REED WILL NOT ADMIT SMITH'S NOMINATION

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Senator James A. Reed refuses to concede the nomination of Governor Al Smith of New York at the Democratic national convention at Houston.

"Nobody has been nominated yet. I'm going to Houston and I think I am going to win," he said. Reed preferred to discuss Hoover's nomination, saying that he could not see why "any regular Republican should feel impelled to vote for him."

CISCO DISPLAY WINS ATTENTION AT CONVENTION

A telephone message this morning from J. E. T. Peters, secretary of Cisco chamber of commerce, stated that the local exhibit for the West Texas chamber of commerce had reached Fort Worth in splendid shape and had been installed in the Heart of Texas display at the Fakes Furniture Co. This display was attracting much attention and many favorable comments from visitors.

One of the exhibits is Lake Cisco in miniature, which was constructed by Miss Velma Morrison, local artist, assisted by Clyde Gunn, Cisco youth. This work stamps Miss Morrison as an artist of marked talent. The lake, swimming pool and stream flowing from the latter, is reproduced with glass over blue paper; while the banks of the lake, pool and stream are constructed of paper mache, of the natural color of the land and rocks surrounding these waters. Williamson dam and the viaduct across the dam are also in paper mache. Miniature trees are set in the lands, and tiny glass bulbs represent the acc lights on the bridge. The work is a splendid reproduction of Lake Cisco and surroundings.

THOUSANDS IN FT. WORTH FOR W. T. C. C. MEET

PORT WORTH, June 18.—Thousands of West Texans gathered here today for the three-day session of the West Texas chamber of commerce convention. Today's events will be featured by the coronation of "Miss West Texas," whose identity is being kept secret until the ceremony. Many visitors spoke at various churches throughout the city Sunday. In the afternoon former Gov. Norrell Pat Neff addressed a large crowd at Trinity Park. Numerous bands from various West Texas towns paraded the city this morning, serenading visitors and citizens.

and easy; who snatched at every value, and who would have thought that an ulterior motive was a kind of shadow boxing, but who knew his Tenderloin district as people are laying down, it seems, as its people better than any of his fellow-workers. "I'll admit, Sir, that that was a little unusual, having the herd locked that way," Daniels agreed ruefully. "But you see, I had planned up at the clock, and seeing it was exactly two and just the way of the remainder of the 37 school districts Tuesday." Mr. Spencer said, "and will need at least 50 volunteers to go out Tuesday morning when we hope to have a complete census of most of the cows in the 15 mile radius, which is the objective of the present work. But it is the intention of the committee to continue this survey until we have a list of all cows within a radius of 35 miles of Cisco. We expect and have the promise of assistance from the other towns outside of our immediate school district in taking the census of the outlying districts.

"The chamber of commerce officials have just completed the tabulation of the cows enumerated during their work Friday, and while the list of cows in milk is not as great as is desired, yet the enthusiasm manifested by the farmers is most encouraging as demonstrated by the willingness of those with whom the committee discussed the matter to buy additional cows should a market be created for the milk that might be produced. As seen by the report of the enumerators there are 3,661 head of milk stock in the 14 school precincts covered. But farmers agreed to buy 1,863 additional cows just as soon as a milk plant is assured. To me this is most encouraging, as this would virtually double the number of cows now in milk.

"The farmers are enthusiastic for the milk plant, but I regret to say I am having trouble to get enumerators to volunteer to go out in

To Succor Nobile

Captain Riiser-Larsen (above) and Lieutenant Lutzwol Holm, the Swedish ace upon whom depends the speedy rescue of General Umberto Nobile and his intrepid comrades. The aviators, both of whom fly seaplanes, will soon above the pack ice and search for the tent which Nobile has painted red in order the better to be seen. Then they intend to drop food, medicine and proper equipment to withstand the cold.

