EXPERIMENTAL STATION SOUGHT BY SAN ANGELO

C. A. BROOME SAYS COMMITTEE IS WORKING FOR INSTITUTION, DETERMINED TO SUCCEED.

PROF. HARRINGTON AS A SUBSTITUTE

Will Represent Gov. Campbell on the Board Which Meets in Fort Worth August 10—Follows Gathering of Normal Committee.

Gov. Campbell has designated Prof. H. H. Harrington to represent him on the board nominated by the legislature and consisting of the governor, the commissioner of agriculture and the lieutenant governor, to select the proper places for the location of feeding and experiment station as provided by the laws enacted by the Thirty-first legislature. This board will hold a meeting in Fort Worth on August 10, which is just one day later than the board to select a site for a West Texas normal will meet.

CHRISTOVAL LETS BLDG. CONTRACT

WRIGHT & HORN OF BRADY ARE SUCCESSFUL BIDDERS.

CONSIDERED A BARGAIN

Building Is to Be Two-story Affair, but Only First Floor Is to Be Built This Year.

According to J. Stanley Field of the architectural firm of Waller, Shaw & Field, Christoval got about as good a bargain Saturday as any community in this section ever struck. The bargain consisted of a contract with Wright & Horn of Brady, whereby the Brady firm contracts to build a two-story rock and brick veneer school house for the Christoval school district for $7000.

"The first floor only will be finished this year," said Mr. Field, "and this will give Christoval three large and two small rooms, besides a general or cloak room. The second floor will cost about $3000 to finish, and that will be finished next year. The district could not issue more than $7000 worth of bonds this year, but next year will be able to issue another batch of $3000."

"While on the face of everything it might appear that Christoval got a powerful bargain in the contract, at the same time there is margin for a legitimate profit in the contract. Mr. James Ford of Christoval is chairman of the building committee and he has worked with great zeal and success in discharging his duties."

Fred Miller, agent of the Miller Brewing Co., of Milwaukee, manufacturer of the Miller High Life beer, left Saturday for Thurber Junction.

Ed Sterling returned Saturday to his home in Hempstead, after visiting in this city for five months.

SENATOR KEEN. New Jersey's senior senator is a Republican and was elected in 1899 to succeed James Smith, Jr., Democrat. His term will expire in 1911. Senator Keen is a lawyer and has been one of the leading Republicans of his state for many years.

They Never Burglarize This Town

Not a single conviction for burglary committed in San Angelo for the space of one year. That is the record the citizens can point to with pride and challenge other cities throughout the state to produce its equal. San Angelo leads every city of its size in the state for a law-abiding class of people, and the Tom Green county jail has fewer occupants than is the rule in such cases. When people so inclined to earn their living by nefarious pursuits come here, they either find it more profitable to turn their talents into the path of honest labor, or they receive a pointed invitation from the officers to shake the dust of San Angelo from their heels.

ORIENT. Good Progress Is Being Made at the Colorado River.

Sixteen piles were driven on the bridge over the Colorado river Saturday, according to intelligence received by Orient officials in the city. This is pretty rapid work and goes to show that the Orient construction gang is not wasting any time in getting that big task done.

Fishing Party. Johnnie Hunter, Hugh Utteback and Oscar Lee left Saturday night with Manly Johnson to visit him for a few days on Bismarck farm.

J. Reasonover, until recently with C. B. Henderson of this city, left Saturday for New York City to buy an up to date stock of goods for his proposed new dry goods establishment at

R. C. Coates of Ozona was in the city Saturday on his way to visit relatives and friends in Copperas Cove.

POSTAL RECEIPTS FOR MONTH JULY SHOW A BIG GAIN

FIGURES AMOUNT TO $2167.27 AS AGAINST $1875.71 FOR SAME PERIOD IN 1908.

NEARLY 15 PER CENT

Postmaster Blanchard Is Pleased, Although He Expected a Big Increase—True Reflection of the City's Growth.

July, 1908, postal receipts at San Angelo, $1875.71. July, 1909, postal receipts at San Angelo, $2167.27. That is nearly fifteen per cent increase.

Postal receipts come just about as near reflecting the growth or retrogression of a city as anything that can be cited. Just to show how steady has been the growth in the increase in postage receipts here it may be mentioned that during June, 1909, the receipts at the local postoffice footed $1914.75.

NOTHING. Mayor Paul Spends Saturday Fishing Near Big Springs.

Not a word was heard, from Mayor Paul Saturday, and, it is presumed, he is several miles from civilization catching fish just about as fast as he can throw in his line and jerk them out. He phoned his office Friday and said that he and Mr. Labadie were starting out for a comfortable place to fish, and would not be back for several days.

On the way to Big Springs the two did a whole lot of talking with reference to San Angelo's proposed trade excursion, and gained some good ideas with reference to the best route to be selected when the trip is made.

ORIENT. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Landon and little son Jamie returned Saturday night from an extended tour through Canada and around the Great Lakes. They report an extremely enjoyable time.

LITTLE BUSTER BROWN BOUGHT BY ROBERT HEWITT FOR $225

Buster Brown has changed owners. Johnny Sauls, the Coke county ranchman, has disposed of the fast little horse to Robert Hewitt, another Coke county ranchman, for $225, just what Sauls paid for him years ago. Everybody in the vicinity of San Angelo knows Buster Brown. He is the gamest little race horse that ever went for a prize on the San Angelo track. He is over ten years old now, but he is still fast and can make any quarter horse in West Texas look well to his laurels.

STOCKHOLDERS MEET TUESDAY TO ORGANIZE

STREET CAR PROMOTERS READY TO GET COMPANY TOGETHER AND ELECT DIRECTORS.

SOME STOCK STILL OPEN

Only $74,000 Subscribed for up to Saturday Night—Mr. Bailey Confident, However, That Remainder Will Be Taken Monday.

Not to be discouraged on account of the slim attendance at Saturday's meeting those at the head of the street railway matters have announced that on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock a meeting of the stockholders in the institution will be held and a company organized. The call, as issued, is as follows:

Dear sir: There will be a meeting of the subscribers of the capital stock of the proposed new street car company at the Yale theater on Tuesday, August 3 at 4 o'clock for the purposes of permanent organization. All subscribers are requested to be present, as the organization will be perfected at that meeting.

(Signed) Organization Committee. Not more than a dozen people were present Saturday when the session was called to order. It had been previously announced that at this gathering the company would be organized. However, it was considered better policy to postpone action until a more representative body is present.

"We are ready to elect our board of directors," said Mr. Crowther, "but I guess we had better not do it today. We will meet Tuesday, and in the meantime every stockholder will be notified. We want all to attend, but those who do not answer will have to devote themselves to blame if things don't go to suit them."

Mr. Bailey reported that not over $74,000 worth of stock has been subscribed for, but that he is confident the remainder may be sold before Tuesday. He declared that the people seem to be just awakening to the advantages the proposition offers, both as an investment and a benefit to the town.

When the company once gets started results will follow in rapid fire order. Everything is so situated that great progress will be made after the wheel is given its first whirl.

Glad. "I am glad to be back in a country where one can keep a collar without it being sweated down in ten minutes," declared Edgar S. Hamilton, who returned Saturday from a business trip to Fort Worth and Dallas. "It wasn't hot down there—oh, no; not at all. Just 105 in the shade all the day long."

Take Care.

"Keep your weeds cut and your premises clean and be careful about your drinking water and the 'trash' you eat," said the city physician Saturday. "That is about the best advice I can give to avoid the typhoid fever epidemic. This is the time of year when the typhoid fever plague sweeps the country, and every possible means should be taken to avoid the dangers that lead to this dreaded disease. The summer is full of dangers to those who are not careful almost to the borders of crankiness with what they eat and drink, as well as to the cleanly conditions of their surroundings. Typhoid fever is a disease easily contracted, and the smallest dissipation of any kind may place the germs in a person's system. This statement of the city physician was not made to scare anyone unnecessarily, but to give warning to the unwary before it is too late."

