Rheumatic Fever Is Tricky, Patient Must 'Proceed with Caution'

When you approach a highway sign saying, "Road Repairs Ahead, Drive Slowly," you automatically reduce your speed and watch out for the hazards which may be present along the route. Sometimes you find only minor repairs going on, sometimes you find the going really rough; but if the hazards along that highway are too great for travel even at reduced speed, the sign will be "Detour," and you find yourself on an auxiliary road until the highway is in sufficiently good shape for regular traffic again.

In medical terms, rheumatic fever fits more closely, perhaps, than any other infectious disease into the "proceed with caution" category of road repairs. Most other diseases due to infectious agents will immediately send you on a detour, sometimes brief and sometimes crooked and rough, but rheumatic fever may assume so many different manifestations, affecting so many different parts of the body, that the road ahead isn't always clear.

At best, rheumatic fever means a long period of careful watching for hazards that may suddenly appear. One slight attack never means that the germ has been whipped; it only means the germ or germs may come back at any time with renewed fervor.

Medical science has not yet discovered what causes rheumatic fever, the disease that strikes most often at 4- to 15-year-olds but may appear at practically any age.

There are many theories as to the possible onset of the first attack of the disease but none hold true in the majority of cases and research goes on to try to unravel the secret.

After the first attack, the one or many following attacks of the disease seem to be linked with streptococcal infections in the nose or throat, so that only recently doctors have found in many cases they can prevent those infections by constant dosage with sulfa drugs and avoid the second and third attacks. Such is the nature of the disease that the damage it can do seems to become greater with each attack.

If rheumatic fever could be easily recognized, it wouldn't be possible for the disease to do so much harm in the first place. Growing pains such as aching joints are supposedly the most common symptom of rheumatic fever, but even this signal of disease is not always present. The aches are present, shifting from different parts of the body in what is called a migratory arthritis, when the millions of strings that hold you together are affected by the spread of the disease through the body. These strings, such as ligaments and tendons and the like, swell and fail to function properly because the fluids that keep them pliable change from their natural state into a harder, stringy mass. Sometimes these "masses" can be seen as little knobs around the joints that hurt; they last a few days and then disappear, possibly showing up again in another joint that is painful.

Though the pain of such affected joints may be quite intense, it is not the joints which are permanently damaged as a result of the acute attacks of rheumatic fever; the heart is the most likely spot to be damaged permanently. Practically any part of that very complex heart organ may be affected, but most often the damage is inside the heart, to the valves which shut off the flow of blood through the chambers of the heart. The name, rheumatic endocarditis, means an inflammation of the inside of the heart due to rheumatic fever.

The usual pattern of heart damage is something like this: The left side of the heart, which receives blood purified by the lungs, has two trap doors which close off as the two chambers on the left side of the heart are filled. When the first chamber sends the blood into the second part, one of the trap doors closes and shuts off the supply. In rheumatic fever, there are frequently long-stemmed warts which develop on the edges of those trap doors which keep them from closing properly, permitting the blood to still seep through into the other chamber. Your doctor can hear the sound of that leak of blood, he knows which trap doors are most likely to be affected, and from other signs of changes in the body he can tell whether it was due to rheumatic fever or something else.

As the acute phase of rheumatic fever disappears, these wart-like growths usually shrink into that trap door, permanently changing the shape of the flap and throwing it out of shape. With new attacks of the disease, the flap gets more and more out of shape until it may become so deformed as to not function at all.

That is one of the pictures of rheumatic fever, though there are many other paths it may cut and create serious damage. Since it may progress through the body so slowly that its presence is not made evident, the regular health check-up for all youngsters should by all means be continued through teen age. A doctor who checks your child regularly will know if any change in the child may be a signal of rheumatic fever.

There is nothing specific, aside from the general rules of good health, that you can do to keep a child from having rheumatic fever. But there is much your doctor can do to prevent its making an invalid out of your child by early detection of the signs and heeding the warning, "Road Repairs Ahead, Drive Slowly."

Keller-Scott Vows Recited Saturday In Church Ceremony

In an impressive candlelight ceremony at the First Methodist Church in Hico, Miss Mary Nell Keller became the bride of Von Scott Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. J. Fred Patterson officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keller. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott, who live between Hico and Stephenville.

Vows were solemnized before the altar where tall tapers set in candelabra were lighted by Miss Betty Bolton and Mrs. Dwan Wolfe. Pale pink gladioli, majestic daisies and pink carnations were arranged in baskets along the altar rail.

