BROWNFIELD, TERRY COUNTY, TEXAS, AUGUST 29, 1924

"MA" FERGUSON RECEIVES DEM. NOMINATION FOR GOV.

Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson

After one of the hardest fought political battles in the history of this state—and Texas is noted for hot ones—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, of Temple, Texas, has been nominated over Felix D. Robertson, of Dallas, by a majority that will run around 100,000 it is believed when all the returns are in.

Texas was the first Southern state to grant equal suffrage to its women, and as a Democratic nomination in Texas is equal to election, grand old Texas will be the first state in the entire union to raise womanhood to the highest office in its gift.

Mrs. Ferguson is a home loving woman and has raised two beautiful and accomplished daughters.

The biggest vote in the history of the state was polled, and it is believed it will reach 800,000.

The entire run off anti-klan ticket was nominated.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS THE TATUM PICNIC

The picnic at Tatum Wednesday was well attended by the people from all parts of the country, with quite a number from Texas and other parts of the country. While the weather was unusually warm and the dust was disagreeable, most of them seemed to enjoy the occasion.

The principal attractions for the day were the radio and the barbecue with a baseball game in the late afternoon.

Four heaves had been well cooked and the meat with bread and other things were served to the hungry crowd who enjoyed it to the fullest extent. The "Wild West" stuff was said to have been up to the usual standard of that kind of entertainments and was eagerly watched by those who enjoy such performances. The baseball game between Lovington and Plains was rather a one-sided affair, Lovington winning the game by a score of 6 to 0. The game was called in the 6th inning on account of the lateness of the hour.

None of the prominent speakers who had been invited were present, and that part of the program was omitted altogether.

One of the attractive features of the picnic was the good exhibit of fruits, vegetables and other farm products which were shown at the office of E. J. Fox. This exhibit would compare favorably with that of any country, irrigated or not, in the United States.—Lovington Leader.

R. E. HARDBERGER PRESIDENT OF PLAINS GINNERS

At a meeting of the Plains Ginner Association held at Lubbock last week, R. E. Hardberger was elected president. Practically all of the ginner of the Plains were present and a very interesting session was held. Matters of mutual interest were discussed.

Mr. Hardberger is to be congratulated upon having the presidency of the association handed him, and that he will fill the position with credit to all concerned goes without saying.—O'Donnell Indx.

Brownfield was well represented at the meeting, and all those who attended are frank to say the meeting was very beneficial.

Frank A. White, advertising man of the South Plains Fair, of Lubbock was in our city last week boosting the fair for this year. He reports it will be much better than ever.

J. T. May, of Lubbock, was here this week visiting his son, Tom, and daughter, Mrs. W. B. Downing.

RESULTS OF SECOND PRIMARY IN TERRY

There were more votes cast by 45 in the second primary than in the first one. This is partly accounted for by the fact that some new comers became qualified voters of the county between the two periods, and there may, also, have been more interest in the second.

As in the first primary, the klan issue was strongly drawn out, the anti-klan faction winning every office in the county in contest and the anti-klan state officers had majorities in this county ranging from 11 to 670 votes.

The following is the results:

For Governor
Felix D. Robertson	594
Miriam A. Ferguson	847
For Lieutenant Governor
Will C. Edwards	431
Barry Miller	661
For Attorney General
Dan Moody	903
Edward B. Ward	230
For Comptroller
O. D. Baker	362
S. H. Terrell	759
Railroad Com. 6-year term
Ed E. Weaver	512
Clarence E. Gilmore	561
Railroad Com. 4-year term.
W. A. Nabors	533
Lon A. Smith	519
Chief Justice Supreme Court
C. M. Cureton	705
William C. Wear	341
Sheriff and Tax-Collector
Wood E. Johnson	599
F. M. Ellington	820
County and District Clerk
Miss Lillian Webb	665
Jay Barrett	793

The high vote was in the sheriff's race, there being 1459 cast.

The crowd was good humored and jolly all day, and we heard of no ill feeling or words. H. R. Winston, the nominee for County Judge, Jay Barrett for County and District Clerk and F. M. Ellington for Sheriff and Tax-Collector, were then—after the votes were all in—marched to the public square "hoss-trough" where, without ceremony, they were heaved into the trough—all except Ellington who said he had rather treat the crowd than drive 25 miles with wet clothes on. It must have cost a pile of money, but he stood the gaff.

Now that the election is over, let's forget politics awhile and push our town and county. Get up.

The case of State of Texas vs. J. P. Crowley, was put off at Tahoka last week on account of the serious illness of his daughter-in-law. Mrs. Crowley died in the Lubbock Sanitarium Saturday, and was buried in Meadow Sunday afternoon. The entire community joins in sympathy for the bereaved.

Wm. Peters, of Waco, is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Peters; also his little daughter. He reports short crops in McLennan.

RAILROAD FOR LEVELLAND ALMOST A REALITY

J. A. Wilson, promoter and his associates met with the citizens of Levelland and farm owners of Hockley county, Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was attended by a large crowd and many prominent business men of Lubbock were also present. The bonus quota for Hockley county is $250,000 and is fast being raised. Active committees are this week seeing the land owners and getting them to sign on the dotted line, and every property owner in the county should not hesitate or be recipient about placing his name to the bonus papers if he will just consider the advantages of a railroad to Levelland and Hockley county, and we are sure that each and everyone in the county will do his part and more in this proposition, for Hockley county is composed of that class of citizenship, but quick action in this matter must be obtained.

The fact that a railroad will develop this and our neighboring county to the west much more rapidly and that the amount of bonus will be quickly repaid in the saving of transportation cost.

A quick response is expected from the citizens of Cochran county when they are called upon for their part of the bonus is placed before them. The opening of the campaign in Cochran county marks an important step as it was planned to start their quota only after the railroad backers were convinced that Hockley county really wanted a railroad and could be relied upon to raise their quota, and "Hockley county delivered the goods." Toot! Toot! its coming. Look out for the cars.—Hockley County Herald.

LEVELLAND POSTMASTER HELD FOR MISUSE OF CASH

B. E. Gunn, 27, postmaster at Levelland, Hockley county, who was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Seales here Thursday, on a charge of misappropriation of Postal funds, has made a complete confession to the charge, according to officials. Gunn after waiving preliminary hearing, was allowed bond in the sum of five thousand dollars.

The case has been bound over to await action of the Federal grand jury, and it is expected that it will come to trial at the fall term of Federal Court.

No official statement has been made in connection with the amount of the shortage, but it is intimated that several thousand dollars are involved.

Gunn has been postmaster at Levelland for about a year. He is married and has two children, according to his statement. Amarillo News.

J. W. Hatton, of the Palace Drug Store, left this week for Dallas to purchase their holiday goods.

PROMINENT NORTH TEXAS MEN HERE MONDAY A.M.

George McQuaid, of Dallas, director of the Texas Public Service Bureau, accompanied by Eric G. Schroeder, in charge of the school of Journalism, of the College of Industrial Arts, Denton, were here Monday for a few hours. They came over from Lamesa, and were on their way to Lubbock and thence to Amarillo, at which place Mr. McQuaid will address the Texas Ass'n Independent Telephone men.

When given figures on the development of Terry county since the advent of the railroad seven years ago, they were agreeably astonished.

Mr. McQuaid was particularly interested in the light and power plant and the projected water system, and Mr. Schroeder asked many questions about the need of a good hotel, saying that while he did not follow the business, his father-in-law was interested in many hotels, and sometimes promoted them himself.

They believe that Brownfield and country, as well as the whole South Plains section has a bright outlook and aim to tell readers in the dailies about our country, and may invest some here themselves.

