Solons Praised for Saving Rural Road Program in Texas

The Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association this week expressed praise for the recently-adjourned Texas Legislature for saving the farm-to-market road program and placing a pipeline tax on natural gas.

County Judge O. F. Dent of Littlefield, president of the Association, and Commissioner L. W. Gardner of Itasca, vice-president, issued a joint statement expressing the Association's appreciation to "A courageous majority of the Legislature for their accomplishment in behalf of the people of Texas."

The Association listed these accomplishments:

1. The rural road bloc in the Legislature defeated efforts of the administration and the so-called Good Roads Association, which, in our opinion, would have crippled our farm-to-market road program through passage of the Graham bill.

2. The Colson-Briscoe farm-to-market road program has been retained at the full amount of $15,000,000 a year, despite the open proposal of the administration that it be abolished.

3. The principle of the gas gathering tax on the pipelines which are taking gas out of Texas has been established, through the acceptance of the tax plan proposed by Rep. Jim Sewell.

4. The trend toward a general sales tax has been stopped by the defeat of the administration plan for an increase in the gasoline sales tax, another of the "creeping sales taxes."

"These things," continued the statement from the judges and commissioners' association, "have been accomplished by a courageous majority of the legislators, for the people of Texas, despite the opposition of the governor, simply because the legislators had the courage to take bills away from committees stacked by the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House, and bring them to the floor where democracy could rule."

"We, as officers of the County Judges and Commissioners Association, are grateful to have had a small part in this great victory for the people of Texas which means that for the next two years the State Highway Department will have more money to spend for construction of farm-to-market roads than ever before. It accomplishes all we hoped to do when we were forced to defend the rural roads program from the attack begun on it by the administration-supported Graham bill, House Bill No. 226."

CADET FILLINGIM TRAINS IN "FLYING CLASSROOM"

ELLINGTON AFB, Texas, June 19.—Arriving at Ellington Air Force Base, Cadet Robert L. Fillingim, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fillingim of Route 4, Hico, is beginning an extensive course of training in aerial navigation that will lead to his becoming a navigation officer in the United States Air Force Reserve.

While in training, Cadet Fillingim will receive instruction in the many phases of aerial navigation, including celestial, pilotage, dead-reckoning and electronic. The latter will be stressed because of its importance in navigating the fast, modern aircraft. He will also be instructed in military tactics and procedures.

Many flying hours will be spent in the new Air Force Trainer Plane, the Convair T-29, "Flying Classroom" which will play an important part in the training program since it is equipped with the latest electronic devices used in modern navigation. In this plane, he will transfer his ground schooling to practical application in the air.

Prior to entering the service, Cadet Fillingim attended Plains High School, Plains, Texas; New Home High School, Tahoka, Texas; and Wayland College, Plainview, Texas.

Always on Time — Always Cheerful

GAVE 33 YEARS OF GOOD TELEPHONE SERVICE BEFORE LEAVING "BOARD"

By CAROLYN HOLFORD

"Fascinating work" are the words used by Mrs. Tom Strepy to describe her occupation of more than 30 years, from which she resigned the first of June, thereby being able to take care of her health and to have time for doing other things she has planned.

Miss Wilena (nee Purcell) is known familiarly to most all the local people who have learned to recognize her voice coming from the telephone switchboard.

Beginning as toll switchboard operator in her hometown of Gatesville on September 25, 1917, she has worked for Gulf States Telephone Company continuously since that date. In August of 1920, she moved to Hico with her mother, the late Mrs. Mary Purcell, to assume the duties here as night operator.

Miss Fannie Wood, local manager, was in charge of the local office at that time, too, and others on the switchboard were Velma Chenault (now Mrs. S. W. Everett), toll operator, and Miss Tot Wood, day local operator.

Nine months later, when Mrs. Everett resigned, Miss Wilena assumed daytime duties, and later, when Miss Wood moved away, she took this place as day local and toll operator. For a number of years and until her resignation, Mrs. Strepy had worked both the toll switchboard and handled local calls as part of her day's work.

"Number, Please" is busy job. The job requires a great deal more experience and training than one would notice at first glance, the qualified operator explained. When someone calls in to ask the location of a fire or during some other unusually busy period, Miss Wilena notes, "we often have 50 boxes to drop simultaneously, and naturally can't get to all of them at the same time."

"It's just like any other business—maybe for a while, no one wants any service, then in a few minutes there are more people on the line than can be accommodated quickly. "Even at an ordinary time of day," she says, "I've known 15 or 20 numbers to call in at once."

The way in which it differs from other businesses is that people can see when they go into a dry goods store that the clerks may be busy, but they can't see that a telephone operator is waiting on several other customers who called ahead of those who are waiting. All of which requires patience from both the operator and the customer.

Fascinating work though, because you're dealing with people over the telephone, rather than face to face, and Miss Wilena has learned during her long record of service, to recognize almost anyone instantly after hearing his or her voice.

Now that she is retired—she has been planning to do so for some time but has stayed on because of a loyal attitude toward her employers—she has practically ceased to think about the office work. She rarely even uses her own telephone! Not that she isn't still interested in the company, as one completely drops her life's work without another thought for it.

