WOODWORK

KNOTHOLES: There's a bill before the Legislature, backed by Gov. Briscoe, and backed by the Texas Assn of Insurance Agents, designed to remove habitual traffic offenders from Texas Highways. The bill would revoke the licenses of persons convicted of four major driving violations or 12 moving traffic violations in a five-year period. It also provides for felony fine and probation for those who drive without licenses. I think it would be great to get the bad drivers and the drunk drivers off the roads. In fact, I'd kind of like to see nearly everybody kept off the road except maybe me. . .

Horrors Dept.: From the Texas Press Assn. bulletin (mind you, this is an organization for professional news writers) comes this statement: "A Harris County doctor won reversal of a life sentence for killing his hospital partner in the Court of Criminal Appeals." This is a heck of a place to be killing people. . . A selection committee to choose a 37-member commission to rewrite the state constitution has found too many people want to help. The six top officials on the committee went to work last week trying to reduce the list of 900 nominees or volunteers for commission membership to 37.

THE GRAIN Producers News, which I don't subscribe to, but which they send me anyway, never ceases to amaze me. It's an interesting magazine even to me, and I always thought grain was little wiggly lines in a table top. Of course, what makes it interesting to me is that much of the material in the magazine has nothing to do with grain (although it really doesn't go against the grain). This last issue has stuff about grain co-ops, Red China, cattle scabies and how to use a wheat pasture, but it also has some articles about an "invasion force" which marched into Colorado, the U.S. Army's oldest and most famous horse, Black Jack, which was the riderless horse in funeral processions for Lyndon Johnson, John F. Kennedy, Herbert Hoover and Douglas MacArthur and others, and a story on some mules which some Yankee spies used to carry dynamite and left them near a Confederate camp with the fuses lit, only to discover the mules were following them away.

HUMPTY DUMPTY sat on a wall. Humpty Dumpty had a great fall. If it hadn't snowed so much, he'd have had a good winter, too.

Know the Good Life

Life exists on five levels: plants, animals, man, angels, and God.

Significant qualitative differences separate each stage, though admittedly our present understanding cannot make the clear-cut, absolute distinctions we might wish. Some one-celled organisms are not definitively either plant or animal. The findings of some anthropologists and paleontologists seem to suggest developmental links between animal life and man. Parapsychologists studying phenomena like extra-sensory perception indicate they have found evidence that the human spirit is, apparently like the angels, not wholly limited to this physical body. There are some hints that the gap between angels and God has not always been considered unbridgeable (Isalah 14:12-14).

In the middle is man. By "man" I mean, of course, both male and female. Although the roles of women and men—social, psychological, and spiritual—are undergoing intense scrutiny and evaluation, the quality of life in each is identical. Both were created "in the image of God" (Genesis 1:27) and thus are spiritual beings.

The "Middle" Man
Alexander Pope in his "An Essay on Man" describes mankind as:
"Placed on this isthmus of a middle state,
A being darkly wise and rudely great:
With too much knowledge for the skeptic side,

With too much weakness for the stoic's pride,
He hangs between; in doubt to act, or rest;
In doubt to deem himself a god, or beast."

The proper opinion is neither god nor beast but, simply, man.

As the only being with both soul (in common with the animals) and spirit (in common with the angels and God), man may be either brutish or godly and still be fully human.

The Model Man
God has given man a responsibility and a privilege. The responsibility to manage the earth and the privilege to fellowship with God. Some men reject both and live as animals. (One need not be barbaric to do so; it may be accomplished with style and grace.) Most accept only the responsibility, managing their portions of the world with varying degrees of self-interest. Some try to exercise the privilege without fully accepting the responsibility and consequently mope through life dissatisfied in both work and worship. Most Christians, as far as I can tell, suffer in this error. The happiest find satisfaction in both responsible work and meaningful fellowship.

The Bible accepts the conclusion of some secular thinkers that man has a divine origin and a spiritual potential above that of animals. (Acts 17:28ff)

FUTURE FINANCING OF PUBLIC SCHOOLS

By Bill Boykin, TPA

Austin, Tex. — "Future financing of public schools in Texas is the most talked about, but least understood, problem in the state today," Sen. Pete Snelson told the West Texas Press Association at their winter meeting in Midland. "The courts have said that the wealth of a school district cannot be the criteria for future financing," he explained. "And all future school financing in the state is affected by the court suit on the Edgewood district of San Antonio. Public school financing has been challenged in the courts in 30 states."

