OWSLEY SAYS THERE ARE NO HOOVER DEMOCRATS

OWSLEY SAYS THERE ARE NO HOOVER DEMOCRATS. Alvin Owsley, candidate for the United States senate, paid his respects to the Republican party in Bowie at a large gathering of farmers. "I am proud of my Democratic heritage," said Mr. Owsley, "and am proud that Texas is a Democratic state. There is no such thing as a Hoover Democrat in Texas because a Democrat does not believe in a party for the favored few and which is based by one man who even dictated the nomination of Herbert Hoover, and that man is Andy Melkin, the secretary of the treasury, who made all his money in steel, oil and whisky. "Do you mean to tell me that the women of this fair state of ours would vote for Herbert Hoover, who transferred the negroes from the basement of his department and put them to work next to the white women? "You can't tell me that the people of Texas would desert the party of Jefferson and Wilson to vote for the Republican party, which has nominated a negro in the city of Chicago to sit in congress!"

CROSS PLAINS-OPLIN HIGHWAY TO OPEN SOON

CROSS PLAINS-OPLIN HIGHWAY TO OPEN SOON. Work on the Cross Plains-Oplin highway is about completed, with the exception of the bridge work which was delayed on account of the steel for these structures not arriving as soon as was expected. Had this consignment of steel, which was ordered about a month ago, been delivered promptly the entire distance of the new highway from Cross Plains to Oplin would have been finished and opened up for regular travel a few days preceding the big annual picnic and rodeo, which commenced Thursday, and a celebration of the opening would have been made a part of the event. However, the shipment of steel for the bridges is expected to arrive any day, and within a few days thereafter the highway will be completed. This road will link Oplin up with easy travel to Cross Plains, besides adding a fine section of the Bayou country to Cross Plains territory.

TEMPORARY INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST NEW FUNERAL HOME ON ACTION BY NEARBY RESIDENTS

TEMPORARY INJUNCTION ISSUED AGAINST NEW FUNERAL HOME ON ACTION BY NEARBY RESIDENTS. A temporary injunction was served on the defendants Saturday morning by Constable Looney, restraining Gregory and London from operating an undertaking establishment within that district. The statute under which these proceedings are brought is that which prohibits one from operating or using his property in a manner which will become a nuisance, or a menace to those living within that district, or that might injure or depreciate the property nearby. Judge J. J. Butts in speaking of the injunction. A case from Amarillo, appealed to a higher court and sustained, was cited by Judge Butts as a case in point. Guy London was seen Saturday and stated that the firm of Gregory & London had employed Scott and Gilbert as its attorneys, and a motion to dissolve the injunction would be filed at once. Upon the hearing of this motion the case will be set for a final hearing by Judge Davenport.

SMITH STRIKES BACK AT PAIR ATTACKING HIM

SMITH STRIKES BACK AT PAIR ATTACKING HIM. Albany July 14.—Governor Al Smith today bitterly denounced William Allen White, Kansas editor, and Rev. O. R. Miller, Albany, superintendent of the New York Civil League, for picturing him as a friend of the saloon. Smith called Miller "an admitted liar" and declared that White "should have more brains than to let Miller tell him what to say." Smith declared "Miller is nothing but a parasite living on the people of New York by sending out his false information." The governor was referring to White's recent attack, picturing Smith as a friend of the open saloon.

SCOUTS BACK FROM CAMP ON LLANO RIVIER

SCOUTS BACK FROM CAMP ON LLANO RIVIER. Camp Martin, on the Llano river was abandoned Saturday morning when the Eastland County Boy Scouts packed their kits and started on the homeward trip, after having spent ten days on a most pleasant and profitable outing. Most of the boys came home healthy and happy, with several pounds added flesh and muscle. Most expressed themselves as having spent a joyous vacation, while a few have to praise for camp life. A few complain of the fare, which was said not to have been served as well as the camp fare last year. Others stated that they could never get enough to eat. One Scout is reported to have requested a Scoutmaster to give him something that would enable him to eat more. "I have eaten all I can, and still am hungry," the Scout is reported to have said. This illustrates the splendid appetite engendered by the camp.

TEXAS

TEXAS. By WILL H. MAYES, Austin. OWNERS LEADING ASSETS. — One knows that a town's best are the citizens that are already to render unselfish for the general good. There certain well-known channels through which public service may be rendered, such as chambers of commerce, civic clubs, banking and mercantile institutions, the press, churches, the schools, and the offices. The ideal town is one in which all these activities work co-operatively all the time, and such united action is to be obtained. The person with most favorable opportunity of doing this co-operation for a town is perhaps the mayor. He should be not only an executive in his affairs, but should have the ability and ability necessary to organize and co-ordinate every agency for the good of the community. Therefore the mayor should be in his power to be the most useful or the most useless man in his town. His influence depends upon an intelligent, unselfish personal service.

LOCKHART'S EDITOR MAYOR

LOCKHART'S EDITOR MAYOR. There are many good mayors in Texas, many who measure up to the high standard set by Lockhart. He is Editor W. M. Schofield of the Post-Register. When he was out for a "short time" probably could be found where the force was at work tearing up a street, but that he would not be long. I went to the place where he had been, but had some newspaper office. When I saw him he began telling me of his plan for a street bond issue of $100,000 with which he proposed to complete 25 miles of street in Lockhart. He was enthusiastic about an upbuilding program for his city and talked well about it that I at once felt his enthusiasm, and if I had been in town a half hour earlier I would doubtless have been talking the advantage of a bond issue.

