

Fightin' Chiefs Win District Crown

Stiff Defense Muzzles Morton

A QUICK FOURTEEN—Senior quarterback, Leon Massey, playing in his last game on the Friona field, handled quarterbacking chores for the Chiefs against the Indians. Massey proved himself quite capable, as is demonstrated here as he almost completes a 14-yard run, which started out as an intended pass play.

CHIEFS MAUL MORTON

12-7 FOR DISTRICT

The Chiefs won!

By mauling the Morton Indians Friday night 12-7, Colie Huffman's crew donned the title of District 3-A Champions, and extended their 1957 playing into the bi-district tilt against the Jackrabbits of Ralls.

Meeting the top-rated Morton pigskin warriors, Friona's eleven maintained the stiffest defense ever displayed on the gridiron of Friona High School. The tilt decided the championship team of District 3-A, and in winning, the Chiefs finished their district games undefeated. The Morton Indians were handed their lone defeat of the season in district competition.

Taking the opening kickoff on their own 25-yard line, the Chiefs bogged down on the first driving attempt, and Jon Mack Roden punted 30 yards to the Indian's 30-yard line.

Morton gained five yards, tried a pass which was cast for a five-yard loss, finally gained two yards, and punted 23 yards, where the Chiefs took over on the Indian's 45-yard line.

After running 10 plays the Chiefs drew the first penetration by moving to the Indian 13-yard line. The 40-yard drive was intermingled with 20 yards in penalties, which was quickly offset by a 56-yard pass from Quarterback Leon Massey to Halfback Larry Fairchild.

Massey had taken over when regular quarterback Charles Hough was injured and taken to the hospital with a dislocated left elbow.

However, the drive fagged out on a fourth-down try.

The next try by the Indians was turned into a break for the Chiefs which was quickly turned into an advantage. The Indians fumbled in their backfield, Friona's top defensive player of the night, Bomar Stacy, snatched the ball only five yards from the end zone.

It was Weldon Fairchild and Jerry London who carried the ball behind hole-drilling blocking of the Chief's line, for the short five yards in two plays to tally the first score. The point-after attempt failed.

Morton received the Chiefs' kick, ground out one play and fumbled a second time before the second play developed. Stacy again recovered.

Beginning another touchdown drive from the 33-yard line, the Chiefs' W. Fairchild, London and L. Fairchild contributed thrusts through a shifty Indian line for four first downs, and another six points from the three-yard line. The missed point-after left the score at 12-0 for the following two quarters.

The intervening time was filled in with the toughest defense ever witnessed on the Friona football field. Not a single first down was yielded to the Indians until the third play of the fourth quarter, and the net yardage gained by the Indians at the start of the final quarter stood at a meager eight yards.

The Indians then began their scoring threats, getting possession of the ball on a Chieftain fumble early in the fourth quarter.

Taking the ball on their own 11-yard line, the Indians mixed occasional runs with "last hope" passes. They picked up three first downs on the two-barrelled attempt before losing the ball to the Chiefs.

The Chiefs had control of the pigskin for the next four plays, and punted the ball to the Indians' 24-yard line, where Tackle Gary McLaughlin and End O'Neil Gresson downed the Indian safety man on the spot.

The Indians were thrown for another loss on a smothered pass and gained zero yardage on a run. Bryant Dukes, tackle, scooped in the Indians' next attempted pass on the 30, and plunged to the 25 before being stopped. The Chiefs' four-play series ended one yard shy of a first down, and Morton tossed their lone-touchdown pass the following play.

The touchdown developed from a right flat pass, which their Halfback Eddie Thompson grabbed and raced 82 yards down the sideline to the goal line. The Morton point-after was completed, to bring the score to 12-7.

With only seconds left in the game, Morton kicked short and recovered. Having time left for only one play, a Morton pass intended for Thompson was stolen by L. Fairchild, who broke loose for a 20-yard runback.

Bi-District Tilt With Ralls Opens Saturday at 2:30

The champions of District 3-A, the Friona Chiefs, meet the ruler of the 4-A district, the Ralls Jackrabbits, Saturday in a top-flight contest.

The game is to be played in Plainview at 2:30 p. m. Friona will be scored as a guest, and take the bleachers on the eastern side of the field.

The Jackrabbits have demonstrated their tremendous power in season games, losing only one of 10. Their record:

Wins—Post 13-7, Silverton, 20-0, Floydada 16-6, Morton 13-7, Idalou 40-12, Anton 46-0, Hale Center 14-14 (won on penetrations), Petersburg 25-0, and Crosbyton 7-0.

Their one loss was to Lockney

by a score of 13-0.

The Hares have a combined season score of 196 to their opponents' 59, and they held four of the opponents scoreless.

On average team weight, the Rabbits have an edge on the Chiefs, outweighing the Chiefs' line 23 pounds, and the backfield 21 pounds. Exceptional speed is not one of the Ralls team's assets, and their defense prowess was more than matched by the Chiefs' demonstrated ability on defense against Morton.

Report From Frio Draw

Dear Editor,

I wonder if you could give me a little advice.

My neighbor's cows got in my maize the other day, and really lowered it to the ground. I figure that there is at least $2,197.39 worth of damage, and that is quite a bit of damage to a little farmer like me.

I figure I ought to sue the son-of-a-gun, but if I do, he swears that he won't let me borrow his trailer, and pickup, or tractor, or harrow, or four-row cultivator anymore.

What I'm lookin' fer is someone else who has got that kinda stuff to loan out, 'cause if I find somebody that has, I is shore gonna sue.

But I want to be shore that you won't print it in your paper, if I do, 'cause then my reputation would shore be ruined as bein' a good borrower.

Yours truly,
Don Karatall

J. H. Lea Rites Conducted Monday

Funeral services were conducted for J. H. Lea, long-time resident of Friona, Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the Tenth Street Church of Christ with Bro. S. W. Pope of Borger officiating. Mr. Lea had been a member of the church many years.

Mr. Lea, who was born December 9, 1882, at Sanatobia, Miss., moved to the Friona area from Harmon County, Okla., in 1926. He and his wife observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary May 6, 1956. He had been in declining health for about a year and died in his home in the west part of town about noon Friday.

Honorary pallbearers were E. M. Jack, Bert Hadley, J. W. Baxter, Leonard Pope, E. T. Blackburn, and Ed Walters. Active pallbearers were Coy Geeter, Oscar Baxter, Leo Bails, Bob Wylie, Elton Wylie, and James Pope.

