County lawmen put out alert for missing harvester

Floyd County lawmen turned out this week to search for a missing cotton harvester.

The six-ton machine disappeared from Brown's Implement in Floydada sometime Monday night.

It was hoped that the stripper was driven off as a prank, but as Tuesday wore on with no results to the county-wide search, it became more apparent that the harvester had been stolen.

The Floyd County Sheriff's Department put out an alert to neighboring law enforcement agencies to be on the lookout for the machine.

The harvester, an International red and white model, is reported to be 15 feet tall. It had only a small amount of diesel fuel in the tank when it was taken from the Brown's lot.

The harvester apparently was driven off the lot under its own power, since lawmen discovered tracks leading to the highway. The machine may have been loaded onto a truck from there or it may have been driven away.

It will only travel at about 20 miles per hour, according to a Brown's spokesman, but with approximately 70 county farmers currently engaged in stripping their fields, one more harvester could escape notice on the local roads.

If the machine was taken down the roads, it would present a danger to low-hanging power lines, especially in the darkness.

Employees at Brown's discovered the stripper missing Tuesday morning when they went to get a part for another machine.

There was no indication that the disappearance of the harvester was part of a larger outbreak of thefts, since no similar incidents have been reported in nearby towns.

The missing harvester was valued at $30,000.

The Sheriff's Department has all the engine and chassis number on the missing harvester. Anyone with information on the machine should contact the Sheriff's office.

New county agent is approved

A new county Extension agent for agriculture has been named for Floyd County, effective Dec. 1.

He is Jett V. Major, formerly an Extension agent in Lubbock County. He replaces Stephen R. Herber, who resigned.

The appointment of Major was announced by Floyd County Judge Choise Smith and Billy C. Gunter, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Jett has served as assistant county agent and a county agent in Lubbock since September, 1977, and has done an excellent job," Gunter said. "He has conducted outstanding programs in Lubbock and we are pleased that he will be providing leadership for adult and 4-H programs in agriculture in Floyd County."

A native of Groom in Carson County, Major was graduated from Groom High School. He received an Associate in Science degree from Clarendon Junior College in 1974 and a Bachelor of Science degree in animal science from Texas A&M University in 1976. He is completing requirements for a master's degree at Texas Tech University.

At Clarendon, Major was class salutatorian, honor graduate, dean's list student, member of Phi Theta Kappa national honor society and was listed in

"Who's Who in American Junior Colleges."

At A&M, he was graduated cum laude, was designated a distinguished student, was active in the Corps of Cadets, and was active in the Pre-Veterinary Society, the Bio-Medical Assn., and Robbin's Aero Squadron.

Prior to joining Extension, Major was a veterinary assistant at an animal clinic in Lubbock, and worked on farms in Idalou and Groom.

He is married to the former Mary Lynette Bischel of Groom. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Major, now live in Abernathy.

Love fund account opened

A love fund account for a Floydada woman has been opened at the First National Bank of Floydada, according to Galloway.

The fund was started to aid Kay (Mrs. Wilson) who is recovering from surgery at Nichols Hospital in Austin. Mrs. Wilson's condition is reported as being good this week.

Mrs. Wilson entered the hospital last Friday and was expected to remain until Wednesday or Thursday.

Mr. Wilson is a self-employed electrician here. The couple have three children.

Contributors to the fund may donate at the First National Bank, Mrs. Galloway said.

Clarification

As reported in last week's Hesperian, the commercial users of outdoor natural gas lights in Floydada must apply for an exemption from the city to continue using those lights. The city council's resolution did not affect residential users of outdoor natural gas lights. Residential users may continue using their gas lights without the necessity of obtaining an exemption.

FFA members win third in area contests

A team of Floydada Future Farmers of America last week won third place in competition for their radio script. The winning first place in the competition, Dwayne Marble, Dewayne, Marty Seymour and alter-duncan Woody went to Tullia last week to compete in the area contest. They worked up their own script for delivery, from behind curtains to the judges, according to FFA instructor Orville Harris.

The radio competition was part of a district FFA project leading up to competitions. The boys took their place in the district contests Nov.

14. Teams from six South Plains districts competed in the area contests, with the first and second place teams from each district going on to the area eliminations at Tullia.