"I'm just trying to learn another trade now—cooking and cleaning house," she smugly comments. Having performed both jobs for several years, she believes it will be a relief to have the opportunity to spend her time at home and in church work, to which she had previously devoted a large share of her time.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Strepy have been active members of the Methodist Church during their residence here, and have contributed their service as well as their presence. After being a teacher in the primary department for eight years, Miss Wilena is now a substitute teacher when needed, and belongs to the Helping Hand Class and the Woman's Society of Christian Service. Her husband is a member and former chairman of the board of stewards and a member of the board of trustees of this church.

METHODISTS REPORT GOOD WORK ACCOMPLISHED AS BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSURES

The annual Vacation Bible School closed Wednesday night at the First Methodist Church with a program and entertainment for the children, their parents and friends who attended.

The pastor and school superintendent expressed approval at the good attendance and benefits gained by those who attended this summer's school. Refreshments of ice cream, furnished by the courtesy of Howard Drug, were served the guests at closing exercises.

MRS. STREPY
"Miss Wilena" to 'Phone Patrons

Commended by Company

Hiram Jones, traffic supervisor for Gulf States Telephone Co. at Tyler, has provided a copy of a letter sent to Mrs. Strepy on the eve of her departure, adding these remarks:

"Mrs. Strepy was a devoted employee and was conscientious in her willingness to give the citizens of Hico the best in telephone service."

"She was always on time for work and was always cheerful and happy to both subscribers of Hico and her fellow employees."

"Her resignation has left a vacancy in the office that will not be easy to fill."

The letter, over the signature of Oscar Burton, veteran vice-president and general manager of Gulf States Telephone Co., follows:

Tyler, Texas
May 28, 1951

Mrs. Wilena Strepy
Gulf States Telephone Co.
Hico, Texas

Dear Mrs. Strepy:

It was with a great deal of regret that we learned the state of your health made it necessary for you to resign as switchboard operator at Hico on June 1.

In checking the records we find that you were first employed at Gatesville on September 25, 1917. In August 1920 you transferred to Hico where you have been continuously employed since. Your total service will be 33 years, 8 months on June 1.

Your work during these many years has been characterized by a faithfulness and devotion to the service unexcelled by anyone. The very fact that you have been here as long as you have is evidence that you have given the people of Hico a superior type of telephone service of which we are justly proud.

Thus, on the eve of your leaving the service, we wish to take this opportunity to say "Thank you" for being a part of the team that has made our Company what it is today, and to express the hope that improved health and happiness will be your lot for many years to come.

Sincerely yours,
OSCAR BURTON.

Contract Signed for July Delivery of New Band Uniforms

Results were seen Monday from the drive to purchase new band uniforms for the Hico Public Schools, as the committee in charge of raising funds met that day and approved an attractive Navy style regulation uniform, submitted as a sample by Sol Frank of San Antonio. A contract was signed for an order of 36 uniforms as designed by this specialty tailor. Delivery has been guaranteed prior to time for the annual old settlers' reunion in August, according to Truman E. Roberts, spokesman for the committee.

The basic color of the 22 regular uniforms will be powder blue and the complete outfit for members of the band who were previously measured, is to include the double-breasted coat, trousers and Pershing style cap. The choice of color and conservative design was chosen for its attractiveness as well as its practical merits, in that it will be suitable for all occasions and is expected to wear well.

School colors, red and royal blue, are carried out in stripes down the trousers legs and design on the sleeve of the coat, as well as in the citation cord to be worn over one shoulder. The cap, which is basically light blue, will have a red band.

White satin with red trim will compose the other four uniforms, ordered for a drum major, two majorettes and one band mascot.

After the quorum of the committee members met to approve the new suit, they showed the sample uniform around in town to various citizens and donors to the fund, who added their voice of approval. In a statement released to the press, members of the committee stated that $442, or one-fourth of the total cost, had been paid down on the complete set of uniforms, and that the committee had received $1500, paid in full, from those who had made pledges in support of the drive. Other funds from pledges are now being accepted by the committee, concluded Roberts. Each uniform is priced at approximately $52.

Besides Roberts, the committee is composed of J. E. Woodard, Wayne Rutledge, Odie Petsick, Wm. D. Bradley Jr., Mrs. H. V. Hedges, James Gilentine (student member), and O. C. Cook (ex-officio member and advisor).

COMMUNITY SERVICE IS LIONS SPEAKER'S THEME

Review of the club year's activities by Lion President Robert E. Jackson opened the program at Lions Club Ladies Night last Friday at 8:15 in Firemen's Hall. Other business included the annual installation of officers, recently elected. The following information was submitted by the retiring secretary of the club, upon request:

Fred Red Harris, recently of Dallas and immediate past president of the Oak Cliff Lions Club, installed the officers and was guest speaker for the evening.

Taking as his theme the broad aspects of Lionism, Harris expressed his conviction that if all people adopted the code of ethics on which Lionism is based, more things for which we all strive would be realized, extending from everyday life throughout national and international affairs. In this manner, he stressed, the world situation would become less tense and we would get along better with our fellow man.

The speaker made reference to his recent trip to the State and District 2X Lions Club convention in Waco, telling the local members what had been done by the Oak Cliff club as their part on the program. Harris then gave excerpts from the convention speech by Herb C. Petry, president of Lions International, who had discussed the subject of how Lions Club members throughout the world are working toward international understanding.

Getting back to the local angle, Harris compared the Hico club to the one in Dallas and offered several suggestions for reorganization, one of which was discussed further at the regular Wednesday noon meeting this week, and is reported below. His suggestions touched on the idea that activities of the club should extend to the surrounding communities and, later on, further into the state.