He compared Edgewood with Odessa's school district. Odessa has 24,984 pupils, 1,119 teachers with a starting salary of $7,445. Edgewood has 22,134 students, 805 teachers with a starting salary of $6,000. This is not the "equality" promised under the 14th Amendment, the courts have ruled — and the U. S. Supreme Court is looking at the appeals on this and other state cases.

The U. S. Supreme Court decision will write the next public school financing formulas in Texas, Snelson added, which might force a special session of the Texas Legislature — after this regular session has adjourned.

He speculated on the future of school districts — pointing out that ideas have ranged from a "statewide school district" to more "consolidations of school districts" — unitizing all districts in counties and statewide property assessment at true market value.

Snelson, vice-chairman of the Senate Education Committee, quoted an El Paso newspaper clipping which said: "We are watching the demise of public education in Texas."

"The wealth of Texas as a whole will determine our future laws on public education," Snelson concluded — and asked these questions: "What will be the effect on the state tax structure? What will it do to consolidation of 1,100 school districts?" and "Will there be room for local enrichment programs?"

SANTA FE RR REPORT

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company, a subsidiary of Santa Fe Industries, has filed an application with the Interstate Commerce Commission for a $13,200,000 competitive offering of equipment trust certificates, series G, to be sold on March 13.

The securities will mature in equal installments from 1974 to 1988. Proceeds will represent about 80 per cent of the cost of forty-three 3600 HP diesel electric locomotive units.

SPC REPRESENTATIVE TO PRESENT PROGRAM MAR. 12

Parents of Junior and Senior students are invited to attend.

P-A-G 516 Hybrid Sorghum
P-A-G 516 is a very high yield potential grain sorghum. The head is semi-compact but dries down fast. If head smut and MDM tend to be a problem, 516 would be a wise choice this year. During 1972 this hybrid set records of "highest" yields throughout the sorghum area. For medium to medium-late maturity, 516 is the hybrid you will want to plant.

"I usually try other hybrids every year but nothing suits my farming practices better than P-A-G 516. Last year I planted a competitive, full season hybrid besides my P-A-G 516. The yield was only slightly higher, but it took twice as much water and a lot more time to make. My yield on the P-A-G 516 was over 7,000 lbs per acre."

Planted 40 bags last year of P-A-G 516 with yields over 7,300 lbs per acre. Mr. Hinds has been planting P-A-G hybrids for a long time. Since P-A-G 516 was released he has planted almost all his grain acres in P-A-G 516.

1972 A yield of 8,391 lbs per acre adjusted to 14% moisture off 69 actual measured acres.

1971 A yield of 8,455.9 lbs per acre adjusted to 14% moisture off 101 actual measured acres.

R.B. (MAC) MCALLISTER

'Memo From Mac'

By R. B. (Mac) McAllister
If you were to ask me to characterize the House of '73, I'd have to say young, liberal, enthusiastic—and dead serious. The 63rd Legislature in its first six weeks has won praise from even the most cynical political observers.

Setting a pace that some say looks like the last six weeks of a session instead of the first six, legislators are answering the voter's call for reform with reform package, as was Price Daniel, Jr. in his race for the '73 Speakership.

The most provocative question these days is "Education: Where Are We?" The stupendous cost of education has got a lot of legislators shaking their heads. Hour after hour is spent in committee meetings thrashing out

LEGISLATION REQUESTED FOR REALIGNMENT OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS

AUSTIN — A request for legislation which would authorize the State Board of Education to develop an overall state plan for school district organization is being submitted to both the Governor and 63rd Legislature.

Under the proposal, the State Board of Education would submit a plan specifically setting out district realignments and legal requirements for adequate school districts to the 64th Legislature in 1975.

Procedures for involving school officials and local citizens in the organization plan would also be included, according to the proposal sent to Capitol Hill by Ben R. Howell of El Paso, Board chairman.

This new proposal follows two earlier requests concerned with school district organization in Texas.

