ANNUAL PTA CARNIVAL SAT. NIGHT

Proceeds Will Be Used by Association For Work Among School Children

Witches and hobgoblins will be featured in one big carnival scene tomorrow night when the Sanderson Parent-Teacher Association holds its annual Halloween carnival in the building formerly occupied by the McKnight service station.

The carnival will begin with an parade of school children in festive costumes, starting from the elementary school building at 5:30 p. m. and led by the high school band. The line of march will be through the business section of town to the carnival grounds. Prizes will be awarded for the best costume in each of the seven elementary grades.

The carnival this year will be a Centennial theme as to main attractions. "Casa Manana," from the Frontier Centennial exposition will be staged, as well as the "Cavalade of Texas," from the Centennial exposition in Dallas. Characteristic carnival booths and games will be provided. The Eagle football team will be in charge of the "Beano" game and the pitching game, and one-half the proceeds of these games will be donated to the team.

A fortune-telling booth will be featured; a "Nudist Colony," and a "Believe It or Not" attraction will be planned. A chuck wagon supper will be served on the carnival grounds, as well as some made candy and pop corn.

Mrs. E. W. Hardgrave and Mrs. E. L. Surratt are in charge of the general arrangements of the carnival. Other chairmen are: Miss Jessie Chyle Leath, "Cavalade of Texas"; Mrs. Vera Wade, "Casa Manana"; Mrs. Leona Ulbricht, "Nudist Colony"; Miss Hazel Owen, Ripley's "Believe It or Not"; D. L. Duke, games; Mrs. Clyde Higgins, Halloween novelties; Mrs. Sam Underwood, candy; Mrs. C. I. White, popcorn; Mr. J. J. Hensley, music; E. W. Hardgrave and Clyde Morris, in charge of grounds and lights.

High Court Rules Theatre Money Nights are Legal

A decision handed down by the Austin Court of Civil Appeals, it seems, sets at rest the legality of what is termed Bank Night sponsored by Texas theatres. In the opinion Chief Justice James W. Clendon stated there was no violation of Texas anti-lottery laws, merely because a patron bought a ticket to the show, and registered for a chance at the weekly prize, but had paid nothing to become eligible to win the prize.

The decision was not final, for the awarding of prizes in many theatres there are other angles to be considered, such as insurance guarantees, etc.

Holman Elected Head of Legion For Year 1936-37

P. J. Holman, well known barber of this city, was elected post commander of the Clarence Halley Mulkey Post, No. 160, American Legion, at its regular meeting held here last Thursday night, at the courthouse. Mr. Holman will serve during the 1936-37 term.

Other officers elected at this time were Andy Anderson, vice-commander; D. L. Duke, adjutant; Ray Caldwell, chaplain; Tip Trazier, sergeant-at-arms; Alfred Creigh, service officer.

TO THE PHILIPPINES

Sgt. H. L. Richardson was in from the airport Monday, and delivered what he styled his valedictory. He and his fine family will leave for San Antonio Sunday, where he will be stationed for a short time before he is transferred to a post in the Philippine Islands.

Many of our people will join us in regrets at the departure of this fine family. For a little over 3 years they have been at home at the U. S. airdrome, and during that time have taken a keen interest in the affairs of Sanderson and Dryden. Especially have they been active and helpful in the affairs of our public schools, and the Sergeant and his family have been helpful in many ways, especially by taking an active interest in all forms of athletics sponsored by the school. This support was both moral and financial. Their loss will be regretted but here's luck to them wherever Uncle Sam sets them down.

Dallas Man and Wife Victims of Auto Tragedy

J. B. Currie, livestock sanitary inspector stationed in Sanderson, left Monday afternoon for Dallas, on receipt of a message telling of the death of his nephew, B. M. Hardin, 38, which occurred that morning when a car in which he and Mrs. Hardin were riding was struck by a Texas & Pacific passenger train.

Hardin, steel foreman at the Texas company, was enroute to work, and was waiting at a grade crossing for one passenger train to pass, and, due a heavy rain, he failed to see a second train, and drove directly in its path. Mrs. Hardin, according to reports, was hurled 200 feet, against one of the station buildings and killed instantly. Mr. Hardin died enroute to a hospital.

Besides his parents, he is survived by 4 children, and other relatives, including an uncle, J. B. Currie of this city.