Self-Planted Cotton Will Make Crop

Here is a tale of forty acres that the famous cow that jumped over the moon couldn't beat. C. F. S. Fischer, who farms on the W. S. Kelly place, and who is one of the most honored and reliable men in this section, vouches for the statement that he now has forty acres of cotton in good condition, with bright promises, that is entirely volunteer. According to Mr. Fischer, this cotton sprang from last year's roots, or something else just as good, and from the first has been doing bully fine. It has choked out most of the weeds and maybe it will pick itself when picking time comes. If anybody can exhibit a better advertisement of the wonderful possibilities from a farming standpoint of the Concho country than self-planted, self-cultivated cotton, just trot 'em out.

CLEVER. Lawson O. Dailey to Post Bulletins Showing Realty Values.

Lawson O. Dailey, the real estate man, has struck up with a fancy method of advertising San Angelo property. He has invented a very clever bulletin board with match cases on either side, to attract attention, which he will place in many prominent places throughout the business section of the city. On this each day he will post a bulletin of what property in all parts of the city is worth on that particular date.

By this means anyone, even a stranger, may know just what to expect in the way of realty values every day that passes.

CONCERT. Cos. Hart, Drugs, Entertain With Good Music, Etc.

Cos. Hart, drugs, added another laurel to their crown as expert advertisers Saturday evening when they gave a splendid free concert to their many customers as well as a great many outsiders. Behind a screen a hidden orchestra discoursed sweet melody and an immense crowd was in attendance throughout the evening. Cold and refreshing drinks were served and a more enjoyable evening is seldom spent.

In the Courts. James A. Hall was adjudged of unsound mind before the county judge Saturday.

Tom Nolen is in the city. Mr. Nolen is the county clerk of Crockett county, as well as the distinguished owner of the Ozona Kicker. Mr. Nolen is on his way to the annual convention of county clerks at Dallas. Said Mr. Nolen: "Grass is fine out our way, and things are extremely prosperous. The Kicker? Oh, she is still kicking, and that is the way she is going to keep on doing. When a man kicks he starts the people to moving."

Infant Hamilton. Information reached San Angelo Saturday afternoon to the effect that the child of Mr. and Mrs. Russ Hamilton died Saturday morning at the ranch, twenty miles from Del Rio. Mrs. Hamilton is the daughter of A. B. Sherwood, cashier of the Western National bank of this city.

RACE TRACK WILL BE THE FASTEST IN ENTIRE STATE

POSTMASTER BLANCHARD SAYS SO, AND HE CLAIMS TO BE IN POSITION TO KNOW.

HARD RAIN PUTS CONDITION RIGHT

Concrete Roller Weighing 10,000 Pounds Serving Good Purpose. Some Inside History on Horse Racing in San Angelo.

"With the completion of the improvements now under way, San Angelo will have the fastest race track in the south, if not in the entire United States."

So said Postmaster Blanchard of the Fair association Saturday.

"We have always had the best racing track in Texas," he said. The new track is being worked up, and weather conditions permitting, we will have a track unexcelled for fast racing.

The elliptical portions of the track are being raised so as to secure fast work on the turns. This will also be of great advantage to the automobile racers, and they can make much better time on this track than they have experienced before.

The Fair association was fortunate enough to have all the grading done just before the rain, so that the down-pour put it in tip-top shape.

"The track is now being rolled with a concrete roller weighing approximately 10,000 pounds, and it will afterward be harrowed thoroughly. This work will have the effect of packing the track and still leaving a cushion surface, which will permit of the bringing out of everything there is in a horse.

"San Angelo has always had high class horse racing. Good talent has been provided and the races, as a rule, have been closely contested and exciting. Above all, square dealing has characterized racing in San Angelo. Jockeying and fixed races have had no part in our sport. Last year's record could not have been duplicated anywhere. The track was new and unworked, and had it not been for the excellent natural conditions fast time would have been impossible.

"The San Angelo race track has been exceedingly fortunate in the selection of judges and starters, and an effort has always been made to see that a square deal was given to every horse entered.

"San Angelo has always been a great town for horse racing and other 'smestrian sports. Off and on, she has had a fair association for something like twenty-five years. I have been a member of the different bodies for about eighteen years.

"Even in the old days, although the racing was characterized by a great deal of gambling, still the sport was honest and carried on without the display of pistols and other weapons so common in those days. The running race was the only one that attracted much attention in those days. A harness race was considered somewhat tame. But you must remember that high class methods in horse racing were not in as general vogue as nowadays.

"Those were the times when Col. John R. Nasworthy was raising thoroughbred horses for racing purposes.

"The first regular fair association was organized in 1889, capitalized at $10,000, and this body conducted the fair for five or six years and then broke up on account of lack of funds. No regular association was formed after that until 1908, when the enthusiasm was revived to such a great extent that another association was organized—a permanent organization, with George Hagelstein as president." Mr. Blanchard was the main factor in the organization of the new fair and carnival association. He first brought the matter up before the Business club in a great speech that set enthusiasm afloat and the matter was taken up, with the good results that everybody knows were attained.

The Press-News

THE NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY
Incorporated.

Entered as second-class matter December 17, 1907, at the postoffice at San Angelo, Texas, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Sunday Morning, August 1, 1909.

WHEN IN DOUBT, DON'T.

When in doubt, don't, is always a pretty good rule to go by. And The Press-News thinks this will be a pretty good rule relative to Judge Gill's suggestion that the board or managers of the state penitentiary be elected, by the people, just like the railroad commissioners are elected.

For Judge Gill's legal attainments, mental poise, moral stamina and general probity The Press-News has only the highest esteem. But with his judgment, The Press-News at times finds fault. Such a time follows the suggestion that comes from the honored chairman of the penitentiary board that the members of the board be elected.

Elective offices ought to be the offices that the lowest of citizens can fill with profit to the country. That's a basic proposition. We should not have an elective office to which the most humble cannot aspire with reasonable hope for success. On this account The Press-News believes it can trace much of the chaffing at the law's delay, for special qualifications are exacted of those who would mount the bench, or bellow as public prosecutors.

To make the board of managers of the state penitentiary elective would be to create another avenue for the rich criminal to escape the fulfillment of justice. It would make the right of pardon, for palliation of sentence is equal to pardon, now a prerogative of the executive, quite properly, a question to be fought out at the polls, where heat of passion or a surfeit of pity could overawe, if not actually overthrow justice.

The Press-News believes that the present system of appointing the board of managers decidedly better than the suggestion coming from Judge Gill. The very fact that a man of such little discerning power as the present chief executive of this state possesses, saw fit to appoint a man of Judge Gill's standing as chairman of the state board is in itself a strong argument for the retention of the present system.

The whole trouble with our state affairs now is that we are eternally tampering with questions that are already set successes. The cry for an investigation of the affairs of the state penal institutions did not arise from the system of conducting the state penitentiaries so much as the demand that the subservience of that system be stopped. When we are doing pretty well, let's rest content. Judge Gill is honest in wanting to change the law, but he is inviting ten troubles to reign where one trouble now exists when he proposes to make the board of managers of the penitentiary system elective.

LITTLE THINGS COUNT

Little things often count like big things. Here in San Angelo we have made wonderful progress in line with the big things, but in some of the little matters we are still first cousins to our square cities, like Brownwood and Abilene, for instance. It is no use calling attention to the little deficiencies with directness, for the reason every one here is aware of them and no one thinks them important enough to tackle them with the proper kind of weapons.

