STATE BANKERS OF EL PASO DISTRICT 9 FORM ASSOCIATION

At a meeting of State Bankers of El Paso District Number Nine, held here last Saturday, the 15th, an organization of the bankers of the district was perfected which will meet annually. The meeting was the first of its kind, and the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year:

W. H. Browning, Jr., vice president of the Pecos Valley State Bank, president.

B. F. Berkeley, president of the Alpine State Bank, vice-president.

W. P. Rooney, cashier First State Bank, Fort Stockton, secretary and treasurer.

The Executive Committee is composed of the foregoing gentlemen with W. H. Browning as chairman and L. T. Youngblood, president First State Bank, Blackwell, Texas, and T. M. Wilson, president of Marfa State Bank, Marfa, making the five members.

The State Bankers Association of District No. 9, is composed of 31 banks 10 of which were represented at the first meeting.

An interesting program was rendered during the day. At 10 o'clock in the morning the meeting was called to order at the Rialto Theatre, and the address of welcome was delivered by Jas. F. Ross, county judge of Reeves county.

The object of the meeting was stated by W. H. Browning, Jr., at that time acting as temporary chairman, and who, later, was elected president of the association.

An interesting address was made by W. W. Stewart, representative of the 88th district, which was well received and appreciated by those present.

T. M. Wilson, president of the Marfa State Bank, addressed the gathering on: "Is Our Banking System as Efficient as the National System?" Following Mr. Wilson's address, committees were appointed, resolutions were drawn up, and by-laws enacted.

It is well to state the entertainments were given by the Pecos Chamber of Commerce, and that body did themselves proud along that line. At 12:30 a luncheon was served at Johnson's Cafe, and at 9 o'clock in the evening, a watermelon feast was held on the lawn at the hospitable home of W. H. Browning, Jr.

The afternoon meeting was called to order at 2:30, and interesting talks were made by different members of the association. J. A. Boldera, president American Trust & Saving Bank, El Paso, handled the subject: "How State Bankers Assist the State Banking Department," while the subject of "Advantage of Co-operation Between State Bankers" was assigned Benjamin F. Berkeley, president of Alpine State Bank.

Following these addresses, reports of the various committees were received, round table discussions held, officers were elected, a selection of the next meeting place made, and adjournment was had.

El Paso drew the next meeting, the date of which will be determined later by the executive committee.

A number of resolutions were passed, among which was a vote of thanks to the Chamber of Commerce of our city for the royal manner in which they entertained the association.

Another resolution of interest to the entire public was passed, in which the association commended the State Banking Laws, and the bankers present pointed with pride to the fact that no depositor in the State of Texas has lost money in a State Bank failed—that is, under the existing State banking laws, depositors have been paid in full at all banks which have had the misfortune to fail.

All the visitors were well pleased with the treatment accorded them by our people, and some expressed surprise at the bright prospects for the future of our city. Some, possibly, were under the impression that Pecos was "just a wide place in the road," and that our only resources were derived from the shipment of cattle. But our Chamber of Commerce and our bankers showed the opposite.

They showed them that we are the very heart of the greatest irrigation belt in Texas, that we are the county seat of Reeves county, we have three railroads; that $15,000 worth of honey is shipped from the territory surrounding Pecos annually; that 2500 crates of the famous Pecos Challenge Cantaloupes are shipped yearly and bring the growers $4000; the cattle sales at the shippers $750,000; that 250 cars of alfalfa, bringing annually $450,000, are shipped; that 35,141 bales of irrigated cotton went out from 1911 to 1921; that 26,834,715 pounds of cotton seed was shipped from 1911 to 1921; that the cotton acreage for 1922 is 26,350, all irrigated, and with an estimated product of 17,500 bales. There are 68 miles of grave highway under construction, w

WILLOUGHBY DRILL THOUGHT TO HAVE REACHED CAP ROCK

For some time an interest has been manifested by our people in the well No. 1 of the Willoughby Petroleum Company located on the town and not particularly described as "Singing" well, block 633 public school land, in the southeastern portion of Reeves county. This section of the county has been favorably reported by geologists as favorable oil land and the names and addresses are very prominent in many parts, and especially in the vicinity and around the Willoughby interests. For some weeks those in charge have been working industriously to shut off a water stratum before going into what they believed to be the cap rock. After weeks of delay and using almost every kind of contrivance to remove the casing and shoe from the bottom of the approximately 360 foot hole the shoe was finally drilled out Saturday of last week. After this the casing was set and preparations made to resume drilling on Monday of this week.

