INTEREST IN TOYAH SHALLOW OIL FIELD REVIVED—TO SHIP OIL TO REFINERY—WELLS ON PUMP

For some months past the Enterprise has had little or nothing to say relative to the shallow oil field of the Toyah territory for the reason that there was nothing to say. The wells have been inoperative for some months for various reasons. Interest, however, has to a certain extent revived and now the fifteen or sixteen wells in that territory, which are real producers and furnishing all the way from one-half to two or three barrels per day under the pump recently show some activity and most of them are now being pumped regularly and the oil stored for shipment to refineries in California, which appear to be the nearest accessible to this field.

The Toyah-Fresno Oil Co. is now busy drilling on their No. 4 well in this field. Of the three completed two are producers. Mr. Johnson, field manager, has for some time been pumping these wells and storing the oil and expects to begin shipping to California refineries in car lots at an early date, since this is the nearest lubricating refinery to this field.

The Jet Oil Co. have four wells on the pump and all four are being operated from the same power plant and it is said they have quite a lot of oil stored now. Parties who have a lease on the Quaid property are also pumping some oil from these wells.

As stated above, there are about fifteen of these shallow wells producing and most of them being pumped now and the oil stored. Some time back Mr. Knight tried refining this oil at Toyah on a small scale and made a very good grade of lubricating oil therefrom but the plant was small and the equipment not large enough to get the different grades of oil which would make a profitable plan. This is known to be as fine, if not the very best grade of lubricating oil known to come direct from any wells and tests made show five different grades of oil, some of which were as fine as any lubricating known. This oil which is being shipped to California for refining could easily and profitably be refined right here in the county where it is produced with a small outfit, comparatively, in the proper machinery for distillation. If this oil can be transported to California and there refined and the refined oil shipped back to Toyah and then a profit derived by each of the many who handle it, then how much more money could be derived from the same oil refined right here at home? This is a question which should be investigated and some live wire concern take up and develop. It would mean much to the shallow field and more to those who put their money in the refinery and would in a way put the Toyah shallow oil field and the Trans-Pecos oil field on the map permanently in a way which can be obtained only by this method, unless a real gusher should be brought in. And in the event those who started this work would be first on the ground and would then be in position to make a killing in the refinery business.

There are now and have been for years wells in Pennsylvania and Indiana which are being operated and which are much deeper than those in the Toyah field and produce no more oil. They are paying propositions or would be abandoned. They produce no more oil than the wells of the Toyah field and the oil produced is not of as fine lubricating quality.

This Auto Cannot Run You Down

Here is a snap shot showing the test of a new safety device for automobiles tried in the presence of the San Francisco Chief of Police. The car, going fifteen miles an hour, stopped within two feet after striking the being target. The bumper is so arranged that when a person is struck the ignition is shut off and all brakes are applied.

DAVIS MOUNTAINS STATE PARK IS ONE OF WEST TEXAS LARGE DEVELOPMENT PROJECTS

The El Paso Herald never lets an opportunity pass to boost West Texas and the following editorial gives a very good idea of the way it is giving out news matter relative to the Davis Mountain Park and other development in this section of the state. The editorial in question follows:

West Texas is a young giant just beginning to call attention to itself. It invites the world to know that a large part of the southwest is embraced in West Texas. It is a vast territory, enough to make several large states. It is dotted with fast growing towns, some attaining the population and the metropolitan appearance and the volume of business of small cities.

Once West Texas was all cattle country. Its towns were cowtowns. Then farms came into being in little groups on especially favorable soil and near rivers where some irrigation was possible.

There are cattle ranches in West Texas still. Some of them are of magnificent size. But they are being reduced in number and extent every year.

Farms are taking their place all through what is known as the Plains country. It has been found profitable to farm land that a generation ago was considered unsuitable for anything but grazing land for herds and flocks. Much of this land is now producing fine crops of wheat, corn, oats, alfalfa, and cotton. The dairy industry has become important. From the shipping centers poultry is sent to market by carloads.

The land is settling up. The population grows year by year. Towns and country receive more people with every twelve months.

Farms are generally well improved and well cultivated. The men engaged in cattle raising are giving increasing attention to breeding and feeding, with the result that West Texas cattle are selling at the top of the market.

Small cities like Amarillo, Dalhart, Lubbock, Plainview, Big Spring, Marfa, Alpine, Sanderson, Midland and Pecos are continually making public improvements as they grow, and private enterprise is keeping pace with new buildings and new residences. With federal aid, highways up to the best standard for motor travel, are built in many counties. To supplement the existing rail transportation, a new railroad through West Texas is being projected to tap productive territory not now served.

This is the season of the grain harvest, when $35,000,000 worth of wheat alone is being threshed in West Texas. The crop runs into hundreds of carloads. To gather and thresh it called for more than 35,000 men. Yet many farm communities are so far from shipping points that hauling grain to the nearest railroad town involves an extravagant outlay of money, time and labor.

And right on the heels of the wheat crop comes the oats crop, estimated at 15,000,000 bushels, valued at $18,000,000 some of which also must be hauled over the road a long distance to a shipping point. The need of a railroad is apparent.

Each section of West Texas's vast domain has its own special big project to work out. But here are some that affect the whole of West Texas.

One of these contemplates the creation of a State Park in the Davis Mountains, cool, high, tree-covered and in every respect scenically beautiful. It is desired to make this a splendid natural public playground easily accessible by good highways and a gathering place during vacation times for people from all parts of the southwest.

It is because of the fine attractiveness of the Davis Mountains that a good convention in which all of Texas is interested will be held there this week. Advertisements of good road members of the legislature and of congress will attend.

It will be a big picnic, a vacation and a convention all combined. It is intended to promote the park project, which will come before the next legislative session for consideration. It is expected to be attended by people from all parts of the state, and from New Mexico, and it doubtless will. It is a project of the highest value, worthy of every support that can be given it.

BLOYS CAMP MEETING ASSOCIATION TO START AUGUST NINTH

The Bloys Camp Meeting Association will hold their annual camp meeting during August at the Bloys Camp meeting grounds west of Fort Davis, commencing August 9, and continuing one week.

This is an Inter-Denominational meeting and the four denominations uniting in this meeting are: Methodist, Presbyterian, Christian and Baptist.

Each of these denominations have appointed a committee to select an able preacher of their faith to lead in the meeting. The four ministers have been selected and notified of their selection. The Bloys camp meeting ground is one of the best equipped in Texas, having lights, telephones, cooking and camping equipment, and also cement bases on which to erect tents.

Here is recreation for all together with advantage of hearing some of the ablest ministers, and enjoy the pure, invigorating mountain air—Fort Davis Post.