Absentee Voting Is Light Due to Delay of Ballots

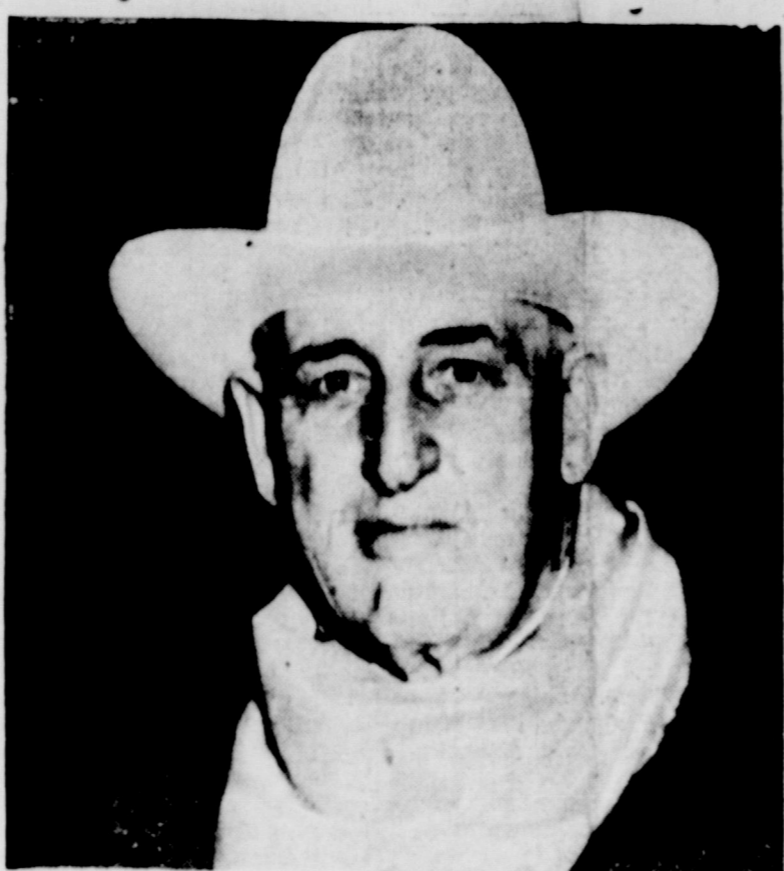

Up to noon Wednesday thirty-four absentee votes had been cast and filed with the county clerk, but it is expected that many more will be cast before the deadline for absentee voting, which is Saturday, October 31.

The general election will be held next Tuesday, November 3, the polls opening at 8 a. m. and closing at 7:30 p. m. The following will hold the election in the different precincts:

Precinct No. 1, at the courthouse: W. J. Ferguson, presiding judge; C. M. Breeding, R. S. Wilkinson, J. D. Nichols, judges. In Precinct No. 2, at the community house in Dryden: Z. C. Dameron, presiding judge, and Mrs. Jerry Bell, judge. Precinct 3, at the Cecil Arvin headquarters ranch: Albert Appel presiding judge, and Cecil Arvin judge. Precinct 4, at the Independence school house: C. M. Turk presiding judge, and L. H. Hicks, judge.

MOVES TO EL PASO

Capt. and Mrs. Frank Frickleton, enroute to Honolulu, from Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, spent the week end in Sanderson as the guests of Mrs. Frickleton's mother, Mrs. W. R. Ellis. They left the first of the week for El Paso, accompanied by Mrs. Ellis who will make her home in that city. Mrs. Ellis has been a resident of Sanderson for more than 30 years, and has many friends here who wish her well in her new home, although they regretted to see her leave.

When S. T. S. contest winners and 100-car club dealers came to Dallas as guests of the Ford Motor Company, they saw a bit of the old-time west. Ten-gallon hats, flowing handkerchiefs, and a two-team western stage coach met them. Here is W. C. Cowling, director of sales for the Ford Motor Company, garbed in hat and kerchief as he greeted the incomers.

Texas Doped to Give Democrats Landslide Vote November 30 is Deadline to Pay On Split Tax Plan

Austin, Oct. 29.—Democratic presidential electors will establish a lead better than three and one-half to one over Republican standard-bearers in the 16th congressional district, Roy Miller, state campaign director, predicted today after tabulating vote estimates by the Democratic county chairmen in 14 of the district's 19 counties.

The tabulation showed a total estimated vote in the 14 counties of 21,943, with 16,910 of them Democratic, 4,918 Republican and the remainder scattered among minor parties.

Reports have already been received at state headquarters here from county chairmen in 156 of the state's 254 counties, including all of the largest counties except Bexar. Tabulations reveal a total vote of 626,310 in the 156 reporting counties, with an estimated Democratic vote of 509,884, a Republican total of 97,108, a better than five-to-one Democratic state average.

El Paso should poll 10,000 votes with 7,000 Democratic, 3,000 Republican, County Chairman R. E. Cunningham predicted.

Charles Judkins, county chairman of Ector county, estimated a total there of 900 with 750 Democratic, 150 Republican, 25 scattered. Midland county's total should approximate 1600 with 1300 Democratic, 300 Republican, County Chairman R. W. Hamilton predicted.