PUBLICITY ESSENTIAL

PUBLICITY ESSENTIAL. — Enthusiasm cannot be created without publicity. Editor Schofield's good work at Lockhart is greatly enhanced by the fact that he lets the public know what he is doing. He has two excellent mediums; he talks and he writes and does both well. Much has been said about "pitiless publicity." Mayor Schofield furnishes a fine example of "progressive publicity." The combination of good mayor and a good newspaper man is hard to find, but it is one that can not be overvalued. In proof of this, just look at Lockhart.

LULLING FARM FOUNDATION

LULLING FARM FOUNDATION. Mr. B. Davis, the Lulling oil man, is furnishing the money for a wonderful work being done at Lulling for the benefit of that part of Texas. Caldwell Gonzales and Guadalupe Gonzales are the special recipients of his generosity, though Hays Bastrop counties appear to be reaping almost equal benefits. A million dollars for that purpose, he has bought and ended a farm of 1,223 acres of San Marcos river valley lands. Lulling, which is a demonstration farm for that section conducted together by a foundation directed by a local board, and under the management of Jack Lulling, an enthusiastic young graduate of Texas A. & M. college, who is showing on every acre the big farm how to combine the best with muscle in successful farming. One can't see that farm without getting a love for farm life. The farmer who wants to do better farming, and the town man who wants to be successful in business, he, too, could make success of it.

FARMERS SHORT COURSE

FARMERS SHORT COURSE. — Lulling Farm Foundation has inaugurated a short course of study and demonstration in a tabular built on the farm for that purpose. Farmers and their families are invited to come and camp in a beautiful grove of the San Marcos river. Lectures are delivered by experts in every branch of farming and farm home life. Sessions are invited and answered about everything pertaining to the farming industry and its allied branches. The farm is there to show for itself how the best results are obtained and experts to give what methods are being used. There are entertainments with moving pictures, there is singing, there are play hours for the young and growing-ups, in charge of recreation teachers. The short course is a wonderful educational and social gathering for farmers' families. It would be great to have men of the Edgar B. Davis type in every county in Texas — men glad to share their good fortune with their fellow men glad to contribute to the welfare of their fellowmen.

SUDDEN SPURT TAKEN IN POLITICAL ARENA IN TEXAS

Moody's Change In Tactics Due to Danger, Opponent Avers; Governor Will Pull Through, Friends Claim

STIN, July 14.—State politics have been slumbering during excitement over national politics a sudden spurt this week. Governor Moody, acting with his impetuosity, threw aside his usual plan of making a few brief speeches and put in a week of campaigning in South Texas.

W. E. Hawkins of Breckenridge was prompted to observe the change and methods of change. He took it as an indication that the governor was endeavoring to recoup strength.

Hawkins' statement included the opinion that the next governor will be from Breckenridge or Fort Worth. Breckenridge is Hawkins' home and Fort Worth, L. J. Ward's.

Moody's weakening presence in the arena is apparent. The voters who are holding out for Governor Alfred Smith will lean toward Hawkins. Unusually for Moody, such voters are largely from counties which normally are for him.

Moody's change in campaign tactics. His friends and critics refuse to take any claims that he will not be elected, but they do recognize danger that Moody's vote may be short of the vote he received in the first election.

LEE PLEASED BY RECEPTION IN EASTLAND

EASTLAND, July 14.—R. Q. Lee of Cisco, candidate for congress from the 17th district, spent Friday afternoon here meeting the voters. While here Lee stated that he was extremely well pleased with the reception he was given by the people of the city of Eastland. Lee feels confident that he will give a heavy vote by the city of Eastland. He has many friends here who have known him during his many years as a resident of this section of Texas.

SAN ANGELO'S BANK DEPOSITS AT HIGH MARK

SAN ANGELO, July 14.—Deposits in the four banks of San Angelo have reached a new high mark, according to figures revealed in the reports to the comptroller of the currency, showing the deposits to be $12,795,885.13. This exceeds the high mark established last October 10 when deposits in the four banks totaled $12,396,330.04. The report just made, in addition to establishing a new record for the four institutions, shows an increase of $969,028.88 over the last call this year, on February 28. Resources of the four banks are shown to be $2,103,211.09 more than they were at this time last year. Though more than a third of this year's wool clip has not been sold, necessitating additional loans to ranchers, deposits are nearly a million dollars more than they were on March 1 and loans have increased during the time only half as much. The gain in resources over the February statement is $1,007,419.23 the combined total just reported being $15,680,119. The combined loans of the four banks are slightly higher, amounting to $7,795,291.13 compared to the February total of $7,294,737.82.

LEE TO CARRY FIGHT INTO WEST PART OF DISTRICT THIS WEEK

After W. T. C. C. Meeting, Congress Candidate Will Campaign in Taylor, Coleman, Callahan, Nolan Counties

Pretty Betty Robins, of Los Angeles, has been chosen as "Joan of Art" by the Music and Radio Trades Association and will travel in the interest of Southern California's musical attainments. She is to visit virtually all of the larger cities of the United States as a lecturer and recitalist.

