FINAL VOYAGE — The Randolph is towed toward the Bayonne Bridge Tuesday en route to be broken up at a yard near Newark, N.J. The carrier survived a World War II kamikaze attack, was on hand for the Korean War, the 1956 Suez incident and the blockade of Cuba in 1962. The flight deck sign is from the 1970 Army-Navy game.

DEATH OR IMPRISONMENT?

'The Man Who Ruined Halloween' Convicted

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury will decide punishment today for "the man who ruined Halloween," Ronald C. O'Bryan, a Houston optician convicted of capital murder Tuesday in the trick or treat candy poisoning of his eight-year-old son.

The 10-man, two woman jury deliberated only 46 minutes before arriving at the guilty verdict and will hear testimony and arguments today before deliberating on punishment.

The state is asking for the death penalty. (O'Bryan is a former Big Spring resident.)

In closing arguments Tuesday, assistant district attorney Mike Hinton said

O'Bryan "should be damned for what he did"—not only for killing his son, but for triggering "terror and suspicion" in residential neighborhoods.

Defense attorney Richard Harrison said the state never proved O'Bryan actually bought cyanide and poisoned the candy with it.

O'Bryan, 30, is known to many Houston school children as "the man who ruined Halloween."

VERY HAPPY

He was convicted of giving his son, Timothy, a cyanide-laced candy which O'Bryan claimed he received during a trick or treat outing.

He is also indicted on one count of attempted capital murder and three counts of murder in the distribution of poisoned candies to his daughter and to three other children.

Timothy O'Bryan's death sent shock waves through Houston suburban neighborhoods and some parents' organizations have already announced plans to forbid the traditional trick or treat.

"I'm very happy about the verdict," said Charles Hudgins, the stepfather of Whitney Parker, a young boy who received one of the poisoned candies. "I feel better about Halloween now, but I think next year (Halloween) everybody will have a block party instead of trick or treating."

According to testimony in the month-long trial, O'Bryan, a friend named Jim Bates, two O'Bryan children and Bates' son spent about 45 minutes on a rain-drenched trick or treat outing in Pasadena, a Houston suburb.

PIXY STIX

During the outing, Bates said O'Bryan came away from a house holding Pixy Stix, a powdered confection packaged in a plastic tube.

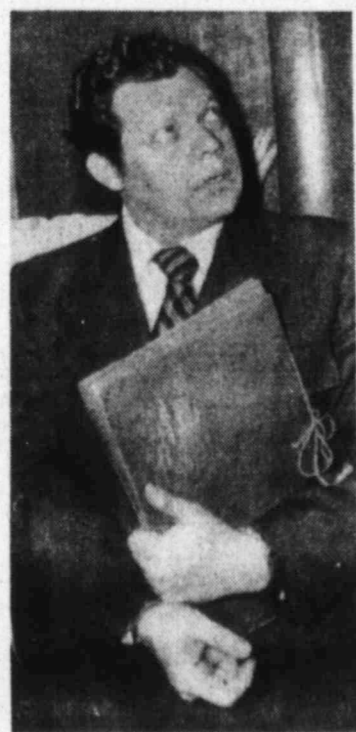

Later, the candy was distributed to the O'Bryan and Bates children and to Whitney Parker, who just happened to come to the door.

O'Bryan testified he later let his son eat a Pixy Stix. The boy vomited, went into convulsions and died within an hour.

The state contended O'Bryan killed his son to collect on $30,000 in insurance.

An insurance agent testified O'Bryan took out $20,000 policies on his two children four weeks before Halloween and paid a $108 premium in cash. The agent said O'Bryan called within hours of his son's death to start processing a claim.

The defendant's wife, Mrs. Daylene O'Bryan, testified for the state, saying she knew nothing of the $20,000 policy and had argued against two $10,000 policies taken out on the children in January.

All-Time High Is Attained

Howard College has reached an all-time peak of 478 enrolled for college credit courses for the initial six weeks of the summer session.

While there may be some loss in dropped courses, Dr. Charles Hays said he anticipated more enrollment prior to deadline Friday. The final total could approach 500. The totals include a number of students in the Upward Bound program, which has its members on campus this summer. However, only those taking college credit are counted.

Missing Funds Page Mystery

AUSTIN (AP) — A spokesman for Comptroller Bob Bullock said they hoped to solve the mystery of the missing page in the $12.1 billion general appropriations bill some time today.

"If we can find that page, it looks like the dollar figures add up and the bill is certifiable," the spokesman said. "There are some other errors in the bill but they are not the dollar kind and would not affect it being certified."

Bullock said Tuesday night that he would withhold certification of the state spending bill for 1976-77 until he gets an opinion from Atty. Gen. John Hill about a page missing from the official copy of the bill sent to Bullock.

He said he had asked Hill for a legal opinion on what he should do and also notified Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and Speaker Bill Clayton.

"Legally, there is no way I can add a page or take away a page from the bill which came to me signed, sealed and delivered from the legislature."

"To certify the bill without a page or to certify it because of an obvious error would automatically cause a special session," Bullock said.

Ford Says Jobs Measure Veto Must Be Sustained

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford believes his whole program to fight inflation and recession depends on the House's sustaining his veto of a $4-billion-dollar jobs bill, House Minority Leader John Rhodes said today.

Rhodes told the House Republican Conference that the President, en route to West Point, telephoned him from Air Force One this morning to convey his feelings on the jobs bill.

Rhodes said Ford feels that today's scheduled vote on the job veto is a "most important vote" and that his veto must be sustained.

The minority leader made his announcement during the first open House Republican Conference since 1927. Previously such conferences have been closed to the media and the public.

House Democrats cautiously predicted they had the votes to override Ford's veto of the bill. The legislation is designed to create 500,000 jobs to help fight the recession.

Senate Democrats also were reported optimistic, but were waiting for the House vote later today before making final counts. It takes a two-thirds majority in both chambers to override a veto.

Both chambers passed the legislation by considerably more than two-thirds margins. Some Republican votes would be needed to provide the override margin, since the Democrats have a bare two-thirds majority in the House and less in the Senate.

The $5.3 billion measure seeks to provide jobs through direct public service employment programs and indirectly through acceleration of public works projects across the nation.

It includes authorization of $1.6 billion for public service jobs, $485 million for summer youth jobs, $440 million for construction and repair of federal buildings around the country, $385 million for small business loans and $325 million for speedup of flood control, reclamation and rivers and harbors projects.

Ford said in his veto message the bill would authorize spending over two years of $3.3 billion more than he had recommended in the budget.

The President has vowed to hold the federal deficit for the fiscal year that begins July 1 to $60 billion. Congressionally adopted guidelines put it at $68.8 billion.

Inmates Seize Hostages

GRANITE, Okla. (AP) — A group of rebellious inmates took over the educational building at the Granite Reformatory today and a spokesman for Gov. David Boren said "they do have hostages."

Most of the prisoners were locked in their cells and the spokesman said it was believed 60 or fewer inmates were involved in the uprising.

A Corrections Department spokesman said he understood the prisoners had taken eight teachers and one corrections worker hostage. But Sam Hammons, administrative aide to the governor, said he heard the prisoners had "15 or 16 (hostages) but I don't know for sure."

A Corrections Department official in Oklahoma City said the inmates were in the process of drawing up a list of grievances to present to Warden Jerry Sunderland and John Grider, acting Corrections Department director, who were flying to this southwestern Oklahoma institution from a meeting at the state penitentiary at McAlester.

The maximum security prison at McAlester was the scene of a major riot in July 1973.

Will Fight To Prevent Cuts In Defense Budget

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Congress should approve his full defense budget and enact a program for U.S. energy independence to show the world that "Americans have lost neither their nerve nor their national will," President Ford said today.

Ford, just back from talks with European leaders, told the graduating class at the U.S. Military Academy he would fight hard to prevent any cuts in the $94-billion defense budget he has proposed for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

"I believe the American people want a defense posture that is second to none," Ford told the 349-member graduating class during commencement exercises at Michie Stadium.

He said enactment of "our bedrock defense budget" and a 10-year program to make the nation independent of foreign oil would be a "convincing demonstration to our allies and to our adversaries that Americans have lost neither their nerve nor their national will."

Ford's speech to the cadets came only hours after his return at 1 a.m. today from a weeklong trip to Europe during which he conferred with 22 heads of state.

The President waited until later in the day to meet with his Cabinet and congressional leaders at the White House to fill them in on his trip.

"Our major alliances are strong and firm... our allies' confidence in us is not misplaced," the President said.

Ford became the first president since John F. Kennedy to speak at a Military Academy commencement. Kennedy, a Navy veteran like Ford, was here in 1962.

Elsewhere, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller spoke to the graduating class of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., and Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger spoke at the Air Force Academy commencement.

As he wound up his speech, the President drew a burst of applause when he reminded "ourselves, our friends and our potential adversaries that Americans are still prepared to pay the price of freedom — that we will honor our commitments — that we will do our duty."

And he concluded: "Let us renew together our Founding Fathers' pledge to our country of our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor. And let us always remember that freedom is never free."

The President handed diplomas to 43 of the cadets, who were in the first five per cent of their class, and to the lowest ranking cadet — termed the "goat" — Eugene Emmett Shaw Jr. of Danville, Ill.

In his report to the cadets, the President said he views peace in the Middle East as "the most serious international issue of our time."

Grand Jury Returns 33 Indictments Against 27

District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III counted 33 indictments returned against 27 defendants Tuesday afternoon.

They ranged from murder to involuntary manslaughter, aggravated assault and burglary.

FOUR KILLINGS

Wanda A. Gilbert, 24, 905 NW 5th St., was charged with aggravated assault when her husband died on May 25. The grand jury indicted her for "recklessly" causing his death.

The indictment asserts she fired in the direction of James Lee Gilbert, who was less than 15 feet away, and hit him above the left eyebrow on April 1.

Involuntary manslaughter, the offense she is accused of, carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison. Moore said. Murder may be punished by life imprisonment.

True bills for murder were returned against Jay Doug Ingram, 25, Vincent; Ronald Jason Caldwell, 27, Sterling City Route; and Abel Trevino, 24, 1110 Main St.

KNIFING

Trevino is accused of stabbing Gemesindo Diaz Jr. on April 20. Caldwell is named in the shooting of his wife, Kathy King Caldwell, on March 15. And Ingram is charged with the April 10 shooting of Michael Ralph Green.

The complaint charging Terry Joe Tredaway, 19, Box 2261, with aggravated assault on Terry Blakeley on March 21 was passed to the next grand jury to reconsider.

Indicted this time were defendants, Guy and Johnny Talamantez, who last time saw the grand jury pass their cases for aggravated assault.

They are accused of shooting Esequiel Flores on Jan. 12.

Henry Don Stewart, 17, 1808 E. 15th St., was accused of the Feb. 27 stabbing of Phillip Dean Barber.

But Marcus Copeland, 28, Box 1965, saw a complaint of aggravated assault on a peace officer, John Burson, reduced to the misdemeanor of resisting arrest. The indictment was dated May 27.

ROBBERY, INDECENCY

David Paul Gamaliel, 20, and Morris W. Hillers, 20, were indicted for the Feb. 2 aggravated robbery of the Pizza Hut in Highland South Shopping Center.