Brewster county should poll 1000 votes, with 91 per cent of the vote for Democratic electors, eight per cent for Republicans, and one per cent scattered, County Chairman Jim P. Wilson said.

Other 16th district county reports were as follows (with the Democratic vote estimate listed first): Crane, 440 to 110; Culberson, 245 to 1; Jeff Davis, 290 to 55; Loving, 160 to 8; Pecos, 1700 to 300; Presidio, 900 to 100; Reagan, 340 to 60; Reeves, 120 to 300; Terrell, 425 to 275; and Ward, 1250 to 200.

ATTENDS O. E. S. MEETING
Mrs. Mora Cochran left last Saturday for Mineral Wells, Tex., where she went as delegate from the Sanderson Chapter No. 136, Order of Eastern Star, to the state meeting of the Grand Chapter, held in that city this week.

DAUGHTER TO BENTLEYS
Announcements received by relatives here tell of the arrival of Eva Leonora Bentley, weight 8 pounds, on October 22 at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W. H. Mansfield in Uvalde. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bentley.

Payment of 1936 taxes in this county are rather slow, according to reports from the office of the tax collector. Up to the present time the majority of those who have paid taxes are the property owners whose taxes are light, and a few paying on the split-tax plan.

Poll tax payments are also very light, the records showing but 15 of such have been paid to date. Those desiring to vote in elections during 1937 have until midnight of January 31, 1937, to pay a poll tax.

Just one short month remains in which taxpayers may take advantage of the split-tax payment plan. November 30 is the last day of the split-tax plan, whereby taxes may be divided into two equal payments, one due on or before November 30 this year, the other half payable on or before June 30, 1937.

Tax collection for the past year were good, according to reports, and it is thought they will be equally as good this year.

TURK ON CRUTCHES
Mr. and Mrs. Doc Turk were in from their ranch Monday mingling with friends and shopping. It is with regret that Doc's friends noted him getting around with the aid of crutches, due to injuries sustained when he fell off a gate. What Doc was doing on the gate the editor was unable to find out. At any rate Doc is up and going, for which he is thankful.

NEW SON
Mr. and Mrs. Buster Edwards are the parents of a son that was born last Wednesday, October 21. The young man weighed eight and one-half pounds and has been named McNeil Whistler Edwards. He is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. John Whistler, Sr., of this place, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Edwards of Sierra Blanca.

A POPULAR YOUNG LADY
Miss Bennie Mussey, Sanderson high school miss, got the thrill that comes only once in a lifetime last Monday night when her name was drawn for the tidy sum of $115. And she was there with bells on and they're still ringing.

On Next Monday night the sum to be given away at the theatre dwindles to $15.

MOISTURE A-PLENTY
A unique experience for this section occurred this week. For nearly three days the sun has failed to shine. Slow drizzling rains have been the order during this time, and ranchers are happy over the prospect of good winter pasturage.

EAGLES ANNEX FIRST VICTORY OVER RANKIN HERE SATURDAY

An Eagle team, showing much improvement in its offense work, clashed here last Saturday with the Red Devils from Rankin, and a 14 to 0 score chalked up the first local win in five tries.

From the start it was clear that the Eagles had a decided edge on the Upton county boys. Playing straight football from the start, the Eagles gained at will behind an interference that clicked better than at any time during the present season. Their defensive game was all that one could ask.

Rankin threatened but once during the afternoon, in the second quarter, when a long pass placed the ball on the Sanderson 1-yard stripe, where the Eagles' defense tightened and held the Red Devils for downs.

In the air Sanderson outclassed Rankin, tossing one for a touchdown and placing the ball in position for another.

The Eagle team, as a whole, turned in a fine game Saturday, but the work of Bogusch and E. Haines in the backfield stood out. Bogusch's accurate flinging, and Haines consistent gains thru the line had much to do with the win. Short, shifty back, still bothered with a weak ankle, made several spectacular runs, and accounted for one touchdown via the air.

First Quarter

Sanderson won the toss, choose to receive. Rankin kicked to the Eagles' 15, and was returned to the Eagle 25-yard line. Bogusch made 5 over tackle, Haines bucked center for first down; Short skirted end for 6. Bogusch plunged thru for a first down. Haines fumbled the snapback for a loss, and then bucked center for 7 yds. Bogusch ripped off enough over tackle for first down in Rankin's territory. Sanderson drew an early side penalty. Alternating in carrying the ball, the Eagle backs placed the ball on Rankin's 32 yd. Bogusch passed to Short, who got away and was brought down by Rankin's safety man on the 2-yd line. One yard was picked up on the next play. A 10-yd penalty moved the ball back to the 11-yd stripe. Bogusch going over his own left tackle placed the ball on the one-foot line and Haines went through center for the first score of the game. Bogusch bucked center and went over standing up for the extra point.

