-percolate six cups of delicious coffee

-or toast eight slices of bread

-or vacuum clean two room-size rugs

-or provide four hours of electric refrigeration

-or bake two golden-brown waffles

-or operate an electric fan two and one-half hours

-or do a week's mixing, whipping and juice-extracting

-or light a 60-watt globe for two and one-half hours

There's no getting around it-the money you spend for electricity gives you more honest-to-goodness value-more comfort and convenience-than any other money you spend. There is scarcely a household task that electricity will not perform for pennies or fractions of pennies. And remember this-while other things have been going up the cost of electricity has been coming down. You get more electricity for your money now than ever before in history.

HELLO EVERYBODY!
Here's a yarn from Emil Berg of Brooklyn, N. Y., the story of how, in November, 1927, he faced one of the most terrible fates any man can imagine. You know in Russia the worst sentence a man can be given is a stretch in the horrible salt mines of Siberia.

Most prisoners in the salt mines die from the hardships. Those who do return come back gaunt and wasted-mere shadows of the salt mine prisons which, I am told, are even worse than the ones in derly man and woman, hand- last walk to the little green cham- I had quite a bit of fun out of condition. In his lifetime he has Siberia. They say that no gaunt and wasted men return from those mines. In fact, they say that the men who go down there never come back at all.

And that's where they were going to send Emil Berg!

It happened while Emil was in the army down on the border. He was stationed at Laredo, Texas, with the "Fourth Field," and he says the boys used to go across the river to get a drink of Mexican beer now and then, because in those days we had prohibition in the states, and beer was harder to get this side of the border.

Emil Laid Out a Bad Mexican

On the night of November 1 Emil was in Neuvo Laredo, over on the Mexican side, having a drink or two. About eight o'clock he right, Ethel. I'll explain later.' started for camp again, but on his way to the international bridge
