

Musical variety showcase features young talent

Search for the Stars, a musical variety program, showcases an impressive array of young talent at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, May 2 in the Floydada High School Auditorium.

Keith Thomas will act as master of ceremony, introducing the local star performers. During intermission he will auction several items, from the ridiculous to the sublime, with all proceeds going to benefit the Floyd County Library. The Friends of the Library, sponsoring organization, will also welcome the new Floydada Chamber of Commerce manager Susan Garms.

Shannon Edwards will perform a routine incorporating dance and gymnastic moves to classic music. Ann Carthel assisted with the choreography.

Just beginning their gymnastic careers are four and five-year-olds April Beaty, Taronna Dunaway and Tammy Cocanougher, tumbling to the tune of "Baby Face."

Louannie Williams, Patsy Williams and Rene Weeks show "how its done" to one of their favorite popular songs. Memory Assiter and Shannon Bloys will also present a gymnastic routine.

"We will have instrumentalists too," Miss Veazey said. "and Elisa Hambricht will tickle the ole ivories with "Maple Leaf Rag."

"Violinists in West Texas aren't easy to find," Miss Veazey continued. "but we located Michelle Boone. She will play "Edelweiss" from The Sound of Music."

Christy Dawdy, accompanying herself on the guitar, will challenge Bete Midler with her rendition of "The Rose." related the enthusiastic program director.

"No show would be complete without a poem and Ana Leta Bradshaw will read "I'm Not a Turtle." Miss Veazey concluded.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $2.50 for adults, and $1 for students.

"Return with us to the time when young people...entertainment...worthy causes...music...were a part of community life all over America." invite the Friends of the Library. "All proceeds will go toward the improvement of the Floyd County Library and you will have had a share in supporting youth who care enough to work for improved community life."

"If you have ever wondered what makes a little orphan girl sing, Spring Lipham's version of the hit song "Tomorrow" from the Broadway musical Annie, will answer your question," said Pam Veazey, coordinator of the event.

"Rainbow Connection" from the Brand New Muppet Movie will be performed by Mary Lloyd, Sandra Pate, DeeDee Williams, Rebecca Redding, Theresa Gentry and Jana Lawson.

Also hailing from the Muppet Movie, comes a song about the troubles guys go through for their gals. "I Hope That Something Better Comes Along" will be sung by Jo Kim Lipham, Haney Robertson and Roger Alldredge.

Tiny Sherri Jeeter has a message about your average friendly crocodile from the Walt Disney production of Peter Pan. "Never Smile At A Crocodile" is her melodic advice.

Diana Wilson sings "A Gal Who Can't Say No" from the Rogers and Hammerstein musical Oklahoma! and Jana Davis sings about her favorite beau, "My Guy." Misty Autila projects absolutely positively, 100 percent for sure, right on target logic with "The Logical Song."

Dance and gymnastic routines will be presented by several groups, according to Miss Veazey.

Carnival night promises community fun

Initial plans are under way for a community get-together in the form of the 1st Annual Carnival Fun Night at Floydada High School on Tuesday, May 19. Tentative plans have been made by the FHS faculty for a wide variety of activities to take place that night.

The purpose of this function is to raise funds for ceiling fans to be placed in each high school classroom. Such installation will benefit both students and teachers on hot and cold days. Because of reduction of fuel cost, the school system will be saving money.

Bingo will take place in the gym with cakes, pies, and brownies as prizes. An old-fashioned Cake Walk will be conducted in the band hall. Delicious homemade ice cream will be served in the cafeteria with cakes and brownies. An Arts and Crafts section will be set up in the homemaking area. During the evening a drawing will be conducted for $200 worth of beef and $200 worth of gas.

Highlighting the evening will be outdoor action--the Dunking Board. Current volunteers for this intriguing event are Jerry Cannon, Charles Tyer, J.E. Waller, L.G. Wilson, Jan Thayer, and Delores Moore.

Nancy Willson is First Lady

Nancy Willson who has been named Floydada First Lady of the Year, will be given a reception by the Alpha Mu Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sunday from 2:30 to 4:00 p.m. in the Wall Street Parlor.

Willson says of herself, "I don't do anything more than anyone else. So many women in Floydada do so much for others. Mostly I am just a mother."