Survivors other than his wife are one son, Alfred H. Lea of Amarillo; three daughters, Mrs. C. O. Thompson, Mrs. William Hadley, and Mrs. S. A. Trig, all of Borger; two brothers, Robert Lea of Albuquerque and Lockett Lea of Sanger, Texas;

Also, five sisters, Mesdames C. E. Elrod of Sanger, Texas; Mark Gower of Visalia, Calif.; Maggie McDaniel of Calif.; John Rhodes of Oregon; and L. D. Cummings of Panhandle, Texas. Also eighteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Burial was in the Highland Cemetery at Borger under the direction of Claborn Funeral Home.

GRAHAM CRACKERS

There are a few fellows around town who are noticeably quiet this week. And they aren't all cotton farmers, either. Some come from a place down on the creek called College Station, and some are from the sticks over the line at a place they call, let's see, now, is it Norman?

Andy Hurst finds it's hard to sell shoes with tears dripping off his nose onto his customers' feet. Leland Boyd was never much of a hand to talk, but he's sure 'nuff plugged up this week.

We understand that Baker Duggins has all of a sudden gotten very interested in his basketball prospects. In fact, he won't talk about anything but basketball, even though some people understand that there are still a few college football games being played.

This may sound heretical, but it's actually healthy for teams like A & M and Oklahoma to get their noses mashed in occasionally. Oklahoma's streak was far too lengthy for the good of college football, although it made interesting reading, especially for Oklahomans.

Even going unbeaten since 1955 is too long, and it's about time somebody stopped the Aggies, too. The more that teams win and also get beaten, the less recruiting and subsidizing and emphasizing football there'll be.

Of course, nobody really enjoys a 500 season. Everybody wants to win more than he loses. But when a team gets so successful that no one else can win, it just isn't healthy for the sport.

Overshadowing even the big-time upsets last weekend was Friona's trouncing of Morton for a district championship. Needless to say, there was cause for jubilation as the whistle sounded ending the game Friday night.

The Chiefs are noted for their spunk, not size, and when they rushed to hoist Coach Colie Huffman to their shoulders, they faced an almost insurmountable task. Huffman is a champion in the specific gravity department.

Finally, with much heaving and hoing they got Colie aloft. The boys staggered a few feet with their load, but natural laws are hard to break, and the coach began to sink into the mass of red jerseys.

Acc Photo Boyd raced for the scene at top speed, but by the time he arrived, the only part of Colie visible was from his eyes up.

Parallel parking has solved the congestion problem on Main Street. There's hardly a time on any day in the week when a driver can't find a spot to sneak into.

However, this re-alignment has had its by-products. The side streets from Main are holy terraces, especially the ones on the west. It appears that folks would a lot rather walk a half block or so than to try to park parallel.

When there's parallel parking on the side streets, we don't know where the cars will go. They might not even come to town — and that's something to think about.

At any rate, it's very plain that drivers (both men and women, we've noticed), don't

Offers Mailing Hints

Predicting that the Christmas mail this year will set an all-time high, even exceeding the 1956 record, Postmaster Leo McLellan announces his 1957 "Mail Early For Christmas" Campaign this week.

"It's later than you think," says McLellan. "With Christmas only a few days more than a month away, everyone should give some consideration to getting his Christmas mailing done as soon as possible," adds the postmaster.

Further suggestions made by McLellan were that right now is the time to take the following steps:

Check your Christmas card lists very carefully to make sure that each address includes the full name, street and number, city, zone and state.

Also stock up on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape for use in securely packing and wrapping Christmas cartons.

Another point stressed by the postmaster is that if messages are included in the package it becomes necessary to add the appropriate first class mail postage to the postage for the package itself.

The deadline for mailing packages overseas for delivery before Christmas by regular mail has already passed, but packages mailed by air mail before December 10 will reach their destinations, according to McLellan.

Deputy Lists Phone Number

Deputy Sheriff Jim Roberts announces that he is ready for calls in case a need for his services arises, and that he may be reached at Friona, phone 5911.

He did not get moved to Friona in time for his number to be included in the telephone directory which he says is due to be issued soon. Persons who so desire may record his phone number so that it will be available in case he is needed.

Roberts is making occasional trips to Bovina, and his work territory consists of the eastern portion of the county, he says.

Fund Director Seeks Workers

Organization of workers for the Community Fund Drive, slated to get underway in December, is being planned by leaders of the drive, including Andy Hurst, chairman.

Hurst announces that the Community Fund seeks workers who will be responsible for helping with the drive. Organization of workers will start in about a week, he says.

Persons who desire their active support to be applied to the Community Fund Drive may contact Hurst to be included in the drive.

The charitable organizations to benefit from the drive will be announced later, with some still to give formal consent to use of their names in connection with the drive. Nine organizations have indicated they will probably share in the drive, Hurst says.

If the Community Fund idea is to be a success, people must support it heartily, Hurst says.

And they must know that this one drive is planned to replace all fund raising drives for charitable groups, and a portion of the budget is allotted for incidental drives.

Leaders of the drive have invited all fund raising charities to participate. Those that do not will be offered an amount of money equal to their regularly collected sum, with the understanding that if they take it, they are obligated not to stage another drive.

A card file will be prepared on each tax paying member of the communities included in the drive. Hub, Rhea and Black are included, as is all of the Friona Independent School District.

"We can assure contributors to the drive that this will be the only one to collect donations to charitable organizations, to the extent that people themselves support it. It can be a tremendous asset to the community if people will support it," he says.

Firemen Feed Set Tonight

The fifth week of the month Friona Volunteer Firemen's supper is slated for tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 at the Friona Club-house.

A program of films taken at the Texas Firemen's Training School is included on the program. The film, including slides, was shot by members of the local department.

Police Reserve Swears in Six

Six men are now eligible as legal peace officers in case of need or emergency. The oath of office was administered last week, according to Police Chief Ben Moorman.

The reserve force includes Danny Mack Bainum, Lee Campbell, Glenn Reeve Jr., Walter Cunningham, Ruben Taylor, and Ralph Shirley.

Services Held For Betsy Crume Friday

Funeral services for Beth Kay (Betsy) Crume, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Crume of Hereford, were held Friday afternoon at Wesley Methodist Church in Hereford at 3:30 p. m.

