Highland Fair, Feeder Sale Dates Set For Oct. 17-19

The Eighth Annual Highland Fair and Feeder sale will be held in Marfa on October 17, 18 and 19, according to advices from that city this week. The feeder sale will be held on October 18.

The fair has been held for seven consecutive years, with the idea to promote the feeder sale held each fall. The whole fair was the idea of W. B. Mitchell, who is known in all sections of the cattle country, and as a cattle broker.

Calves produced and raised on ranges in the Big Bend and sold in the feeder sale of 1933, won seven places in the Chicago International Stock Show of 1934. They won the championship in the Hereford class at the same show.

The fair embraces a first-class rodeo, all sorts of exhibits of farm products, mining, education, good high school and college football games. The big game this year will be between Abilene Christian college and Sul Ross of Alpine. Danes will be featured every night.

Officers of this year's fair are F. A. Mitchell, president; Jack Edwards, manager; A. M. McCabe, secretary-treasurer.

Executives of Sheep and Goat Raisers' Name S. Antonio for Annual Meeting

At the meeting held in Ozona last Thursday by the executive committee of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' association it was voted to hold the annual convention of the organization in San Antonio on December 5 and 6, and an entertainment and program committee was named, composed of Tom Bond, Weaver Baker, G. W. Cunningham and E. S. Mayer.

It was decided to incorporate the association as the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association for a period of fifty years, as an educational and agricultural group. Judge Weaver Baker was selected to draw up the application for a charter. This action was taken so as to protect members of the association from liability in any suits which might result from any acts of its agents.

Among resolutions endorsed at the meeting was that the United States Department of Agriculture, through its bureau of entomology, direct attention to control of the screw worm fly in west Texas; another was to ask the legislature which opened its special session Monday, to restore the $15,000 cut removed from the appropriation for predatory animal control at the last regular session.

The committee also voted endorsement of the plan to erect a fence along the Rio Grande to prevent tick-affected cattle from crossing into Texas, and to make border patrol duty easier.

The association has about 1200 members. It was stated.

At noon the visitors were guests of T. A. Kincaid, former president of the old Sheep and Goat Raisers' association, J. A. Haverick, and Wayne W. West at a luncheon at the Hotel Ozona.

Trains Running On Schedules After Long Tieup

Train service on the T. & N. O. railway, which was interrupted for nearly two weeks, due to the heavy flood rains which washed out or damaged practically every bridge east of Sanderson, was resumed Sunday night, the west-bound passenger arriving here at midnight. Freight service also, is normal from the east. All extra men on the bridge crews have been dismissed.

During the time that rail service from the east was cut off, a stub passenger train was run on regular daily schedule from El Paso, bringing mail, etc.

Regular bridge crews still have plenty of work repairing bridges that were damaged, and it will be several months before this job is finished, it was stated. Section crews, also, will be busy for some time repairing damage to the road bed in this section.

Eagles Tackle Van Horn Saturday in Non-Conference Tilt; Schedule Set

The Sanderson high school Eagles open the 1935 season at Legion Park tomorrow. Their opponents will be Van Horn and the game will have no bearing in the averages of either team, as Van Horn is in another district of the Interscholastic league. Business houses it is hoped, will close for the game tomorrow and our people should turn out en masse for this initial tilt, to encourage the Eagle squad.

A departure from other years is the fact that the Sanderson high school team is now a member of the Interscholastic League, playing none but eligible players.

Eligibility rules, as laid down by the league, knocks the Eagles out of two good players, Chris Haines, in the backfield being ruled ineligible on account of being a transfer from the Eden high school. Short, another likely prospect for the backfield, was ruled out for failure in grades.

Trial of Latta, on Murder Charge is Postponed to 30th

The case of Lawrence Latta, charged with murder, which was scheduled for trial at Mason on Monday of this week, was postponed until September 30, at a special session of district court.

The delay was granted on the plea of Will Morris, defense counsel, because of the absence of two witnesses, as well as his own impaired physical condition.

Latta is charged with the murder of his wife, Mrs. Estelle Calk Latta, who died of gunshot wounds on March 8, 1932, in an apartment house on N. Main St., Del Rio.