Junior FFA members David Carr, Wally Davis, Julio Mendoza and Bill Gray won third place in the district FFA Quiz. The quiz covered FFA and parliamentary procedure.

The Junior and Senior Chapter Conducting teams also competed in the district meet. In that segment of the competition, Harris said, the chapter officers conduct a reproduction of an official FFA meeting while following the rules of parliamentary procedure. Included in the meeting schedule is an item of new business which must be discussed and decided.

Participating in the Junior Chapter Conducting competition were Gilbert Schwertner, Michael Lipham, Delee Marble, Mitch Ross, Lisa Ware, Marty Covington and Danny Nutt.

Senior Chapter members were Ronnie Minner, Norman Allen, Todd Beedy, Kyle Stapleton, Bryant Higginbotham, Chris Fulton, Robert Nixon, Monty Williams and Phillip Holbert.

Overall, the Floydada teams came out sixth in the field of 12 area teams.

Floydadans will dine on free Thanksgiving turkeys

A total of 16 lucky Floydadans will dine on a free turkey at their holiday table this Thanksgiving.

The turkeys were drawn by local businesses in a city-wide drawing at noon Monday afternoon. Drawing winners received certificates redeemable at Floydada grocery stores for a 10-to-12 pound turkey. The drawings are good for the turkeys at Fry's, Kirtley's and Piggly Wiggly, depending on which store is specified on the winners certificate.

The Floydada winners and their sponsoring companies were: —N.A. Barton, in the Tipton Oil Co. drawing; —Preston Badgett in the Thompson Pharmacy drawing; —Harold Huggins in the Brown's Implement drawing; —Mrs. Thomas Warren in the City Auto Inc. drawing; —Valdonna Barbee in the Perry Implement Co. drawing; —Mrs. John Reue in the Sue's Gifts and Accessories drawing; —Estelle Eubanks in the Perry's Brothers drawing; —Edna

Seaman relates adventures to students

The Floydada Junior High School students this week got a taste of adventure on the high seas when a student related his experiences on a 32-foot boat.

Kenneth Barker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barker, arrived in town recently to lecture Mrs. Amy Barker's classes on his adventures from Alaska to Seattle. Barker is a senior student of Mrs. Hollums.

Barker said he sailed his 32-foot rigged sailboat from Seward, Alaska across the Gulf of Alaska and the inside passage of islands until he reached Anacortis, just north of Seattle. The trip took from July 4 until July 27. For 14 days of the journey he was out of sight of land and completely isolated.

Barker said that he stopped at different points to anchor and spend the night while he crossed the Gulf. Barker left the boat in Anacortis while he came to Floydada for the Thanksgiving holidays. He will return after the holiday to get his boat ready for further sailing in the Pacific.

Barker was not sure exactly which course he will take on his next adventure. His first two choices were to go directly to Hawaii or to sail down the California coast to San Diego and then on to the French Islands in the South Pacific, like Tahiti or Tonga.

Barker began his love for boats and sailing in a 19-foot open sailboat he piloted on a lake outside Abilene in 1963.

"I decided that was the thing to do," he said. "From then on I worked toward owning my own boat and sailing across oceans." He now makes his home on the 32-footer.

Barker accomplished his dream after serving for 20 years in the U.S. Air Force.

"Long-distance sailing has been a goal — something to work for," he said. The 1958 Floydada High graduate said that living on a boat involved a considerable change of lifestyle.

"You have to plan everything far in advance," Barker said. "You're so far away from everything that you have to plan everyday events, like meals and such, plus be prepared to deal with emergencies yourself."

There is a community of sorts on the seas, Barker noted. Some of them have spent years on boats traveling from one ocean to another.

"You help each other willingly," he said. "If one boat catches fish, then all the boats have a fish fry."

Barker explained the life of the sea to the junior high students and passed around a photo album of snapshots he has taken on his travels.

Also an amateur photography buff, Barker plans to keep a photographic and written record of his travels, when the hectic schedule of shipboard life allows the extra time.

Floydada woman leads SPC team to state honors

A South Plains College parliamentary procedures competition team led by a young Floydada woman took third place in an Austin competition, as the college swept the top three places.

Tammy Gentry, the 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Gentry, led her team to honors in the state-wide Office Education Association (OEA) conference in the capital recently.