Yet she finds time to be one of the outstanding contributors to the Floydada Womens' Chamber of Commerce and Heart Association, both of which she has served as president. Last year Willson was girl scout troop leader for 27 girls. She is also very active in The First United Methodist Church where she teaches a Sunday school class for two year olds, sings in the choir, and helps with the handbell choir.

The Floydada First Lady of the Year received national recognition in 1978 and 1979 when she was named to the Outstanding Young Women of America.

She quotes her mother, Alma Holmes of Duncanville, when explaining her interest in civic activities. "The way to be happy is to put more in a community than you take out." Willson says "I have been taking out so much that I need to put some in. That is why I try to work for the community."

Beta Sigma Phi each spring chooses an outstanding Floydada woman to be First Lady of the Year, with nominations coming from numerous organizations and individuals in Floydada.

Willson is the wife of Mac Willson and the mother of four girls, Jill, June, Jane, and Penny. She works as a secretary for John R. Hollums, district attorney.

She said of the reception being given in her honor, "I can't really believe that they're giving a formal reception for me. I'm better with Kool Aid and hot dogs in the park."

NANCY WILLSON of Floydada has been chosen First Lady of the Year by the Alpha Mu Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

Jean Green is guest artist First National Bank

Jean Green is the current guest artist at the First National Bank. She is sitting at a blank canvas, landscape develop, adding there. It's so relaxing. If a painter, she doesn't need any "therapy", says Jean Green, guest artist of Floydada's First National Bank. Jean has lived in Olton for 29 years, started painting when she was 10 years old. She painted from a book until she was in high school when she began instruction from a professional artist. "Back then it took summer to do two paintings. I thought that was quality painting; but now, another instructor, taught me composition and color make a painting leave it alone," she added. In Lubbock last December, she and other members will compete in the Pasture Grass Identification Contest. Each of her instructors, Jean learned something valuable from Ruth Barnett, she learned from Knapp, purpose and speed; from Ben Konis of Amarillo, composition; from Conny Martin, Lubbock, and Ann Harris, Houston, florals and landscapes. Out of these associations, she formed her own style of painting. "My technique is my own. No two people handle a brush the same way."

Jean directs six workshops a month at El Paso and Waco, Clovis and Carlsbad. Each Thursday during the fall months, she has a workshop in Olton. Her paintings may be seen in The Open Range Gallery, Plainview, Frame and Art Gallery, Lubbock, Margaret Carothers G., Pasadena, and Shonoh Gallery, Seguin. One painting hangs in the office of Rep. Kent Hance.

The subjects Jean enjoys painting most are rustic, weathered buildings and windmills from the forgotten and vanishing touch of color, make an impression on the viewer.

Government officials recognize "Beta Sigma Phi Year"

Political officials ranging from President Ronald Reagan to governors and mayors throughout the United States and Canada have signed proclamations honoring chapters of Beta Sigma Phi in Kansas City and all over the world. This April 30th, the women's social, service and cultural organization is celebrating its 50th anniversary with Founder's Day activities ranging from small gatherings to huge banquets for thousands of members.

1981 as "Beta Sigma Phi Year" in their cities and states.

Beta Sigma Phi is the largest Greek letter sorority and has grown in its 50-year history from one chapter of seven women to a sorority of 250,000 women active in chapters in 32 countries through the world.

Beta Sigma Phis are also working hard this year to form new chapters in places that have not, as yet, had the benefit of being a part of this sorority. Already, members have formed new chapters in Papua New Guinea, the Marshall Islands, United Arab Emirates; more chapters will soon be formed in Indonesia, Samoa, Jamaica and Bolivia. This effort to form new chapters is symbolic of two goals shared by all members of the organization; that is, to extend the hand of friendship to community women; and to enjoy, to the fullest extent, the opportunities for personal growth that Beta Sigma Phi offers every member.

Beta Sigma Phi has recently been recognized by President Ronald Reagan for its philanthropic work, as well as its 50th anniversary. Across the United States and Canada, local and state government officials are signing proclamations that recognize April 30, 1980 to April 30, Life, learning and friendship are the bywords of Beta Sigma Phi. Begun in the midst of the Depression by Walter W. Ross, Beta Sigma Phi was originally designed to provide an outlet for women who, in those hard financial times, could not attend college.