RICH, BUT POOR

Money that can't be used to some advantage isn't worth much. The University of Texas finds itself almost rich in money that can't be used under existing laws. It has about $9,000,000 in its oil fund and it is increasing at the rate of about $200,000 a month, but it can't be invested in anything but United States and State bonds and these bring such low interest rates that the University has no spending money worth in need of more buildings, but will have to wait for them until they can be erected out of the permanent fund realized from the interest obtained from its oil receipts. It is said that the poorest man on earth is the man with riches tied up so that he can't spend them, but who is expected to live up to the income of a person of wealth. This seems to be true also of schools.

NEWSPAPER VISITORS

Two hundred or more out-of-state newspaper men will be in Texas for the National Democratic convention. They will make a tour of parts of the state after the convention, travelling as a party. Several Texas cities are preparing to entertain them. When a party of Missouri editors passed through Texas a few weeks ago en route to Mexico and returning, they stopped at several points that received some good publicity as a result of the attention shown them.

WATERMELONS MOVING

The watermelon movement will get started in earnest this week. Last week's shipments increased every day, the melons all finding a ready market. With the unusually large South Texas crop going to market this week there will be opportunity for all who can afford the price to enjoy this great Texas delicacy.

NORTH TEXAS WHEAT

The North Texas wheat crop is about ready for the market. The yield is close around 10 bushels to the acre which is less than the growers had hoped after the spring rains started. The grade is reported as exceptionally good. Estimates say that the Texas crop will be about 29,000,000 bushels, though some are placing the crop at 25,000,000 bushels.

AIRPLANE PARADES

Parading the air is a comparatively new sport, but a popular one. At the West Texas chamber of commerce meeting at Fort Worth this week 100 planes are taking part in a daily air review. Exhibitions are being given in parachute jumping to demonstrate the latest and safest methods of emergency exits from airplane travel is increasing as the public is learning that it is safer than ordinary street or highway travel. When the novelty wears off to such an extent that rates will be within the means of travelers, air travel may be expected to relieve much of the travel congestion of the highways.

SANTA FE EXTENSION

The Interstate commerce commission having approved the application of the Santa Fe railroad to acquire the 58 mile road from Clinton of Cheyenne, Okla., the Texas extension through Wheeler county to Pampa, a distance of 60 miles will be pushed to completion about June 30, making a more direct route from the North Texas oil fields to Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

COTTON PICKERS NEEDED

Cotton growers in the Lower Rio Grande valley, anticipating the largest crop ever grown in that part of the state, are making plans to get several thousand cotton pickers during the picking season which will be well under way about July 1. After the July primaries a few thousand defeated candidates should be available.

YOKAUM AGRICULTURE

Plans are being worked out to establish a number of experimental farm plots near Yokaum under the direction of the Texas experiment station at College Station. Yokaum has been attracting much attention lately for its farming operations, especially in growing tomatoes and with its orchards and vineyards. The Southern Pacific Railroad lines is co-operating in an educational way in the growing of tomatoes and other truck crops in that section.

MERCEDS BRIDGE

Work on the international bridge across the Rio Grande south of Mercedes is progressing nicely and is to be completed within 90 days. The increased business that is expected between the two countries is causing reports of the construction of a large tourist hotel at Mercedes.

MERCHANTS TO BUY POTATOES WHEN GRADED

Reports from the Cisco Country indicate that there will be a bountiful yield of Irish potatoes from the crop now about ready for harvest, and naturally a profitable market is of the greatest concern to the producers. Last spring Cisco farmers cooperated and ordered a car of state certified seed potatoes from Minnesota, and as the potatoes are about ready to market the chamber of commerce officials have become interested in securing a buyer to take care of the crop of potatoes in this section. E. B. Gude has informed Secretary Peters that local merchants will be able to handle all potatoes brought to Cisco if properly graded. This means, Gude says, that all culls and damaged potatoes must be removed before offered for sale as the dealers cannot dispose of them unless in marketable condition. He stated some field run potatoes have been brought to Cisco that were refused for the reason of improper grading. The wholesale price is 2 cents per pound.

