County land area increasing

How large a land area does Cochran County cover, according to the latest figures? How much has changed, if any, in recent years? The subject has arisen in the use of the latest government findings, which show that many of the previously recorded figures no longer apply. Some counties across the country are now listed with more land area than in 1960 and some with less. For the rest of them there has been no change. As for the nation as a whole, the figures show a decrease of 12,119 square miles of land. The latest total, reported by the Census Bureau, is 3,436,855 square miles. This compares with 3,548,974 in 1960.

To a large extent, what the country lost in land area it gained in water area, which increased by 12,030 square miles.

Overall, the United States seems to have suffered a net loss of 89 square miles. Cochran County is currently listed by the Census Bureau as having a land area of 783 square miles, which is somewhat more than its 1960 total of 782.

The new figure given for the State of Texas is 262,134 square miles of land, as against the 262,840 reported previously.

What is the explanation for the changes? To some degree they are the result of land erosion caused by inland waters encroaching on their banks.

Governor's caravan

A caravan of automobiles will form up on the west side of the square Thursday evening and depart for Lubbock to attend a presentation ceremony slated for 8:15 p.m. in the South Park Inn at Indiana Avenue and Loop 289.

Governor Dolph Briscoe will present to Cochran County officials an honorary proclamation in honor of the 50th anniversary of the county's organization. The Governor will arrive at Lubbock Regional Airport at 3:30 p.m. and, following the presentation, will address the South Plains Democratic Club. All interested persons are invited to join the caravan to attend the presentation and his address, both of which will be televised.

Local painter displaying work

Former art student at South Plains College, Mrs. Sallie Carter of Route 2, Morton, has returned with a collection of about 20 of her paintings.

The paintings, done in oil, watercolor and ink, are on display now through the month of April in the SPC Fine Arts Building. Some of the subjects include "Sunflowers," an oil; "Orange Blossoms," watercolor; "Historic City," acrylic; and "Grandmother's Teapot," oil; and "Black Beauties," watercolor and ink. Mrs. Carter studied under Burl Cole, instructor in art at SPC. She has been painting for about four-and-a-half years and has done about 40 paintings.

"I do it in my spare time, paint every chance I get," Mrs. Carter said. She attended SPC in 1971-72 and has completed most of the art courses offered at the College. She hopes to earn a degree at SPC.

Her husband Ray farms at Morton.

'Great outdoors' should remain outside the tent

Spring days will tempt thousands of campers into the outdoors, and a sudden shower or drop in temperature will tempt some of these campers into making a fatal mistake.

They will carry a lantern or stove into their tent, taking the risk of dying a horrible, flaming death.

Safety officials are reporting an increased incidence in burning tents and maiming, disfigurement and death due to tent fires.

The problem, say Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials, is that the substances used for waterproofing are highly flammable.

Once a spark from a lantern or stove or the ember from a campfire or cigarette starts the tent burning, occupants are surrounded by walls of flame in a matter of seconds.

Safety experts say that illumination inside a tent should always be done by flashlights or the new neon camp lights.

Cooking inside a tent is just asking for trouble, not only from fire but also from carbon monoxide poisoning as well.

Campfires should be well away from tents, and careful consideration should be made concerning the wind. Campers should also remember that the wind direction can change in the middle of the night, making a safe campfire into a very dangerous one.

Job Corps training now near homes

Unskilled, out-of-work 16 to 21-year-olds in this region are now receiving Job Corps training near their homes.

Parents and friends of the trainees are finding it easier to keep in close contact with their young men and women who are taking advantage of the Job Corps program.

Under the new regional assignment plan approved by the U.S. Department of Labor, trainees who are recruited in this southwest region stay in their home area for training. Students from other sections of the country are placed in a center in their region.

Many students, recruited through state employment offices, will be given a second chance at building a productive life through training at one of the centers operated by the Texas Educational Foundation, Inc. (TEF).

TEF is the renowned non-profit corporation which administers the Gary job corps center near San Marcos, the McKinley center for women and the El Paso residential manpower center in west Texas.

Complete information about the Job Corps program and its benefits may be obtained by writing or calling your local state employment office.

you can't get PIONEER Brand 8311

There are some excellent alternative hybrids for High Plains farmers.

Pioneer Brand 8311, the "Golden Bronze Yield Leader," has been our most popular this year — so popular, in fact, that it may be in short supply in some areas. One reason is that the demand has been so great downstate where disease tolerance is so important. Fortunately, there are several other Pioneer hybrids that are proven top performers on the High Plains. If you can't get 8311, ask your dealer about these.

