Officers have been named for the celebration of the Old Settlers Pioneer Day. One of Floydada's highlights which start in 1920's.

Key West, chairman of the celebration, will be assisted by officers who will be Herman Frizzell, secretary, and Ann Frizzell, treasurer.

Members of the various committees are Jonelle Fawver, organization committee, Applegate, G.L. Fawver, parade command, and Jake Watson.

cowboy and cowgirl, best Shetland pony, best sulkey, best junior cowboy and cowgirl (up to age 12) and best antique auto.

"A special entertainment feature has been added this year. After the parade the Silverton Hee-Haws, a musical group that has quite a good following around this area, will entertain right after the parade," West said.

Blood Drive Set May 13

The Women's Division of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce in affiliation with South Plains Blood Service will sponsor a Blood Drive May 13 from 3-7 p.m. at Lighthouse Electric, Louise Turner, Women's Division announced today.

Statistics show that about 60 percent of Americans will require blood or its derivatives in their lifetimes. Blood doesn't magically appear when needed, however, it's there only because healthy people are willing to donate.

A continuously replenished supply is needed because whole blood lasts only 21 days and some components of blood, used to treat specific diseases, last less than 72 hours.

"It takes six hours to process blood into useable forms for transfusion, so we can't wait to react to an emergency, we have to act now," relates the Blood Service information.

All persons who are 17 through 65 years old can qualify as donors. However, 17-year-olds must have a signed parental permission slip. Persons 66 and over may be accepted as blood donors at the discretion of the blood center medical director.

MOTHER TO MANY—Mother's Day is a special day to Charlene Brown who provides care for several children of working mothers during the week. On Sunday's, she is responsible for the children who attend the First Baptist

What's A Mother? Just Ask Charlene Brown and Her 'Brood'

By Janet Lloyd

What is a Mother? Is she just the female parent who gives birth to a child? Or is she the lady who attends every ball game of the team even when her child sits on the bench? Maybe she is that woman on the commercial who serves the kids the drink mix that makes her home "the place on a block."

Whatever a Mother is, Sunday is her day, Mother's Day, and the Hesperian is pleased to bring to its readers the story of one of the many mothers to be honored in Floydada and over the U.S. today.

Charlene Brown and her husband Gary are parents of three children, Jason, Roxene and Rhealene, but Charlene is an "adopted mom" to many children.

Providing child care in her home five days a week for children of mothers who work, and serving as the Pre-school Division Director for First Baptist Church in Floydada, Brown has the care and interest of children in her heart at all times.

"My kids do lots of cute things and I try to think and tell their mothers what their missing so they won't feel bad about being left out of the baby things," said

Brown. Licensed by the state, Brown provides more than just the essentials for the children who stay at her home.

"I read to the children and we work on numbers," she said. "Every Thursday we all go to the County Library and then make the ice cream parlor," she said. Many times she will pick up children who do not stay with her daily and take them on the Thursday outings.

For the past two years she has had the responsibility of the nursery facilities at the Baptist Church. With 20-30 children each week under her supervision, she makes sure that the rooms are clean, and these facilities are adequate to provide for the children's care while the parents attend church.

"This is a very important area of the church," said David Seay, Minister of Education at First Baptist Church. "Without her efforts as coordinator of the Nursery many, if not most of the activities of our church would not be possible," related Seay. She is responsible not only for providing nurseries for Sunday activities, but also many other weekly activities.

"As a parent, I have full confidence that my child is well taken care of when she's in the nursery," said Seay "and I feel that other parents share this feeling."

So, what is a Mother? One definition has to include Charlene Brown!

PLAY DAY TO BE FINALIZED

A final organizational meeting of all clubs and organizations that are planning to participate in the Old Settler's Play Day has been set, according to Gordon Kirtley, president of the Band Boosters.

Everyone planning to have a booth is urged to be present at 7:30 Tuesday, May 13 in the Lighthouse Electric.

Womens' Check Ups New Library Fund

An additional $500 gift, swelling their total contribution to more than $1,500, was made to the Friends of the Library by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce in their final meeting last week.

