wrap.

Carrot, Celery and Nut Sandwich.—Mix ground raw carrots, celery and nuts with lemon juice and bottled dressing. Put the mixture into cases made by scooping out a roll cut in half. Fit the halves together.

Party Sandwiches.—These should be served as soon as prepared. Mash bananas and fresh raspberries in equal amounts and moisten with sweet cream, add a pinch of salt and a bit of sugar if needed. Spread white bread with butter, then with the fruit mixture. Put the slices together and cut into fancy shapes. If the fresh berries are not obtainable, use raspberry jelly. If desired especially festive, decorate the top of small sandwiches cut into rounds with a spot of the jelly.

Vegetables Which Can Be Scooped Out to Make Container for Filling

Eggplant Scooped Out and Filled With Dressing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Among the various stuffings used for vegetables like cymbalings and eggplant which can be scooped out to make a container for the filling, the following has been found very good by the bureau of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture. The eggplant pulp is cooked and mixed with the other ingredients:

- 1 large eggplant
- 4 lbs. melted butter or other fat
- 1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
- 1 small onion, finely chopped
- 1 cup cooked string beans, peas, or other left-over vegetable
- 1 tsp. salt
- Pepper

Wash and cut the eggplant in half lengthwise. Remove as much of the white portion as possible without breaking the shell, cut the pulp into small pieces, cook in a small quantity of hot water for ten minutes, or until tender, and drain. To the melted fat add the bread crumbs, stir until well mixed, and reserve half of the crumbs for the top. To the remaining crumbs add the other ingredients and the eggplant pulp, mix thoroughly, pile lightly into the eggplant shells, sprinkle the top with the crumbs, place in a shallow baking dish, pour a few tablespoonfuls of hot water around the shells to keep them from sticking, and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve in the baking dish.

BLUE STAR OINTMENT

One of Oldest Legends, That of Wandering Jew

How long the story of the "Wandering Jew" has been in circulation, and what was its origin, are questions on which there is no evidence to base replies. But it is certain that from the period of its first writing it became more prevalent than ever in various homes.

It was not till after that the aspect of eternal wandering was introduced, and this was possibly encouraged by the fact that at intervals persons claiming to be the original "Wandering Jew" made their appearance in different parts of Europe.

According to the Italian astrologer Guido Bonatti, the wanderer passed through Forli in 1267. Philip of Novara, a famous jurist who resided for a long time in Jerusalem, writing in 1250, refers to one Jehan Boite Dieu as one proverbially long-lived, suggesting that the legend was then well established in Jerusalem.

Pilots Shot From Planes

Airplane pilots and their parachutes are hurled 30 feet clear of a falling plane by a new German compressed-air gun. The device is intended to save the danger that when a pilot jumps to save himself he may foul the parachute on the plane. Now he simply pulls a hand-trigger, and is shot free.

The inspiration for this safety gun is said to have been obtained from a pneumatic cannon used in a Berlin stage act that hurled performers from eight to a hundred feet in the air.

Ford De Luxe Sedan

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compartments. Absence of rear quarter windows gives the car a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious.
 Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars.

Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish mouldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and hardware in an attractive pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver.
 It is moved quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous handle in the front center of the seat just above the floor.
 The De Luxe Sedan, like other Ford body types, can be obtained in any one of several color combinations.

An old negro had been discovered stealing chickens. The owner decided to speak kindly to him.

"You see," he said, "it isn't the loss of the chickens that worries me. You could always have had one if you'd asked for it. What worries me is that an old fellow like you should be so sinful. Whatever will you do on judgment day when those birds are mentioned in evidence against you?"

The old man showed signs of anxiety.

"Is dem chickens gwine to be dar?" he asked.

"Certainly."
"Den ah gwine say to yo. 'Is dese biah you chickens, sir? An' yo'll say, 'Yes,' an' Ah'll say, 'You take 'em, sah, yo take 'em.'"—London Tit Bits.

Trade among Friends

No matter what some folks say to the contrary, there certainly is a lot of sentiment in business. Friendship, for instance, makes more satisfactory sales than all the cleverness and argument in the world.

You like to trade at a certain store—not because its counters are arranged in a scientific way, but because the folks who serve you are always friendly and helpful.