W. N. SUTHERLAND RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF C. OF C.

At an informal meeting of the Chamber of Commerce this afternoon, W. N. Sutherland tendered his resignation as secretary. He and Mrs. Sutherland left for Bloomington, Ill., on the T. & P. this afternoon. Mr. Sutherland has been with the Chamber of Commerce since the first oil excitement and has been untiring in his efforts to keep P. C.'s on the map.

The departure of Mrs. Sutherland will be felt socially and her pleasant smile and cheerful greeting will be missed by her many friends. She is highly educated, a college graduate and will be a very desirable adjunct to any community. The Enterprise joins with the many friends of this good couple in wishing them a happy and prosperous future.

WILLOUGHBY WELL NO. ONE READY TO SET CASING—OTHER WELLS MAKING LITTLE PROGRESS

Very little headway has been made in the Trans-Pecos oil field this week in the way of making new holes. Just one darn thing after two others has retarded the work. It is indicated that they will be able to show better results by next week.

THE WILLOUGHBY WELLS

The No. 1 well of the Willoughby Petroleum Company on section 2, block C-13 Southwest Reeves county has been put into condition for resetting the casing after four months determined effort. This well was shut down to make a water shut-off March 3rd when a splendid showing of oil was struck in highly fossilized lime rock at about 550 feet. Those who have visited the well the past week report that oil is coming from the well with every bailing and the gas fumes could be distinctly smelled in the companies 8x12 office about fifty feet from the well. Mr. Willoughby, the man who organized the Willoughby Petroleum Company immediately after resigning the presidency of the Pecos Natural Oil Company last fall when the Ramsey Company took over the Toyah-Bell well, states that no damage has been done the oil bearing formation from which the splendid indications are coming. He expects to have the water shut off within the next week and is emphatic in saying that with a perfectly dry hole he believes this well will very soon open one of the best shallow fields in Texas.

The No. 2 well of this company is again drilling after almost a week's delay for necessary repairs. The log of this well is duplicate of the first well in every respect as to formations penetrated but is running 140 feet shallower. Wells in every direction and at no great distance have found some oil at shallow depths and for years the Toyah shallow field has produced a very high grade oil and with this evidence of oil it has long been conceded that a highly productive field would be opened some place in the southwest part of Reeves county. The Willoughby Petroleum Company's wells both being on plainly defined structure and the thin layer, highly fossilized beds of lime rock and shale or "black gumbo" together with the indications at their No. 1 well is creating a nation-wide interest and with results such as the management confidently expect we may see a real oil boom much sooner than our "watchful waiting" friends expect.

THE HERSHENSON WELL

There was nothing done towards making hole at the Hershenson well this week. Early in the week a big bit was broken which necessitated a fishing job. This bit was removed and a new bit has been received and work will be resumed the forepart of the week, so states Mr. Manager Lindrum.

THE TOYAH-BELL WELL

The Toyah-Bell has been waiting the greater part of the week for fishing tools. They have made little progress towards removing the casing in that well on this account.

THE RIVER WELL

The River well has been at a standstill this week waiting for fishing tools with which to remove the remaining part of a monkey wrench which was accidentally dropped in the well some two or three weeks ago, together with a cable which is needed at that well. The cable has been the principal cause of the cessation of work so the Enterprise is informed.

THE BELL WELL

Reports from the Bell well are to the effect that the gas has been plugged off and that they will start tomorrow to find out where the water is coming from that is entering the well. When this is discovered an attempt will be made to shut off before resuming operations.

NOTICE TO PATRONS OF THE CARNEGIE LIBRARY

To those who read books from the Carnegie Library: It cost money to purchase the books and money to manage a library. You can read them free but you are requested to return the books at the proper time and pay the fines if they have been kept over-time as that is one of the means of maintaining the library. Look in your book cases and in your attics and see if you have not books that belong to the library. Children sometimes take out books, neglect to return them and parents don't know about it. So please give attention to this matter. Remember others want to read the books and are holding.

PREPARATIONS BEING MADE FOR NIGHT SERVICES

The work of preparing the playground in the rear of the Methodist church for the great revival which will begin Sunday was begun Thursday of this week and everything will be in readiness for the service Sunday night.

There will be nothing left undone which can be done for the comfort of those who wish to attend these services. The day services will be held in the church and the night services on the playground in the rear of the church. It is planned to furnish comfortable seats with backs so that all may be seated in the open and in comfort while the services are going on.

Remember, that you are expected to attend and do your part to make it a success, no matter what your denomination. The preaching will be as good and spiritual as you have heard at any of the protracted or revival meetings in Pecos in the past ten years, and if you attend you are assured a spiritual feast. Don't fail to attend.

STRIKE COMES OFF AS SCHEDULED

The situation of the strike of the railroad shop workers has not been materially changed this week. The labor leaders claim a 100 per cent strike and the railroad management claim the men are coming back in small numbers. Most of the roads are advertising for new men and claim the applications for work exceed the demand. However, only skilled mechanics are wanted and the shops are not filling up very fast.

The trackmen, who were due to go out this week have postponed action pending a new parley with the U. S. Railroad Board.

The head of the shop-crafts union B. M. Jewell announced he is ready to consider new proposals and an optimistic feeling of peace between the unions and railroads is very much in evidence as the Enterprise goes to press. There has been no delay in train service on the T. and P. The shops are guarded by men at Tyh and other division points who are employed by the railroads. The Toyah watchmen have no authority as peace officers granted them from the Sheriff's office and act in the capacities of private watchmen.

At scattered points throughout the country there has been some minor disorder but nothing has occurred to warrant any apprehension of a serious outbreak. The members of the labor union fear the condemnation of public opinion and the leaders have warned them against any "rough house" demonstrations or unlawful interference. The late reports claim that the ranks of the strikers are broken in California by the return of 484 strikers to work in the Southern Pacific shops at Los Angeles and Sacramento.

FORMER OIL MAN IS RETURNED ON FORGERY CHARGE

J. L. Tyler was for several years a citizen of this county and is well known to most of our people. The El Paso Times of the sixth carries the following account of an alleged forgery by him:

Alleged forgery of a deed to 640 acres of land in Hutchinson county and the obtaining of $8,000 through fraud in El Paso on May 5, this year, was brought to light with the return here last night of J. L. Tyler in custody of Deputy Sheriff John B. Kilpatrick. Tyler was arrested in Fort Worth. He was placed in the county jail here last night to await an examining trial on a charge of forgery.

J. L. Williams, ranchman of Amarillo, Texas, is the complaining witness against Tyler. The latter formerly was an oil company promoter and had lived in El Paso several years.