A meeting of chautauqua guarantors and workers will be held at the chamber of commerce at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. It is imperative that all chautauqua backers attend, Miss Mansfield said.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT IN CRASH NEAR RANGER

RANGER, June 18.—Frank Frazier, Texas & Pacific engineer, and J. H. Anderson, mechanic, both of Baird are in a critical condition in a local hospital as the result of injuries received Sunday night in an automobile accident five miles east of Ranger. Frazier's skull was fractured and he is not expected to live. W. F. Williams also of Baird, was slightly hurt in the crash.

Miss Irene White is with her brother and will possibly remain until he is able to come home.

Petty burglaries are again being reported. J. P. Webster & Sons stated that thieves entered their wholesale house on East Ninth street Sunday night and appropriated ten cartons of cigars.

BUILDING BOOM IS UNDER WAY AT COLEMAN

COLEMAN, June 18.—Contractors started work on the five-story Coleman office Saturday, building temporary offices, moving in materials and breaking ground for the foundation. With the Howell Brothers' theater, directly opposite the office building; the new newspaper plant being erected here, additions to two ward school buildings, city hall and the new country club house, activity in the building field of Coleman soared near the $400,000 mark for the present year, exclusive of private residences and other smaller building projects.

LLANELLY, Carmarthenshire, Wales, June 18.—The monoplane Friendship, bearing Miss Amelia Earhart, Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Mechanic Louis Gordon, landed here at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon in a driving rainstorm. Miss Earhart thus becomes the first woman to make trans-Atlantic non stop flight.

The plane was anchored to a buoy off shore. The fliers stated that they did not intend to come ashore here and asked for sufficient gasoline to carry them to Southampton. Difficulty was obtained in getting gasoline here. At 5:30 they hopped off for Southampton. The historic flight consumed 30 hours and 49 minutes from Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland—approximately 2,400 miles.

Mrs. Boll May Abandon Trip

HARBOR GRACE, June 18.—Disheartened because her rival, Miss Amelia Earhart, was the first woman to make a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight, Miss Mabel Boll of the monoplane Columbia, indicated today that her flight may be cancelled.

"Our failure from the start was due to misleading weather reports," said Pilot Oliver C. Boultiller, of the Columbia.

According to word from King's Bay this afternoon, Nobile radio-grammed that he plainly saw the two airplanes but was unable to attract the attention of the fliers.

CHARLES CURTIS.

The Republicans have nominated Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas for the office of vice president of the United States. The campaign slogan "Hoover and Curtis" will be on the wing soon. Doubtless, it will be in something near the following jingle, "With Hoover and Curtis, who can hurt us?" Our campaigns run to the stuff that rhymes and comes trippingly.

Knowing Republican machine mechanics, the similarity of Oliver Optic characteristics in the two nominees is merely a coincidence. The Kansas senator is the first presidential or vice presidential nominee to be of Indian extraction. Charles Curtis is part Kaw Indian. He wanted to stay with the tribe. When his white characteristics were given contact with education and the advancement of civilization, his Indian nature submerged. He should have all the credit that a rise from lowly estate entitles any one.

The Republican ticket is composed of a Quaker and a Kaw. That is as strange a bedfellow as politics ever produced—figuring either way. The head of the ticket will have some difficulty in establishing his Republican "regularity." The selection of the man from Kansas served a double purpose. He was the understudy of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who was so "regular" he muffed the chance to be a great statesman and merely departed this life as the most implacable of all known Democrat haters. Senator Curtis inherited his senatorial shoes and toga.

The other value of the Curtis selection is purely geographical. Somebody must spread salve on a wide area of troubled farmers. It will take a personality that has one foot in the furrow to accomplish that little feat. Nobody in the Middle West can do it with greater neatness and dispatch than the product of the soil of Kansas. He will need the usual Republican influence on the weather and crops, and then he may not be able to make it unanimous. The farmers have read somewhere that "the dignity of truth is lost by much protesting." The only benefits that Republicanism ever has bestowed on the farmers are those contained in the vetoing of congressional enactments that would have made the agricultural conditions worse than they ever have been. Getting all that into sonorous declamation made up wholly of well rounded periods which mean exactly as little as any or all of the planks of the Republican platform, will be the price Senator Curtis will pay for a tailship on the kite he hoped to be.