Just that very thing—FRIENDLY SERVICE—is the power that draws people together into communities like this, where everybody can enjoy the many benefits of neighborly cooperation.

And FRIENDLY SERVICE is the sentimental reason why you find it very much to your advantage to trade with our advertisers—to buy where you feel at home, where your friends will see that you are well satisfied.

Maj. Edw. Jas. Monroe

Zaro Agha

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

N RECENT weeks a foreign visitor to our shores has attracted considerable attention by his claims to being 156 years old. He is Zaro Agha, who hails from Istanbul, Turkey, and who has many interesting recollections of events which took place over a century ago. He claims that when he was 20 years old he heard the news of the execution of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette of France, and that he served as a soldier in the Turkish army in 1798 when the Turks successfully barred the march of Napoleon from Egypt through Palestine toward India.

During his visit to Paris, before coming to the United States, it was reported that he had "no official documents with stamps or seals to prove his unusual age," but upon his arrival at Providence, R. I., last July he was photographed "exhibiting his birth certificate which is dated February 16, 1774." As a result of the publicity which this venerable Turk has received, some even more remarkable cases of longevity have been reported. One is a Chinaman, for whom the claim of being 163 years old has been set forth. Another is Ivan Proskniak, a Russian peasant, who is claimed to be 170 and is said to have been discovered last year by Henri Barbusse, the French author, in the course of a long trip through the Ural mountains in Russia. M. Barbusse is reported to have declared that "Ivan Proskniak is an even better preserved specimen of humanity than Zaro Agha. Ivan has all his teeth, his goulash peppered with powerful spices and chews tobacco, while Zaro can only manage milk and goat's cheese for his diet."

But the prize winner so far is another Chinaman if we are to believe the following story which appeared in the New York World recently:

"That lively young man from Turkey, Zaro Agha, who claims a mere 156 years of life, must surrender his longevity laurels without a struggle if the life story of Li Chung yun, whose fame reaches these shores from far off China, is ever authenticated. For Li claims to have entered this world 252 years ago and grown to the prime of manhood 96 years before Zaro was given his first nursing bottle."

One record young Mr. Agha may be welcome to retain as far as Li is concerned: the Turk's claim to be the only man alive who has survived 156 years without a single drink stronger than goat's milk to sustain him is not challenged by the 252-year-old Chinaman. He has never kept track of how much rice wine he may have consumed in the last two and a half centuries.

"But Li, like Zaro, does confine himself to his own particular diet, and the item in it which he attributes his hardihood is ginseng root."

"Least any reader be incredulous of Li's age let us hasten to add that it is vouchsafed by that eminent scholar, General Pei-fu, who also qualifies as a full-fledged ex-war lord, having captured Peiping after the custom of great military figures in his native land and having once brought all North China under his sway. Fu occasionally takes his pen in hand."

"According to Fu, at whose home the venerable Li lived for some time, the latter is 'an educated man and still possesses a virile mind.' In fact, he recently delivered a series of lectures at the University of Changtu on the art of life in general, with particular emphasis on how to get the most out of each century."

"Li, who eats nothing but herbs, disbelieves strongly in any form of strenuous exercise. 'Golf is the shortest way to a short life,' he told one of his audiences. When he was 217, he added, he himself tried half an hour of tennis, which he regrets to this day, feeling that it shortened his life span at least a decade. A life of harmony in spirit and soul is the essence of his teaching."

"Prof. Wu Chung-chieh, dean of the department of education at Changtu university, has learned, it is reported, seems scarcely more than 75. His face is sun browned and unwrinkled. He is active and robust and will sooner offer his arm to a woman when crossing a mean spot in the road than to think of taking hers. His memory is surprising, his outlook young, and his comments when not serious are colored by a sense of humor that a man half his age might envy."

Ex-Senator Cole died November 2, 1924, at the age of 102. The record in his case is clear. But considering the fact that it would have been easy enough to check up on the facts, it seems remarkable that in 1924 many newspapers printed the picture of "Maj. Edward James Monroe, son of the fifth President of the United States, who is feeling fit at the age of 100." The only difficulty with this story is that President Monroe had two daughters but no son!

Stories of persons who claim to have lived more than 100 years are numerous, but few of these cases will stand up under rigid investigation, according to James A. Toby, writing in a recent issue of the Scientific American, who says that the age of a very old person seems to be one of the matters most susceptible to deviation from the truth, for memories are usually hazy in the extremely old, and the relatives, friends, and neighbors of these patriarchs seem always ready to exaggerate their antiquity.