New Heads Take Over

Officers elected at an April meeting who took office following installation Friday night are as follows: R. E. Jackson, president (having filled an unexpired term since December); Wayne Rutledge, secretary (moving up from Tallwater's duties); T. E. Roberts, first vice-president (who fulfilled the duties as secretary this year); O. C. Cook, second vice-president;

J. Doyle Love, third vice-president; Dr. H. V. Hedges and W. R. Hampton, directors; J. Fred Patteron, Lion Tamer, all new officers; and Paul Neel, Tallwater (formerly third vice-president. Odie Petsick and W. B. Coats retained their positions as directors to serve for another year.

Twenty-two members and 21 guests were present at the meeting and dinner. These were: Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Odie Petsick, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bullock, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Randals, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Woodard, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Randals Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wade Greenslit, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. Conda Salmon, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hitt, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burden, Rev. and Mrs. J. Fred Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Neel, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Red Harris, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Howard, Dr. W. F. Hafer and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Roberts.

Regular Meeting Wednesday

Sixteen members and one guest, O. W. Marshall, Burrus Mills representative of Dallas, were present for the regular meeting Wednesday, when the aforementioned subject of visiting surrounding communities was discussed, and those present elaborated on the possibility of going to these communities during the summer to solicit their interest in the Lions Club and to plan an occasion or several occasions of visitation.

Lion President Jackson was present to preside over this meeting. Other business included a statement from one member, Weldon Pierce, who previously had been appointed by the City Council as manager for the 1951 traditional annual old settlers' reunion. In giving his report of progress made to plan the event, Pierce stated that the City Council expects to appoint a reunion committee member to fill the vacancy created by the recent resignation of Roland L. Holford.

This concluded the business at hand, according to information available at press time.

Remind Us when Cows Come Home

Implied Trust Brings Good Investment for Subscribers

Mrs. Eva Hodnett, who says it doesn't make much difference how her address reads, they'll find her anyhow, came in Saturday reaching for her purse and remarking it looked like time to dig again had arrived.

Mrs. Hodnett saved a dollar and a lot of trouble four years ago by taking a long-term subscription, and expressed her willingness to invest another steel-engraved picture of Abraham Lincoln if we could still make the same deal.

We really shouldn't—the way paper and everything else has gone up—but somehow we can't resist when someone trusts us to the extent of inferring we'll stay in business four more years. Besides that, Coca-Cola is still a nickel, and they are a bigger and smaller cut than the NR—who are we to refuse the government's request to hold the line on prices?

So for a short time only—say until the cows come home—we'll sell any and all comers six dollars' worth of subscription for only $5.00.

Who'll be next?

D. F. McCarty Sr., our first customer Friday morning after a fairly hectic press day (Dave, don't tell anybody it was the middle of the morning), dropped a check for renewal several days ahead of expiration, and accompanied the payment with his customary neighborly cheer. He said his son, D. F. Jr., who recently finished and occupied a new home in Elmwood West Addition in Abilene, was in the flood and hail area, and damage to the home and furnishings would run about $2,000. Fortunately the loss was insured, although this former newspaper man now advertising manager for Thornton's was having a little difficulty establishing one of his insurance claims.

Saying that she thought she could stand another year of the News Review subscription, Mrs. John Rainwater turned in her renewal to Leonard Howard, News Stand agent. If this good-natured schoolteacher and her husband have "put up with it" this long—about 15 years, in round numbers—then we believe they'll find a little something to justify their reading it for another 12 months.

Mrs. J. R. Russell of Iredell Rt. 1, who jokingly replied that her address was New York City when we guessed wrong Saturday afternoon, went ahead and renewed her subscription anyhow. Oh, well, she does have a daughter living in Memphis, Tenn. That's pretty close to getting things right, isn't it? Mrs. Russell joined us in the hope that we might make some arrangement to assure delivery of our paper on Friday to those good people down in Bosque County.

Howdy, Folks!

How's everything going in Hico? Thought I'd drop you a line to tell you to send our paper a few houses up on the same street. We moved last week into a little house by ourselves, and when I say little that's what it is—we almost have to get outside to turn around. We live (four hours since we moved over here) right on the Dallas highway, so our friends might stop

HAVE A BETTER KITCHEN

It's the little things that count, they say, and that is certainly true in the kitchen. If you're remodeling your kitchen, or are equipping the kitchen of a new home, it's a good idea to take stock of the "little" things that modern steel equipment provides.

For example, there's the soap dish impressed into the top of the porcelain enameled sink top. You know how handy it is to have a cake of soap within easy reach. The impressed soap dish keeps the cake handy, and it's formed to drain into a sink bowl and keep the soap from getting mushy.

And since we're on the subject of soap, be sure your new cabinet sink has a handy rack to keep soap boxes and other cleaning supplies. Right inside one of the undersink compartment doors is a good spot for this "little" item, says the Youngstown Kitchens Planning Service.

Another bit of convenience you should look for is the cutlery drawer of a cabinet sink. Does it have dividers? Is the drawer lined so that silverware won't be nicked, and clatter is reduced?

Be sure, too, that the sink bowl is equipped with a crumb-cup strainer. That's the type, you know, that lets you turn the bowl into a dishpan merely with a flip of the wrist. When you're done with the dishes, just lift the strainer knob up. The water drains out but food particles are trapped in the strainer.