NOTICE TO ALL TEACHERS

The South Plains Teachers Institute will convene at Lubbock, September 1-5. The sessions will be held at the high school building.

The law provides that the teachers shall draw their regular salaries for attending institute and it also makes it obligatory upon the teachers to attend.

A fine program has been completed and will be led by prominent educators and lecturers.

Respectfully,
D. J. Broughton,
E-Officio County Supt.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE FOR BROWNFIELD

M. Winkler, of Electra, Texas, has leased a building on the west side of the square, 25X100 from Barrier Brothers, of Lubbock, and will open up an up-to-date dry goods establishment this week or next.

He was accompanied by C. C. Corder, also of Electra, who will be associated with Mr. Winkler in the conducting of the business.

We welcome these gentlemen to our city and to its business interests.

Don't fail to see that thrilling Zane Grey story, "The Call of the Canyon" now filmed, to appear at the Pastime Theatre Saturday, Matinee and night. It is a Paramount. Also, don't forget that next week is "Paramount Week" at the Pastime, carrying the very best picture of that famous company the entire week. Make a week of "Paramount Week."

Arthur Sawyer and family returned last week from a visit to Kansas.

A PLEA FOR HARMONY IN TERRY COUNTY

Written for the Herald:

While I am here in Dallas I read your splendid paper each week. I heartily endorse each word you had to say on the klan question in last week's issue. When I retrospect back about eighteen months ago and think of what a harmonious people we had in Terry county, and then compare the conditions that exist there now, it hardly seems possible that such a condition could be brot about. I want to discuss this matter fairly without any malice or hard feelings toward anyone, for I have none. Eighteen months ago on churches were all in harmony. We had union meetings and Sunday Schools and all the people attended. You could scarcely tell by the crowd whether it was a Methodist, Baptist, or Christian meeting. Everyone was friendly and sociable. There was no discord among our people. In fact, Terry county abounded in the true type of genuine Western hospitality. Now I am not going to make any fight on the klan; I fully endorsed all the things they gave out to the public that they say they stand for, before I ever heard of the klan. All good citizens do that. I watched the movement very closely and investigated its origin as best I could, and was convinced in my own mind that it would develop to be an organization that would try to dominate politics. I warned some of my good neighbors and friends that I had grave fears that it would turn out that way, and sincerely advised them not to join it without a very careful investigation. I do not suppose the most devoted klanman in Terry county would undertake to contend that they are wholly to blame for all the trouble and strife that has come to the surface, for I believe that both klan and anti-klan have said and done things that should not have been said or done. In this way, both are to be blamed and should be equally censured. It is useless to discuss the matter as to who is right and who is wrong—both are right and both wrong. The great question that now confronts the people of Brownfield and Terry county is what are you going to do to remove this trouble and try to be friends and neighbors as in days of yore? Is each side in this unfortunate affair going to be so stubborn that neither will acknowledge their wrongs. For either side to say that the other is ALL to blame would only demonstrate the ignorance and insincerity on that side. *****

Would it not be far more righteous and Christ-like to disband both of these factions and each one go to his former friend and ask and give forgiveness? Don't you think that if Christ was here on earth that he would urge something like that? I know there are good men on both sides of this matter. I know that good men can get together and right wrongs, if they will go at it in the right way. There is no use to begin to argue the matter as to the merits or demerits of the klan or the anti-klan for that will never bring about a settlement. If you think that peace and harmony will be worth more to the well being of the citizenship of Terry county than the two factions that you now have there, would it not be best to disband both organizations? You possibly might, thru long years, subdue one or the other faction, but would the strife and the turmoil not be a high price to pay for the victory?

The man that will take the lead in Brownfield and Terry county to bring about this reconciliation, and is successful will in the years to come be known as the great "PACIFICATOR" of Terry county. Who is the man of the hour?

J. M. Green

TO THE VOTERS OF TERRY COUNTY

I take this method of thanking the good people of Terry county for their support and influence in the primaries which put me over the top.

As Sheriff nominee, I realize fully the responsibilities that will rest upon me; the problems that will confront me; the duties that will call me, and I appeal to one and all for your sincere and earnest co-operation, for upon that depends the measure of accomplishment.

Again thanking you, I am,
Yours truly,
F. M. Ellington

MEADOW CELEBRATES TODAY AND TOMORROW

Many citizens of Brownfield and other parts of the county as well as adjoining counties are preparing to be with Meadow today and tomorrow in their big two day celebration and barbecue. Besides other amusement will be the big radio and baseball games each day.

Hackberry Slim of Lamesa will be on hand with his big rodeo, presenting the same attractions you would see in Cheyenne, Fort Worth, Calgary, Can., or Tampico, Mexico. It will consist of Brahma steer riding, bronco busting, trick riding, trick and fancy rope spinning, western down acts, calf roping, bulldogging etc. Also, a horse will jump an automobile.

There will be a free barbecue each day with plenty of coffee, pickles and bread.

A special feature of the rodeo will be buffalo riding.

FIRST RAIN SINCE JULY 30 FELL HERE MONDAY

Terry county was beginning to feel the effects of a 25 days drouth. Corn and late fed needed a finishing shower, and cotton, especially on the hard lands, had begun to shed.

Light showers fell here Monday morning, following a norther Sunday night, and a good general down pour ranging from 1-2 to more than one inch fell in Terry county and the Brownfield trade territory Monday night, beginning about 10 p.m. The precipitation in Brownfield amounted to 8-10 inch.

This put a good season in the ground, and will start cotton again and mature the grain crops.

More rain has been falling this (Wed.) afternoon.

SEAGRAVES EDITORS LIKES TO VISIT BROWNFIELD

We had occasion to visit Brownfield last Saturday, where we met several of our first acquaintances in the county; former Judge Price and son who afterwards occupied the same position; also our old time friend, Orel Adams and others we could name.

The crops up the road are fairly good, but most of them are late. We found friend Stricklin fully set up in his new building, and everything as neat as a pin, with Mr. Bailey at the head of the job department and making things lively. Large success to you, friend Jack.

Brownfield is a lively town, and being a citizen of Terry county it is not out of place for us to boost her up a little.—Seagraves Progress.

SELECTED BREEDING PIGS AT MEAT PRICES

The Fort Worth Stock Yards Company is now prepared to co-operate with Chambers of Commerce, Bankers and County Agents, in securing well selected gilts not registered, at meat prices, plus the cost of immunizing, freight, etc. There is now an 8,000,000 shortage in the pig crop; there are 200,000 farms in Texas with out a pig of any kind; and it is costing Texas over $70,000,000 annually to buy pork products from other states; with a rising hog market and the prospect of a fair crop of grain sorghums, it looks like it is time for the farmers of the State to restock their farms. Indifference and the lack of information on the value of hogs to general farming has been the biggest limiting factor the swine industry has had in Texas, and not the price of registered animals.

Farmers whose farms have had no hogs for the past year are no doubt free from infection and should now restock with registered hogs where it is possible to do so, and then keep their farm in a sanitary condition.

Respectfully yours,
C. C. French, Ind. Agt.

The spirit of Mrs. John Gathling, aged about 30 years, passed to the great beyond late Sunday afternoon, after two or three years lingering illness. She was a devoted wife and a loving mother, and is survived by her husband and two sweet little boys. She was a member of the Baptist church, we understand. The body was prepared by a local undertaking company and shipped to Covington, Texas, for burial. The Herald and the entire community in sympathy for the bereaved.

Mr. Lloyd Stark, of Seminole, is here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bynum.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS

By Sand Bur.