PIONEER Brand 8417
This versatile yellow endosperm sorghum is a champion yielder in the medium-late maturity class, for irrigated or non-irrigated land. It has large open heads, uniform head height, strong stalks for easy threshing, good tolerance to smut and anthracnose.

PIONEER Brand 820
This top-notch full-season hybrid, is a consistently high yielder. Excellent drought resistance and standability plus good roots and stalks make it a good choice for irrigated or non-irrigated farming on the plains.

PIONEER Brand 828

Old oil wells could become important new energy source

Old oil wells may be an important new source of oil and gas and plans are needed for further exploration of old wells to recover overlooked and bypassed oil.

A.H. Youmans, manager of research for Dresser Atlas Petroleum Services Division, Dresser Industries, Inc., Houston, will discuss exploration for new oil in old wells during the 21st annual Southwestern Petroleum Short Course April 18-19 at Texas Tech University.

Exploration logs, electronic interpretations of various characteristics of possible oil bearing formations, including the Neutron Lifetime Log and the Carbon-Oxygen Log, can be used to explore for additional oil and gas in old wells, according to Youmans. Using new logging techniques and improving them further could bring the industry to the point that all types of oil bearing rocks could be identified at their oil content assayed.

"At present there is no significant program of exploration using cased hole logs," said Youmans. Many conventional logging techniques do not work after casings, or the internal structures of a well bore, have been installed. New techniques allow loggings to be made after casings are installed which permits maximum detection of oil deposits.

"In the interest of helping to alleviate the oil shortage, a plan for stimulating cased hole exploration with oil finding logs would be beneficial to the public and profitable to the industry," said Youmans.

Youmans' presentation will be one of 30 discussions planned for the annual Southwestern Petroleum Short Course at Texas Tech. The short course is a technical conference devoted to problems concerning the lifting of petroleum from the ground.

Papers to be presented will be in categories including Drilling and Well Completions, Logging and Formation Evaluation, Well Stimulation and Workover Techniques, Fracturing, Reservoir Operations and Reservoir Engineering and Artificial Lift.

Registration for the short course will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday, April 18 in the Texas Tech University Center. A briefing session for participants is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in the Coronado Room of the University Center.

Paper presentations will begin at 10:05 a.m. with sessions being held concurrently in several locations on the university campus. Presentation schedules and locations will be detailed in registration materials issued during the conference allowing interested parties to attend sessions of their choice, according to Philip Johnson, chairman of the short course Board of Directors.

Harold D. Hammon, vice president of Chase Manhattan Bank, New York, will be guest speaker at the short course luncheon scheduled for 12:05 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. Also during the luncheon, two members of the petroleum industry will be honored for contributions to the industry through presentation of J.C. Stonneger Awards for contributions to the industry.

Paper presentations will resume at 2:05 p.m. and continue hourly through 5 p.m.

Friday, April 19, paper presentations will resume at 9:05 a.m. and continue through 3:30 p.m. with a pause at noon for a buffet luncheon in the University Center Ballroom. Bob Diggs Brown, vice president, Halliburton Services, Duncan, Okla. will be the luncheon speaker.

An average of 350 members of the petroleum industry attend the short course each year. Registration for the conference is $30.

Cotton market activity said slow during week

Activity was limited in Western Region cotton markets this week, according to the Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. Domestic mill business was slow and limited mostly to small purchases for nearby delivery.

Foreign demand was weak. Supplies remaining under grower control was limited. Growers showed little interest in selling their stocks at prevailing price levels. Merchants and other local buyers appeared in no hurry to add to their existing stocks.

Growers continued reluctant to contract 1974-crop cotton at the level of prices offered by merchants. Showers and cool temperatures delayed planting in California's San Joaquin Valley during the week.

Planting made good progress in the Imperial Valley of California and in Central Arizona.

In the Coastal and Upper Coastal Bend areas of Texas planting made generally good progress. Here-to-fore wet fields were drying sufficiently for planting to progress.

Planting activities were slowly moving northward into the Austin territory. High winds and blowing dust again delayed outside farming activities in New Mexico, Far West Texas, the Texas Plains and Oklahoma during the week. Land preparation was making good progress. Some seeding had been done in the Pecos Valley of New Mexico, and the El Paso and Pecos territories of Texas. The Texas Plains-Oklahoma areas continued to need rain.

