Special Display Of Books Set For Whiteface

In a letter sent out to all patrons of Whiteface Independent School District: Supt. Noah Cunningham has advised that a display of 550 ew and recent library boks covbe on display at the Whiteface Elenentary School auditorium, Dec. 1 brough Dec. 11, an exhibit made ossible through Books on Exhibit a cooperative service of the country's leading publishers.

The purpose of the display is to rovide schools and libraries with complete representative collecton of junior library books, so the eachers and librarians can see the ooks and get an idea of which of the volumes they really need for their shelves.

Actually the display is open to invone from 8 until 5 on the days isted and should they desire some of the books they can get the titles. uthor and publishers names and order them from a book store or rect from the publishing house. On Saturday and Sunday of the above dates the display will be open from 2 until 5, and a special program has been planned for Sunday December 11. Whatever your hobby or interes direct from the publishing house collection that will interest everyone, Cunningham advised. Cunningham said that library extension and improvement is a major goal of the Whiteface schools this year.

"The U. S. Army offers technical training courses to qualified young men, in order to have a corps capable of handling the equipment of modern warfare. High school graduates are required for the technical training schools. Thus staying in high school will be advantageous to both the man and the Army," said Sgt. Groner.

The Army Recruiting Sergeant at Room 204 Federal Building, Lubbock has information on how high school graduates may enlist in the Army and receive assurance of attendance at one of the Army's schools. Promotions, assignment to a branch of the man's choice, in creaed pay and increased opportunities for advancement follow the completion of a technical course.

The Zed Robinson home in Enochs was the scene of a beautiful Bridal Shower on Sunday afternoon, November 27, honoring Mrs. John W. Gunter Jr.

The living room- dinning room combination, having been previously decorated in shaded ivory walls and whispering rose draperies, was made more attractive when the event wass climaxed. A big round carved mahogony table was overlaid with a shaded ivory tablecloth of oriental design. On this was a bridal party consisting of miniature dolls dressed in pastel even ing gown and white dinner jack-

The huge wedding cake was beautifully decorated in white with small pink roses and the tradition al bride and groom topping it. This was placed to the right of the bridal party.

An arrangement of yellow mums and rust chrysanthemums were placed on the beautifully carved buffer. Mrs Robert J. Dornell at the piano played soft music.

Delicious orange-sherber, gingerale punch, and cake were served from crystal service. Unique min lature dolls bearing the placaard "Pa'sy and John" were the plate