He then cites numerous examples of longevity which proved to be greatly exaggerated. A few years ago a Kentuckian named John Shell received considerable notoriety as being 131 years of age, but a somewhat searching inquiry revealed him to be not more than 100, if he were even that.

In 1904 a Russian newspaper calmly reported the death at the advanced age of 150 of a woman named Therese Abalva. Another Russian newspaper in 1923 was more modest, for it allotted only 138 years to Ivan Tretya, a peasant of Rostov. A Hungarian farmer, Peter Tortay or Torton, exceeded them all for he was supposed to have been 185 when he died in 1724; as was also St. Monagh, whose death occurred in 1731. Some months ago Henri Barbusse, the French author, recounted his visit in Georgia in Transcaucasia to Nikolai Andreyevich Shapkovsky, who was reputed to be between 142 and 147.

One of the most famous of the very aged persons of history was Old Parr, who was said to have been born in England in 1483 and to have died there in 1655. He was working as a farm laborer at the age of 152 when an interested nobleman, the earl of Arundel, took him to London and put him on exhibition where he died a short time later. John Taylor, known as the "Water Poet," got out a book called "The Olde, Olde, Very Olde man," in which he extolled this long life in prose and verse.

Thomas Parr was said to have been married at 120, and after the suitable interval to have become the father of a child. When he died in 1635, the celebrated William Harvey, discoverer of the circulation of the blood, performed an autopsy on him and found his general condition good, though the brain cells were somewhat worn. A reprint of Taylor's book was issued by James Caulfield of London in 1704.

Old Parr's unusual age was accepted until 1873 when W. J. Thoms, deputy librarian of the house of lords, made a real investigation of the case and concluded that about fifty years had been improperly tacked on to the actual life of Parr. The gentleman was a real centenarian, but little more than that.

Mr. Thoms also exposed two other notorious long-lifers. A certain countess of Desmond was credited with 140 years, but the doubting librarian showed that the ages of two separate countesses of the same name had been added together; instead of one person living to 140 years, two women had each lived about 70.

A writer familiar with Mr. Thom's iconoclasm on this subject, a John B. Bailey, wrote a book in 1888 which he called "Modern Methuselahs," and in it he cited a number of instances of well-known centenarians.

He began with St. Anthony, who was said to have lived to 105, but most of his other examples, such as the Emperor Constantine of the Fourteenth century, Plecto, Cornaro, Titian, De Fontenelle and Auery were only 99 or 103. The author however, did list a dozen cases which he believed to have been actually 100 years old or more.

"Cornelius Cole, centenarian, former senator from California and native of Seneca county, New York.

JOSIAH, A ROYAL REFORMER

LESSON TEXT—11 Kings 22:1-8; 23:1-25
GOLDEN TEXT—Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Josiah Finds God's Book.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Josiah's Rare Find.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Getting Help from the Bible.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The World's Debt to Reformers.

I. Josiah a Godly Young King (22:1, 2).

He did that which was right in the sight of the Lord and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left. About one hundred years elapsed between the reformation under Hezekiah and that of Josiah. Sometime during this period the book of God's law had been lost. Two wicked kings had reigned in the interval. The Lord had given to Hezekiah much wealth. His son, Manasseh, coming into possession of his father's property and being ungodly would naturally neglect the Bible, if not purposely try to put it from sight. Those who do not obey the word of God are usually interested in putting it out of sight.

II. Finding the Book of the Law (22:3-10).

1. The occasion (vv. 3-8).
It was while restoring the temple during Josiah's reformation that the law was discovered. In clearing out the dark corners to make repairs and to find a place to store the subscriptions made by the people, many things which had been lost were found, among which was the law.

2. The Book read before the king (vv. 9, 10).

Upon making a report of the work to the king Shaphan informed him of the finding of the book of the law of the Lord, and the book was read by Shaphan before the king.

III. The Effect of the Reading of the Law (vv. 11-20).

1. The king rent his clothes (v. 11).
As the law was read before him he was led to realize the awful extent of the nation's departure from God. He knew that sin merited punishment. The reading of the royal robes indicated the king's penitence and sorrow.