The good people of San Angelo should remember that a sentence without a comma, or a punctuation mark of any kind would be one without vigor and one capable of being construed as the reader wished. It is just so with the little things in a place changing from a town to a metropolis. We have got to wake up in many ways. We have got to leave our "kid" ways behind, just like we have left our "kid" clothes behind.

For one thing let's clean up. Fire destroyed $15,000 worth of dry goods at Venus. Oh, well, Venus is never half so attractive as when her clothes are not bothering her.

A TALE OF TALENT.

Daniel Webster once said that Alexander Hamilton touched the dead rock of national finances and caused it to gush with living waters, or something to that effect. As much may also be said of the Ozona Kicker, that recalcitrant periodical published in Crockett county. When Mary Jane Cox assumed the management, etc., etc., of the Kicker that paper was in a bad way, due entirely to lack of sustenance, for it was a side issue, even though issued weekly. Since the beaming belle of the art preservative first uttered his classic cuss phrases at the condition of the rollers and braved the elements in quest of real news, however, the Kicker has been appearing prettier and sweeter all the time. Now the Kicker comes to all who enjoy such satisfying pabulum, as clean as a schoolboy who has just scrubbed his face.

Madam Mary Jane Cox is a splendid acquisition by the press of West Texas. He is a man who has lived close to the thinking people of many parts of Texas. He has been petted and belted by the politicians and he knows when they are shallow and when they are running deep. During the Thirty-first legislature he got a thirty days' sentence to the penitentiary in the senate and the experience has been worth a fortune to him. He is erudite and erudition; he is perspicacious and pulchritudinous; he is vitriolic and voluble, and like the swinged cat of delightful contemplation, he is better than he looks. All hail and much glory to this gentle maiden and may the shadow that falls from her form never show anything in the shape of a pi line.

Talk about eating crow. Dallas has just hired a citizen of Fort Worth to superintend the waterworks enlargement there. But this is merely passing the buck along. Hawley, the man hired, lives in Fort Worth, but Fort Worth sent to San Antonio to get her expert engineer. Next!

Now comes the report that the Mexican government has secured proof showing that El Paso is on Mexican soil. Betcher El Paso will do all possible to prove that claim. Since the Baskin-McGregor liquor law, the law making spilling a felony, and the law making the lid thirst-proof got busy in Texas, El Paso has felt like a little child in charge of a cruel ogre.

Abilene has sent an urgent invitation to Col. William J. Bryan to become a citizen of that village. Let Col. Bryan accept this invitation and he will learn there are biters in life more galling than three defeats for the presidency. On to Sterling City.

John Freeland, in putting his money in the gas company here, is showing the kind of faith in San Angelo that can be emulated with profit.

It's natural, of course it is, for a youth with rich red blood coursing through his veins to give seven looks at the silk to one at the string while fastening the shoe of millady with the well trilled ankle. And when cornered the youth will perhaps admit a soft and gentle impeachment and will answer there's a reason easily found. How about, however, the candidate who is going over the state screeching the moral uplift? Don't you think for one moment he's half as daffy about the moral uplift as he would have you believe. Like the youth tying the shoestring, he has an eye on the silk, which is in this instance the job he is seeking so strenuously.

Thanks.

The San Angelo Press-News improves with each issue, and when it gets its new press and its telegraph service it will make its contemporaries sit up and take notice, for McCaleb is a hustler from way back.—Ozona Kicker.

Romance of Beefsteak.

Chicago, July 31.—A slap in the face with a beefsteak administered by Mrs. Kate Yonkers, a wealthy widow 44 years old, a remark made by Charles Beck, a retail butcher, and a suit for $15,000 for slander, instituted in behalf of Mrs. Yonkers, culminated in the marriage of the plaintiff and the defendant.

Mrs. Yonkers, now Mrs. Beck, purchased a steak at Mr. Beck's shop, but when she returned home the steak did not meet her approval, and she returned, angry, to the store. After a volley of words the enraged woman slapped Beck in the face with the broad side of the steak.

Beck then told Mrs. Yonkers what he thought of her, and the suit was forthwith instituted.

PERT PARAGRAPHS WEST TEXAS PRESS

One hundred street corner signs have been posted by authority of the city council and these will prove quite a convenience. The boards are painted according to the system of numbering and lettering the streets that was adopted last summer, hence many people have learned for the first time just where they live. The Post trusts the good work may go on until these sign boards can be seen all over the city. Next, let proper numbers be given all the houses and the people be required to put them up. Then a little more side walk building would put us in line for free mail delivery if the people want it—a thing of which we are not at all certain.—Childress Post.

It is wicked to loaf. Every man is created for a purpose and he has no right to shirk that responsibility. If you have friends and money that simply increases your responsibility. No man has a right to loaf. Nothing can be more humiliating to a parent than to know that his son is a confirmed loafer—a mere blank—absorbing his living from the toil of other hands and creating nothing. No sensible young lady will allow a confirmed street loafer to enter her company. No able-bodied, strong-minded person ever wanted to work who was unable to find it. There is always plenty of work to do. If you can't get paid for your labor go and work for nothing—it will be better for you; and when you have fully demonstrated that you can easily find a paying job. The man or boy who is content to live like a drone bee—sponging off of the others—should be forced upon his own resources, and compelled to sink or swim. 'T would be the best for society. Boys, if you ever loafed don't do it any more.—Ballinger Ledger.

In Tuesday evening's mail we received a letter from Hillsboro, one from Seymour, Lorena, Tilden and Corsicana, and in each letter the writer said that it is very dry at that place. The writer at Hillsboro said: "You think you are suffering out there, but you don't know anything, for how would you like to have all your money tied up in $100 land, and it is just as bare as the floor? That is just the condition in this country." Now, Mr. Grumbler, read the above and consider the same, and if you doubt that we got those letters come in and we will show you. Now really, aren't you proud you are fortunate enough to be permitted to live in good old West Texas? Where land is cheap, health is good, and in fact the land of h-e-a-l-t-h, wealth and prosperity.—Stiles Journal.

This is the first issue of the fourth year of the Eden Echo. It is a better financial success than ever before and is a fixture for Eden and the Eden section. A newspaper is bound to be a factor to a degree in the upbuilding of any community. This is particularly true of a new and freshly developing section like our own. We are glad to have the opportunity of adding our mite to this advancement, and with the support and other encouragement given us; let us all pull together for a "higher and a better" Eden and South Concho County.—Eden Echo.

Sign up the irrigation contracts, sign up the irrigation contracts. Let this be the cry until every foot of irrigable land in the valley is contracted. It will be an act of charity on your part if you will insist on your neighbor signing up his land if he is slow to act. No harm to offer a man a good thing then insist on his taking it if he hesitates. On with the contracts.—San Saba News.

A young woman living near Rotan, Texas, committed suicide because her folks wouldn't provide a way for her to attend a social gathering. They must not have parties very often in that neighborhood, or else they have the kind that when you miss you miss one-half of your life. However, we hope this girl's example will not become fashionable.—Eldorado News.

The J. J. Lanin road is a sure thing—the contracts have all been signed up and construction work will begin within sixty days. When those San Angelo go after a thing they always get it.—Stiles Journal.