Therein he gave the final demonstration of being a "regular" Republican. The famous widow said, "If I cannot get the man I love I will have to love the man I can get." The Republican presidential possibility says that he is all of that, if not a little more. Between this time and the first thunderous guns of the campaign proper, those who drew blanks in Kansas City will be provided with soft places upon which to light. Nursing the wounded is one of the great organization provisions of Republicanism. As the delegates make their final exits from Republican convention halls, they see a sign over the door. It reads "All disgruntled abandon ye who go out of here." They know that to mean that "arrangements" will be made in each and every case.

Charles Curtis, part Quaker and part Indian, did not need it than to need it. He has the duties and perform them to have to follow is sufficient did individuality. If the I at Houston, his oratory will Quaker and the Kaw India —Fort Worth Record-Tele

A BILLION DOLLARS

In these days of mergers and combinations, it begins to look as if all combines and all consort other day a few men sat at Brooklyn and after much discussion voted to sell out their which furnishes all the electricity by the two and one-half million people of Brooklyn. When the vote was taken a messenger slipped around the corner to the office of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York and told them that the Brooklyn property would be turned over for stock in the $740,000,000 New York company on a proportionate basis. That is all there was to it; the deal was through. When the two companies combined their capital stock and added to that the undivided profits, they found that the combination lacked a few dollars of being a billion dollar corporation. There were already eleven corporations in the country with a capital of a billion dollars and it was thought that this new born youngster would round out the full dozen of such mightily capitalized combined. Cooperation and combination are doubtless good things that can be used to the advantage of the world in many particulars. Like everything else, however, it can be carried too far. H. G. Wells has made gigantic mergers the basis of his new novel and in it proposes a one government world. A world run by one board of directors, may be idealistic—a fine abstraction—but it would not be acceptable at the present time. The fact remains, however, that business has jumped into the era of billions and the small dollar regime is fast disappearing.

SHOULD AID IN RESCUE.

All those tragic figures of men who rise to great heights on false principles and the curve of whose success then suddenly swoops downward, make, somehow, a mistake which at the time seems so small as hardly to be noticeable by those surrounding them. Mussolini, so far, has seemed immune from such a fate. He has made what seems to democratic peoples some big mistakes. But up to the present he has risen higher in spite of them. But if it be really true that he has refused Norwegian aid to Nobile and the Italia because he wishes Italians only to be the rescuers, he has turned his corner. There can be no selfish patriotism, no aggrandizement of the individual man or country to the rescue of human life. Discoverers belong to the whole world, and blessed be the man who aids in time of trouble. He, too, belongs to a world which is one.

FORMER AIDE OF PRESIDENT WILSON DEAD

DES MOINES, June 18.—Edwin T. Meredith, 52, publisher and secretary of agriculture in President Wilson's cabinet, died at his home here Sunday night at 6 o'clock. A heart attack caused by high blood pressure was ascribed as the cause of Meredith's death.

The former cabinet member, who published three farm magazines here, had been ill for about four months. His condition became serious a month ago after Meredith had been returned to his home from Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, where he had been under observation.

An inherent love of the soil and general interest in the welfare of farmers lifted Meredith from youthful obscurity to national prominence.

He started as a real "dirt" farmer, the occupation of his father and his grandfather. A high school education and one year at college weaned him away from actual work on the farm, but tended to increase interest in the lot of those who till the soil.

Meredith's grandfather, in addition to his agricultural interests, was the publisher of a farm weekly, The Farmers' Tribune. It was devoted to Populism and met with financial difficulties when the movement died out.

Having completed a year in Highland Park college, Des Moines, young Meredith, then 20 years of age, borrowed $1,800 with which to purchase his grandfather's publication. Through six years it brought him much hard work and little success. The Farmers' Tribune was discontinued and in its place Meredith established Successful Farming as a monthly periodical.

That proved the foundation of the successful Meredith publications, the name of Meredith's business, to which eventually were added "Better Homes and Gardens" and "The Dairy Farmer", the three having a combined monthly circulation of more than 2,000,000.