Indecent exposure to a 14-year-old girl on May 25 is the charge against Robert Lang, 20, No. 2 Northcrest Apartments.

In addition to specific felonies, George Weldon Wright, 52, Fort Worth, and Billy Ray Day, 28, Fort Worth, are to be prosecuted for being habitual criminals.

Wright is to be tried for the April 9 theft of a 1965 model belonging to Lum Minchew. Day is charged with burglary of Clawson Lumber Co. in Coahoma on Nov. 28, 1974.

DWI CASES

Of the defendants accused of second-offense driving while intoxicated, (DWI) all but one were indicted. The grand jury did not find sufficient evidence to prosecute C. J. Edward Rhoades, 50, Odessa.

Named in true bills for subsequent-offense DWI were these: Billy Norman Watkins, 47, Andrews; J. A. Smith, 49, Fluvanna; Earl Boyd Ryan, 47, Snyder; Susie Brown Martin, 64, Stanton; Raymond Lee McPherson, 30, Midland; and Clell Elmo Dowdy, 62, 118 E. 3rd St., Room 326.

The case of Richard Wayne Hubbard, 20, for possession of more than four ounces of marijuana on May 28, was passed for possible later grand jury consideration.

BURGLARIES

Bruce Echols, 19, was indicted for four burglaries. Burglarized on April 3 were Culligan Water Service, Big Spring High School and a vehicle belonging to Jimmy Wiley. He is charged also with burglary of the Glen Edward Perry vehicle on March 20.

Burglary of a motor vehicle belonging to Brian Martinez on May 1 is the offense two Snyder youths are accused of. The defendants are William Leslie Neal, 17, and Richard Jean Pitts, 18.

Lance N. Pless, Randall Keith Robbins and Michael Edward Hogg are charged with two burglaries.

A typewriter and calculator were stolen from Three Way Welding & Construction, 504 N. Benton St., on April 11. And three stereo amplifiers were taken from the Radio Shack on April 23.

Randy Glen Sharp, 17, Midland, was cited for the Feb. 26 theft of a 1973 model car belonging to Robert M. (Bob) Deane.

Theodore (Bopete) Orange, 32, 804 1/2 Nolan St., faces an indictment for carrying a prohibited weapon on licensed premises, Mitchell's Fall Out Lounge, 411 NW 7th St. That offense is alleged to have happened Feb. 15.

SUSPECTS

A case involving suspects in another state was passed. Gene Denton, owner of the Gage Fina Truck Stop Restaurant, complained because the prosecutor would not authorize warrants for the two men's arrest. So Moore suggested Denton present the cases to the grand jury.

Walter L. Wheat served as grand jury foreman. When the grand jury first was convened, Ralph McLaughlin was foreman.

McLaughlin and Glen L. Parson were not present for the session which began Monday. Louise Evans and F. E. Pringle served in their places.

Defendants deciding to plead guilty frequently waive grand jury consideration.

School Districts See Share Of Costs Go Up

Many area school districts will see their local share of public school costs increase markedly under the new school finance reform measure, but how it will affect the taxpayer apparently will not be known until late summer.

According to Texas Education Agency computers, the largest local fund assignment increase in the area should be in Snyder, where it will go up $788,000.

Doug Flynn, school business manager there, said he is not certain what the local effect will be since Snyder already operates a double program which costs double what the state says a minimum program should cost there.

Next largest hike in local costs would be $532,000 in Andrews, but Andrews operates a program costing three times what the state minimum should be.

A list by school districts and counties shows projections of local fund assignments, state aid and the new equalization aid for the 1975-76 school year.

In Big Spring, it will be $798,000, $4,222,000, and $214,000; Coahoma, $218,000, $560,000 and $8,000; and Forsan, $221,000, $90,000 and zero.

Borden County schools receive $132,000, $34,000 and zero. Dawson County shows $163,000, $44,000 and zero; Klondike, $258,000, $104,000 and zero; Lamesa, $42,000, $1,982,000 and $46,000; Sands at Ackerly, $80,000, $192,000 and zero.

In Martin County, Stanton receives $176,000, $474,000 and $6,000; Grady, $124,000, $34,000 and zero. In Mitchell County, Westbrook is estimated at $135,000, $25,000 and zero; Colorado City, $340,000, $733,000, and $12,000 and Loriane, $36,000, $245,000 and $7,000.

The World At-A-Glance

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The unemployed chemical engineer explained with an air of authority how the two 10-pound bags of dog food in his Skid Row room represented good nutrition. The man doesn't have a pet. Laid off five years ago from his aerospace job, the 41-year-old man is a veteran member of the unemployed. Since last Christmas he has been buying dog food — unable to afford much else. Skid Row stores affirm that residents of the area are eating pet food. But whether it is happening on a large scale is uncertain.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is ready to begin voting on cuts to a $30.3 billion weapons authorization bill after completing a "great debate" on U.S. foreign policy in the post-Vietnam era. One amendment up for a vote later today would slice the 15-month weapons bill by $1.2 billion over-all.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate opponent of the upcoming American-Soviet space mission is asking the Central Intelligence Agency if secret data on Soviet space failures justifies cancelling the project. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., has called Carl Duckett, the CIA's deputy director for science and technology, to testify before a Senate panel later today about Soviet space technology. An American Apollo and a Soviet Soyuz spacecraft are scheduled to be launched July 15, and the U.S. ship later will attempt to rendezvous and dock with the Soviet craft.

WASHINGTON (AP) — To encourage Belgium to select the U.S. F16 fighter plane over the French Mirage F1, the United States may buy Belgian weapons if it chooses the American plane. Pentagon officials said the French have threatened to withhold orders for Belgian rifles if Belgium rejects the Mirage. To offset this, Belgian defense Minister Paul Vanden Boeynants reportedly was told Monday during meetings with Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger and other Pentagon officials that the United States might purchase some Belgian weapons.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approximately 6,000 items of Americana have been handsomely mounted in a Bicentennial exhibition that opens today at the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology. There is John Adams' cane, a metal case in which rock samples were brought back from the moon, the muppets Bert and Ernie from "Sesame Street," an engraving by N. Currier of "Washington from the President's House," and draft notations from the "Mass" composed by Leonard Bernstein for the 1971 opening of the John F. Kennedy Center.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel completed the thinning out of its forces and firepower along the Suez Canal front today, a day before Egyptian President Anwar Sadat sails down the waterway to reopen it. Defense Minister Shimon Peres, asked if he thought Israel would make similar partial withdrawals on the other fronts with its Arab adversaries, said: "We don't see any major change on any other front that would warrant such a move on our part."

That Issue Again

The New Hampshire legislature has passed a law permitting voluntary recitation of the Lord's Prayer in public elementary schools at the option of local school districts. The Connecticut legislature passed a law providing for an optional period of silent meditation at the beginning of the school day.

Both measures are designed to circumvent the Supreme Court's ruling of 1962 that school officials cannot require prayers in public schools. What most people have forgotten in the meantime — or never studied the Supreme Court opinion — is that the Supreme Court did not forbid prayer in public schools. A student is free to pray at any time he thinks proper, before 1962, since 1962, and after 1975. What the court did say was that the ordering of prayer in public schools violates the constitutional prohibition against governmental establishment of religion.

The Supreme Court did not take God out of the classrooms as some have proclaimed. All the court did was to say that the state cannot be involved in religion through the prescribing of a prayer. The court may be as quick to condemn the attempt of a state to forbid personal prayer in a classroom. The essential point is that the individual, of whatever faith, must not be forbidden to pray silently in the classroom, and must not be forced to pray with others. Those who clammer loudest for official ordering of prayers should consider their position were the official prayers to be directed to Mohammed, Allah, Buddha, or some other conception of Diety other than God.

What Does The Law Do?

Common Cause is, of course, disappointed that the Department of Justice has withdrawn its erstwhile support of the new campaign financing law in a court challenge to the law's constitutionality. It does not follow that this is an entirely bad turn of events.

The important thing is that the constitutionality of the law placing restrictions on campaign financing should be established without question. This end may well be best served by the Justice Department's not arguing in support of the law's provisions but instead examining several aspects of the matter in a friend-of-the-court brief.

Some think that First Amendment guarantees of freedom of expression may be infringed by the $1,000 limit on individual contributions. This and other questions are not matters to be shrugged off, however much proponents of the new law may deplore attacks on its constitutionality.

The law's defenders — not only Common Cause, but also the Center for Public Financing of Elections and the newly appointed Federal Elections Commission itself — have ample resources and legal talent to mount a solid defense. The constitutionality of the law will be vigorously argued, and that is as it should be. The people need to know what the law really says and does.

News In The Valley

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

Texas is such a big state, though I'm sure non-Texans grow weary of our saying it, that there are many places in which I have never been. I never stopped to sit down and count the counties in which I have not set foot, but I would guess that there's only a fourth or fifth of the 254 which I have never seen.

FOR INSTANCE, somehow I've missed the Eagle Pass pocket, hitting Laredo and Del Rio on either side. Except for an excursion into the Big Bend park (principally the Basin), I've not traversed the country from Del Rio to El Paso. Until a few years ago I had never actually set foot in the Rio Grande Valley, and I must confess I kept looking for those distant mountains on either side, which would have made it seem a valley. Except for traversing the Coastal plain around Victoria, my visits to the Texas coast from Corpus to Galveston are missing. And so it goes.

Quitque Valley, once a favorite camping ground of the Comanches, and perhaps other tribes. Frequently, the newsletter brings on someone who has experimented successfully with a new crop. The current issue tells about "Bill Curry's success with tomatoes." He got so many calls that he sat down and memographed his procedure for the bit of magic horticulture.

The letter also tells that Cottonwood Lake was the hot spot with numerous large catches, mostly big black bass, plus channel cat. A new women's organization just staged a big Arts and Crafts Bazaar at the end of May.

TRAFFIC AT Lake Theo Park site (named for Theo Geisler, a benefactor who built the dam and on whose lands the picturesque body of water is located) is picking up. There's a campaign to get it named a state park.

The new First Baptist Church auditorium is progressing steadily, (the church also is remodeling a school building it purchased) and work is going along at the Community Center. There's a new home going up, too.

One of the big events coming up is the Quitque Homecoming Aug. 2, and there have been replies from as far as Mesa, Ariz.

Quitque turned up a couple of state finalists in tennis.

THUS IT goes with the publication, from touting the Aoudad sheep hunting (the nearest thing this side of Alaska to wild goat hunting), raising peanuts, corn, serving the soil, talking about new homes, boosting the school and the community and the valley. I sort of think I'd like Quitque as much as I do "Comings, Goings, and Doings."

MOST OF WEST Texas I consider that I know fairly well, at least where towns and communities are. But there's one place I have a hankering to visit one of these days. It's Quitque.

The reason for this, I am sure, is the monthly news letter, "Comings, Goings & Doings," which is "published occasionally" by the First National Bank of that city. You don't get a lot about the bank in this compendium, but it's not exactly a money-changer stuck somewhere out in the sticks. Indeed, the last call showed deposits just a hair under $9 million. They had peaked at $9,238,700 a year ago following a peak agricultural year.