Miss Gentry was also recently installed as the treasurer of the South Plains OEA in a candlelit ceremony at the college in Levelland.

She is a 1978 graduate of Floydada High and a medical secretary major at South Plains.

The OEA members will participate in coming weeks in a donation of craft items at the Retired Senior Volunteer Program locally and in an annual blood drive on the SPC campus.

State OEA officers will be elected this spring at a state conference in Fort Worth. The national conference will follow this summer in Minneapolis, Minn.

WINS STATE HONORS — Tammy Gentry, of Route 4, recently led a parliamentary procedures team from South Plains College to a third-place finish in statewide competition.

SEAFARER — Kenneth Barker describes his high seas adventures to a group of junior high school students Monday morning.

Side Glances

THE PHILOSOPHER HEGEL THEORIZED, that those who did not learn from history were doomed to repeat it. I don't know if I'd push the theory that far, but little incidents do seem to have a way of occurring in cycles.

Take for instance the gas crunch. We seem to be using more than we can readily produce. The result of modern growth, some people say. But anytime you have a product that is in great demand, you're going to have periodic shortages.

Floydada, for instance, experienced its own energy crisis more than 65 years ago. According to Homer Steen's reports, Floydada's version of "Black Tuesday" came on Sept. 9, 1913. The event brought home to motorists and businesses alike the growing dependency on the "juice."

"The Magnolia people were out, all the grocers were out and the wholesalers up the line seemed to be out," Steen wrote that week.

"Individuals with barrels came to the rescue temporarily, selling what they could spare. "One tourist came through the mud from Spur and begged five gallons of the wherewithal. The situation was relieved Wednesday afternoon, when an advance shipment of eight barrels came in."

The journalist went on to estimate that Floydadans were known to use up to five barrels of gas a day.

Steen did not mention whether private sellers made large profits on their gas that day, as would be the practice in many places today.

WELL, WHAT HAPPENED TO THE SNOW? Everybody in the South Plains early this week braced themselves for what was touted as the imminent first howler of the season.

It was pleasantly warm Monday, but all over town people kept telling me, "yeah, just wait until this front blows in."

The reported front apparently came and went during the night and there's no winter wonderland outside with Jack Frost dancing up your windowpanes.

All I've got to show for the supposed weather change is a wet dog huddled at the gate. Anybody know how to teach a dumb mutt to go inside the doghouse when it rains?

IRAN'S AYATOLLAH KHOMEINI seems to be trying to cut his losses in the confrontation with the United States. Now he's attempting to cull good will with black and female segments of the U.S. population, using a sound tactic that dates back to Julius Caesar: divide and conquer.

But I'm beginning to wonder about the American people. For once in as many years as anyone can remember, this country acted as a nation in response to the Iranian threats.

We didn't respond as separate groups; WASPs, Blacks, women, Mexican-Americans or Teamsters. We responded as Americans. Being united even in such a desperate situation has been like a breath of fresh air in the too-often segmented society we find ourselves in.

Ayatollah Khomeini would like to change all that.

Floydada Salvation Army plans fund-raising drive for early December

The Floydada Unit of the Salvation Army will kick off its annual fund raising drive Dec. 4 in the community room of the First National Bank of Floydada.

Salvation Army leaders Joe Cluck, unit chairman, Mary McPherson, treasurer and Kathy Green, 1979 fund raising chairman, will supervise instruction and delivery of campaign packets to local captains and workers for the drive.

The workers will move immediately from the instructional meeting to their fund raising activities, Mrs. Green said. The Salvation Army has set a $2,500 goal for the Floydada unit.

Aldine Williams and Dennis Swearingin will act as special co-chairmen for the business sector.

"At this time of year, as we count our blessings and look forward to the holiday season, we should turn our hearts and minds to those among us who are not as fortunate," Mrs. Green said this week.

"The Salvation Army is one way everyone can help," she said. "Of each dollar donated, a third stays here to help local people." The remainder, she said, is submitted to the national office for operation of the many services of the Salvation Army.