What's missing?

A Federal Crop Insurance policy. That's what the farmer needs to complete his business picture. And what you need to make your plans complete for a successful crop year. All-Risk Crop Insurance covers the risk of losses from hazards like drought, flood, insects or disease.

Take a look at the five main benefits of buying All-Risk Crop Insurance — benefits other farmers can't resist:

1. Protects investments — Your yearly costs so great for fertilizer, chemicals, equipment and labor continue to grow. These per-acre charges used protection from loss. Allow expansion — Will you be farming more land? Will you be adding crop storage? If so, remember Federal Crop Insurance limits what you can lose. Makes a risky investment attractive.

2. Formal professional management — When you limit the risk, you safeguard the investment. So you can afford to spend extra dollars to maximize yields and profits.

3. Builds family security — Your family's security is threatened when crops are planted that remain unproductive from losses due to hazards of weather. The answer is an All-Risk Crop Insurance policy. Assures peace of mind — Why not go to bed at night sleeping a lot better knowing your crops are insured against weather and other hazards? It's just a good policy to put Federal Crop Insurance in your picture. Call your local FIC representative today.

The FHS sophomores fought back from a 5-3 deficit in the third set to take a 6-5 lead, but they couldn't hold on.

In the boys district tourney, Galvan and Rodriguez went through two matches in short order before falling in the finals.

Robert Galvan also scored for FHS when he won third in boys singles by defeating teammate Jose Alaniz, 6-3, 6-1.

The boys junior varsity squad put the finishing touches on a rout of the district JV tourney when they picked up two firsts and a second place. The JV won the team title with 95 points.

Floydada woman makes NTSU honor roll

Dr. Howard W. Smith Jr., vice president for academic affairs at North Texas State University, has released the fall semester honor roll which lists 1,389 NTSU students.

Listed on the 3.5 honor roll was Debby L. Johnson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Wester, of Floydada.

Of the 17,158 students enrolled at NTSU in the fall semester, some 319 were listed on the 4.0 (or all "A") honor roll and 1,070 were named to the 3.5 listing, which includes those students whose grade average was midway between an "A" and a "B".

BTUs WATTS = EER

The energy efficiency ratio (EER) of an air conditioner or a refrigerator tells you how efficiently electricity is converted into cooling. The EER is determined by dividing the BTUs by the Watts. The higher the EER the more efficiently the unit operates.

A 24,000 BTU air conditioner using 3,900 watts would have an EER of 7.3 (24,000 ÷ 3,900 = 7.3). If you could get the same cooling capacity for 2,400 watts the EER would be higher (24,000 BTU ÷ 2,400 watts = 10 EER).

Before you buy ask about EER! Nine or higher is recommended.

Final Week To Guess In Popcorn Contest

We took our tent and went to Turkey

PHOTOS AND STORY BY SHELLY HARRIS

Would it be like to have 15,000 people descend on Lockney or Floydada for the How would you feel about it? ...much the same as the of Turkey do when the Bob celebrators hit town the last each year...with mixed emo-

The enthusiasm of the fans for Bob Wills and the Texas Playboys style music draws crowds from West Texas as well as bordering states. We even saw a New York license plate. That's right, we packed a tent and took off for Turkey to see for ourselves what can draw that many people to a small town for the weekend.

Of course, it was the music. More than 15 former Texas Playboys were there along with Johnny Lee Wills, Owassa, Oklahoma, and Luke Wills, Las Vegas, New Mexico, both brothers of the famous Bob Wills. The weekend started with dancing to the music and memories of Wills Friday night in the old Turkey High School auditorium. A parade kicked off Saturday morning events. The bar-b-que was held at noon and the old fiddlers contest that afternoon.

The afternoon program was held outdoors in the football stadium. A crowd of thousands listened to the former Playboys and personalities as they paid tribute to Bob Wills. The emcee was Dr. Charles Townsend, history professor at WTSU in Canyon, who is Wills' noted biographer.

Another dance Saturday packed in an estimated 3000. After the Saturday night dance, breakfast was served. The day officially ended.