R. Q. Lee, candidate for congress from the seventeenth congressional district of Texas, will carry his battle for improved farming conditions into the west end of the district this week. He will spend Monday at Coleman, where he goes to attend the meeting of the directorate of the West Texas chamber of commerce. Following this board meeting, he will spend the remainder of the week in Coleman, Callahan, Taylor and Nolan counties.

Lee is continuing his campaign on the same high plane that has characterized his business efforts for years and which was so evident in his campaign on diversified farming three years ago when he was president of the West Texas chamber of commerce. He contends that he is fighting for a principle and not against any candidate. He prefers to place principles above personalities.

Lee has interests of the agricultural industry in West Texas at heart and he believes that when he is in congress he can render the service to this industry that he has long desired to do. If elected to congress Lee will immediately seek appointment on the agricultural committee and believes that in view of the fact that his agricultural views are well known in congress already he will have no difficulty in attaining that position on the agricultural committee that will enable him to advance his ideas and aid the farming industry. He is very emphatic in his statement that if the time should come when he cannot render service to his district, and his country, he will voluntarily retire.

ST. JOHN COMES TO AID OF LEE AFTER ATTACK

CROSS PLAINS, July 14.—R. A. St. John of Cisco, staunch Democrat and former postmaster at Cisco under the Wilson administration, made an impassioned address to a picnic crowd here Friday in defense of the congressional candidacy of R. Q. Lee of Cisco. St. John was not slated for an address but asked permission to make a few remarks following addresses by two of Lee's opponents, T. P. Perkins of Mineral Wells and Homer Shanks of Clyde.

St. John charged in his fiery speech that neither Perkins nor Shanks had offered the slightest thing constructive in their talks. He charged that they were asking preferment at the hands of the Democratic party of Texas but that neither of them had had the nerve to say that he was going to support the Democratic ticket.

One of the opponents had charged that Lee had been running for congress for the past five years. St. John nailed this false statement on the grounds that it was an effort to leave the impression that during Lee's tenure of office as president of the West Texas chamber of commerce he was laying plans for a congressional campaign. The crowd gave St. John vigorous applause during his speech, and Shanks and Perkins did not attempt to answer his statements.

Challenge Issued By Perkins
CROSS PLAINS, July 14.—T. P. Perkins of Mineral Wells, candidate for congress from the seventeenth district, spoke to a large and attentive crowd at the picnic grounds here Friday afternoon. The high point of his address was a challenge to his opponents to appear before the voters of the district in person and explain their attitude on issues of the day instead of sending others to make their speeches.

GRISHAM SAYS OIL TARIFF TO BE HELPFUL

Millions of dollars can be added to the value of Texas oil by placing a tariff on the importation of petroleum, declares R. N. Grisham, independent candidate for congress.

Thousands of men normally employed in the petroleum districts are because of the "flood of oil" according to a letter by the Independent Oil association. This condition has been, in large measure, due to the fact that approximately 250,000 barrels of oil is imported daily into the United States, free of duty. If a tariff were imposed on the importation of oil, thousands of men of work would no longer be idle through improved conditions, and the cities that are primarily dependent upon oil would become more flourishing.

The great oil resources of Texas being sold today at an unduly low price, which is an injustice to the land-owner and the people as a whole. Once a great resource is taken from the land, it can never be replaced and should, therefore, bring a more reasonable price.

Since we have a protective tariff, should it not apply to all industries alike? Why should the great riches of the north and east receive their rich benefits while the oil industry is absolutely unprotected? The oil is on the free list and produces a great benefit to the farmer and rancher. More favorable transportation rates for farm and ranch products are also urged by Grisham. He states: "The oil man who has a derrick miles from the nearest town, and who has to employ a team of mules to haul his oil to the market, is at a disadvantage compared to the oil man who has a pipeline to the market. The oil man who has a pipeline to the market is at a disadvantage compared to the oil man who has a pipeline to the market."

Parnell, Candidate for Lieutenant Governor, Says Hoover is Largest Stockholder in Canadian Distillery

FT. WORTH, July 14.—Several hundred persons heard State Senator J. D. Parnell, Wichita Falls, candidate for the Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor, speak on the courthouse lawn. He appealed for support for the Democratic party in the national election, urging his hearers to vote for Governor Alfred E. Smith for president.

While paying his respects to State Senator Thomas B. Love, Dallas, an opponent, he declared Love is insincere in his prohibition stand, and also criticized Lieutenant Governor Eary Miller, also of Dallas, for asking for office for a third term.

"I am the only candidate for the office west of Dallas, and I think it is about time that we bring the office to West Texas," he declared.

Accusing Love of seeking to ride into office on the prohibition plea, he declared Love was no better prohibitionist than he; that he was a pro when Love was an anti.

"Tom Love is not sincere when he says the reason he is bolting the Democratic ticket is because Al Smith is a wet, and he knows he is not," the speaker declared.

Parnell said he would support Governor Smith. He declared he voted for the Dean Act and the Eighteenth Amendment, notwithstanding that Woodrow Wilson had vetoed it.