2. The king sent a deputation to make inquiry of the Lord (vv. 12-20).
He included himself in the guilt before God (v. 13). His sense of sin was so keen that he sent to inquire of the Lord as to whether there was any means of diverting the divine judgments, instinctively the human heart turns from God's threatening judgments to a means of escape.

3. The message of Huldah, the prophetess (vv. 15-20).
(1) Confirmation of what the law said (vv. 15-17).
She said that all the curses written in the law must follow, for the sins had been so flagrant that God's wrath could not be restrained. It was not too late, however, upon repentance to obtain mercy from God, but the outward consequences of sin must be realized.

(2) Acceptance of Josiah's repentance (vv. 18-20).
Because of his tenderness of heart and deep penitence, the Lord said he should be gathered to his grave in peace and should not see all the evil brought on Jerusalem and its people. What Huldah said was true though Josiah died in battle (II Chron. 35:22-25).

IV. Reforms Instituted (23:1-25).

1. The king read the law (v. 1, 2).
He gathered together the inhabitants of Jerusalem, including the priests, Levites, and elders, and read unto them the law.

2. The king made a covenant before the Lord (v. 3).
In this covenant he pledged himself.

(1) "To walk before the Lord."
This meant that he would get personally right with God.

(2) To "keep God's commandments and his testimonies and his statutes."
This obedience was of the heart.

(3) "To perform the words of the covenant which were written in this book."
The king not only entered into this sincerely, but caused all that were present to "stand to" it.

3. The king took away the abominations (vv. 4-20).
He not only broke down the places of idolatrous worship, but slew the priests who officiated at the altar.

4. Passover kept (vv. 21-23).
So fully and heartily did they enter into this reformation that this Passover was unlike any that had been held since the days of the Judges.

5. Workers of the occult driven out (vv. 24, 25).
All the days of the king they departed not from following after the Lord.

Must Follow in His Steps

Sincere we must be, some sacrifices we must make, and for the rest we must follow in the steps of the Lord till we grow into his likeness. It is a splendid endeavor, and in its very difficulties and elevation lie its greatness and its success.—John Watson.

Prayer

Prayer is the praise of the renewed soul, and the constancy of its beat is the test and measure of the spiritual life.—Octavius Winslow.

Vets Recall Memories of Ban on "Blackjack"

Veterans who knew General Pershing when he first was called "Black Jack," back in the days of the Philippine Insurrection, answered to roll call in the Baltimore War memorial recently and organized the Maryland branch of the Eighth Army Corps association.

While all of those present did not serve under the man who was to become the commander of the American troops in the World war, they recall General Pershing's famous order prohibiting the playing of the game of blackjack in his troop of the Fifth cavalry.

They told how news of the order, which was posted on the company bulletin board, spread throughout the island army and was laughed at by such men as Harbord, Summerall, Liggett and others who a few years later were to become famous in their own right.—Baltimore Sun.

Crop Rotation Ancient

The principles of soil cultivation, which are included under the term "scientific farming," were known to the farmers of the most ancient times, according to H. W. Warner, writing in the Farm Journal.

"The principle of crop rotation was known and practiced to some extent more than three thousand years ago," he says. "We find application of time to the soil mentioned in writings dating well before the Christian era. The early white settlers of New England found the Indians fertilizing corn, and artificial fertilization with guano was practiced by the Incas in South America 29 centuries ago."

Complex Typewriter

Japanese typewriters have 7,020 characters. The operator has a directory and chart at his elbow to help him find unusual letters or signs. Good writers average 60 words a minute, which is as fast as handwriting. And tucked away in one corner of the machine is the English alphabet, which may be used at will.—Capper's Weekly.

Easily Broken

Most laws are like a china cup in the hands of a careless waiter.—Florida Times-Union.

There is a remedy for every ill—but not for every remedy.

ACHES

There's scarcely an ache or pain that Bayer Aspirin won't relieve promptly. It can't remove the cause, but it will relieve the pain! Headaches, Backaches, Neuritis and neuralgia. Yes, and rheumatism. Read proven directions for many important uses. Genuine Aspirin can't depress the heart. Look for the Bayer cross:

The grouch is a pain in the neck even to himself. When you are an enemy to every one, it is natural that every one should be an enemy to you. But when you are friendly to everybody, you'll find them that way toward you, too.—Grit.