However, the camp grounds were still full of revelers. Cars and pick-ups drove the dirt streets, kicking up dust, most of the night.

There was a time, in years past, the crowds got too much for the residents of the town.

The revenue from the four events; the two dances, the bar-b-que and the breakfast, stays in Turkey in the Bob Wills Foundation and is used for community projects. A new fire engine was purchased with the funds, also a new school building.

So the citizens appreciate the financing made possible by the celebration.

But the event has gotten a reputation for the place to "have a party." If seeing someone with a beer can in their hand offends you, Turkey is not the place to be on that particular weekend.

About three years ago the residents appealed to the State Department of Public Safety and asked for help in handling the crowds.

This year there was a force of 20 peace officers, brought in from the counties throughout the state, to patrol the grounds.

The law officers were much in evidence, stopping speeders and generally keeping the peace.

I was personally amazed that there was as little trouble (within my viewing) as there was, with that many people and that much "partying" going on. They are to be commended. Jack Moore from Floydada was one of the staff.

Except for being noisy most of the night everyone was pretty well behaved. I did see some things that I considered in poor taste, but it's hard these days to be in that size a crowd anywhere and not see some of that.

Most of the campers we saw were Tech students. There were a lot from South Plains College.

Alot of motorcycles were in evidence. I didn't see any colors of the "outlaw clubs." I talked to one biker and he said that he hadn't seen any either. "And don't want to," he added.

All ages seemed to be equally represented. I talked to more people from Amarillo than any other place. So my personal survey would give the attendance prize to that town.

If the townspeople had special ordered the weather it couldn't have been better.

IT WAS ALOT OF FUN!!!

THESE MULES were brought in by trailer from Dallas as was the camp wagon. The wagon is actually used on a ranch.

ARTIST from Matador has a charming subject for her portrait.

BETTY HAYES said they almost sold out of western hats. They own and operate the Shadow Box in Lockney. Betty set up their booth outside the school building.

HUNDREDS OF 12,000 to 15,000 cause Turkey residents alot of clean-up time after celebration is over.

THESE T-SHIRTS were being sold in one of the booths.

Floyd County escapes average April tornado

Average tornado in Floyd County would occur in April between the hours of 6 p.m. with windspeed between 70-100 mph. Statistics have been compiled for Floyd as well as other counties on the Texas South Plains by weather scientist Larry Eblen, who is with the National Weather Service in Lubbock.

Eblen visited Floyd County this past week giving lectures to the hospitals in both Lubbock and Floydada. He also conducted a workshop for the tornado spotters held at the county courthouse Thursday evening.

The average tornado for the whole of the Texas South Plains would occur in May between the hours of 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. with wind speed of 70-100 mph. That would classify it as a weak system.

With the exception of the month in which most tornadoes occur, Floyd County statistics are much the same as for the entire area.

Most of the average tornado in both cases would be from the Southwest at

Tornado Description

A tornado is best described as a "violently rotating column of air in contact with the ground. It is a center of extremely low pressure surrounded by high winds -- rotating in a counter-clockwise direction.

The part of a tornado is composed of small water droplets mixed with dust. A tornado that has not picked up much debris may not appear to touch the ground. However, if damage is occurring, a tornado is in progress. As opposed to a funnel, a tornado is a violently rotating column of air that does not touch the ground.

Most tornadoes are smooth, tapered, hold their shape and, above all else, are rotating. They generally move to the northeast at 30 to 40 mph, but can turn in any direction. They can speed up to 70 mph or stop dead still.

Tornadoes last only a few minutes, although some have persisted for three hours. They first appear as funnels hanging below the rain-free bottom of a thunderstorm. They then dip downward, touch the ground, and move. Toward the end of the life cycle they shrink into a rope-shape and disappear. They appear to be weak - but are still dangerous.

From 1950 to 1975, tornadoes within 150 miles of Lubbock occurred most frequently in May, followed by June and April. These months accounted for three-quarters of all sightings. Almost 80 percent of the tornadoes occurred between 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. with the greatest concentration between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m.

Three-fourths of the tornadoes were small with winds ranging from 40 to 100 mph. With an average path length of less than 1 mile and path width less than 100 feet, these are difficult to detect. Fortunately, few cause death.

