Incidentally, Mussolini on his birthday and then how "stout" he is "figure-atively" speaking played tennis, pedaled a little, and the baloney pie lot. The big boys say this is due to the fact that of his own big boys are to rebel on him and he'd show them that he still handle any little protest that might arise. In fact, it's down anything on earth that waste line. As a man of Europe old Muss away out in front.

CONTRACT LET MON. FOR CONSTRUCTION COUNTY ROAD BED

A contract was let Monday at a special session of the Commissioners' Court, for the construction of approximately one mile of road bed on the county road between Dryden and Sheffield.

The contract was let to the L. J. Miles Construction Company of Fort Worth at a cost of approximately $6,875.

The work includes the cutting down of the two hills in the N. M. Scott pasture some 30 miles out of Dryden. The main hill, known as Scott Hill, has been one of the worst spots on the road and cutting down of the hill and building a road bed will mean a great improvement over what persons traveling the road have encountered heretofore.

The construction company receiving the contract has just completed the road work west of town necessary to straighten out the highway.

Bride-elect Honored With Kitchen Shower Tuesday

Miss Betty Bassett was entertained with a surprise kitchen shower by Mrs. W. E. Lea in her home, Tuesday afternoon, August 6th.

Each guest was invited to write her favorite recipe on a card, and all the cards when tied together made a very nice cook book, that was later presented to the honoree. After much talking and laughing the guests were each given a picnic plate covered over with a napkin and tied with string, and asked to go out into the front yard. The picnic plate was filled with salad, sandwiches, pickles, potato chips, cheese, straws, cake and iced tea.

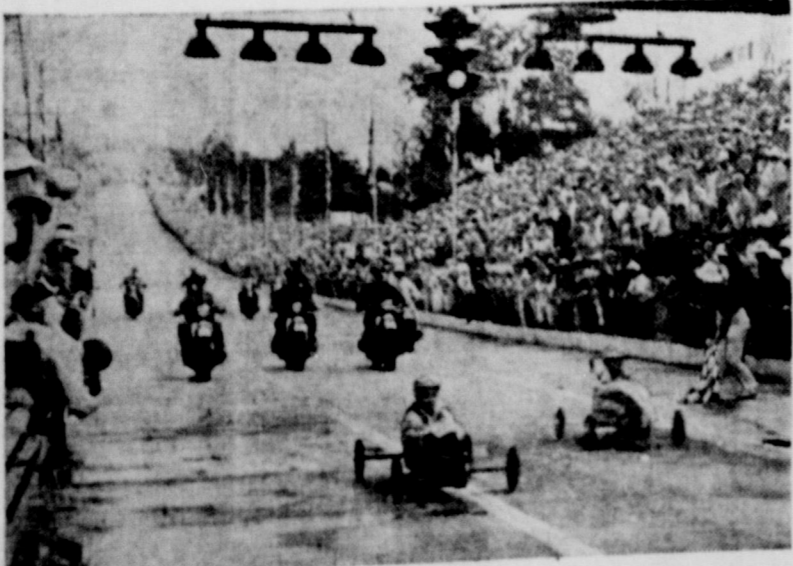

While guests were eating Mrs. Lea brought a large roaster, which she said contained more sandwiches, and placed it in front of Betty, asking her to pass it around. When she removed the lid of the roaster instead of sandwiches she found gaily wrapped presents. The honoree received many pretty and useful gifts.

Those invited were Mesdames Mildred Pickard, Celesta Sessoms, Bess Warren, Nell Appel, Bernice Vaughan, Beatrice Davenport, Maybell Stavley, Nell Deaton, Louise Newton, Misses Elizabeth O'Neill, Mary Arrington, Mary Ferguson, Ethel Laura Nance, Emma Fay Harris, Maxine Clatfelter, Zoe Harrell, Elizabeth Williams of Abilene, Texas, Jane Ord, Vauncell Henderson, Ruth Murrah, Mary Ruth Clark, of Pecos, Texas, Betty Bassett, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Julian Bassett, and the hostess, Mrs. W. E. Lea.

"Read All About It"

There are certain responsibilities that go with being an American. For one thing, it's up to us—you and me and our neighbor across the street to make up our own minds about the various questions that harass the world and those that face us as a nation today.

Nobody gives us the answers, ready-made with no "ifs" or "buts" dangling on them, as they do in so many of the countries of Europe. Nobody says: "Just do what you're told and everything will be just dandy." Instead we're shown the difficulties and uncertainties in every proposition that comes along. We're shown quite clearly that there are two sides to every question. Sometimes three or four sides! Those who believe in it say: "This is a thing we ought to do and it will work because..." And then they give us their reasons. And those who are against it say: "This is a bad thing, a very bad thing!" And then they tell us in no uncertain room here during the afternoon.

Uvalde Leader NEWS—Described as the "largest and best" show in the organization's history, the Texas Angora Goat Raiser's Association opened its 20th annual show and sale here with more than 500 head of the country's finest registered Angoras consigned by approximately 40 breeders.