The little girl closed her books at Sherley School in Hereford Monday afternoon, and went home to tell her parents that school pictures were to be made Tuesday. However, on Tuesday morning Betsy had fever and remained at home, after being assured that first graders who were absent could have their pictures made at a later date.

Her condition became worse on Wednesday and she was admitted to Deaf Smith County Hospital that afternoon. She passed away at the hospital at 12:30 Thursday. Definite cause of her death was not determined, but it was believed to be a toxic condition complicated by possible influenza.

Betsy was born April 2, 1951 in Friona and lived there for a year. The family moved to Hereford on April 1, 1952.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Eugene Naugle of Hereford, former pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. Bernard Seay, the present pastor. Pallbearers were Ralph Smith, Bruce Terry, Harry Linderer and Don Blalock.

Interment was in Rest Lawn Memorial Park in Hereford, directed by Gilliland Funeral Home.

Survivors include her parents; two sisters, Judy Lynn and Prissy Jean; and her grandparents, C. E. Crume of Texico and Mrs. W. H. Graham Sr. of Farwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kappel were Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Nelson and children.

Radios Added

Equipment for establishing a base radio station for the Friona Police Department arrived at City Hall Tuesday morning. Included in the base station will be four mobile units and a monitoring receiver for the New Mexico State Police frequency in Clovis.

Two mobile units were received. One is for Police Chief Ben Moorman's private car, which he uses on frequent occasions, and one for Claborn Ambulance, which is financed by Claborn. The other two units are in the police car, and the fire truck.

Costing a total of $1,335, only half of this cost is coming from the city finances. Civil Defense is sponsoring the other half of the equipment.

SALE CONTINUES

The rummage sale, which began last Saturday at the O. F. and O. building, will be continued Friday afternoon and Saturday of this week, according to an announcement made by Mrs. Claude Osborn, president of the Parmer County Community Hospital Auxiliary, which is sponsoring the sale. Anyone who has saleable articles on hand is invited by Mrs. Osborn to bring them to the building.

Workouts Start As Squaws Prep For Basketball

Basketball for the Friona High School teams is keeping a back seat as football occupies the limelight. A game had been scheduled for tomorrow night, but was postponed, as will be other games until football season is finished, according to coaches Dempsey Watkins of the Chiefs, and Baker Duggins, of the Squaws.

Workouts for the Squaws have been in progress since week before last, and scrimmage games have been played with Dimmitt and Bovina.

The outlook for the Squaws having a successful year is fair, says Duggins. The Squaws district champion team of last year did not lose any of its members through graduation, but a star of the last year's team will not return because of her marriage, and this thins the ranks of the potential talent for guard positions.

The team is showing a good spirit and willingness to work hard, and this is what the Squaws need plenty of, Duggins says. But he points out that three additional players who were talented players transferred to Bovina for this year.

THE LINEUP

Following are listed members of the forward division, by name, experience, class, and height:

AN ARM INJURY has the Friona Chiefs' regular quarterback Charles Hough on the sidelines. The limb was forced out of joint, and a small piece was chipped off early in last week's game.

THE STAR'S EDITORIAL COMMENT

All Eggs in One Basket . . . A Step in Right Direction

To the oft-heard advice of "Don't put all your eggs in one basket" we offer this suggestion to refute it: Put all in one basket. It takes only one trip with this method.

The organization of the Community Fund is an attempt to put all eggs into one basket. We were proud to announce this organization in the Friona Star news columns of last week's edition.

Donors to charitable organizations should welcome the formation of a joint Community Fund as a step in the right direction. When the drive gets underway, contributors can give liberally, and know that this is the drive replacing nine other drives that depend on public support for success.

However, it is saddening to note that some organizations are missing from the ranks of those included in the first Friona Community Fund. The reasons for their abstaining from the joint drive is not known. If the reasons be in hopes of collecting a larger sum of money through a separate fund-raising drive, it is not logical that they will be able to do this. For a community, in combining the several fund raising drives, is clearly showing that it seeks to avoid endless solicitations. This is the announced intention of the Friona Community Fund.

We hail this as a noble intention, and urge the citizens of the included communities to recognize the Friona Community Fund as an excellent organization with which to entrust donations to worthy causes.

The situation in prior years—several different drives—will be remedied. Under the old setup, one organization at a time sought funds, often including the same persons as members of solicitation teams for different drives. This continued until persons about to be asked for contributions knew what was wanted before the solicitor dropped a hint of his purpose.

The same persons, no doubt, will be included as leaders and solicitation team members of the Community Fund Drive. They know in detail how much more satisfactory this combination of fund drives will be.

The Community Fund merits success. But the directors recognize that everybody must join their energies before the goal can be accomplished. One effort that interested persons can put forth now is discussing the drive with others, so that all will be informed of the worthiness of the drive.

Return Match Featured Saturday

The featured event of the regular Saturday night wrestling at the Hereford Bull Barn on November 23 will be a return match between Leo Garibaldi and Hans Schnabel. The last time these two wrestled in the Hereford arena, the bout was scheduled for one hour time limit or two out of three falls. This match was won by Schnabel. Instead of pushing Garibaldi's shoulders down to the canvas, he pulled the canvas up to Garibaldi's shoulders. During the last ten minutes of this bout Garibaldi had Schnabel on the ropes. When Schnabel could take no more he would step outside the ropes and stay until the referee had almost finished counting, then get back inside the ring.

In addition to the return match, there will be two girl wrestlers and a mixed tag team match. In the first event Rita Cortez and Judy Grable will wrestle for one fall or fifteen minutes time limit. In the second event Rita Cortez and Bob Geigel will battle it out with Judy Grable and Sonny Myers for two out of three falls or 45 minutes time limit.

There will be no time limit in the main event, Garibaldi and Schnabel will contend for two out of three falls with the winner taking all. According to H. E. Wester, promoter, this promises to be one of the most interesting cards this season.

Group Attends State Convention

Twelve Parmer County residents are in Dallas this week attending the state convention of the Farm Bureau. Ralph Smith, who is serving on the resolutions committee, has been there for several days.