Medium-sized tornadoes were found to occur one-fourth of the time. They are easier to detect than small tornadoes and have winds from 100 to 200 mph. They may have a path length up to 10 miles and a width up to 300 feet. They are less likely to kill than large tornadoes.

Large tornadoes were rare occurring less than 1 percent of the time. Due both to size and intensity (winds up to 300 mph) they are the most destructive and easiest to detect. They have path lengths up to 200 miles and widths up to 1 1/2 miles. Though rare, they cause almost 70 percent of all deaths.

Excellent examples of the large, killer tornadoes are the Lubbock Tornado of May 1970 and the Wichita Falls Tornado of April 1979. It is estimated that some 18,000 persons were in the path of the Wichita Falls Tornado. The survival of 99.8 percent of them was due largely to their knowledge and use of safety rules.

How To Protect Yourself

In the open, the best shelter from a tornado is a ditch, ravine, or culvert. If none is available, move into a field alongside the road. Get down on your knees, as low to the ground as possible, and cover your head with your hands and arms. This is known as the defensive position. Do not remain in a vehicle or try to outrun a tornado. It is difficult to judge either its distance or speed.

In a building, the safest location would be a tornado shelter. Next best would be a basement. Hide under a heavy desk or stairwell. Otherwise, go to a central closet, bathroom, or small hallway on the lowest floor. These rooms are safer when away from chimneys and taller structures that may collapse on them. They have the advantages of greater reinforcement per unit volume and more walls between the occupants inside and flying debris outside. Flying debris causes most tornado deaths. When you reach the shelter, assume the defensive position.

Avoid areas with large span roofs such as cafeterias, auditoriums, and gymnasiums. They are subject to collapse. Also avoid areas with extensive glass. It is likely to be shattered by the extreme winds and flying debris.

Do not waste time opening or closing windows to reduce inside pressure. The pressure change near a tornado (very low pressure) causes little, if any, structural damage. Simply make sure you and the people you are with are safe.

The shelters mentioned above can often be improved, at low cost, by reinforcing the rooms or hallways and replacing hollow-core doors with solid wood doors. Remove heavy objects from shelves above a closet shelter and decorative items from bathroom shelters. Have a blanket handy to throw over your heads for added protection. In bathroom shelters, have some members of your family lie in the bathtub and pull a mattress over it.

To determine the amount of shelter space needed, allow 6 square feet of space per adult and 4 per child (hospital and nursing home patients may need more room). Businesses should consult a knowledgeable architect or engineer to help determine the best shelter locations and then mark them for workers and customers.

With a good location for shelters chosen, only a reliable, timely method of receiving watches and warnings is needed. Keep in mind that a watch is simply a statement that a severe thunderstorm, tornado, or flood is possible in the large area mentioned.

A warning indicates the event is already happening in the one or two county area named.

To receive these, NOAA Weather Radio can be received on several multi-band radios or on special weather radios. These special radios can be found in most electronics or department stores for as little as $15.

Radios with an alarm capability (an alarm sounds when a watch or warning is issued for the central South Plains) sell for as little as $40.

These radios broadcast information from the National Weather Service Office at Lubbock 24 hours a day and can be received from as far away as 50 miles. Hourly weather conditions, a five-day forecast, a general weather summary, and agricultural and recreational information are given. During severe weather this is the earliest and most complete source of information.

Keep in mind also that both severe and non-severe thunderstorms produce lightning and lightning kills twice as many West Texans each year as do tornadoes. To be safe, remain indoors when lightning is occurring.

If outside away from buildings, avoid isolated tall trees and high places. Avoid touching metal objects such as fences or pumps. Away from buildings, the inside of a vehicle offers good lightning protection. Otherwise, assume the defensive position for best protection.

INSUR-MATION
Floyd County
Insurance Agency Jerry Cooper

Q. Like almost everyone, we are up against some budget constraints and, although I would like to purchase a whole life insurance policy to protect our growing family and also accumulate cash value, term policies seem more in line with our financial situation. Is there an option I'm overlooking?
A. Very possibly. Many companies offer policies combining whole life and term insurance which may be your solution. Basically, the decreasing term pays the beneficiary either a lump sum or a fixed income for a specified period, while the proceeds from the whole life section can be taken out in a lump sum or used to augment the term income. Usually, a policy of this kind can be tailor-made to fit your budget.