BUT "COMINGS, Goings & Doings" majors on news of the

Abyss Ahead

Marquis Childs

BRUSSELS — Having pledged allegiance to NATO at least three times a day with every outward sign of sincerity, the Ford-Kissinger team moved on to confront the reality given only glancing notice in this exercise in Western summitry.

BUT THE DARK threat of conflict in the Middle East would not down. Like Banquo's ghost, it hovered over the conference table as an irrepensible reminder of the abyss ahead.

The presidents and the prime ministers assembled here know full well what a new war and another oil embargo would mean. The unity of the West, celebrated with such pomp and ceremony, would be shattered and the United States, totally committed to the defense of Israel, isolated.

It was not the debacle of Vietnam that concerned the allies so much as the duality of American foreign policy in the tug of war between Congress and the Executive.

AS IT HAS SO often before, the American system of divided powers — the division today greater, perhaps than ever before — baffles Europeans.

For Secretary of State Henry Kissinger the gap between Capitol

Hill and the White House is not so much baffling as profoundly frustrating.

He has moved about Europe in the past 10 days with the speed of light and the articulation of a Daniel Webster-cum-Hubert Humphrey. It has been a truly remarkable performance.

SECRETARY KISSINGER has been constantly aware, however, that the authority asserted by Congress can undo the best-laid plans. The letter signed by 76 senators calling on President Ford for full and unconditional support for Israel was for Kissinger a painful embarrassment.

He noted with particular concern that the letter stressed Israel's requirement for "secure and defensible borders." That would be interpreted in Jerusalem as meaning the present borders, including all the Arab territory occupied after the 1967 war. This appears to be the interpretation jubilant Israeli officials are putting on the letter.

TAKEN LITERALLY, the fiat from the Senate left no room for the kind of flexible give-and-take that was Kissinger's objective in his shuttle diplomacy seeking an Israeli-Egyptian accord.

Finally, sin brings punishment in the form of blessings lost, both here (Matt. 13:58) and hereafter (2 Corinthians 5:10).

I guess then the answer to your question is both yes and no. But keep in mind that the main purpose of punishment — both theological and ethical — is not something vindictive, nor even the reformation of the offender, but the principle of God's justice.

Our church as a very active and outspoken Sunday School class. For many months, a big controversy has been brewing over the question of whether or not God punishes us for sins. Maybe we create the punishment ourselves. Can you settle this?

It was Henry Ward Beecher who said, "The whole of life and experience goes to show that right or wrongdoing, whether as to the physical or the spiritual nature, is sure in the end to meet its appropriate reward or punishment. Penalties may be delayed, but they are sure to come."

Now, I think we have to distinguish among three things. First, the punishment for sin as a judgment of God. This would be inevitable for all of us, were it not for the offer Jesus Christ makes to take the punishment and penalty in our place (1 Peter 2:24).

Secondly, the results of sin in our bodies. As you know, the most sound conversion will probably not set aside the physical impairments of a previous life of drinking (Romans 1:27).

Lastly, sin brings punishment in the form of blessings lost, both here (Matt. 13:58) and hereafter (2 Corinthians 5:10).

I guess then the answer to your question is both yes and no. But keep in mind that the main purpose of punishment — both theological and ethical — is not something vindictive, nor even the reformation of the offender, but the principle of God's justice.

Senate Strips Ford

Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Gerald R. Ford is now focusing hard on his 1976 presidential campaign and is known to feel that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is his most probable — and strongest — Democratic opponent. He also believes Nelson Rockefeller might be denied the vice presidential nomination by the Republican national convention.

THOSE VIEWS, privately expressed by the President before his European trip, closely parallel public comments to newsmen on May 13 by his longtime friend and political adviser, Melvin R. Laird.

But while Laird's remarks were interpreted as typical Laidrian ploys to saddle the Democrats with Teddy Kennedy's problems and deflect conservative Republican opposition away from Ford and toward Rockefeller, the President himself is no political gamesman. His unadorned view is that Kennedy would probably be his strongest opponent and that, realistically, Republican delegates must be given final say on Rockefeller for vice president.

MR. FORD is known to believe Kennedy would have no trouble being nominated for President, if he is willing, and that nobody but Kennedy knows whether he will be. But the President feels the odds are that he will do it.

WHILE SOME White House aides regard Kennedy as highly vulnerable, the President considers him formidable opposition and probably the strongest candidate the Democrats could find. Mr. Ford has trouble precisely assessing the impact of Chappaquiddick, regarding it as an issue that should not be talked about by the Republicans but that speaks for itself — with the verdict of the voters unknown.

As for the Republican ticket, Mr. Ford in private does not qualify his support for Rockefeller as vice president. He feels Rockefeller was the most qualified man to be vice president, has performed extremely well in the post and would not be a political liability on the ticket.

NEVERTHELESS, the President carefully avoids a flat forecast that Rockefeller will be his running mate in 1976. Mr. Ford is saying that, to be realistic, the delegates to the national convention in 1976 are going to make the final decision — though, of course, that never has been the case in the Republican party.

IN CONTRAST to Laird's suggestions that a conservative challenge against Rockefeller by Ronald Reagan might clear the air, however, there is no hint Mr. Ford is trying to deflect conservative opposition away from himself and toward his vice president. The President did not discuss the matter with Laird before his May 13 remarks, though it did come up briefly in a subsequent conversation between them.

The President does not know whether Reagan will in the end actually challenge him for President. He feels that a Ford state-by-state campaign organization and strong fundraising, coupled with favorable international and domestic developments, will make a challenge for the nomination seem less attractive for Reagan when his decision has to be made.

THE DEADLINE for Reagan's decision, the President feels, may come in early autumn. By then, Mr. Ford believes Reagan will have to start collecting delegates — a process the President intends to have started for himself this summer.

Mr. Ford is known to believe he cannot stay out of presidential primary contests — including some Southern states — particularly if Reagan does run. He is organizing and was cheered by his reception in North Carolina.

Time Off With Pay

John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Paid vacations are getting longer. This might seem to be a distorted reflection of the present economic scene, with millions looking for work and not finding it and others unable to afford a vacation even if paid. But it is indisputable fact.

A survey of corporation vacation practices in 1964 showed only 2 per cent permitted paid vacations of up to five weeks. A similar survey about a decade later showed the percentage at 28. And the six-week vacation had arrived.

The Conference Board, which conducted both surveys of about 1,800 concerns, found that paid time off costs companies the equivalent of an average 8.2 per cent of payroll in 1973, up more than one per cent in six years.

Vacations and days off for personal affairs also may be getting more frequent. Time off for birthdays, and floating holidays, to be used when and as desired, are among the innovations.

The notion of paid time off has come a long way from the early days of the Industrial Revolution, which was supposed to have put machinery to work in behalf of mankind but which may have affected just the opposite.

Time off with pay apparently now is becoming one of those inalienable worker rights.

One of the biggest changes found by the board, which describes itself as a private, nonprofit educational and research organization, was the addition of two paid holidays in the past decade.

Most companies now recognize six standard holidays and three more that vary with the employer. New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas are standard almost everywhere.

No other single day was specified by a majority in the study, but the most commonly named were: Thanksgiving Friday, Good Friday, Washington's Birthday, Veterans Day, Columbus Day and a day before or after Christmas.

While it is true that a growing number of companies now grant five-and-six-week annual vacations with pay, the average company's maximum still remains close to four weeks.

In most companies, the board found, that is the reward for a minimum of 20 years of service. Typically, 10 years of service usually earns a worker three weeks of paid vacation time.

Nonoffice workers are treated less generously than office workers in the category of nonleisure paid time. Coverage of jury service and bereavement leave, almost universal for both categories, is widespread, but then the differences appear.

Office workers generally are paid during time off because of trial witness service, military duty for summer encampments and civil emergencies, voting and for medical and dental appointments.

That Recurring Cystitis

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me what causes cystitis? I have been troubled with this off and on for two years. My urologist put me on medication. How much water should I be drinking a day?

I ask my doctor what causes this, and he tells me he doesn't know. X-rays don't show anything. — Mrs. L. R.

This is inflammation of the bladder, and there are two general types of infection involved, an "ascending" and a "descending" type. In the ascending variety the organism, usually a bacteria, moves upward in the urinary tract through the urethra to the bladder. Thus, urethritis often accompanies this type of cystitis.

In the descending infection, the organism originates in the kidneys and descends into the bladder via the urinary duct. The ascending type seems to be the most common. Here, the origin of the infection is at the exterior. The offending organism is often the colon bacillus. Some women will have bouts of cystitis after intercourse. Thus the recurrence.

A recent report on this aspect suggested the use of an antibiotic for a day or two after sexual relations. It might be practical in cases where intercourse is infrequent. You might discuss this with your doctor. It is possible to identify the specific organism causing the infection, which I assume has been done in your case. The medication you mention taking is to combat that organism.

Once it has disappeared, then emphasis on careful hygiene should be observed. A normal liquid intake (a quart or more a day) should suffice in your case. Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please tell me what ferrous sulfate is? Why would a person be taking this? Is it harmful to the teeth? How long should a person take it? — J. M.

The "ferrous" part of the term means "iron-containing," a possible tip-off as to what it is used for mainly. It is commonly prescribed in cases of iron deficiency anemia. Iron is a major constituent of hemoglobin, the substance that gives red blood cells their color.

It should be administered only with a doctor's supervision — and not be taken on an empty stomach, but preferably after a meal. The medication will tend to turn stools a dark green, even blackish, which is to be expected. I know of no harm it can do to the teeth, except that in liquid form it can stain natural teeth or dentures.

We Hold These Truths... A Chronicle of America

June, 1775:

Newly returned to Philadelphia as a delegate to the Second Continental Congress, and profoundly affected by the events in Lexington and Concord, John Adams writes his friend John Gill: "I find that the general sense abroad [here] is to prepare for a vigorous defensive war, but at the same time to keep open the Door of reconciliation; to hold the sword in one hand and the olive branch in the other; to proceed with warlike measures and conciliatory measures pari passu. . . . In my opinion, powder and artillery are the most efficacious, sure, and infallible conciliatory measures we can adopt."

Conviction Reversed

An Andrews physician sentenced last August on eight counts of unlawfully dispensing drugs had his conviction reversed by a federal appeals court in New Orleans Monday.

The case of Dr. Henry Thomas Leigh, was reviewed by the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. It charged that during Leigh's trial, U. S. Dist. Judge Dorwin W. Suttle's charge to the jury was worded poorly and was possibly misleading.

ASCS Office To Begin Taking Applications

The Howard County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service will begin taking applications for several conservation practices under the 1975 Agricultural Conservation Program starting June 8, 1975, according to Tim D. Hall, new County Executive Director.

Practices included in the program are grass seeding, brush control, tanks for livestock water, terraces, diversion terraces, waterways, and wells and water storage facilities.

According to Hall, the practices will be approved on a need and priority basis and the approved applications will be serviced at 50 per cent of the actual cost up to a certain amount approved by the County Committee. The only exception is for waterways, which are serviced at 75 per cent.

Hall said that the County Committee will meet June 19 to consider applications.

