How You Look At It!

Tuesday is the 9th anniversary of "the flood". We have marked this date every year since 1965 because it is a day that stands out in the minds of many people and will be remembered by many for a long time. It's not easy to work as coroner or any other capacity in picking up and identifying bodies of friends and/or strangers, recently drowned or exhumed, and then easily erase all those mental pictures of the grieving, anxiety, and sorrow over those tragedies; nor to work in the mud and silt in helping friends to clean up and erase the memory of that loss and travail; nor to recall the happiness of learning that some personal friends or friends or loved ones of others were found safe and well after some period of uncertainty and hope, and to erase the happiness of that time from our memory clouded with all the unhappiness.

Sure, we remember! And we remember to thank God for whatever blessings we are able to discern connected with the remembrance, too! And we hope that you do, also!

We are just plainly elated over the news of a nurse-practitioner coming to Sanderson, supposedly in the very near future. With this and the promise of a doctor also coming soon after the first of the year, it just seems like a real good deal for the residents here!

We still think - we have always thought - that this would be an ideal place for a retirement center. We have the ideal climate for it, there are many other things that lend to such a development, if we could just have the medical facilities here to take care of the people!

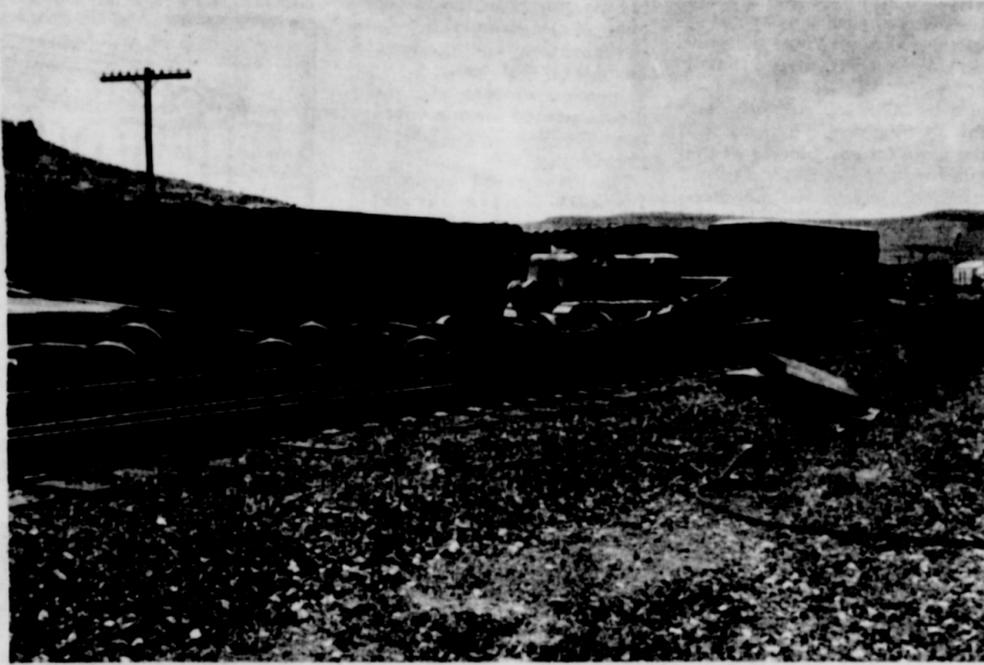

It's good news that we are hearing these days, and we are always glad to hear good news.

At least, that's the way we look at the news we have been hearing!

There were several things that have happened recently that prompts the following. And there has been considerable time spent in thinking about it. It's not a spur-of-the-moment jotting.

Relating to the Watergate mess: Any condemnation against any of the news media or any person connected with anything exploratory by anyone is like blaming an officer for making an arrest or being even suspicious. Those people who have been found guilty in anything connected with the pay-off, burglary, dirty-tricks, perjury, etc., have proven beyond a reasonable doubt that there was some kind of violation of some kind of law. The condemnation of the actions of some men who were guilty,

Three freight cars were derailed early Monday morning just east of Sanderson on the Southern Pacific Railroad. The derailment occurred near the cemetery and traffic was delayed from passing for a short time Monday.