"I had rather vote for Al Smith, a sincere wet, than for an insincere dry," the speaker said.

"There may be many things wrong with Al Smith, but he is sincere. On the other side is the Republican party with a candidate by the name of Herbert Hoover who has never said one time that he was for prohibition, and the party which nominated him has permitted the prohibition law to be violated all over the country for eight years.

"That man who named Hoover for the presidency, Mellon, is the owner of one of the largest distilleries in the United States, while Hoover is one of the largest stockholders in the Canadian Club distillery, across the line in Canada. If all this is true, why is it that Tom Love wants to bolt his party and vote for Hoover?"

Salon Body Designs

The new Salon Body design for the new "400" series was developed after extended personal study by Mr. Nash himself of the latest creations by European body artists of international fame.

Original ideas in body artistry were co-ordinated with the most modern developments revealed in foreign and American Salons.

And the Salon Nash design is the perfected result—a new body type of the most modern beauty.

It could fittingly adorn a chassis priced at many thousands of dollars.

Nash invested a fortune in dies and machinery to create it.

But you may avail yourself of it on a line of cars notably moderate in price.

In body design, as in other important features, Nash has again outstripped all competition.

GAS TAX WILL GO BACK TO 2 CENTS SEPT. 1

AUSTIN, July 14.—The tax on gasoline will drop from 3 cents to 2 cents a gallon Sept. 1 under an act passed Friday by First Assistant General D. A. Simmons, answering an inquiry by Comptroller S. H. Terrell. The gas tax had so provided in its body that its caption did not mention it. The commission does not defeat the legislative intent, Simmons said.

Simmons' opinion was broad in that it held that a bill validly can amend many germane subjects passed in its title without making specific reference to details. It advanced a doctrine that is important in the construction of laws and future acts.

Terrell said that a reversion to 3 cents a gallon would deplete the road fund $1,500,000 a year and the highway fund $4,500,000, as compared to present revenues from the 2-cent tax. One-fourth of the tax goes to the schools and the remainder to the highway department.

Holding that the legislature obviously intended for the tax to go back to 2 cents, Simmons said the constitutional requirement in a bill caption describe the contents "was to put an end to the practice of bringing together in one bill unrelated subjects, without any proper connection with each other; to prevent so-called 'logrolling' legislation; to prevent surprise or fraud in the legislature; to prevent provisions in bills of such titles give no intimation of the matter of legislation under consideration."

He pointed out that the caption of the original gasoline tax act of the thirty-eighth legislature did not mention the amount of the levy.

13-Month Calendar Is Finding Favor with Modern Business as Meritorious, Rotary Told

FORT WAYNE, Ind., July 14. — Declaring that the world moves inevitably toward the practical, and a change of our present calendar to one of 13 months, each containing 28 days is eminently practical, Lieut. Col. H. Edmund Bullis, Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society, stressed the fact that the change would benefit every civilized nation, in an address before the Rotary club here.

"The calendar you receive the first of each year is more than an artistic picture or advertising novelty," Bullis declared. "It is a thing which registers the dates of all births and deaths. It decides when we shall go to work, when we shall draw our pay, when we shall pay our bills, and when we shall take our vacations.

"The earliest known calendar used the moon as a unit. Even to this day the Islamic calendar is based on the moon. The Chinese calendar is based on the moon and the sun. The Egyptian calendar is based on the sun and the moon.

Evolution of Calendar
Tracing the evolution of the calendar to its earliest type to the present, Bullis said: "The next step was the evolution of the calendar to a year of 12 months. Noah used this type in his account of the floods and it probably accounts for the many years Methuselah is reputed to have lived.

"Jacob later found that six 30 day periods fitted in with the seasons, crops and cattle production requirements advantageously. Moses trained in the house of Pharaoh learned the secrets of the Egyptian calendar which he employed in making his perpetual calendar of ten months of thirty days each, plus one month of 33 days and one of 32 days, completing a year of 365 days.

The Egyptian priests had found that the year's actual length was 365 24 days by careful measurements of the shadows cast by pyramids. It is believed the original purpose of the pyramids was for astronomical use and were used as tombs only after they were superseded by higher or more symmetrical pyramids.

The use of the calendar by the Egyptians enabled them to produce larger crops than their neighbors, who still used the moon measurements, consequently they obtained a corner on grain and aroused the jealousy of other nations.

Adopted By Caesar
"The Romans finally subjugated the Egyptians and forced the secrets of their calculated calendar from them. Julius Caesar immediately adopted it in the Roman empire. Instead of continuing to use the 30 day months however, he spread the extra five days of the Egyptian year out to make the first, third, fifth, seventh and ninth months each 31 days long, and reduced February to 29 days to give an added day to the eleventh month, to make six odd numbered months, because odd numbers were lucky," he said.

"The Egyptian calendar proved such a boon to the Romans that they renamed one of the months Julius, now our July. On the death of Caesar, Augustus came into power and he desired a 31 day month named after himself, consequently he took one day from February and added it to the eighth month, and gave it his name. This made 92 days in the third quarter and only 90 in the first quarter, and to meet this objection he changed the 31st of September and made it the 31st of October and later shifted the 31st of November to the 21st of December. As a result we have our present uneven calendar.