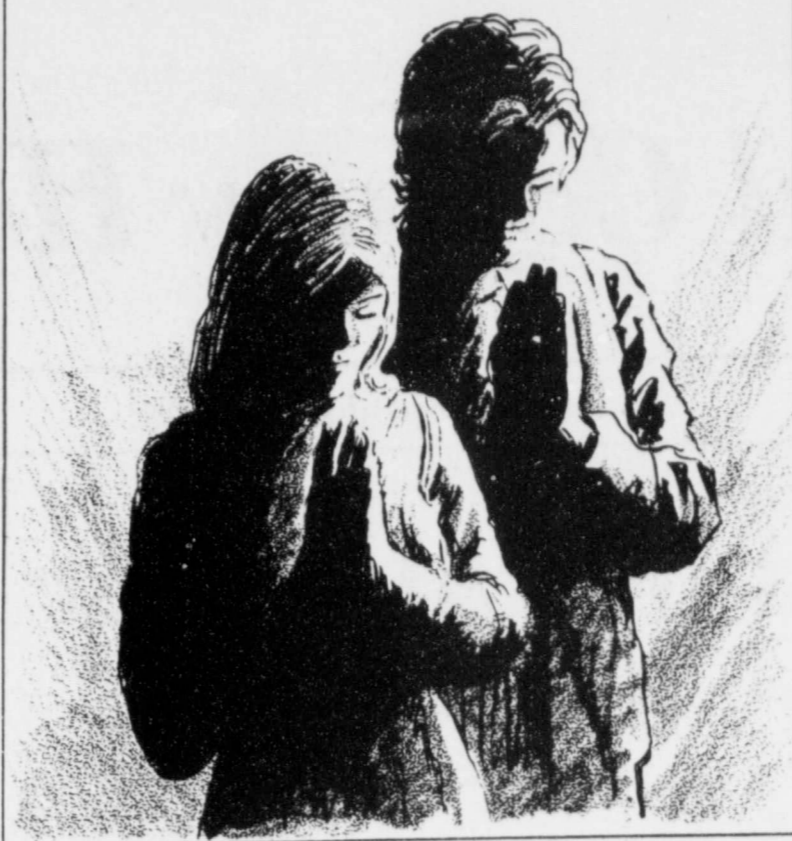

The workers will begin a door-to-door campaign for contributions which will last for two weeks.

Mrs. Green noted that local Salvation Army funds are used for emergency aid to people in trouble.

"Most of it goes for food coupons for those with nothing to eat," she said. "Some goes for gasoline and overnight lodging for stranded travelers."

Anyone wishing to help with the fund-raising drive should contact Cluck at the bank, Mrs. McPherson at the district clerk's office or Mrs. Green at Community Action, phone number 983-3134.

Commentary: Sen. Lloyd Bentsen

Widows and children of CIA agents killed in duty need assistance

At a spotlight on Route 123 in Northern Virginia — across the Potomac River and eight miles from downtown Washington, D.C. — is a road leading to the western entrance to Central Intelligence Agency headquarters.

At first glance it appears to be a tree-shaded country lane sloping back into a thick forest. But then you spot the poles for the high intensity lighting system that marches along the road and the chain link fence set back from the roadway and, at the end, a modernistic guardhouse with a red light, a stop sign and the ever-present guards.

The layout of the place, by design, creates the atmosphere of a college campus. The 219 acre facility is dominated by the 1 million square foot main building.

On the south wall of the central lobby in that building are carved the words from the Book of John, Chapter Eight, Verse 32:

And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free.

On the north wall of the lobby are 35 stars. Each of those stars is a memorial, honoring a CIA employee whose life was lost in service of country.

We are familiar with the name of one of those individuals: Richard Welch, CIA Station Chief in Athens, Greece. He was shot down by three gunmen at about 10 p.m. on the night of December 23, 1975 as he drove up to his house in an Athens suburb from a Christmas party.

The names of the others are generally unknown. The names of many of these dedicated Americans can never be revealed.

It is the nature of their work that CIA officers must live, and die, in anonymity.

But it is not necessary that their passing go completely unnoted by a grateful nation.

I have introduced legislation to provide a year's salary to the widows and children of CIA employees killed in line of duty.

The Bentsen bill will provide needed assistance to those widows and children whose husbands and fathers are killed overseas as a result of hostile or terrorist acts, or in connection with intelligence activities that carry a substantial degree of risk.

Benefits such as this are already available to employees of the U.S. State Department killed under similar circumstances. And the federal government also provides death benefits to the survivors of public safety officers killed in the line of duty in this country.