Commissioners Underwrite Salary Of Nurse-Medic

The acquisition of a nurse-practitioner for Sanderson and Terrell County moved one step closer to realization Friday of last week when the Terrell County Commissioners Court, in a special meeting, underwrote a necessary $12,000.00 per year salary for the medical practitioner. The guarantee was one of the necessary steps necessary to assure the coming of the nurse-practitioner.

Troy Druse, who heads the committee that has been in contact with the officials in the initiation of the project, said that when the services of the nurse-practitioner was secured for working out of the Trans-Terrell Medical Center, she or he would work with the doctors in Fort Stockton, Alpine, and Iran that were interested in cooperating with the local practitioner to become familiar with the treatments, practices, etc., of each of the doctors and would then be available here to see patients and advise doctors or make referrals when necessary. It was pointed out that some of the routine visits of patients to doctors could be handled without consulting the doctor.

Other members of the committee are R.S. Wilkinson, Lewis Cash, Sylvestre Silvas, and Dudley Harrison.

ROPING CLUB TO MEET
The Roping Club will meet at the courthouse in Sanderson Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. Charles Stegall, in calling the meeting, asked that all interested members come to the meeting which is to plan activities for the summer.

Run-Off Election Turn-Out Is Light

The voting of the electorate of Terrell County in the Democratic Run-Off Primary election followed the pattern of the rest of the state in being light, by comparison with the potential voting strength and also by comparison with the vote turn-out for the first primary.

Terrell County went with the two winners of district contests: Robert Krueger, in the race for U.S. Representative of the 17th Congressional District; and Mrs. Susan Gurley McBee, in the race for representative of the 70th district in the Texas House.

Terrell County voters also gave Ruel Adams a decisive win in the county clerk's race 320 votes to 233 for Mrs. H.M. (Twanna) Petty.

In precinct 4, W.C. Baker got the nod for Democratic Executive Committee member by a two-vote margin over Mrs. George Escobar 55-53.

The unofficial tally of votes in the county by precincts accompanies this story.

Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Kyle were weekend visitors in San Antonio with her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman, and family.

At this writing, it is uncertain if there will be a roping in the afternoon.

Present plans include a noon meal of barbecued chicken, a dance that night, some activity at the courthouse, with other ideas being considered for a full day of fun and entertainment.

More information will be given on the plans for the day as they are received.

A big July Fourth celebration and barbecue has been held here annually since World War II ended.

When the Texas Louisiana Power Co. (predecessor of Community Public Service Co. here) power plant burned, McDuffey Kessler retained the scene by keeping the picture printed below, made in 1929.

S.S. Dagggett, roundhouse foreman; Wallace Henshaw, line-man for the company; C.A. Moreland, local TLPC manager; and Bob Henshaw are standing on the corner of Oak and School Sts. The power plant was between the water storage tanks - visible on the side of the hill - and the rock wall that is still there.

and the condemnation of future actions of that kind or any kind of law violations should be the natural result of moral law-abiding citizens, rather than the condemnation of those who uncovered the mess! And, in defense of President Nixon: he has done a few things that are good and right! And the wrongs he has done may be different from some or all of the wrongs that we all have done, but we all stand in the same boat of "Im-perfection".

We have heard some who seem to be stacking up all of the good on one side and all of the bad on the other (based on their own opinions of "good" and "bad") and the heavier of the two sides - in their opinion - determines how they feel about him! This idea of "keeping books" by "debiting" and "crediting" bad and good gives a distorted balance, according to our own evaluations and judgements. Thank God, we are only judged by men in this manner! President Nixon's good deeds (by my evaluation) are several, as are his bad deeds (by my evaluation). And many of both affect a lot of people, maybe! But he does a lot of things exactly like you and I: he eats, sleeps, puts on socks one at a time, does some things right, and some things wrong!

And the odd part of it is, that after thinking about it quite a while before writing it, it looks just the way it did before we spent all the time thinking!