Caesar inserted leap year every four years, which made one leap day too many every 128 years. This condition existed until the time of Pope Gregory in 1582, when the calendar was ten days out of line with the seasons. To correct the defect Gregory left out the ten days

Following the activities incident to New York's official reception of her and her two companions, Wilbur Stultz and Lou Gordon, Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston girl flier, visited the Medical Centre Hospital, distributed flowers to the children and, in talking with nurses, described herself as "a social worker out on a big bat."

actly quarter all months, pay days, fairs and regular meetings would always occur on the same date, most holidays could be placed on Monday, every month would coincide with the week end which would be of advantage to business, computing of interest and other needs of recording would be greatly simplified. Easter would be fixed, having 13 months instead of 12 would mean a quicker turnover of money and the handling of more goods with less money tied up and an enormous saving in time would be effected by not having to look up dates in a calendar.

Many large companies are already using the new type year in their business for accounting and statistical purposes.

The Eastman Kodak company, A. and P. Stores, Fuller Brush company and Loews, Inc., and International News Service are all using the plan. Such leaders as Robert Dollar, E. M. Stetler, Robert W. Babson, Bruce Barton, Otto Kahn and William Wrigley have all expressed themselves as strongly in favor of the change.

"It is admitted that a change to the new type calendar would result in confusion for the first year or two. Every great change is always confronted with anarchy and inertia. There is no real obstacle in the way of making a calendar change. Practically no financial loss would result.

The great benefits which would be derived throughout the business, social, religious and scientific worlds by the new calendar would offset any confusion which would arise during the change."

STYLE IS BIG FACTOR TODAY IN AUTO SALE

Appearance!
With the buying public demanding more and more every year and auto designers bending their best efforts to give them what they want, the battle for supremacy has resulted in the development of a car that includes style, beauty, durability and safety.

The cars of today are as much different from the old-timers with their big high backs, as are the short skirts of feminine fashions from the old-fashioned hoop skirts of our great grandmothers' time. Time and experience have proven that the car that doesn't keep up with the trends in fashion is doomed. The public today demands appearance as well as performance. demands both and plenty of them. In the design of Oakland Pontiac cars, Fisher craftsmanship has been employed to bring about beauty of appearance plus performance. The design of the chassis, itself, has been a factor of safety as it rigidly adhered to as in the designing of airplanes. And the body has been developed to fit in with this bringing about a combination of safety, style and sturdiness.

As the tourist season swings into its stride, this is particularly true in both the Oakland and Pontiac cars. Long, low and road-hugging they embody comfort and safety. With a wheel base of 117 inches the Oakland and 110 inches on the Pontiac, they offer riding qualities that make a rough country road easy to negotiate as a cement highway.

Then there was the delegate who came home and told his wife he looked like that because he slipped on a wet plank—Haverhill Gazette.

SYNOPSIS
A hotel containing $200,000 has been stolen from a bank. The Professor, leader of a gang of crooks, gets pretty Rose Shannon of Chicago where the money is. Chuck, one of his associates, writes to Rose, hoping that she may come away unadvisedly. Rose tearfully denies all knowledge of the robbery, Chuck tries to protect her. Suspect that Chuck is double-crossing the Professor arrives with his money. They overpower Chuck, leaving the Professor alone in the cat with the terrified girl. He has her one hour in which to tell.

"Well, have you thought better of your refusal to tell me what I know?" The Professor's brought Rose up to a sitting position.
"I can't tell ya any-thing," Rose's voice caught in choking sobs. "I don't know an-anything about it."
"That story won't go, you know," the Professor fibed. "Come across, before I—" he started to reach for her.
"No, no! Please! Can't you not know anything about robbery? Oh, why can't you let me go?" She tried to turn away from the man's hypnotic gaze, but eyes held her spellbound.
"You're lying," the Professor said to his feet, catching the girl by the shoulders, and lifting her up. He looked squarely into her eyes.

"You and that lover of yours planning to slip away with the money?"
She stared at him in horror. She scarcely believe that she had heard his words. "Lover—Chuck, lover? She drew back, disgusted. With a sudden burst she struggled to release herself. But Hemingway's grip only tightened, and he shook her as a snake shakes a mouse.
"Shut up, you trollop!" The Professor shook her roughly. "Your eyes are nowhere around. He's gone."
"I don't believe it—I don't believe it," Rose cried, still striving to escape from the claw-like clutch of his tenacious fingers.
The struggle her negligee fell to her shoulder, revealing the whiteness of her delicate skin. She tried to catch the gown closely about her, but the Professor's eyes were already upon her, devouring her beauty. Slowly arms closed about her.
"Let me go! Let me go!" Rose shrieked hysterically, trying vainly to push the man away from her.
"Oh, no, you don't." He caught her hands, holding them easily in his. His other arm went round her, drawing her closer and closer, his hot lips sinking deep into the softness of her neck.
"No, Don't Please stop!" Rose almost beside herself driven by this new terror. Crying, shrieking, calling for Chuck, she battled almost the over-powering strength of the man. With an almost superhuman effort she wrenched herself free and ran towards the door.
With a contemptuous laugh the Professor planted himself firmly before the door, watching her efforts to escape with some amusement on his face.
Pale and trembling, Rose leaned against the door-post, searching vainly for some way out. Her eyes fell upon the window. With a sudden dash she flung herself across the room, tugging at the sash, to open it. But the Professor was already behind her, pinioning her arms in his grasp. Slowly he bore her backwards. His arms went about her. Easily he lifted her off her feet, kicking, struggling, clawing at his face, tugging at his hair, and threw her onto the bed.