Sanderson kicked to the 20-yd line, Rankin returned to their 30. Rankin gained one thru center, but lost 6 on the next play when the snapback was fumbled, then kicked to the Eagle 30. Short returning the ball to the 30 yd. line. With Bogusch and Haines alternating in toting the ball the Eagles clipped off two first downs. A pass, Bogusch to Fierro gained 4 yards as the quarter ended. Sanderson 7, Rankin 0.

Second Quarter

The snapback was fumbled and the Eagles lost a yard. Short's end around end was good for 6. A long pass to Allen who was in the open dropped out of his hands. Bogusch made first down over his right tackle. Haines was stopped at the line on a buck. A long was intercepted by Rankin and the ball went into play on the Eagles' 39 yard line. A end run netted Rankin 9. A plunge at the Eagle line for the extra yard failed to gain. Rankin then completed a pass the receiver getting into the open, and finally being brought down by Short, Eagle safety, on the Sanderson 10 yard line. Rankin gained a yard over guard, the snapback was fumbled on the next play and the visitors lost 6 yard on the play. Two attempts to pass over the goal line were knocked down and the ball went to Sanderson. Short picked up 6 around end, but the Eagles drew a penalty for roughing. Backed against the goal posts Bogusch faked a punt, while Haines went through center to 10 yards. Bogusch added four more over tackle, and Haines picked up plenty for a first down. A pass from Bogusch to Allen netted 9, and Bogusch made it first down in midfield. A long pass to Allen was too high,

Costume Revue To Be Staged at Princess Theatre

At the Princess Theatre tomorrow night, a special Halloween program will be presented at the midnight hour, featuring the picture, "The Walking Dead," with Boris Karloff in what is said to be the wierdest role of his long career on the screen.

In connection with the picture program the management is featuring a Costume Revue, in which prizes will be awarded in three divisions: for the most daring costume, for the most beautiful costume and for the most original costume. The only condition for one to be eligible for any of the prizes is that those participating register at the box office not later than tonight (Friday). Judges for the contest will be selected from the audience.

The picture, to be shown but one time, will commence at 11:30 p. m. Admission prices will be 10 and 25 cents.

as the half ended, Sanderson 7, Rankin 0.

Third Quarter

Sanderson kicked to the Rankin 25, where the ball was fumbled. Sanderson recovering. The first plunge by Haines netted 15; a penalty for roughing placed the Eagles close to their own goal. A pass, Bogusch to Allen was good for 10, two more flings were incomplete and Rankin took the ball near midfield. Two thru center and 8 over guard netted Rankin a first down; another first down was clicked off around end. Rankin lost a yard on the next play, then fumbled. Sanderson recovering on their own 33 yd line. Fierro made 3 over tackle, Haines bucked center for first down. Bogusch made 7, and Haines made it first down. Another first down for the Eagles when Fierro went over tackle. Bogusch made one, but the Eagles drew another penalty for roughing. Allen snagged a pass from Bogusch, but it was short of a first down. Another pass was batted down and the ball went to Rankin on the Eagle 27-yard stripe. Rankin drew a penalty for roughing, and kicked to the Eagle 33, and Short in the afternoon's best performance of broken field running, returned it to Rankin's 34 yard line. After a line play Bogusch heaved to Short who weaved his way over to the Eagles' second touchdown. A plunge thru center by Haines was good for the extra point. Sanderson kicked to Rankin's 30, and was returned to the visitors' 40. Rankin lost a yard on a reverse, hurt on the play and was replaced as the quarter ended. Fierro was by Dishman. Eagles 14, Rankin 0.

Fourth Quarter

Rankin made a first down on a long pass. Two tries at the Eagle line failed to gain, and on fourth down a long pass was intercepted by Bogusch on the Eagle 35-yard line. A pass from Bogusch was juggled by Short, who finally snagged the oval and placed it on Rankin's 30-yard line. A short pass to Allen was good; Bogusch made it first down over tackle but was hurt on the play, Fierro replacing him. For the remainder of the game the ball changed hands three times. The fast pace was taking toll from the offensive play of the Eagles, while Rankin made a desperate effort to make its first count of the season. Both teams were in midfield when the game ended. Sanderson 14, Rankin 0, was the final score.

Every Eagle substitute saw a few minutes action in this game. Rankin was penalized once for 15 yards. Sanderson drew 5 penalties for a total of 55 yards. Rankin made 6 first downs, the Eagles made 16. Rankin threw seven passes, 2 were completed, 4 were incomplete, 1 intercepted, 1 was intercepted.