Tuesday of this week being the wedding anniversary of Mr. Willoughby, the president and manager of the Willoughby Petroleum Company, he decided to make it a holiday, or rather a day upon which he could invite his friends and those interested in his proposition to visit him and the well and see just what he had and what he is doing. A time upon this thought he invited W. D. Cowan, owner of the Cowan ranch, W. D. Cowan, Jr., W. H. Browning, Jr., vice-president of the Pecos Valley State Bank and president of the Pecos Chamber of Commerce, W. W. Hubbard, a prominent attorney of Pecos, and the editor (the latter being unable to go on account of physical conditions) all of Pecos: E. B. Daniel, vice president of the Toyah State Bank and president of the Toyah Chamber of Commerce, R. L. Parker, postmaster and secretary Toyah Chamber of Commerce, Doc Davis, merchant, and B. P. VanHorn of the Toyah Motor Co. Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Willoughby and R. G. Ferguson being the hostesses.

The party from Pecos drove to Toyah where they were joined by the crowd from that town, driving to the well in a body, arriving at the well at about 10:30 in the morning. The last two or three miles of the trip before reaching the well was through the cretaceous foot hills, or rather what we call in this country, hills, and shows plainly in many instances the "structure."

When the party reached the well they were drilling and Mr. Willoughby explained that in drilling the last few feet just before setting the casing to make a water shut-off a crooked hole had been the result. This was not discovered until after the casing had been set, and while the water was shut off the shoe at the bottom of the casing had become jammed and would not permit the passage of the tools for deeper drilling. Then ensued a long and tedious delay of many weeks, first in trying to remove the shoe by fishing but finally it had to be drilled out, and this was accomplished as before stated on Saturday. The casing was reset and drilling resumed. Contractor Hopper has been drilling for the last two days and found the formation of a very hard nature that it is impossible to make more than six or eight feet in twenty-four hours, and in doing this it is necessary to sharpen the bits in approximately every three hours or one bit to every six inches of drilling. This formation shows lime and sand, and according to tests made with chloroform just before this was written in the presence of the editor, he judges the sand to be about one-third of the entire bulk.

Mr. Willoughby exhibited fossils, some of which had been found on the ground in the neighborhood of the well but two of which were brought up from several hundred feet below the surface in the hauler. Two of these which came from deep in the well were curiosities in that an oyster complete was shown with the oyster petrified in the shell after one side had been lifted. There are many fossils and shells to be found all over that immediate vicinity where the Willoughby No. 1 is being drilled, showing that at one time it was evidently the bottom of a sea.

Drilling was continued on the well while the crowd was there and the slush which brought up showed distinctive oil signs and state and federal aid, the estimated cost of which is $315,000.00, and that the Red Bluff Reservoir located on the Pecos River, near the city of Pecos, and that the federal government now has core drill working on site testing conditions for dam. If built, it will impound flood waters sufficient to irrigate one hundred and fifty thousand acres of land.

All of Pecos will welcome the bankers to our city at any time in the future that they can find it convenient to come.

John D. Rockefeller attended church at Tarrytown, N. Y., on Sunday following his 83d birthday, July 8. He made it the occasion to do his bit for humanity, even though it caused him to break a rule of long standing of not posing for pictures. He bargained with newspapermen, agreeing to pose for this special picture if they would attend church with him. It is health, not wealth, that now supports the retired oil king.

WAGNER SUPPLY COMPANY MOVES TO PIONEER

J. S. Cormack, manager of the Pecos office of the Wagner Supply Co., finished loading and shipping in equipment at Pecos yesterday. They had a very complete line of oil well supplies here which they put in several months ago. This was shipped to the Pioneer oil field.

The Wagner Supply Company still retains a lease on their building and it is understood will return here with supplies and reestablish an office when production is secured or when the business justifies it.

Mr. Cormack, who has been manager of the business in Pecos will be removed either to Cisco or Breckenridge, in all probability. Mr. Cormack is a splendid gentleman and the Enterprise is sorry to have to chronicle the fact that he is to be removed from Pecos.

A good showing of gas. In conversation with W. D. Cowan, who is one of the most reliable men in Reeves county as well as one of the very best men in the county from a christian and business standpoint, says that "the oil and gas showings are prominent. There is a distinct showing of oil on the slush while many gas bubbles are to be seen when the bucket is emptied and the slush floats away." "It looks mighty good to me and I believe they will soon have a real oil well," he says "and all you will have to do is sit steady in the boat and all will be well in a short time."