"You are one of the best things that's happened to Floydada," Janice Lloyd told members of the Women's Division of the Floydada Chamber of Commerce at the groups last meeting before fall.

Lloyd, president of Friends of the Library, spoke to the women to update them on the status of the Library Building project to which the Chamber is the largest donor.

Believing that the library needs to be a county-wide concern and not just a Friends of the Library effort, she would like to see every organization and club in Floyd County involved in the relocation of the library.

"The library situation is like a dance," she said, "two steps forward and three back." But wanting not to end her talk on a pessimistic note, Lloyd urged the women to become active members of the Friends in order to promote the needs of the library more fully.

In other business, the members voted to give Glenn Jerrigan's class at Della Plains School $15 for building the steps used at the stage during the style show and to leave them at Duncan Elementary to be used whenever they are needed.

Nancy Willson gave a report from the Beautification Committee and Louise Turner announced plans for the Yard of the Week awards to begin the first week in June and continue each week during the three summer months.

With 91 members to contact Elaine McNeill, telephone chairman, will be assisted by Nancy Willson, Susan Garms, Linda Matsler, Darlynn Hambricht and Pat Zimmerman.

Susan Garms will be in charge of the Chambers Old Settlers Play Day Booth. Vicki Rainer and Janet Lloyd will help with the project.

The next meeting of the group will be September 2.

Police Check Burned Car

A 1976 Ford Sedan registered to Marilyn Buchanan of 403 E. Grover was gutted by fire Wednesday morning while it was parked in the 400 block of 11th Street.

Intense heat from flames under the hood melted the front grill. Interior flames destroyed the seats and the dash. The 2-door automobile was totally involved, according to Fire Chief Bobby Welborn.

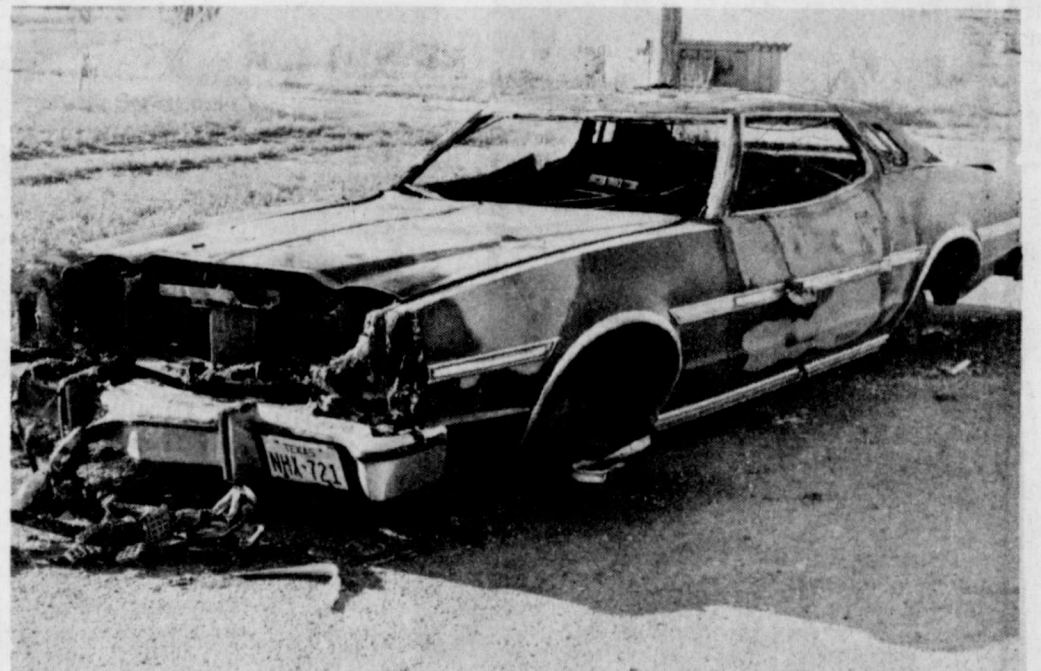

The Floydada Fire Department answered the call at 3:58 a.m. The wheels and tires had been removed and the car was sitting on blocks when the firemen arrived on the scene. The sedan was in flames, but was brought under control in three or four minutes Welborn said.