He also pointed out that June 15 is the deadline for planting cotton under the disaster provisions. Any cotton that cannot be planted before that date will be eligible for a prevented planting request. July 1 is the final date to request the prevented planting provision.

July 1 is the deadline for planting grain sorghum. Any grain sorghum not planted by that time will be eligible for the prevented planting provision.

Jurors Are Due For Pay Boost

AUSTIN — Persons serving on juries will get a pay raise under a bill passed by the Senate and sent to the governor to become law.

Jurors serving in any state court would be paid from $5 to $30 per day under the bill (HB 671) sponsored by Reps. Ed Watson and Gene Jones of Houston. Counties will decide on the rate of pay.

No state court now pays more than $10 per day of service, and justice courts only pay $3 for a full day's work. Compensation is paid by the county.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena carried the bill in the Senate which approved the bill on the local and uncontested calendar.

Recording Stars Will Appear In Kerrville

KERRVILLE — The big July 3-4-5 Kerrville C&W Jamboree will provide country music fans with a chance to see Bobby Bare, Freddy Fender and more than a dozen other national recording stars in person over the three day holiday week-end at Rod Kennedy's Quiet Valley Ranch near the Texas Hill Country resort community of Kerrville.

Both Bobby Bare and Freddy Fender appear on the Jamboree's second night to provide a 4th of July family concert which will start at 6 p.m. at the outdoor theater where fans bring lawn chairs and enjoy beer and barbecue under the stars while listening to their Nashville favorites.

Bobby Bare appears with his own band and has been turning out such hits as "Detroit City" and "Come Sundown" and more recently "Daddy What If" recorded with Bobby Jr. and his current hit "Back In Huntsville Again".

Appearing on the same 4th of July concert with Bare and Fender will be veteran performer Red Sovine who replaced Hank Williams on the Louisiana Hayride in 1949 and who recently starred at the International Music Festival in England. Also appearing that night are La Costa ("He Took Me For A Ride") and "Get On My Love Train", Moe Bandy ("Honky Tonk Amnesia") and "Don't Anybody Make Love at Home Any More" and Crystal Gayle ("Wrong Road Again") and "Beyond You") as well as Nashville fiddle star Johnny Gimble.

Stars appearing other Jamboree nights include Mickey Gilley, Hank Thompson, Johnny Bush, Stoney Edwards, Red Steagall, Connie Cato and more. For ticket and camping information write Jamboree, Box 5309, Austin 78763.

BUTTER-UP — Chorus girls and dixieland bands kick off a courtesy campaign for resort employees in this tourist mecca, Tuesday. The theme of the Miami Beach, Fla., campaign is "tourists are our bread and butter — butter 'em up." Mayor Harold Rosen says the campaign was begun after officials received complaints from conventioners about rude treatment from cabbies and restaurant workers.

Kleasen Receives Death Sentence For Butchering

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Robert Kleasen must be put to death, a jury decided in only 21 minutes Tuesday, for murdering and butchering a Mormon missionary last Oct. 28 at his trailer behind a taxidermy shop.

Kleasen was convicted of killing Mark Fischer, 19, of Milwaukee, Wis. He also is accused of killing Fischer's missionary companion, Gary Darley, 20, of Simi Valley, Calif., but he was tried only in the Fischer murder.

"I feel sorry for Mr. Kleasen," Darley's father, David, said after the death verdict. "I'm sorry for what's been done. We miss our son."

deliberating on whether to give Kleasen life imprisonment or death, the Darleys walked up to Kleasen, separated only by a low wall.

"Why did you kill my son?" Mrs. Darley asked. "I didn't kill your son," Kleasen replied.

The father shook hands with Kleasen and said, "The Lord will have the final judgment."

It was the same hand, the state contended, that Kleasen used to push the son's head through a taxidermist's band saw.

Kleasen wrote to another missionary, Blair Bell of San Antonio, less than two months before Darley and Fischer were slain.

"I want blood...I want their heads," Kleasen wrote in one letter.

He told the jury he did not mean the words literally, that it was a dispute he was having with church leaders over an incident in Denmark.

This apparently was a reference to a woman-beating incident in Denmark that the prosecution mentioned briefly Tuesday morning before the judge prevented further questions on an indictment against Kleasen in that country.

Kleasen said. Defense attorney Pat Ganne asked the jury for mercy. "You have no moral right to take his life," he said. "Can you right that wrong by killing another person?"

"Everybody is down on him," Smith said in his final argument. "Everybody is against him. He has a hostility you can feel ten feet away. And I wonder what he thinks about your treatment of him yesterday by your verdict."

"Everybody believes in capital punishment in a proper case," Smith said. "I submit to you this is a proper case. Do you believe in self-defense or not? He has been in hospitals, and they didn't keep him. He's been in jail. Society needs protection from him."

Smith contended Kleasen killed to revenge himself against the Mormon church, which Kleasen thought deserted him when he spent several months in rural Texas jails on a buffalo rustling charge and while awaiting possible extradition to New York.

SENT TO CONGRESS Fed Rules Barring Sex Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal rules barring sex discrimination in virtually all the nation's schools and colleges were sent to Congress today after being approved by President Ford.

The new rules require equal treatment for males and females in admissions, financial aid, classrooms and athletics.

Fearing that the rules will prompt a flood of new sex discrimination complaints, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare proposed new procedural regulations which would relieve the agency of the obligation to investigate individual complaints within a 90-day deadline.

HEW officials said the proposed change would permit its 550 civil rights investigators to look for patterns of sex, racial or national origin discrimination.

The proposed procedural regulations will be published in the Federal Register Wednesday. Comments on the proposal will be received by the department until July 19.

The sweeping anti-sex discrimination rules would have a dramatic impact on the operation of all public schools and undergraduate colleges receiving federal funds. They would not tackle the issue of sex stereotyping in textbooks, an issue raised repeatedly by feminist organizations.

Congress will have the power to veto the proposed regulations within 45 days after receiving them.

The rules become effective July 21 unless Congress rejects them. Elementary schools have a one-year mandate to comply; high schools and colleges three years.

Under the rules, schools and colleges would not be required to spend equal amounts of money on women's and men's athletics but would be barred from discrimination on the basis of sex.

The final draft of new sex discrimination rules says that athletics may be provided through separate teams for males and females or through a single team open to both sexes where competitive skill is involved.

"If separate teams are offered, a recipient institution may not discriminate on the basis of sex in provision of necessary equipment or supplies, or in any other way, but equal aggregate expenditures are not required," the new regulations say.

"The goal of the final regulations in the area of athletics is to secure equal opportunity for males and females while allowing schools and colleges flexibility in determining how best to provide such opportunity."

The new rules indicate that where men are afforded opportunities for athletic scholarships women also should be given the same opportunities.

The rules will apply to virtually all public school systems, as well as most public and private colleges receiving federal funds of any kind. Private elementary schools and high schools will be exempt, unless they receive federal funds.

Under a draft sent to Ford Feb. 28 by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Caspar W. Weinberger, the schools would have to treat males and females equally in athletics, housing, dress codes and financial assistance.

Under the draft, elementary and secondary schools would be forbidden from separating boys and girls into shop and home economics classes or from maintaining sexually separate vocational schools.

At both the school and college level, coed physical education classes would be required, although the draft would permit separating the sexes in contact sports and when sex education is provided.

The most controversial sections of the proposed rules deal with sports. The National Collegiate Athletic Association calls those provisions too strong and a threat to big-time college sports.

Schools and colleges generally would have to provide female students with comparable opportunities to participate in sports, although equal spending on athletic scholarships would not be required.

The NCAA has tried without success to obtain a congressional waiver for big-money campus sports such as football and basketball. It claims these sports would be drained of their resources.

The National Organization of Women, joined by 12 other groups, has criticized the draft for failing to prohibit sexism in elementary and secondary textbooks, biased fringe benefits for school employees and discriminatory admissions policies in private colleges.

Proposed Coliseum Is Discussed At Meeting

Rotarians Tuesday were given a detailed description of the proposed new coliseum that would be located at the Howard College campus. Dr. Charles Hays, president of the college, showed slides of the building. Construction hinges on the passage of a $1.5 million bond issue June 19.

Dr. Hays said the building would contain 78,600 square feet and normally could seat 3,300 people. With the addition of chairs, some 4,500 could be accommodated for theatrical productions. It would be a multi-purpose building with primary consideration given to college functions but available to the community on a first-come, first serve basis.

Touching on the history of Howard College, Dr. Hays said that in nearly 30 years, patrons have been asked to approve only four bond issues and that these totaled only about one and a half million dollars. The college district owes only about $500,000, much lower than the state average.

He said the election would include authority to raise the tax to 60 cents per hundred based on 25 per cent actual value. He showed the tax bill of a middle income type house and asserted the bond issue would raise the tax less than $6 per year.

Lowell Jones and Ben Johnson were program chairmen for the day. Johnson introduced Hays.

President Jimmy Taylor reminded members that the installation banquet would be June 24 at the Big Spring Country club. There will be no noon meeting that day.

9TH LOSS IN 10

Orioles Shade Rangers, 6-3

By The Associated Press

Dick Pole, an unheralded right-hander from Trout Creek, Mich., thinks he's found the secret to success in the major leagues.

He's always had the arm and now he's got the eye, too. He's switched to contact lenses.

"I think the contact lenses are a big help because I see the plate much better now," said Pole after pitching Boston past Chicago 4-0 Tuesday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, Kansas City dumped Cleveland 5-2, Milwaukee shaded Oakland 5-4, Baltimore defeated Texas 6-3, New York edged Minnesota 5-4, and Detroit downed California 8-4.

Pole, who donned his recently acquired contacts for the first time Tuesday night, has been on and off, mostly off, with the Red Sox since 1973.

He had never pitched a complete game before, but on the strength of his three-hit, eight-strikeout shutout, he appears set in Boston's starting rotation, for a while anyway.

Rookie Jim Rice provided Pole with all the offense he needed by clubbing a three-run homer off Lloyd Allen, 0-1, in the first inning. It was Rice's ninth homer of the season. Juan Benitez singled home an insurance run in the fifth.

ROYALS 5, INDIANS 2
John Mayberry knocked in two runs with a homer and single and Al Cowens contributed a two-run single as Kansas City made it 10 victories in the last 11 games. Dennis Leonard, 2-1, won it with a six-hitter and Fritz Peterson, 4-5, lost it.

BREWERS 5, A's 4
Pedro Garcia hit a two-run double and John Briggs raced home with the game-winning on a wild pitch by Richard Todd in the sixth for Milwaukee. Reggie Jackson homered for the A's who dropped out of first, one-half game behind the Kansas City, in the AL West.

ORIOLES 6, RANGERS 3
Dave Duncan backed the nine-hit pitching of Mike Torrez with a three-run homer and Tommie Davis and Lee May added run-scoring singles for Baltimore. Torrez, 6-3, picked up his first win since May 14. The Rangers, who lost for the ninth time in 10 games, played without disgruntled outfielder Willie Davis, who never showed up for the game.

YANKEES 5, TWINS 4
Bobby Bonds blasted his 12th homer of the season and Alex Johnson pinch-hit a two-run double in the eighth for New York. Bonds' homer marked the 29th time in his career he has led off with a home run in his team's first at-bat, breaking the major league record he shared with Eddie Yost. Steve Brye and Rod Carew homered for Minnesota.