Prices quoted for selected qualities, 3.5 to 4.9 mike, in the six Western Region spot markets are as follows:

Dallas, this week 42.75; (42) Strict Low Middling (41) Staple 31.
Houston, this week, 57.00; Middling Light Spotted 34.
Lubbock, this week, 43.70; (43) Strict Low Middling (41) Staple 31.
El Paso, this week 67.25; (68) Strict Low Middling (41) Staple 31.
Fresno, this week, 68.80; (69) Middling (31) Staple 31.
Phoenix, this week, 60.40; (59) Strict Low Middling (41) Staple 31.

SANCAP. BECAUSE YOU HAVE ENOUGH SOIL PROBLEMS ALREADY.

If the soil in West Texas was the same as the soil everywhere else maybe the herbicides they use would be good enough for you.

But you've got different soil. Sandy soil. And different problems.

You need an herbicide specifically made for sand, loamy sands and fine sandy loam soils. You need Sancap®.

If you used it when we introduced it last season, you know what it can do.

STOP CARELESSWEED AND RUSSIAN THISTLE COLD.

Without hurting your cotton.

With just ordinary rainfall or irrigation.

And all you have to do is broadcast Sancap over your field at planting or within two days after.

No incorporation, either.

Sancap. The only herbicide made for sandy soil. We made it especially for your soil and problems.

And not anybody else's.

"Those units show me the path of life, in thy presence is fulness of joy."
PSALM 16:11

HERE IS THE PATH

Should love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength, and with all thy neighbor as thyself.
Luke 10:27

The basis of God's first and greatest commandment is love. God gave man the freedom to choose his love on anyone. God took the first step and is always ready to receive any who would come to Him.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long survive and the freedom which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

FOR PEOPLE WHO THINK

Every person acquainted with the events as recorded in the New Testament knows that after Christ was crucified and raised again from the dead that Christ met with His chosen apostles for the last time as recorded in Matt. 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-16; Luke 24:44-48; also that immediately after this last meeting that Christ went back to the Father in heaven—Mark 16:19,20; Luke 24:50-53; Acts 1:1-9. For forty days after Christ's resurrection He met and talked with the apostles many times—speaking to them of things pertaining to the kingdom of God (Acts 1:1-3). Then, at the last meeting, He gave them their commission (orders—commands) — first references cited above—including the command for them to wait in Jerusalem until they should be "...endued with power from on high." (Luke 24:49)—for the "...promise of the Father," and that they (the apostles) would "...receive power after that the Holy Ghost (Spirit) is come upon you." (Acts 1:8).

The time came when God chose that the Holy Spirit should come unto them—the first Pentecost after the death, burial, resurrection and ascension of Christ. Acts, chapter two, relates the happenings of that day—read it. In this chapter—verses 14-36—is recorded the very first sermon preaching the truth about Christ—his life, death, burial, resurrection, ascension back into heaven; and the being crowned both Lord and Christ. Verses 37-41 relates the response of those who believed and that "...gladly received his word were baptized." These that were genuinely converted that day needed to be taught WHAT to do and HOW to do it (God has said that "...it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps."—Jeremiah 10:23). But Jesus, at that last meeting, had commanded the apostles to teach just such as these were WHAT to OBSERVE. Verses 42-47 of the 2nd. chapter of Acts, relates the things that happened among these first converts at the beginning. It is, therefore, necessarily true that the apostles taught them WHAT and HOW to do in the circumstances that existed at that time. More next time. Remember your welcome to attend the assemblies at Taylor and SW 2nd. Sts.

Pre-Mother's Day Magic

What would you really like for Mother's Day this year, if you could have one magic wish? How about a new figure? Then when the family presents you with a glamorous at-home gown or a snappy new sweater on May 12th, you'll be ready to model your gift in style.

Without waving a magic wand, you actually can have a new figure by Mother's Day. First get an objective view of the problem. Ask a friend to take your picture in last year's swimsuit. The camera doesn't lie. If it says there is room for improvement, you can believe it.

Don't immediately think in terms of starvation diets, however, and hours in the steam room. Plan a sensible program of diet and exercise that you'll be able to stick to.