In the complaint Mr. Williams sets out the alleged forgery, through which Tyler, under the name of Thomas Parry, is charged with fraudulently conveying to Mr. Williams the section of Hutchinson county land for a consideration of $8,000.

Tyler's examining trial probably will be held today in Justice of the Peace Court.

TOLIVER'S BIG SALE STARTS TODAY WITH AUSPICIOUS OPENING

Toliver Dry Goods Company's big Sacrifice Sale started this morning when the doors were thrown open at nine o'clock. It has been many a day since the people of Pecos witnessed such crowds which packed the sidewalks both ways awaiting the opening. The throngs of people to rush this popular store on opening day was a surprise to B. A. Toliver, the proprietor, as well as others of our citizens.

This sale is being pulled off with Enterprise advertising supplemented by that of the Balmorhea and Barstow papers, and twelve hundred Rodgers printed from their page ad last week.

Many of our people believed impossible at this time to pull of a sale, claiming there is "no money in the country." Less than half the amount of money will be spent in this selling campaign as would be required by a traveling salesman, yet it was sufficient to prove the state of the market heretofore made in the Enterprise that there is money in the country and that all that is necessary to get it is to put on an advertising campaign coupled with bargain prices. The duller the times and the harder pressed for money are our people, the easier to pull of a real sale. For that is the time all sensible people are looking for real bargains. When the people are flush with money, they care little about a little difference in the price of an article, but when money is tight and scarce it makes all the difference in the world.

It is the prediction of the Enterprise that the sale now going on at the Toliver Dry Goods Co. store will prove to be one of the greatest in the history of Pecos and that when the fifteen days' sale is over he can cram those of his goods left on the counters in a very few out weeks. A little advertising in the proper medium which is read by the people coupled with the right kind of price reductions will move your stuff any day, if you don't believe it just ask Toliver, then come to the Enterprise and consult with the editor about the advertising campaign.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Prepared for The Enterprise By The First National Bank in St. Louis.

The continual gradual improvement in business conditions caused an increase of about 1 per cent in employment in New York State factories from April to May, according to a statement issued this week by the Industrial Commissioner of the State Department of Labor. The statements are based on reports received by the Department of Labor from 1,553 representative manufacturers employing over 430,000 workers in May.

The principal gains of the month were reported by the brick, cement and abrasive, metal working, wood-working, and food and beverages industries. Of the eleven chief industry groups, seven showed increases in employment since April.

The greatest gains in employment occurred in the stone and mineral products and brick industries, the latter as the result of increased seasonal demand. The cement and plaster industry showed a marked increase for the same reason. In the stone and mineral products industries, the chief gain was in the manufacture of abrasives, due apparently to the improving condition of the metal-working industries. A small reduction occurred in the glass plants.

The metal-working industries reported some large gains in May, due to improved conditions. The important increases occurred in the iron and steel industry. The ship-building, and brass and copper goods industries also reported substantial increases in employment, and the machinery and electrical goods, railway equipment and repair, sheet metal work and hardware, instrument and appliances, and heating apparatus industries, also reported the employment of more workers in May than in April. A small reduction was reported in the plants making cutlery.

PRAYER OF A KNOCKER

Lord, please don't let this town grow. I've been here for thirty years and during that time, I've fought every public movement. I've knocked everything and everybody. I have done all I can do to keep this town from growing and never have spoken a good word for it. I have knocked hard and often. Whenever I saw any one progressing or enjoying himself, I have started a movement to kill the business of stop the fun. I do not want the young folks to stay in this town and I will do all I can by law, rule and ordinance to drive them away. It pains me, O Lord, to see that in spite of my knocking this town is beginning to grow. Some day I fear that I will be called on to put down sidewalk in front of my property and who knows but that I may have to keep up the streets that run by my premises? This, Lord, would be more than I could bear. It has cost me money, though all I have made has been right here in this town. Then, too, many people might come if the town begins to grow, which would cause me to lose some of my pull. I ask, therefore to keep this town at a standstill, that I may continue to be chief. Amen.—Exchange.

The new Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord

A New Tread—a Lower Price Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value. It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20 to 25% less. It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversized dimensions. When you buy the 4 1/2-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches. Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more. In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation. Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name, that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation. All of the Goodyear Service Station Dealers listed here have the Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord, as well as the famous All-Weather Tread Cord, ready for you now.

Compare these prices with NET prices you are asked to pay for "long discount" tires

THE REVIVAL MEETING

The Methodist revival meeting will begin with the Sunday morning service and continue throughout all next week and probably longer.

Rev. L. L. Thurston, pastor of the local Methodist church, will do the preaching while the singing will be led by A. J. Curtis. For some weeks Rev. Thurston has been leading up gently to this revival meeting in a series of sermons which have been the peer of any heard in that church for months, and the writer believes it would be just as true to put it years instead of months, when taken on an average. They have been scriptural, forceful, helpful, enlightening and convincing.

There may be those among us who believe it impractical, if not impossible, for a revival meeting to be held in Pecos without the importation of an outside preacher. To such the Enterprise suggests that the sermons of Rev. Thurston are superior to those delivered by many who make revivals a specialty. If you want to hear radical or sensational sermons the writer believes you will be disappointed in the revival or at least that status of the sermons. While judging from what the writer knows and has seen and has heard of this man of God, he believes he is safe in saying that the people of Reeves county have not heard from revivalists any more scriptural, soul-stirring or convincing arguments than will be given during this meeting by their pastor. Heretofore our people have paid for ten days' revival campaigns anywhere from one to three thousand dollars, for no better preaching and no better singing than they will hear at this one. So far as the results to be obtained are concerned, that will depend largely upon the support given the pastor by the christian people of the town. If they lay down the results will fall far short of what they should be. If they rally to his support and do their full duty—praying much and working—then there is no reason why this should not be one of the most successful revivals in the town's history. As a matter of fact nothing has been accomplished worthwhile in any revival meeting held in Pecos in the past ten years to the certain knowledge of the writer, until the christian people of the town were awakened, and in reality they are as nearly responsible, or more so, than is the preacher.

Heretofore some of our people have from the first announcement made thought more of the collection which would be taken up at the end of the meeting than they did about the saving of souls. There should be one, and a good one, at the conclusion of this meeting but nothing like that demanded by paid evangelists and singers will be expected, so no need to worry along that line. If you are a christian you have an interest in the saving of souls and if you have now is the time to awake from you lethargy and get busy.

The people of every faith and denomination and from all over this and adjoining counties are invited to come and if you come from a distance and let it be known some one will see that you are cared for while here. So come and join the workers.