Column Right

This is the last crack we get at the G. O. P. We predict an overwhelming victory for the New Deal. If we're wrong we'll soon know. The present campaign has been a peculiar one. Roosevelt, on one hand, promising a continuance of security legislation; Landon, with his prepared speeches, promising nothing new, but at the same time building up bogey-men to scare the voters into line. Most of the Republican thunder was full of "If this should happen, or that." Their candidate is a weakling—about as much of a figure among men as a sunflower would be among roses. So, in conclusion, ladies and gentlemen, as we wait for Vox Pop to have his say at the polls, we'll remind you that the American republic, its people and institutions will outlast this and future campaigns. It WILL NOT explode regardless of who is elected next month. Should it be Roosevelt the people will continue their march to an era of unprecedented security and prosperity. Should Landon aided by Big Money manage to squeeze thru, we—well, we will soon be in a mell of a hess!

A veteran who pilfered some candy during the World War, recently sent a check to the Treasury department. It was for $2, and might be termed "conscience money." Awful sweet of him.

An anxious mother writes to the heart-break column of a daily paper, stating that her daughter doesn't care a thing about parties of any kind, and that she will not attend any public functions unless the mother goes with her. She wants to know what ails the young lady. That's easy—she was born thirty years too late.

Harrison Douglas, St. Louis, is the owner of a razor he claims is 126 years old. It can't be any worse than the one our barber uses.

"College is a funny thing," said Farmer Kaffir. Here's my Ezra says his ambition during the four years he was up there was to play with the pigskin, and durned if he didn't come home toting a sheepskin.

"Take a Walk" Al Smith is in a predicament similar to the white woman who married a nigger. Her own people will have nothing to do with her, and the colored gentry despises her. So, with a victory for the Democrats Al will be a man without a party, and no place to walk to.

Something should be done with this fellow Vandenberg, who addresses his speeches to phonograph records. What's the matter? Won't anybody listen to him?

"I'm a beauty operator."
"How's your business?"
"Sizzling."

FLASH—Last minute report is to the effect that the school faculty has been increased by the addition of a riding instructor—John Reinger, M. E., (Master of Equestrians). John's extensive experience as an amateur rancher and his fine remuda of blooded horses should keep him busy, at least until school is out.

"I'm a tennis player."
"How's your business?"
"It's a racket."

Market Note: "Short Pecan Crop This Year. But don't let that worry you; there's plenty of nuts. Which reminds us, why does those squirrels in Frank's cage try to break out every time we pass?"

To the credit of the British it can be said that they frown upon divorce except for reasons laid down in the Bible. A divorce in these good old U. S. A. has been turned into a side show. A recent case in Hollywood was disposed of on the grounds that hubby showed more interest in his job than in his home. Had he neglected his job whereinnell would his home be. Probably the real reason was some gigolo that these nit-wit actresses seem to fall for.

A nudist colony will be staged at the P. T. A. Carnival:
Knock! knock!
Who's there?
Nudist.
Nudist who?
Nudist was going to be a sell.

Hal and Barry were in her room talking about their future plans, when Crack entered unannounced, and said he and Barry were man and wife, and that he would use this evidence against Hal to blackmail him.

She and Crack married, bound, linked, moving together across the country, hiding their connection until Hal should make himself vulnerable as an abandoned puppy. Later he might think of all the details of opening himself to her, with Crack, somewhere nearby, drowsing over "shy" secret schemes that amused him.

"There!" Crack exclaimed darting from the bureau. Tell me what you think that. Tell me if that starts changin' you mind." Hal took the telegram and read it. Under his father's name and office address, the message ran: "Young man between twenty-five and thirty six feet hundred sixty-five pounds, gray eyes brown hair gray fannel suit made by Selkirk in Oxford name Henry Ireland nickname Hal traveling from New York to Los Angeles in share expense auto stop claims he is your son account trouble which will explain after you wire Martin Crack at Grand hotel on Santa Monica Blvd Hollywood California if he is you son very important please reply quick - Martin Crack."

Hal pushed out his underlip carelessly, looked up at Crack, and handed the form back. "Why not say what the 'trouble' is? Save you another wire." "Listen, Ireland," said Crack, his dry cheeks colored, his eyes shining and white all around the irises, "you're a good sorta guy. I'm only human. That's it, Hal told himself with quick satisfaction: he's not human, any more than a little puff-headed viper in the dust is human. 'I'd like to save you the trouble this is gonna make for you if—'

"Oh, shut up," said Hal, wonderfully keeping his voice in superficial contempt. "If you've got to talk about it any more, talk to her." It hurt much more sharply than he'd expected—to say that so negligently, and his voice was dull as he added: "I'm going." He walked past Crack to the door, opened it, an das he passed it from one hand to the other behind his back, he looked at Barry again. Still hugging her legs, her head still partly bowed, her staring went on, hard and dark, and sullen, into the corner of the room. A jet of anguish sprang molten from his dead sense of her invariability.