Still another of the "little" things is an aerator for the sink faucet. It puts an end to splashing, and whips up suds with a small amount of soap or detergent. Even though the sink might not be equipped with an aerator, look to see whether the faucet is threaded to accommodate one. Then you can add this item later.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Rogers attended the Rogers family reunion at Lake Cisco last Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Holley of Temple and Pat Prichard Jr. of Wingate visited the Prichards last week end. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Parks of Fort Worth spent Sunday with the Harding family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Madden of Fort Worth were with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Scales, Sunday.

Another nice rain fell here this week which throws the farmers farther and farther behind with their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sherrard of Stephenville were dinner guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Talley, Sunday.

Mrs. M. Neils spent last Sunday in the county seat with her daughter, Mrs. Rhoda Anderson, husband and family, and attended the Bible school at the Church of Christ.

Gwendolyn Ervin of San Angelo visited the Templeton family Sunday.

DUFFAU I, IREDELL 9.

The Duffau fans thought we should have a special write-up about that game last Sunday. It was a dilly from the time Brother Rampley belted from the home plate. "Play ball" until the last of the Iredells threw his bat down in the ninth frame.

None was more elated than Billie Joe, our smiling and very capable manager. Here's how the game went:

Duffau got eight hits, Iredell made only three. No hits for extra bases on either side. Excellent fielding on either side was noticeable. There were three or four errors by each team, but none of them costly. It was really a pitcher's duel between two young men. Pryor the winner and Huff the loser.

The Demons invade the Dublin ball park next Sunday to play the Goober-Grabbers from Shiloh. Go see some of these games between these different teams—you might be glad you did.

Game Wardens Taught
To Do Everything for Public but Baby-Sit

Austin, June 18.—The current contrast with the distant days when the Law had to rule with the gun is being pointedly indicated at the Game Wardens' school now underway at Camp Mabry.

Now the gentle touch is the thing, particularly for law enforcement men of the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission.

This was emphasized by one of
the Warden Supervisors:
"Our job is representing the state if there is a law infraction.
There's nothing personal about it.
Always make that clear with the public."

As the wardens exchanged ideas about wildlife conservation, and received new suggestions about recruiting cooperation, the correct kind of public relations was duly stressed.

At an open forum discussion, the wardens related how they develop and maintain contacts; how groups such as civic clubs and Scout units
carry out conservation and game restoration projects.

Some stressed the approach to
"difficult types" and to persons who do not realize that law enforcement is just one of the many duties of a modern Texas game warden.

One supervisor, in outlining get-acquainted tactics, pointed out ways of being sympathetic with persons encountered in the field, without becoming involved in personal affairs.

No warden reported going so far as to baby-sit for the folks in his area, but one suggested helping in such common crises as tire changing. Another told how he did a good deed by using his car radio to report a grass fire. One warden has a distinctive public relations approach. He develops cooperation by teaching Texans how to raise angle worms and even carries a few of his own fat worms
to demonstrate his point and clinch teamwork.

State Fair Plans to 'Shoot the Works' in Holiday Celebration

The famous Grand Ole Opry and a spectacular fireworks show will be featured when the State Fair of Texas literally "shoots the works" July Fourth in a mammoth celebration in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Last year the fair had five nights of aerial acts and fireworks in the bowl culminating with the July Fourth show. This year, it'll be just one huge spectacle on the evening of the Glorious Fourth itself.

"There'll be more show, more fireworks, more fun for everybody," James H. Stewart, executive vice-president and general manager of the fair, declared. "It's the biggest entertainment bargain
you can find for a swell Fourth of July holiday."

And it'll cost only 50 cents per person, reflecting the fair's determination to hold the line on prices,
even for its bigger events.
Minnie Pearl, the wacky comediesienne, will be the star of the Grand Ole Opry Show, featuring topranking western and folk singers
and musicians.

Others in the show include the Carter Family, Chat Atkins and Bill Monroe and his Bluegrass
Boys. They are among the top favorites of western music fans and all of them are popular recording artists.

The most spectacular fireworks display ever to be seen in the Southwest at any one event will be put on by Thearle-Duffield Co. of Chicago, the world's largest producers of theatrical pyrotechnics.

WAVEs Are Urgently Needed, Enlistment
Rules Are Changed

Waco, Tex., June 14.—Chief Raymond E. LaFon, Navy recruiter of the United States Navy Recruiting Station in Waco said today the enlistment requirements of WAVEs have been changed because of the urgent need of more women in the Navy. Age limits for WAVEs will now conform with regulations for women in other branches of the armed forces.

Women between the ages of 18
and 20, if they are high school graduates and meet the mental requirements, may now join the Navy with their parents' or guardians' consent.

While the maximum age limit is still 25, women over 20 need not have a diploma from high school;
provided they can make a passing score on the general education development test.

Women in the latter group may take the general education development test at Baylor University
in Waco.

HOME EC VISITORS

Mrs. Lucile Jordan of Rio Vista,
Miss Helen Penny of Turnersville
and Mrs. Tennie Isabella of Bynum visited the homemaking department of the Hico Public Schools Wednesday. These ladies are all homemaking teachers and were attending the Area 11 work shop being held in Stephenville this week.

They were pleased with the attractiveness and the efficiency of the local department, stated Mrs.
Pauline Slater, the home economics instructor, who was also attending the 5-day session in Stephenville.