We live in a time of global instability and danger. We face aggressive, provocative and dangerous behavior by adversaries who are bent on the destruction of freedoms we Americans have come to take for granted.

I would hope that benefits never have to be paid out under the bill I have introduced. Nevertheless, the dangers of the world in which we live are very real and make necessary its passage.

It is fair legislation. It is just. It is a clear statement in support of intelligence officers who serve their country at great personal risk and I am hopeful it will be given swift approval by Congress.

There are eight medals awarded by the CIA for heroism or meritorious service.

The highest medal they can bestow is the Distinguished Intelligence Cross, awarded for "...a voluntary act or acts of exceptional heroism involving the acceptance of existing dangers with conspicuous fortitude and exemplary courage."

There is also an Exceptional Service Medal, for those who are injured or killed in line of duty.

There is, of course, a caveat that accompanies medals given out by the CIA. Recipients, or their survivors, are cautioned not to tell anyone about them.

If in the future, God forbid, a survivor is ever notified that the Exceptional Service Medal has been awarded, I would like to see it accompanied by a full year's pay. It's little enough.

won't sell political time early

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on White River has become aware of the Presidential campaigns, it appears.

Dear editor:
Some of the 12 candidates — 10 Republicans, 2 Democrats — now running for President are mad at the TV networks because they won't sell them time to make their formal announcements.

"It's too early," the networks say. "Wait till after January 1."

Some political experts say there's another reason, that a network gets only $180,000 for a 30-minute political announcement, while it can get $900,000 for its regular show with $150,000-a-minute commercials thrown in every few minutes. These commercials are necessary to pay the inflated salaries of TV performers. A pound of bacon would have to sell for $100 for its price to equal the inflationary price of some TV personalities. The Consumer Alert

by Mark White
Attorney General

The holiday shopping season will be on us in little more than a week. Many of the gifts we purchase will be charged — we truly are a credit society. The problem with credit purchases, of course, is that the bill soon follows; and frequently, the bill we receive does not match the good we purchased. The billing disputes which result are a major consumer problem.

In 1975 a federal law was enacted to insure that billing disputes are fairly resolved. This law does not apply to all credit purchases, however, but only to open-end credit plans such as credit cards and charge accounts.

Basically, the law provides that a creditor must respond to billing disputes brought to his attention by a consumer by correcting any errors on the bill or by explaining why the bill is correct. The creditor must also explain the dispute settlement procedure so the consumer can resolve the problem as quickly and efficiently as possible.

The billing dispute procedure mandated by the federal law is set in motion when a consumer sends a written notice to the creditor describing the error. This notice must be sent within sixty days of receipt of the billing statement. Any of the following are considered billing errors:

- Accounting errors
- Failing to credit payments or the return of goods
- Incomplete billings
- Unauthorized charges or charges not made

-Charges for goods not delivered as agreed or which were not accepted

-Incorrect dates, descriptions or amounts on bills

-Sending the bill to the wrong address provided that the creditor was given a change of address notice at least 10 days before the bill was sent.

A consumer's billing dispute must be acknowledged within 30 days and settled within 90 days. Before the dispute is settled, creditors cannot send harassing letters or close a consumer's account or take other steps to collect the bill. Bad credit reports cannot be issued unless the consumer is notified and credit bureaus are informed that the bill is in dispute. In such cases, the consumer must be furnished the names of all who received notice of the delinquent debt. If the bill is later determined to be in error, everyone who received the bad credit report must be notified that the bill was settled.

When a bill is disputed, it is important to remember that a consumer may withhold only that portion of the bill which is in dispute. And, once the bill is settled, a consumer may be required to pay finance charges which have accumulated on the disputed balance if the bill was correct. If the bill was incorrect, however, then the consumer must be given the usual amount of time to pay the corrected amount without finance charges or late payment fees.

If a creditor fails to follow these dispute settlement procedures, the first $50 of the disputed amount cannot be collected, even if the bill was correct. And, the creditor may be sued for violating the law and be held liable for minimum damages of $100, court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees.

Hopefully, your holiday credit shopping will go smoothly and you will be billed only for those items you purchased. If, however, you experience a billing problem and are unable to resolve the dispute, contact the Attorney General's Consumer Protection and Antitrust Division nearest you.