Through his publications and recognition as a business leader in Des Moines, the growth of Meredith's influence was a natural sequence and led him into politics. In 1914 he was Democratic candidate for United States senator from Iowa and two years later his party's candidate for governor of that state. He was defeated on both occasions.

FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY FOR MRS. GOODNIGHT

ABILENE, June 18.—Last rites of Mrs. John B. Goodnight, 55, who died at her home, 830 Victoria street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, were held from the First Baptist church Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, with Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor, conducting the service. Burial was in the Odd Fellows cemetery beside Mrs. Goodnight's son, Alister Goodnight, who died in 1919.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Goodnight was Miss Clara Draper. She was born in Ontario, Canada. Coming with her family to Robertson county, Texas, she settled in Englewood, now Franklin, in 1878. She was married to Mr. Goodnight in 1894 and the couple moved to Abilene in 1903.

Mrs. Goodnight was a member of the First Baptist church, a teacher in the Sunday school and an active worker in the Woman's auxiliary.

She is survived by her husband, six children, two grandchildren, two sisters and a brother. With the exception of the brother, Leonard Draper, of Washington, D. C., all of these relatives were here for the funeral.

Mother of Mrs. A. C. Miller.

Mrs. Goodnight was the mother of Mrs. A. C. Miller, wife of the pastor of the First Baptist church of Cisco, who was at the bedside of her mother when she passed away. Her many friends here extend their sincere condolence in her bereavement.

Tenderloin

BY ARLINE de HAAS
"TENDERLOIN" starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Lovely Rose Shannon, one of the dancing girls at Kelly's Ringside Cafe in the Roxy, has attracted the attention of Chuck White. He comes her home. Later he tries to make passionate love to her. In desperation she seizes a clock and strikes him with it. Chuck drops unconscious. Rose hastily packs her things and rushes into the night. Passing through the darkened streets she stumbles suddenly across a sidewalk marked "Mercer National Bank." On her way to return it she is met by a policeman on the trail of the bandits. He accuses her of being an accomplice.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

"Oh, so you're going to talk now." The policeman looked down at her with a broad grin that was tinged with sarcasm. "Sure, 'n you'd better listen to me, sister; just save it for the sergeant. He'll be tickled to death to hear all about it. It's sure one, all right. Hey, Murphy, he threw up his hand as another blue-coat came running up. "I've bagged a real prize this time. Look here." He pointed to the satchel on the ground and then at the girl. The second officer leaned over and examined the bag.

"All we could do was to throw our hands in the air."

But her tears had no other effect than to cause the officer to grasp her more tightly.

"Listen, sister, I tell you to save it for the sergeant!"

CHAPTER V.

At the Central Police Station, Cassidy sat nodding drowsily before a heavy oak desk. His round, red face, weather-beaten and seamed from his long years on the force, was thrown into shadow by the green-shaded lights scattered here and there about the room. A few detectives loitered about, smoking dully, their feet propped up on chairs. Over in one corner a group of black-jack occupied several others. Everything was quiet through the precinct—everything quiet save for the robbery of the Mercer Bank. And they'd probably have that rounded-up before the morning.