About fifty witnesses from Del Rio were summoned to Mason for the trial.

Latta is well known here and at one time ranched in this county, moving away shortly before the alleged murder occurred.

BREAKS COLLARBONE

An already doubtful line will be further handicapped in the game with Van Horn tomorrow afternoon. Essary Haines, husky tackle of the Eagles will watch the game from the bench, due to a broken collarbone, sustained in practice Thursday afternoon.

Gov. Allred Asks Legislators For New Taxes to Care For Increasing Expenses; Considers Old Age Aid

Austin, Sept. 18.—Governor James V. Allred threw open the whole field of revenue and tax legislation in a special message to the Texas legislature today.

He submitted the subject of revenue and taxation, together with old age pensions, calling on the solons to devise some means of meeting the added expense and the existing deficit in the State treasury.

"This administration inherited a tremendous deficit" Gov. Allred said, "the rural aid appropriation was increased $2,000,000 by the regular session and $3,000,000 was voted for the Centennial."

"In addition Texas must now begin the retirement of the $20,000,000 bond issue voted in 1933 for relief. These added financial responsibilities, together with the existing deficit, require submission of revenue and taxation so this legislature may devise ways and means to provide necessary finances."

RECOMMENDS TAXES

Gov. Allred recommended immediate enactment of a "graduated chain store tax, a sulphur tax, a tax on pipelines, a selective luxury tax and some corrective measures in franchise taxes advocated during the last session.

The senate confirmed all recess

The Sanderson high school Eagles open the 1935 season at Legion Park tomorrow. Their opponents will be Van Horn and the game will have no bearing in the averages of either team, as Van Horn is in another district of the Interscholastic league.

Business houses it is hoped, will close for the game tomorrow and our people should turn out en masse for this initial tilt, to encourage the Eagle squad.

A departure from other years is the fact that the Sanderson high school team is now a member of the Interscholastic League, playing none but eligible players.

Eligibility rules, as laid down by the league, knocks the Eagles out of two good players, Chris Haines, in the backfield being ruled ineligible on account of being a transfer from the Eden high school. Short, another likely prospect for the backfield, was ruled out for failure in grades.

Eagles' Schedule

- Sept. 21, Van Horn, here.
- Sept. 28, Marfa, here.
- Oct. 4, Alpine, here.
- Oct. 12, Iraan, here.
- Oct. 19, McCamey, there.
- Oct. 25, open.
- Nov. 1, Ft. Stockton, here.
- Nov. 8 and 15, open dates.
- Nov. 23, Big Lake, there.
- Nov. 28, Marfa, there.

Prospects for a team this year are bright, notwithstanding the fact that five regulars of last year are lost through graduation.

The backfield, especially, gives promise of being of the best ever turned out here. All backfield positions are filled with seasoned players, and the brunt of battle will be shared by Halley, Sullivan, Mussey and J. Loehausen, with Sullivan directing the plays.

Fifteen new suits are on hand and ready for use in this first game. Our people should be on hand at this game and every other game, to encourage the team.

The game will start promptly at 2:30 p. m., in Legion Park.

Bowman Champ Cowboy of the Pendleton Show

Pendleton, Oregon, Sept. 15.—Everett Bowman of Hillside, Arizona, closed a spectacular performance at the 26th annual Pendleton Roundup today to win the second leg of the $5000 Sam Jackson trophy before more than 25,000 visitors from parts of the West.

Bowman made a record of 16 seconds flat in calf roping and 11.4 seconds in steer bulldogging. Cleve Kelley of Fort Worth, Tex., was second, and Charlie Jones of Van Horn, Tex., third in the calf roping.

King Merritt of Federal, Wyo., Howard Westfall of Knox City, Texas, and Jake McClure of Lovington, N. M., placed first, second and third, respectively, in the steer roping.

STATE DUCK LAW NOW CONFORMS WITH FEDERAL

Austin, Sept. 16.—The Game Commission today conformed the state regulations governing water fowl shooting to federal requirements. The season will be from Nov. 20 to Dec. 19 and the bag limit will be ten ducks and four geese per day.

The commission voted to employ game and fish wardens for the hunting season, the number depending on funds available.