Since the pastor of the Baptist church at San Marcos proclaimed that the men are welcome in their shirt sleeves in his church, and in fact headed the bunch so appearing except while he was in the pulpit, we have seen where other preachers are following his example. With due deference to the clergymen so doing, we think they are making a mistake. While there is no doubt that worship from the heart is perfectly acceptable to the Great Ruler of the universe, no matter what the dress, still as much

Milwaukee Woman Charges That Husband Drove Guests Away.
Milwaukee, Wis., July 31.—That her husband, Robert L. Gates, secretary of the J. L. Gates Land company, came home with a man from the Rescue mission one afternoon while she was entertaining some friends at a pink tea and drove them all out of the house at the point of a revolver was a charge made by Mrs. Jane Gates at the hearing of her divorce suit before Judge Halsey.
Her husband's companion stayed at their house with him for the next two months, she testified, and she had to cook his meals for him during that time.
On other occasions he has chased her out of the house with an Indian war club, three feet long, with a large stone at the end, Mrs. Gates declared. The club is part of a collection of weapons kept in Mr. Gates' den, including some swords, which he has also made use of in his attacks on her.
Mr. Gates is the oldest son of James L. Gates, long known as the heaviest owner of land in Wisconsin. The elder Gates was recently divorced by his wife, Gertrude Ruel, widow of a former partner of Marshal Field, the charges in that suit being so sensational that most of the papers were sealed.

Reads About
Night Riders
Has Dream

Poughkeepsie, July 31.—A startling story was told to the police by Arthur D. Little, an Eastman college student, who declared that burglars had overpowered and robbed him in Mrs. Stanley Bartlett's fashionable boarding house at 336 Mill street.
Little was found by his chum, Theodore Bartlett, bound in a chair in the library and apparently unconscious. This was at 6 o'clock, when Bartlett returned after a short absence, leaving Little alone in the house. Dr. J. W. Poucher was summoned. Bartlett cut Little loose and the physician worked with him over half an hour to get him to sit up and take notice of things.
The police were told of the affair, and Chief of Police McCabe and Sergeant Sheehey went through the building and found articles strewn around tippy tury in the room. Little said that a big masked man had entered the library where he was reading a tale of a frolicsome night rider in Kentucky who bound men with ropes and stuck knives in them. The masked man, Little said, glared at him and at the same instant a confederate seized him from behind and chloroformed him. Dr. Poucher was skeptical about the chloroform. There was no odor of it in the room, he said.
Chief McCabe had an hour's talk with Little. At its close he produced Little's signed confession that his yarn was all fiction. The story, he acknowledged, had furnished the inspiration. He thought he would stir up a sensation, and he did.
The thieves, Little said, had taken all his money, $40 or so, and a valuable pin. The pin was found in his trunk, where he had hidden it, and the thieves couldn't have taken any money, for Little said he was broke. He couldn't even scare up money enough to take his girl to the circus.
Little is 22 years old. His home is at Leominster, Mass., where his father is a member of the contracting firm of Long & Little. Little had been attending Cushing academy. He came to Eastman college last October.

Ankles I Saw
Is Subject of His Sermon

Minneapolis, July 31.—Dr. G. L. Morrill delivered his illustrated lecture on "The Lewd and the Nude" at a local theatre this morning.
The sermon was heard by a packed house. Twenty-five pictures of Minneapolis women made on Nicollet avenue yesterday were thrown upon the screen. Some wore low neck dresses while others were shown with tight clothes. Exposure up to the knees by several women who were photographed was the most startling of the illustrations, and these women came in for a greater share of criticism.
Dr. Morrill also drew pictures of several animals found in the London Zoo on the screen and compared the women with them.
"Any woman who is immodest enough to hold her skirts up to her knees on the principal thoroughfares of this city should be placed in the same category as these animals," he said.
"It is indecent exposure at best and any woman who cares so little about herself as to pull her dress above her knees, probably, so men can gaze on her fancy hosiery, should be considered no better than an animal."
Several nude paintings which the speaker explained were those of common sights in ancient times were thrown upon the screen. He compared these with present day women who seem to attire themselves in such a manner as to attract attention and display their figure lasciviously. In this connection he made an appeal to young girls, declaring that the downfall of many was caused by paying too much attention to dress or lack of it.
This part of the address was closed with the words, "Girls, don't try to expose all your mothers gave you." The Rev. Mr. Morrill spent most of yesterday afternoon making the photographs. Frequent attempts were made by men escorting women to demolish the camera and one barely missed breaking the lens.
No names of those who appeared in the illustrations could be learned, their faces having been previously blurred and Dr. Morrill refused to make public their identity.
W. M. Phillips went to Terrell Saturday after visiting his uncle, S. E. Taylor, of this city, for several days. Mr. Phillips says San Angelo is the "best what is" and if he can sell out his Terrell property he will return here to live.
Mrs. R. J. Caldwell returned to her home in Ennis Saturday after visiting friends and relatives in the city for several days.

Ashes Dead
Husband Go
Out Into Sea

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—Following out the last request of her husband, John Dreunig, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Matilda Dreunig went to the end of Young's pier this afternoon and tossed the ashes of the dead man into the sea.
Hundreds of spectators crowded around the widow as she opened the small black box into which the ashes of her husband had been put after his cremation in Philadelphia and allowed the particles to spread on the rollers, which carried the ashes among the bathers near shore.
Dreunig made the execution of his will, under which his wife will secure his property, conditional on the carrying out of his last request, that his ashes be scattered in the Atlantic City surf, where he had spent many pleasant hours as a bather in former summers.

Woman To Make Race
For Congress

Denver, July 31.—The women of Colorado are to make a stubborn effort to send one of their sex to congress two years hence. The announcement was made to the visiting delegates from the international council of women by one who spoke of the women's associations in the state, Mrs. Mary Platt Decker is to be the candidate.
"Of course it is difficult to tell whether we will be successful in our efforts," said Mrs. Harriet Wright, former member of the state legislature. "but we are looking forward to landing a woman in the halls of congress and we certainly are going to make a determined effort."

SEKS SUBSTITUTE FOR TWINE.
Post Office Department Wants to Avoid the Exactions of Twine Trust.

Washington, July 31.—The postoffice department is again chafing under the exactions of the so-called twine trust, and action has been taken by Postmaster General Hitchcock looking to a substitute for twine in the postal service. Immense quantities of twine are used by the department in post-offices throughout the country, but particularly in the railway mail service, and it costs something like $200,000 annually.
About a year ago the postmaster general appointed a committee to investigate the question of adopting a tying device to be used in securing without twine packages of letters in the mail and at postoffices.
This caused a reduction in the price of twine and the investigation was temporarily abandoned. Twine has begun to soar again, and today the postmaster general appointed the first, second and fourth assistant postmasters general a committee to investigate the question of adopting a tying device for use in the postal service as a substitute for twine and have such practical tests made as may be necessary to determine the utility, durability and economy of the several devices submitted.
Upon the conclusion of the investigation the committee will make report and recommend such action in the premises as may be deemed advisable. The committee has been instructed to be prompt in its work and samples of tying devices must be submitted by August 1.

MR. VAN NESS KILLS A WHALE.
Then She Didn't Blow, but Just Rolled Inshore at Massau-by-the-Sea.

Hempstead, L. I., July 31.—Word has been received there tonight of an eighteen-foot whale killed by William Van Ness, a member of the Nassau-by-the-Sea cottage colony at Point Lookout this morning. This is the first time in many years that a whale has been found so far inshore, and is the subject of great excitement among the cottagers.
Mr. Van Ness was strolling along the beach this morning when he saw a dark colored object rolling in the surf about a quarter of a mile down the shore. Investigation showed that it was a young whale about eighteen feet in length lying in only a few feet of water. At a loss a harpoon, Mr. Van Ness improvised a sharp hook by which he hitched the whale to a stake and made off as fast as a possibility for a gun with which to shoot his game. He returned within a short time with a gun and put an end to the whale. He will have it boiled and cut up and will doubtless get several hundred dollars for the oil.

Anderson, S. Hellemann fled, leaving a letter admitting he was short $35,000 and giving some suggestions that will aid in straightening the books, which he had been falsifying.
Hellemann said in the letter that he decided some months ago that he could make money in cotton futures, and began to use the bank's money. At one time he had a profit of $25,000, but the market soon began to go against him, and on Saturday he realized that he had lost not only his $25,000 of profit but also $35,000 he had taken from the bank. He then decided to flee.
Hellemann has been with the bank for years. He was married and has children. He was superintendent of a Sunday school.