Those leaving Sunday by bus were Messrs. and Mmes. Raymond Euler, Dennis Williams, Gilbert Kaltwasser, M. T. Glasscock, J. D. White, and Mrs. Ralph Smith. The group plans to return home today (Thursday).

in & around FRIONA WITH JUNE

The most exciting news this week is the winning of the district championship by the Friona Chiefs. Their win over Morton on the Chieftain field Friday evening makes them contenders for the bi-district title. They will play Ralls at Plainview Saturday afternoon.

Those who have been complaining about the lack of local support for the home games surely don't have any complaint to make this week. Of course, Friday evening was probably an exception, but there were more people at the football game than there were absent.

A lot of Morton fans were in the stands cheering for their team and a lot of visitors from neighboring towns were there, too. All in all the crowd added up to a full stadium, a lot of people seated on the ground, and a line four or five deep along the lines.

The weather was wonderful, the bands from Friona and Morton presented beautiful performances at the half, and Friona's winning made it add up to a nice evening. Raye Jene Jones, the football queen, watched the game attired in her royal robe and crown seated on the back of a red convertible.

Another group that added color to the performances was the Friona pep club. The cheerleaders, who were dressed in red skirts and white sweaters, led the yells. Cheerleaders are Jan Edelman, Peggy Taylor, Paula Neel, Robbie Boggess, and Phyllis Dean.

Some former Frionans who were present were Mr. and Mrs. John LeMay of Hart and J. L. Marcum of Hereford. LeMay was the principal of the elementary school here before accepting a position as superintendent of the Hart school. Marcum, who is currently in business at Hereford, was a partner in the operation of Marcum-Claborn Funeral Home and Flower Shop when it first opened here.

Some of the ex-students of Friona High who were on the cheering lines were Don Reeve, Phillip Weatherly, Joe McLellan, Ardith Rolan, Wesley Barnett, Deann Buske, and Denise Magness, who attend Texas Tech at Lubbock, and Burr Blake, who is a student at North Texas State College at Denton.

Also Charles Beaton, Roy Young, Harold Taylor, and Buford Carter, who are serving in the United States armed forces. These four have been stationed at Fort Hood and after spending about three weeks here, they will report to Fort Dix, N. J., for assignments in Germany.

Surely that is enough about football except this final admonition. Be sure to attend the game at Plainview Saturday afternoon and help the boys go on to regional.

Farmers are very appreciative of the few days they were able to get into the fields. A lot of maize was cut the two or three days that it was dry enough to cut. It is doubtful if as many vehicles have ever been stuck in as many fields as have been the past few days.

Cotton John did his part toward helping Friona get on the map one morning last week. Ralph Smith, who is serving on the resolutions committee at the state Farm Bureau convention, was on the program. Then the time signal was given from the home of Deann Buske, who is a candidate for a national home economics organization office.

There were some interesting pictures and a story in the most recent publication of the Pioneer Gas Company about the opening of the office in Friona. This is indeed a nice new business for our city and those of us who attended the grand opening enjoyed it very much.

Isn't it surprising how quick most of us forget things? All of us were very interested in our Pony Express Race last month. The next day probably 95% of us could have told anyone the names of the riders, the communities that participated, and maybe the time it took each team to ride into town. What a difference we found Saturday afternoon.

Howell Mayfield of KGNC called and asked for information concerning the race. Since the names had not been printed in the paper the following week, we were afraid to trust our memory but promised to find out and call him back.

Three hours and several dozen telephone calls later we were able to supply the needed information. Of course, all of these calls were not answered. Some of the replies we got, and we felt exactly the same way, were, "I don't know for sure," "I know who intended to ride, but some changes had to be made due to illnesses and other last minute developments," "I am just afraid to say," "You had better call someone else."

If you want to go on a ten-minute foliage tour, drive out toward the Leo McLellan farm west of town. The fruit trees are beautiful shades of orange, red and brown, and the shade trees are a different shade of brown. All together they make a beautiful sight.

A hint to the wise. There are just three full shopping weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas, and Thanksgiving is just one week away.

Some of the most attractive posters we have ever seen have been made by members of the Modern Study Club, and maybe some other organizations, and put in windows around town. They are advertising the Christmas Card Project and direct persons who are interested in participating to go to the Friona State Bank for further information.

If you haven't taken care of your local Christmas greetings, there never will be any more convenient time than right now.

Woods Retires After Forty-Four Years

A. W. Woods retired recently after more than 44 years service with the Santa Fe Railway. Woods, who first went to work for the railroad on April 13, 1913, began work at Summerfield and except for two years' duty at Canyon, spent most of his time in Parmer County.

He left the employ of the railroad in 1919 and filed on a claim near House in Quay County, N. M. This quarter section was located 3 1/2 miles north of House, and Woods sold it several years after he proved up on it.

Woods, who was born at Zebulon, Ga., December 13, 1880, came to this area in 1907. He stopped at Taiban, N. M., where he worked on a ranch. He was married to Miss Ruby

A. Jordan in September of 1909 at a Presbyterian minister's home between Cantubra and Melrose, N. M.

In the spring of 1914 the Woods family moved from Summerfield to Bovina. After 1 1/2 years in Bovina, Woods transferred to Canyon for two years then returned to Bovina two years later. In 1928 he was transferred to Friona and worked here continuously for 29 years.

Most of the time Woods was in the employ of the Santa Fe he was a section foreman. Since most of the section employees were Spanish speaking people, it was necessary for him to learn to speak their language. Says Woods, "Learning to speak Spanish was one of the hardest jobs I had to do."

Many improvements have been made in equipment for section work since Woods first began working for Santa Fe. At the present time motorized equipment is used for installing ties. "All of this used to be done by hand, but now the ties are being installed by machinery. They have machines that remove the ties, push other ties into place, drive the spikes and tamp the dirt," was the reply made by Woods when asked about the changes. Upon being asked about the changes in weather; Woods replied, "The older the snow-storms get, the worse they get. Two we had the past two years were the worst I have ever seen. Of course, we use snow plows now and used to have to scoop the snow off by hand."

"Floods, well we just don't have them since the dike was built in 1941. The company spent sixty or seventy five thousand dollars building it and we haven't had a flood since."

The Woods family lived in the section house in 1941 and was in the three big floods which came that year. In talking about those floods, Woods said, "I've seen all three of the big tracks that were on the main line wash over against the siding and they were made of 110 lb. steel. They had to be re-installed several times before the rains finally quit that summer."