GEN. McARTHUR WILL RETIRE FROM U. S. ARMY

General Douglas MacArthur announced this week that he would retire as chief of staff of the army on December 15, to undertake the task of organizing the military defense of the new commonwealth government of the Philippines.

Child Seriously Burned When Clothing Ignites

Betty Sue, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yeates, sustained severe burns on her back and neck and underneath her arms last Monday afternoon when her clothing caught fire. The child was playing in the back yard of the home, where a tub was being used to burn paper and trash, when, getting too close to the blaze her clothing was ignited and her dress was burned completely before aid arrived.

In spite of the severity of the burns, and the terrible shock to the little one's entire nervous system, it is not thought that any serious result will follow.

End Hearing in Smith Case; But May Be Reopened

Hearings in the Smith case, a suit by Mrs. Viola Seeley, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Ida May Ramsey, seeking two-ninths interest in the 21,000 oil acres in Pecos county, owned by their mother, the late Mrs. M. A. Smith, were concluded last Saturday before H. L. McCune, federal master in chancery. However, T. R. Boone, Wichita Falls attorney for Mrs. Seeley and Mrs. Ramsey, reserved the right to decide within 30 days whether he wants the case reopened for a hearing at Phoenix, Arizona.

In addition to the interest in the acreage, the complainants asked for a two-ninths interest in approximately $300,000 cash, alleged to have been collected by James Cornell, San Angelo, who was attorney in fact for the Monroe heirs. Cornell testified expenses in defending and prosecuting suits involving the oil lands had been heavy. It was developed that Boone Cornell spent about $208,000 for attorneys' fees, exclusive of other items.

McCune is to submit his findings by Jan. 1 to Federal Judge Charles A. Boynton, who will render judgment in the case.

HAND SEVERELY INJURED

Russell Dyer, who is working at Lozier canyon, had his left hand badly lacerated when it was caught in the gears of the steam shovel. Russell was oiling the huge machine when his foot slipped and, in trying to catch his balance, his hand came in contact with the gears. He was brought to town and given medical attention, several stitches being required to close the wound.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

THE 1935-1936 SCHOOL YEAR

Much speculation was had as to what would be the result of changes, that of superintendent, in the faculty, and in several of the study courses.

The Times, as well as patrons of the school, watched anxiously for the answer and, at the beginning of the third week, we feel safe in predicting one of the best years for Sanderson schools during the current term.

This conclusion, be reminded, was not reached in haphazard manner. Talking freely with many of the students who, in turn freely and frankly answered our queries, proves that the 1935-36 term starts with brighter prospects than any heretofore, that there is an evident spirit of cooperation between the faculty and student body that promises to place our school on a higher plane, with the maximum benefits to the larger majority of students enrolled.

We are positive that the man chosen to head our public schools is well qualified in every respect, a man with a sense of fairness—one who will cooperate with the student body, zealous to see them well trained, mentally and physically. That attitude on the part of the superintendent has been woefully lacking for many years.

To balance all this there must be a wholehearted spirit of cooperation on the part of the patrons. Their moral support must be given without stint, for, after all, are they not your boys and girls? Are you not the ones vitally interested, in that the welfare of your children, present and future is involved? Visit the school often, confer with the teacher about problems affecting your child. When this twofold interest is manifested then, indeed, will the Sanderson schools take rank with the best in Texas.

In the matter of athletics also, we should all be interested. The physical side is as important as the literary. A student to whom the sciences are an open book, yet whose body groans under the least strain of physical exertion, is but half a man. So also, the boy or girl excelling in every major sport, giants physically but gnats mentally, will enjoy the spot light for a brief moment, and is then relegated to oblivion. But the student, male or female who blend the physical with the mental, strikes a balance that approaches perfection as near as is humanly possible.

So, let's all pledge ourselves to get behind the school—YOUR school, MY school, take an interest in the outlined program, encourage the physical as well as the literary and, above all, cooperate wherever possible with those to whom your children are entrusted.

A SPANKING RECOVERY

Under the emphatic influence of spanking nearly any little boy will promise to be good. And so sincere does his discomfort make him feel about his promise that he cannot imagine himself ever again misbehaving.