FINDS NEW MAMMOTH CAVES.
Indians Lead Prof. Hewitt to Archaeological Treasures.

Denver, July 31.—Great caves, larger than the far-famed cavern of Kentucky, with chasms and vaulted chambers in which an office building could be stored away, and surrounded by ancient and mysterious ruins never before visited by a white man, have just been discovered by Prof. Edgar L. Hewitt, the archaeologist, in the northeastern part of Arizona.

The caves have long been told of by Indians, but white men doubted their existence until a Navajo guide led Prof. Hewitt to them. Hewitt says the caves, ruins and natural bridges were found without difficulty and were exactly as the Indian legend had described them.
Some of the caverns he and the guide visited were large enough to contain the Singer building, and others contained curious formations unlike anything he had ever seen. Several natural bridges between hills in the vicinity were so large as to make the rock bridges of Utah and Virginia puny by comparison. The ruins contain relics, household articles and remains of a race of which the archaeologists have been in ignorance.

Express Company Not Satisfied With Getting It Back, Has Fought Five Years to Find Out Name.

New Albany, Miss., July 31.—Declaring that to answer the question of the prosecuting attorney would be to violate a confidence, Dr. F. M. Rogers, a prominent physician, has refused to reveal the identity of a woman who handed him a package containing $5,000 in currency, money which it is asserted had been stolen.

His persistence brought forth a jail sentence for Dr. Rogers yesterday, which he accepted, and was on his way, unescorted, to the prison to begin sentence, when his attorneys filed an appeal, which served as a stay of sentence.

The case at bar was in connection with the robbery of a local express company five years ago. Five thousand and ninety dollars was taken. A few days later Dr. Rogers was approached by a woman, who handed him the amount, with the request that it be returned.

Like at the present trial, when the matter was first under investigation Dr. Rogers refused to say as to the identity of the woman, and he was fined for contempt of court. The matter was taken to the supreme court twice on technicalities and the judgment of the lower court affirmed. A pardon was then granted by Gov. Vardaman.

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'GUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"I am sorry for what I said," she said eagerly. "And"—she looked up at the hills with a sudden widening of her eyes—"I think I shall not remain."

Chase made light of the occurrence, but sought to impress upon the others the fact that it was prophetic of more serious events in the future. In a perfectly cold blooded manner he told them that the islanders might rise against them at any time.

"The people are angry, and they will become desperate. Their interests are mine, of course. I am perfectly sincere in saying to you, Lady Deppingham, and to you, Mr. Browne, that in time they will win out against you in the courts. But they are impatient. They are not the kind who can wait and be content. It is impossible for you to carry out the provisions of the will, and they know it. That is why they resent the delays that are impending."

Deppingham told him of the scheme proposed by Saunders, treating it as a vast joke. Chase showed a momentary sign of uneasiness, but covered it instantly by laughing with the others. Strange to say, he had been instructed from London to look out for just such a coup on the part of the heirs—not that the marriage could be legally established, but that it might create a complication worth avoiding.

He could not help looking from Lady Deppingham to Bobby Browne, a calculating gleam in his gray eyes. How very dangerous she could be! He was quite ready to feel very sorry for pretty Mrs. Browne. He sat opposite to the princess. His eyes were refreshing themselves after months of fatigue; his blood was coursing through new veins. And yet his head was calling his heart a fool.

CHAPTER XV.

THE PRINCESS GOES GALLOPING.

A WEEK passed—an interesting week in which few things happened openly, but in which the entire situation underwent a subtle but complete change. The mail steamer brought disconcerting news from London. Chase was obliged to tell the islanders that notice of a contest had been filed. The lineal heirs had pooled their issues and were now fighting side by side. The matter would be in chancery for months, even years. He could almost feel the gust of rage and disappointment that swept over the island, although not a word came from the lips of the sultry population. The very silence was foreboding.

He did not visit the chateau during that perplexing week. It was hard, but he resolutely kept to the path of duty, disdaining the pleasures that beckoned to him. Every day he saw and talked with Britt and Saunders. They, as well as the brisk Miss Pelham, gave him the "family news" from the chateau. It did not require extraordinary keenness on Chase's part to gather that her ladyship and Browne had suddenly decided to engage in what he would call a mild flirtation, but what Saunders looked upon as a real attack of love.

"If I had the nerve I'd call Browne good and hard," said Britt over his julep. "It isn't right. It isn't decent. The disappear for hours at a time, and they're always got their heads together. Poor little Drusilla! She's from Boston, Chase, and can't retaliate. Besides, Deppingham wouldn't take notice if she tried. The worst of it is Deppingham has got an idea that they may try to put him out of the way—him and Drusilla. Awful, isn't it? And, say, by the way, Saunders is getting to dislike you intensely."

"I can't help it if he loves the only stenographer on the island," said Chase easily. "You seem to be the only one who isn't in hot water all the time, Britt."

"Me and the princess," said Britt ironically. Chase looked up quickly, but the other's face was as straight as could be. "If you were a real gentleman you would come around once in a while and give her something to talk to instead of about."

"Does she talk about me?" quite steadily.

"They all do. I've even heard the white handmaids discussing you in glowing terms. You're a regular matinee hero up there, my"—

"Selim!" broke in Chase. The Arab came to the table immediately. "Don't put so much liquor in Mr. Britt's drinks after this—mostly water." Britt grinned amiably.

"I say, Britt, you're not responsible for this affair between Browne and Lady Deppingham, are you?" demanded Chase abruptly.

"I? What do you mean?"

"I was just wondering if you could have put Browne up to the game in the hope that a divorce or two might solve a very difficult problem."

"Now that you mention it, I'm going to look up the church and colonial divorce laws," said Britt noncommittally after a moment.

"I advise you to hurry," said Chase coolly. "If you can divorce and marry 'em inside of four weeks, with no court qualified to try the case nearer than India, you are a wonder."

Chase was in the habit of visiting the mines two or three times a week during work hours. The next morning after his conversation with Britt he rode out to the mines. When he reached the brow of the last hill, overlooking the wide expanse in which the men toiled, he drew rein sharply and stared aghast at what lay before him. Five hundred half naked brown men were congregated in the shade of the trees far to the right. By the aid of his glasses he could see that one of their number was addressing them in an earnest, violent harangue. It was Von Blitz. From time to time faint sounds of shouts came across the valley.

Chase shuddered. He knew what it meant.

"How about Allah now, Selim?" he asked sententiously.

"Allah is great, Allah is good," mumbled the Moslem youth, but without heart.

"Do you think he can save me from those dogs?" asked the master, with a kindly smile.

"Selim, do not go among them today," implored Selim impulsively.

"They are expecting me, Selim. If I don't come they will know that I have flunked. They'll know I am afraid of them."

"Do not go today," persisted Selim doggedly. Suddenly he started, looking intently to the left along the line of the hill. Chase followed the direction of his gaze and uttered a sharp exclamation of surprise.

Several hundred yards away, outlined against the blue sky beyond the knob, stood the motionless figure of a horse and its rider—a woman in a green habit. Chase turned his horse's head and rode rapidly toward her. She had left the road to ride out upon the crest of the green knob. Chase was in the mood to curse her temerity.

As he came up over the slope she turned in the saddle to watch his approach. He had time to see that two grooms from the stables were in the road below her. She smiled as he drew up beside her, not noticing his unconscious frown.

"So those are the fabulous mines of Japan?" she said gayly, without other greeting. "Where is the red glow from the rubies?"

"Who gave you permission to ride so far from the chateau?" he demanded, almost harshly. She looked at him in amazement.