Floydada runner clinches state meet spot

Floydada High School runner Troy Moore won himself a spot in the state cross country track meet on Saturday in Georgetown. Moore came in tenth in a race with runners from 12 area schools at the regional meet at Dunbar.

The Floydada showing is seen as something of an upset over the other schools since the top three were AAA schools and Floydada is classified AA. Robbie Thrasher came in thirteenth in the field, followed by Aaron Rendon, seventh, Tino Gomez, thirty-third and William Lerma, thirty-sixth. Robert Cavassos and Jeff Landreth also reportedly competed in the event. The winning time for the course was 10 minutes and seven-tenths seconds.

The commission approved a plan for spending $2,879,740 for Phase I of the Caprock Canyon park. Facilities included in this phase include a swimming beach, fishing pier, playground, 20 picnic sites, 40 multi-use campsites, 20 tent campsites, 20 walk-in tent campsites, 20 primitive campsites, trails, buildings, roads, parking and utilities. The park site is located off State Highway 86 between Silverton and Quitaque in the rugged "caprock" area of the Texas Panhandle.

Legislative Elections
One's running for something or quitting and one's looking for it in the Texas House of Representatives. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Galveston, is everyone guessing after a loss last week in Austin which grossed $40,000. Von Dohlen professes that the money will go "for political purposes we have in the future."

Among the races he is considered likely for is the 1980 run for Speaker of the House, or a try this spring for Sen. Bill Patman's seat.

And not ruled out is a 1980 bid for U.S. Congress in the coming redistricting drama. Since Von Dohlen is in an agian chair the redistricting drama he may well be able to carve his political home somewhere and use money to move in.

Another legislator who was expected to be running for Speaker of the House is quitting politics instead. Sullivan's effectiveness has been recognized as a result of his challenge to unseat the Bill Clayton.

"I CAN WALK AGAIN"

"I'VE RETIRED MY WHEELCHAIR AS WELL AS MY EXTRA POUNDS," SAYS HELEN PERKINS OF LUFKIN, TEXAS. I WENT FROM 202 LBS. TO 120 WITH MY PAT WALKER REDUCING PROGRAM."

Read what Mrs. Perkins says about Pat Walker's Following an accident which resulted in an injury to my feet and legs I found myself confined to a wheelchair. I was so heavy that the pain made it impossible for me to walk. I felt so defeated because I knew I had to get some weight off if I ever hoped to walk again, but at the same time I knew I wasn't able to do strenuous exercise. When I saw the Pat Walker's ad on T.V. I was encouraged to call for my courtesy treatment because I could take my treatments in complete privacy, without having to wear special clothes and the treatments were completely passive so even I could take them. Now 18 months later I have lost 83 1/4 pounds and 102 3/4 inches. I look and feel better than I have in years. I have retired my wheelchair and don't plan to ever use it again! I know if I hadn't found Pat Walker's when I did I'd still be miserable and confined to that wheelchair.

Historic Carson City silver dollars to be sold in 1980

Nearly one million silver dollars — minted in Carson City, Nev., in 1878 through 1893 — will be sold early next year, the U.S. General Services Administration announced today.

The historic coins — the last of the government's holdings from America's great silver mining era — were part of nearly three million 90 percent silver dollars stored in U.S. Treasury vaults for more than 60 years.

There will be two sales. The first, beginning Feb. 8 and ending April 8, 1980, will offer 923,287 silver dollars to the public by mail at fixed prices. The sale will feature three categories of the "cartwheels": 1883-CC (195,745), 1884-CC (428,152), and "Mixed Years-CC" — 1878-1885 and 1889-1893 — (299,390). There will be no limit on the number of coins that may be ordered. Coins in the 1883 category are $42 each, and in the 1884 category, $40 each. "Cartwheels" in the mixed-years group are $20 per coin.

The second sale, to be conducted later in the spring, will offer 54,847 coins in three mint-year categories: 1880-CC (4,284), 1881-CC (18,996), and 1885-CC (31,567). The coins will be sold at public auction by mail bid. A minimum bid price will be set just prior to the sale. There will be a limit of five coins from each category per bidder.

Prices in each sale include delivery by registered mail to addresses in the United States, its territories and possessions, and to APO and FPO numbers.