TIGERS 8, ANGELS 5
Detroit exploded for five runs in the ninth to win it. Bill Freehan and Dan Meyer singled home on run each and Gary Sutherland knocked in two. Willie Horton homered, his 12th, for Detroit and Lee Stanton hit one for California.

Elks Turn Back Yanks In Texas

The Elks turned back the Yankees, 8-5, in Texas Teen-Age Junior Division action Tuesday. In Senior play Saturday, Bob Brock Ford settled the Optimists, 4-3.

The Elks won the game in the bottom of the tenth as Mitch Harris unloaded a three-run homer. The score was tied 7-7 at the end of the regulation seventh frame.

Both clubs utilized two pitchers, James Pinkard and Billy Johnson for the Yanks and Harris and Mark Vieira for the Elks.

The Yanks scoring threat was ended on an outstanding line drive catch by the Elks' Gary Howell. He then threw to first for a double play.

Mike Harris evened his record at 1-1 as he twirled a two-hitter in stopping the Optimists.

Controversial Davis May Be Leaving Club

BALTIMORE (AP) — Texas Rangers manager Billy Martin said Tuesday night that controversial centerfielder Willie Davis would be traded after Davis failed to show up for Tuesday night's game with the Baltimore Orioles.

Rangers general manager Dan O'Brien, who confirmed Martin's statement, said he would "probably know something definite" today.

Martin waited until one hour and 15 minutes before game time before writing a lineup that did not include Davis. A club spokesman said Davis did not accompany the team to Baltimore Monday and had not been heard from since an apparent message disagreement with owner Brad Corbett Sunday night. Neither Davis nor Corbett could be reached for comment.

O'Brien said, "A couple of days ago, it didn't appear that we could make a deal for him. Now a couple of teams seem pretty eager to talk about Davis."

A team source indicated Tuesday night that two National League teams are interested in Davis.

O'Brien indicated that he had received American League and major league waivers on Davis about two weeks ago, even before

Knicks To Take On League Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The New York Knicks take on the rest of the National Basketball Association today.

"It kind of looks that way," said Bill Russell, coach and general manager of the Seattle Super Sonics, when asked if there's a united front against the Knicks.

New York's signing last week of American Basketball Association star George McGinnis has the other 17 NBA clubs stirred up, particularly the Philadelphia 76ers who hold NBA draft rights to the big forward.

"It could ruin the league," said Coach Larry Costello of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The NBA's 18-man Board of Governors, composed of owners or their representatives, opened a two-day meeting today. The McGinnis issue is expected to be taken up Thursday.

The league's coaches and general managers met Tuesday, with the general managers adopting a resolution urging new NBA Commissioner Lry O'Brien to take "strong and decisive action" against New York. The coaches voted in support of the resolution.

"We were just putting in our two cents worth," said Coach Bill Van Breda Kolff of New Orleans. "But the vote was 17 to 1."

It could be just as one-sided in the owners' meeting, with Philadelphia's Irv Kosloff pressing for action against the Knicks which presumably would include the league refusing to recognize the signing of McGinnis, ABA scoring champion who played four seasons with the Indiana Pacers.

There have been similar cases in the past, with teams signing players on other team's negotiation lists. Another ABA star, Julius Erving, was signed by the Atlanta Hawks and used in two exhibition games in 1972 although the Bucks held NBA rights to negotiate with him.

The Hawks were fined $50,000 by former commissioner Walter Kennedy who refused to approve the contract. But the Hawks reportedly received $400,000 from the New York Nets of the ABA when they gave up Erving in a rare interleague deal.

Milwaukee's request for compensation from Atlanta is another item on the meeting agenda here.

Davis took off his glove and squatted in the outfield at Arlington Stadium last week while pitcher Steve Hargan threw to two batters against Boston. The waivers mean that no team in either league can claim Davis for the $20,000 dollar waiver, leaving Texas free to negotiate a trade in either league.

O'Brien said Davis had been granted several salary advances this season and apparently decided not to show up in Baltimore when Corbett refused another such request last weekend.

O'Brien said, "Willie came to Brad and myself Sunday night with another request for an advancement. We've been exceedingly lenient with the guy since last winter on all matters pertaining to his financial affairs. But at some point you've got to draw the line. He can't expect to be treated any differently from any of the other players. Everyone else is paid on the first and the 15th."

O'Brien added, "But he told us when we refused him that he wouldn't be playing for us again. He didn't appear to be angry about it. Really, Willie never gets angry about anything."

Cubs Contained By Alexandria

By The Associated Press

Jackson scored nine runs in the fifth inning of a game with El Paso Tuesday night to win that contest 13-10. In other Texas League baseball action, Lafayette beat San Antonio 4-3, Alexandria defeated Midland 5-4, and Shreveport thumped Arkansas 5-1.

El Paso had two home runs in its losing effort, one by Dave Christiansen in the fifth, and another by Paul Dade in the eighth. Jackson's fifth-inning burst was keyed by a three-run triple by Jim Kidder, and another three-run triple by Mike Agosto. Tom Tyler was credited with the win, while Tom Whiteley was the loser.

Shreveport's nine-hit attack against Arkansas included an RBI double by Mitchell Page, and a home run by Tom Thomas. Shreveport lefthander Steve Williams coasted to his first victory with relief help from Randy Hopkins. They threw a combined five-hitter against Arkansas. The Travelers' lone run was driven in the sixth inning by Doug Clary, Steve Waterbury took the loss.

Tucker Ashford drove in the winning run for Alexandria, scoring Mike Dupree in the eighth inning of a contest with Midland. Dupree had singled home Jim Wilhelm to tie the game at 4-4. Julio Gonzales of Midland got three singles. Frank Snook was credited with the victory, while Bruce Sutter got the loss.

Tonight's schedule has Jackson again at El Paso, Lafayette at San Antonio, Midland at Alexandria and Shreveport at Arkansas.

Snead Tries Open Again

By The Associated Press

Sam Snead may never give up on the U.S. Open, though it's given up on him often enough.

Snead earned the right on Tuesday to continue his chase for the U.S. Open title, which has eluded him for 31 years in almost every fashion possible.

The 63-year-old Slammin' Sammy opened qualifying at Charlotte, N.C., with a 66 on the 6,881-yard par-72 Myers Park Country Club course and carded a 76 on the Charlotte Country Club's 6,729-yard par-71 layout.

His 142 total was well under the 145 cutoff point for 50 golfers who qualified at Charlotte.

Qualifying also was held Tuesday at Chicago, where seven will move on to the June 1922 Open at Medinah, Ill.; Detroit with three qualifiers; Greenwich, Conn., with 10, and Pittsburgh with five.

Mets Whack Astros, 4-3

By The Associated Press

Ron Reed didn't know where he was going ... but he certainly had the right direction on his pitches.

Reed, a long-time member of the Atlanta Braves, started against his old teammates Tuesday night as a member of the St. Louis Cardinals and admitted almost walked into the wrong dugout by sheer force of habit.

But he got straightened out after a while, and so did his pitches, as he led the Cardinals to a 4-2 victory.

"A couple of times after the third inning I started toward the Atlanta dugout," Reed said. "Then I said, 'Wait a minute. You're wearing the white uniform tonight.'"

CUBS 6, GIANTS 5
Bill Madlock, who tied the score with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, greeted reliever Dave Heaverlo with a run-scoring double in the 10th to lead Chicago past San Francisco. Madlock's game-winning hit scored Don Kessinger, who had walked and moved to second base on a sacrifice.

Phillies 12, Padres 1
Mike Schmidt and Greg Luzinski tagged a pair of home runs and drove in nine runs between them as Philadelphia beat San Diego.

"This is something we've been waiting for — a bust-out," said Luzinski, who knocked in four runs and boosted his home run total to 10 for the season.

"I feel like I'm the Mike Schmidt of last year," said Schmidt, whose 36 homers led the majors in 1974. Schmidt, shaking an early slump, has been on a hitting rampage of late and Tuesday night's homers were his eighth and ninth of the year.

REDS 8, PIRATES 4
Joe Morgan belted a bases-loaded triple in the fourth inning to lead Cincinnati and Gary Nolan over Pittsburgh.

DODGERS 6, Expos 5
Dave Lopes' two-run double in the eighth inning provided the winning runs as Los Angeles' Don Sutton became the National League's first 10-game winner with his victory over Montreal.

METS 4, ASTROS 3
Dave Kingman walloped a three-run homer and Bob Apodaca provided sparkling relief work to help New York beat Houston.

Hogan Is Glad Nicklaus Is Breaking His Records

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ben Hogan leaned forward for eye-to-eye contact with his visitor to make certain there would be no misunderstanding on what he was about to say.

"I'm glad Jack Nicklaus is breaking my records because he is a superb golfer," Hogan said. "What a credit to the game of golf this man is. He has built his game since he was a child.

"He has a strong body and is a vicious competitor. And, of course, there is his concentration. You only get that through one thing — practice."

Hogan relaxed back in his leather office chair. Then he added, of Nicklaus, "He's a very nice man."

The once-feared Texas Hawk doesn't hand out compliments just because they look nice in print. And when he speaks of the game he loves and once dominated, he speaks precisely. His comments on Nicklaus were his first public statements on the man who dominates the game today.

Hogan, 62, now directs his golf equipment company and presides over construction of a new golf course. He has given up competitive golf.

As a subject, Nicklaus was a natural because Hogan has come closer than any other man to winning professional golf's "Grand Slam." Nicklaus, who recently won the Masters and has 15 major titles, is considered the biggest threat today to accomplish the Slam, in what would be the greatest feat ever in golf.

Hogan said the Slam will be made. "Somebody will surely do it, and I hope they do, because it would be a great thing for the game. Who knows? The fellow may not be born yet or he might be a rabbit out there trying to make a living on the tour. It can happen."

Hogan is the only player ever to win in one year three of the four championships which make up the Grand Slam, and he didn't play in the fourth — the PGA — in 1953 because of his injured knee, suffered in a car accident that almost claimed his life.

"Nicklaus, of course, is very capable of winning the Slam," said Hogan, who stepped out of competitive golf four years ago.

The man who concentrates much of his time and energy in building his new golf course, marvels at the concentration of Nicklaus. The same trait carried Hogan to scores of tournament victories, and he said he was delighted to see Nicklaus break his Masters record several springs ago.

"That's what they are supposed to be doing," he said. "Records are being broken in every sport and certainly golf shouldn't be standing still. Golf must progress."

"I know a lot of them are starting up where I left off."

"Golf must have its leaders to draw the imagination of the public. Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf — players like that — to stimulate interest like Arnold Palmer in the 1960s.

Goodwin Expected To Be Top Free Agent Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Catcher Danny Goodwin of Southern University was expected to be the first player chosen today in baseball's summer free agent draft.

The California Angels owned the opening choice and were expected to go for Goodwin, a native of Peoria, Ill. who passed up the pros to attend college.

Goodwin was selected by the Chicago White Sox in 1971 after his high school graduation, but chose to stay in school. After being listed in the secondary phase of the player pool for two drafts, his name returned to the regular draft list for the current selection round.