S. T. T. Murphey's mother and brother, Floyd, also his cousin Jasper Hobbs, from Knox county, are visiting them this week.

Mr. Buchanan and family, from Tokio, visited at Mr. Maroney's on Sunday.

Geo. Alexander, Millard Ellington, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Murphey, and daughter, Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ellington and Wayne, attended the speaking at Lubbock, Wednesday night. Judging from the applause, Mr. Ferguson hit the nail on the head. One of the largest crowds that ever assembled at Lubbock assembled in the court yard long before the time for the speaking to begin.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Murphey entertained the Harris band and its devotees Thursday night in honor of his mother and brother from Knox county. After a good number of selections had been rendered, a lunch of cake, ice cream and lemonade was served to about 25 guests. Then came more music, after which, at a late hour all departed, agreeing that they had spent an enjoyable evening. There is no excuse now days for a "silent house," a home without that greatest of arts, music. Music cheers and inspires both young and old. It provides a safe and sane method of entertainment for the children, and is, as a rule, thoroughly enjoyed by the guests.

Mr. Cheek and family visited at Mr. Maroney's, Sunday.

S. T. Murphey and family, accompanied by his mother, brother and cousin, spent Tuesday with F. M. Ellington and family. At the dinner table, fried chicken with all the trimmings disappeared at an amazing rate.

When you wake up in the morning of a chill and cheerless day, just glance into your mirror and you will quickly see. It's just because the corners of your mouth turn down. If you wake up in the morning full of bright and happy thoughts, and begin to count the blessings in your cup; then glance into your mirror and you will quickly see, it's all because the corners of your mouth turn up. Then let's remember at home, at school, at work, to keep the corners of the mouth turned up.

Brit Clare and family spent Sunday with the Wheeler family.

HOMECOMING

It was indeed a homecoming that was held at the home of Aunt Sarah Jones, who lives about 13 miles south of Dublin. On July 23, this dear woman who is a pioneer in this section, entertained her children and grandchildren in the good old fashion way. The table was piled with good things that only mother knows how to make, and the day was spent in feasting and merrymaking and recalling childhood days while mother smiled as she looked at her happy brood.

Those present on this joyous occasion were: J. W. Jones, wife and four children of Ranger; Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Taylor and two children, Tokio; Mr. and Mrs. Davidson and four children, Dublin; Mrs. Lena Jones Stephens and four children, of Pecos; Albert Jones and wife, Vernon; Leonard Jones and wife, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Claunch and one child, Oklahoma City. Among the grandchildren present were Will Chambers and wife and two children, Ranger; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jones and two children, Mangum; Weaver Lovelace and wife, Tokio; Mr. and Mrs. Windal Davidson and child, Dublin.

Uncle George and Aunt Sarah Jones came to Comanche county in 1873, one year later settling on the present homestead where Howard Davidson now lives. The pioneer couple endured all the hardships of the early times for at that time neighbors were few and far beteen and the red man still lurked in the forest and roamed the plains of the west. Uncle George died in 1900 leaving behind him a wonderful record of honesty, truthfulness and industry. He was a christian of the highest type, a true friend and a wonderful neighbor.

This homecoming was a joyous occasion for Dear Aunt Sarah and we trust there will be many more for this good woman who has lived a life filled to capacity filled with the work of the Master—"A Friend" in Dublin Progress.

An amendment has been filled by the Lubbock State Bank proposing to increase the capital stock from $100,000 to $200,000. Rumor also has it that they may apply for a National charter.

Dr. W. L. Covey and son, Tom, of Brownfield, were here the first of the week and purchased lot No. 9, block 19, and will start the erection of a building, which will be used for a garage, in the next few days.—Hock-

ALBANY EDITOR HAS HIS HAIR DYED

Editor McCarty, of the Albany News, has had his hair dyed recently and has the following to say about it: "It was red once upon a time, and so we have painted it red again, and tain't nobody's durn business. Old Father Time whitewashed it with the brush of age, and so we have put one by him and painted it red—in other words—titan locks. Now when your house gets faded, the paint rubbed off, and it's gray like, why you repaint it, and that's what we've done, gone back to nature, we guess God knew what he was doing when He made our locks red. The flapper has her locks sheared and blonded; thinks she is smarter than God and proceeds to change nature—we ain't done that, just got back to nature—called Father Time's hand. Grandma goes down to the beauty shop and gets her gray locks bobbed, has the wrinkles rubbed out of her face, shortens her skirts and skips down the streets like a maid of sixteen, and all in the world that she lacks is just to get her glands renewed, and then grandma would sure enough be frisky. And now if women paint their cheeks, their necks, arms and hands, and their lips, why in thunder and Tom Walker can't we paint our hair red, just like God painted it; tain't no deception—and tain't none of your durn business. This is the age of paint; get your automobile repainted, repaint your barn, repolish your shoes, paint your mustache, put whitening on your gold teeth in front of your talking funnel or sounding gong—yes, do everything you can to beat nature and time, and stave off your blasted ugliness—and then just because the editor of the Albany News paints his hair red like the fairies fixed it in the embryonic process of evolution, why the old guys stand around and laugh like durn fools as he goes by. Of course the dyer used too much red, and its just in obedience to the design of the Divine Artist—and it ain't none of your durn business old geezer—now laughing.

FIND UNKNOWN RIVER IN NORTHERN ALASKA

Interesting Letter Tells Life in Far North.

Washington, D. C.—The story of an explorer's life in the northern Alaskan wilderness and the discovery of uncharted streams is contained in a letter brought back to civilization by an Eskimo from the geological survey party headed by Dr. Philip S. Smith and made public by the Interior department. The expedition is exploring naval petroleum reserve No. 4. In exploring the Colville river, the letter, written March 20, states that Doctor Smith found a river about 200 yards wide, which flows westward and then turns northward. The party plans to continue the river explorations, but they must reach the coast in time to catch the last ship out of the Arctic ocean before the September freeze.

Find Grove of Willows.
The party has established a base camp at the head of the Unakserak river about ten miles from the divide between the Unakserak and Colville rivers, at latitude 67°45'30", at an altitude of 2,200 feet. On this divide the party has discovered groves of willow trees as large as a man's wrist, which they are using for fuel.

The letter explained that the supporting party of seven men and 120 dogs turned back on March 16, and the main expedition was proceeding with three sleds and thirty-three dogs. The sleds soon will be abandoned, and the journey continued in canoes on the Colville river.

The letter, which was written by Dr. J. B. Mertie, Jr., gives the following description:

"During the summer, I have been engaged chiefly in making astronomical observations with the transit. I have seven good observations on latitude and azimuth, which check one another very well.

Able to Find the Time.
"Having my azimuth, I also have local time from transits of the sun. And what with watches, and their known ratings, we are in a position to make a fair computation of longitude. I am also able to rate our watches from successive transits of the sun, day after day at this camp.

"Such diversion keeps me very busy, and the days pass very quickly. Once in a while, say once a day, when it gets too cold sitting in the tent, I warm up by cutting wood for a half hour or an hour. All of us are well. None of us have been seriously frost-bitten yet, and I think the most severe weather of the winter is past now. So, all in all, everything is going fine, and the success of the expedition seems assured. Just tell that to the doubters."

Asks Fifteen Years' Wages From Stepfather's Estate

Columbus, Ohio.—Milking cows, cleaning the barn and tilling the field for 15 years without compensation.

That is what Margaret Hallen charges in a petition filed in common pleas court, asking that she be made a beneficiary in the estate of her stepfather, William Weisch.