Mrs. Buchanan said that about 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday she had been driving the car and it quit running about two blocks from her house. She said that the car, tires and wheels were intact when she left it parked on 11th Street.

Cause of the fire is being investigated.

ESSAY BY JULIE MORTON

The Past, Present and Future
The Floyd County Soil and Water Conservation District

was organized in 1940 to promote soil and water conservation practices. It was about this time that many farsighted people began to realize that farms and ranches were deteriorating because of erosion conditions and improper land use practices. Limited rainfall, soil conditions, and high intensity rains created problems that led to both wind and water erosion. It was time for action. As Floyd County developed through the years, many acres were plowed and put into cultivation. As the population increased and irrigation became widespread, problems were created as large amounts of land were broken out of permanent sod which were too steep and erosive for the type of irrigation and farming being used. Loss of valuable top soils and water losses, both from irrigation and rainfall, has resulted. Since 1940, when the district was created, hundreds of acres have had needed conservation practices applied. These practices have been planned and applied as farmers and ranchers cooperated with the district. Hundreds of miles of irrigation, underground pipeline have been installed to conserve water. Soil loss is being controlled with the new parallel terrace systems which are making more efficient use of rainfall than the standard contour terrace system.

The soils on the high plains are deep and very slowly permeable. Sometimes during heavy rains, the rate of infiltration is a problem because of the heavy nature of the soil. This results in large volumes of water building up and flowing into the nearest play lake taking valuable top soil with it. A general soil map of the entire district has been developed to acquaint farm owners with the conditions that exist on farms which affect the use and treatment of their land.

Conservation, development, and wise use of soil.

High Levels Of Sugar Can Be Harmful To Ones Health

Research findings by nutritionists who say individuals with a disorder called "carbohydrate intolerance" should not eat foods high in sugar.

It was reported here at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies of Experimental Biology.

Members of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's and Education Administration and the University of Maryland did the study and reported the results.

Sheldon Reiser, chief of the USDA carbohydrate laboratory at Beltsville, Md., coordinated the project.

Four volunteers participated in the study. All were tested and identified as carbohydrate-sensitive.

Each volunteer's diet was composed of 25 percent sucrose per cent of body weight (about five percent of sucrose for a normal person). After blood samples were analyzed for insulin levels. An exceptionally high insulin response, or a high insulin level, is considered an indicator of carbohydrate sensitivity.

Reiser and his associates found that carbohydrate-sensitive people may have exaggerated metabolic responses to sugar in their diet. One of the most noticeable reactions is an exceptionally high blood triglyceride level in sucrose diets. An exceptionally high insulin response, or a high insulin level, is considered an indicator of carbohydrate sensitivity.

Besides Dr. Reiser, members of the research team were Otho E. Michaelis IV, Ph.D., and biochemists Judith F. Hallfrisch and Mary C. Bickard of the USDA carbohydrate laboratory; Elizabeth S. Prather, Ph.D., chairman of the University of Maryland department of food, nutrition and university administration; and biochemists Mark Keeney, Ph.D., Karen D. Israel and Ellen L. Bohn of the university's biochemistry equipment.

They reported: Six of the volunteers who consumed the highest level of sugar (33 percent calories) developed a "type IV hyperlipoproteinemia pattern." In this condition, blood carries amounts and kinds of fats that have been linked with heart disease.

Blood triglyceride levels in both men and women increased as the amount of sugar in the diet increased, and the increases were much greater in men than in women. Triglyceride levels were normal in the men when they had the five percent sugar diets. Elevated triglyceride levels also have been associated with heart disease.

When sugar provided 18 or 33 percent of the calories, compared with five percent, blood levels of total cholesterol were significantly higher. Higher sugar diets also caused an undesirable increase in the men's blood levels of low-density-lipoproteins, contrasted with high-density-lipoproteins. Recent evidence suggests that high levels of high-density-lipoproteins, reduces the risk of heart disease.