Mosquitoes Literally
'Get Under Skin' to Cause Humans Grief

Besides the plantlife that sometimes besets man and creates infectious diseases, there are animal-life "things" that have a way of getting under or through your hide
and creating various assortments
of disorders.

Mosquitoes are responsible for two diseases that get under your hide by way of the mosquito bite
and eventually end up in the blood stream. There is only one particular brand of mosquito, the Anopheles, which carries malaria while there are four different mosquito families, including the Anopheles,
that are responsible for filariasis.

Strict control of mosquito-breeding places definitely pays off when the Anopheles mosquito moves into an area. You can't tell the difference between this and other mosquitoes unless you've studied insect life, so ordinarily such control is left up to government agencies such as the sanitation agency and the health agency in your area. They have individuals who are constantly on the alert for the brands of mosquito which can spread diseases; when such mosquitoes are found, their breeding places must be cleaned out for the protection of population over a wide area. Pot-bellied minnows are considered the best agent for the removal of mosquitoes after the marsh, pool, puddle or pond has been cleaned enough for the minnows to have free access to all parts of the water, especially around the banks.

With such a program of sanitation,
malaria has become a much rarer disease than it was in the past. Filariasis is extremely rare in this country; cleaning out mosquito-breeding places will keep it so.

It takes more than a mosquito
to spread either of these diseases, however; those special kinds of mosquitoes have to feed upon someone with either malaria or filariasis and become infected before they can pass the disease on to someone else. That is why a person afflicted with either of these diseases owes it not only to himself but to his whole community to be treated for the disease and to observe utmost caution that no mosquito feeds upon him.

When the mosquito bites a person with the disease, the "skeeter" gets so chockful of infection that sinking his long nose into another person transmits the disease; it's there in his nose. With malaria, the mosquito transmits a form of animal life known as a protozoa;
with filariasis, the mosquito transmits the disease by way of a threadlike white worm.

With malaria, that protozoa
from the mosquito latches on to the red cells of the blood stream and eventually causes those cells to burst open, ruining the cell but freeing the protozoa to find other red cells. When a great many of those red cells through the body are bursting open, you have the typical picture of malaria: shaking chills, high fever, and then drenching sweat.

All malaria cases do not follow
the same pattern, of course, but that is the most common pattern of the disease. That trio of symptoms of chills, fever and sweat
may be repeated twice a day, daily,
every two days or every three days,
usually setting up a definite pattern.

There are four different types of protozoa each of which causes a different brand of malaria, some rather slight cases and some very serious. By an examination of the blood, your doctor can tell which type of malaria you have. Sometimes the disease affects the head, sometimes it invades the digestive tract, and sometimes it creates damage in the chest. When the most obvious sign of the disease is a cold, clammy skin and a state of shock, it is called algid malaria;
when the disease creates headaches and dizziness with a yellowish tinge to the skin, it is called bilious malaria.

Filariasis is not as well known around the world as its chief complication is. Elephantiasis, the tremendous swelling of leg, arm,
breast or scrotum, has achieved
wide notoriety as a typical condition. Though some of the servicemen stationed in the tropics during the war were afflicted with the worm-infestation of the blood and lymph channels known as filariasis, it is not anticipated that they shall ever develop elephantiasis
because elephantiasis seems to result only from repeated infections from mosquitoes which carry the worm of the disease. Studies of the disease at the present indicate that it takes a period of ten years of repeated infection to lead to the deformities of elephantiasis.

There are other worm diseases which are quite common in this country; hookworm, pinworm, round worm and tapeworm are perhaps the most common, locating for the most part in the digestive tract. Hookworm, of course, is picked up through the skin, usually by barefoot trodding upon the worm itself. The other worm diseases are more often the result of undercooked meats, including fish; improperly washed vegetables; a contaminated water supply or some such lack of strict sanitation and cleanliness.

There is no definite way you might suspect the presence of worms; they may cause all sorts of symptoms or they may cause none at all. They may lead to serious damage or none at all.
Your doctor can usually tell from a blood test and an examination of the contents of the bowel whether any species of worms could be causing trouble; when he suggests such examinations as part of a physical checkup, it usually means he has found some sign someplace that only those tests can tell for sure whether he is right or wrong.

The Farmer
and the Dairy Herd

BIG BUSINESS

THE ENTIRE MONTH OF JUNE IS SET ASIDE TO PAY NATIONAL TRIBUTE TO THIS INDUSTRY.

We can show our appreciation to the farmer and the dairy herd by drinking more milk; Eating more butter; and using more dairy products in our daily menu.

HERE ARE SOME INTERESTING DAIRY FACTS TO KNOW:

- Dairying is one of the largest sources of revenue in Hamilton county and throughout the United States.
- Dairying brings over 3-4 of a million dollars a day to American farmers.
- More than 45,000,000 quarts of milk are consumed daily in the United States.
- Milk and its products are produced and distributed under the strictest sanitary health regulations.
- Dairy Products supply our most vital needs: calcium and phosphorus for the teeth and bones; proteins for tissue; sugar and fats for energy; vitamins for health and well being.

At today's prices milk is the biggest bargain in food, and refreshment, too!
Even if milk cost you twice as much, it would still be more in food, more in refreshment, more in health-provider, than you get for your money any other way.

Reeves-Battershell Wedding Takes Place In Port Arthur Church

Miss Mary Ann Reeves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Reeves, Beaumont, became the bride of David D. Battershell in a ceremony at Proctor Street Baptist Church in Port Arthur Saturday evening, June 16, at 8 o'clock. Rev. D. D. Seger officiated.