Foreign advertisers are making it possible for many papers in Texas to pay their expenses and make a small amount of money today. It does seem strange that the local merchant will allow a manufacturer or jobber many hundreds of miles away, to take advantage of an opportunity at his door. The manufacturer never advertises without results, he knows in advance. The local merchant in too many cases decides that he is too well known, that every one can find him if they want him and that business is too dull anyway. The trail to the bankrupt court is easily found, all know where it is, but who wants to take this trail?—Richardson Echo.

But for the foreign advertising the Enterprise would have gone defunct long ago, or would have been, necessarily, such a poor paper that it would be a disgrace to the town and its editor. Foreign advertisers pay 40 cent per inch for space in the Enterprise, and it's worth it or they would quit. A foreign advertiser must get results adequate to the amount he spends for advertising—and he keeps talking on both—or he stops right now. Look over the Enterprise and see what the foreign advertiser thinks of the value of the Enterprise space and compare it to the home ads. It may be worth your while to take this time. There are several foreign advertisers who pay more for space in the Enterprise year in and year out than does the best local advertiser in Pecos. Enterprise advertising gets results because it has the circulation, yet, some few local advertisers will kick at the price of Enterprise ads and use other mediums with less than one-tenth the circulation and pay within five cents per inch thereof. Then they get stung and are in reality hurt worse than the Enterprise. You don't have to guess at the Enterprise circulation and all will admit that advertising rates should be based on circulation. If advertising in a paper with one hundred circulation is worth 25 cents per inch it stands to reason that one with ten times that amount, or $2.50. It is, therefore, easy for a level-headed business man to figure out who is skinning him on advertising rates, if he will only ask for proof of circulation.

Goat meat has at last got a name. At the recent meeting of the goat and sheep raisers association at San Angelo a name was selected and that name is "chevon." In the future when you go into a market or first class hotel and want a choice steak as nearly like that of real venison as two blackeyed peas call for chevon. A properly dressed goat furnishes as good a steak as any wild deer ever killed in the hills and the mutton you have been eating is small potatoes when compared with chevon.

The Fourth of July brought out evidences of patriotism in Pecos. The business section of the town was absolutely without even the sign of a flag and the Enterprise is informed, that so far as observed only two residences in the city were floating Old Glory. All the stores were closed for the entire day and it looked very much like a Sunday on the streets.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

It ain't always necessary to use figures to use arithmetic. Here's a young man all dressed up in nowhere to go. Add temptation weakens of character, desire for ease opportunity for theft assurance of security, fright at discovery, and the sum total is a murdered. Wipe the whole business off the blackboard in the electric chair and what have you left?—nothin'. If jails were schools, you could teach subtraction and maybe get the sum total back to the young fellow all by himself and then by addition produce a healthy, beneficial citizen worth money to the state and helpful to other young folks. Maybe schools are better than jails. What do you think?

EBERSTADT STILL GOING.

The last issue of the Texas Commercial News, published at Sugar Land, contained a picture of the commercial club rooms at Bryan, Texas, the walls of which carry considerable advertising matter. At one end stands Sam E. Eberstadt the secretary, with his finger pointing upward to the 1921 achievement of the chamber. Sam was secretary of the Pecos Chamber of Commerce several years ago and made a good one too. To show that he has lost none of his "pep" and thinking qualities he has this for his motto or rather the motto of his Chamber of Commerce: "Remember that the devil lived in heaven until he began knocking his own home town."

Not a bad motto, by any means and Sam shows that he is still on the job boosting for his town and his organization. The Bryan people evidently know a good thing when they see it or else they would not have kept Sam these long years. He is a live wire and would make a good secretary in any man's town.

EXIT KNOCKER ENTER BOOSTER

To see the old sign, "Patrons will please report any inattention to the management," tacked up here and there around public service and utility equipment, give way to something that affords the booster a chance is quite a relief.

So general has become the use of these signs that an observing person might come to the conclusion that the management was trying to get in touch with all of its patrons inclined to knock, and the most-wished-for event was an opportunity to give someone a jacking up.

In view of this universal condition, it is refreshing to see tacked up in Beaumont street cars a new sign which has taken the exact position of the old one, reading as follows: "Reporting unusual attention on the part of employees render us valuable service, as we wish to recognize efficiency in our organization."

Clearly the management of the Eastern Texas Electric Company believes that it is more important to itself and the public to seek out the unusually efficient and properly reward it, than it is to fire somebody and break in a new man. There is a philosophy in service and it seems to have found it.

Certainly the morale of the employees of any institution will receive more strength from the act of rewarding some faithful service than it will from discharging someone. It is nothing but human for a man or a woman to take pride in the fact that they have discharged their duties well—done a little more than expected of them, and recognized accordingly. The employee who does not possess this human instinct will find himself sooner or later in a position which does not bring him in contact with the public.

The man who does merely enough to keep from getting fired is a poor employe and will, sooner or later, find that he has been passed by others and become a liability to his employer.

The man who does a little more than his duty is not only an asset to his employer and the public as well, but will soon find himself entrusted with greater responsibilities with a corresponding increase in emolument.

The Eastern Texas Electric Company has done a public service in inviting the optimist to come in and have an inning.—Beaumont Enterprise.

GOVERNMENT A DANGEROUS BUZZ SAW

Perhaps the strongest bulwark of the political boss is the almost universal belief that principles are greater than men. Scarcely a village, town, county or state that has not slipped over undesirable candidates as against decent men because of this conviction, so frequently in fact that it is time we turned the microscope on this very vital assumption. Morals are largely geographical and always subject to the times. The theory of right today may be wrong tomorrow. In the early days principles in government may have been more vital than men. Indeed this may be true today, but it is certain that today the character of the men we choose to serve is more vital than ever before in history, for in matters of government we are compelled to put blind faith in the men we choose to serve us. Government has become so highly technical, so amazingly complex, that it is quite beyond the understanding of the average individual. The subtleties of civic finance, the intricacies of export trade, the complexities of transportation problems by land and sea, the technique of tariff, the bewildering, contradictory elements entering into scientific taxation, not to speak of the dazing problems of foreign relations, have removed government so far from the ken of the average citizen that he has lost all touch with it; he feels it is something with which he has no concern, but in which he dare not express an opinion. His happiness, his welfare, depend on the skill with which these technical problems are confronted, yet they can be man-handled to his complete understanding with his eyes seeing the folly of his representative. Summed up, government has gone completely from the hands of the people; it seems to have outgrown the people. The people have not kept up with the procession. The press has been insufficient as an educational force, not for lack of desire but because the press must exist and the people demand as the price of support the publication of trivialities. The great city newspapers have come to be a mixture of Diamond Dick, Sherlock Holmes and Laura Jean Libbey, stripped of personality, often devoid of principle, pandering to the intellect of the flapper and assuming a "mis-leadership" based on bluff and bluster which rests on the inability of the people to tear away the mask of mock heroics and disclose a half-baked understanding of our national vitamines. It seems as if we must turn back the clock and take more careful measure of integrity and ability in those we must trust to do for us the things we are unable ourselves to understand. If not this, then we need some new system of education in the land.