Levels of blood insulin following a fast were related to the amount of sugar in the diet; insulin was significantly higher when sugar provided 33 percent of the calories as compared to 18 percent and was higher during the 18-percent sugar diet than during the five percent sugar diet. Glucose levels followed a similar pattern during fasting. Insulin and glucose responses during times when individuals were eating the two highest levels of sugar indicated glucose intolerance—a warning that diabetes may develop.

Uric acid levels in the blood were correlated with the amount of sugar in the diet. Men showed a greater response than women. The blood uric acid level in men was above normal when they were on the 33 percent sugar diet and close to abnormal when they were on the 18 percent sugar diet. Abnormally high levels of uric acid are considered a risk factor in heart disease.

Dr. Reiser suggested that health officials may wish to consider a screening program to identify carbohydrate-sensitive people, in view of the risk a high sugar intake might impose on these people. He said he bases this suggestion on an accumulation of data as well as the new data presented here.

Testing could help identify individuals at a higher than normal risk of developing diseases such as atherosclerosis and diabetes—those whose likelihood of disease is heightened if they eat a lot of sugar. Informed of the risk, these persons might modify their sugar intake and reduce the risk," said Dr. Reiser.

Today's Lifestyles

Think twice before giving a small appliance as a gift. Research about the appliance-use revealed that people are least likely to use appliances they receive as gifts and most likely to use appliances they purchase themselves.

Toasters, electric hand-mixers, electric skillets, blenders and electric can-openers were among the appliances most frequently used by the homemakers surveyed in the study. Electric corn poppers, electric knives, deep-fat fryers and electric slow cookers were reported as the appliances least often or never used.

Considering why some appliances were used frequently while others ended up on the shelf, storage space did not significantly affect frequency of use. But performance, design and quality of instructions were definite factors. Appliances that were difficult to clean, hard to use, and took up too much counter space were frequent complaints.

Before buying a small appliance for a gift or for personal use, make sure that it meets a real need, or it will likely end up on the shelf. A point-of-purchase check-list should include these questions: Will the appliance meet a real need or is it a fad item?

How often will the appliance be used? Will it serve more than one function? Is authorized service readily available? Have safety features been incorporated into the design of the product to protect hands and kitchen surfaces? Will the appliance clean easily? Is it immersible? Is the instruction manual concise, complete and easy to understand?

Small electric appliances have gained in popularity in recent years--the average household has 11 different small portable electric appliances. Many use less energy than conventional appliances. Others simplify difficult or tedious food-preparation tasks.

A recent marketing survey predicts that food processors, popcorn poppers, slow cookers and ice cream makers will become basics in most kitchens by 1983. But they predict that doughnut makers and crepe makers may disappear from retail shelves by 1983. Pizza makers and hamburger cookers are not expected to increase in popularity over the next five years.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion or origin.

Backpacking Trip

Planning a backpacking trip?

Due to limited space and no refrigeration, it's wise to include more nonperishable dried foods in the meal plan, advises Mary K. Sweeten of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Always include a water bottle to prevent possible dehydration, too--especially on hot days, says the food and nutrition specialist.

Tornado School Set

A school for tornado spotters in Floyd County is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the District Courtroom in Floydada, according to Sheriff Fred Cardinal.

"If you have never seen one of these films of a big tornado, you need to see this," said Cardinal as he invited the public to attend the meeting.

Emergency units from the local hospitals are invited to attend the program as well as the official spotters, who are the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, the two City Police Departments and Fire Department.

Larry Eblen of the United States Weather Bureau in Lubbock will present the program. Sheriff Cardinal said that a part of the one hour presentation will be the same as the program aired by Channel 28 last week.

Emergency units from the local hospitals are invited to attend the program as well as the official spotters, who are the Floyd County Sheriff's Department, the two City Police Departments and Fire Department.

Vary Heel Heights
Don't wear those "highest" heels too long.

Vary heel heights daily to exercise all muscles in leg and foot, says Nancy Brown, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Also, the higher the heel, the farther toward your body center of gravity shifts -- and the greater the tendency to fall.