"And this is all," he said in a slow, moderate voice. "Everything led here—to this." She turned her head slowly, not raising it, and looked at him, her scorn dull and general, only incidentally for him. Then her eyes went back to their staring before she said, her voice frankly husky: "This is all."

Crack followed him to the door, was following him down the hall outside as Hal heard the key turn the lock behind them. So she was ready to move as soon as they left. To do what? He wondered. Read, go to sleep, take up her staring again? As if it mattered! "Listen," said Crack, a perverted intimacy in his voice: "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll—"

CHAPTER IX Tuesday

When daylight began to heat the sky outside, Hal still lay with only his coat off. He had meant not to doze, so that Crack in the next room, shouldn't have a chance to send his telegram without Hal's knowing it.

He couldn't think of Barry except as he had last seen her—her golden head a little bowed, staring over her satin knees into the corner. And though he kept putting the dark portrait from him, he found himself later regarding it again, intently, without knowing how it had come back, or why.

The light grew broader over the wide street. He heard the creaking of Crack's bed next door, light steps, and then running water. Crack wouldn't send the telegram now before he found an open office somewhere. In Las Vegas probably, where with luck they would eat breakfast. With luck? What did so slight a thing as luck on the road matter? It didn't. But, yes it did. There was Sister Anastasia and her serene, beautiful acceptance of sorrow. She counted most in this day, rather as if she had always counted most, and Hal had not seen it for the glare and dazzle of his moonstroke.

Hal washed and went down to unlock Rasputin. He sat on the running board, eating one of Mrs. Pulsipher's oranges, when Kerrigan came down his eyes bright in a combination of greeting and alertness for signs of news.

"Don't look as if you slept very well," he said, his voice dubious in disappointment. "Plenty," said Hal. "Wasn't as tired as I expected."

Hal watched him in rich affection for the quick, kind eye, the tough cheeks with their labyrinth of minute red veins, the straight lips with their implication of readiness and gusto. Then the Pulsiphers came, then Crack, his bag in one hand, golf ball loose in the other; he pushed the ball nervously into his side pocket, as he made his insincere good morning to Hal. After him came Sister Anastasia and Barry. The cool peace of the nun's face was softly animated in the prospect of this last day between her and her brother, and Hal knew Barry had not told her everything. Barry, simply groomed as ever, gave him acknowledgment of nothing—just nothing. The defensive mistrust of the journey was her brief look; no suggestion of a smile framed her curt good morning; even Doc was on a short leash to keep him from being friendly.

Rasputin put behind him the hundred and thirty-odd miles to Las Vegas in less than two hours and a half. The telegraph office was across and down the street from the place at which they had stopped to eat. Hal saw Crack's careless looking for it, saw him find it and stand for an indecisive moment before starting for it. Hal drank orange juice and wolfed a bowl of cereal at the counter; it was natural enough he should pay his bill and saunter out to the street when Crack returned.

In the telephone booth next door he called the telegraph office and putting a shade of flat slowness in his voice, he had the girl accept him promptly as the person who'd just handed in a telegram for Frederick Ireland in New York. Hal said: "I'd like to make it clearer in that part where it says he claims he is your son account trouble which will explain after you wire . . . I want to say: 'Claims he is your son because he asks credit for five hundred dollars to cover expenses including transportation to San Francisco stop.' After that it goes on the same: Wire Martin Crack, Grand Hotel, and what you've got there."

Hal went back with a certain small, grim elation to look at Ras-

putin's oil gauge. Poor old Pop; free, honest anger for a little while wouldn't hurt him much, it wouldn't be new to him; and his prompt denial that Hal was his son would give Hal more time in Los Angeles.

When his numbed mind began to respond to old disciplines, it might try to tell him that the idea of his—Hal Ireland's—taking the soft throat of another human being in his hands and extinguishing the life that breathed there—that it was fantastic, preposterous. Would Crack dead still look old-fashioned and tidy, indolent and secret, sexless and immature, subtly and slyly hateful? If you beat a basking viper dead in the dust with a stick, it didn't look pitiable at all, surely.

California welcomed them officially at its agricultural quarantine station where the luggage had to come down and be opened for inspection. Dropping the bags to Kerrigan and Crack, Hal didn't resist the temptation which the last two offered. "That" he said to Crack in a voice casual enough, but plainly audible: "that's Kerrigan's and that"—when Crack reached for it, "that's your wife's." He knew Barry wouldn't turn but Sister Anastasia and Kerrigan both looked up at him as if he had cursed, and he had to drop his eyes to hide deep self-disgust.