A WARNING TO THE SOUTH

The Washington Herald in its editorial columns of June 26th sounds a note of warning that the seeds of religious hatred as bitter as those that are now bearing fruit in the city of Belfast are at present being sown in some American cities of the South.

The "Herald" editorial, in part, was as follows: "Religious and racial intolerance can be started with ease anywhere in the world. To suit the convenience of any master mind, peoples and churches can be set at each others' throats and their attention diverted from issues more essential to their own welfare. But when these passions once are stirred they soon pass beyond control. They are like forest fires, lit by a carelessly dropped cigarette and fanned by spring winds into conflagrations which sweep toward cities and humanity in their path."

"There is no more natural occasion for religious hatred in Belfast than in Washington or Alexandria. The majority, both of the Catholic and Protestant population, are poor people employed at starvation wages, housed in filthy hovels and knowing no recreations except those afforded at the corner whiskey dispensaries. They have a common interest in obtaining better living conditions by co-operation. But this issue of the right way to worship God has been thrown between them by master minds to prevent any united movement to improve their status in life. "In cities of southern Ireland with mixed populations practically no religious intolerance exists. Political feeling runs high, it is true, but the parties do not hold elections in churchyards with rifles loaded to shoot members of the church around the corner.

They have been fortunately rare in American history and those who seek to stir them are the worst sort of citizens."

President Harding has recently issued a statement declaring as un-American any person or society that attempts to stir up religious strife.

The Christian Council, representing Protestant churches in Georgia, has issued a statement in which the people of Georgia are besought to repudiate the Ku Klux Klan and oppose its secrecy and violence.

once aroused, it is the blindest. "Like the school bully, who picks the weakest boy to fight to impress the gang with his great courage, the political demagogue in our midst picks the weakest of the community to jump upon for their politics or religion, counting on the ignorance of the many to permit him to impress them with his wonderful darning."

VOTE SWAPPING BECOMES A SCANDAL

The accepted practice of swapping votes in state legislatures has reached a pass where it is akin to national scandal. The public interest is sacrificed on the altar of county cupidity, though as a fact the home folks in the long run pay dearly for their supposed favored legislation. "You vote for my bill and I'll vote for yours," is the battle cry. "The provisions of my bill will not affect your territory, and nobody cares anyhow." The custom, of course, is the outgrowth of the Washington pork barrel scramble where favored noses are so brazenly thrust into the national money trough. There it is bad enough, but when the practice is brought more nearly home the effect is demoralizing. Unprincipled legislators are enabled to entrench themselves in office so firmly that it soon becomes next to impossible to uproot them. They always "make good" for the home folks, and that is as far as the vision goes. The rest, to quote the melancholy Dans in silence. The practice lowers the moral fibre of the people and legislatures become simply distributing centres of graft and special favors, state budgets are swollen beyond necessity, genuine expenditures do not count, nothing counts, indeed, but moves that will keep the twaddling politician in his legislative job.

THE COTTON OUTLOOK

The Wall Street Journal, in its issue of last Thursday, has the following to say about the cotton situation:

"Mexican Petroleum is not the only high vaulter in the market. King Cotton, in the first 20 days of June, cleared 261 points, without drawing rebuke from the New York World. After the reaction from the high point on June 20, cotton is again moving upward. There is only one real reason, and that is a disappearing supply and an increasing demand. "The market has reason to expect that the official report to be issued July 3 will show a better condition than a month ago, when it was 69.6. June is the month of great improvement in cotton and some thing better than last month could be seen. But even if the condition were up to the 10-year average of 76.9, which it will not be, the fact would still remain that cotton must face unusual dangers, that the world surplus is decreasing, and demand appears to grow larger every week.

"Here, of course, the June condition has never been the deciding factor in the growth of cotton. The plant is not limited to approximate dates for blooming, but when it reaches a certain development will put on squares and continue until frost. Therefore, though it may be late, a crop could be produced if season favors in the Autumn. But now all this is changed. The planter gets the early bolls while the weevils take the greater part of those of the summer and later. This is the significant fact in a condition figure in June that shows a late growth.

"Though the weevil infestation now looks severe, there is a possibility that the weather will turn against the pest. Hot, dry weather after the squares begin to form is almost sure to be fatal to the pest if it continues for any length of time. But on the other hand, the cotton plant may not be able to stand this cure. The excessive rains of the past weeks would naturally result in the plant forming a larger growth of lateral roots and less of the long taproot which is necessary to withstand drought. If this proves to be the case, then the plant needs showery weather as much as the weevil. The crop is neither made nor lost yet, but the probabilities are against it.

"Against this prospect is an increasing need for cotton. The surplus no longer worries the trade; instead, the near approach to a deficit provides a food for thought. This looks more serious when the fact is being omg clearer every day that even if the weevils were eliminated a crop could not be reasonably expected that would amount to as much as the world would consume next year if the cotton were available. These are the facts that cannot be explained away, and they are behind the cotton market today."

Nobody is seeking to explain away the facts, and certainly nobody in the cotton market at present. The way the market set out as a result of the Government report Monday indicates how keenly the real situation is felt. But the situation is not one of unmitigated evil and what the Wall Street Journal calls a "cotton famine" would not be a very bad thing for the world. Indeed, the only circumstance which we regret is that many farmers will not be able to profit by that which is good about the situation—a probable demand that will keep the price up. The thing about the situation which must be taken as compensation for all of its evil is that we shall clear the decks for a big year next year and a fighting chance will be given the cotton farmer to pull out of debt. Moreover, the increased demand the Wall Street Journal says so much about is not likely to be so great that it would not be over-supplied by a crop just a little larger than the probable size of this year's crop.—Star-Telegram.

WHY COUNTRY LADS LEAVE THEIR DADS.