Quilt To Be Given Away

Floydada Rebekah Lodge will be giving away a handmade quilt on Old Settlers Day. The king-size quilt will be on display at Hale's Department Store. Donation tickets are being sold by Lodge members.

Lodge members observed Mother's Day on Tuesday night May 6 with a special program given by Barbara Gilliland, Eula Parrack and Amanda Hart.

Barbara Gilliland opened the program with a poem to mothers. Amanda Hart and Lona Sparks sang "Sweetest Story" dedicating it to all mothers. Eula Parrack read a tribute to mothers dating back to mothers of the Bible.

Amanda and Lona then sang "If I Could Hear My Mother Pray Again" and dedicated it to all mothers that have gone to Heaven.

Ora King, Rebekah Lodge Mother was then escorted to a chair of honor and Dorothy Reeves presented her with a red rose as Lodge Queen.

Ruby Davis was escorted to the center of the floor. She was presented with a 20 year jewel for her years in the Rebekah Lodge and as a Mothers Day gift by her husband.

Compare! Compare!
To use pricing effectively, compare different sizes of different brands, says Linda McCormack, a family resource management specialist.

Eula Parrack closed the program with a prayer.

The group was served cake, cookies, and punch from a table decorated to honor Ora King.

On April 11 a group of young piano players were judged by Mrs. Wayne Matthews of Midland and all earned Excellent Plus and Superior ratings.

Students playing in Amarillo at the Wolfen Baptist Church on April 25 were Rachelle Ford, District award; Karen Ford, State award; and National award entrants Angie Taylor, Stacey Chandler, Andrea Bonner, Cathy Langley, Becky Reeves, Chad and Shannon

Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon

The annual Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-thon will begin Saturday, May 17 at 9 a.m. at the Floydada High School.

Anyone is welcome to participate in the Bike-a-thon. There will be two routes to accommodate variances of age.

The Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-thon collected over $1,100 last year in Floydada and hopes to meet that goal again this year.

There will be refreshments, prizes and lots of exercise!

Prizes will be given for the cyclist who collects the most money, for the cyclist with the most sponsors and for the cyclist who rides the most miles.

Proceeds will go to the National Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

All participants need to meet at the southwest corner of the high school practice field (corner of Texas Avenue and Crockett Street) at 9 a.m.

Weekend Time To Add Trees

Weekends are grand times to add that tree the yard has been wanting. Install a hedge to screen off an outdoor room, put in a flower bed to splash the yard with color, take care of the rose bushes, create a small wildlife refuge right there in the back yard, manage a little vegetable plot or do any of the many sorts of things that present a weekend challenge.

The time spent can be one of the most rewarding forms of recreation and relaxation and exercise, point out the experts at the American Association of Nurserymen, who call themselves the green survival people. An important bonus is that when the work is done the results are immediately obvious and keep growing.

Have a wonderful weekend. Leave the car in the garage and join the family in the yard. You may wonder why you hadn't thought of it before.

Armed Forces Week To Be Celebrated

Armed Forces Week 1980 will be celebrated by all Lubbock Military services May 12-27 with May 17 designated as Armed Forces Day. This year's theme is "The U.S. Armed Forces—Strong and Ready".

Many activities have been planned around this theme to show the people of the area what the military is doing and to let them become acquainted with the military.

The South Plains Mall in Lubbock will be the site throughout the week of displays and exhibits by the Air Force, Army, Marines and Navy. The Air Forces displays will include a cut-away of a J-85 engine, the type used in the T-38 Talon jet aircraft, ejection seat and egress trainers, a display by the hospital and more. The Army will have a variety of their equipment and weapons on display as will the Marines and Navy.

One of the big highlights of last year was the intra-service speaking team. The team should be popular again this year. The four services have combined to form a five-man team to bring interested schools and groups a program of speeches and audio-visual presentations about their respective services.

"Remember, with everyone's support and participation many lives of young children will be saved through research funded by this and similar Cystic Fibrosis Bike-a-thons," said Jan Thayer, chairman.