In the regular phase of the draft the available players are those eligible to be drafted for the first time or players who have gone 13 months since their original selection. Goodwin falls in the latter category. The order of selection in that phase is based on reverse order of the previous season's won-loss records.

The secondary phase deals with players drafted but not signed within the previous 13 months. Order of selection there is by lots.

After the Angels picked Goodwin the second choice belonged to the San Diego Padres, who were expected to select high school pitcher Mike Lantz from Kirkland, Wash.

"Everything being equal, right and left, we need a left-handed first," said Bob Fontaine, director of player personnel for the Padres. He called Lantz, "a good athlete and a lot closer to being a pitcher than some of these guys."

After California and San Diego open the draft's regular phase, Detroit will pick third followed in order by the Chicago Cubs, Milwaukee, the New York Mets, Cleveland, San Francisco, Kansas City, Montreal, the Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, Houston, Boston, St. Louis, Texas, Atlanta, the New York Yankees, Pittsburgh, Oakland, Cincinnati, Baltimore and Los Angeles.

In the secondary phase of the draft which is set for Thursday, Oakland owns the first choice followed by St. Louis, Minnesota, the Chicago Cubs, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, the Yankees, Philadelphia, the White Sox, San Francisco, Boston, Montreal, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Los Angeles, Kansas City, the Mets, California, San Diego, Texas and Houston.

Among the major league players who have come out of the June draft, are Johnny Bench, picked by Cincinnati in 1965, Reggie Jackson, selected by Oakland in 1966, and Steve Garvey, chosen by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1968.

Interest Mounts In TV Coverage

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said Tuesday he feels interest in professional sports has peaked and college sports are even more in demand now, particularly by the television networks.

"There are signals that spectator attendance and interest is shifting away from the pros and more toward the colleges," Byers said. "There has been tremendous interest in college sports on television and our NCAA basketball tournament was in the top three of the ratings. There was more interest in it than in professional basketball."

Byers told 100 members of the Associated Press Sports Editors Convention that spectator attendance had increased 83.5 per cent at collegiate football games in the past 20 years. He said there was a drop of one-tenth of one per cent last year, and attributed it to the economy more than a drop in interest.

"I think newspapers are taking a broader look at the sports spectrum," said Byers. "I believe pro sports has reached its crescendo and we have reached a time of change."

Byers said the NCAA was concerned that with an uncertain economy that its numerous games — might take away some of the exposure given the college game.

On other subjects, Byers said, "I believe major moves will be made economically," when a special NCAA session convenes in Chicago in August. "I have never seen so much unity to achieve a common objective ... and the greatest determination for money saving is in Division I among the major schools."

Byers said he felt economy cuts would include cutting down coaching staffs, the number of visits for schoolboy recruits, and cutting traveling squads.

Asked from the floor to comment on the illegal recruiting charged by some coaches, Byers said, "I don't believe there is any more cheating in recruiting than there used to be. We just have more investigative reporting going on which is bringing it to the surface."

"We should restrict multiple visits, beef up enforcement and have more effective penalties," said Byers, who added the NCAA would implement these procedures as soon as possible.

FOR LUBBOCK GAME JUNE 21

Teaff Completes West Roster

LUBBOCK — Baylor's Grant Teaff has completed his West squad for the 15th annual Coaches All-America Game scheduled June 21 in Texas Tech's Jones Stadium with the signing of 16 more college standouts.

Included in the group are two running backs, four offensive linemen, a tight end, five defensive backs, two linebackers, a defensive lineman and a kicking specialist.

The running backs are Willard Harrell, University of the Pacific, and Stan Winfrey, Arkansas State.

Harrell holds every rushing and scoring record at University of the Pacific and ranks 9th on the NCAA career rushing list with 3,324 yards in three years. The 6-0, 180-pounder was a first-team All-Pacific Coast performer and was second-team Associated Press All-America.

MIAMI PICK Winfrey was an All-Southland Conference selection at Arkansas State rushing for over 500 yards his senior year. The 6-1, 215-pound fullback, who is noted for his excellent blocking ability, was drafted by Miami in the second round.

The offensive linemen signed include Al Simpson, Colorado State; Marvin Crenshaw, Nebraska; Geoff Reece, Washington State; and Hank Englehardt, University of the Pacific.

The 6-5, 260-pound Simpson was a three-year starter for Colorado State and was an Honorable Mention All-Western Athletic Conference performer last year at offensive tackle.

Crenshaw anchored the offensive line that blocked for All-American quarterback David Humm. Drafted by Pittsburgh in the sixth round the 6-6, 240-pound tackle was made at the Kodak, UPI, and Football News All-American teams and was a consensus All-Big Eight selection. He was a two-year starter for the Cornhuskers, playing in three Bowl Games while at Nebraska.

was selected by New England in the first round.

AGGIE DEFENDER Heading the list of defensive signees are defensive backs Charles Phillips, University Southern California; Barry Hill, Iowa State; Mike Russell, Brigham Young; Tim Gray, Texas A&M; and Glenn Lott, Drake.

While at USC Phillips established an NCAA record for most interception return yardage in a season picking up 302 yards on seven returns last year. The future Oakland Raider also led the Pac 8 in interceptions with seven and was named to the Football Writers All-American team as well as being selected All-Pacific Coast.

Hill, a unanimous All-Big Eight selection, set conference records for career interceptions (21), interceptions in a season (9), and interceptions in a game (4). The 6-1, 190-pound safety was drafted by Miami.

A two-year starter at Brigham Young, Russell had 11 career interceptions and was named to the first-team All-Western Athletic Conference last year. The 5-11, 177-pounder led the team in pass deflections his junior and senior years.

Tim Gray, the number one draft choice of St. Louis, will also be in Teaff's defensive secondary. He was an All-Southwest Conference last year and was named to the third-team AP All-American unit. The 6-1, 200-pound cornerback is known as an exceptionally hard hitter. He made 24 unassisted tackles his senior year.

Rice's talented place-kicker Alan Pringle rounds out the West roster. Raised in Venezuela, the 6-0, 190-pounder had never seen a football game until a freshman in college. After walking-on at Rice, Pringle

Henderson was the "Defensive Player of the Year" in the Oklahoma Collegiate Conference and was selected by the AP, UPI and NAIA All-American squads. He led Langston in tackles three years from his defensive end spot but will probably be moved to linebacker as a pro. At 6-3, 225, Henderson has run the 40-yard dash in 4.5 seconds and the 100-yard dash in 9.6 seconds.

hit 27 of 28 PAT's and 20 of 29 field goal attempts in his career as an Owl. The tenth round draft choice of the Houston Oilers holds the school record for the longest field goal with a 50-yarder against TCU last year.

BATTLE TO STAY IN ARMY — Pfc. Barbara Randolph, 22, right, of Jeffersonville, Ind., and Pfc. Debbie Watson, 20, of San Antonio, Texas, appear at a news conference Tuesday in Boston to say they will fight Army efforts to have them dishonorably discharged. They say the Army action came after they confessed their homosexuality. They are stationed at Fort Devens, Mass.

Couple Gay WACs Tired Of Leading Double Life

BOSTON (AP) — Two WACs who confessed their homosexuality because they were "tired of leading a double life" say they will fight an effort by the Army to discharge them.

An Army spokesman at Fort Devens said Tuesday that the two women have already undergone an investigation which has recommended that they appear before an administrative board "for elimination from the service."

The spokesman said the board might be convened this week. Pfc. Barbara Randolph, 22, of Jeffersonville, Ind., and Pfc. Debbie Watson, 20, of San Antonio, Tex., told a news conference here that they will go to court if necessary to fight the effort to have them discharged from their Ft. Devens honor platoon.

First Division Band Ratings Won By Five

Twenty-nine Steer Band members attended State Solo and Ensemble Contest in Austin June 1-3.

The high-school musicians, their directors, and several sponsors left Big Spring Sunday for Austin where they dined on steak and saw a movie.

Each musician was critiqued Monday by a qualified judge and rated according to his or her musical style, tone and technique. Maridene Margolis, flute; Annabeth Deats, piano; and a flute trio consisting of Karen Fortson, Miki Reed, and Maridene Margolis were awarded first division ratings.

Pair Arrested For Gun Heist

ODESSA — Two Illinois men, Thomas Stephen Tucker, 22, and David Franklin Collingsworth, 22, have been arrested here in connection with the burglary of White's Auto Store in Midland.

Recovered were about 40 weapons, some of which were loaded, a suitcase full of ammunition and several television sets, radios and other appliances.

Bonds totaling $40,000 against each man were set. The two remained in the Ector County jail. Odessa detective Floyd Hudman said the two are wanted in Illinois where they are accused of burglary and jumping bond.

Link CIA To 'Plots' Of Murder

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, of the Senate Intelligence Committee said today he has hard evidence of "murders" developed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Church declined to give specific details and would not say whether any of the "plots" were carried out. But he was sharply critical of statements by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and other members of the Rockefeller Commission for characterizing transgressions of the CIA as infrequent and minor.

"I have been concerned about the apparent attempt of certain members of the Rockefeller Commission ... to lead the public to believe that any misdeeds of the CIA have been minor and that the agency has been relatively without guilt," Church told reporters at the National Press Club.

"I think the committee has heard enough and the Rockefeller Commission itself has heard enough evidence to substantiate my statements," Church added. He refused several times to go beyond his statement.

However, he said he did mean to refer to "plots" in the plural and to make clear his belief that Rockefeller and other commission members were attempting to leave a false and unjustified impression.

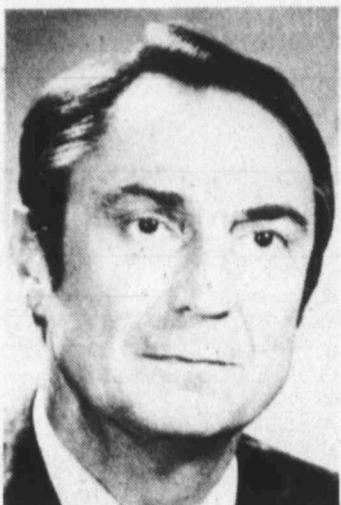

Church said he had not seen an advance copy of the Rockefeller Commission report, which is to be released publicly Sunday.

In announcing the completion of his commission's investigation of the CIA, Rockefeller said Monday it uncovered instances of wrongdoing but no pattern of widespread illegality.

"There are things that have been done which are in contradiction to the statutes," Rockefeller said, "but in comparison to the total effort, they are not major."

Reporters pressed Church on the matter, and he repeated that his committee has heard evidence of murder plots "and that the CIA has been implicated in this kind of activity."

Among those believed to have been questioned about alleged assassination conspiracies is CIA Director William Colby.

NEW POST — Lloyd L. Jaquier, Memphis, Tenn., has been group vice president in charge of marketing and operations for the agricultural chemicals group division of W.R. Grace & Co. The Big Spring plant will be under his jurisdiction. Jaquier formerly was general manager of domestic fertilizers for Grace.

Short's Bill To Governor

A bill sent to Gov. Dolph Briscoe would, under certain conditions, require a referendum on whether to permit weather modification attempts.