Vows were exchanged before an altar adorned with baskets of white gladioli against a background of tall tapers in candelabra festooned with garlands of greenery.

A program of nuptial music was played by Mrs. W. J. Bergman and bridal solos were sung by Mrs. Mary Todd Pallaris.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a molded bodice fashioned with a material forming a portrait neckline.

The full tiered skirt, floor length, swept into a chapel train. The fingertip veil of French illusion was gathered to a shirred band of illusion outlined in orange blossoms.

She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of Amazon lilies and stephanotis, arranged against loops of white velvet. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

As matron of honor Mrs. W. R. Skinner Jr. wore a dress of light blue Swiss organdy similar to the bride's gown, with shorter train. She wore a picture hat of organdy and carried a basket-shaped bouquet fashioned of chiffon daisies.

Misses Betty Earl Coon, Fanny Thomas, Mary Nell Battershell and Jo Ann Owens were bridesmaids. The colors of their gowns were, respectively, light green, yellow, orchid and pink.

Each wore a picture hat and carried a basket-shaped bouquet of daisies, held by loops of matching satin.

Hugh King was best man. Ushers were Neil Fussell, Ted Tepper, W. R. Skinner Jr., and Sam Battershell.

Informal Reception.
An informal reception followed in the Reeves home. Mrs. D. D. Seger served the four-tiered wedding cake, and Mrs. B. C. Phoenix Sr. presided at the flower-encircled punch bowl.

Ex-Iredell Woman One of Country's Outstanding Artists

Mrs. Clara Williamson, 76, of Dallas, who was born and raised in Iredell, is now recognized as one of the country's outstanding "primitive" painters. She is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Tom McDonald, and a double-cousin of Mrs. W. R. Gosdin of Iredell. Mrs. Gosdin sent The Meridian Tribune the following article from The Dallas News regarding Mrs. Williamson:

"Painting keeps me out of mischief," observed 76-year-old Clara Williamson, clasping her strong fingers.

The Dallas artist, who is regarded as one of the country's outstanding "primitive" painters, was modestly showing her paintings.

A motherly woman, she wears her soft white hair drawn back into an old-fashioned knot, secured by a gray comb.

It was not until eight years ago, when she was 68, that Mrs. Williamson painted her first picture. "I never did like to twiddle my thumbs," commented Mrs. Williamson, whose manner of speaking is as direct and expressive as her paintings.

As a result of not twiddling her thumbs, Mrs. Williamson has won a national reputation.

Up until the death of her husband, J. P. Williamson, in 1943, Mrs. Williamson had been too busy with other things to think about painting. She had brought up her son, had worked in the dry goods store she and her husband owned out on Jefferson in Oak Cliff.

But now her son had gone to New York City, a successful scientist. She was alone in the house at 2924 Yale, near the SMU campus.

"I was lonely," she admitted. "I needed a hobby."

For a while Mrs. Williamson sat in on art classes at SMU. She visited the Dallas Art Museum often and received encouragement from Jerry Bywaters and Otis Dozier.

"But nobody will claim me as their pupil," she laughed.

In 1946 her "Get 'Long Little Dogies" won the Dealey Award in the Texas General Exhibition. By 1948 her paintings were displayed in a one-man show at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts.

Last spring she received the Dallas Arts Association Award for her "Building the Railroad," later sold to the American-British Gal-eries in New York. Her paintings have also been exhibited at the Metropolitan Art Museum in New York.

Most of the energetic painter's works are what she calls "memory pictures"—scenes, events, and faces she remembers from her childhood in Bosque County.

"That was in frontier times, honey," she explains.

She paints her cowboy uncles and cousins on the old Chisholm Trail, her family sitting on the front porch of their farmhouse; camp meetings, and "cakewalk"; dancers, cows, horses, deer, with as much realistic detail as though she had painted them from life.

But not all of her pictures are memories of long ago.

Mrs. Williamson gets around. She caught a fleeting glimpse of the Mississippi River bridge outside Eaton Rouge as she flew down to see her son when he was at LSU. As soon as she returned home, she painted the scene.

A recent visit to New York City with her son, Dr. P. M. Williamson, resulted in a painting of the ice skaters on Central Park.

Mrs. Williamson, who wears tiny earrings in her pierced ears, has an independent frame of mind when anyone mentions contracts. She has had many offers, but has turned them all down.

"I guess I'm getting lazy in my old age," she observed as she looked over the upstairs rooms full of her paintings—on easels, hanging on the walls, on tables, and stacked on the floor.

"Sometimes I don't paint for several days."

But for a "lazy person," Mrs. Williamson has done all right.

"Let's Talk Live Stock"

By TED GOULDY

Fort Worth, June 15.—Mid-June livestock prices remained at or near all-time high levels at Fort Worth and around the major marketing circle for this season of the year during the past week.

This, coupled with ample moisture in most sections and improving pastures, served to brighten the outlook for the coming weeks.

Some hope was still held out that the rollbacks of August 1 and October 1 would be avoided but statements this week, first by Price Boss DiSalle, then Defense Program Boss Charles E. Wilson and later by President Truman seemed to indicate that only Congress could prevent the carrying out of the beef program.

July movement of livestock probably will be unusually heavy for as time nears for the rollback of prices at the end of July, many producers will feel like putting some stock in the bank.