Miss Hallen says when she was twelve years old her mother married Weisch. He promised, she alleges, to give her a third interest in his estate if she would do chores on the farm. At his death, she says, her mother, as executrix, sought to carry out the agreement, but Weisch's son, Henry S., protested. The estate is valued at $9,540.

Savants to Visit Lapps

Gothenburg.—The Lapps, mysterious nomads of the North, are again to be studied by scientists. Dr. G. Clyde-Fisher, of the Museum of Natural History, New York, is now here on his way to Swedish Lapland to observe the love, customs and daily life of these people.

Discord Is Common.

A piece of furniture that is not in keeping with a room may quite ruin it. Even though the offending piece is costly and good looking, if it is at odds with the other pieces and with the room it should be banished. Perhaps the most usual culprit in this respect is the Morris chair. Many households have one of these left over from an earlier period and place it in the living room with mahogany or walnut built on classic lines. To do so is to create discord and spoil the room.

Tell This at Dinner.

Patrick, aged three months, sat on his father's knee yelling lustily, while on the other knee sat his twin brother testing the elasticity of his parent's mustache. An elder brother hung on the chair back, while a fourth was indulging in the childish amusement of endeavoring to cut small pieces off the cat's tail. Wife (looking up from a book of interesting facts): "They do say, Barney, that a child is born every time the clock ticks." "Thin bad luck to the haythin that invented clocks!" said Barney.

Doubting Banks, Keep $400,000,000 in Socks

Washington.—In the collective ginger jars and stockings of the United States there is a total of more than $400,000,000 jealously hoarded away, according to estimates by Joseph S. McCoy, United States treasury actuary, for the current issue of the American Bankers' Association Journal.

Eight thousand Americans may safely be put in the miser class, McCoy believes. They just like to see their money and gloat over it and call it pet names, and among them they are keeping $44,021,000 out of circulation.

Then there are the children's banks. Probably 2,500,000 kids have such banks, and there is perhaps an average of 60 cents in each, making a total of $1,500,000 thus hoarded away. McCoy doesn't go so far as to charge the kids with wanting to let their money stay in the pin-proof receptacles.

About half of the entire hoarded wealth of the United States is in the cupboards and under the mattresses of foreign-born residents, who aren't yet used to banks. And farmers are hoarding a total of $125,000,000, McCoy says.

Primitive Cooking in Pygmy Land.

In the Sierra de Perija uplands of Colombia there is a race of pygmies the tallest man of which is only four feet high. But according to Mr. George P. Busch, who writes in the World's Work, their size is only one of many curious things about them. For example, Mr. Busch could discover no cooking utensils in the tribal kitchens; and, since monkeys seemed to be the chief article of food, he was naturally curious to learn how they cooked them. He waited, and this is what he saw: Two pygmies took the monkey, one by its arms, the other by its legs, and, standing on opposite sides of the fire, swung the body back and forth through the flame. At first the hair of the animal burned off; then the flesh gradually roasted. Perhaps at the end of an hour, when it was time to eat the meal, the hands and the brains, which are considered to be the choicest parts, were given to the two men who had patiently swung the monkey back and forth through the fire.

Life of Government Hunter.

There is a romance and atmosphere of adventure associated with the life of a government hunter which is found in but few of the recognized professions and walks of life nowadays. For the man who is adept with firearms, fearless, hardy, robust and perseverant, the business of prairie and mountain policeman is a made-to-order job. For the most part, the national sharpshooters—modern minutemen who are ready at a minute's notice to take up the chase after dangerous grizzly bears, ferocious mountain lions or sly and cunning timber wolves—are recruited from the ranks of former cowboys, frontiersmen, Indian fighters, guides, trappers, hunters, prospectors, foresters, miners, former soldiers and other adventurers who enjoy the fascinating life of matching well sharpened wits with grave dangers.

Yellowstone Park.

Turquoise sky. Crystal clear atmosphere. Across great spaces rampart-like mountains. Nearer, vast armies of watchful, silent pines. In this setting, great climbing terraces, red, yellow and orange, veiled in delicate draperies of steam. Glorious, jewel-like pools of purest blue and richest green. Sunsets of heaven spread upon the earth in lakes of glowing color. Fountains springing heavenward in sparkling grace. Sunny meadows; roads slipping silently through great forests with mountain torrents in chasms below. Crowning all, a vast canyon, its walls aglow with carmine and yellow and orange and lavender. At one end, a snowy cascade flinging itself joyously through space to wind on, a jade green ribbon, through depths below. Curiously but beautifully has nature wrought.—Christian Science Monitor.

Giant Map-Making Camera.

The United States geological survey in Washington boasts one of the biggest cameras in the world. It is specially designed by experts of the survey bureau, and is used for reproducing maps of which thousands of copies are required. It weighs three and a half tons, being made almost wholly of steel to insure rigidity. The focal length of its lens is 42 inches, and it can take a picture three feet square. The frame is suspended by springs to absorb vibrations. It is operated altogether by electricity. The big plateholder is a built-in part of the dark room. With this instrument exceptionally fine reproductions of maps can be made, because guesswork is eliminated and the numerous accidents which may spoil results where ordinary cameras are used are made practically impossible.

ELECTRIFIED MUMMIES NOW POSSIBLE, SAYS SCIENTIST

Electricity, which adds to the comfort of life in a thousand ways, can also serve to rob death of its triumph over mortal flesh, according to Hugo Gernsback, of the American Physical Society, who predicts electroplated mummies that will last forever.

When the body has been treated as for embalming, it is coated with a thin film of impervious wax, and upon this is spread a second film of graphite, to serve as a conductor of electricity. It is then submerged in an electroplating bath, and a deposit of copper forms an airtight metal shell that will keep every detail of the face and figure. The remains of illustrious men could be kept in glass coffins, where their mummies would be perfect statues for posterity, and instead of copper, precious metal could be used to preserve them.

IDLE WIVES

The lovely home of Mrs. W. A. Bell was the scene of a delightful party Friday afternoon, when she entertained with 42 the Idle Wives Club. The spacious living room was made more lovely with cut flowers and pot plants.

Mrs. J. E. Shelton was lucky in drawing high score and received a lovely guest towel, hand embroidered, and Mrs. A. M. Brownfield novelty imported perfume. Mrs. Smith received as consolation a Japanese idol.

A most delicious two course luncheon, consisting of pressed turkey, tomato salad, peas, cheese fingers, olives, butter sandwiches, ice tea and peach ice cream and cake was served to the following club members: Mesdames Lemmon, Miller, May, Dallas, McGowan, Smith, King, Shelton, A. M. and A. R. Brownfield, and Mesdames Dr. Bell and Jack Stricklin, guests.

Frank P. Hill and wife, of the Lynn County News, passed through last week on their way to the mountains of New Mexico to take vacation, and paid the Herald a short but pleasant call. He is the hustling son of the News editor, and was our first time to meet him and wife.

Miss Jimmie Whisenant, of Wichita Falls, came in Friday for an extended visit with her aunt, Mrs. Geo. Whisenant.

Headlines are the signboards of a newspaper. Many a good article that bears no headline is passed up, although possessing an abundance of wholesome information.

An occasional grade crossing may be a good thing, after all. It provides trains for those motorists to run into, who otherwise would be running into other motorists.—Ward County News.

The Slaton Slatonike has made another big advance. It is now coming to us as a semi-weekly, and each issue is full of good reading matter and well patronized by the business men of that town. Long live the Slatonike.

The Herald is now twenty years old, fifteen of which has been under the present management. Few people realize that the Herald is older than Terry county, being established at Gomez before the county was organized.