Channel Five Highlights

BY KAY BETTS

Channel 5 is continuing its great programming for West Texas. Summer will be coming soon, so get into the mood with "The Cousteau Odyssey", airing Sunday, 7:00 p.m. In this episode, "Diving For Roman Plunder", Captain Cousteau and his crew will investigate the pillage of Grecian artwork, which is one of the unresolved scandals of early civilizations.

After "The Cousteau Odyssey", at 8:00, "The Golden Bowl" will be presented on Mobil funded Masterpiece Theater. Some of you may remember this six episode mini series when it was first aired in 1973. "The Golden Bowl" is the first of twenty two weeks of Mobile Masterpiece Theater. The show has been hailed as novelist Henry James' best endeavor. The story focuses on James' recurrent theme -- the interrelationship between American expatriates in Europe and the Europeans with whom their lives become intertwined. Alfred Kazin, a New York literary critic, wrote, "No more summary of 'The Golden Bowl' can help thinning and even parodying it into another conventional nineteenth century story of adultery, the bad other woman, the good little wife, the triumph of the latter." Don't miss this titillating program!

For the ballet lovers and anyone else who enjoys the aesthetic beauty of dance, Monday at 7:00 p.m., "Dance in America: Elliot Field Ballet" will be presented on Great Performances. This beautiful ballet will be performed by members of the New York City Ballet. For more culture, stay tuned, for at 8:00, "Fredrick Chopin: A Voyage With Byron Janis" will be aired as an American premiere. It is a story about the classical pianist, Byron Janis, and how he strives to perform Chopin's works exactly as the composer would have done.

An off-road recreational vehicle designed and built by five Texas Tech University mechanical engineering students will be entered in the Mini Baja West competition at Pomona, California, Thursday through Saturday, April 30-May 2.

Texas Tech students who worked on the car are: senior John M. Harlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harlan, Bishop; seniors Donald W. and Douglas E. Thompson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thompson, Moore, Oklahoma; junior Barry R. Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Norwin Hines, Brownsville; and junior Jim F. Potts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Potts, Floydada.

7th Annual Poetry Contest to be held

A $1000 grand prize will be awarded in the Seventh Annual Poetry Competition sponsored by World of Poetry, a quarterly newsletter for poets.

Poems of all styles and on any subject are eligible to compete for the grand prize or for 99 other cash or merchandise awards, totaling over $10,000. Says Contest Chairman, Joseph Mellon, "We are encouraging poetic talent of every kind, and expect our contest to produce exciting discoveries."

Less time in the feedlot for leaner beef and lower costs is the outlook for the future according to a number of cattle experts. Many authorities now believe that because of two important developments: 1) the 30 percent increase in grain prices; and, 2) the American consumer's demand for leaner beef, feedlot operators are going to be changing their ways of finishing cattle. Research indicates cattle, after reaching certain weight levels, and depending on breed, tend to lay on only fat which must be trimmed and discarded. In order to provide cattle which will efficiently produce greater amounts of quality lean beef in a shorter feeding time, cattlemen believe an increase of larger-framed, higher cutting cattle is needed.

Farm News

Cool test results perplex cotton farms

Results of Cool Germination Tests performed this year have been indicating lower vigor than usual in cotton seed, to the dismay and confusion of farmers preparing to plant.

The outcome, says a cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is that the Cool Test isn't serving its intended purpose and the method needs to be re-evaluated.

The test was designed to provide an indication of seed vigor to help producers decide if their seed is suitable for planting early in the season, when soil temperatures for germination and emergence are minimal, or if planting should be delayed until more optimal conditions develop, said Dr. James R.

Supak, the Extension agronomist.

"The test is more rigorous than the Standard Germination test," Supak said. Seed are subjected to a continuous, relatively cool environment and resulting seedlings must grow to a specified length within a specified time to be counted, he explained.