Mr. and Mrs. Woods now live in a home of their own, which they purchased several years ago. Their granddaughter, Judy Fesser, lives with them. They have three children. Mrs. Ruby May Brookfield, who lives here; Mrs. Wanda Laverne Fesser, who lives at Lake City, Colo.; and James Wiley Woods, who lives at Jerome, Idaho.

They also have nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

When asked how he planned to spend his time, he replied, "Well, now I will have time to play dominoes and checkers. I've always liked those two games, but never had much time for them."

IS YOUR INSURANCE AGENT
No-Faced?

They used to call the nameless, door-to-door peddler "the man without a face." Slipping into town without notice—and out again the same way—he depended on a glib tongue to sell his cheap books and kitchen gimmicks. He didn't want to be remembered or recognized—after he had made his sale.

When you're buying a gadget worth a few pennies, it may not be important whether you buy it from a reputable, established dealer or a peddler "without a face." But when you buy something important, like an insurance policy, you want to know the man who sells it—and be able to find him when you want him.

So be sure when you insure. Buy your protection from an established, local independent agent to whom you're a neighbor, not a number. Look for the agent who displays the red and white Capital Stock seal—the "standard of protection" for more than a century. That's your guide to real "peace of mind" insurance anywhere.

FAITH ONLY—
IS IT SCRIPTURAL?

"Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only." (James 2:24.) "Faith without works is dead." (James 2:20) "For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." (James 2:26) How could language be plainer that faith only will not save or justify the sinner? Salvation is by faith but not by faith only. The degree of faith that obeys God is the faith that justifies.

OBEDIENCE IS ESSENTIAL

Jesus said, "Not everyone that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." (Mt. 7:21) Romans 6:17-18 says, "But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered unto you. Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness."

Harvest Outlook Much Improved

Four straight days of sunshine—a record—has sent area farmers scurrying to the fields this week, as they anxiously push into what they hope will be a big harvest movement.

Drizzly weather has virtually staked up harvesting operations for over a month, and this is the first sustained break in the weather that has occurred since milo cutting and cotton picking began.

Parmer County area farmers have $20 million or more out in the fields, yet to be taken in to the barns, elevators, gins, and warehouses. Never before in the area's history has so much been at stake at this time of year. This is the first time that comparable weather has occurred since this part of the High Plains developed its irrigated, high-cost, high-yield farm economy.

The returns are high, but the stakes are always high, too, and to lose all or even a substantial part of this year's produce would mean financial disaster for the big majority of farmers.

Some winds have kicked up during the week, which have brought more worries to farmers. They are now reporting falling in amounts that can be termed serious. Especially hard hit are some corn-growing farmers who haven't been able to cut their crop yet, and quite a bit of the corn is going to the ground.

Unless foul weather returns, the milo harvest is expected to zoom today and this weekend, and log-jams at elevators will be commonplace. The cotton harvest will mesh gears again, and some farmers will probably begin stripping this weekend.

The sunshine is finally opening bolls in the upper part of the plants, even though many of these "top crop" bolls have been nipped by frost and soured by the wet weather.

Most farmers agree that both yield and quality of cotton will be curtailed in the area this year, and that the crop will be comparable to that of 1955 in its returns.

The few reports of grain sorghum yields that have trickled in indicate that yields of that crop will hold up well, even though some loss has occurred due to lodging.

If the clouds do not return to interrupt activities again, there will be the biggest and most rushed harvest this area has yet seen. There were only two days of cutting available for producers last week, and even then, they rushed into the fields in huge numbers to combine test loads—many of which turned out too wet.

NEWS FROM THE FARM BUREAU

By RAYMOND EULER

Well, by the time you read this, the 24th Annual Texas Farm Bureau Convention will have been held and policies for the organization determined for the next twelve months.

Now, community and county Farm Bureau people will begin compiling suggestions for improving the lot of the American farmer next year. Like other worthwhile things, the work of Farm Bureau is never done, but is always being done.

It appears at this time that the Texas Farm Bureau quota of 72,500 members will have been reached this year. Millard Shivers, organizational director, believes the goal has been reached but had to wait for completion of total tabulations to be sure.

Jack Patterson, and others on the membership committee of PCFB, are well pleased with the response so far to the draft authorization requests they sent out to all members. Some people don't like the draft system, while others welcome it as another means of freeing them from details. Their purpose in offering this plan of paying dues is to cut down on overhead expenses incurred in sending out billing.

The money and time saved can be used to give better service to members in other fields, they say. They would appreciate your returning your card with or without signature as soon as possible, with any remarks or suggestions you may have to improve your organization and its service to you.

Consider this: A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children's children: and the wealth of the sinner is laid up for the just. Proverbs 13:22

Elmer Lowrie, who farms west of Bovina, got a taste of combining sesame this year—somewhat by accident. Lowrie, although terming his combining harvest this year successful, says he'll still stick with cutting and shocking, then threshing—as the safest procedure year after year.

Combining Sesame Paid Off For Elmer Lowrie

Many farmers hopped on the sesame band wagon this year, as they continued their search for new and more profitable field crops. It has been a rugged season for the sesame grower, just as it has been hard on cotton and grain producers.

However, the 3,000-some-odd acres in the Parmer County area are turning out quite well this year, and if threshing can be completed successfully, sesame will have taken a big step in its growth on this part of the High Plains.

Since sesame is so new, one would not think that farmers would be already adopting new methods of producing it. Such experimentation would wait, one might suppose, until a farmer felt sure he understood many things about the crop. However, conditions sometimes dictate a farmer's action more than he anticipates, and a good example of that was when Elmer Lowrie, who farms west of Bovina, was forced to combine 50 acres of sesame this year—and he did it successfully.

Lowrie planted 100 acres to the "new" crop, and according to him, "I'd never stood in a field of that stuff before." So, he had a lot to learn. He didn't get the crop in until June 9, which put him behind the eight ball from the beginning, and then when poor weather for maturing conditions set in this fall, he knew he was headed for trouble with his sesame.

The wet weather continued for days and the crop was very slow to finish out. Then, the freeze came, and the crucial time for sesame growers was at hand. Lowrie knew he must act quickly to get the crop out, picked up, and shocked to dry out before the seed pods shattered and let the produce fall to the ground, but he hit a hitch.

A custom operator who had agreed to come in and cut the crop didn't show up, and there wasn't nearly enough time to cut and bind the 100 acres, so Lowrie did the only other thing he knew to do.