Postmaster Miller reports the mail order catalogues are arriving by the thousands. The home merchant must get busy if he condescends to the effects of these glowing pictures and minute description of articles. They are using printers' ink, and you must fight them with the same weapon.

Volume 1, No. 1, of the Hockley County Herald has reached our exchange table. It is edited and published by C. B. McCormack, formerly of Balmorhea. It is a healthy looking youngster, and gives full evidence that with the growth and expansion of that great county and the city of Levelland, that the Herald will also grow and expand. Luck to you Mc.

Now that the hot political campaign is over and a good rain has visited us, the Herald moves that the citizens of the town and county use all their reserve energy for the up-building of the town and county, as we have already wasted too much on politics to no avail. We suggest that the president of our chamber of commerce call for a meeting right away, and that we call it a get-together meeting, and mean everything we call it. Let's go.

The Herald may be rather thick headed, but it wonders why the light plant can't be fixed some way so it won't have to be turned off every time a thunder storm comes up. It is then that lights are needed worse, because it gets real dark sometimes inside buildings when clouds come up. We have lived in several towns where electricity was used for lighting but this is the first one we ever saw where they had to be turned out.

We believe the officials in charge should make some effort to remedy this matter.

One of our good ku klux friends suggested to us this week that we quit "pouring it on" the klan for awhile and open our guns up on the commissioners and try to get our main highways designated as state highways. In the first place, we, in the beginning, was quite in agreement with our commissioners about state highways, but have, since the law went into effect, studied the matter more closely, and have come to the conclusion that the law is not bad after all, and that if Terry county is to get its share of State and National Highway money, it must be lined up with the rest of the State. Again, the law was probably passed after receiving the advice and figures of real road builders and engineers who were not looking at the matter from an entirely selfish point of view. But, we don't aim to pour it on our commissioners, for they are all reasonable and sensible men, and we believe that if the people of the county want them to do anything for them and can show them that it will be an advantage to the county and its people, they will be willing to take any action looking to this end. We suggest that we have a talk with our commissioners.

Did you ever have one of those summer colds? One of them that is a cross between the flu and an attack of nightmare, when a man's head feels like a bass-drum, and his eyes look like an overturned apricot, and you can't hear, smell, drink or eat with anything like pleasure, and you have a taste in your mouth like you had been smoking a bugy-whip and forgot to spit, and you want to sleep standing up like a policeman; and your nose swells up like a poisoned-pup; and you would as soon die as not, only you are in no fit shape for death. And that a bunch of frog eyes insist on remaining in a secure position in the top of your throat, and all that and everything. Ever have one. If not, get one; they beat anything in the way of entertainment a man could desire.—Crosbyton Review.

Did you ever break out with the summer heat, when ever square atom of you old hide felt like ten million pins were piercing it every second, each time with renewed vengeance, alternating with the itching sensations that ever sensated? When you wished sincerely one minute for an ice bath to combat the burning, stinging sensation, and the very next you want a curry comb, corn cob, a good quality of coarse sand paper, and a pole for your back with inverted nails therein. And just about the time one of these spells hit you good and hard, some lady walks in for a good long conversation, and the only shot you have for remedy is to grin and endure, while you constantly tist from side to side and wish she would hurry on home? Ever bothered with prickly heat?

Mrs. T. M. Flippin writes us from her new home at Greenville, Texas, enclosing the price of the Herald and states that it is too lonesome there without the Herald.

HAVE YOUR ABSTRACT MADE BY MEN
Who not only have the will to serve you well, but the equipment also. The smartest man in this State could not draw abstracts of title with our promptness, accuracy and certainty--unless he had first, experience in the business, and second, an adequate system of records.
We have a system for compiling, filing, systematizing, checking and verifying information about titles which gives us an immense advantage over any one who has a less complete equipment. This system is not available to others--it is our property and used exclusively for the service of our customers.
It gives us an immense advantage over the man who abstracts titles "on the side"--as an appendage to a general law or real estate business.
We will not only take pains to serve you--in addition we have the equipment to serve you. When we draw your abstract it tells the unassailable truth about the title; and that's the only kind of an abstract that is any good to you. Come in and we will show you in detail.

Mark Twain's Reason for Not Asking Loan

Dr. Clarence C. Rice of New York, who introduced Mark Twain to H. H. Rogers in 1891, when the fortunes of the writer had failed, and thus got the American humorist back on his feet financially, has told of his experiences with Mark Twain as a patient, says a writer in the Mentor.

According to Doctor Rice, Mark Twain was never seriously ill till the final illness. Doctor Rice writes: "Mark Twain was never ill—just colds. I would take his temperature occasionally, but he generally insisted that it was only a bluff and that the thermometer was put in his mouth to keep him from talking. He told me that old yarn of the patient who obtained a prescription from his physician and, after looking at the paper, asked how much the medicine would cost. When the doctor told him that it would cost about $2 the patient requested the physician to loan him the $2. The indignant doctor finally said: 'Here are the $2; give me the prescription. I want to make an alteration. I'm scratching out the nerve tonic; you won't need that.' Mark Twain observed: 'I have always admired that man. That was a noble piece of graft. I have thought of trying the game on you, but I've never seen the time when I thought you had the $2.'"

Son Took the Wind
Out of Dad's Sails

A shrewd old Yankee who had accumulated a fortune by strict economy, noticed his son had spent care to go a few blocks and deemed the expense a foolish one. That evening after dinner he called his son into the library, saying he wished to speak with him. "But first," he said, "I will turn down the light; we can talk just as well in the dark and it will save gas." As he went on explaining the value of economy he heard a fumbling and shuffling from the direction of his son's chair. Stopping his lecture he inquired: "Sam, what are you doing?"

"Father," came from the darkness. "I can hear just as well without 'em, so while we are sitting here in the dark I'm taking off my trousers to save 'em."

For the rest of the evening economies were not discussed.—Boston Transcript.

Doll's House for Czar

When a young man of twenty-four, Peter the Great of Russia went to Holland. He was working at different jobs so as to be better fitted to become ruler of Russia. In Utrecht he saw a miniature doll's house, furnished down to the minutest detail. In the library were paintings two inches square. Cabinets were filled with thumb-high porcelains from Japan. Special carpets were manufactured for this house, and the linen was woven in Flanders.

Peter the Great took a great fancy to this tiny palace and offered any price for one like it. The builder, a retired merchant, would not accept money for his handiwork, but offered to make one as a gift to the young czar. The Illiputian mansion, completed after 25 years of labor, is now in the royal museum, Amsterdam, says Mentor Magazine.

Got Her Clock Back

In "My Garden of Memory," Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the famous authoress, tells a story of the time when she was the guest of some friends, and was kept from sleeping by the ticking of a clock in her bedroom. Finally, she had to place the clock among some blankets in a drawer. Leaving early next morning, she forgot to tell the maid about the clock, writes Puck in London Tit-Bits.

Three months afterward, in Germany she remembered it. She would have cabled, but it seemed bizarre to say, after an interval of many months: "Clock buried in guest room between blankets in bottom drawer. Impossible to sleep with it! Forgive!"

Instead, she wrote, and by reply came word from her former hostess that her new chambermaid had searched for and recovered the clock.

Moslem Fast of Ramadan

In the Moslem world Passion Sunday corresponds with the first day of the month-long fast of Ramadan. During Ramadan, western customs, where they have been adopted, are set aside, and the more primitive native manners revived. The muezzin supplements his usual announcement of the hour of prayer with the exhortation: "Give food, O ye faithful, unto the orphan and the poor, the wayfarer and the bondman," and though the wealthy do not now, as in former days, stand at their doors and invite the needy to a well-laden table, Ramadan remains a time of peace, charity and hospitality.