"Generally, if well developed, cleaned and delinted seed show a standard germination percentage of 80 to 95, the percentage of seedlings passing the requirements of the Cool Test should be 40 to 50. Cool Test germination percentages below 30 generally indicate a vigor problem and suggest the seed should not be used until planning condition are near optimum," the agronomist noted.

But, things aren't working out that way this year. The staffs at seed testing laboratories in this area are reporting that over three-fourths of the seed lots subjected to the Cool Test had standard germination percentage 80 or above but less than one-fourth of these had a Cool Test germination percentage over 30. In fact, the Cool Test percentage values for these seed lots were generally less than 10, Supak reported.

Does this mean that most of the cotton planting seed produced in 1981 has a vigor problem? Not necessarily, according to the people who do the testing, Supak said. "Most feel the problem is associated more with the Cool Test criteria than with the quality of the seed. They have observed that most seed lots with good standard germination (80-percent or better) would have tested acceptably had the seed been allowed to remain in the germinator at least one more day before being counted, or if the growth criteria could have been relaxed slightly."

Apparently many of the seed lots tested so far this year were somewhat slow about initiating growth, Supak said. "This may be the result of a form of dormancy. Once growth began, it appears to be normal and vigorous but not rapid enough to meet the test criteria."

"The bottom line appears to be that the Cool Test is not serving its intended purpose and the method needs to be re-evaluated. Other techniques such as the Accelerated Aging Test and Tetrazolium Test can be used to evaluate seed vigor. Unfortunately, most seed analysts lack experience with these tests and are hesitant to use them to estimate seed vigor."

"Hopefully, a reliable vigor test will be developed in the near future that we can use in helping make that difficult decision about when to start planting," Supak said.

In the meantime, growers will have to rely on their judgement and experience in assessing potential seed performance, he stressed. "Bear in mind that seed from a well matured (high micro-anaire) crop are usually well developed and of good quality. If the standard germination is high (80-percent or better) and there is no problem with free fatty acids then the seed should make good strong planting seed," Supak said.

Most delinting plant operators have many years experience with cottonseed, the Extension agronomist said. As a rule, they evaluate and test most of the seed they process. Their observations and judgement can be most helpful in assessing the overall quality of a given lot of seed, he stressed.

"Above all, don't make any hasty decisions to discard a load of seed because it made a poor showing in the Cool Test," Supak urged. "If you remain uncertain about your seed, visit with your delinter, seed analyst, Texas Department of Agriculture representative, County Extension Agent, or give us a call at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center in Lubbock."

Warm soil can mislead cotton planters

Relatively high soil temperatures might encourage South Plains cotton farmers to become anxious to plant, but caution is urged by the area cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Planting now doesn't insure an earlier crop than if cotton is planted in May, but actually increases the producer's hazards, Dr. James R. Supak, the Extension cotton specialist, said.

Rains such as have dotted the South Plains in the last several weeks cool the soil, but they need to be retained and used, not allowed to run off, Supak added.

"On April 10, for example, one to five inches of rain fell in portions of Hale and Floyd counties," he noted. "The rain fell hard and fast and much of the water eventually ended up in bar-ditches and playa lakes. The few farmers who had furrow-diked their fields managed to trap a significant percentage of this moisture and assure its availability for crop production."

The majority of the spring rain on the High Plains comes from this type of shower, Supak said. If fields are furrow-diked prior to these rains, runoff can be controlled, soil erosion can be greatly reduced and more soil moisture will be available for crop development, he explained. "Now is the time to dike those furrows," he emphasized.

Soil temperature is an excellent guide for establishing the earliest feasible time for planting cotton," Supak agreed. "On the South Plains, good stands are more likely to be obtained when the minimum soil temperature at the eight-inch depth averages 60 degrees Fahrenheit or more for at least 10 days before planting."

"However," Supak cautioned, "the decision to begin planting should not be based on soil temperature alone. In addition, we need to consider the calendar date and, especially, the long range weather forecast."

This year, he noted, several weather stations on the South Plains reported reaching the 60-degree average minimum soil temperature by mid-April.

But planting cotton at this early date is risky, the agronomist stressed, because we can expect more high winds, blowing sand and several days of cool, wet weather during late April and early May.