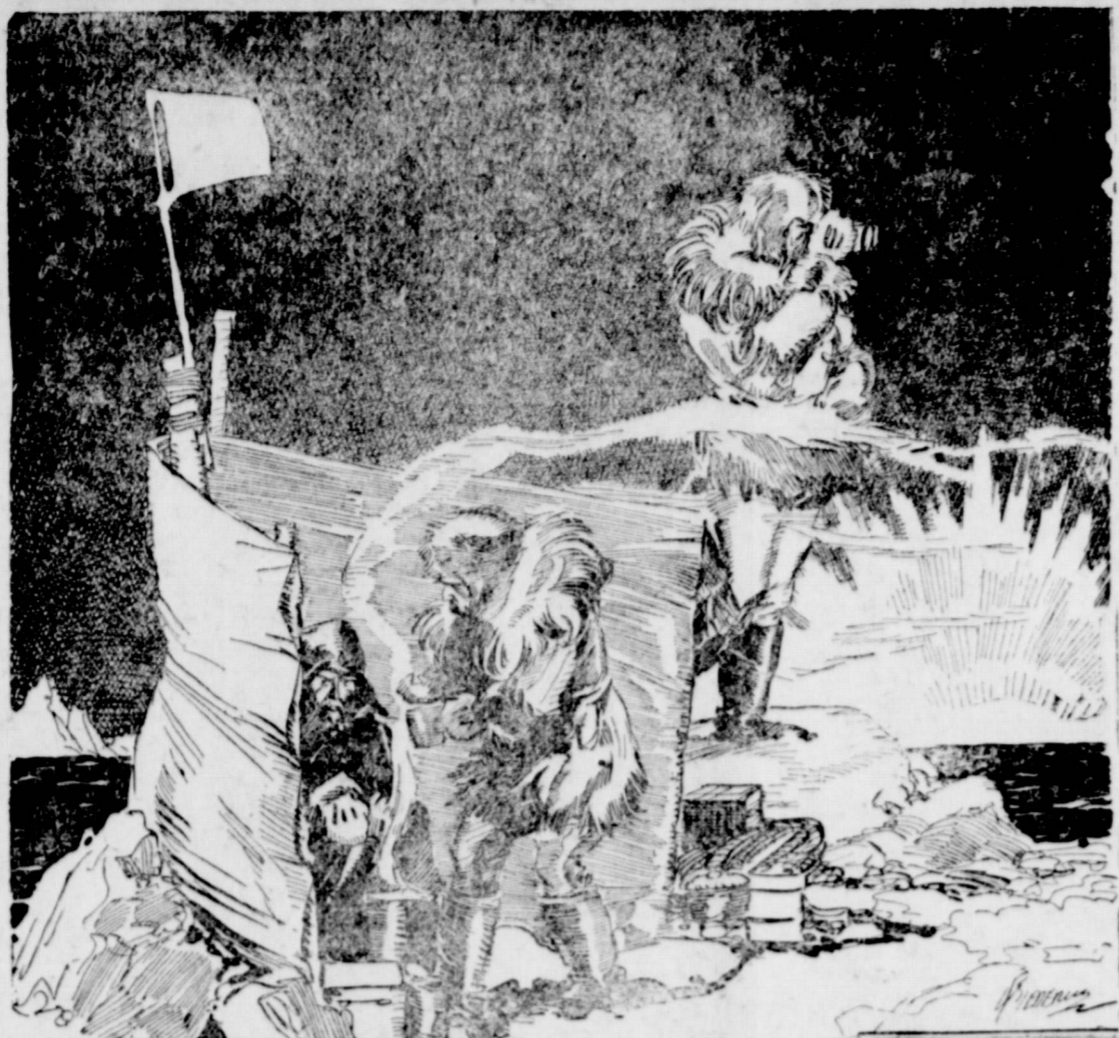

But their lethargy was shortly dispelled by the entrance of a tall man. The three strode up to the desk and the two blue-coats saluted. "Good evening, Sergeant." One of the officers stepped forward. "This is Mr. Daniels, the Cashier at the Mercer National Bank. We brought him along to get the facts in this robbery affair tonight."

"How do, Mr. Daniels," Sergeant Cassidy nodded. "Cowie—Simpson!" he called. At his summons two of the men who had been in the game untwined their legs and got up and moved over beside the Sergeant's desk. "This is Mr. Daniels, the Cashier in that bank robbery to-night," he informed the two detectives. "These men will be working on the case, Mr. Daniels, providing the police don't turn up with the money." He turned to the Cashier, who nodded to the two sleuths. "Now, Mr. Daniels, you might give us some idea of just how this robbery occurred."

"Well, I can't exactly tell you, Sergeant," Daniels removed his hat, revealing a shock of straight black hair, slightly tinged with gray. "I'm a little nervous and upset—you can understand that, I'm sure. Hawkins, our teller, was pretty badly shot up—wrist shattered. They've taken him to the hospital. But I'm only too willing to help in any way I can."