RECOVERS COAL LANDS.

The Government Also Receives $287,000 from Utah Fuel Company.

Washington, July 31.—This statement was given out at the department of justice:

"A few months ago the Utah Fuel company, a subsidiary corporation of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad company, pleaded guilty in the district court of the United States for the district of Utah to an indictment charging it with having conspired to defraud the United States of 1440 acres of coal lands and was fined $6000. It also reconveyed to the United States these lands, which are appraised at an upward of $50,000, and forfeited the original purchase price and paid to the United States the sum of $192,000 in settlement of its claims for coal taken from other lands which could not be reconveyed, owing to the fact that they were mortgaged to secure issue of bonds outstanding in the hands of innocent purchasers.

"Subsequently to such settlement the agents of the government became satisfied that the Utah Fuel company had illegally acquired title to other coal lands of the United States in Utah, and after examination of their report the attorney general directed suits in equity to be brought to annul title to such lands. Shortly after the commencement of these suits the representatives of the company opened negotiations for settlement, which resulted in an adjustment agreed to by the attorney general and the secretary of the interior, pursuant to which the Utah Fuel company pays to the government the sum of $75,000, reconveys to the United States 800 acres of coal lands now appraised at a value of about $40,000, besides forfeiting the sum of $14,400 paid to the government at the time patents were issued on the lands. In view of this settlement and on payment and reconveyance above mentioned the attorney general has discontinued the suits.

"Only the lands described in the suits discontinued were embraced in the settlement. Further investigation is being prosecuted and in case other coal lands shall appear to have been illegally acquired suits will at once be instituted to assert the government's interests therein."

Abe Heald lost a very fine horse Saturday through a rather unusual accident. Mr. Heald was driving on Chadbourne street, when in some manner the horse stumped his foot and falling, his head struck the street car rail, killing the animal instantly. The accident happened in front of the Depot market. It was over with so quickly that those who saw it could not figure out just how it all took place.

NOBLEST ROMAN OF THEM ALL

HARRY PULLIAM'S TRAGIC DEATH BEMOANED BY THOUSANDS.

LITTLE INSIDE HISTORY

'Twas His Master Hand That Directed Fortunes of National League for Many Years.

By M. L. McCain, Jr.
Harry Pulliam is dead. Throughout the vast domain of organized balldom all action ceases for a space while every player and each devoted fan pays reverence to "the noblest Roman of them all."

Not through nature's causes nor through the instrumentality of an assassin did Harry Pulliam die, but 'twas his own hand that cut him off from everything that is mortal. Burdened with an enduring sickness of many months and despondent of improvement, the demon of self-destruction whispered in his ear and won its battle. But no consideration whatsoever should enter into the homage which should be paid him as the grandest man in the history of the national game.

His was the master hand that directed the fortunes of the National league from the death of Nick Young to the present day. Not one blemish has ever marred his spotless record, for everything that was square and honest in baseball Harry Pulliam stood for; and his memory will ever stand as an ineffaceable record of what the future should hold for subsequent presidents that will hold the rod of authority.

When Nick Young completed his life's work and passed into eternity, a young man with small experience in that line was placed in charge of the destinies of the National league. The war with the American league was just over, settled through the genius of Nick Young and Ban Johnson. Troublous times were the order of the day then, the slightest misstep would have thrown the bond of amity between the two major organizations aside and another war would have ensued. But the frail young man who then held the reins of the National league pennant chasers was a master of the art of diplomacy and poured oil on the troubled waters and quieted dissension within his own league as well as the opposing organization.

Harry Pulliam was ever a mediator in the affairs of dissatisfied players and the clubs to which they belonged, and many a good player has been saved to major league ball that would have otherwise have drifted off to the bush.

The dead president of the National league was a member of the National commission, with Garry Hermann and Ban Johnson, and his great brain was the means in many instances of preserving order in organized baseball. His actions have never been hasty; neither were they harsh, but no appeal could ever change one of Harry Pulliam's decisions once it was made.

Mr. Pulliam was a newspaper man in his day and his every article spoke for greater honesty and purity in the great American game. His articles were ever forceful and to the point; he wrote with a pen of fire, but his articles never savored with bitterness and personal antagonism.

He will be succeeded by Secretary Heydler, a very capable gentleman, who will no doubt look after the league, which is now in a prosperous condition in a creditable manner.

All over the country the leagues are showing respect to the departed magnate. The Southern league has ordered the flags to be seen at half mast on the day of his funeral.

Baseball in America is a permanent institution, a clean, healthy game that will exist as long as the republic lives. In its brief career it has seen many imposing figures pass in procession before the grandstand of publicity, but never again will baseball know another man of the magnificent proportions of Harry Pulliam.

"The mold was broken with his completion," and when Harry Pulliam ended his own life the grandest and saddest man in the kingdom of "Old King Swat" laid aside his regal robes to rest—but his fair name will never descend to oblivion until the last ball is torn asunder and the crack of the bat be no longer known in America.

NEWS OFFERS ALAMO REPLICA SUBMITS PROPOSITION TO ERECT IT ON FAIR GROUNDS. DESERVES SUITABLE SITE

If This Is Given Architects Are Ready to Go Ahead With the Work Without Delay.

Dallas, July 31.—At a meeting of the park commissioners of Dallas a proposition was read from the Dallas Morning News to erect on the grounds of the Fair Park and donate to the city a replica of the Alamo, complete in every respect, but on somewhat reduced scale. The News asked authority to carry out the purpose. Mayor S. J. Hay, chairman of the board, appointed a committee composed of Commissioners M. N. Baker and Emil Fretz to meet at the Fair park and select the location.

H. M. Greene of Hubbel & Greene, architects, was present. He announced that the plans and specifications for the structure are ready and that the contract would be awarded the moment the Park board chose a satisfactory location and accepted the proposition. Therefore, if the action is taken at once there will be no doubt whatever about the building being finished before the fair opens. In its communication to the Park board the News says:

Proposition from the News.
"The only conditions are (1) that your board shall designate a convenient or satisfactory lot upon which to rear the structure; (2) that the building shall bear the inscription of the News; (3) the News to have sole use of it during sessions of the fair and other gatherings at the park, but leaving it open always to the public during the day; (4) that the park board shall protect the property. Keep the same insured and maintain it permanently in good repair.

"Historically the Alamo is perhaps the most revered and interesting building in Texas. But because of the distance from North Texas there are doubtless tens of thousands of people who have never seen it and who will never have that opportunity. By the erection of this proposed building in Fair Park this great mass of people will be enabled to see and study an exact imitation of the original, and thus there will be created or augmented in the minds of the younger generation which sees it that proper patriotic feeling and pride for the small but noble band which fought and died for the freedom which we now enjoy."

Collection of Curios.
It is proposed to build a walk around the building and in the space between this walk and the building proper there probably will be planted cactus and other Mexican plants so as to give it a distinctively Mexican appearance. Inside the building, if desired, there may be provided a place for the collection of curios pertaining to the Alamo and the period in history with which it is connected. The suggestion was made that if this could not be done, arrangements might be considered for a loan collection of such curios, of which it is said there are a number scattered about over the state, particularly in South Texas.

Although of smaller size, the building will be otherwise an absolute reproduction of the historic structure which stands in San Antonio. J. P. Hubbell of the firm of Hubbell & Greene, the architects in charge, spent three days in San Antonio for the purpose of taking pictures, measurements and observations of the structure.

Architect Tells of Work.
"Mr. Hubbell measured it for the floor plan," said Mr. Greene, "and he measured the vertical walls and then took all the measurements of the interior of the building. Then he made sketches of all the ornamental work on the outside, as well as on the inside. In fact, he took measurements of everything there, including the impressions of broken plaster and stone, and will be provided with one of the finest traction systems of any city of its size in the state."