Also planned are tours of Reese Air Force Base beginning on Monday and continuing through Friday. For information on obtaining the combined services speaking teams or to arrange tours, contact Capt. Douglas Knutsen or Lt. Daniel Caulkins at 885-3354.

MAY 15, 1980

A BAD DAY FOR AMERICA...

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The ten-cent per gallon fee you intend to impose on gasoline on May 15 will result in disastrous economic repercussions for all Americans. The impact will be felt most severely in rural America, in the nation's farming communities and among small businesses—that segment of Americans who can least afford it.

We believe the negative impacts of the program on all Americans far outweigh any possible reduction in crude oil importation and energy conservation. Specifically, your ten-cent per gallon gasoline fee will:

- Result in supply shortages in rural America and in agricultural communities.
- Detically affect 1980 farm crop output and raise food prices for American consumers.
- Add $10.3 billion to the cost of gasoline during the first year of the program and unnecessarily increase the price of all other petroleum products.
- Place a disproportionate economic burden on low income families, rural areas and small businesses.
- Increase nationwide inflation the first year by at least 1%.
- Make it impossible for small businesses to assimilate the overnight increase of 8% in gasoline product cost.
- Bring about disastrous effects on American farms, businesses and consumers; no economic impact analysis of these effects has been prepared.
- Constitute taxation without Congressional representation.

For these reasons we ask you to withdraw the Petroleum Import Adjustment Program and the Gasoline Conservation Fee prior to its scheduled implementation on May 15, 1980. Absent Presidential action we further request that the U.S. Congress take appropriate and swift action to spare all Americans by halting this inflationary program.

Floyd Philosopher Comes Up With A Suggestion

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm gets tangled up in some debt figures this week.

Dear editor:

Some magazines can't leave well enough alone. I read in one last night that government debt in this country has now reached the overwhelming figure of 924 billion dollars.

NINE HUNDRED AND TWENTYFOUR BILLION! You can't think up strong enough language to rare back and denounce such wild and dangerous spending.

But the magazine didn't stop there. It reported that household debt (mortgages and installments) in this country is now 1279 billion dollars.

Publishing such a figure is an outrage. How are people going to lambast the government for wild and reckless spending when they're spending even more themselves? It wipes out every political speech beginning "A government head-over-heels in debt, etc." It puts a damper on the economic experts at mid-morning coffee gatherings from Floydada to Washington.

And the magazine didn't stop even there. It added that business debt in this country now stands at 1232 billion dollars. All told, the combined indebtedness is 3,435 billion dollars.

I don't want to pursue this matter any further. My head is swimming.

Oh, I did start to suggest all of us, government, individuals and business, ought to tighten our belts, till I remembered that women and men's slacks are now mostly belt-less, held up by elastic waistbands. Also, it's hard to tighten your belt when you're wearing overalls.

From now on, only government debt figures should be published. I started to say the others should be swept under the rug, but it can't be done. Most rugs nowadays are wall-to-wall, with 36 more monthly payments still to go.

Your faithfully,
J.A.

Farmers Union Presents Plans

Farmers Union has proposed immediate action to restore stability to America's family farm. The President should use his authority under the Emergency Credit Control Act of 1969 to roll back interest rates to not more than 8% on long term loans and 10% on short term loans.

Carter Administration has completely failed to meet its commitment to protect U.S. farmers from the adverse effects of the embargo. The only farmers helped were the ones in Argentina and other foreign countries that ended up selling their grain to Russia, he concluded.

Texas Farmers Union also adopted a resolution calling for a ten cent per gallon credit on gasoline and diesel fuel used by farmers and ranchers to offset the proposed Crude Oil Import Fee. Unless such a credit or refund is provided, Texas' farmers and ranchers will pay an additional $50 million a year for gasoline and diesel.

TFU State President Jay Naman said, "Evidently the Administration is unaware of how seriously small farmers are being impacted by the current tight money situation. Unless the measures which Texas Farmers Union proposes are implemented soon, a record number of farms and ranches will face liquidation or bankruptcy this year."