In the middle of Mrs. Pulsipher's statistics on the thyroids Hollywood ladies took to keep their figures, John broke into frustrated sounds. He snapped his fingers in a moment and said, "It-tit-tit-tit said that way. It-tit-tit—"

Hal half turned toward John with a feeling near absolute tenderness for him and said: "These darn signs seem to point in any direction for Los Angeles. What place is this; d'you know?" "Pasadena," said Crack warily. "You can run out to Hollywood this way if you want." And he added, the insinuation of his voice unsure of its own shyness: "Why not drop us off on the way?"

"Do that," said Hal briskly. It awed him a little to think again what might happen if Crack used that "us" when they were alone.

Guiding Rasputin according to Crack's directions, Hal made a final attempt to fancy how it was going to be—to put Barry's bag down on the sidewalk and leave her there with her husband. But something might move and give him a remembrance other than the fixed image of last night. It might be the last time he saw her. Some little thing should happen, must happen, to show him where he was.

But it was nothing. Hal on the roof heard the goodbyes said below him and saw Barry go a little apart with Sister Anastasia, write something on a slip of paper and give it to the nun before she kissed her. Her blue eyes came very slowly to his, the hostile unremitting screens fixed against him. Perhaps she watched an instant longer than suited her negligence, but that was all. He knew she wouldn't speak; and he looked away first, bending over to take Doc's muzzle in his hand and shake it gently. "Bye, poodle," he said. And then he was watching the ingenuous unsurprising grace of her boy's stride take her away, beside the terrier's bright trotting.

And this might be the last he ever saw of her! Good G—d, why did that still mean nothing

GET IT—YOUR PEP!

Your pep, you've got it, now keep it. Doggoneit, don't lose it—your pep!

This seems to be the principal yell of the S. H. S., only to me it seems as if they ought to use the word "get" instead of "got."

Only last week at the game between our Eagle and the Red Devils our gate receipts were so small that we went in the red $!

We want to hear the girls saying "Your Pep" in such a way that everyone who hears them can feel pep from the tops of their heads to the tips of their toes!

STUDY HABITS IN SCHOOL

One of the main purposes of the school is to train pupils to develop their minds. This is still done principally by study.

Studying in school is a business. It is the business of the boy or the girl to attend school and work at the business.

Other chapel dates for the semester are Nov. 3, not chosen; Nov. 10, Mrs. Leona Ulbricht; Nov. 17, Miss Bessie Chyle Leath; Nov. 24, Miss Margaret Martin; Dec. 1, civics class by Mr. R. D. Holt; Dec. 8, open; Dec. 15, Mr. J. J. Hensley and high school band; Dec. 22, Miss Lorene Childers.

Wednesday morning at 8:50 is the regular grammar school chapel date. Similar to the high school plan, each teacher of each home room will be in charge of the program.

The tentative chapel schedule for the grammar school is the following: Oct. 30, Miss Vera Wade and second grade; Nov. 4, Miss Hazel Owen and fourth grade; Nov. 10, Mr. Bernie Morgan and the sixth grade; Nov. 18, Miss Louise Taylor and the fifth grade; Nov. 25, Miss Lucille McWhorter and the third grade; Dec. 2, Miss Una Lee and the first grade. December 9, 16, 21 and 22 are open dates.

Interest Shown in Shopwork Course

The first regular meeting of shopwork students was held on Tuesday, October 27. The members are supposed to furnish their own equipment, such as hammers, saws, etc., and lumber.

Holiday Season 'Round the Corner

During next month students of the Sanderson schools will get 3 holidays: November 11, the 26 and 27. Incidentally, our boys play the Buck of Alpine high school Nov. 11, and the 26th and 27th are the Thanksgiving holidays.

Football Interest Decline Shown in Sales of Tickets

The results of last Saturday's ticket sale showed that the football enthusiasm of Sanderson is gradually declining instead of improving. The ticket sale contest which was started at the beginning of the year requires 100 per cent in the class, and the class selling the most tickets will be the winner of the picnic.

Table showing ticket sales for Seniors ($8.00), Juniors (3.25), Sophomores (2.00), Freshmen (23.00), and Seventh Grade (8.75). Total $45.50.

Table showing ticket sales for Seniors ($15.50), Juniors (6.50), Sophomores (4.75), Freshmen (27.25), and Seventh Grade (10.00). Total $64.00.

Planning Regular Chapel Programs

The chapel programs for high schools are not completed to date, but some teachers have made selections of dates and are making preparation of the programs now.

The regular chapel time in high school is 8:50 o'clock each Tuesday morning. It is necessary at times to change this date or cancel the date altogether.

Wanda Hickey visited in Fort Stockton a few days ago where she saw the doctor and nurse who treated her when she had a broken arm last summer.