Prospective buyers should send a post card, giving name, address and zip code to: Carson City Silver Dollars, San Francisco, Calif. 94170. Information and order forms will be sent to those on the list in time for the first sale.

From 1972 to 1974, GSA sold some 1.9 million of the silver dollars in five public sales, netting $55.3 million for the benefit of taxpayers. Sales were discontinued in 1974 because of diminishing demand.

The decision to return the coins to the marketplace — made by Congress and signed into law by President Carter in March 1979 — has received an enthusiastic response from the public. The agency says it already has heard from more than 200,000 persons interested in acquiring some of the historic coins.

Each coin is in a plastic case — appropriate for display — inside a velour-lined gift box. A brief history of the coin is enclosed in each box.

The Carson City mint produced only 13 years of the silver dollar designed by George T. Morgan. Known as "Morgan Dollars," they feature the head of Miss Liberty on one side and an eagle within a wreath on the other. The letters "CC" — for Carson City — appear under the wreath.

Each silver dollar measures four centimeters in diameter and eight mills in thickness. It weighs 412.5 grains and is .900 fine silver. Although the market price of silver fluctuates daily, when silver sells for $12 per troy ounce, the silver content of one coin is worth about $9.27.

In the late 1800s, the increasing popularity of paper money plus the large number of silver dollars in circulation lessened the demand for the "cartwheels" — many still in their original mint bags — were from the long-closed Carson City mint.

there were shipped to other mints and to Federal Reserve Banks throughout the country.

Legislation in the early 1900s plus the demand for silver in the 1940s to support the war effort resulted in massive coin melts. All but about three million of the government's holdings of the 90 percent silver dollars in Treasury vaults revealed the secret of their historic and numismatic value. Most of the remaining "cartwheels" — many still in their original mint bags — were from the long-closed Carson City mint.

Marilyn Smith will be presented in piano recital at the Fine Arts Center, 410 West 11th Street, Plainview, at 8 p.m. Tuesday, November 27.

Miss Smith is a 21-year-old senior majoring in music performance at Texas Tech University. She is a student of Dr. Thomas Redey. The program will include works by Mozart, Prokofiev, and Ravel. There is no admission charge, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Smith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Smith of Lockney. She was a 1976 graduate of Lockney

High School. A recipient of an Eva Browning Piano Scholarship, she is also a member of the Alpha Lambda Delta and Psi Kappa Psi honor societies at Texas Tech. While studying at Tech, she has taught at the Fine Arts Center and in Lubbock and presently is an accompanist for the TTU Dance Department.

The program will again be presented by Miss Smith in the TTU recital hall in Lubbock at 7 p.m. December 8. Again, there is no admission charge, and the public is invited.

Today's waterbeds -- more

COLLEGE STATION — Today's waterbeds are more than just "a bag of water in a frame," says Dr. Jane Berry, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

They've done away with most of the old shortcomings, and research has proven their high comfort and therapeutic value, she says.

Dr. Berry is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Basically, two types of waterbeds — now called "floatation sleep systems" — are on the market: hybrid and standard types.

Both types accommodate standard-size bedding — regular, queen and king sizes.

HYBRID WATERBEDS

Hybrid waterbeds are a "cross" between a conventional bed and a waterbed. They resemble a conventional mattress in appearance.

Under the zippered mattress cover is a smaller water mattress and varying amounts of foam.

Most hybrids contain no more than six inches of water, and they have a sturdy foam perimeter for easy in-and-out access.

Most also have a heavy vinyl liner that is permanently attached to the frame — so flooding won't occur in case of a leak.

STANDARD WATERBEDS

Standard waterbeds don't have a zippered mattress cover or foam as part of the mattress.

For these the do-it-yourselfer can buy component parts separately in some specialty stores and assemble them. Also, he may want to build the frame and foundation.

On the other hand, like the hybrid type, the entire standard "package" is available — complete with frame, headboard, footboard and other matching furniture pieces.

NEXT: Comfort, Therapeutic Values.

Holiday fashion

For the more daring holiday female, wear a feather boa with any sleek dress or pant combination.

Other fun accessories include rhinestones, bugle beads, pearls, drop earrings in big geometric shapes and boldly colored bangles.

To your hair, add feathers, jeweled ornaments or shiny cording, especially if it's put up in "close to the head" reminiscent twists or rolls.