"Why did you leave the farm, my lad?"
 "Why did you bolt and leave your dad?"
 "Why did you beat it off to town, and turn your poor old father down."
 "Thinkers of platform, pulpit and press,
 Are groveling in deep distress;
 They seek to know the hidden cause,
 Why farmers' boys leave their pas."
 "Well, stranger, since you've been so kind,
 I'll tell you what disturbed my mind.
 I left my dad, his farm, his plow,
 Because my calf became his cow."
 "I left my dad, 'twas wrong of course
 Because my colt became his horse,
 I left my dad to sow and reap,
 Because my lamb became his sheep."
 "I dropt the hoe and struck the fork,
 Because my pig became his pork,
 The garden stuff that I made grow,
 Was his to sell but mine to hoe."
 "Tis not the smoke in the atmosphere,
 Or the taste for life that brought me here.
 Please tell the platform, pulpit, press
 No fear of toil or love of dress
 Is driving off the farmers' lads;
 It's just the methods of their dads."

IN RE. SHOT CORE DRILLING FOR POTASH

A letter from John Hoffer, deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division of the state department, writes the Enterprise enclosing the following letter relative to shot core drilling for potash, which will be of interest to those drilling such wells, as it relates to the matter of plugging as ordered by the department. The letter is from J. W. Hassell, chief supervisor oil and gas division Railroad Commission of Texas, and is in answer to an inquiry from Mr. Hoffer and is as follows:

"Your letter of the 24th instant requesting instructions in regard to core drilling where the operators claim that their test is being made for potash, and make no reports of their operations to the Commission has been received. You say that in all such cases there is the probability of finding both oil and gas which the operators admit they will develop if the showing promises pay production. You call attention to the shallowness of the hole after reaching lower depths which practically prevents the use of casing, and that there will be no way to shut off water to prevent infiltration into an oil or gas sands that may be drilled through and below. If this well is being drilled for oil or gas primarily or secondarily it should be drilled in keeping with our rules and regulations. You state that the Farmers Oil Company is arranging to drill on a certain tract. We have no record of any Farmers Oil Company and they should be required to file their organization report, and if they are drilling for oil or gas, whether this is the primary purpose of the hole or not, they are under your supervision. If it is claimed that there is no intention to drill or to develop oil or gas and the hole is too small to be cased, the only thing that I know for us to do is, if oil or gas sand is penetrated, to require them at once to cease operations and pump the hole full of mud-lader fluid, plugging it as required by our rules and regulations. Please make it perfectly plain to any one operating one of these well that the Railroad Commission will not permit the injury of an oil or gas bearing sand by one of these holes. I want you to keep as closely in touch with these operations as possible so that we may be at once advised of the penetration of any gas or oil bearing sand and so that we may at once take steps to require their safeguarding."

How Ironized Yeast Fills Out Figure

And Puts New "Pep" and Energy in Thin, Nervous, Rundown Folks

Hundreds of thousands of people all over the country are now taking IRONIZED YEAST tablets for health with results which in many cases are actually astonishing. For thin folks to gain five pounds or more on the very first package is not unusual. Complexions blotched with pimples, etc., are very often entirely cleared up within 10 to 14 days. As for increasing "pep" and energy, apparent "miracles" are reported by folks who were formerly run-down, weak, and lacking in physical and mental vigor.

FREE! Mail coupon below for Amazing Three Day Trial Treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. Watch the Results!

Here Is The Secret!

Nature intended that you should have a well developed figure, with the clear skin, sparkling eyes, strong nerves and rugged strength that goes with it. And if you are now thin and run-down it is because certain of Nature's laws have been disobeyed. Nature requires that we get a proper amount of vitamins and iron into our systems. But these two essential elements are lacking in the modern diet. That is why so many of us are thin and run-down.

Yeast Best When Ironized

The thing to do is to supply this lack by taking with each meal two tiny IRONIZED YEAST tablets, which contain in highly concentrated form, a specially cultured yeast grown under the strictest supervision for medicinal purposes—a yeast unequalled for its richness in the essential Water Soluble B vitamins. In addition it contains the correct amount of the two other vitamins—Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C—which are equally important to health. These three vitamins bring excellent results even if taken alone—but when taken with a proper amount of easily assimilated organic iron, as in IRONIZED YEAST, these results are secured often in just half the usual time!

Watch The Results!

Note how IRONIZED YEAST immediately increases your appetite—how it enables you to get real joy out of every morsel of food you eat. See how quickly it drives away pimples, blackheads, etc., and how your newly acquired "pep" makes hard work or play a pleasure instead of a task. Try IRONIZED YEAST for its pleasant taste—will not cause gas or in any way upset the stomach. Each IRONIZED YEAST tablet wrapped air-tight in waxed seal, thus assuring 100% purity and strength. Special directions for children. Go to your druggist or mail coupon today—NOW!

WARNING!

Not all yeast will give the desired results. There are certain types of yeast which have absolutely no value medicinally. By insisting on the genuine IRONIZED YEAST, and refusing cheaper imitations or substitutes you can be sure that you are taking a vitamin tonic treatment which is unsurpassed in effectiveness, convenience and genuine health-building value.

Note: IRONIZED YEAST is sold at all Drug Stores on our guarantee of complete satisfaction from the first package or your money refunded.

Sold and recommended by all good druggists, such as Pecos Drug Company.

MY KANSAS FLOWER

You should see the stately sunflower, growin' by my kitchen porch. Like a watchman on the campus, holdin' up his real torch. Every day he pays obeisance to the author of his power,—smilin' at the master-planet, every minit—every hour. Not a frown from constant service ever clouds his patient face. On he grows—to full perfection, standin' in an humble place. Keerin' nothin' fer environs—thoughtful only of his plan,—settin' forth a rich example fer his hapless neighbor, Man.

Though our station be the humblest, there is allers row to grow. Angels from the heights is callin'—Glory beckons—let us go! Ain't no harm to overshadder smaller blossoms if we can. Never will be no objections to a bigger, better head,—firmly rooted—crowned with glories,—what more fittin' could be said? Ain't no limit to the growin' when our time is wisely spent. Every passion 'wuth the knowin' lifts us from enviroment!

APPLE JACK PHILOSOPHY.

It ain't no use to set around an' twiddle with yer thumbs—There's got to be some pressure, if the sweetest cider comes. It ain't no use to speckalate the golden days away, when the medders is awaitin' fer attention to the hay. There's no relief in droolin' out of a dark expanse of hours, when every crick is singin' to a border-line of flowers. You can grind the juiciest apple till it's most as fine as crumbs, but you got to put the pressure on, afore the cider comes!

A little bit of squeezin' helps the mortal soul a lot, when the world around is callin' fer the very best it's got.—The life of ease is pleasant, but the sober thinker knows that we get the finest cider from the apple when it's squeeze! So it's hardly right to grumble when yer circumstances press—for the drippin' nectar tells us what the apple wuz, I guess—And I'd ruther be a pippin that can stand the hearty squeeze, than to be a wormy seedlin' that dries up on the trees!