His kisses were hot on her lips. He covered her face with lascivious caresses. His arms were about her, bearing her down—down into an abyss of horrible fear and shame. His fingers bruised the white flesh, leaving little red marks on the tender skin. He clutched at the negligee, the gown, tearing them, his face grim and determined, paying no heed to the vain attempts of the girl to release herself.
And then Rose's teeth sank deep into the back of his hand. With an infuriated cry of mingled pain and rage he drew back, catching at his hurt members. Like a flash Rose was on her feet, running across the room. Once more she attempted to dart towards the door, but once more the Professor was already ahead of her. Rose flung herself at him, beating his chest with her tiny, clenched fists, but he only laughed, that knowing, cynical laugh. She tried to reach the lock, but he caught hold of her arm and slowly drew her towards him.
Meanwhile the slow moving "local" crept at a snail's pace through the night. Against the windows, grimy with smoke and dust, the rain beat in driving sheets, splashing and spattering the panes, seeping in from underneath the sashes and mingling with the heavy coating of coal dust on the inner edges.
A swaying, smoking, acetylene lamp swung back and forth in the center of the car, shedding a sickly yellow glow over the five occupants of the coach.
A strange group these people made. Molly, leaning her arm against the dirty window-sill, her feet propped up on the seat opposite, was lazily snuffing a cigarette. Beside her sat Mug, his loose, heavy face greenish in the pale light. Behind them, Sparrow lolled against the window, starting out into the night. Across from him sat Chuck, his one eye now completely closed and rapidly turning a blue black, nursing his bruises as the train jolted along over the wet rails. At his side was Lefty, his hand thrust deep into his pocket, gripping a gun that kept its eye, watchful nose against the boy's ribs.
Silently they rode along, each busy with his own thoughts. Chuck looked around at his companions as though measuring their strength, but he was one against four, and those four were desperate. If he could only make a getaway! He shuddered as he thought of Rose back there in that lonely house with no one save the Professor. Desperate, he turned to the man beside him, a pleading look on his tense, drawn face.

MOTHERHOOD AN AID TO CAREER

Beautiful Mae Murray, film actress, in private life the Princess M'Dvanti, kept her son's birth a secret for sixteen months for fear knowledge of it existence might injure her professional career. But her sister stars of the stage and screen do not agree with her, declaring it their belief that motherhood not only does not impair their box office value, but is an inspiration to a career.

By SHIRLEY KIRKE
International Illustrated News Staff Writer.

Most emphatically her sister stars of the stage and screen do not agree with Mae Murray in her belief that motherhood is injurious to a career.

Like Cornelia, the Roman matron, they are proud to exhibit their children as their "jewel," having no fear that public knowledge of their motherhood will in any way detract from their box office value.

Miss Murray feared it would and it was only recently that the public learned she has a sixteen-months-old son. She had kept his birth a secret, her husband said, because she feared knowledge of it might injure her professional career.

Eva White, famous Broadway star, believes exactly the opposite. She thinks an actress should enjoy her children as do writers and other professional women.

"I have a fourteen-year-old daughter," she said. "I suppose that my position is somewhat similar to Miss Murray's, for my work is musical comedy dancing. But I am inordinately proud of my Loretta and am anxious that she be a success at dramatic school so that we can appear together in a show."

Has the fact that I always have boasted about my big daughter been a detriment to my career? On the contrary, she has given me something to work for."

Another case of proud motherhood is that of Ethel Shutta, the comedienne, who, in private life is Mrs. George Olsen. She retired from the stage upon marrying, but now that her little son has passed the age of his infantile troubles and sicknesses, she is returning to the stage.

In the film world Eleanor Boardman, Irene Rich, Leatrice Joy and Claire Windsor are all proud mothers. None of these stars ever passes up an opportunity to be photographed with her children.

SUMMER BLOUSE DELIGHTFUL FEATURE
PARIS, July 14—The return of the tailor to its former place in the sun has brought with it great emphasis upon its accompanying blouse which has never been seen in such delightful forms.
There is first of all what the French call the "chemisier classique," made in heavy crepe de chine, crepe Roman, satin and georgette. Fitted tightly about the hips with a wide or narrow band, it sometimes has a low Claudine collar with a slight décolletage.
Sleeves are always long with simple cuffs and trimmings almost always of the same material as the blouse itself. Lace and embroidery are rare. Simple ladderwork or hemstitching make the charming garniture on a blouse in silk mousseline. The two pieces which make a bolero a la basque are of double thickness and joined by ladderwork as well as the yokes of the sleeves. The narrow belt of leather has a large dismante buckle.
Full jabots, usually on one side only, give a pretty touch to many of the summer blouses. One in ivory satin has the front crossed and closed with crystal buttons.
Figured crepe de chine in small patterns is used for the jumper blouses of several models with plain pleated skirts in harmonizing colors. One of the most attractive comes in brown and corn color with bands at the edge of the jumper and outlining the rounded chemisette of white mull.