In the Courts.

In the justice court Monday Paul Boyd entered a plea of guilty to drunkenness.

Pat McCue entered a plea of drunkenness.

A marriage license was issued in county clerk's office to Francisco Lopez and Josefa Soto.

Sold.

S. B. Rathie sold for A. A. Ma Monday a business house on So. Chadbourne street near the Orient spot, for a consideration of $3400. The building is leased for a term of years at $32 per month, a profit about 15 per cent. This goes to show the excellent returns of investment in San Angelo

Young Girl
Forges Check
For "Sixty"

New York, July 31.—Agnes Michaels a 15-year-old office girl in the employ of Mrs. Catherine A. Burke, a designer of women's cloaks and dresses at 26 West Thirty-first street, was arrested, charged with forging Mrs. Burke's name to a check for $60 and attempting to cash the check.

Mrs. Burke had been in the habit of sending the girl to the Lincoln National bank in West Forty-second street to cash checks for her, always sending a note with the checks to say that she had sent the girl. Agnes went to the bank and presented a badly smudged, ink-spotted and finger-printed check, drawn in a rough similarity to Mrs. Burke's handwriting, to the order of "C. A. Burke," and endorsed. Signatures and indorsement had been traced with pencil and inked over. The pencil marks remained. "Sixty" had been written in the wrong place, blurred out with an ink finger and written again where it belonged. "Dollars" was spelled "dollars."

The girl handed the teller a mussy note, unsigned, reading: "Please excuse the appearance of the check. There was no blotter handy."

Mrs. Burke was notified of the check, and at her request the girl was detained until the arrival of a policeman.

When Agnes was arraigned before Justice Wyatt in the children's court Mrs. Catherine A. Burke, for whom the girl had worked, was reluctant to press the charge. Agnes confessed that she had signed Mrs. Burke's name to the smudgy paper she presented for payment.

"What were you going to with the money?" asked the justice.
"I don't know," Agnes replied. "Maybe I would have spent it with some girls. I didn't think that Mrs. Burke would find it out, but she did."

The girl's mother told the justice that if he thought it necessary she would take her child to Ireland to get her away from the temptations of the city. Mrs. Michaels said that her father owned a farm there and she believed that it would be just the place for Agnes.

"You needn't go to all that trouble and expense," remarked Justice Wyatt. "I think that she realizes that she will never do such a thing again. I will parole her for thirty days."

CORK LEGS LIFE PRESERVER.

Cripple in the Water Thirty Hours After Galveston Storm.

Galveston, Tex., July 31.—William Davies of Groveton, Texas, a legless man 39 years of age, had the most thrilling experience of any of the storm victims so far recorded.

He was a guest at the Tarpon fishing pier, on the north jetty, six miles from Galveston, in the gulf, and with others was thrown into the sea when the big building was demolished by the hurricane.

Before the building collapsed Davies discarded his two cork legs, and catching some of the debris was carried seaward on the storm tide about fifteen miles. He was washed time and again from the raft, and finally it broke up and he was sent adrift in the gulf.

Searching about for debris, he was amazed to see his cork legs floating with the current, and grabbed them. With these supports under his arms he swam back into the bay and was carried by the tides into Galveston upper bay, thirty miles from where the pier collapsed, and was picked up by a boat. He was in the water thirty hours, twelve of which he was battling with the storm. Shortly after being taken out he became delirious, but will recover.

Mrs. Thaw's
Booklet Out
Helps Harry

White Plains, July 31.—Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw issued her pamphlet on the Thaw case entitled "The Secret Unveiled." She has had it copyrighted and it is said that 1500 copies will be printed and mailed to her friends and the press of the country.

The key to the situation, Mrs. Thaw says in her pamphlet, is to be found in one of the closing sentences of one of Jerome's speeches, where Jerome cited the case of Monk Eastman and said that certain people would be only too glad to have him adjudged insane so that certain things could not come out. For the same reason she believes the "miserable degenerate" behind the prosecution of her son are interested in keeping him in the lunatic asylum.

Speaking of the action of Justice Dowling in committing Thaw to the asylum, Mrs. Thaw says, "What an outcry such a sentence in Russia would create throughout civilized Europe and throughout free America! There could be no denunciation too severe for the Russian judges. There could be found no newspaper in the United States or in Europe, outside of Russia, which would dare venture to approve or sustain a sentence so unjust and cruel and so violative of every safeguard."

Mrs. Thaw denied that she had issued her booklet against the wishes of counsel in the Thaw case. She gave out this statement: "The pamphlet was delayed by reason of typographical errors. The principal one was crediting a paragraph from Col. Franklin Bartlett's brief to me."

Already Mrs. Thaw has received a number of congratulations on the booklet from friends who say that it will have a tendency to help rather than injure her son's case.

Loses God
Has No Right to Live Now

Atlantic City, N. J., July 31.—Crying that she had lost her God and had no right to live, Miss Jessie Broadbent, daughter of a jeweler at 4455 Franklin avenue, Philadelphia, and believed to be a victim of religious mania, dived from the deck of the inlet yacht Princeton when the boat was three miles at sea. She was rescued by Mate John Winder, who followed her over the rail and held her up until both could be taken aboard. She was brought to the city after she had been revived, an aid held in the matron's room of the city hall pending the arrival of her relatives.

According to the statement of Miss Broadbent in the city jail, she came here with the intention of ending her life. "I am a bad woman and unfit to live," she told the jail officials, but she refused to give particulars of her reasons for attempting suicide.

Capt. Gale of the Princeton noticed nothing strange about the woman when she boarded his boat with a score of other pleasure seekers shortly before noon. She chatted with the men in charge of the boat during the trip staward and when the boat was about to return to the harbor she went to the rail and leaped overboard. The boat flashed past her in the seaway before any of the passengers could grab her. Winder was at the bow and he dived in time to catch the woman just as she was going down.

"I didn't have the nerve to drag such a brave man down with me," said the woman this afternoon, when explaining why she ceased her struggles after Winder reached her.

Capt. Gale cybed the Princeton and managed to get within reach of the man and woman in the water and they were drawn aboard by passengers. The half-drowned woman was rolled in blankets and kept under guard until the Princeton got back. A patrol wagon took her to the city jail.

The woman raved for hours before she recovered sufficiently to give her name and address.

Seeks Writ
to Locate Her
Lost Sister

New York, July 31.—Supreme Court Justice Bischoff has signed a writ on habeas corpus directing Sammie George, a plumber at 1266 Second avenue, and living at 361 East St. Jeff third street, to bring his wife, Charise, into court. The writ was obtained by Mrs. Matilda Langert, Mrs. George's sister, who says that George is searching his wife of her whereabouts.

George sent his wife to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue, from which she was released on July 6. She says that her sister made her promise that if George ever sent her to a place where she could not get out, Mrs. Langert would bring legal proceedings. She says that shortly thereafter George took his wife and children to the country and later came back with only the children.

FLIES WITHOUT A MOTOR.

West Brandywine, Pa., July 31.—Dr. George A. Spratt, physician, farmer and inventor, has made a successful flight in his aeroplane, of which he is the inventor and builder. He said:

"I made a trial flight last Saturday in my aeroplane. I am able to say that I have attained something which no other air navigator has so far succeeded in doing, that is, navigating a plane in the air with absolute stability, without the assistance of a motor. The Wright brothers hope to work out this problem, as also many other aviators of less fame. I will have a great advantage over my competitors in the fact that my machine will have the gliding stability in an air navigating body."

"I covered about 300 feet six feet from the ground, but this is as high as I desired to ascend, as even at that elevation I had in the machine what I desired. The wind blew me many feet from the straight course, and by a simple movement I found that I had acquired the valuable gliding stability for which we have been working for a decade."