The bride entered with her brother, Ray Keller, who gave her in marriage. She wore a white formal dress with net bouffant skirt. Tiny covered buttons extended down the front of the molded bodice, and long lace mitts tapered to points at her wrists. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell in graceful lines from a crown-shaped headdress, embroidered in seed pearls and iridescent paillettes. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis, accented with white ribbon streamers.

Miss Betty Jane Gollightly, maid of honor, wore a formal dress of yellow net and carried a bouquet of yellow daisies. Miss Mary Sherrard was bridesmaid, attired in a blue formal. Her bouquet was of pink and blue tinted daisies.

Wendall Scott was the brother's best man. Other attendants were Dwan Wolfe, groomsmen; Wendell Burden and Bobby Ratliff, ushers.

Nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Weldon Luker, singing "Because" and "With this Ring I Thee Wed." She was accompanied at the organ by Miss Margaret Hampton, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

Reception Held Afterward Following the wedding, a reception for 50 guests was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rainwater, aunt and uncle of the bride. Pastel-tinted daisies arranged in a crystal bowl and flanked by pink candles in crystal holders formed the centerpiece on the serving table. Wedding bells ornamented in silver were atop the three-tiered wedding cake, and two miniature doves perched beside the bells.

Mrs. Emory Gamble of Houston and Miss Cynthia Huey of Fort Worth served the refreshments, which also consisted of frosted orange pineapple punch. Mrs. Ray Keller presided at the bride's book.

Floral arrangements of gladioli were used throughout the entertaining rooms.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Colorado and intermediate points. For traveling attire, the bride chose a blue suit with white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations from her wedding bouquet.

Mrs. Scott, who was graduated this spring from Hico High School, was chosen senior class favorite, and served during the past year as editor of The Mirror, a section of the local newspaper, reporting school activities.

The groom is a graduate of Alexander High School, and has farming interests in this vicinity. After June 16, the couple will be at home in Stephenville.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh Hope "Cappy" Told Him Where To Get Off!

"Cappy" Fisher—who just retired after thirty-five years as a railroad conductor—was telling about a salesman who was often one of his passengers. "That man was so busy," says Cappy, "he used to bring a dictaphone on the train to catch up on his letters. On one trip he'd been rushing around so much he clean forgot to bring his ticket. Left it on his desk." When Cappy started to tell him not to worry about the ticket, the salesman busts out with "Who's worried about the ticket? It's just that now I don't know what city I was going to get off at!" Cappy might have been pulling our leg, but from where I sit, lots of us get so wrapped up in ourselves we often forget "where we're going." Some folks get so narrow they even begrudge their neighbors the right to enjoy a glass of beer now and then. Let's not forget that just as trains run on steam and oil, democracies run on freedom and tolerance!

This long-suffering pop said he would have gone "nuts" trying to handle even his end of the last-minute details without a telephone. Thus, another example of the convenience which low-cost telephone service brings.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT From Twin Mountain Camp No. 500 Woodmen of the World Fairly, Texas

WHEREAS: The Messenger of God has seen fit to remove from our Camp our esteemed and dearly beloved Sovereign Brother, M. E. Parks, thereby once again severing the chain that has bound us together for many years, we bow with humble submission to the will of the all-wise Father above who doeth all things well, and weep with those of his own household who have suffered this irreparable loss. We think of that remarkable equipoise of manly and Christian qualities in him which we have seen but rarely exemplified.

He was modest, but competent for any task, ready to follow the leadership of others whom he trusted, strong in his own convictions but never over-ambitious for preferment, loyal to his friends but fair in whatever business he had at hand. We have had but few men whose usefulness was felt throughout a wider area; but so little did he advertise himself that many whom he served hardly paused to think of this great and unselfish service. He was one of those good non-disciples of his Master—whose work and influence will outlive the memory of his name. Therefore, be it

RESOLVED: First, that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved family who loved him so dearly and for whom he loved and lived.

Second, that a copy of these resolutions be given to the family, a copy be sent to the Hico News Review and the Hamilton Herald-Record, and a copy be spread on the minutes of our Lodge.

Respectfully submitted,

Fairy — By — Mrs. Eunice Massengale

We received more than an inch of rain Sunday night, and also received a good rain Saturday night of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brunnett have been frequent visitors at the Hico Hospital the past week, where her father, Mr. Forest Kavanaugh, of Hico was a patient. He suffered a paralytic stroke Saturday night of the previous week and had been in a very serious condition until his death Tuesday. He had been a semi-invalid for the past twelve years.