Table tennis, as played nowadays, has become such a fast game that anyone over 40 years of age is regarded as being too old for first-class playings.

HERE'S A LIST OF "DON'T'S" FOR HOT WEATHER BATHERS
Appalling Loss of Life by Drowning Due to Carelessness
By JAMES Y. KEENE
International Illustrated News Sports Editor
"ROUNDED at dispatches telling of the death by drowning of more than half a hundred swimmers over the Fourth of July holiday, Olympic swimming experts have prepared a list of "don'ts" designed to reduce the number of fatalities.
Almost every case of drowning at a lake or beach can be prevented if bathers exercise ordinary precautions, these officials declare.
Here are the rules laid down:
Do not enter the water while overheated. If overheated when you reach the beach or lake, get into a bathing suit and relax in the shade until cooled off.
Do not enter the water after a meal. Wait at least an hour, preferably more, after eating. The stomach should be assisted in digesting the food.
Don't go beyond your depth. This is important for all swimmers and absolutely essential for beginners.
Don't take chances with undertows. These usually are marked out, or at least indicated at the beaches. If not, and you feel yourself in an undertow, get out of it.
Don't lounge in the sun in a bathing suit. Sunstroke, dizziness and headaches caused by over-exposure to the sun are among the most common causes of drowning. Stay in the shade when not in the water, or wear a hat to protect the head from the sun's direct rays.
Don't get out of bathing distance of other bathers.
Don't confuse silliness with brav-

EPISCOPALIAN MINISTER FOR CISCO NAMED

Rev. C. A. Beesley, associate rector of the Church of the Incarnation in Dallas since January, 1927, will take charge of the district of which Cisco is a part, according to an appointment made this past week by Rt. Rev. Harry T. Moore, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Dallas. Rev. Beesley will conduct services here at regular intervals. In addition to his duties here, Rev. Beesley also will serve the Episcopal congregation of Breckenridge, Mineral Wells and Graham. He will reside in Mineral Wells after Sept. 1.
Rev. Beesley came to Dallas from the diocese of Huron. He served during the World War with the Forty-Eighth Highlanders of Canada and was cited three times for distinguished service, despite having been held as prisoner of war in Germany from April, 1915, until a month after the signing of the armistice. He has served as chaplain of several Dallas organizations. While in Dallas Rev. Beesley has taken graduate work in Southern Methodist university.

BRECKENRIDGE WATER RATES ARE LOWERED

BRECKENRIDGE July 14.—The rate to Breckenridge water consumers has been reduced to $1 per month from $1.23, while the minimum has been reduced from $2.00 to $1.50. The order is retroactive and takes place as of July 1.
Concurrent with the announcement this last week of lower rates comes the information that what is known as the General Waterworks corporation has been organized under Delaware laws to acquire all of the capital stock and obligations, except current indebtedness, of various water companies in Idaho, Indiana, Texas, Michigan, Kentucky and Pennsylvania and that the Breckenridge Water company is to be a member of the new system. Others will include the Boise Water corporation, Idaho; the Jersey Shore Water service company, the Freeport Water company and the Lloydell Water company, Pennsylvania; the Indiana Water Service company, Indiana; and Michigan; the Winceneter Waterworks corporation, Kentucky; and the Texas Water Utilities company, Texas.
A syndicate will shortly offer bonds amounting to approximately $7,250,000 for the new merger. The reduction to minimum water users will effect at least 700 Breckenridge families, making a saving to them of more than $4,000 annually.

According to the records of the Breckenridge Water company there are approximately 2000 water connections in the city all of which will witness a saving on their monthly bills of from a few cents to several dollars.

GLOWING TRIBUTE IS PAID BY ALBANY NEWS TO PATTERSON

(From the Albany News.)
Our old time friend Judge Burette Patterson was here from Cisco this week, and made the News office a pleasant call. Judge Burette Patterson is a candidate for associate justice of the court of civil appeals. We have known Judge Patterson for thirty years, he's an able lawyer, one of the hardest students in the west, has made the law, the study of it, a life time business. He owns one of the best law libraries in West Texas, and he knows it through and through. Judge Patterson is clean, clear as a hound's tooth, politically and morally.—We say this, because we want able and clean men on the bench. Men who know the law, and have courage to apply it. In making this statement, we are doing it from the standpoint of the duty of a citizen of this commonwealth. Lastly, Judge Patterson and myself disagree on many things politically, but nevertheless, we are for him.

KING NEPTUNE TO VISIT LAKE CISCO TODAY

King Neptune, supreme ruler of all bodies of fresh and salt water over the universe, will make his first official visit to Cisco this afternoon at 4 o'clock, appearing mysteriously at the Lake Cisco swimming pool.
J. S. Law, supervisor of aquatics, confirmed this report Saturday by stating that he had received an aquagram from old King Neptune in which he advised the time and place of his appearance. Local arrangements have been made to give the king a royal welcome and reception. Some of the best Cisco swimmers have agreed to participate in the reception by demonstrating their skill and prowess in the water to convince His Majesty that the people of Cisco are making good use of the pool.
The purpose of the king's visit is to learn how the people of Cisco and vicinity are using the pool. He will be formally received immediately following his appearance by three heralds, each representing a certain phase of water sports. The herald of safety will present a program of life saving including methods of rescue, resuscitation, etc. The herald of health will show the values of swimming from the standpoint of health. Last but not least important, swimming for recreation will be represented and will demonstrate how people can play games and make swimming a recreational activity.