W. H. Browning, Jr., president of Pecos Chamber of Commerce, attended the gathering at the Willoughby well No. 1 and stated to the editor that as far as he could see Mr. Willoughby was giving the interest of his stockholders very close attention; was living at the well and personally supervising the expenditure of his stockholders' funds.

According to visitors at the well on this occasion and who inspected the property of the Willoughby Petroleum Company there are seven distinct domes on the 640 acres surrounding Willoughby Well No. 1, and twenty-two domes on the property of the company. The well is down to approximately 562 feet and the drillers as well as Mr. Willoughby firmly believe they are now on the cap rock and that they will strike the pay sand most any time. Mr. Cowan stated that it is his opinion that they will strike the "pay" inside of two hundred feet but may strike it sooner, and it may still be further away, but his confidence in the ultimate production of this well is unwavering.

The party returning to Pecos showed that they had been over a dusty road but all appeared to have been delighted at the trip and well paid for the time and energy. The feed was fine and all extended to Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby a vote of thanks, and wish for them many returns of the happy day, but hope that by the next time this day arrives they will have all the money they will ever need and have retired into a mansion instead of a common camp house at a wildcat oil well.

LEE KINGSTON HAS RETURNED FROM FT. WORTH SANITARIUM

Lee Kingston returned with his wife from a three or four weeks' visit in Fort Worth where he was in a sanitarium and underwent an operation, from which he thinks he will be physically stronger, and the Enterprise sincerely hopes he will.

Lee says that politicians in that section of the state are thick and that the question of whether or not you belong to the Ku Klux Klan is of vital importance. The first line on every candidate card carries the information desired on this subject.

Mr. Kingston was reared on a ranch in the Davis Mountains and is a typical western ranchman—true as steel and not afraid, yet at the same time he will stand by his convictions. He states that he is himself opposed to the K. K. K. or anything else which hides behind a cloak and has not the nerve to come out in the open on all occasions. Mr. Kingston also made the statement that when the Klan entered his territory he would move on. "Do not know where I shall go in order to get away from them," he says, "but I will go somewhere where they do not exist."

ONE MEXICAN DEAD ANOTHER IN JAIL—BOTH BOYS

Sylvester Juarez, a Mexican youth of 10 or 12 years of age, is in jail charged with killing Ayalena Rogre, another Mexican boy of about the same age.

The killing took place about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in the Mexican quarter of the city, and at first it was said that the Rogregas boy had shot himself accidentally. Later it was learned that the two boys who, to this time had been the best of friends, had a quarrel about an auto tire, and from reports, they both made a run for a gun at about the same time, with young Juarez being the quicker.

Sheriff Kiser made the arrest and placed his charge in jail. A preliminary hearing will be held Monday.

NEAR SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Monday at about noon while a Santa Fe train was doing some switching in the yards here, a string of cars were backed into a large Nash truck which is owned by the county, at the crossing near the ice plant.

The three occupants of the car, Birch and Albert Holdman, and Pruss Davis did not see the approach of the train, as the view there is obscured by buildings, until they were almost on the track. They applied the brakes, but the heavy truck did not come to a stop until it had reached the track.

All three jumped in time to save being injured, but the truck was skidded along the right of way for a short distance.

Dr. W. F. Starley was here this week to attend the funeral services of his father of the same name. Dr. Starley is an affable gentleman and the editor was pleased to meet him. He left on the afternoon train Thursday for his home in Galveston.

ELMER JOHNSON IS APPOINTED POSTMASTER AT PECOS

Announcement was made in last Saturday's daily papers of the appointment of R. E. Johnson as postmaster at Pecos to succeed H. N. McKellar whose term expired in last May.

Elmer, as known to our people here where he was reared, is a home product and a man of executive ability, character and refinement who is a friend to everybody and everybody who knows him is his friend. He was born and reared a republican and has through all the years of his life been steadfast in the faith. He was recently appointed deputy U. S. Marshal for the Western District of Texas and now holds that responsible position.

While the Pecos postoffice is supposed to be under the civil service rule, it is plainly evident that it comes nearer being under republican rule. That is, however, as the writer sees it, nothing more than was the case under a democratic administration when the postoffice at Toyah several years ago was supposed to be under civil service rule and a civil service examination held to fill the position, yet the postmaster there who was too old to take the examination was retained so long as he desired it. What is fair for democrats should also be fair for republicans.

It is generally believed that Mr. Johnson is well qualified for the position as postmaster and will fill the situation to the satisfaction of his constituents as well as of the government. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Johnson of the Orient Hotel.