Quite a number from here attended the Memorial Day program at Hamilton May 30. Nine girls and Mrs. Oran Williford assisted in placing flowers on the crosses. We wish to thank all who made it possible for us to secure the number for Mr. B. D. Corrigan. Especially do we thank the parents for taking the girls over, and feel indebted to Mrs. Scott Blakley, who furnished conveyance for four of the girls. It was our first time to attend a memorial service, and we all feel well repaid for any assistance we may have rendered. The girls participating were Misses Jo Ann Sills, Lera Jane Blakley, Aneta New, Jackie Lewis, Jerrie Jean Dunklin, Patsy Dansby, Barbara Guinn, Jan Haile, and Mary Nell Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Springer spent the week end at Miles, Tex., visiting relatives and looking after business interests there.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Dickerson of near Hico visited last Monday with his sister, Mrs. Brittle Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Lois McCoy of Fort Worth spent the week end here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McCoy, and sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Blakley.

Rev. E. E. Dawson of Hico filled the pulpit at Ages Baptist Church last Sunday, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. L. W. Allen, and was a dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Blakley. Rev. Allen and family are on a vacation trip.

Jimmie Don and Carolyn Sellers, children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ray Sellers, are victims of the measles at this writing. Billy Slater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crockett Slater, is now recovering from a severe attack of measles.

Mrs. Raymond Driver and children of Texas City and Mrs. Milford Miller and baby of Fort Worth returned to their homes the first of the week after a week's visit with their mother, Mrs. M. E. Parks, and family following the death of their father Sunday of the previous week.

Miss Lera Jane Blakley is visiting at Oltzen at this writing, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Witt Lacey and daughter. She accompanied the Lacey family home, who were here last week visiting relatives.

The REA electric current was off about twelve hours Sunday night due to the electrical storm and rain, but repairs were made after the REA office was notified. There are now some seven home-freezing units in the community, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Cox, Mrs. Eunice Massengale, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Blakley, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brunson, and Bryan and Bos Gann. We appreciate very much the service rendered by the REA. There is an abundance of fresh vegetables this year and all have been busy preparing these vegetables and fryers for storage in their freezers. There will also be some fruit and the good rains we have received will assure us plenty of corn for deep-freezing. Some have been able to secure blackberries, but the crop is short due to the hard winter freezes.

Grain is turning fast, and the grain harvest will get in swing as soon as the ground is dry enough. A few combines were running a little last week end.

Mrs. George M. Stringer and Cathy Ann of Hico visited Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edd Allison, and Texas.

The writer and mother, Mrs. A. L. Newman, attended singing at Hico Sunday afternoon and visited a short time in the Oliver and Rufe Burnett home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Miller and children of Carlsbad, N. M., returned home last Tuesday after a few days' visit in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miller.

We received a letter from our sister-in-law, Mrs. Louis Pendleton of Winters, last week stating that they had at last received a good rain, but adding that there were no crops up and little had been planted. She and her husband were through Hico recently and she commented on the growing crops and gardens she saw en route. June 14th is the sixth birthday of our little granddaughter, Carolyn Ruth Sellers. She had made great plans for a birthday party, which her mother had promised, but instead is ill of the measles.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Springer had as guests Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith and little son of Miles, Texas. They were acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Springer during their residence at Miles.

Grace and Linda Goyne are attending Vacation Bible School at Purves this week.

According to an old tradition, it never rains nights in June. However, it seems the tradition has failed this year, since we have had three big rains to fall at night since the night of June 2nd. Fields and crops have been damaged badly by the drenching rains.

Farmers would like to see some fair weather as much of the grain is ready for harvest.

Mrs. Stanford Berry of San Antonio came up last Thursday to bring Mrs. Fritz Campbell to Hico to see her father, Mr. Forest Kavanaugh, who died early this week after a serious illness. Mrs. Campbell is employed in San Antonio and has rooms at Mrs. Berry's. Mrs. Berry, who is the former Miss Velma Sills of Fairly, spent Thursday night in the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lackey and sons. She regretted very much that she did not learn of Mr. M. E. Parks' death in time to attend his funeral service.

Miss Daphne Hoover of Midland spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hoover.