In addition, the organization went on record in favor of trucking deregulation (provided that processed foods would not be trucked as "agricultural products"), bargaining rights for farmers in dealing with food processors, and doubling the amount of corn that can be placed in the farmer-held reserve program.

Farm Bureau Facts

We are developing details of a newly-disclosed federal grant of $335,567 for the exclusive use of members of Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers (UFW).

In what is called "a pioneer agricultural apprenticeship program", California's Department of Industrial Relations has received the monies from the Department of Labor's Office of Special Programs under Title 1 of the CETA program. Funds are being used to develop apprenticeship training systems in tractor operation and tractor maintenance.

California Gov. Jerry Brown outlined general terms of the grant program last week at a Sacramento news conference, shared with Chavez and a participating farm employer. Brown hailed it as a model for expanded apprenticeship programs to come.

Since funded apprenticeship programs involve on-the-job training, three California growers have been persuaded to be employer participants, and the division of Apprenticeship Training of the California Department of Industrial Relations is looking for more. Worker representatives to the program--exclusively UFW--include Cesar Chavez, his brother Richard, and UFW vice-president Frank Ortiz, who is presently in Chicago as the local director of UFW's current lettuce boycott.

Chavez hopes to expand agricultural apprenticeship programs under UFW influence to Arizona, Texas, and New Mexico.

The grant, while revealed by Gov. Brown only last week, has actually been in force since November of 1977, and has been extended once. Research took a portion of that time, but very likely there was difficulty in getting the necessary grower participation.

Most monies have already been spent in research and program development. (Farm employers will pay apprentice tractor drivers and mechanics for on-the-job work/training).

Although Gov. Brown implied that 100 workers are enrolled in the apprenticeship program, the state division of Apprenticeship Training which administers the program says only nine or ten are presently enrolled; and that it will be towards the end of the year before as many as 100 are signed up.

The program is regarded as a "pilot project", thus criticism of expenditures of $335,567 for a present participation of only nine or ten workers (33,500 per worker!) is discounted as premature. The Bureau expects a long-term program to be based on that initial expenditure but is looking for new extension monies. Even so, the grant will expire this July 1, with only a very few farm workers and only three participating growers to show for an expenditure of $335,567.

We will keep you advised of further developments. Initial reaction that the grant was simply a political payoff to Chavez who had been campaigning for Gov. Brown's presidential campaign is somewhat tempered by the disclosure that the grant has been in effect since 1977. Why, then, was it kept so under cover?

As a CETA Title 1 program, the grant was made at the "discretion" of the Secretary of Labor. No policy review board was involved. At UFW's Fresno convention in August of 1977, Labor Secretary Marshall promised farm workers a national apprenticeship training program. The California program may well be out the first step in a nationwide Marshall commitment. Certainly, wherever Chavez is invested with sole participation it becomes an important organizing tool for UFW--at taxpayers expense.

DES REGULATIONS

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration has announced the finding of wide-spread use of diethylstilbestrol (DES) by cattlefeeders. FDA withdrew approval of the manufacture, use, and distribution of DES on June 29, 1979. A ban on the use became effective on November 1, 1979.

The United States Department of Agriculture has released final interim rules, effective on April 22, 1980, for dealing with the matter. Copies of the rules and regulations are available from this office. There seem to be no fines or penalties connected with the new regulations, so long as those involved cooperate.

It is unreal to impose on an American citizen, rules and regulations that seemingly have no scientific background whatsoever. Congressman Jamie Whitten from Mississippi, placed the following information in a congressional hearing report with regard to several useful products.

The following are ingredients that have been banned as a result of the lack of proof of safety, and because they induced cancer in laboratory testing of animals. The equivalencies of required intake by man of affected products are, of course, just simple mathematical projections. They are intended only to provide a general perspective of required consumption based on the levels of carcinogens used in laboratory experiments.

Cyclamate--A 12-ounce bottle of soft drink may have contained from one-quarter to 1 gram of sodium cyclamate. An adult would have to drink from 138 to 552 12-ounce bottles of soft drink a day to get an amount comparable to that causing effects in mice and rats.