DOG PACKS KILL PETS

It was reported Monday that dog packs had killed two pet goats belonging to people in Sanderson and the goats were penned in the back yard or tied at the time the dogs killed them.

The goats were reported killed at the home of Eulalio Ybarra and Alonzo Villarreal.

A neighbor of Villarreal's stated that he was awakened during the night and was able to see at least 10 dogs attacking the goat. The cries of the goat and the barking and growling of the dogs awakened the neighbor.

The goats were being raised for butchering for meat for the families, according to reports.

The needless slaughtering of pets in town is only a sample of what goes on on area ranches possibly every night or during possibly any day.

The board elected to hire an additional elementary teacher for next year; authorized the tax assessor-collector to purchase a new calculator for use in that office, and to advertise for bids on fuel, etc.

Approval was given for the media service for one year from the West Texas Education Center.

The board voted to purchase a new 60-passenger bus to replace one which will be sold when the new one arrives. Supt. Card stated. The business manager was also authorized to invest bond and local maintenance money.

The board rejected a request to teach elementary students by correspondence courses.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas Constitutional Convention delegates, bogged down again in debate, were told that, when they finally agree, they must get out and lead the campaign for a new constitution.

Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards and House Speaker E.L. Henry offered words of advice, comfort, cheer and condolences to their Texas neighbors concerning the business of constitution writing.

Both had leading roles in adoption of a new Louisiana constitution early this year after a convention in 1973.

"You have got to take your document to the people, or it won't get done," Henry told the Texas delegates.

Special interest groups will reach their constituents, warned Edwards; so state officials must try to sell the new document drawn by the convention to average citizens who hold the swing votes.

At the same time, visiting Governor Edwards said it is highly doubtful the Louisiana revision would have been adopted had he not taken an active part in promoting it.

Meanwhile, Texas delegates had a bucketful of problems trying to get together on the judiciary article of their product. Merger of the Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals, right of appeal by the state in criminal cases and status of county judges proved the toughest items to compromise.

Even before agreement could be reached on the judiciary, delegates plunged on into the general provisions article which promised some of the convention's highest-voltage controversies over so-called state right-to-work provisions and other tough ones.

REPEATERS ARRESTED — More than 65 per cent of arrests recorded through criminal fingerprint cards last year had prior records, the Department of Public Safety reported.

Twenty-five per cent of the 273,180 arrests were of 17-19 year olds.

Criminal arrest fingerprint cards increased 21,510 in 1973 over 1972. An average of 1,019 cards a day was submitted by 635 different Texas agencies and 18 out-of-state agencies.

OIL CONSERVED — State agencies and colleges conserved the equivalent of 75,334 barrels of crude oil during March compared to the same month a year ago, the Governor's office calculates.

Overall state agency energy consumption declined 12 per cent for the month, according to a special energy report. Electricity use dropped seven percent, natural gas 12.2 per cent and gasoline 11.9 per cent, while "other" fuel use increased 3.9 per cent. The increase was due largely to conversion from gasoline-powered machinery and vehicles to diesel-powered units.

COURTS SPEAK — Cities cannot tax rolling stock of railroads, the Texas Supreme Court held.

AG OPINIONS — Persons over 65 are entitled to benefits of homestead tax exemption where political subdivisions have approved, though they fail to so claim during rendition period, Atty. Gen. John Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

- The property tax for higher education does not expire in 1987 but extends for an indefinite period.

- Names of persons whose sentences for possession of marijuana have been commuted by the governor should be made public.

- The Department of Public Welfare is not precluded from negotiating a premium for its medical assistance program which can be expected to result in a reduction of the Medicaid reserve.

- Animal Health Commission records concerning an examination of cattle for brucellosis are subject to inspection by the owner, but it is not mandatory that the commission authenticate the records to make them admissible in a trial growing out of herd purchase.

- The Board of Pardons and Paroles can provide counsel for indigent prisoners whose parole is to be revoked.

- Legislative pay is not dependent on attendance, but mileage compensation is dependent on actual travel.

- Cities can regulate private sewage facilities.

- Commissioners courts may issue revenue bonds under the Clean Air Act.

- Lobbyists may file activities reports for their bosses.