The first would declare dormant all school districts except those which are county-wide but do not provide an accredited program in all 12 grades this year. These school districts would be attached to existing districts which do provide accredited 12-grade programs. In most cases, they would be the units now offering high school programs to students from the incomplete districts.

The second proposal would phase out state support for county superintendents and county school boards.

A number of these small, incomplete districts have extraordinarily high valuation per student, the Board's request for legislation points out.

"These tax haven districts contribute substantially to the unequal distribution across the state of fiscal capability to support sound educational programs," Howell adds.

Currently, 122 Texas counties have elected county school superintendents; 109 have county judges serving as ex officio superintendents paid from local funds, and 21 have neither an elected nor ex officio superintendent.

There are now 230 county school boards supported by $3.2 million in state funds budgeted for county school administration.

Under the State Board of Education plan, county school administrations would no longer be supported by the state. However, answers to questions like this and others such as marijuana, abortion, and overall law enforcement. One of the reform bills, the one limiting the term of future House Speakers to a single term, is still in committee. It's rumored that before it's all over, that bill will be changed to extend the Speaker's term to two instead of one.

For small towns throughout West Texas: The best opportunity for new industry since the rural development program came about is almost a reality. Here's why. The Texas Industrial Commission (TIC) is working on a three-million-plus budget that would train prospective workers when any industry decides to settle in a Texas community.

TIC is working in cooperation with Vocational-Technical schools throughout the state, and legislation for the start-up program is pending before the House Appropriations Committee.

If all goes as expected this training program will be the culmination of a four-year-plan I've coordinated aimed at beefing up the West Texas Vocational-Technical program.

Voc-Tech programs designed to train future industrial workers is the first step in encouraging towns to take the initiative in securing industry. And as one Eastern industrialist told me, "There are literally thousands of prospects interested in expansion to the Southwest. But we aren't going to any community unless we feel a spirit of communication that will let us operate so that we're an integral part of that area."

One inviting note in closing—if you have something you want to say about a particular piece of legislation, by all means let it be known. The citizen involvement so far during this session has been intense and meaningful. It's created an exciting and spirited atmosphere here that makes all of us grateful for the free system under which we operated.

local citizens could finance them with local money.

State fiscal support would be phased out over "a reasonable time" with provision for converting common and rural high school districts to independent school districts.

A total of 154 school districts which do not now offer full 12-year accredited programs would become dormant.

The new state plan for school district organization, which would be sent to the 64th Legislature in January, 1975, would take Texas one more step along the road to truly efficient public education, Howell said.

"Demands of modern education have increased and expanded while shifts in population have created a number of problems both in school programs and in district organization," the Board chairman added.

"It appears that the time has come when a decision should be made with respect to responsible organization of school districts in Texas."

The Board's plan would be designed to insure four desirable conditions for each Texas school district:

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION IN LAMB COUNTY ON FM 168

Contracts for highway construction in the Lubbock district have been awarded by the Texas Highway Commission.

The work will be under the supervision of District Engineer George C. Wall, and will be in Lamb, Hale, and Lubbock Counties.

Boswell and Crafton, Inc. of Lubbock was awarded a contract for grading, structures, base and surfacing on 8.5 miles of Farm to Market 168 in Lamb County. Low bid was $494,184.99.

The project extends from the Castro County line southward to Olton. Rhea Bradley of Littlefield is the Highway Department engineer in charge of the project which will take an estimated 200 working days.

WORLD CHAMP & REPRESENTATIVE CLAYTON-- World Heavyweight Boxing Champion George Foreman & State Rep. Bill Clayton exchanged handclaps and a few laughs when the popular champ was honored by the House and Senate in a joint session last week.

MOVED TO NEW LOCATION--The original Church of Christ building which was built in 1928 by Contractor Allen Smith began with one room with Sunday School class rooms and a baptistry added at a later date is shown above as it was being moved last week to a new location. In 1950, the building was purchased and became Wagner's Apartments. Early in the 1960's, members of the First Baptist Church purchased the building using it for Sunday school classrooms. Following the new addition to their church, the building was turned into a Youth Center in 1970. In the latter part of 1972, members of the First Baptist Church donated the building to the Church of God of Prophecy to move it. In the photo, the building is on its way down Hwy. 84 to its new location at Second and Wilson Street. (Staff Photo)

RED CROSS TO BEGIN FUND DRIVE AND CAMPAIGN

The Lamb County Chapter of the American Red Cross met in a regular business meeting March 2 at 4 p. m. Mrs. Bonnie Haber, vice chairman, presided.