"Well, the best thing you can do is to give me your version of the affair," the Sergeant answered.

FIGHTING OVER ARCTIC PACK ICE TO REACH ITALIA

Blinded by snow, in imminent danger of falling into ice crevasses, and compelling to zig zag around small stretches of open water in the pack ice, Captain A. Martano and Filippo Zappi and Dr. Finn Malmgren, the Swedish scientist below, to reach North Cape after the Italia was blown down off North East Land, and one of her gondolas ripped off, are believed to be in desperate straits. It is pointed out by experts that the ten miles or so they travel daily may be more than lost while they are sleeping, due to the normal drift of the pack. Above is the conception of Artist Louis Bledermann of the dangers confronting them.

SAY IT WITH YOKES PARIS STYLE SLOGAN

PARIS, June 18.—Paris dress-makers are saying it with yokes this season. Hip yokes add grace to the perfect thirty-six and vastly improve girths that are scantier or more than ample. Shoulder yokes round out and make charming shoulders which are too square or too angular.

Hip yokes are getting wider now on a great many frocks, they take up almost half the skirt. This is true also of the shoulder yoke, covering a large part of the blouse or bodice. However, the territory allotted to the yoke must be regulated according to its becomingness to the wearer and every woman must choose her own yoke.

GREEN AND YELLOW POPULAR IN PARIS

PARIS, June 18.—It's the wear-in of the green, as well as the yellow, this season in Paris, judging from the number of frocks and ensembles appearing in these shades at the smart dressmakers. There are all shades of yellow and all the lighter tints of green. Several of them are quite new; others are old familiar tints making under new names, but they are all very fresh and spring-like.

The darkest green is the grayish shade known as reseda and then comes apple, almond, lime, Nile and Chartreuse. The brighter shades of both the yellow and the green are used for sports costumes, blouses or bits of decoration for street ensembles. The more subdued shades are for street wear.

Beige has lost some of its old popularity, but is still very popular in soft tones. Gray is the predominating color in Worth's collection, and is shown in every

The 30 workers in the Cisco Daily News and Weekly American and Roundup country wide subscription drive who secure to their credit the largest amount of subscriptions for this week and the week ending Saturday, June 30, will be awarded 30 prize ballots ranging from 7,750,000 points down to 500,000 points. The points for these ballots can be doubled. All that is necessary for a worker to double the points is to secure one or more subscriptions this week up to Saturday night, June 23.

Workers are going to secure some very high points for a very few subscriptions for no one worker is securing many subscriptions. That is the record made by individuals up to this time.

The regular points for each subscription will be more for the first week of this offer than the last week. The second period of regular points will end Saturday night, June 23.

Three months in the Cisco Daily News with the American and Roundup, $2, will secure 35,000 points this week and 30,000 points next week. Six months to both papers, $3, 50,000 points this week and 40,000 points next week. One year, $5, for both papers, 225,000 points this week and 200,000 points next week.

For the Weekly American and Roundup, one year, $1.50, 25,000 points this week and 20,000 points next week. To the Daily News without the Weekly American, $4, 200,000 points this week and 180,000 points next week.

For each yearly subscription to the Daily News with the Weekly American and Roundup or to the Daily News alone $60,000 extra points will be given during the two weeks offer. All of these points will be doubled for the workers who send in subscriptions for both weeks.

These points are extra of the points offered for the 30 prize ballots.

The workers in the country wide subscription drive, so far, have secured some very near about the same number of points and there is not a wide margin of difference between any of the leaders. A few subscriptions secured this week are going to be a big advantage in coming out at the close of the drive with the most points that will win the two Chevrolet cars, the coach, the touring or roadster, the Viva-Tonal Columbia, the Atwater Kent radio set, and all of the valuable prizes.

The list of standings published in this issue show the actual workers who will put the drive over to a successful finish. Every one has an opportunity to win. Every one can get a prize or cash award.