He called in a neighbor, Hubert Ellison, and the men went to work with a combine, crossing their fingers on the outcome. Surprisingly, the harvest went very well, and only a small amount was lost to shattering. Lowrie says the wind caused most of his loss—not the combine.

After about half of the crop had been combined, the remainder was put in the shock in the conventional manner, and is still awaiting threshing. However, the seed that was combined has long since gone to market, and the yield turned out almost 1,000 pounds per acre—surprisingly good considering conditions.

"I came out a lot better than I hoped I would," says the Bovina man. "I was afraid that 50 acres of sesame was a complete loss, but it sure wasn't."

On the basis of that yield, Lowrie will gross about $100 an acre, and his production costs are comparable with raising milo. At such a figure, his 1,000-pound sesame is equivalent to about a 6,000-pound milo crop.

Lowrie is pretty pepped up about sesame prospects, and he says he's coming back with a substantial acreage increase for next year, probably around 200 or 250. However, he isn't making plans to combine his next year's crop, even though it worked out all right this season.

Weather conditions have to be just so-so before a venture such as this can prove feasible, and risks of high losses in shattering are too great when the usual shock-and-thresh method is available and almost fool-proof.

When shatter-proof or shatter-resistant varieties are perfected, things may change. At least, one farmer has proved that sesame can be combined successfully—even if he didn't plan to do it that way!

Four County Men On TRF Council

Increased interest in the agricultural research activities at the High Plains Station of the Texas Research Foundation at Halfway has resulted in the appointment of new members to the advisory council for the station.

These appointments were made to give more widespread representation on the council and to give recognition for efforts made in behalf of the station.

Warren Embree, Bovina, is a new member. Other members on the board re-appointed for 1957-58 are Dick Gerles, Farwell; W. L. Edelman, Friona; and Woodrow Fleming, Hub.

One of the traditional dishes on any Thanksgiving table is pumpkin pie. A new version of this favorite is Apple-Kin pie. This pie can be made with a variety of toppings. Whipped cream and colored candies make a very pretty garnish.

Apple-Kin Pie

- 1 cup cooked pumpkin
- 1 cup canned apple sauce
- ½ cup light brown sugar
- pinch of salt
- 1½ teaspoons cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon ginger
- ¼ teaspoon cloves
- 4 eggs
- ½ cup heavy cream
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 9" unbaked pastry shell
- Combine pumpkin, apple sauce, sugar, salt, and spices. Beat eggs; add scald milk and cream; add slowly, mixing well. Pour into unbaked pastry shell. Bake in hot oven 45-50 minutes, or until inserted knife comes out clean. Cool. Garnish with whipped cream and candies or your favorite topping.

homes more attractive to our children, they would spend more time at home.

Making homes attractive includes a lot more than interior decorating. A home should be a place where each member of the family feels free to invite friends in without fear of being criticized for upsetting the household schedule. Entertaining need not be a lot of work or expense.

If given a little cooperation, some freedom to plan the activities of the evening, and not too much supervision, children of almost any age will enjoy entertaining their friends.

None of us know all the answers, but it is something we should think about seriously. Could your child make the same complaint about you? All criticism isn't bad for us. In fact, there is nothing that helps us grow in any vocation like constructive criticism.

Someone has listed the seven national crimes as:

1. I don't think.
2. I don't know.
3. I don't care.
4. I'm too busy.
5. I "leave well enough alone."
6. I have no time to read and find out.
7. I am not interested.

Every homemaker should strive to keep her name off the list as being guilty of any of these crimes.

One of the things we wonder about is, "Why do American people spend money they don't have for things they don't need to impress people they don't like to begin with?" Read that somewhere, but have forgotten where.

THE PARMER FARMER

W. H. GRAHAM JR.

"If you can see that your water will all be pumped out within 50 years and that the High Plains will become an 'economic graveyard,' then why do you keep pushing this as such a great place and keep making such big plans for the future?"

That's a question we have had asked us a number of times. The questioners have always been sincere, and not at all sarcastic in their queries. They just wonder where we get all our enthusiasm.

The answer isn't easy to give, but we think we have a good one, and often go to considerable lengths to explain it. In the first place, it does not necessarily follow that we will ever run out of underground water, even though our table is declining steadily, and based on average withdrawals over the past few years, the life expectancy is seen to come somewhere within the next half century.

That is true for several reasons. One is sheer economics. When pumping lifts increase and well capacities decline, the point of diminishing returns for many crops now enjoying big acreages and lots of water will be reached, and consumption will taper off proportionately, thereby lengthening the amount of time it would take to deplete our reserves.

But, happily, there are kinder forces at work which will help conserve our greatest natural resource. One is our increasing understanding and use of recharge principle that can, on an average rainfall, help to sustain moderate pumpage rates rather indefinitely, provided maximum use is made of all recharge opportunities.

Also, as the years roll by, distribution of water to the growing plants is certain to improve in efficiency, both for economic and conservation reasons. There is a great and challenging field open here, which is being only partially solved by even our underground tile systems, which we now consider the epitome of application efficiency.

Wasting water by running it down the ditches in the form of "tailwater" is a visible and very noticeable sign of careless use of our water, but it isn't necessarily the biggest waste we have.

Over-irrigation and under-irrigation are both very wasteful, and it is amazing to determine, by actual measurement and figures, how much ground is saturated with our expensive water that no plant root ever gets to. Much will be learned in the category of efficient use.

So, if we use reasonable care in using our water, and keep abreast of new techniques, the chances for extension of our irrigated economy into many more generations are not far-fetched at all.

Furthermore, just suppose that no water could ever be returned to our underground sands, and that we could precisely calculate that in 2007 our water would be gone, period. Is that such a startling outlook?

Today, we recognize the communities based on an oil economy as among the most prosperous of the Southwest. Yet the oil reserves which they sit atop of are certainly exhaustible—and, they are not renewable. At the present rates of withdrawal of crude, most of the giant fields of Texas will be greatly depleted within another 50 years. Certainly, we are no worse off than they!

And, who knows what the future will bring, anyway? Within the next 50 years, power from the atom is certain to drastically curtail the use of petroleum as a fuel. In agriculture, we certainly will have the desalting of sea water in a plentiful and inexpensive form. We may even see large scale "laboratory" farming where great amounts of food are produced in plastic containers filled with water and chemicals.