A comparison of current prices with those in effect the week of June 22, 1950, the week before the Korean war broke out reveals all kinds of livestock selling well ahead of that period.

On June 22, 1950, top butcher hogs sold at $20.25, while top prices here this week were $21.75 and $22. Sows at $14 to $17.50 a year ago, this week bring mostly $16 to $18.

Good and choice fed steers and yearlings at $28 to $30 on June 22, 1950, compare with $32 to $36 this week.

Common and medium steers and yearlings at $18 to $27.50 a year ago, sell now at $22 to $30.

Fat cows a year ago brought $17.50 to $23, with canners and cutters at $12 to $17.50. Currently, fat cows bring $22.50 to $27 and canners and cutters at $18 to $22.50.

Bulls a year ago ranged from $16 to $22.50 and this week some mostly at $21 to $28.

Fat calves a year ago sold for $22.50 to $30, when good and choice, against $31.50 to $36 this week. Cull, common and medium killing calves at $15 to $24.50 a year ago, this week sold for $18 to $31.50.

Stocker calves of the good and choice kinds drew $29 to $31 a year ago, against prices of $35 to $41 this week. Common, medium and good stocker calves sold at $20 to $28, while this week they sold from $25 to $35.

Stocker yearlings at $20 to $29 on June 22, 1950, compare with yearling stockers at $25 to $35 this week. Older stocker and feeder steers at $20 to $27 a year ago, sell this week at $22 to $33. Stocker cows at $18 to $23 a year ago, sell from $21 to $26.50 now.

Slaughter Spring lambs bulked at $24.50 to $27 a year ago, which compares with $31 to $33.50 this week. Feeder and stocker Spring lambs a year ago at $16 to $23 sold this week at $25 to $32 with one lead at $34.

Shorn old crop lambs a year ago sold for slaughter mostly from $15 to $22, against $20 to $31.50 this week. Yearling lambs for feeders a year ago sold from $17 to $21, and this week similar kinds sold from $20 to $29.50, some mixed ewes and wethers at $9 to $11.50.

Slaughter ewes at $9 to $11.50 on June 22, sold at $14 to $18 and above this week, while aged wethers up to $12 a year ago, sold up to $20 this week. Two-year-olds at $14 to $19 a year ago, ruled at $20 to $26 this week.

You see the pharmacist himself, a friendly person, a reliable merchant, a good citizen.

But there's one thing you'll never see—and, in a sense, it's the most important of all.

What is it? It's your pharmacist's professional knowledge and technical skill.

To get his college degree and to pass the state examinations required of all pharmacists, he must have a knowledge of many sciences.

He knows thousands of different drugs—their dosage, usage and properties. And he has the practiced skill to compound them into the medicines your doctor prescribes, the medicines needed to help you guard your health.

Get better acquainted with your pharmacist. Trade with him—he's a man you can rely on. — Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company, Detroit 32, Michigan.

Yes, indeed! Egg profits go out the window when you skimp on egg feed quality. It is the low feed cost per dozen eggs that pays off in profit—not the low cost per bag of feed. Now, more than ever, we recommend the best feed money can buy — Nutrena Egg Feeds.

and say howdy to us some time. We like here fine, and J. W. feels very much at home since he moved his chickens over.

Thanks very much,
MRS. J. W. LOVELL.

Mrs. J. T. Berkeley, Hico Route 4, is due our apologies along with a year's credit on subscription. Her sister, Mrs. Eva Hodnett, informed us of the oversight which was a delicate matter through the fact that one of the menfolk around the office forgot to turn in credit for the year's time as part of the premium for the first bale of cotton some time back. These things happen, but we're always glad to have any error or oversight like this brought to our attention.

Mrs. Monroe Latham paid a visit last week to the NR office and renewed her own subscription, after her son, Walter, had previously been in to renew for himself. The whole family are readers of the local paper, since Mr. and Mrs. Latham sent subscriptions to their three sons during the time they were in service. Walter, who is still serving in the Navy, has returned to Norfolk, Va., following his recent trip home on leave.

"Here it is the middle of June and we haven't got our peanuts planted yet," said Mrs. O. W. Roberson, Hico Rt. 3, Saturday as she got another worry off her mind by renewing her subscription. Mrs. Roberson said the rains had been wonderful and she was taking the advice of a neighbor to "have faith," so they were terribly busy with whatever other work the weather would allow while waiting for a dry spell to plant peanuts. She and Skeet deserve—and get—results from their labors. Incidentally this is one instance where the man of the house admits he reads the home paper, for Mrs. Roberson said he did.

"Hadn't I better pay up my subscription?" asked O. W. Hefner Sr. Monday in his customary pleasant way. Advised that someone else would be rather unusual, he pulled out his money, took his receipt and departed to the establishment of our next-door neighbor, Raymond Lowe, who was efficiently working over Midge's Plymouth for another 100,000 miles of satisfactory service. (How's that, Lowe, as payment for getting us out of a jam with the Linotype Monday?)

J. R. Lawrence, Hico Rt. 4, entered the office Saturday morning, counted out some money, paid his subscription to June 30, 1952, and departed before we had time to say howdy. In case we didn't get around to saying "Thank you, Mr. Lawrence," here it is.