For a disco evening, rhinestone-studded heels, or velvet and satin pumps in red, green and gold are eye-catchers.

 Don't buy fruits that have been reduced in price unless you plan to use them immediately. If you find ripe bananas at a good price, stir them into bread, or purchase apples to make into sauce.

Buying Cheese
 Cheese prices vary with choices to suit all tastes and needs. Aged natural cheeses are the highest priced, the process varieties are medium priced, and the "cheese food" is thriftiest of all — often 25 cents a pound less than natural cheese.

BUFORD WAS HERE - The Indian warrior is a clever animal. The "beaver stump" is the real thing. Buford the Six Flags beaver cut it in his ever-widening wake as he went about the job of cutting tall timber from an island in the park's Caddo Indian Canyon.

Mysterious Six Flags beaver clears way for fireworks

They call him "Buford." He's never been seen, but he's known for his work. General Manager Ray Williams said, "The way Buford cuts trees, it looks just like a beaver has cut them down. What could be more natural? We've been known to spend a lot of money to make a tree trunk look like it had been chewed on by a beaver." Buford only works at night and, try as they may, the park's security guards have never gotten a glimpse of him. They know he's big because his teeth marks begin about 18 inches off the ground. They also know where he lives. Buford has built his version of a dam on the shore of an adjoining island. It's called "Rock Island" because, during the summer months, it's the home of the park's disco. "That leads us to believe Buford may also be deaf," Williams chuckled. With only two more weekends of fall operation left, Williams is hoping Buford will speed up his island-clearing project. "If he doesn't do it for us, we're going to have to get in there and do our own tree chopping."

NAMED BEST-DRESSED male student for October at Southwestern State University, Weatherford, Oklahoma, was Royce Chadwick, a senior accounting major from Floydada, Texas. Chadwick was selected for the honor by the Student Home Economics Association Fashion Board.

BY MRS. CLYDE BAGWELL

November 19 — Good harvesting weather is still with us and farmers are very busy. At this time of the year we can expect bad weather to come at anytime. Some fields of cotton in the community were so badly damaged by hail in the early fall, they won't be worth harvesting.

Mrs. Dolly Emert, Mrs. Floyd Starkey and Mrs. Walter Hollums visited last week with Mrs. Ethel Graham.

Sunday after Sunday School Mrs. Ethel Graham went to Lubbock to visit Mrs. J.B. Bishop, who is a patient in Methodist Hospital.

Talk is cheaper than you think.

How to save up to 60% on Long Distance.

If you're one of those who thinks a Long Distance call is a luxury, read on. The trick to saving money while keeping in touch with family or friends is knowing when to call, and calling One-Plus.

Call between 11pm and 8am.

Before you groan about how you can't stay up late or see straight in the morning, think about it. You'll be saving up to 60%! If you're a night person, you probably don't start counting sheep until after 11 pm anyway. And if you've got friends and family to call out west, it'll be a perfectly civilized 9 or 10 pm when their phone rings. If you like to see the sun rise, and you know folks back east, it'll be an hour later on their end.

Call out of state anytime before 8 am and you can talk all day if you want and still save 60%. In-state calls are also greatly reduced. Just remember to dial One-Plus.

Reach out on the weekend and save up to 60%.

Now this is a stroke of good luck: a really cheap Long Distance phone call just when you may want it most. Call any time between 11 pm Friday and 5 pm Sunday and really save. For instance, dial One-Plus and you can make a ten-minute call to Atlanta for only $1.55. That's almost worth making a new friend in Atlanta for.

Even on weeknights, save up to 35%.

Sometimes you can't wait for the weekend. Or you don't want to. But you can still save plenty Sunday through Friday from 5 pm to 11 pm. Think about what a bargain it is to call someone 1900 miles away, talk it up for ten minutes, and only run a tab of about $2.00. There's just no other way to get close to a faraway friend or relative so quickly, so cheaply.

On weekdays it's still a bargain.

Here's a surprise. From 8 am to 5 pm, a Long Distance chat still doesn't cost very much. A five minute call out of state, to anywhere in the continental U.S. is only about $2.50 when you dial One-Plus. Think of how good the sound of your voice would be to a friend (not to mention your mother!) right in the middle of the day.

Reach out and touch someone.