Oil of Calamus--In order to get an amount comparable to that which caused effects in rats, a person would have to drink 250 quarts of vermouth a day.

Safrole--A person would have to drink 613 12-ounce bottles of root beer flavored soft drink or eat 220 pounds of hard candy per day to get an amount comparable to that which caused effects in rats.

Dehydro-2,2,4-trimethylquinoline; polymerized--A plasticizer used in packaging material. If all foods in the diet were to be packaged in this material, a person would have to eat 300,000 times the average daily diet to get an amount comparable to that which caused effects in rats.

4,4-Methylenebis (2-chloroaniline)--A plastic curing agent used in food contact surfaces. If all foods in the diet were exposed to this material, a person would have to eat 100,000 times the average daily diet to get an amount comparable to that which caused effects in rats.

DES--Based on findings of 5 percent of liver samples containing 2 ppb of DES, and assuming that 2 percent of the average diet is beef liver, a person would have to consume 5 million pounds of liver per year for 50 years to equal the intake from one treatment of day-after oral contraceptives.

Saccharin--The dosages of saccharin which caused effects in rats in a Canadian study were in excess of the amount a person would receive from drinking 800 12-ounce diet sodas over a lifetime.

SPOT COTTON

The March 1980 monthly average price of middling white 1/16 inch staple cotton in the designated markets was 79.24 cents per pound, down 142 points from February average but up 2,054 points from March a year ago. The low for the month of March 1980 was 73.88 cents on March 13, and the high of 83.94 cents was reached on March 21.

Extension Service Announces Change

With the premise that there's more in a name than a number, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, is "naming" each of its 14 districts. The names will relate to the various geographical areas of the state so that Texans will be able to more readily identify with Extension educational programs and activities. District names and numbers are as follows: Panhandle--1; South Plains--2; Rolling Plains--3; North Central--4; Northeast--5; Far West--6; West Central--7; Central--8; East--9; South Central--10; Upper Coast--11; South--12; Southwest--13; and Coastal Bend--14.

TEXAS IS BIG BUSINESS

Despite inflation, the Texas treasury retains a healthy balance, said State Treasurer Warren G. Harding at a recent County Treasurers Seminar at Texas A&M University sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The state's current surplus is about $677 million, down from a billion dollar surplus at the end of fiscal year 1975. The state's budget for 1980 is more than $10 billion, and the state treasurer currently holds more than $13.5 billion in securities.

RECEIVES AWARD--Joy C. Guest of the Crosby County ASCS office received the ASCS award and charm for 15 years service. She worked eight years in the Floyd County office and seven years in the Crosby County office. From left is John Fowler, district director, Joy C. Guest, chief program assistant, and Roy W. Redding, Crosby County executive director.

HOW SUPERMARKETS SERVE THE PUBLIC INTEREST

Eating In And Eating Out

A lot of people worry about the price of hamburger in one breath—and in the next promise the children lunch at the neighborhood fast-food place. It is, of course, their choice. But eating out does cost more than eating in, according to the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture figures. A little match with the cost-comparison chart on the right shows that almost any menu combination costs about twice as much at a fast-food restaurant as at home.

U.S. Dept. of Agriculture figures show that eating out can easily cost twice as much as eating in.

Some budget-minded families deal with the desire for a change of pace in eating experience by organizing fast-food type menus—at home! The Food Marketing Institute, which is concerned about helping keep food costs down for consumers, suggests that hamburgers, cheese, fish fillets, lettuce and tomatoes, special sauces and drinks be organized for each family to place his order with the chef for "short order" cooking and dollar-stretching satisfaction. Still another way to eat out—at home—is to check the grocery shelves and frozen food cases for "fast food" convenience foods. Not only can you feed the family more cheaply, but you can put an end to the quarrels over which fast-food place will get your business. Lovers of pizza, fried chicken, tacos and hamburgers, can be satisfied at one stop—at home! So, the next time you think about eating out, remember to think about eating home. That way you may be able to get two meals for the price of one!