In the reading test given the first grade last Friday, ten pupils made 100; two 92, and one 87. That is a splendid record in reading for the class and especially so, since it is yet early in the school term.

James and Raymond Fuller and Benjamin Carpenter brought nice chrysanthemums for the room. Carrie Turner brought some interesting insects.

THE STAIRS WE CLIMB

Up, down, up, down, trod the feet of the high school students from classes on the first floor to classes on the second floor.

Now, just stop for a few minutes and think how many, many steps are taken by the students in high school each day during the school hours, going to and from these classes, upstairs. This does not include the running up and down before and after school.

There are 48 steps going up and down to the second floor of the building. There are eight classes upstairs and the number of students included in these classes is 177. Therefore, the total of steps taken each day is 8,496.

We will leave the mathematical part of figuring the total steps for the entire year to very smart folks to figure out.

History of History Interesting Theme

Who ever heard of the history of History? Well, this is the story. History derived from a Greek word meaning "a search for knowledge."

History may be divided into three periods: ancient, medieval, and modern. Ancient history deals with the eastern and western civilizations. The East includes Egypt, Chaldea, Assyria, Babylonia, Hebrews, Phoenicians, Persia and China.

The tendency in writing history of the present day is to present the results of unbiased researches, both in the recording of events and the presentation of the careers of great men.

First Grade

Avis McDonald returned to the school after an absence of three weeks. She visited her grandmother in Hilton, Texas, and also attended school there.

Honor Roll

Last Tuesday, Oct. 20, grades were turned into Mr. R. D. Holt's office for the first six weeks of school. The honor roll was made up from this list.

Remember the P. T. A. Carnival tomorrow night. Lots of innocent fun for young and old. In the old McKnight garage.

New High Noted In Attendance

According to a recent survey made by Mr. Duane Smith, principal of the high school, the average attendance of high school students reached a new high of 97 per cent. This is two points higher than the average at this time last year, which was 95 per cent.

"This percentage is excellent for this high school, and we hope we can keep it this high all year," Mr. Smith said, adding that if the seventh grade attendance was figured with high school attendance the percentage would doubtless be higher.

Elizabeth Brown! Who is she? Oh, she's a "soph," and, oh boy, what a soph! She is a blonde, and every one knows that's what catches the eyes of some of these students.

The Snooper

Just why Essary Haines took Nelle Lea, and O. T. Schupbach took Juanita Sibley to see "His Brother's Wife" is more than I know, because neither of the boys have a brother for competition.

What, no more leap year dates, girls? Oh, I see: some of you are waiting to be paid back before taking another step. Hurry up, boys, don't keep them in suspense any longer!

Book reports are due and in case you hear some romantic phrases in the conversations between Holden and Marjorie or between Sammie and Jack, don't be alarmed because the girls are only telling some stories or reports to these boys; so they won't have to read the books.

My, my! Where were the two senior girls and two junior girls Friday p. m.? There must have been something more interesting elsewhere, because they made themselves scarce at school.

Parties for Seniors

The members of the senior class received invitations Oct. 20 to a Halloween party to be given by Mrs. W. E. Lea at her home Oct. 31. The seniors were instructed to come garbed as ghosts and spooks.

A petition signed by eight persons has been attached to an application for the services of an itinerant nurse to spend 1 month in this county during the school year. It will be sent to Dr. J. W. Brown, state health officer from Supt. R. D. Holt's office.

Who's Who Among the Seniors?

ETHEL BREG—Was born in Dryden, Texas, on Groundhog Day, Feb. 2, 1919. Her eyes are gray and her hair blonde. She likes typing and shorthand and has no other ambition than that of passing in all subjects she is taking this year.

PAT SULLIVAN—First saw daylight in Comstock, Texas, on Nov. 15, 1920. His eyes are brown and he has blonde hair. Believe it or not his favorite subject is Public Speaking, and his ambition is to be a doctor.

NELLE LEA—Was born Sept. 3, 1920, in Alpine, Texas. Eyes of hazel and dark brown hair has she. Likes to deliver orations in Public Speaking and in the future wishes to be a teacher of dramatics.

Eagles Claw Red Devils for Their First Season Win

The Sanderson Eagles gave the Rankin Red Devils a clawing last Saturday afternoon. Rankin had a clear record of no games won for the season and the Eagles put another game on them which finally ended 14 to 0. This was the first win for the Eagles and the third consecutive district loss for Rankin.

"Shorty" Short, who seems to take great delight in snagging aerials and running for a touchdown against Rankin. "Shorty" also scored touchdowns against McCamey and Marfa on passes.

In Saturday's game Bogusch sustained a severe ankle injury, but the Eagles will rest this next week, giving time for injuries to heal, and on November 7 will tangle with the Fort Stockton Panthers at Fort Stockton.