"Hey, you Buck an' Charley, you go an' lay down fer a time while I get to the deep bottom of this big bowl of Kellogg's Corn Flakes an' fruit fer my lunch! Flakes have got to wait fer me when I eat Kellogg's— you see' betcha, boy!"

Health and happiness in every spoonful of Kellogg's CORN FLAKES

For tomorrow's breakfast—treat the family to Kellogg's Corn Flakes and fresh fruit! See that there is a big pitcher of cold milk ready! And, urge each big and little family member to eat plenty, for Kellogg's are the perfect warm weather food!

Kellogg's Corn Flakes are not only delicious in crispness and flavor, but they're wonderfully nourishing and refreshing. They give stomachs a chance to rest in warm weather because they digest so easily. Eat Kellogg's regularly and get away from so much heavy foods and see how much better every one in the house feels!

BANKHEAD HIGHWAY TO BE EXTENDED TO CITY OF MEXICO

Special to The Enterprise.

Birmingham, Ala., July 4, 1922.—J. A. Rountree, Director General of the United States Good Roads Association, also of the Bankhead National Highway Association, has just returned from Washington, where he has been consulting with road officials and U. S. Senator Chas. E. Townsend, chairman of the committee on Post Office and Post Roads, as well as vice president of the United State Good Roads Association, in which organization he is deeply interested. Mr. Rountree also attended a meeting of the Executive Board of the Bankhead National Highway Association at Richmond, Va., where the affairs of the association were thoroughly discussed, and plans made for the work of the organization to be pushed during the coming year. It was decided that Director General Rountree would make a tour of the states of Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia during the months of July and August, inspect the Bankhead Highway, hold meetings and deliver addresses. He will be accompanied by a number of officials of the Bankhead Highway.

The Federal Government of Mexico has extended an invitation to the Bankhead Highway to extend the highway from Laredo, Texas, to the City of Mexico. It has already appropriated $40,000,000 to build this highway. It was decided to send a pathfinding commission from Laredo to the City of Mexico, starting November 13th. This commission will be composed of Hon. Benahan Cameron, president of the association, J. A. Rountree, Director General, W. D. Cardwell, member of the Executive Board, accompanied by two engineers, the president and secretary of the Texas Mexico Divisions and their guests. The commission will be escorted by representatives of the government of Mexico. Meetings will be held in the various cities and towns through which the proposed highway will traverse.

The Bankhead Highway, when it adopts the Mexico Division, will be the only international highway connecting Mexico with Washington. The road will be 1200 miles from Laredo to the City of Mexico. Director General Rountree reports much enthusiasm in the building of the Bankhead Highway in the thirteen states through which it traverses. Reports show that ninety per cent of this highway has been built, or is in course of construction. The Bankhead Highway is now travelable all the way, with the exception of a few stretches of road in the different states, which he has been notified will be overcome in the next few months.

FIFTY YEARS AGO IN STREET RAILWAY SERVICE

The 50th anniversary in the street railway industry of Edwin C. Foster, president of the Manchester (N.H.) Traction, Light and Power Company, recalls to mind the early days in New England of horse cars, strap rails, kerosene lamps and the little salamander coal stove with its elongated, snake-like funnel terminating outside the car. The stove set in a wooden, zinc-lined frame fitting into and filling the doorway. This cumbersome apparatus, which undoubtedly disturbed the shades of Ben Franklin, sent most of its cherished warmth out through the funnel. Its adjustment was such that it could be moved from one end of the car to the other. This was done at each trip termination. In winter straw covered the floor to keep the feet of passengers comfortable.

The strap rail was followed by the tram rail. Some tee rails used at that time weighed 35 pounds per yard, which was very light weight and would hardly meet the requirements of our present-day electric car.

The feeble kerosene lamps at each car end were encouraged by the addition of a monitor top to the car, in the center of which a light with a reflector was installed. This was followed by two lights, but the two end lights were still continued.

At that time the Lynn & Boston line had a limited number of open cars containing iron frames for the support of the striped canvas canopy tops. The horses were attached by a pole connected to their harness with a whiffletree fastened to the bumper or draw-bar of the car. These poles were later abandoned save during the winter when a four-horse hitch was necessary.

When a new car was placed in service it was customary to assign the most popular driver and conductor to that car on its first run. The car was decorated with flags and drawn by four horses daddled by flags and vari-colored plumes. It was an honor and a privilege to be a first-car passenger.

In the spring of 1888 the Lynn & Boston Company built one mile of track at Revere Beach, bonded for electrical operation and with the present type of overhead system. In 1892 a modern power station was constructed in Lynn and during the following year one in Chelsea.

A pessimist and an optimist were discussing life from their different viewpoints.

"I really believe," said the former, "that I could make a better world myself."

"Sure," returned the optimist; "that's what we are here for? Now, let's get to work and do it."—Young People.

L. Stratton and Alfred Tinsley Sections 18 and 20, the N.W. of 22; of 23; of 24 and 25, in Block 54, Twp. 2, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, and the S.E. 1/4 of Section 19, in Block 33, H. & T. C. Ry. That said lease was made for the purpose of prospecting said lands for oil and gas and other minerals; that said Stratton and Tinsley agreed to drill a well upon some portions of said lands within one year after the execution of said contract, or to commence drilling with due diligence a well in the general locality of said lands. That by depositing ten cents per acre on said lands in the First National Bank of Pecos, Texas, on each anniversary of said lease, the drilling of said wells might be postponed for twelve months from same, but not to exceed three years from said date. That said lease contract was assigned to Sunshine Oil Corporation and by it sold to the other defendants herein.

By Rev. M.A. MATTHEWS D.D., LL.D. THE CHILDISHNESS OF THE CHILD

When a thoughtful person looks into the face of a little child he sees written there, and also in the palms of his hands and the soles of his feet, the word, POSSIBILITY. Meditate on that word, POSSIBILITY. Continue to read it and think about its meaning and you will discover that the word leads you into one of two directions: It is possible for that little child to become a great man, to be of incalculable benefit to his generation, and to leave upon posterity the imprint of a noble life. The other direction shows that it is possible for that child, through neglect to become a criminal—an educated criminal—who will blight the lives of thousands of people, and increase the tax burden of the community in which he lives. It is possible for him to become a curse to his family, a menace to society, and a blot on the page of history. Which direction do you want the POSSIBILITY to take in your child's case?