Changes are coming. We can not dodge them. Some of them will hurt, but others will help. The best philosophy is to live today for today, and to plan today as far into the future as seems practical in the light of today's needs. Certainly, we can look forward to modest prosperity even on the basis of an exclusively-agricultural economy for two, perhaps three, generations.

What, then, do we have to get the doldrums about? Can you think of anyone or anything invulnerable to the march of progress?

The Roy Clements Family of Friona

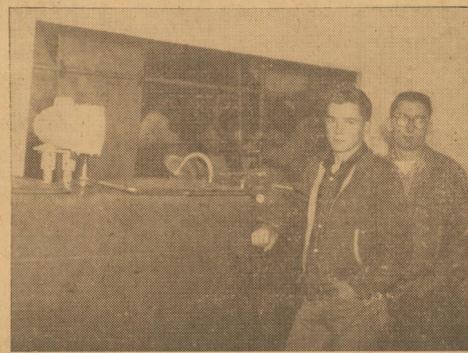

Parmer County Farm Family of the Month

The Roy Clements family of two miles west of Friona is well deserving of the title, "Parmer County Farm Family of the Month." They and their two fine boys, Jim Roy, 16, and Don, 15, are well known for their neighborliness, for their happy family living, and their cordiality to everyone.

Taking an active interest in their community life, Mr. Clements takes time during the rush of the summer to assist in directing the summer baseball program of the Friona Pony League. Mrs. Clements is a member of the Parmer County Community Hospital Auxiliary.

Jim Roy and Don are both members of the Friona Future Farmers of America chapter. Jim plays football for the district-winning Friona Chiefs, and younger brother Don helps with managing chores for the Chiefs.

Don and Jim Roy with bulk milk tank for dairy.

Included in the enterprises on the Clements farm is a herd of quality Holstein dairy cattle. About 250 acres of the Clements farm is devoted to dairying, and the cattle of the herd maintain a production average of approximately 14,400 pounds a year.

To aid in the successful operation of the dairy, Clements depends heavily on electricity.

Electricity powers the milking machines, heats water for maintaining a sanitary operation, and maintains the milk at cool temperatures, through a large gallonage bulk milk tank. The bulk milk tank also increases the butterfat content test over can storage.

Depending so heavily on electricity, Clements has available a motor and generator to take over if power were to fail. But he is proud that service has not been interrupted since the bulk tank has been installed. The low cost power provided by electricity is the cheapest on the place, he says.

Plenty of fresh water for the sheep is the aim of this tank and trough. Here, Frank Seale, Farwell farmer, turns out some water for his large flock. Sheep are doing well on his farm.

Block salt is taken voluntarily by the sheep to keep up their requirements of this important mineral. Troughs in the background will be used for supplement feeding which is to begin soon.

★ ★ ★ Sheep Do Well On Seale Farm

Just a few short generations ago, sheep were the scourge of the range, and Parmer County, in the giant XIT ranch then, probably has a natural, though unconscious, resistance to the woolly animals, even though the plow has put the cow to rout.

But, encouraged by depressed prices for other livestock, and lower prices for cash crops, sheep are trickling back a few at a time into the Parmer County area. These lost sheep that are returning to the fold are being welcomed by a favorable government incentive program, too, that provides a guarantee of around 100 percent of parity or better for wool from their backs. That has its effect on the transition.

Last year, Charles Seale, who farms east of Farwell, had some sheep. However, that is a rather unhappy part of the story. Charles lost quite a few of his lambs to natural and unexpected causes and his venture ended up in the red. For one thing, the sheep got onto the railroad track one day, and, well, that's a sad story. Let's look at a brighter one.

Charles' brother, Frank, watched the sheep project with interest. Although its hazards were painfully apparent, he noticed that sheep held some promises, too. For one thing, "they love weeds," says Frank, "and that's the thing I noticed the most to begin with."

So, in July this year, Frank took the plunge and bought 596 head of lambs, most of them of the Rambouillet breed, that averaged about 60 pounds each. Two loads were purchased. One came from Stanton, the other from San Angelo. A sheep dealer handled the trade for Seale. Part of the sheep were acquired at 18 cents a pound, and a later shipment went at 19½ cents. That gave Seale an initial investment of several thousand dollars. But he was off in the sheep business in great style.

Seale had the good fortune of having almost ideal pasture conditions on his farm. He did something rather unusual in turning the sheep loose in his corn patch, and discovered, happily, that they caused virtually no damage.

They would graze off the low-growing leaves as far as they could reach, and besides, would eat every weed in sight.

That went on for a good while, and the lambs did well and put on weight satisfactorily. Seale had no trouble with sickness. In fact, the vet has never visited the flock.

About October 1, the sheep were shorn, and the wool clip averaged about four pounds per head across the flock. The wool, worth about 40 cents a pound fresh clipped, is in storage in San Angelo, awaiting what Seale feels sure will be better prices.

"Wool stores easily," he says. "All you have to do is keep it dry and you're all right."

When the wool is sold clean, Seale figures it will bring about 55 cents a pound, and then he will receive the government incentive payment of 20 cents a pound on top of that. USDA has for the past year or two underwritten domestic wool production with a direct subsidy to stimulate production.

Right now, the sheep are in what probably is a sheep's "seventh heaven." They are virtually turned loose on the farm, and can choose from either the wheat or barley for fresh pasture, or can graze in a nearby field to get roughage. Seale even lets them nibble on some nearby sesame shocks which he didn't get fenced off in time to protect.

Seale says his expenses so far have been very nominal. The 25 acres of wheat and the 25 acres of barley pasture are all volunteer from this year's crop, and he wrote the cane off as a loss this year when wind toppled it.

Only slight damage was inflicted to his corn, and he feels that if he had given the grazing sheep more attention, he could have prevented that loss. He's just now making plans to begin feeding cottonseed meal as a supplement, as the natural pasture is about depleted.

Seale would have sent his sheep to market earlier, but because of favorable feed conditions on his place, he is keeping the flock long enough so that they will be ready for slaughter when he lets them go.

That will be about December 1, he figures.

They will then weigh an average of about 110 pounds, and will hit the market at what Seale hopes will be about 21 cents. The market is good right now, and should continue steady. If that pans out, it will mean that Seale will have a spread between the price he paid for the sheep and what he sold them for, plus his gain, plus his wool clip. On paper, that looks mighty good, and the gross profit could be somewhere around $6,000.