Sponsored by Rep. E. L. Short, Tahoka, the measure would require that 10 percent of the qualified voters in an area petition for the referendum within 10 days after publication of a permit application.

Sen. Ray Farabee, Wichita Falls, amended the measure to set up present holders under the three-year permit period. The bill is the result of efforts by some landowners in the Plainview area to block a hail-suppression project. They contended that seeding of clouds to minimize formation of hail might reduce normal rainfall.

A Sen. Farabee amendment also says that if as many as 25 petition, the State Water Development Board may call a hearing, after which it could report a finding that the proposed modification would materially dissipate the clouds. Otherwise, the permit would not be denied.

Two En Route To State Pen

Donny Ray Stovall, 30, Big Spring, and Don Gene Elam, 34, Sweetwater, were bound for state prison today.

Deputy sheriffs were preparing to transfer the two men to San Angelo where the prisoners will board a prison bus.

Stovall was sentenced to 15 years for attempted aggravated rape. Elam, convicted of forgery, was given a five-year sentence here, which will run concurrently with sentences assessed elsewhere.

Student Count Down By Four

Final enrollment figures for Big Spring schools showed 6,264 on May 29. This was down only four from the previous week. Lakeview lost four pupils to account for the bulk of the elementary drop of five to 3,267.

Secondary totals were off one at 2,850 (Goliad 617, Runnels 517 and Senior high 1,716). The hospital and homebound program had 147, up two. The year peaked with 6,520 pupils, which was half a dozen less than at the end of the previous year.

VA Recognizes Its Employees

Outstanding employees of the Big Spring VA Hospital will be recognized Thursday at 2 p.m. at the yearly awards ceremony.

Employees will be presented with service pins and other special awards at the meeting in room 219.

One Killed, Eight Injured

BASTROP, Tex. (AP) — One person was killed and eight others were injured Monday night when a car and a school bus carrying El Campo Junior High School pupils collided on Texas 71 between here and Smithville.

The Department of Public Safety said the driver of the car, Tommy Ray Reese, 40, of Smithville, was killed. A passenger in the car, the driver of the bus and six schoolchildren were injured, none seriously.

Author Dies

Church Becomes Link In Refugee Locations

The First Baptist Church of Big Spring has become a link between the local community and organizations handling the placement of South Vietnamese refugees, according to Minister of Activities Herb Shipp.

Shipp said that the coordination will be the main goal of the church, adding that local citizens can get in touch with any of the sponsoring organizations through the church, at 267-8223.

He said that his office will be working through the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board and also through the World Church Service and U.S. Catholic Conference.

Shipp said that he can be of service to persons or organizations who: —Want to sponsor a refugee individual or family.

—Might want to sponsor a refugee individual or family, but need more information.

—Have potential jobs for Vietnamese refugees.

—Have housing that the Vietnamese may rent.

—Have tried to sponsor an individual or family, but have not had any results from other organizations.

He said that most of the refugees that are available to be sponsored here are pilots who trained here and their families.

Shipp cited one example family which was willing to be sponsored as a whole or in two groups.

The first group includes a helicopter pilot, his wife, who was an administrative assistant, and four daughters ranging in age from one to nine years old.

The second part of the group includes a brother-in-law who is a medical doctor;

Reception Will Honor Bentsen

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen will be honored at a reception in Abilene Saturday morning, and all area constituents are invited to visit him.

The brief affair will be held at 9 a.m. at the Downtown in Abilene, and will continue for approximately an hour or more.

H. Clyde Smith Memorialized

The late H. Clyde Smith, one-time minister of the First United Methodist Church here and later superintendent of the Big Spring Methodist District, was among those memorialized in ceremonies at the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church in Lubbock Tuesday.

Ector Boosts Tax Ratio

ODESSA — Trustees of the Ector County Independent School District Tuesday increased the tax ratio on property from the current 49 per cent of market value to 55 per cent.

Exact extent of the tax increase will not be known until the rate is set. The budget won't be locked in until August.

Taxes are being boosted to meet inflationary costs and to compensate for the pay hike appropriated teachers recently by the state legislature.

Currently, the district pays $1,000 above the state level for teachers' salaries. The current school tax rate is $1.748 per $100 evaluation.

VFW Confirms New Officers

VFW Post 2013 held its regular meeting at the post home on Driver Road Tuesday evening.

After the regular meeting, officers for the coming year were confirmed. They included Bob Bowen, commander; Granville Miller, senior vice commander; Joe Edmondson, junior vice commander; George Kunkel, post quartermaster; J.H. Phares, adjutant; Fred Scott, service officer; C.B. (Buck) O'Neal, chaplain; M.H. Spivey, trustee for three years; Hoss Enger, trustee for two years; Ricky Robertson, trustee for one year.

Bowen and Robertson were named delegates to the state convention, which will be held in Fort Worth June 13-14-15.

Next regular meeting will be held July 1 at 8 p.m., at the post home with the district commander, Rudy Hernandez of Monahans, present.

Suggs Retires After Friday

J.I. (Jim) Suggs will be honored Friday afternoon at the Water Filtration plant on his last day with the city prior to retirement.

Officially, he retires July 1 after 20 years of service, but due to vacation time, actually works for the last time Friday.

Friends are invited to drop by during the afternoon, according to Bill Brown, director of utilities.

WORLD WAR II BOMBER CRASHES — A law enforcement officer examines the wreckage of a World War II B25 that crashed Tuesday near Dawsonville, Ga., killing two persons. A federal officer said "perhaps a ton" of marijuana was found scattered in a field about a mile from the wreckage. Authorities said they believe the marijuana was from an airdrop shortly before the plane crashed into a hillside.

Sixth Mishap By Dope Plane In Recent Months

DAWSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A World War II bomber which dumped about a ton of marijuana into a north Georgia field before crashing into a hillside was the sixth plane to crash or be seized while smuggling drugs into the Southeast in 10 months.

Two persons were killed in the crash early Tuesday. Their bodies were badly burned and authorities said they planned examinations today in an effort to identify the pair.

The Federal Aviation Administration said its records showed the plane once belonged to Ben Kerr III of Dallas, Tex. Kerr said he sold the plane in 1973 to Al Burchanal of Paris, Tex. Burchanal said he sold it last year. The FAA said it had no other registration for the aircraft.

Last week, a converted World War II Navy patrol plane carrying a ton of marijuana crashed near Rockwood, Tenn. Police in Chattanooga, Tenn., found two tons of marijuana aboard a DC3 they seized last September.

U.S. Customs officials say three planes carrying illicit drugs, apparently from the Caribbean, have crashed in Florida in recent months.

Drug smugglers have turned increasingly to using airplanes since early 1974 when the United States began using electronic sensors to detect drugs being brought across the Mexican border, said David R. MacDonald, assistant secretary of the Treasury in charge of enforcement.

Customs officials said they had been chasing the B25 bomber for two days before it crashed Tuesday, not because of any drug offense but because it was flying with military markings, including camouflage paint.

Officials said it is a violation of the Neutrality Act for a plane with military markings to fly out of the country without proper documents.

The plane was spotted Monday at St. Augustine, Fla. and Customs officials said their planes gave chase but "lost it somewhere around Bimini. Spotted again about 1 a.m. Tuesday over Jacksonville, Fla., the B25 again eluded pursuit planes.

Ted Swift of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration in Miami said "perhaps a ton" of marijuana was found in a field a mile from the crash site, in 50-pound bales wrapped in plastic.

Authorities theorized the plane may have dropped the bales and been unable to climb quickly enough to clear the hillside.

NUTTY FLAVOR They Call It Steam Beer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Had any steam beer lately? If you have, you're a connoisseur of an unique libation — or just plain curious.

Steam beer is a legacy of the California Gold Rush, and it has held onto a tenuous existence in these modern times.

With its strong, nutty flavored brew, steam beer is peculiar to San Francisco and is held in affection by old and young.

When San Francisco was thronged with thirsty men in the 1850s, there was a great demand for beer. But it was difficult to produce because the lager process required fermentation and aging temperatures near freezing.

There were no large quantities of ice available, so steam beer, which could be fermented at Bay Area temperatures of 60 to 68 degrees, was developed.

Incidentally, steam has nothing to do with brewing the beer. It refers to the pressure building up in the barrels and tanks during the process of natural carbonation.

At one time there were 27 steam beer breweries in this city but only one remains. It is Anchor Steam Beer Brewing Co., which is preserving a tradition and quenching an exotic thirst.

Fritz Maytag, 36, a scion of the Iowa washing machine family, rescued the ancient brewery — smallest in the United States — from closing a few years ago and has expanded its production from 600 barrels a year to 6,000. That contrasts with a major brewery like Coors, which produces about 10 million barrels.

Anchor Steam beer, which used to be sold only in a few San Francisco taverns, now is distributed in other parts of California and in Arizona, Nevada and Colorado.

What makes steam beer so different from the light beers which prevail in this country today?

"It's simply beerier," Maytag said in an interview at the brewery, situated in a factory area south of Market Street. "It's more like an English ale. We use more hops than American beers and most European beers. We use nothing but barley malt. It's kind of like home-made bread compared with bakery bread." Most of Anchor's beer is sold in bottles. It costs about 50 cents a bottle, compared with 60 cents for imported beers and 30 cents for premium domestic beers.

Anchor grossed about $500,000 in 1974, Maytag says.

Enrollees Told To Act Promptly

Jack Coker, Veterans Administration Regional Director, advises veterans headed for the first time this fall for classrooms under the GI Bill to act promptly if they want advance payment of educational checks.

Coker noted a record 2.4 million veterans and military service personnel trained in fiscal year 1974, and the agency made 563,250 advance payments totaling $211.3 million. So far this fiscal year, 659,300 payments in the amount of $243.6 million have been made.

Advance payments were initiated in August 1973 to assist veterans who, after starting to school, find themselves in financial difficulty while awaiting their first VA checks.

Coker said a veteran who plans to enter school should first make certain he has a certificate of eligibility. If he hasn't, one should be obtained from the nearest VA office, or the VA Hospital here.

Seek Students To Lend Help

The Chamber of Commerce is looking into the formation of an organization of high school students as a part of the Chamber, to help them become involved in community affairs.

The plan was proposed at the meeting of the Organizational Affairs Council Tuesday.

The group of students would meet together and have their own projects and would also serve on the Chamber of Commerce committees.

The plan will be submitted to the Board of Directors for discussion at their regular meeting Monday, June 9.

Against Doctors Strike

By The Associated Press

The House of Delegates of the Texas Medical Association has gone on record against work stoppages as a weapon to reduce medical malpractice insurance rates, which cost some doctors as much as $30,000 a year.

About 130 members of the TMA policy-making body spent more than three hours arguing Tuesday afternoon before adopting the position statement.

The delegates met behind closed doors in Austin after hearing a low key appeal from Gov. Dolph Briscoe and watching him sign legislation guaranteeing doctors malpractice coverage for the next two years at rates regulated by the State Insurance Board.

One of the two bills includes a mandatory search by an 18-member Medical Liability Professional Liability Study Committee for a permanent solution to the malpractice crisis.

The House of Delegates' statement pledges the TMA's cooperation with the commission, which will include two doctors selected by the TMA: Milton Davis of Dallas and Edward D. Webb, Houston.