The child is the indispensable unit, the essential factor, and the master in all spheres of human activity. Around the child the world must revolve. From the child society must evolve. Heaven bends to bless and breathe a benediction of infinite love upon the child—the infant king—of social destinies. The child cannot become great, useful, and powerful if the childishness of the child is taken from it; if he is robbed of the spirit of youth; taken out of the sphere of innocence, and deprived of the domestic blessings that belong to him.

The curse of this hour is the childishness of children. We haven't children any more. Babies are plunged into the maelstrom of social iniquity. They are prematurely advanced to girlhood and boyhood, and are ushered on the stage where young men and young women play the fool for the pleasure of a world of vultures. Parents are ambitious for their daughters to become social factors, and for their sons to become social leaders; consequently, they are prematurely advanced. In advancing them, forcing them, and introducing them to a world of social maturity they are robbing them of their childish nature, inclinations, innocence, pleasure, and sweetness.

One can stand in the midst of so-called young men and young women and cry out in anguish and sorrow, "Where are the children! O, where are the children!" The girls of today know more than their grandmothers knew at seventy-five years of age. Boys can teach their old, aged grandfathers.

Where are the children? The Juvenile Society of today is a curse, an infamous blot on the page of American history. It is so because parents have robbed their children of childhood.

APOSTROPHE TO THE BARTENDER

That unique and now defunct functionaire, the American bartender, has been justified of all concerning which he has been accused. Rising in all the majesty of high position, Judge Arthur G. Powell, president of the Georgia Bar Association (not to the bartenders association), has rescued from obliquity and from oblivion the memory of the man who for so long wore the white apron and glistered hair. He does not mention the bartender by name, but the panegyric, though disguised, is none the less apparent.

Judge Powell was speaking in opposition to the prohibition amendment when he said: "Slight folly is often an antidote for crime."

He meant the "folly" of saying to the bar creature: "Set 'em up all around, old top," of standing in front of the polished mirror in a maudlin condition babbling incoherently of poetry and song, usually of a salacious, but occasionally of a sentimental kind.

Those who know what the bartender had to contend with, may well join Judge Powell in his panegyric. May be there should be a monument to the American bartender—that is a monument of a different type than those which mark the graves of men who died untimely in the cause of the bartender.

But in strict justice—and in all seriousness, there is something to think about in what Judge Powell had to say, and here it is:

"The eighteenth amendment, foisted upon the country when we were in the throes of the late war, will become a dead letter unless it was born of a wisdom which we do not now seem to see. A statute lacking support of public opinion can not generally be enforced.

I am speaking now as a individual and not as the president of the Georgia Bar association, and I do not ask you to agree with me, but it is my calm, deliberate judgment that no enactment of such widespread viciousness, of such universal depressing effect on your law and the enforcement of it, of such potency in arousing disrespect for law and the courts, has ever before been impressed upon the mind of our people.

"Rum has its undoubted evils. The barrooms were intolerable nuisances. The influence of the whiskey interests in our politics was debasing to the last degree; yet in flying from these evils we have flown to worse. We were told that liquor was the cause of crime; that it made widows and orphans; that it was practically the sole author of poverty and distress. Have crimes decreased? Are there fewer widows and orphans? Is there less poverty and distress?

"The history and natural effect of the passage and enforcement of a drastic prohibition law is not to diminish the number of felonies. Slight folly is oftentimes an antidote for crime.

"The wave of homicide which swept over Georgia on the passage of the statewide prohibition law has its counterpart in the wave that swept the nation on the passage of the country wide law. It is no exaggeration to say that rum has slain its thousands, prohibition has slain its tens of thousands.

"If you do not believe that the dragons teeth are being sown in Georgia soil, ride along one of our public roads and see the chain gangs at work, most of them offenders against the prohibition law. Notice there the large number of young white men and boys. What will be the effect on society when these debased and degraded by the nature of their punishment, are returned to community life—when they become fathers of families that are to be reared among us? There is something radically wrong in the law that cannot be enforced except at such tremendous moral cost."—Texas Commercial News.

THE WHIPPING POST

William J. Pinkerton, the famous detective, is quoted as declaring: "The whipping post is the best remedy for crime."

Perhaps! But the real argument against the whipping post as a legal process of punishment is not based on its effects upon criminals. Its influence was brutalizing upon the community in general. Its revival now would be a long step backward toward the state of society, which sanctioned torture and the mutilation of living human bodies, for the supposed deterrent influence upon potential criminals.

Crime never was so common as in the days when punishment were most cruel. The greater sufferer in case of the revival of the whipping post would not be the offender who was lashed, but the community in general. Legalizing brutality always has multiplied brutes.—Boston Post.

Takes less paint. Costs less to put it on. Fall weather is ideal for painting. Sun not too hot. Dries slower and will last longer. No pesky flies to disfigure it. Painters, too, are not so rushed, and will give more care to the work. And when you buy your paint don't begrudge the few cents difference between a cheap paint and a paint that's really cheap. The cheap paint isn't cheap at any price. The paint that's cheapest is cheap because it goes further and costs less to make it go. Such a paint is Low Brothers High Standard. Calomel Salivates and Loosens Teeth advertisement with text: 'CALOMEL SALIVATES AND LOOSENS TEETH. The Very Next Dose Of This Treacherous Drug May Start Trouble. You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system. If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money. Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate. (Advertisement) Read the ads in The Enterprise and save money.'

A CORRECTION.

There appeared in the last week's Gusher an article which related the capture of an automobile in which it says: "Deputy R. G. Middleton and Arthur Hayes of the sheriff department, went to Toyah Wednesday in answer to a call from H. K. Jones" etc. In justice to Mr. Hayes I wish to state that while I hold no brief for him or grudge against him in any manner whatever, he is not now nor never has been a deputy under me. When asked to make the correction the proprietors of the Gusher absolutely refused to do so. I wish to state also that judging by the attitude and conversation of the Gusher representatives the article was published for the sole purpose of reflecting upon me as sheriff, and I was given to understand that unless all of my business went to that office I could expect no quarters from them and that they would be after my goat from now until the election is over. This correction is made for the sole purpose of apprising the voters of this county of the attitude of this publication in regard to me and my race for the office of sheriff and that they may weigh whatever may be said against me in that publication for whatever it may be worth.

I wish to state that I am not running on the demerits of any one but on my record and no matter what propaganda may be started and circulated on me during the latter end of the campaign I will in the future, as in the past, get all those who violate the laws of our land within my province when it is within my power to do so.

If you do not want violators of the law arrested and the laws of our land enforced, then I cannot ask for your support, but to those who want the laws enforced and justice administered to all I do ask for your support and influence in the coming primary election.