The basis of your diet must be a method of cutting calories painlessly, without any loss of vital nutrients. This is very important because a diet that robs your body of protein, vitamins and minerals, et cetera, cannot be good for your body in the long run. A delicious and safe way to lose weight is with the Slender diet plan. Slender diet food from Carnation mixed with fortified nonfat milk contains just 164 calories, yet each serving gives you one-quarter of the Recommended Daily Allowance of all nutrients. Thus it's nutritionally sound to substitute a glass for one or more meals as follows.

To go on a diet without your family even being aware of it, follow this eating pattern. Drink Slender for breakfast, lunch and as a mid-afternoon snack, varying the flavors to suit your fancy. Then eat a regular dinner with the rest of the family, simply watching your own portions so that you consume no more than 400 calories at dinner time. This brings your day's total calorie intake to about 900, which means you can expect to lose up to four pounds a week. One month from now, that should mean a considerable difference in the waistline!

As for exercise, you need to find a pleasant way of fitting it into your daily routine. Ten minutes of easy waist stretches every morning along with a few situps and leg swings is the idea. Don't expect changes overnight. Do expect to enjoy exercises more the second week than the first, and so on. As you start to loosen up in some places and firm up in others, you'll enjoy moving more and more.

After a month of this Slender diet and daily exercise plan, you'll feel like a new woman. Why not look like one, from a fashion point of view? Give yourself a Mother's Day present that really shows off your new figure—a slinky new one-piece swimsuit in either pastel or tropic bright print. Nothing magic about it. It all comes down to the Slender new you.

Snake ignores your club—then outrun him!

any folks, just the sight of a snake to spoil an otherwise pleasant day. The weather warms, the chances of a snake increase. The rattlesnake, of which there are many subspecies, the cottonmouth and the copperhead are pit vipers which inject poison into their victims through hypodermic-like fangs. The coral snake has small, fixed fangs and must bite and holds its victim while the venom is injected. Bites from the coral snake are extremely dangerous. Fortunately, few persons are ever bitten by these nonaggressive little snakes, and they offer little threat unless handled, mangled or pinched. Bites from the other species are more common. New methods for treating these snakebites have been developed and new first-aid procedures are being recommended.

The old method of cross-cutting the puncture marks and sucking out the poison has fallen from favor because doctors say the cross cuts do more harm than good. The new first aid calls for placing restricting bands both above and below the bite. Rubber bands are recommended since they will retard the spread of venom without obstructing the flow of blood. An ice pack, if available should be applied to the wound and the victim taken to the nearest hospital.

Like any poison, the more you get, the more serious the problem. Approximately 30 per cent of snakebite victims receive no venom and do not require treatment. Another 30 per cent do not get to worry about but eventually require some treatment. Only about 40 per cent require extensive and rapid treatment. Symptoms and signs of snakebite where venom has been injected include blueness, swelling, pain, nausea and vomiting, low blood pressure, slow heart rate, lack of waste removal, and in extreme cases, coma. A little common sense can prevent snakebites. Stay out of thick brush, look before stepping over a log or other obstruction, look before placing your hand in a crevice when climbing rocks, wear boots or tough shoes in snake country and restrain from searching burrows and crevices with hands. Most snakes would be content to go on their way undisturbed if left alone. Don't feel compelled to kill every snake you see. Even poisonous snakes should be left alone unless they are found near inhabited areas.

Records of the historic Muleshoe Ranch, accumulated in Michigan by owners E.K. and Charles Warren are now preserved and available to researchers on microfilm at Texas Tech University's Southwest Collection. From 1902 to 1954 the Warren family operated a vast ranching empire which at one time covered nearly a million acres in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, and Mexico. Headquartered in Three Oaks, Mich., the company endured revolutions, floods, droughts and depressions during its prolonged venture in the Southwest. The Warren papers were located and tracked down through the oral history and field work programs of the Southwest Collection, a historical research center archival repository housed at Texas Tech, its holdings now number more than eight million items and include one of the largest caches of ranch related material in the United States. The recently acquired Warren collection includes business and personal correspondence between the Southwestern ranches and the Michigan headquarters, plus financial and legal material related to the company's investment. Originally the Warrens were manufacturers of buggy whips and corset stays, and the little know story of how the family became interested in Texas land and cattle is a part of the microfilmed records and tape-recorded interviews obtained by the Southwest Collection. During the 1880's E.K. Warren developed a process for making lightweight corset stays from the quills of turkey feathers and soon accumulated a sizable fortune. Afterward, his 20-year-old son, Charles, restless in the manufacturing business, headed for Texas to become a cowboy. In 1891, he began working for the vast Square and Compass Ranch southeast of present-day Lubbock. Although by 1902 Charles was back working for his father, he had nevertheless, persuaded him to invest in Texas land and cattle. The Warrens first purchased the YL Ranch in Bailey County. Later, a tract obtained from the Bovina Cattle Company became their Muleshoe ranch. It surrounded the present Texas community bearing that name. Then, in 1909, two large ranches in Chihuahua, Mexico, were acquired, but these were ravaged during the Mexican Revolution. Later, other tracts in New Mexico and Colorado were added to the domain. After the deaths of E.K. (1919) and Charles (1932) the Warren Family continued the operation. Finally, in 1954, the stockholders liquidated the holdings and the remnant of the Muleshoe ranch was sold to a group of Lubbock investors. A witness to much of the Warren ranching story was William R. Kramer of Three Oaks. For more than 40 years he served as bookkeeper, secretary-treasurer, and general manager for the Southwestern ranches. Now at the age of 89, Kramer is still employed by the Warren Family. Kramer made his first of many visits to the ranches in 1915. His impressions and reminiscences of Muleshoe and other locales have been preserved in tape-recorded interviews in the Southwest Collection.