Topic of discussion was the annual March campaign for members and funds. Red Cross board members from area towns and their chairmen discussed plans for the annual fund drive. The following chairmen may be contacted for donations: Sudan, Mike White; Littlefield, Rev. Clem Sorley; Olton, Joe Turner; Spade, Mrs. R. R. Smith; Hart Camp, Mrs. D. R. Cheaper wieners may not be a better buy. Frankfurters made with peanut filler and other inexpensive meat substitutes may be high in protein content, but protein quality may suffer, because meat proteins are more efficient in the body than most vegetables and cereal sources.

When you buy a pound of fully-cooked wieners, you have a pound to eat because there is no bone and no cooking shrink.

One wiener (10 per pound) contains as much protein as an egg -- yet only 10% as much cholesterol.

Following the meal, the Rev. Eddie Freeman, pastor, introduced McKenzie who then told about his work on the reservation, sang several songs, and showed slides and answered questions.

McKenzie also brought the messages for both services Sunday and sang two musical selections during the Sunday evening service.

McKenzie also spoke to the men at the Brotherhood breakfast Saturday morning, to a group of children at LOTWS, and then with the R. A. 's and G. A. 's at noon for a sack lunch followed with a question and answer period. Around thirty people attended this meeting at noon at the church.

SEASONING EASY SAUCES

If you can make a nice, basic white sauce you can make a dozen or more different sauces just by varying the spicing.

Starting with a cup of white sauce add a teaspoon each of dill seed and instant minced onion and serve over new potatoes. Add a teaspoon tarragon leaves, crumbled, to a cup of white sauce and serve over cooked mixed vegetables or poached chicken. Or use a tablespoon of parsley flakes in place of tarragon.

Cheese sauce can be varied in all sorts of ways and can be as easy as opening a can of Cheddar cheese soup. Use it undiluted with herbs or spices to suit.

Add about a half teaspoon Italian seasoning to the soup and serve with green beans or asparagus or poached fish. Caraway or cumin seeds are a flavorful addition. Serve over wedges of green cabbage or boiled potatoes.

Another quick change: Stir onion powder and basil into cheese sauce and use it with macaroni or noodles. Onion and garlic products; pepper, black, white or red; chili or curry powder; parsley and other herbs—all are delicious variations of sauces for family meals.

SMALL GRAINS were used as a soil improving and winter cover crop on A.F. Arnolds farm west of Sudan.

REPORT ON SOIL CONSERVATION

Soil improvement is everybody's job, yours and mine, regardless of the amount of land that we have charge of, whether it is a yard or farm.

The smaller areas are simple to apply and maintain soil improvement on, whereas a farm may seem to be a problem because of the cropping system. But really they are not. It depends on the management. There are several cash crops that with proper management are soil conditioning and improving crops such as fertilized high residue producing crops like grain sorghum, small grains, Sudan grasses or improved native grasses. These plants are soil improvers when fertilized and the residue reincorporated back into the top soil of which there are several methods of doing it. The legume plants are better soil improvers but they don't always fit into everybody's farm program. They can also become an erosion hazard if they are not properly managed.

Anyone interested in soil improvement crops can contact any of the Soil Conservation personnel, at any time, and they will be glad to furnish you with the information or technical help if needed. The office is located at 100-6th in Littlefield.

COMMUNITY-ACHIEVEMENT CONTEST BEGINS

Governor Briscoe recently urged Texas communities with strong beautification efforts underway to enter the Governor's Community Achievement Awards competition.

"I am pleased to continue this program of giving well-deserved recognition to the many communities in our State which have joined in this marvelous work," the governor said.

The awards are coordinated on behalf of the governor by the governor by the Beautify Texas Council, a volunteer statewide organization working to stimulate grass-roots efforts in beautification and control of litter and pollution.