The Enterprise understands that at the time of the writing of this article Mr. Johnson has not received his commission, but its arrival is expected daily and as soon after its arrival as the necessary bond is made and approved he will take charge.

Postmaster H. N. McKellar informs the Enterprise that he has everything in readiness to turn over to Mr. Johnson at any time designated by the proper authorities. In justice to Mr. McKellar the Enterprise will state that in the writer's opinion Pecos has never had a more efficient, painstaking or accommodating postmaster than he and it is with regrets that it is obliged to chronicle his retirement, but since he is to retire it is also delighted to announce the appointment of such a man as Mr. Johnson, who will, the Enterprise believes, in no way impair the efficiency of the office.

THE METHODIST REVIVAL TO CLOSE SUNDAY

Announcement has been made that the Methodist revival now going on will be closed with the service Sunday evening. That is it is expected to close.

The attendance has been good throughout the entire meeting, interest is still growing and the work appears to be very satisfactory. The fine spirit of harmony between the different denominations of the town is very noticeable and is favorably commented upon by the best of our people. That spirit alone, if no other good had been accomplished, would be worth the price of the meeting. It shows a christian spirit which will accomplish much good now and in the future. In the meeting especially noticeable is the lack of clap-trap methods and sensational stories to scare people into joining the church. If they come in under the preaching of the Rev. Thurston they will more than likely be stickers and not only stickers but active workers in the church. In other words, they will be actual followers of the footsteps of Jesus. Each and every sermon is calculated to lead hearers to a higher and better life—to a higher type of manhood and womanhood. The editor sincerely believes that no more spiritual and elevating sermon have been delivered in Pecos than those of the present meeting since the writer arrived in Pecos some sixteen years ago.

Since the meeting will probably close Sunday it behooves all christians to put more intensive prayer and work into the matter from now on than they have in the past week or two since the meeting began. There is no question of the good which has already been derived from the meeting or that which will be derived before its close, but the good yet to come can be made materially greater by a more intensive campaign of work and honest, fervent prayer by our christian people. Let's all get busy.

A letter received today from the Kyles in California by Judge J. A. Drane is to the effect that Sid Kyle had been free from fever for past three days and was doing nicely. This will be glad news to the many friends of this most estimable family, who hope that he may sufficiently recover to return home at no distance date.

BELL, LAURA AND RAMSEY NO. 2 TO RESUME DRILLING

The necessary casing spear, that had delayed operations at the Bell well last week, arrived on the afternoon train Saturday and Mr. Gallagher, the drilling superintendent, again demonstrated his efficiency in removing the casing in the minimum time. Three joints of the pipe were found to have been badly damaged by the tools when they were bowled up in the hole by the great gas pressure and it was evident that, at least, a part of the water in the well was coming in at that point.

It is the plan of the management to drill through the white lime cap rock with the larger six inch tools so that a larger hole may be made down through the gas formation and the heavier tools will be more effective in getting through the gas.

Drilling operations were resumed Thursday noon and without some unforeseen delay, the cement plug holding down the gas will be drilled out by the first of next week at the latest. It is then expected that a big production of oil may be struck at an early date as this well, although having been unfortunately delayed from time to time by mechanical difficulties, has shown unusual indications of production in great quantity.

THE TOYAH-BELL WELL

The Enterprise is informed by B. Ramsey that those in charge of the Toyah-Bell interests have made arrangements to commence work on Ramsey No. 2 at an early date and push it to completion. As soon as they have finished drawing the casing from the Toyah-Bell, which will be only a few more days, if it does not then flow it will be put on the pump and the oil therefrom used in putting down the Ramsey well some five hundred feet distant from the Toyah-Bell well. Mr. Ramsey informs the editor that all necessary monies needed to complete this well are now available except the grub bill, which he anticipates no trouble whatever in raising. It will not be necessary to expend any money whatever for derrick timbers or for the erection of the derrick, or for machinery. All this is available and the drillers have arranged to take stock in the company for their work or wait till the well is brought in a producer for their pay. Such is the confidence of the men at the well who have spent their time and money there. It is estimated, so says Mr. Ramsey, that it will require not more than 120 days to complete this well to the pay sand. After the Ramsey well is finished to production, then the matter of finishing up the Toyah-Bell will be considered.