Much of the comment with which we endured the earlier stages of our economic spanking was as fervently sincere as the little boy's "I'll be good." We became aware that prosperity must be built up from the bottom on a basis of purchasing power instead of being expected to seep down from the top. We admitted that too much money had gone to dividends and too little to wages. We confessed that profit margins had increased whereas prices to consumers should have decreased. We saw that our spanking might have been avoided had we known that a mass-production economy depended on mass purchasing power. And we vowed that the new prosperity should be built on sounder foundations than our late lamented boom had been.

So it is with mixed feelings that we watch recovery reports burgeoning. Prosperity is coming. But it is beginning at the top. "This business pickup is restoring confidence to the well-to-do classes." But the workers are waiting. Pay rises do not equal rises in the cost of living. They never did in the past, but we had hoped they would in the future. In fact, we thought we had learned that they must. Re-employment is not proportionate to the increase in business because machines are more efficient. But machines only produce. They do not consume. And in a mass production economy, consumption is the key to continuing prosperity. Spanking had seemed to make this point unforgettable.

But recovery is coming. It is on its way down from the top. And it is better that way than not at all. Only there are questions. Are we going to be spanked for enjoying the same kind of prosperity as has always brought punishment in the past? Or are we going to make up our minds to "be good" soon enough before another spanking is due.—Christian Science Monitor.

YOUNG, BUT LEVEL-HEADED

The Times can cheerfully say "amen" to the ultimatum of Gov. Alfred who, in his recommendations to the legislature contended this week, to deal with special measures, that there should be no State monopoly of liquor traffic; that he was opposed to a sales tax for the purpose of raising revenue to pay old-age pensions.

State monopoly of liquor sales would cause the institution of "package houses," where liquor might be purchased, but not drunk on the premises. Controlling these wet status would be men appointed by or through the influence of politicians, and the gate would be wide open for some of the juiciest graft known to the State. Private ownership, with stringent, inflexible laws governing sales, is the logical solution.

Modified, indeed, is the route to solution of old-age pensions. The Times is of the opinion that the legislators will be "up in the air" in unmaking this amendment. In the first place ways and means of establishing a fund must be worked out; second, approximate figures as to how many there will be who are entitled to pensions must be procured; third, the Times humbly points out, that the amendment carried, overwhelmingly, in the original, haphazard manner in which it was submitted, which rendered old-age assistance to every person over 65 years of age, under certain conditions of residence. Can the legislature override the voice of the majority? The wording of the proposed amendment was plain; its provisions called for payment of the pension on the basis of age and established residence; but a word was said about the need of the would-be recipient, or his dependency on the stipulated amount of $15 as a means of existence. Nevertheless, the measure carried in that shape—the people spoke in a loud voice; the measure is now a part of the Texas constitution. It will be interesting to see just what the legislators do about it.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

Austin.—The gage of battle to adopt a state monopoly system for the sale of hard liquor in Texas was thrown into the legislative arena this week on the eve of the opening of the special liquor control session of the 44th legislature.

Ex-Senator Tom Love of Dallas spokesman for the bone-drys, and veteran of innumerable prohibition campaigns, sent a letter to every member of the state legislature, urging state monopoly, and asserting that only in those nine states which have adopted the system has any substantial revenue accrued to the state.

Bitter, and probably successful resistance, will be encountered to his plan from distillers, liquor wholesalers and distributors, hotels, restaurants and all who hope to profit from the liquor traffic.

The state monopolists will have another try at it, if they fail in the special session, next year, when the people will vote on a constitutional amendment setting up state monopoly. Wet leaders here are gravely concerned over what will take place in the intervening year and a half. If regulation is too lax, if drunken drivers kill too many people, if public drinking by women at bars where women and young girls are bartenders is too widespread, they fear a strong reaction that will result in the voters adopting the state monopoly next year.