DESTROYING WAR

It is assuring and gratifying that in the general movement throughout the civilized world to outlaw and abolish war, there is none more outspoken in support of this movement than President Coolidge or the Democratic nominee, Mr. Davis.

Both have made it clear that this grand movement has their unqualified support.

Both agree with the vast number of right thinking people that war is a creature of savagery, passed down through the ages from the time of primitive man, and no longer tolerable among civilized people.

Until the nations and people of the world come to a like realization and join in the movement it would of course be most unsafe and unwise for the United States to destroy its armament or fail to keep them at a standard sufficiently strong to safeguard against foreign aggression.

But the United States, now the premier of nations, constituted the people devoted to peace and abhorrent of war, is obliged by the standing among nations it has attained and its influence in world affairs, to lead the movement for universal disarmament.

Whenever and whenever the question of disarmament arises, the strong voice of this government should speak up in its behalf.

President Harding and Mr. Hughes, his secretary of state, took a long step in the right direction when they called a conference to consider the question of disarmament. That was the first real step toward outlawing war ever taken and resulted not only in the hauling of an orgy of battle-ship construction which pressed greater war, but it turned the world mind from thoughts of war to the thoughts of peace.

It was an accomplishment when rightly appraised that will illuminate the pages of history for all time, for it set ineffably the seal of condemnation on the adjudication of national differences by military arbitration and turned the dynamic thought of the world from war to peace. What an inspiring thought that war, the most destructive of all monsters, is itself to be destroyed.

Advertising Ethics.

Business Bible class is a name taken by a group of young advertising men in St. Louis who have organized to demonstrate that the Bible is a good text book for modern business. The golden rule, they claim, is the only system which will end labor troubles. Some concerns which adopted these methods weathered recent storms which destroyed others. "Truth in advertising" is a slogan of more than a million active successful advertisers. The Better Business bureaus established in the large cities spring from the same movement. The Bible class meets at ten on Sunday mornings in a St. Louis church. It contains no theologians and is nonsectarian. Not even the pastor of the church it uses is a member. Just plain practical business men or women attend the class and take part in the discussions. The promoters look forward to many such classes across the continent.

Alive Though Declared Dead.

No man has ever died twice, yet two death certificates recorded the death of Jean Antle, hairdresser to Marie Antoinette. When the royal family attempted to escape from France the hairdresser went ahead as a scout. He was arrested, condemned to death and the records show that he was guillotined. But he was alive in 1814 and the Paris Register records his death in 1820. It has been said that the machine which was to have cut off his head broke down. He was one of a group of prisoners who waited for the machine to be repaired. A gap opened in the throng behind and he slipped through. The crowd closed about him. Later that day a man was seen walking with his hands behind him. He is said to have spent the night in a ditch and later to have escaped to Russia.

Falling Stars.

Falling stars or shooting stars are small bodies that enter the earth's atmosphere from without and, being intensely heated by impact with the air, are consumed before reaching the ground. These meteorites occasionally reach the earth as masses of rock composed chiefly of iron, but also of nickel, cobalt, copper and other metals. The most famous meteorite of antiquity was the stone of Egos-Potamos, which fell in Thrace in 466 B. C. and was described as equaling two mill-stones in size. A remarkable detonating meteorite fell near Holbrook, Ariz., on July 19, 1912. The explosion so completely shattered the mass that the largest fragment found weighed only 14 pounds; upward of 14,000 stones were gathered, weighing in all 481 pounds.

An Indian Fable.

Fables something like those we know are told all over the world, and here is one which comes from India: There was once a tiger that had grown too old to hunt his prey, so he had to resort to cunning in order to get food. He hid in the jungle and called out to passers-by that he would give them a handsome bracelet for nothing. A covetous man passing asked to see the bracelet, and the tiger put out one of his paws so that the stripes could be seen. Thinking that this was a real bracelet the man hastily went toward the spot where the tiger lay, but soon found himself stuck in a swamp. The tiger called to him to wait a moment till he himself came to his help, and, going into the swamp, the cunning animal soon seized the man and carried him off to the jungle to eat at leisure.

Ancient College Discipline.

College rules of 150 years ago required humble submission to the authorities on the part of freshmen. One rule was this: "The freshmen, as well as all other undergraduates, are to be uncovered and are forbidden to wear their hats (unless in stormy weather) in the front dooryard of the president's or professor's house or within 10 rods of the person of the president, eight rods of the professor and five rods of a tutor." Another Yale rule ran: "When a freshman is near a gate or door belonging to a college or college yard, he shall look around and observe whether any of his superiors are coming to the same and if any are coming within three rods, he shall not enter without a signal to proceed."

Bunyan and His Book.

The imperishable allegory on which Bunyan's claim to immortality chiefly rests, the "Pilgrim's Progress," was at least planned in jail, and probably the first part was written there. His "Grace Abounding," "Holy City," "Resurrection of the Dead," with other treatises and tracts, were also composed in the den where he languished 12 years. He obtained his full release through the intervention of the Quakers, and his name is included in the general pardon passed by the king in council in behalf of the prisoners of that persuasion bearing the date of Sept. 13, 1672. Bunyan will perhaps always hold rank as one of the first among religious writers in the English language.

Moments of Misery.

One day when the nurse was examining the children of a certain school, I happened to be among the number who were to be weighed. We went into the office where the nurse was waiting. She kindly told us to remove our shoes so we would not have surplus weight. Upon removing my shoes I discovered a large hole in the heel of both stockings. You can imagine with what enjoyment I stood upon the scales amid the group of smiling onlookers.—Exchange.

AUTOS ARE CHEAPER THAN WHISKEY

It is common to wonder where the people get their money to buy and run automobiles. A statistician comes forward with the statement that we are spending less money for and on automobiles in this country than we used to spend for whiskey. Which speaks well for the people.

Automobiles are responsible for a lot of the accidents, of course, but whiskey used to wreck more lives and more homes in a week than autos would in a generation.—Texas Highway Bulletin.

CHALLIS BUDGET

By Cotton Planter.

The light showers and cool weather the first of the week was fine for cotton and melons.

Myrtle Price and her sister, Mrs. World, have returned from Jayton where they have been attending a meeting.

The Challis school board have received the 20 volume set of the "Book of Knowledge" which they ordered some weeks ago.

Mrs. Beasley is in a serious condition suffering from a nervous breakdown from grief over her two sisters who have been buried within in about 16 days.

We surely sympathize with her as well as the rest of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. McMullen of Falls visited Mr. and Mrs. Weber a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Tinney and three children, of Wellington, visited the O'Neals the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Rimer have returned home from a trip to South Texas, where it has been reported that honey grows on trees.

Mr. Rimer reports Terry county looks better to him.

Miss Ella Sue Houze has returned home.

R. B. Haynes, formerly editor and owner of the Lynn County News was in our city last Friday on business, and of course honored the Herald with his smiling countenance for a few minutes.

Uncle Mose Dumas and family returned last week from a visit to relatives at San Angelo. Their trip was highly enjoyable.

Dr. J. R. Lemmon and family left Saturday for Dallas, where they will visit relatives.

The Brownfield Association of the Baptist Church, convenes at the Central Baptist church in Lynn county at 10 o'clock A.M., Tuesday morning after the 1st Sunday in September. The Central church is said to be the strongest church in the association, and the hospitable people of that community will take good care of all who can visit the meeting.—O'Donnell Index.

The job department of the Herald put out 10,000 cotton tickets for W. A. Bynum, this week. Yes, they'll all be used, and more, we believe.