Mrs. Egger presents garden club program

The Le Fleur Garden Club met in the home of Mrs. Pete Thomas Thursday, April 11, at 2:30 p.m. Mrs. Thomas called the meeting to order and the roll call was answered by naming "a craft I would like to learn." She used the Easter theme and made a very attractive cake with simple tools. She then demonstrated the art of making roses. Each member decorated a cupcake to try their skill. Mrs. Thomas made an arrangement to compliment a picture which was judged by the group, with Mrs. Roy Hill in charge. Those attending were: Mmes. L.Z. Scoggins, Olin Darland, Alvin Gladden, Bob Newton, Bobby Adams, Egger, Hill, and two guests, Mrs. Robert Yeary and Mrs. Joe Bowers. Farm workers, farms showing sharp decline

Total number of farm workers has declined from an annual average of 423,000 in 1960 to an average of 264,000 in 1973. This is a reduction of 38 per cent. During the same period (1960 to 1973), family labor declined from 258,000 to 184,000; this is a reduction of 29 per cent. Hired labor has dropped from 165,000 in 1960 to 80,000 in 1973, a decline of 52 per cent. A decrease of 15 per cent in the number of Texas farms is also noted during the period 1960 to 1973. The number of Texas farms now totals 209,000. While the number of farms was decreasing, the size of the average farm continues to rise. In 1960 the average size farm in Texas was 619 acres. In 1974, the average size is 678 acres, an increase of 10 per cent.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

That is what is meant by the Scriptures which say that no mere man has ever seen, heard or even imagined what wonderful things God has ready for those who love the Lord. But we know about these things because God has sent his Spirit to tell us, and his Spirit searches out and shows us all of God's deepest secrets. No one can really know what anyone else is thinking, or what he is really like, except that person himself. And no one can know God's thoughts except God's own Spirit.

In other cases, they are due to inaccuracies found in the maps used in the computing of areas. Sometimes, streams that border counties have been exaggerated in width, throwing off the calculations. Occasionally, the part that is under water has been counted in with the land mass.

To a greater degree, however, the changes are attributed to a correction of errors discovered in the former calculating method and to new equipment, now in use, capable of making computations electronically down to a fraction of a square inch.

marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Feeder cattle prices should reach last year's levels while Choice slaughter steer prices should move up to the $48-$50 range, contends Dr. Ed Uvacek.

"The high price for the year may not be much higher than that, and some downward pressure is highly probably thereafter."

In analyzing the present problem of low prices to producers, the Texas A University System special points to overfat cattle feedlots, the trucking fuel shortages, retail lowering wholesale prices in order to widen margins, and past government controls having a hand in depressing already weak market.

"Neither over supply of beef nor a lack of consumer demand caused the low price level the last month," Uvacek says. "Slaughter of cattle was one per cent in January, a four per cent in February, prices fell drastically. On the other hand, retail beef prices in January were up 17 per cent from a year ago and six per cent above the December level."

"The demand is definitely there, and that should bring up prices to producers the next few weeks," believes the specialist.

Speir reports Texas crime rate up 3.1 percent last year

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, announced today that the Texas crime rate last year rose by 3.1 percent.

Speir said 492,654 major criminal offenses were committed during 1973 for a rate per 100,000 population of 4,177.2. In 1972, there were 472,011 major offenses for a rate of 4,051.9.