Wednesday, June 13, was the anniversary of our first marriage—and if we could live our life over we would try to shun all the thirtens, whether they be lucky or unlucky. Here are a few we have in mind. Baptized at the age of 13 years, on the 13th day of the month. Our first date with our late husband, we were 13 years of age and on the 13th day of the month. We moved into our first new home, where we now reside, on the 13th day of the month. Our next eldest son was born, in 1913, and he passed away a few months before his 13th birthday. It was 13 years from the time of our first boy's death until we lost our youngest boy. Our father-in-law, J. O. Richardson Sr., passed away in 1913, a nephew, Grady Enger, was born on the 13th day of the month, and a niece, Evelyn Enger Smith, was born in 1913. Yes, we were married on the 13th. Who can beat our record of thirtens?

UNWANTED . . . Well nourished and happy, this little chap doesn't know that he is cut adrift from the snug anchorage of a mother's breast. He was abandoned at the entrance of the New York foundling home.

On June 6 the Clairette Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Simpson Johnson.

The program was opened with song and prayer, with Mrs. Vance Wadlington presiding. Fifteen members answered to roll call, and five visitors were present.

Mrs. Lois Pruett announced that she would give a review of the book, "Stop Annoying Your Children" over the radio on the following Monday.

It was decided to have a Fratex Oriental Plastic Show in the school building at Clairette on the night of June 22, at which time everyone interested has a special invitation to attend.

week and entered a subscription for herself to the News Review. At the same time, she promised a report of the Boatwright family reunion, held here recently.

Some people might be insulted if you don't remember their names right off, but not so with Mrs. J. P. Clepper who came by this office to renew her subscription last week.

"Lots of things happen down here that we don't know about, and we want to take the Hico paper to keep up with the news," said J. E. Anderson of Stephenville, as he became a new subscriber to the News Review.

Miss Daphne Hoover of Midland, formerly of Fairy, has been added to the NR mailing list as a new subscriber.

A renewal was entered this week for Mrs. J. L. Pendleton of Winters, by Mrs. Eunice Massengale of Fairy.

The News Review has received an order for subscription from T. J. Box, Hico Route 3, who has been marked up for two dollars' worth, or 16 months of reading.

Mrs. Allie Hooper has renewed a subscription for her friends, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Harris of Albany, who are former residents of Hico and like to keep up with their old friends, as they told her on a recent visit here.

So that he'd be "on speaking terms for another year," W. M. Malone came by the office while attending to other duties in town Monday, and renewed his subscription for another year.

Mrs. T. D. Pack and her husband, who are owners of the Texan Cafe, are new subscribers to the News Review.

Through the mail has come a renewal subscription to the News Review, from R. H. Howell, Route 2, Munday, Texas, who has been a regular subscriber since 1936, our record shows.

Mrs. H. L. Petry, who came by to renew her subscription to the News Review, accommodated the staff by bringing some news prepared in time for this week's issue.

Mrs. M. H. Johnson has brought in an address at Brooke Air Force Base, San Antonio, for her son, Cpl. Ray Johnson, who subscribed recently while home on a 22-day leave.

SMART FAMILY REUNION OCCASIONED BY VISIT OF ONE SON FROM FAR AWAY

A homecoming of members of the J. P. Smart family Sunday, June 10, at their home, 104 West Street, was occasioned by the visit of their son, Carl Smart, of Astoria, Oregon who arrived on Tuesday, June 5.

The eight other children and their families who visited in the home Sunday were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson of Leona, Texas, and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bruno and grandchildren, Larry, Wayne and Joyce Jackson, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Olson and children, Hugh and Ella Nora, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Smart and children, Geraldine and Buster Turley, of Bluff Dale, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. John Smart and children, Kenneth, James, Eugenia and David of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. George Arnold and daughters, Ruby and Nelda, of Iredell; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smart and daughters, Dorothy and Zelma, of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Smart and her mother, Mrs. Nachtigall, of near Alexander; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schiller of Lott, Texas.

In the afternoon, Mr. Emmett Coburn and wife and his sister, Mrs. D. A. Thornton, nephew and niece of Mr. Smart, drove over from Blum. Roy Smart, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Smart, had visited in their home in April.

The children brought well-filled baskets, so there was a sumptuous spread at the noon hour. All enjoyed the day recounting former days, renewing—as it was—acquaintances, as some of the younger ones and Carl scarcely recognized or remembered each other.

All are hoping for another reunion in the near future.