"In view of the studies of the Medical Professional Liability Study Commission, the House of Delegates expresses a definitive position that patients and the public will best be served by a dedicated profession continuing to provide medical care to the people of the state," the statement said.

When asked for a summary of the statement, Webb replied: "In essence, it says the TMA is on record as favoring the continuation of medical care, with no work stoppages at this time."

The statement does not bind doctors, however, and Dr. Nell Nations, president of the San Antonio Society of Anesthesiologists, said her group will continue its slowdown.

Dr. Nations was defeated in an effort to put in the statement a call for doctors to provide only emergency care until the governor has convened a special session of the legislature to pass a bill limiting the size of judgments and settlements in malpractice cases.

Pulmonary Meet Starts Friday

The American Lung Association of Texas (ALAT), Big Country Area is sponsoring a pulmonary conference in Midland on Friday — and Saturday. Midland and Big Spring medical personnel, who have responsibility in the delivery of health care to the pulmonary patient, are invited to the ALAT conference which will be at Rodeway Inn, Friday and at Midland Memorial Hospital Saturday.

Leaders for the ALAT conference include Midland physician Phyllis Huffman, M.D., specialist in pediatric allergy; Maudie Rains, R.N., Midland nurse anesthesiologist; and Dan Rodriguez, R.N., A.R.R.T., clinical coordinator of the respiratory technology program at Odessa College. Miss Joan Goodpasture, R.N., A.R.R.T., clinical coordinator of West Texas Community School of Respiratory Technology, affiliated with Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene will lead the team of specialists working with the ALAT Conference. Dr. Paul Stevens, Houston, professor in the pulmonary section of Baylor Medical College, will speak.

Jaycees Seek Nominations

TULSA, Okla. — Nominations are now open for the 1976 Ten Outstanding Young Men of America, according to the U.S. Jaycees. The 10 selected will be honored next January.

Every young man between the ages of 18 and 35 is a potential candidate. The candidates do not have to be members of The United States Jaycees, though that does not preclude members of the organization from being considered for the honor. The candidates may come from any field of endeavor and will be judged on the criteria outlined in each nomination form. Any individual group, association, fraternal organization, company, institution, etc. may nominate candidates.

Official nomination forms are available from LeRoy Norine, Director of Public Relations, The United States Jaycees, P.O. Box 7, Tulsa, Oklahoma 74102. Deadline for submission of nominations is August 1, 1975.

Dear Abby

Wife Dampens Hubby's Mania For Tickling

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the mother who was brokenhearted because her son and daughter both married with families hadn't spoken to each other for years and were the reasons she could not have complete family get-togethers.

If my own experience means anything, tell that mother not to worry. Eventually they'll make up. And although she won't live to see it, she will be the cause of it, because it will take place at her funeral.

Since everyone will be crying, anyway, the two who finally decided to make up won't be conspicuous—even though they'll be crying twice as hard as everyone else. And with good reason. Think about it, kids. Sign me.

DEAR ABBY: I wonder how many others have to bury a relative before they bury the hatchet? It's something to think about, all right. Thanks for a timely reminder. Nu, Charley?

DEAR ABBY: My best girl friend is getting married soon, and I am her maid-of-honor. I am trying to talk her out of a crazy plan she has that sounds ridiculous to me, but maybe I am wrong.

She wants to lock the church doors five minutes before the start of the ceremony.

I have argued that this is rude, since many of the guests will be driving into a strange area from a distant place and looking for an unknown church. I also showed her an etiquette book that says the bride's mother should be seated at the time the ceremony is scheduled to start and those who arrive late must watch the ceremony from the back of the church. It does NOT say that they should be locked out five minutes before the ceremony starts.

Answer soon, since this bride-to-be thinks she is right.

BEST FRIEND DEAR BEST: Keep trying to convince her that YOU are right, because you are.

DEAR ABBY: TICKLED wrote, protesting her husband's habit of holding her down, tickling her ribs and feet until she becomes hysterical and thinking it's all just jolly fun.

Well, it isn't. It's torture. I know because my husband used to do this to me until I literally dampened his enthusiasm for this kind of "fun" when I lost control of my bladder on HIS side of the bed when he had me pinned down.

I refused to change the sheets until the next morning, and I went and slept on the sofa.

LAUGHING BUT NOT FROM TICKLING CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN I SUE?" You can sue for anything, but whether you can collect is another matter. I read that a man went to a hospital for a hemorrhoid operation, and, by mistake, they straightened his nose. He sued and collected.

Two Grads Honored At Park Party

Two spring graduates, David Nixon of Coahoma High School and Danny Ferrell of Big Spring High School, were honored Friday evening with an outdoor party at Comanche Trail Park, followed by miniature golf at Star Lite Acres.

The party was hosted by the youth and young married couples of Evangel Temple.

Thirty-eight persons attended, and gifts were presented by the church and various individuals. The gift table was decorated with graduate owls and two centerpieces depicting the honorees' school colors and mementos of their high schools and chosen colleges.

Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nixon of Coahoma, will attend Southwestern Assemblies of God College at Waxahatchie, Ferrell, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ferrell, 509 Johnson, will attend the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

BRIDE-ELECT — Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Howard, Stanton, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Doris Ruth, to David Michael Haynie, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Walter B. Haynie of Highlands. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Howard Payne University where Miss Howard is a senior student. The wedding will be held July 5 at First Baptist Church, Brownwood.

Railroaders Name Three Committees

Three committees were functioning following a Monday evening meeting of a group which is forming a local chapter of the National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees.

J.H. Eastham, organizing president, presided at the meeting in Kentwood Center, and another meeting was planned for 7:30 p.m., June 19. At that time, the unit will receive its charter and elect officers. Already, the group has exceeded the 100-member goal it had set for June 19.

The nominating committee consists of C.W. Dickerson, G.P. Morrison and L.A. Griffith, and the membership committee is made up of W.H. McCannless, J.T. Anderson and W.E. Wozencraft. Named to the refreshment committee were Mrs. J.T. Gilmore, Mrs. Velma Kesterson and Mrs. Bill Cochran.

Couple Plans June Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. William Williamson of Brookeville, Ohio, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Connie, to David H. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Newton, 1212 Lloyd Ave. The couple plans to be married June 28 at Judson College Chapel, Elgin, Ill.

Herbed Pears With Pork

Herbed pears are delicious with ham or roast pork. Drain syrup from 1 can (1 pound 14 ounce) Bartlett pear halves. Add 1 small onion, sliced 2 tablespoons honey, 1½ teaspoon marjoram and ¼ cup tarragon vinegar. Simmer 5 minutes. Pour over pears and allow to stand several hours or overnight in refrigerator.

Delegates For THDA Meeting

Three delegates to the Texas Home Demonstration Association convention in Abilene Sept. 23-25 were chosen when the Howard County Home Demonstration Council met Tuesday in the county agent's office.

Representatives from the county will be Mrs. J.R. Petty, Mrs. John Couch and Mrs. Neil Norred. Mrs. Petty will go back into office as the THDA chairman. Alternate delegates will be Mrs. C.A. Smauley and Mrs. L.L. Soles.

Mrs. Alton Underwood, chairman, presided, and the Fairview Club served as the hostess group. The devotional was given by Mrs. Smauley.

Mrs. Granville Dawson was a guest at the meeting.

Vets Barracks Changes Time

Barracks 1474, Veterans of WWI, and its Ladies Auxiliary will meet Saturday in the Kentwood Older Adult Center for the regular meeting. The separate business meetings will start at 10 a.m., with a covered dish luncheon following.

"This is a new procedure, and all are urged to be there promptly at 10 o'clock," said Marion B. Ireland.

The Barracks will have its installation service with

Ratification Of ERA Stands As Legislature Ends Session

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The heated debate over Texas' 1972 ratification of the controversial federal Equal Rights Amendment died almost unnoticed in the last days of the 64th Legislature.

A House resolution seeking to overturn Texas' ratification never came out of committee. A House bill calling for a nonbinding referendum on the ERA made it to the House but it never came up for debate.

"I do not think we had a chance from the very beginning," said Koma Donworth of Austin, a lobbyist for anti-ERA groups. "If, however, the legislators had enough guts to vote their convictions, the ratification would have been rescinded this session."

Barbara Vackar of Austin, state coordinator of Texans for ERA, said the majority of legislators felt it was illegal to rescind.

"They knew if they had passed the rescission resolution it would have no effect," Mrs. Vackar said. "As a result, most of them did not want to vote on it."

To date, 34 states have approved the ERA since Congress passed it in 1972, but two, Nebraska and Tennessee, have voted to rescind. The effect of a rescission vote has not been settled by the courts.

For the ERA to become part of the U.S. Constitution, 38 states must approve it by 1979.

The ERA debate in Texas brought busloads of women, many dressed in pink to show their anti-ERA sentiments, to the Capitol for demonstrations and committee meetings.

Rep. George Preston, D-Paris, sponsor of the referendum bill, said the ERA will never be as hot an issue as it was this past session.

"I just don't see any other states ratifying it," Preston said. "The proponents have reached their peak."

Rep. Bill Hilliard, D-Fort Worth, sponsor of the rescission resolution, said he is disappointed that the legislators did not vote on "an issue vital to the people of Texas."

"They didn't get a chance to vote on it because it was bottled up and throttled in committee," Hilliard said. "The main thing is that the committee chairman did not want it."

Rep. Ray Hutchison, R-Dallas, chairman of the Constitutional Revision Committee, which conducted a 10-hour hearing on Hilliard's resolution, denies Hilliard's claims.

Hutchison said, "Had the resolution been introduced in a timely manner the outcome may have been different."

"Maybe the next time the sponsors of a rescission resolution will select another man and will have some better hope of success," Hutchison said.

Bridge Game Scores Listed

Mrs. Ollie Anderson and Mrs. John Davis placed first in the La Gallina duplicate bridge game held Friday at Big Spring Country Club under the sponsorship of the Ladies Golf Association. Second place went to Mrs. Ed Corson and Mrs. John Affleck, and the third place winners were Mrs. Paul Shaffer and Mrs. John Taylor.

Players were reminded that next Friday's game has been cancelled due to the Tall City Sectional Tournament Friday through Sunday.

The next game, scheduled June 13, will start at 1 p.m., which is a change in time.

Great Garnish

Pear halves, fresh or canned, filled with drained crushed pineapple and mint jelly, are a great accompaniment for roast pork or lamb.

Two weeks before the end of the session, Hutchison called a committee meeting to vote on Hilliard's resolution. Hutchison kept the meeting open for 30 minutes but only seven of the 17 committee members showed up.

Mrs. Donworth said her anti-ERA forces plan to make legislators' positions on the amendment a major issue in the next campaigns.

"We're going to make sure the constituents know where their representatives stand on the ERA," she said.

"The legislators were determined they were not going to vote on ERA," Mrs. Donworth said. "And trying to get them to vote was like trying to move the Eiffel Tower by hand."

Mrs. Vackar said her group will continue to inform the public about the ERA, just in case it does become an issue in the legislature again.

As one representative said, it looks as if the arguments over unisex bathrooms, women in the draft and homosexual marriages also may be around during the next session.