In fact, Supak said, the 30-day weather outlook, valid through mid-May, predicts near-normal temperatures and near to slightly below normal rainfall for the South Plains. Long-term weather records indicate a drop in soil temperatures can be expected during the first week in May.

"This occurs following the rains which are common this time of year," Supak said.

The relatively high soil temperatures reported in early to mid-April are partly the result of the measurements being made in relatively dry soils, the Extension agronomist said. In most irrigated fields, or those that received appreciable rainfall recently, the 10-day average soil temperature is generally several degrees cooler, he noted.

"Also, long term weather records show that the last 15 days of April often are much warmer than the first 15 days of May. Consequently, cotton planted in April might come up to a good stand, but is subjected to many more weather hazards than cotton planted in May."

Supak cited a study of planting dates conducted at Lubbock by Dr. J.D. Bilbro, research agronomist with the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Science Education Administration.

Bilbro's results, shown in the accompanying table, showed that cotton planted on April 10, April 20 and May 11 all reached the first bloom stage on approximately the same date.

This study indicates that in most years there is no advantage in earlier fruit set resulting from April planting, Supak said. "Since anticipated rain and soil cooling in the next two weeks can lead to serious problems, farmers might consider playing the odds and delaying planting until May," he said.

Delaying planting until the 10-day average soil temperatures reach or exceed the 60-degree mark in May is recommended when seed quality is questionable, or in fields where seedling disease is a recurring problem, the Extension agronomist said.

Farmstead fly control pays dividend

Two species of flies are costing U.S. livestock producers about $225 million annually, according to studies in Illinois and Nebraska.

The two species — the stable fly and housefly — are most threatening to feedlot cattle, dairy cattle and swine, says Dr. John Campbell, an entomologist with the University of Nebraska.

The bloodsucking stable fly reduces weight gains in feedlot cattle and milk production in dairy cattle, Campbell says. Houseflies may contribute directly to animal production losses in dairy cattle and swine, but create most of their damage through disease transmission, the entomologist says.

A prudent fly control program is a good investment, according to Campbell.

"For insect control, every dollar spent to obtain control will gain you $4 to $8 in return," Campbell says. The best fly control program for stockmen is a two-step approach, he says: Sanitation, first, followed by application of insecticides.

"Determine where your major fly breeding problems are, and if possible, clean up or reduce breeding areas," Campbell says. He recommends cleaning up any combination of spilled grain, feed, moisture and manure — the ideal fly breeding environment. Also, he says, make certain waterers don't leak and contribute to the breeding environment.

"Once you've done this, it's still necessary to use insecticides. Attack the adult population," Campbell says.

Ideally, an insecticide for spraying livestock premises would have both knockdown (immediate kill) and residual qualities, Campbell says.

The new synthetic pyrethroid insecticides available this year have that combination of qualities, according to the entomologist. A formulation for use as a premise spray, Permethrin 10 Percent EC (emulsifiable concentrate), recently was introduced by Anchor Laboratories.

The new synthetic pyrethroid products are "much safer" and "much more efficient than the ones we've used in the past," Campbell says.

When implementing a fly spray program in barns and livestock premises, any spray can be made more effective by knowing where and when to spray the insecticides.

"Do your spraying when flies are resting, because it's much easier to control them when they're concentrated in a small area," he says. Southwest breeders should sheltered shade, Campbell says, and dark interiors. Stable flies of Floyd Co. on the building from for information or vegetation during the booths, call 80-2198.

During the heat of the summer, stable flies and houseflies seek shady areas such as under eaves. An application of insecticide at this time can be a real help in the form of the measure. Campbell says.

Houseflies actually breed in the manure at night, the entomologist says. "They're a little bit like roost somewhere at night, usually for a wig building on the wall or ceiling. The pur under the eaves of a building is to ra a warm evening. Most of the time, they are better at temperatures such high school Fahrenheit, Campbell says.

Spent wisely, the best fly control will more than pay for itself. Campbell summarizes the most effective control is the use of insecticides — and girls who a high twelve-year registration with the beginning at 10. The registra per participant.

The Floydada Club will sponsor a meet Saturday, May 19, 1981. The meet is to it — one: sanitation — use of insecticides — with a very adequate program," he says.