Meanwhile, in the larger cities of Texas and in many small ones, those who profit from the sale of liquor, apparently are doing their utmost to confirm the fears of wet leaders. Throughout the state liquor dealers have "jumped the gun," not even waiting until the state constitutional amendment is repealed by official canvass of the voters but opening up saloons—specifically prohibited by the amendment—where all varieties of hard liquor and mixed drinks are served. Local option laws are utterly disregarded. Breweries in Texas, and out, manufactured and shipped 8 per cent beer into the state even before election day, releasing it in floods on election night. Every bottle or keg that is made or sold in the state constituted a separate offense, a violation of both state and federal laws, in effect at the time. In Fort Worth a 28-year-old girl married in a saloon as a crowd of drinkers cheered an ordained minister performing the ceremony before an altar of roses erected on the bar. Drug stores throughout the state continued their magnificent disregard of all laws, and sold packaged liquor by thousands of gallons. Whatever the legislature enacted is in the saddle so far as liquor sales in Texas are concerned today.

The state prison board, meeting in Houston last Saturday, accepted the resignation of Lee Simmons, longtime superintendent and manager of the system, and appointed Dave Nelson his successor. Nelson is from Orange, is chairman of the livestock sanitary commission, manager of the Stark farming interests, and is a World War veteran, who won decorations for gallantry. Gordon Burns, Harlingen's senator, and many other members of both houses, protested asked delay in voting on Simmons' resignation until the legislature could investigate.

The incident brought to a head a long-smoldering fight between Simmons and his friends and a majority of the prison board. Simmons' friends claim he has been handicapped by the board, while, his critics, headed by Sen. Tom Blalock of Galveston, have criticized Simmons loudly. Both factions promise a legislative investigation which likely will develop early in the special session.

The widespread interest of Texas in oil was again exemplified in the last session of the railroad commission, which listed and fixed allowances for 174 separate fields. No section of the state seems to be without oil production or potential production. Sixty per cent of the state's counties produce oil. Nowhere among the areas where production limits are undefined is the Rio Grande valley section, where Union Sulphur company brought in a discovery well and quickly completed a second fine producer. Larry Jacobs, general public relations director of the Southland Life Insurance Co., passing through Austin after a visit to the field, reported oil excitement throughout the valley region. His company owns sev-

A battle royal between two of the faithful from the Democratic ranks for appointment as judge of the federal court for the northern district of Texas is in prospect. T. W. (Whit) Davidson, once Lt.-Governor, now a Dallas insurance executive, and J. Percival Rice, Dallas attorney, campaign manager last year for Sen. Tom Connally, and assistant federal Centennial commissioner, are rival candidates. Davidson has been endorsed by Sen. Morris Sheppard, Rice by Sen. Connally. A deadlock may result, as endorsement of both senators likely will be required by any successful candidate. The appointment will probably be made in December, when Judge Weldon Meek reaches the age of retirement. The post pays $10,000 a year, and appointment is for life.

"Doubting Thomas" One of Rogers' Last Pictures Termed Laugh Holiday

Will Rogers' fans all over the country are waiting for the laugh holiday that will give them their favorite star in "Doubting Thomas," which will be shown at the Princess Theatre tonight and Saturday. It portrays the late beloved humorist in one of the funniest roles he ever attempted, in a picture that is a laugh cyclone by itself.

In this picture Mr. Rogers portrays the role of a simple, home-loving sausage manufacturer, one whose home life is suddenly tossed into a turmoil when an amateur impressario, Alison Skipworth, persuades his wife, Billie Burke, that she has been suppressed all of her married life, and that she really belong to the stage and her public.

Rogers' son, Frank Albertson, finds that his sweetie, Frances Grant, has also become stage-struck. Father and son have their troubles after wife and fiancée appear in an amateur charity show, which will force patrons of the Princess to hold onto their seats.

Rogers finally effects a cure that is a fitting climax to one of the late beloved humorist's best pictures. Sterling Holloway is a scream as the bungling sound-effects man for the amateur play.

Thrills, Romance Piled Together in 'Hooray for Love'

Comedy, romance and glamour divide honors against a background of music in RKO Radio's "Hooray for Love" which features Ann Sothern and Gene Raymond.

Romance is supplied by the young college man who aspires to be a Broadway producer and the girl who wants to be a musical comedy star. When their paths cross it is love at first sight, and they travel the road to success together.

Two clever comedy teams carry the burden of the hilarity provided in the story. Pert Kelton, as a gold-digging chorus girl, is teamed with Etienne Girardot, as a senile old judge who is being induced to put his money into a Broadway show so that his darling can be in the company.