Uncle Bill Howard and wife have just returned from quite a lengthy visit to Fisher and Haskell counties. They report a splendid time.

Owner of "Pearl" Took Long Chance, but Won

An important connoisseur recently found in Paris, after a great deal of searching, an immense black pearl, a glorious thing with pink and purple lights in its dusky depths. He brought it to this country and took it to a widely known jeweler to have it set. A few days later the head of the firm sent for him.

"Mr. Z," he said, after they were seated in the invariable little office, "I'm afraid I've got something very disagreeable to tell you. I believe your black pearl is an imitation."

"Why," laughed Mr. Z, "That's impossible! I paid $100,000 for it at our own Paris house."

"Nevertheless," said the jeweler, "I do not think it is genuine. And there's just one way to find out—it seems to be such a perfect thing. If you are a very good sport you will let us crack it open. If it is the imitation we believe it to be, we will assume the responsibility for our Paris house and replace it. If it is real—well, you lose."

"Crack away," decided Mr. Z, after a slight pause.

The pearl was imitation.—Katherine Sprochule and Jane Grant in the Saturday Evening Post.

Mount Athos' Famous Monastery Destroyed

The famous monastery of Chilandari, on Mount Athos, built in the Middle Ages, has been destroyed by fire. Mount Athos, the "Holy Mountain," gives its name to the northernmost of those peninsulas which extend like a three-pronged fork from Greece into the Aegean sea. It contains several monasteries and hermitages standing amid magnificent scenery. Access to some of the monasteries overlooking the sea is so difficult that visitors have been drawn up in a sack-shaped contrivance operated by rope. Chilandari monastery is famous for a most valuable MS. of the Gospels in gold letters on white vellum, probably given by the Emperor Andronicus Comnenus about 1184, and a treasure chest containing valuable specimens of Serbian ecclesiastical art. In 1916 Chilandari was raided by Bulgarian monks from the neighboring monastery of Zographou.

Caught a Monkey Stealing

One day in 1910 a well-dressed man, wearing a heavy overcoat, entered a jeweler's shop in London and asked to be shown some valuable rings. Those shown him, he said, were not quite good enough, and he asked to be shown another tray. As the attendant went to get it he glanced in the mirror specially set to show the counter when his back was turned, and, to his amazement, saw a long, hairy arm suddenly come out of the customer's pocket, seize a couple of rings, and vanish.

Assistance was quickly summoned, and the man and monkey arrested. His rooms were found filled with all sorts of valuable objects which had been stolen by this clever monkey.

Elephants at Work

In Burma there are large lumber mills, and elephants are used for rolling the logs into position for the saws, an exchange says. Pushing with their heads, they run the logs up two inclined skids to the platform; two elephants do the pushing and a third elephant acts as boss, in his trunk the boss carries a few links of anchor chain, which he uses as a whip if one elephant falls behind.

When the whistle blows they all know that it is time to stop work and eat. It makes no difference whether they have a log within a fraction of an inch of the platform; the boss drops his anchor chain and gets out of the way, and the pushers step to one side and let the log crash.

Buckskin

Buckskin, from which gloves are made, for the most part comes from Mexico and Brazil. The skins are usually smaller than those of sheep, and seldom perfect, because of the wounds or thorn scratches. The latter do not weaken the gloves, however, and, in fact, a visible scratch is pretty good proof that a glove is genuine buckskin. The leather is dressed in oil and the color is obtained with colored clay dust. Because of this method of coloring, every buckskin glove will dust off or crack the first three or four times it is worn. Buck leather is close fibered, soft after wearing and warm.

Farewell, Old Scout

Roaring Rip—Ki whoop! At last I'm goin' boys! Bury me deep—if yer find me dead!

Pizen Pete—Whar is Roarin' Rip goin'?

Prairie Rat—Well, yer see, Hurricane Gal has turned down all the boys wot proposed marriage, now Rip is goin' ter take a chance. Fetch out the picks an' shovels, boys. Dig the grave deep. Poor ol' Rip.

Tragic

Little George came to his mother apparently in great distress of mind.

"Why, what is the matter, sonny boy?" she sympathetically inquired.

"Well, mother, I'm in an awful fix. I can't decide whether to marry Mary or Ethel when I grow up. You see Mary is awful pretty, but there was a long meditative pause) Ethel has a white rat!"

Devotion of Parent Crow.

Nothing, it would seem, is more remarkable in bird nature than the devotion of the parent crow. The community mounts guard over the nest until the young are ready for flight. After the young birds have left the nests the different communities or tribes domiciled in the same region assemble with every evidence of systematic organization. Their meetings are held before the dawn and the meeting place is a deserted spot where perfect secrecy can be observed. During the session many distinctly different cries are heard and in them naturalists have pressed to see the rudiments of a language.

Battle of Herrings.

There is in French-English history an occurrence known as the Battle of the Herrings. On the outskirts of the great forest of Orleans, and not far from the city of the same name, is a town known as Rouvray, and it was here that the Battle of Herrings was fought in 1429. The English were besieging the city of Orleans, before the famous heroine, Joan of Arc, arrived. In the preparation for Lent the English were bringing in a supply of fish to their camp, when the French attacked, but were beaten off, and the contest hence was called the "Battle of the Herrings."

Tit for Tat

Dr. George McE. Lunn, the Samoan missionary, said at a missionary meeting in Denver:

"They tell a story in the Marquesas about a chief named Tusit-vail-yala, who was baptized by a French missionary priest. The priest, finding the chief's name hard to handle, baptized him Jean.

"Now, chief," he concluded, "your name is Jean, remember, and you must never eat meat on Friday—only fish!" "Tusit-vail-yala was none too pleased, perhaps, to lose his high-sounding name. Anyhow the missionary found him, the very next Friday, eating roast pig.

"Jean, Jean, eating pig on a fast day!" he cried.

"But the chief laughed easily.

"No, no! I no eat pig," he said. "I put him in water and christen him fish."—Detroit Free Press.

Will Earnest, of Plains, had business Monday with some of our attorneys.

H. R. Terrell of Rotan and C. L. Cave, of Hamlin, dropped in to see us one day last week. Mr. Cave is moving his family to Brownfield. He has a splendid place in Yoakum county he wants to trade for Brownfield city property.

Walter Yeiser and family returned last week from a visit to his brother-in-law, Oscar Allen and family, of Plainview.

C. W. Tankersley is constructing an eight room home on the draw in the south part of the city. Two big basement rooms will be partly underground, and six rooms will be on the next floor.

M. B. Newberry and family, of Plainview, and H. M. Newberry, wife, of Gould, Okla., are here to attend the Golden Wedding celebration of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Newberry of the Union community.

The Commerce Hotel is being treated to a new coat of paint this week, which adds greatly to its appearance.

Mrs. Kathleen Bailey, of Brownwood is here the guest of her brother, Joe, of the Herald force. Miss Bailey will teach Spanish and mathematics in the Slaton High School, this coming term.

Morgan Mayes and family, of Meridian, are here visiting Mrs. Mayes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Tankersley.

Mrs. Crowley was buried here on Sunday afternoon. A large concourse of people from Brownfield attended the funeral, among them quite a number of the Knights of the Ku Klux in their white robes and hoods. Services were held at the Methodist church.

Wide Variation in Vitality of Seeds

In the past there was perhaps no other trade in which swindling was so rampant as in that of the sale of seeds. The artless dealer of half a century ago adulterated his goods by adding a considerable proportion of boiled seeds.