Mr. Foster says that by August 15 work on the Floydada and Plainview railroad—Santa Fe holding—will begin, and that within forty days from the time work starts the line will be in operation. This road will connect with the Stamford and Northwestern.

The citizens of Plainview are confident that they will be successful in their efforts toward landing the Quanah and Acme road, and are going after it in good fashion.

Hale county has had an abundance of rain and crops are in splendid condition. Alfalfa is probably the main crop, but they are all good and they are all money-makers.

Mr. Foster, of course, was very much pleased with San Angelo, and said that next to his own city, he considered this the coming town of this portion of the state. He is making the trip to Kerrville in the "Pathfinder" and will write it up for the Motor Field.

For about thirty years Mr. Foster has been in the newspaper business. At present he is at the head of the Plainview News, and right there is where he expects to spend the remainder of his life. He has been all over Texas and many other states, but until he reached Plainview he was never satisfied.

right to work. Mr. Foster said that he will return north and find out back to San Angelo with every means of rushing the work to completion.

"I have scattered West Texas boosters all over the north. Mr. O. H. Graham, who is now in New Hampton, is a king pin in this line and he will no doubt start immigration moving in this direction right away."

"We will stay till the matter is settled one way or the other. It is simply a proposition of railroad or no railroad. This move on the part of Mr. Shaeffer and his associates is no plan to hold up San Angelo; it is simply a desire to have the business conducted on strictly business principles, as the see them."

More Applications.

"We have received several more applications for the honor of being married before the grand stand at the fall fair," said Thos. P. Owen, who is on that committee, Monday. "They seem to come in every day now, and goodness only knows how we are going to decide who shall be the lucky couple."

"Mr. West's idea of a double wedding is a good one and it may be acted upon."

"The way the applications are coming in it appears on the surface that this is going to be one of the leading features in the entertainment. Never before has such interest been shown."

Dr. John Abe March came home Monday from Oklahoma, where he has been receiving a shipment of cattle from Clarke and Cawley of this city.

ONCE HATCHET OF CHIEF TECUMSEH

DR. S. L. S. SMITH NOW IN POSSESSION OF TREASURED RELIC.

HAS GREAT HISTORY

Left on Battlefield When Big Chief Dropped—Johnson Family Kept It for Many Years.

A most interesting relic of days gone by, in the shape of the war hatchet of the noted Indian chief Tecumseh, is in the possession of Dr. S. L. S. Smith of this city. It is hewn out of the solid stone and is very heavy. In looking at the dull colored object the speculation as to how many lives it has crushed out presents itself. The fact stands that Tecumseh was the most blood thirsty as well as most crafty Indian that ever lived. Geronimo was almost as cruel, but for wonderful brain power he was not in Tecumseh's class.

Tecumseh was a name to conjure with among the Indians in the days of the war of 1812. He was the great parliamentarian as well as warrior. By birth he was a Shawnee, but he rose higher than a mere clan chieftain, and every tribe in the great northwest looked to Tecumseh as their logical leader and his word was law among them.

Tecumseh was a natural foe to the white man; he was raised with the hatred of the paleface installed in his heart, and up until the day of his death he never ceased for one moment to plot and execute deeds of devilish ingenuity against the American colonists.

When the war of 1812 first broke out Tecumseh sided with the British, because they came from a different land and he had no quarrel with them; he forthwith gathered an immense number of warriors and proceeded to harass the northern settlements and a reign of terror ensued. It was then that a new factor appeared on the scene. General Harrison of the American army with a body of sturdy frontiersmen with the love of home and country in their hearts, marched on Tecumseh—a body of men who knew no such word as fear and upon whose fighting abilities rested the lives and honor of their wives and children. These doughty plainsmen met Tecumseh and his bearded braves at Tippecanoe and drove them from the field in disorder at a great loss of life to the Indians.

This terrible defeat held Tecumseh for awhile, but he could not stay inactive for any length of time, and a short time later he was organizing the allied forces of the Indians in the northwest and together with Britain's red-coated fiends marched to Detroit, burning and pillaging on their way. After a short siege the gallant Gen. Hull, through a misapprehension, was led to a surrender. Many of the garrison were massacred. In passing, it might be said that Gen. Hull was later tried for treason and sentenced to be shot. Be it said to the everlasting honor and good judgment of the authorities in charge, this order was revoked and Gen. Hull honored in history as the brave and gallant officer that he was.

This was the last feather in Tecumseh's war bonnet. He had aroused his "white brother," General Andrew Jackson, afterward president of the United States and better known to history as "Old Hickory," who went after him with blood in his eye. When "Old Hickory" got blood in his eye there was always something doing, so when he encountered Tecumseh in the famous battle of the Thames the great Indian chief sang his swan song. The valiant sword of Col. Richard Johnson cut him down. So ended the history of the most perfidious Indian that ever lived.

Tecumseh's tomahawk was picked up from where the chief had dropped it when he fell dying, and for many years it was kept in the possession of the Johnson family. It was taken to Kentucky, thence to Missouri, where a gentleman from Tom Green county discovered it, and knowing Dr. Smith's great desire to possess such relics, secured it and brought it to San Angelo's pioneer physician.

Dr. Smith is quite proud of the relic and keeps it in his office. When any unwary clerk does not behave to suit him the doctor waves the tomahawk in midair and threatens to become a second Tecumseh. The result is submission.

Wm. C. Mundt, who is visiting in the north, lost his glasses that Dr. Baker made for him, and not being able to find anything as good in the twin city regions, telegraphed a rush order for a duplicate pair, which were made up and sent out by special delivery.

Dr. Murphy of Eldorado was in town a few days ago, and after being fitted by Dr. Baker, said: "The modern facilities afforded by the Baker Optical company are great. I know something about eye work myself, and few cities in the country have men who turn out those 'toricenses,' which are curved to suit the shape of the eye, and the fact that this can be done in San Angelo is a great convenience and the people here should realize and appreciate this."

Dr. Baker informs The Press-News that his business has increased wonderfully, considerably above his expectations. A new lens cutter was received and installed this week.

Mrs. Hunton Dies.
News was received in San Angelo Saturday night that Mrs. Lula B. Hunton, the mother of G. P. Hunton of The Press-News, was dead. Mrs. Hunton was taken to Fort Worth only recently to have an operation performed. She stood the operation successfully but could not withstand the shock.

Mrs. Hunton leaves her husband, George W. Hunton of this city; G. P. Hunton, Mrs. R. B. Ward of Brandon, Hill county, and Misses Bessie, Grace, Lula, Meredith and Eva of this city. Where the body of Mrs. Hunton will be interred has not been decided as yet, as her last wishes have not been made known to her son.

GAS CO. DOES BIG BUSINESS

During Month of July 278,000 Cubic Feet of Gas Generated—Pipe for Extensions Delayed.

During the month just ended the San Angelo Gas company generated 278,000 cubic feet of gas. This shows a substantial increase as compared with previous months, but the company still has capacity for much larger volume.

"Today is the first Saturday we have had to make gas especially to care for the Sunday users," said President John Freeland Saturday, as he made an inspection of the well appointed factory. "Heretofore we have been making gas every third day. Just a few weeks since we started to making gas every other day, and now we will have to make gas three days out of five. That shows the way the people here are appreciating our efforts."

"When will be able to extend our lines? That is a question too hard for me to answer with perfect accuracy. For instance, we have had two cars of pipe to be used in making these extensions on the way since the first part of July, and we haven't heard from them. Just as soon as this pipe gets here we'll make a start, and once we get started we expect to be able to double our present sales of gas."

It is well worth while, is a trip through the gas plant. The utterly perfect manner in which the plant is arranged, the nicety with which it is operated and the care used in straining the gas of all impurities and foreign substances, form detail enough to be quite instructive.