Confidence More Valuable Than Money
You can borrow one, but you cannot obtain the other that way—it must be won on merit and sustained by a desire to be on the square with everybody.
On one's way to this accomplishment, popularity is quite a hazard and often is driven out of existence thru failure to recognize it as an asset.
The confidence manifested in us, thru the continued patronage of one single customer, regardless of how small may be her purchases, is worth more to us than the equivalent amount in clear profit.
Money is not all! Money is good for only what it buys, and as we said before, one cannot buy confidence or borrow it—it must be won and we know from past experience that the only sure way to win it and hold it, is to be on the square with everybody.

She told of the using of the natural ice far back in antiquity; of the various recipes Marco Polo brought back from China and Japan, which taught the western Europeans the delights of having sherbets and ices on their banquet tables.

Mrs. G. B. Austin made a splendid talk on manufactured ice, giving in outline the science of refrigeration, and the purifying of manufactured ice. She described

Jackson, of Albany, discussed the necessity of ice in modern life, and she was followed by Mrs. H. M. Health Experts Say Laundries Grade High In Disease Prevention

Boston, Mass., July 14.—The latest power laundry is established as an outstanding agency in the preservation of public health and public health standards, according to the report of an extensive survey among leading health authorities of the country made public today by the Bureau of Consumer Research of Boston University. Three hundred and sixty-three health officers and authorities of the country reported that not a single case of contagious or infectious disease had been traceable to the laundries in their communities for the last two years, the survey revealed. The same survey established the fact that there is 100 per cent. compliance on the part of laundries with the sanitary codes of the various cities, indicating, the report declared, that laundries generally had adopted hygienic standards of a high order. Of the total number of authorities replying to the University's questionnaire, 80.28 per cent. declared that the modern power laundry service was, in their opinion, hygienically as safe or safer than any other method. Only 3 per cent. reported other methods better than the laundry, 7 per cent. did not feel sufficiently well informed to make an outright declaration on the subject, one-half of 1 per cent. declared it depended on the laundry whether this method were better than any other, thirty-two hundredths of 1 per cent. said it depends on the family, and the remaining 3 per cent. gave incomplete replies on the subject. Appended remarks from 65 per cent. of the health authorities were written in praise of the modern power laundry service as a cleansing and purifying agent, 30 per cent. were of general character and less than 3 per cent. were critical in nature.

EX-RANGERS TO MEET AUG. 1-3 AT COLORADO

COLORADO, July 16.—Plans to entertain the Texas Ex-Rangers' association, which is to meet in Colorado August 1, 2 and 3, in its ninth annual reunion, are rapidly taking form. The program for the meeting has been arranged, and attractive badges have been ordered and will be turned over to the secretary, Miss Ruby Green. It has also been arranged to place cots in the tabernacle for the men, while their wives and daughters will be entertained in private homes. Roy Warren and his committee are planning to feed the rangers, using the Spade chuck wagon. Beeves have been promised by several cowmen. Major W. M. Green, president of the organization, is working up a basket picnic for the entire county for the final day of the meeting, which comes on Friday. The only badge needed to admit anyone to this affair will be a well-filled basket. The fact that these ex-Rangers who are coming to Colorado "were in the frontier when it was a frontier" is stressed by Major Green, these are men who faced real dangers and lived in exciting frontier days, chasing Indian raiders, cattle thieves, and other law breakers. A barbecue at Seven Wells given by U. D. Wulfjen, and a lawn party by the U. D. C. and Legion auxiliary will be especially for the veterans. At the latter affair the moderate veterans of the county will be part of the reception committee and honor guests.

C. S. LOONEY HIT BY AUTO, BADLY HURT

Constable C. S. Looney was run down and seriously injured late Saturday night when about to enter a car to return to town from an official mission on E avenue. Being notified of a disturbance near the Texas & Pacific freight office, he requested Bob Weddington to drive him to the scene. Arriving there he found several boys, whom he knew, were merely engaged in an animated conversation. Quoting the boys, Looney returned to the car, which was parked near the curb in front of the plating mill, and as he was about to enter it another machine came around the corner, and instead of driving to the left, cut in between the parked car and the curb, striking Looney with such force that he was knocked over the radiator of Weddington's auto to the pavement. He was taken to his home where Dr. J. W. Howell treated his injuries. Dr. Howell stated that while Looney was quite painfully injured, being badly bruised and cut, his injuries were not of such a serious nature as to endanger his life. The most serious hurt was to his neck, as he evidently struck the pavement on his head. His neck was stiff and badly swollen this morning. Justice McDonald said, who visited him at his home. Dr. Howell stated that in addition to the bruises and loss of skin on his head, face and leg, the lobe of his left ear was nearly cut through. Looney is reported to be resting easy. Police stated that the car that struck Looney was owned and driven by a man named John Thompson. No complaint had been filed in the case at noon today.