McCamey News—382 range cattle from 51 lots in Upton Country were tested for tuberculosis by Dr. Henry Fisherman of the Bureau of Animal Industry from Fort Worth. The test showed that all cattle in Upton county were free of tuberculosis. The Government requires that all range cattle be tested every three years.

terms how awful the result will be if we go in for it.

Usually the truth lies somewhere in between these two extreme opinions and we, the people see to it, somehow or other, that we take the middle way.

But listening to all of these arguments on the radio—reading about them in the papers—discussing them ourselves with our friends and neighbors and families takes time and trouble and makes us worry. Undoubtedly we worry a lot more than the people in the countries run by one man.

But isn't it worth any amount of worry and disillusionment and unpleasant facing the facts to know what's actually going on in the world and to have a part even if a very small one, in determining what America shall do in this critical time? Free speech, and a free press is two of the cardinal principles of a democracy—as vital to this type of government as is the privilege of electing the people who govern us or having that right of a free people to found and run a business for legitimate profit without interference from the government.

It's a sobering thought these days to realize that only in this country is the press free. Only here are we treated as adult, reasonable human beings and permitted to know all sides of a question.

Only here do newsboys calling an "extra" on the street cry: "Read all about it," and I'm sure no matter what happens we all of us want to continue to be able to read all about it!

Salesman: "I represent the Mountain Wool Company, ma'am. Would you be interested in some coarse yarns?"

UNCLE SAM ON THE FARM

Reprinted from the Lubbock Reporter-News

By RAY DAVIDSON

ally allied with farming is Uncle Sam himself in the farming business. He found it expedient to ranching also.

Sam's ranching adventures have been for slightly different than his other agricultural exploits. In ranching, he took pretty strictly to the soil conservation.

the range program, the government pays the rancher for certain improvements to his land. These improvements are of such a nature to conserve soil or water or otherwise improve the land.

the range program has not been to lessen production. It is increasing by ranges much more propose Rancher Bill decides to join up with Uncle Sam on the range program. Understand, he can do this or not, without objection from any source. There are no penalties, direct or indirect, against ranchers who do not coop-suppose Bill Jones signs with the program. A county inspector comes to his land and looks it over. He figures many animals it will support and thence forward his pay is based on this basis rather than acreage.

has a large number of acres he can do then to earn range payments. He defers grazing on a part of his land—that is, take the cattle for a certain period of time to allow the grass to get a firmer hold. He can then clear away cacti, mesquites and cedar build tanks, et cetera.

These various soil conserving activities earn payments—so much per 100-feet of contour ridge, so much per acre cleared of mesquites or cedar, so much per acre deferred from grazing, so much per acre reseeded with new grass.

Bill uses these land-improving things for his choice of them to his place, and receives payment from the government up to a certain maximum on each animal unit. His work is regularly inspected by the range inspector, of course.

When these things are done, checks are mailed to Bill. His checks are never large enough to quite repay him for the expense he has been to earning them, but he is glad to work in the program. In fact, nearly all ranchers in West Texas are working with the program as a good way to get their places improved at little cost.

Yet the range program places no control on production and marketing of cattle, hogs, sheep, and goats.

Its effect has been the adding of hundreds of water tanks, miles of contour ridges, clearing of hundreds of acres of brush in West Texas. The acre now can produce more livestock than in many years.

The range program is thus quite different from other features of Uncle Sam's venture in farming. But it should be mentioned here in passing.

"It takes a brave man to be a burglar for he never knows when some woman will mistake him for husband and shoot."

A JOINT RESOLUTION

proposing an Amendment to Article 8, Section 9, of the Constitution of the State of Texas by adding a new Section thereto to be known as Section 9-A; providing that the Commissioners Court of Red River County, after a majority vote of the resident qualified electors owning taxable property therein, shall have the authority to levy a tax not to exceed Twenty-five (25) Cents on the hundred dollars valuation for a period not exceeding fifteen (15) years for the purpose of refunding the outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of the County by the issuance of bonds under the provision of the General Laws regulating the refunding of outstanding debts of the County; providing for the necessary proclamation; and appropriating funds to defray the expenses of the proclamation, publication, and election.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article 8, Section 9, of the Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding thereto another Section to be known as Section 9-A which shall read as follows:

"Section 9-A. Upon the vote of a majority of the resident qualified electors owning rendered taxable property therein so authorizing, the Commissioners Court of Red River County, Texas, may levy an annual tax not to exceed Twenty-five (25) Cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for a period not to exceed fifteen (15) years for the purpose of refunding all the outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County and issue bonds under the provisions of the General Law regulating the issuance of bonds to refund said indebtedness.

"At such election, the Commissioners Court shall submit for adoption the proposition of whether such outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County shall be refunded into bonds, the amount of special tax to be levied, and the number of years said tax is to be levied. The funds raised by such taxes shall not be used for purposes other than those specified in the plan submitted to the voters.