In urban areas of Texas there were an estimated 449,097 major offenses as compared to 422,677, a year before. The urban crime rate rose by 4.9 percent, but in rural sections of the state, the crime rate was down 12.7 percent from the figure noted in 1972. Rural offenses totaled 43,557 contrasted to 49,334 the previous year.

The largest increase in crime was in the robbery category, up 17.1 percent over 1972. Murders and homicides were down by 2.1 percent. In other types of criminal activity, these rate increases were noted by the DPS: rape, 1.5 percent; burglary, 2.8 percent; aggravated assault, 1.1 percent; theft, 2.9 percent; and auto theft, 2.4 percent.

Speir said that if the major crimes in Texas during 1973 had been evenly distributed as to frequency, there would have been one such offense every minute of every day.

The Department of Public Safety's 1973 crime report, in analysis of offenses by population density, noted that the crime rate rose faster, generally, in cities of less than 100,000 population than in the largest metropolitan centers. These figures were listed:

Cities over 100,000 population, rate up 2.9 percent.

Cities between 50,000 and 100,000 population, rate up 9.0 percent.

Cities between 25,000 and 50,000 population, rate up 11.0 percent.

Cities between 10,000 and 25,000 population, rate up 12.0 percent.

Cities between 5,000 and 10,000 population, rate up 1.3 percent.

Cities between 2,500 and 5,000 population, rate up 11.2 percent.

Cities with over 50 rural population per square mile noted a 42.9 percent decrease in the crime rate last year, and crime was down 21.1 percent in those counties with from 35 to 50 rural population per square mile.

Speir said population estimates compiled by the Census Bureau and obtained through the FBI were used in calculating crime rates in the 1973 DPS report.

The statewide crime clearance rate for 1973 was 26 percent - the same figure as was noted in 1972. The DPS said the highest clearance rates were associated with crimes against persons with 88 percent of the murders, 70 percent of the aggravated assaults and 61 percent of the rapes cleared by police agencies.

The statewide robbery clearance rate last year was 35 percent and a 24 percent clearance rate was observed for thefts. The auto theft clearance rate stood at 19 percent and there was an 18 percent clearance rate for burglary.

Boat registration by mail announced

Glantz, the State Director of Service for Texas, has announced the use of "registration by mail" for boats.

Inductions have ended, young men required by Federal Law to register with Selective Service at age 18. The law makes the young man liable for a fine of five years imprisonment or a fine of $10,000.

Organizations within the Selective Service System have left fewer local board offices open. As a result, many young men have a considerable distance to travel to a registration place. To require registration for those men who are a member of a Selective Service System is to require "registration by mail."

The established procedure of registration by mail is not intended to be a substitute for a duty to register in person before a Supplemental Selective Service Registrar. It is only as a supplemental measure to accommodate the young man who is far from a place of registration that going before the Registrar would be an inconvenience.

Registration by mail, which can simply write to his Selective Service System Area

Office requesting the new form for registration by mail. The form will be forwarded immediately, and when completed and returned to Selective Service, the young man will have complied with the requirement of Federal Law to register with Selective Service.

Glantz said: "Since inductions have ended, many people think it is no longer necessary for young men to register, but the law still requires each young man to register within 30 days before or after his 18th birthday."

Glantz urged young men to keep their records clean by timely registration with Selective Service, and added: "if a young man has reached age 18 and has not yet registered, he should do so as soon as possible."

To receive the new registration by mail form, young men should write to the nearest Selective Service System Area Office or to State Headquarters Selective Service System in Austin, Texas.

The nearest Selective Service System Area Office is located at AO No. 4 118 E. 7th in Plainview, Texas.

Young men may register by personally appearing before the following Selective Service Registrars in this area: Mrs. Lenave L. Freeland, High School, Morton, Texas; Mrs. Mary Ann Ashbill, Co. Judge's Office, Morton, Texas; Truman Swinney, Whiteface, Texas.

Country Club membership re-opened

Richard Houston, president of the Morton Country Club announced this week that the club membership has been reopened for a limited time and those interested in joining may contact any board member for information.

The last two weeks both Friday and Saturday afternoon, have been designated as work days with a cook out following.

Again this week, the two afternoons will be work days. All members are urged to participate. Greens are being re-seeded and conditioned.

Houston stated that bids for the swimming pool and the club house expect to be let within ten days and it is projected that the pool will be in operation this summer.