Thurston Hall and Georgia Caine, as an ancient thespian and a wealthy frivolous widow, respectively, are embroiled in several mirth provoking situations. Musical selections sung in a night club and a radio station and a four-act revue comprise the musical background. Bill Robinson and Maria Gambarelli are featured in two widely different dancing specialties.

WANTED—Two permanent boarders, gentlemen or ladies. Good home-cooked meals served family style.—Mrs. L. A. Lowe, etc.

Miss Helen Allison of San Angelo, is in the city visiting her sister, Mrs. Noble Latson.

H. G. Holt motored to Brownwood last Sunday and returned home Monday accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Holt, who will spend the winter here.

In and Around the Home INTERESTING ITEMS PICKED UP HERE AND THERE

With fall just around the corner, fire lighting time will soon be here. The loss each year from preventable fires is enormous and much of the damage is the direct result of faulty chimneys and flues. The fall seems to be harvest time for this destruction and for that reason every family occupying a home in which wood or coal is used for heating should examine chimneys before starting the fall fires. Many things can happen to flues during the idle summer season. Birds often used as nesting places; heavy rains and winds can cause loose bricks to topple and become lodged. Each case will form an obstruction to a proper draft and soot likely to have accumulated, will become a blazing menace. Bricks and mortar may become loosened and as few chimneys have special lining, smoke and fire gases tend to disintegrate the mortar. A little forethought in these matters will be well repaid.

With fall just around the corner, a stalk of celery, salt and pepper. Place the veal in boiling water with the carrot, onion, and celery and let simmer until quite tender. Remove the veal from the broth and when nearly cold remove the meat from the bone, running it through the food chopper or cutting it into cubes. Next skim the fat from the broth, re-heat and stir the veal into it, seasoning to taste (addition of lemon juice and chopped peppers will vary the seasoning). Place the resulting mixture into a mold and let stand until it sets, after which it may be served in thin slices.

Boiled Oyster Sandwiches Arrange fresh oysters on broiling rack. Salt and pepper lightly. Broil at low heat 6 to 10 minutes. Dip in sauce and serve with thin slices of dill pickle between slices of toasted whole wheat bread buttered slightly. The sauce is made as follows: Cream 4 tablespoons butter, add 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Mix well.

When to Stop Cooking Jelly Some jelly-makers use a thermometer to discover the point when pectin and acid of cooking fruit juice combine with sugar to make jelly. They say this point is reached when the thermometer reads 219 to 221 degrees Fahrenheit. However, most housewives use a simpler method since the temperature when jelly "sheets off" may vary with the kind of fruit or its condition. When the rapidly boiling juice reaches the stage where it no longer runs out of a spoon in a steady stream, but separates into two lines or drops which sheet together it is time to stop cooking.

Bran Doughnuts Mix and sift 4 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, and 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg. Add 1 cup of bran and mix well. Cream 3 tablespoons fat and 1/2 cup sugar and mix together until well blended. Add dry ingredients and 1 cup milk alternately to fat, sugar and egg mixture; begin and end with a portion of the flour mixture. Knead lightly and roll out 1/2 inch thick. Cut with small doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat hot enough to brown inch cube of bread in 60 seconds. Drain and serve hot. This recipe makes 30 or 40 doughnuts. Three or four whole cloves added to the frying fat will give a delightful spicy flavor to the crisp crust of the doughnuts.

Fine Cold Meat Dish An appreciated departure from the regular cold cuts may be had in the form of jellied veal which of course must be prepared beforehand. For its preparation use a knuckle of veal, half a med-

THAT'S THE SPIRIT

The following editorial was prepared by Earl Hurst of the sixth grade as part of the regular class work—Editor.
"Now that this is the first of school we hope it turns out like it has started. We also hope to get along with our teachers. We will take eight or nine subjects this year and will have eight teachers. We all want to be prepared with our lessons every day. Also, we want to be here every day—and on time. We want no fusses on the playground, as we want to have good athletic teams. We've started school with a bang! Let's go through with a bang! And finish with a bang! Let's make this school year the best in the history of Sanderson."

This For That

By ELTON HALLEY

Coach Smith has nearly pulled all his hair out trying to teach Cy Mussey to spin with a football.