"The provisions of this Section 9-A shall apply only to Red River County; and the provisions hereof shall be self-enacting without the necessity of an enabling act of the Legislature of the State of Texas, but shall become effective immediately after the official canvass of the result has been made and it is determined that this Amendment has been adopted by a majority of the voters of the State."

voters favoring such proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words: "For the Amendment to the Constitution providing that the Commissioners Court of Red River County may, upon a vote of the qualified electors therein, levy a tax and issue bonds to refund the outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County"; those voters opposing such Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words: "Against the Amendment to the Constitution providing that the Commissioners Court of Red River County may, upon a vote of the qualified electors therein, levy a tax and issue bonds to refund the outstanding warrant indebtedness of the General Fund of such County."

Sec. 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation and to have necessary proclamation for said election and to have same published as required by the Constitution for Amendments thereto.

Sec. 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds in the Treasury of the State not otherwise appropriated to pay the expenses of such publication and election, which shall be refunded to the State of Texas by Red River County out of its General Fund or any other available fund. Provided that no election shall be held until Red River County shall first deposit with the State Treasurer the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000) with which to pay such expense of said election.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

In the present day, people place great stress on having things convenient. Many conveniences are taken as a matter of course—especially those of an intangible nature, such as the services of a modern bank.

If a merchant has no calls for an item, he no longer continues to stock it, but he is always glad to keep things for which there is a steady demand. When you buy from him, you make it possible for him to keep on hand the things you want, and thus, you add to your own convenience.

The merchandise offered by a bank is service. When you use your local bank, you add to your own convenience and benefit your community. We invite your business.

made. Until then industry's mass production methods are useless and the Garand rifle will continue to be manufactured by slower processes.

The story has its counterparts in the question of tanks, planes and other equipment.

Where, then, would blame rightly belong if, a year or two from now, there was still no standardization of design and no speedy flow of defense equipment from the production lines of industry? Perhaps there would be no blame, rightly, for only the real military experts are qualified to know when they have perfected their designs and can safely "freeze" them.

In any event those qualified to know the situation are saying that there should be no accusing finger pointed in the direction of production lines.

Incidental to this technical problem is the question reforms which still looms large over the Capital City.

The clamor for removal of ham stringing government agencies still comes from almost every side—public, labor, management and the military branches of the government, but there is still a determination among the Washington planners to hold on to their theories and so called social gains.

Probably the best case in point here is the National Labor Relations Board Amendments to make this a more workable and less officious branch of the government have already been given approval of congressional bodies, but they are persistently given the rabbit punch every time any effort is made to put them through to enactment.

Plastics, practically unknown in the last war, offer a whole host of new materials for national defense. An adequate supply of raw materials, plus speed of production, provides many substitutes for scarce material which would ordinarily be used.

"No, Elmer. I can't marry you. The man whom I'm going to marry must be upright and square."

"You don't want a husband—you want a piano."

Apprentice: "Yes, sir. He told me to wake him up when I hear you coming."

Beacon of Liberty

Freedom's light grows dimmer, In many lands across the sea; Her torch lies in the dust While under the Despots hell, Crushed and dying lies Liberty

Behold! Those peoples tears and hear their crys. Behold the angushed look in their eyes. For gone are the hopes that were once so bright. For gone is the radiance of freedom's holy light.

But they look with hope toward the West; To America, the land which God has blessed. Where the beacon of Liberty shines so bright. Inspiring all with hope That again they'll throw off the oppressor's yoke.

Washington Snapshots
by JAMES PRESTON

Those in the Washington Mutual Admiralty Society are not burning any bridges behind them. They are leaving the way clear for a retreat when, and if, it becomes necessary to admit that the defense program isn't moving fast enough to soothe public clamor for speed.

This statement is not meant to cause any alarm of fear that the program has bogged down, but simply to reveal the care with which this group has planned for its own security at the public feed trough. Nor does it refer to the President's National Defense Commission.

In brief, those who direct everything in Washington but the weather are already laying the foundation for a pedestal from which a large finger of accusation will point in the direction of the manufacturing industries if it becomes necessary.

Already there have been insinuations that industry is playing politics with defense orders; that there may be a very ugly story to tell about the defense program; that "capital strikes" may be afoot; that industry is trying to tie strings to national defense. And already we hear some sound-offers asking why, with billions of dollars appropriated, hordes of tanks and planes and guns aren't rolling off the assembly lines?

Certainly there is not even a suspicion among persons qualified to know what is going on within the workings of the defense set-up that there is any "ugly story" to be told about trials are taking advantage of the program. And to the question of "Why?" there is a very good answer.

The story of the Grand rifle, said to be the finest weapon of its type in the world, is a good example of the true state of things. Only a few thousand Grand rifles have thus far been produced although many thousands are provided for in defense appropriations. Why?

The answer is that as yet army experts have not seen fit to "freeze" the design of the gun meaning that they are constantly making changes. So it is that until the design has finally been determined, jigs, dies, tools and gauges necessary for its manufacture at high speed cannot be