Labor, feed, death losses, transportation, and so on would have to come off that, of course.

"I'm sure sold on my sheep," says Seale, who has every intention of getting right back into the business next year. "I have always heard how hard they are to raise and how much trouble they are, but I have had better luck with them than anything I have ever raised."

The Farwell farmer refutes sheep are tender animals and often die for no reason at all. "My sheep have been as tough as anything," he maintains.

The only trouble with disease Seale has encountered has been with screw worms. Sheep love goatheads, but sometimes they get their mouth injured with the stickers, and then are open to attack by flies that carry the worms.

Seale says he has had good luck in treating and caring for his animals, though, and that he is planning on going to market with 570 head.

Most of the county allotment must, under the law, be divided among farms on which cotton was grown in 1955, 1956, and 1957. It is assumed that the county allotment will be adequate to the extent that each "old" cotton farm will receive an allotment for 1958 which is equal to or greater than the allotment established for that farm in 1957, he says.

A small reserve is set aside for "new" cotton farms, adjustment and errors.

want to park parallel until they have to.

There are stories going the rounds that Friona will be the site of another vegetable shed or two before next season rolls around. This, basically, is good news for the community and its trade territory. Greater diversification of agricultural production is sorely needed.

We don't think Friona needs another vegetable shed because the one here isn't doing a good job, though. We talked with Kenneth Neill, manager, just recently, and are very pleased with his wholesome attitude about prospects for "competition."

Kenneth says that in the long run more sheds will make it better for Friona Growers & Shippers—not worse. A bigger vegetable deal here would mean more pull for such things as labor and trucks, which has been a worry for the local processors all season long.

Friona now gets the "leaving" from Hereford, and the management of the shed here is seldom left any choice when it comes to picking and hiring its labor and contracting for "competition."

Actually, it is amazing to see what little difference in total acreage plantings even a fairly big vegetable deal makes. For instance, there are about 400,000 acres in cultivation in Parmer County. At the present time, there is something on the order of one tenth of one percent devoted to vegetables. If acreage skyrocketed five times greater next year (which it won't), the total would still be only about one half of one percent of the land that is farmed!

That shows what truly astounding potentials we have locked in our farms for diversification. To think of vegetables is not to forget cotton, grain sorghum, and wheat. Of course not. But most of our farms are carrying too many eggs in one basket for the health of the local economy.

In Hereford the other day, we made an attempt to make a quick count of the vegetable sheds there. Some of the buildings may no longer be in use, but we counted about 10 or 11. Still, Hereford's "big crops" are milo and wheat.

Friona certainly is not about to get "crowded" for vegetable deals.

And the local vegetable shed isn't the only Friona organization worth bragging on, either. Nearly every week, we run into someone or something that makes us appreciate all the more Parmer County Community Hospital.

In this week's Tula Herald we notice this headline on the front page: "Hospital Board Makes Proposal To Swisher Commissioners—Lease, Refinance, or Close."

Many small hospitals are having tremendously hard times, including the one in Tula that is owned by the county. The folks over there have been in and out of hot water, financially speaking, for years. It looks as if it's about time to do something drastic, for them.

"Non-paying patients are obviously driving the hospital to the brink of disaster," according to the paper. Unpaid and delinquent bills are almost $11,000, and accounts receivable (considered current) are over $20,000.

We have no idea what the delinquencies at the hospital here are, but imagine that they are considerable. The local hospital not only has that problem to surmount, but is now located in a wonderful new building which it is making payments on, not being able to depend on tax funds.

We don't know of another hospital in a comparable community that measures up to Parmer County Community Hospital right here.

ENMU Choir Makes Texas Appearances

Larry Fairchild remains in the top bracket of yardage gainers for the Chiefs, totaling 89 yards, including a 56-yard pass.

Weldon Fairchild trailed slightly with a total of 60 yards, all of his ground out running.

Jerry London stepped off 26 of the Chiefs' total. Leon Massey, taking over quarterback chores early in the first quarter, tallied a sizeable 56 yards, 14 of it when he faded back to pass but found no receiver and skirted the Indian end to gain the needed first down.

L. Fairchild, in intercepting the last pass of the ball game, caught his first pass thrown by opponents, and kept his word given prior to that that he was waiting for a "good one."

After handily defeating the Indians, the Friona Chief team handled quite effectively another task, by carrying their coach, Colie Huffman, part of the distance from the field.

Elevator Board Okays Dryer

The board of directors of Friona Wheat Growers last week decided to add a grain dryer to the facilities at the elevator.

However, the equipment is not to be installed until after January, 1958.

The dryer will have a capacity of approximately 2,000 bushels an hour and will be heated with natural gas. Site of its location will be south of the elevator, Arthur Drake, the manager, says.

Facts For FARMERS

About Anhydrous Ammonia

WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT FROM USING IT:

First, you can expect a more profitable farming operation. And the attractive thing is that your expectations are fulfilled. This is demonstrated in this area this year, on a greater scale than ever before, because more and more farmers are proving the benefits of Anhydrous Ammonia on their farms.

HOW MUCH YOU SHOULD USE:

That is a good question. Because figures are not available from experiments in this area, it is difficult to judge accurately. However, several farmers in this area have used more than 120 pounds per acre, and have found that yields were increased profitably.

WHAT CROPS NEED IT:

Whether it is grain or cotton, or corn, or the minor crops, available plant food and water are essential for productive soil. And most farms, even dryland farms, receive enough water for profitable use of Anhydrous Ammonia.

Among the basic nutrients, nitrogen is depleted most readily. But luckily, nitrogen is the most inexpensive of the nutrients to replace, because of Anhydrous Ammonia. It is the most concentrated form of nitrogen fertilizer available today. All major crops grown on Parmer County soil will benefit from application of Anhydrous Ammonia.

Bainum Butane offers:

★ John Blue Applicators for your use, equipped with the latest in accurate metering pumps. Simple to set. You can use these and be sure of the amount of Anhydrous Ammonia you are applying.

★ Anhydrous Ammonia trailers equipped with vapor pumps for transferring Anhydrous Ammonia to applicator tanks.

Apply Anhydrous Ammonia with our modern and accurate equipment, and be sure of the amount applied per acre. Apply it like you want it applied, and save the difference.