J. C. Barrow, one of the staunch supporters of the News Review, contacted the advertising manager on her rounds through town the other day, and offered to pay for another year's subscription if she "wouldn't forget it" when she got back to the office. Seeing that all this business had been transacted in her presence and in the jewelry store, Mrs. Roberts said she thought this entitled her to a commission. Well, maybe it does, Mrs. R.; anyway, here it is.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess W. Wright of Dickinson, who have been visiting here with relatives and friends during his annual 30-day vacation, couldn't go home without paying their subscription for another year as has been their custom for several years. So Jess came by Saturday to take care of this, and to chat for a while about old times. He has been with Humble Oil & Refining Company for 27 years, and is now stationed at a gas plant about 17 miles from Galveston, which is handy for a fisherman. He has two brothers, George at Longview and Joe in Louisiana, also with Humble, but they made it back home at different times this year and Jess missed them. A neighbor, John Willis, also an employee at the Humble's gas plant at Dickinson, reads the Hico paper after Jess is through with it, he said, and recently found a want ad that resulted in his purchase of the Ruebush place in the Hog Jaw community. Maybe we can make subscribers out of Mr. Willis and his wife if and when they move up here among us.

Wayne Rutledge, taking time out from his supervision of remodeling and extensive improvements at Barrow-Rutledge Funeral Home, strolled through the office the other day to pay up his dues in trust of another year's local reading. He and the rest of the family, who have watched with interest and anticipation the changes going on at that establishment, are usually joined each day by various "sidewalk superintendents." During the past month that workmen have been employed there a number of changes in appearance have been noted, both outside and inside the building, and it is now taking on a modern new look.

R. B. Elkins, son of J. M. Elkins, Hico Route 3, came in Tuesday to subscribe for the News Review to be sent to that address, where he says either he or his father can receive and read this paper.

Mrs. Hallie Jameson of Stephenville returned a favor to her adopted sister, Mrs. Aubrey Smith of Hico, when she came by Tuesday to send Mrs. Smith an NR gift subscription while renewing her own. Mrs. Smith had previously sent the paper to Mrs. Jameson as a birthday gift.

J. W. Canady says he gets the News Review on Saturday at his address at Veterans Hospital in Temple—that's just about the best tribute we've heard for the local mail service via the Highway Post Office, which makes good connections in all directions, on its trip south on the evening run. And then, there are other conflicting reports of mail service to other points, but we won't ruin this compliment by going into that now. While back for a three-day visit here with the folks, Mr. Canady came in the office to renew a subscription for his brother, H. G. Canady, who lives in Kayville, Utah. The visit was brief, but he said he'd be back again in four months. He was to return to Temple Wednesday.

Miss Emma Brewer, who hasn't been in the best of health lately, and thus is prevented from coming to town and running her own errands, deserves and gets the best of attention from kind friends. Wednesday she remembered that her subscription was about due and sent the money down by Tom Barnett, who has rooms in her home. We have regretted with them the loss of those lovely trees on her lot at the junction of the highways. Hico has lost many valuable trees—one of its greatest assets—this year, but maybe the worst is over now. Let's hope so.

The Hico News Review
Hico, Texas
Gentlemen:

Please enter my subscription for such period of time as the enclosed check will cover.

I would very much appreciate receiving a copy of the issue that carried an account of Dr. Sims Allen's death. It was my understanding he was brought back to Hico for burial.

Thank you very much for your prompt attention; and if you will be so kind as to advise me when my subscription expires it may be that I would like to renew.

Yours truly,
MISS BESS HILL.

GIRL SCOUTS COLLECTING FUNDS FOR INJURED BOY

After their Monday night meeting, which was a theatre party and discussion of summer plans, the Girl Scouts decided to aid in collection of funds to be given to Mrs. Irene Ables in order to defray expenses, while staying at the bedside of her son, Jimmie, hospitalized at Shannon Hospital in San Angelo.

The Scouts began working toward their goal of at least $100 on their rounds through town Wednesday afternoon. Around $80 had been gathered by these girls, Bonnie Johnson, Marguerite Watkins and Bonnie Pierce, by closing time that afternoon, and after working again Thursday morning, they reported a total of $120.67 contributed to the fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ables, of Clifton, and Mrs. G. R. Ables of Hico went to San Angelo Monday night to see Jimmie Ables who was injured that day in an accident near Big Lake. They returned Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ables went back to San Angelo Saturday night, accompanied by Jimmie's brothers and sisters, and returned home Tuesday night. They report Jimmie's condition much improved since their first visit, but it is not yet known just how long he will be hospitalized.

Milk Is Our Most Nearly Perfect Food If Properly Cared for

Austin, June 18.—Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, endorsing the observance of June as National Dairy Month, today released a statement congratulating Texas dairymen on the remarkable progress they have made in the past few years.

The use of clean safe milk is a health measure. Milk is our most nearly perfect food as it is rich in proteins, vitamins A and G and the minerals calcium and phosphate. Improved methods of producing wholesome milk has been a great help in the saving of infant lives.

Milk is perishable and especially during hot weather. To insure milk of good quality requires cleanliness, sterile utensils, protection against flies, careful bottling and maintenance at low temperature. The presence in fresh milk of large numbers of bacteria, due to insanitary methods of production is a health hazard.

Dr. Cox added, "Among the diseases which may be transmitted through milk are tuberculosis, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria, septic sore throat, undulant fever, diarrhea and enteritis. Numerous milk-borne outbreaks of disease occur every year in this country from the use of milk that might have been safely with proper care."

"We should firmly insist that the milk we drink be carefully produced, so that we will have the maximum practicable protection along the line from the cow to the consumer."