Hoover Not to Quit Cabinet "for Some Time to Come"

Great and Near-Great of G. O. P. Journey to Washington to Confer with Standard Bearer of Party

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Herbert Hoover, presidential nominee of the Republican party, will not resign "for some time to come," Secretary George Akerson, announced today after Hoover had conferred with a number of Republican leaders.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Sunday witnessed a welcome interlude in the campaign planning for Secretary Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, but semi-political notwithstanding broke repeatedly through the quiet hours of a otherwise restful holiday.

Convention leaders began arriving from Kansas City, and Hoover himself came to the city to confer with his cabinet associate, and to confer with F. Brown, assistant secretary of commerce.

Once this was out of the way, the Hoover family, including Mrs. Hoover, two sons and a daughter-in-law, attended the Sabbath gathering in the little Quaker meeting house in downtown Washington. The small congregation of Friends in Washington entertained no demonstration as their most distinguished member joined them, but after services they clustered around to hear their personal words of congratulation.

Family Photographed
The camera men, ubiquitous ever since the convention nomination, during the day got one of the rare opportunities to shoot the entire Hoover family, which seldom gathered together.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, Jr., who have spent the convention week here, left for Cambridge, where he is an instructor in the Harvard business school, and Allan, the second son, also started for Leland Stanford University in California, where he is an undergraduate.

The candidate's week promises to be full enough, as tentative plans are laid out. He is going to see and talk with every important politician, who attended the convention, with the avowed purpose of seeking advice and aid upon campaign organization and methods. James W. Good, who managed his presidential campaign, is expected to arrive during the day, and in the next three days, there will be many others.

By Thursday, when he meets the 34 representatives of the Republican national committee who will consult him formally on the subject, it was said that decisions would be ready on most important points.

Chairman to Be Named

The committee members will be asked to approve not only the selection of a national chairman, secretary and treasurer, but also give a verdict upon his resignation from office, his probable visit to President Coolidge's Wisconsin summer camp, his campaign notification, and their campaign organization. The impression has been strong in Washington that he might be expected to travel westward, resign in person to the president, and go on to his California home to receive the notification of his nomination which is the signal for campaign opening. None of these points was susceptible of verification in view of the announced intent to submit all alternatives to wide consultation among his party leaders before decision. There were contradictory opinions available on all the details among his few advisors already here.

The secretary's office forces are still at work upon the responses in the messages of congratulations, which ran into thousands, and which are still trickling in.

Now that an explosive having 30 times more power than TNT has been perfected, maybe, we'll be able to open some of those car windows with it.—Louisville Times.

GETS SHARE IN OIL WELL, PHONE GIRL QUITS BOARD

AUSTIN, June 18.—Miss Evelyn Bell Euten, telephone operator here, probably got a lot of wrong numbers, but it didn't matter much to her. She learned that she had inherited a share in a West Texas oil well. When the news came, she stopped her work in the middle of the afternoon, submitted her resignation and left without disclosing the exact amount of her inheritance.

FORMER CISCO STUDENT HEARD IN PULPIT HERE

Rev. Marvin Boyd, Cisco high school graduate, took for his text Sunday morning when he preached at the First Methodist church, Matthew 4:38, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." He brought home to the large audience the value of seeking first the kingdom of God. At the close of the service a great crowd of young people came forward pledging themselves to seek first God's kingdom. The prayers of the Christians of Cisco will go with Rev. Boyd as he goes forth in the work of the master, said Rev. P. T. Stanford.

Rev. J. T. Ferguson and a group of the people of the Methodist church of Desdemona presented in pageant-sermon form the trial of Jesus to a packed house Sunday night. Witnesses representing the Pharisee, Caiaphas, Pontius Pilate, Pilate's servant, Judas Iscariot, the Centurion, the Thief, the Devil, John the Baptist, St. Peter, St. John, the Angel, and Jehovah were put on the witness stand. The audience was selected as the jury. The lighted cross made a fitting climax to this dramatically spiritual service. Hundreds came forward upon the invitation of the speaker to pledge themselves to a new loyalty to the Christ.

Great interest is being manifested in the church work during the summer months. The church is being asked to pray earnestly for the presence of the Holy Spirit upon the community during the next months.