It looks as if Dick Sullivan and Roy Deaton are going to be big orchestra leaders some day, due to the progress they are making in the band.

Mr. Parker—What is a dature? Mildred Underwood—It's the roughest distance between two points.

"Porky" Richardson looks as if he has been eating grape nuts, due to the fact that he has so much pep.

Our football star has the red hair and looks like another Red Grange. All he needs is the figure 77.

Salesman—How does your wife like the new radio you bought for her?

Mr. Holt—Fine, only the first day she got the plugs mixed with the ice-box plugs and when I got home the radio was all frosted over and the ice-box was singing "When It's Springtime in the Rockies."

Melven Pollard one of the outstanding seniors, has made up his mind to be a great surgeon.

Nelle Lea—What's an operetta? Miss Howell—Don't be foolish—it's a girl who works for the telephone company.

Bill Smith Says: "Grammar and I get along like a Russian and a bathtub."

O. T. Schupbach shows more promise at school, except that he always muddles his past participles. After saying "I have wrote," the teacher explained to him how wrong it was, and told him to write, "I have written" one hundred times.

The lines were left on the teacher's desk with the note: "I have wrote 'I have written' one hundred times as you told me, and now I have went home to dinner."

The purpose of this column, my friends, is to give our brothers and sisters of the seniors, juniors and sophomore classes a better acquaintanceship with the frosh, to promote a feeling of friendship between the members of our class and to fill us space.

Ninth Grade Elects

The ninth grade elected Constance Richardson president and Dorothy Wilson sponsor. There are eighteen members in the Sophomore class.

Yes Eagles! Beat Van Horn.

The Football Code

Following is a copy of the football code, adopted by Conference teams of the Interscholastic League

1. To play the game in a spirit of fairness and clean sportsmanship.
2. To observe all rules and not hold, or coach from the sidelines, or use trickery in equipping players.
3. To accept the decisions of officials without protest.
4. To treat opponents as your guests and friends.
5. To put clean play above victories.
6. To be able to win with boasting and to lose without a grudge.
7. To learn that victory, after all, is no great matter—the important thing is the manly striving to excel and the good feeling it fosters between those who play fair and have no excuse when they lose.

UNDER THE Eagle's Wing

BY O. T. SCHUPBACH

The 1935 Sanderson high school Eagles get under way Saturday with a game against Van Horn, at Legion Park. Coach Smith and his charges are hopeful of a victory.

Van Horn has an ex-Lobo for coach. He is Jim Terrell, who lettered in three sports while attending Sul Ross college. They had a successful year last season and have many returning lettermen on the squad this year.

Ineligibility Rules

The Big Bad Wolf is in the Eagles' nest again. Three men, because of transfer and failure in passing the required subjects will not get to play this year. Chris Haines, quarterback, is a transfer from Eden, when he played last year. "Shorty" Short and H. C. Monroe are the others.

Coach Smith says he has seven lettermen, as a nucleus around which to build this year's team. He is still working for a passer and a punter. Mussey and Halley are the best prospects for punters, and Lochausen is developing into a very nice passer. Sullivan has been calling signals very successfully.

In the Line

So far the line is a question. Deaton seems to have the pivot position under control. With Chris Haines and Appel in guard positions these spots seem to be pretty well taken care of. Both are fast and aggressive and, boy, they love that game! The tackles are still doubtful, but Richardson and Kerr seem to be the best material so far. Laughlin is making it pretty tough on them, and here is hoping that he'll make them work all the harder. Bogusch and Smith are the wingmen. Black is bidding for a backfield position with Lea at end. Other boys who are working hard are Cook, Allen and Chandler.

If the boys get in better shape and stay that way they can make it tough for other teams. Our boys are working hard, so everyone be sure to attend the games and give them plenty of encouragement.

Don't forget—at the American Legion Park, Saturday, at 2:30 p. m. Everybody is expected to be present at the opener against Van Horn. You know "Eagle spirit never dies."

Yes Eagles! Beat Van Horn.

I'll see you at the game tomorrow. Don't fail to be there.

To be a man is not only to know but to do for the future what the past has done for you.—Ger.

Yes Eagles! Beat Van Horn.