This year's awards will be presented during the Council's annual meeting June 14.

Winners of 1972 Governor's Community Achievement Awards were Three Rivers, Muleshoe, Kilgore, Edinburg, Kingsville and Houston.

Any public or private organization in any town or city in Texas can make an entry. The only requirement is that they indicate their intention to enter the competition before March 15.

Complete information about entries can be obtained by writing the Beautify Texas Council, P O Box 55, College Station, Texas 77840, prior to March 15.

Q. Any advice regarding engine wear and corrosion?
A. Faster engine speeds and greater driving loads increase metal-to-metal contact, friction and wear. Also, the corrosive acids from combustion can cause contamination and serious engine damage. A special anti-scuff additive helps one particular product, Castrol GTX motor oil, maintain a strong lubricating film around vital and fast-moving engine parts. Corrosion inhibitors neutralize acids, preventing rust, gumming and varnish build-up. Try it.

Q. Is the double-deck bus making a comeback?
A. Yes, a modern version. It's "Superbus," the hero of a new government transportation project. But veterans of the commuter crush know it better as the double-decker. Now, it's on the comeback trail after retirement in the mid-1960's by those who said it was too costly to run.

The idea is that these high-capacity buses may help ease rush-hour overcrowding by providing a seat for every passenger. And experts point out that double-deckers are two buses in the space of one. Test cities for new double-deckers are Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, New York and Oakland.

Girl Scout Week Set March 11-17

Young people are facing enormous challenges on what the quality of life will be in the future. How they meet the problems of a rapidly changing society will test their ingenuity, imagination, and abilities. How they prepare themselves to meet these challenges is of utmost importance.

One youth-serving organization which is taking the lead in involving young people in many self-directed, self-planned projects is Girl Scouts of the United States of America. Some GSUSA endeavors are directly related to the quality of our country's physical environment; others concern the inter-relationships of people, and youth participation in planning and decision making.

This concept of responsible citizenship and service with others has always been a basic one in Girl Scouting. Today's Girl Scouts are involved in projects to help close the gaps separating economic, racial, cultural, and age groups. Across the country, girls and adults from urban, suburban, and rural areas are working in partnership with National and Local community groups toward these goals.

Prepared by their training, these girls give millions of hours of service to their communities. In day camps for ghetto children, in migrant worker camps, in head start programs, in various tutorial programs, in senior citizen projects, in hospitals, schools and libraries, on Indian reservations, and in hundreds of quality environment projects—Girl Scouts of all racial, economic, and cultural backgrounds

NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL SAYS OBSTACLES IN BILL

Dallas - (Special)—Cotton ginners were told Monday that the nation's agricultural industry faces many obstacles in getting a farm bill to replace the expiring Food and Agriculture Act of 1970, but there are plus signs for agriculture, too.

Mike Maros, a cotton grower of Fabens and newly elected president of the National Cotton Council, spoke to about 2,000 cotton ginners and their guests at Convention Center during the Texas Cotton Ginners' Association's 60th annual meeting.

"We need a continuing spirit of cooperation. All of us in cotton, whether we are growers, ginners, or engaged in some other branch of the industry, have learned that even in combination our membership is relatively small, so when we move, we must do so with the strongest possible voice for our small number," Mr. Maros told the ginner in pointing up the dwindling political influence of agriculture. The present farm law is scheduled to expire Dec. 31 this year unless Congress renews it.

He said the cotton industry is engaged in an educational campaign to acquaint new Congressmen and people in their districts with the vital role cotton plays in the American economy, such as smaller energy needs in the face of a nationwide energy crisis.

"We have much going for us that should get the attention of an urban-oriented and ecology-minded Congress and public," he said, adding that a recent study by the National Cotton Council shows cotton requires only a fifth as much energy as required by synthetic fibers on a pound-for-pound basis. He said cotton saves enough energy to supply the needs of a city of a million people.

"We have every reason to ask national policymakers to consider energy conservation as a basic motive in preserving the cotton industry of this country," Mr. Maros said.

The ginners attended a trade show at the Center Sunday and held business sessions. E. L. Morrison of Dimmitt is president of the Association and J. H. "Tony" Price of Dallas is executive vice president.
