The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. B.

EISENDOWN ON the front page and accompanying to the announcement that, effective February 15, the Press will be published three times each week. Those who are thinking of what this means will appear a bit miffed Tuesday, for the first time in years.

The management of The Press has decided to make this change. In doing so, they have taken into consideration the fact that the job of a newspaper is to provide the general public with his daily news and provide us with our part of the world. We have consequently been reading our newspapers with some consternation, but more and more rapidly. We have become aware that to do this effectively, we must provide a daily newspaper that is written to be understood and read by those in whose hands the papers fall.

Most people are without a doubt better informed than before. They are better informed, in fact, than they should be. We must make our newspapers better understood and better read.

There is no reason why we should not be able to do this. We can make it happen if we try. The time is ripe, the place is right, and the stage is set. It is not that the news is not there. It is there, and it is there in abundance. It is there in every issue of the newspapers. It is there in every issue of the newspapers, whether they be daily or weekly, in every edition, whether they be morning or evening. There is always news in these newspapers, whether they be morning or evening. There is always news in these newspapers, whether they be morning or evening. There is always news in these newspapers, whether they be morning or evening. There is always news in these newspapers, whether they be morning or evening.

WE'RE A LITTLE bit in awe as we look back over the past year. We have seen so many wonderful things, so many beautiful things, so many important things happen. We have seen so many wonderful things, so many beautiful things, so many important things happen. We have seen so many wonderful things, so many beautiful things, so many important things happen. We have seen so many wonderful things, so many beautiful things, so many important things happen.

EXPANSION IN INDUSTRY

Since World War II, industrial expansion in this country has been on the scale of which it was ever before. New plants and factories have been built, new markets have been developed, and new products have been introduced on a larger scale than ever before in history. The result has been a tremendous increase in the production of goods and services, which in turn has led to an increase in the standard of living for all Americans.

The chemical industry is a particularly good example of this expansion. In the 15 months ended last October 31st, the chemical industry finished 553 new construction projects costing $1,231,000,000. This represents an increase of 89% over the previous year and is an indication of the vigor with which industry is moving forward.

The expansion of industry has not been confined to the chemical industry alone. All major industries have been expanding at a tremendous rate. The result is that the economy is moving forward at an unprecedented pace.

DEADLY ACCIDENT

A deadly accident occurred in a chemical plant in which all workers were employed. The accident occurred in a room where large quantities of chemicals were stored. The workers were required to handle these chemicals in order to complete the production expansion. It is believed that the accident occurred as a result of a reaction that took place between the chemicals.

The workers were wearing protective clothing and were working in a well-ventilated area. However, it is not clear what caused the accident to happen. An investigation is under way to determine the exact cause of the accident.

STOP WORRYING

If you are like most people, you have probably heard that worry is a waste of time. However, the truth is that worry can be very productive. In fact, the more you worry, the more you tend to work harder. So, stop worrying and get to work.

World Mission Supper
Is Enjoyed By Church

Members of the First Presbyterian Church attended a World Mission Supper series on style Thursday at 6 p.m. in the church basement. The theme of the supper being Indian culture. Each person was given a brown bag which included a map of the area of the world and a booklet of foreign words. The guests were to memorize it and teach it to one other person. This is the way adults in India are taught to read and write.

Intermediate GA's
Meet On Wednesday evening at 6:30, at the First Baptist Church held a meeting for the Junior and Senior Departmen. Wednesday night in the church.

Nelda Cates Is Given
Party Monday Night

Mrs. Nelda Cates was honored with a farewell party Monday in the home of Miss McDonald with the Bell Intermediate GA's. The theme was "Farewell to Freedom." A silver tray holding the miniatures flags made by teachers of the junior department of the church. Mrs. S. B. Harris, president, gave the significance of the decorations and told some interesting facts about Indian culture.

After supper a play, "That Heaven of Freedom," was dramatized by the Junior and Senior High Fellowship of the church. The setting of the play was a mission school in North India and depicted some of the problems by which young people are faced in a land both old and new. The play was directed by Mrs. Ted Waters. Singer School of Art and Mrs. Mary Strother. Those appearing in the play were Diana Waters, Nancy Qualls, Carolyn Jones, Mary Wolter and Pat Dressel. By popular request, this play will be presented again during the Sunday morning worship hour.