The seed adulteration act put a stop to that practice, but not to the sale of dirty and old seeds. Most seeds are "dirty" when fresh gathered—that is, they contain a considerable percentage of weed seed, and all the great seed houses possess elaborate and costly machinery for cleaning, says London Answers.

Clover seed has to be carefully cleaned. If this is not done the result will be a crop of all kinds of pernicious weeds in the clover field. Some weed seeds, such as those of the dodder, are so tiny that it is almost impossible to detect them except under a strong magnifying glass.

Seeds vary in their powers of retaining life. While those of peas and beans will retain vitality for many years, others, such as those of the parsnip, are useless if kept over one season. Seeds of the willow and the poplar are so short-lived that unless they land at once in a moist place, they die in a few days.

Salesman Had Answer for Silly Old Saying

A salesman in an Iowa town called on a storekeeper who had an old-fashioned store in a splendid location. The salesman was of the creative type and was urging the storekeeper to change his methods, and to adopt new selling ideas.

The reply of the storekeeper was: "Oh, these old methods were good enough for my dad, and I guess they're good enough for me."

The salesman answered, and he could make this answer because of his experience and familiarity with the situation: "Your dad, when he established this store, was the most progressive merchant of his time—that's why he won success. If he had been content with the methods of your grandfather he would never have established any business at all. Your dad, and I knew him well, never refused to consider new ideas; he adopted the things that had proved successful with other merchants. If he were alive today he would be the first one to recognize that the community your store is serving is greatly changed, and that new methods must be adopted to take advantage of new conditions."—Forbes Magazine.

Toad-Stone

The toad-stone is generally described as a species of black pebble of no especial beauty as an ornament. During the Dark ages, however, it was in great demand. It was supposed to protect children from the molestation of fairies and to cure kidney and stomach troubles.

That a common toad wears a precious jewel in its head was a profound belief in the Middle ages. Its possessor was supposed to be immune from toothache, so the legend runs, and it was a sure antidote for poisons. These creatures were said to forewarn against venom by transmitting a smarting sensation to the flesh. The toad was credited with having a natural fear and antipathy for man as well as for all venomous reptiles, hence its warning.

The Word "Jovial"

The word "jovial" conceals the name of Jupiter, or Jove. A "jovial" person is theoretically, at least, a person born under the influence of the planet Jupiter, or Jove.

This planet was supposed to be the most joyful of all the planets to be born under, just as Saturn is the least joyful.

Gradually the word "jovial" became dissociated from the astrological significance and was generally applied to persons who indicated the quality of joyfulness ascribed to birth under a joyful planet.

Thus many a word in the English language, in common use, traces its origin to mystic beginnings and beliefs in the darkness of past ages.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Birds as Prophets

In early days superstitious people paid considerable attention to the birds and their different cries, which were believed to foretell events. Thus comes the old saying: "A little bird told me." Traces of this belief are to be found in our own Old Testament, where verse 29 of chapter 10 of Ecclesiastes speaks of "for a bird of the air shall carry the voice, and that which hath wings shall tell the matter." It is generally agreed that it is from this belief in the universal knowledge of birds, which, of course, are supposed to see everything from the sky—that we get this saying.

TOKIO TALKINGS

By Reporter

We are having some cool weather at present, and also some rain.

Mr. Walter Bryson and family and Mr. and Mrs. Mecks and little son, are visiting friends and relatives near Merkel.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Fitzgerald are rejoicing over the arrival of a little boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Percies have been visiting the later's sister, Mrs. Johnson. They were accompanied to Roswell, N. M., by Mr. Johnson and family.

Mr. Cook and family were visiting and attended church here Sunday. Quite a crowd of the relatives of the Taylors are visiting them this week.

Bro. A. S. Bradley is now holding a meeting at Tokio school house, and everyone is invited to attend this meeting.

We have not heard much concerning the gin this past week, so we can't tell yet whether we will build a gin or not.

A. W. Endersen, local hardware man returned from a two months visit to his parents in Sweden, last Friday, coming by way of Temple, Texas to pick up his family, who was visiting relatives there. Mr. Endersen reports that he found the folks all well in the native land, and doing very well. Sweden, not having been engaged in the world war conflict, is in much better shape than most of its European neighbors.

MEADOW BRIEFS

By Aesculapias.

"You can fool some of the people all the time; all of the people some of the time, but you cannot fool all the people all the time."

The election at our town passed off quietly, and the utmost good humor appeared to prevail at all times, between the two factions. Americans are generally good sportsmen, and extend to one another the liberty of thought and action they individually claim for themselves. Harsh criticism for each other's candidates was accepted with a smile, and the result anticipated as vindication of each sides' contention.

The voters have registered their decision after a campaign of vituperation that has never been equaled in our state. It is to be hoped that nothing approaching it will ever again be enacted, and that our people will in the future take more interest in our primaries and leave off the personal abuse indulged in this campaign.

I would be glad to know that our late opponents would drop the cause of so much strife and return to the great body of citizens who have so overwhelmingly repudiated their theories and assumptions, of what constitutes an American citizen. In the face of such crushing defeat, would it not be well to stop, look and listen. The writer has nothing but the kindest feelings for the men and women who find themselves in the minority, and he sincerely hopes they will review their position with reference to the majority of the people, that we may be again reunited as citizens, friends and brothers.

And now, "with malice toward none—with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God has given us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in * * * and that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that the government of the people,

TO THE PATRONS OF THE BROWNFIELD SCHOOLS

I take this method of presenting to you some idea of the work we contemplate doing this session. To have a successful term we must have your hearty co-operation in every effort that is put forth. We feel that you have taken a good part in the schools of the past, and earnestly desire that you will continue to aid in every possible way.

As the school is the servant of the children of the State in working out their development and preparation for life, and has for its aim the development of boys and girls into good citizens, we believe it should be so well organized and that the course of study should be so arranged as to take care of the intellectual, social and moral side of life. Experiment has taught us that the greatest thing in school life is not necessarily facts learned from books, but principles that go into the make up of character. Books are only the tools to be used in development of character. And while the literary work shall have first place, and few credits will be offered elsewhere, still we hope to incorporate in the work many things that will add interest and helpful recreation for the student body.

The past generation educated the present. The present must educate the future. Then if we would accomplish anything for the boys and girls of today in the way of closely and carefully guarding their interests we must go about the task zealously, each feeling his individual responsibility and strive to do his full duty in accomplishing the greatest good to all to whom the schools are established.

Yours for a good school at Brownfield.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Graduation

Graduation from the High School will require sixteen units credit: English 4 credits; History 3 credits; Mathematics 3 credits; Science 2 credits; Spanish 2 credits; or Latin 2 credits. The remainder to be optional.

The number of credits granted to a High School by the State Department of Education depends upon the efficiency of the work done. And since we have a limited number of teachers in the High School it will be necessary that we limit optional work to the minimum. We hope that every student shall realize that efficiency in work is the first thing to be obtained. Then credits and affiliation will follow.

FRIDAY 42 CLUB

Mrs. Geo. E. Tiernan was hostess to the Friday Forty-two club, also their husbands, on Friday the 15th. Several interesting games were played and enjoyed by all. The visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bynum, Chock Hamilton and wife, Judge Neill and wife, Mrs. McCormack and Judge Gillespie. The hostess was assisted by her niece, Miss Whisenant in serving refreshments, which consisted of fresh peaches and ice cream, angel food and chocolate cake.—Reporter.

R. M. Kendrick and family left on Monday of this week for Dickens county, where they will visit his sister, Mrs. Jenkins.

B. Tidwell and family, of Seagraves were here Tuesday night visiting Mrs. Tidwell's brother, Earl Jones and family.