TATUM WELL

Toyah, Texas, July 19, 1922. Special to the Pecos Enterprise: Officials of the Tatum Lease Syndicate, drilling a well on section 14, block 59, at the juncture of Reeves, Cuiberson and Jeff Davis counties report that they are drilling in hard white lime using a Star rig. This location has been highly recommended by several noted geologists and the management is looking candidly for production before they reach fifteen hundred feet. The lease on the Tatum ranch was formerly owned by the Kent-Homer people but was taken over by C. W. Waddington and J. F. Lawney who formed the Tatum Lease Syndicate. Mr. C. W. Waddington is the president and Miss E. M. Robinson of Detroit, Mich., is vice president, and J. F. Lawney secretary and treasurer. If oil is not found at a lesser depth a derrick will be erected at 1100 feet in order to handle the casing and drill more effectively.

THE LAURA WELL

The three car loads of machinery to be used in finishing up the Laura well is expected here today or tomorrow. A message from Mr. J. D. Granger states that he will be here by tomorrow to install the rotary machinery as soon as it arrives and begin work.

OWENS WELL

The Owens No. 2, is drilling at 2700 feet in lime and black shale. They have a good gas showing and the formations point to a good production at about 2900 feet.

The Enterprise has had no reports this week either from the Herzhenson or Los Pecos Wells.

FINANCIAL REVIEW

Prepared for The Enterprise By The First National Bank in St. Louis

Production of steel ingots in the half year just ended has been about 16,000,000 gross tons, against 9,000,000 tons in the second half of last year...

There is a moderately heavy demand for most steel products for early delivery, and in most cases these deliveries command $2 to $5 a ton premiums over basic prices.

During another month of the coal strike pig iron production has made a material gain, and this in view of coal and coke scarcity and higher prices.

HOUSTON AND GALVESTON GET O. S. T. MEETING

Limpia Canyon, Davis Mountains, July 8 (via Alpine).—The annual convention of the Old Spanish Trail Association came to an end Saturday with selection of Galveston and Houston as next year's meeting places.

A 20-mile horseback trip was on the schedule, including the ascent of the famed Indian trail winding around the mountains and emerging on the high table land.

The convention passed the usual resolutions of appreciation, including a resolution extending the thanks of the association to The Houston Chronicle and the San Antonio Express for their efforts in behalf of improved roads and state parks.

Houston's invitation was extended by H. F. Cohen, president of the Motor League of South Texas, who read letters from the mayor and Chamber of Commerce, and who also extended the invitation from the Galveston Commercial Association.

At twilight tonight the sinuous road leading out of the O. S. T. convention camp in Limpia Canyon was swept by the spotlights of automobiles from many parts of the state going out, going home.

Only a short business session was held Saturday, most of the business of the convention having been concluded Friday.

NEED FOR BETTER METHODS OF HOME LAUNDERING SHOWN

THE HOT HOUSE LAMB

In a recent letter addressed to Claud A. Broome of San Angelo, C. C. French of the Fort Worth Stockyards Company, says:

Dear Mr. Broome: Replying to your favor of the 9th instant, I have collected all the data I have on the subject of the "Hot House Lamb," and the genuine lamb, and turned it over to the Livestock Reporter to be published after the meeting at San Angelo; but since receiving your letter, I am authorizing the Reporter to publish what they think best as soon as possible and forward copy to you.

What I am trying to do is this: The Concho Country, the Devil's River country, the Pecos country, the Trans-Pecos country, and parts of New Mexico, to say nothing of the border part of old Mexico, will always raise sheep, and mostly of the Merino grades; they will always have ewes for sale that it is not safe to hold another year, and owing to restricted range, the ranchman must sell. It is to build up a market for these ewes that will be profitable to the ranchman, and remunerative to the purchaser.

Many of these ewes that do not get fat are now marketed in thin flesh and are not desirable for the packer and many of them go to the Northern markets and are sold at low prices.

Fort Worth is the geographical center of a number of counties that with the railroads, and good roads, is admirably situated to handle every one of these ewes, in the same manner as hogs are now transported by truck; hogs are taken from the stockyards to the country 50 miles, fed, and returned; the same can be done with these ewes.

The counties of Dallas, Wise, Tarrant, Parker, Comanche, Erath, Hood, Johnson, Ellis and Brown are admirably located to handle the above described ewes, by the farmers being educated to take advantage of conditions, and purchase them in the Spring, as they come to market; at that time, the farmer has an abundance of green feed; the ewes coming from a dry range mend rapidly and should be bred to the mutton type of rams, so as to bring Fall lambs; by that time the farmer can have wheat, rye, or oats pasture for both ewe and lamb. The lamb can be marketed in the Spring, when there is always a demand for "Spring lamb and green peas."

The ewe can be full fed, and reach the market just about the time the corn fed sheep in the North are gone, and just before the grass sheep begin to come; so the farmer who starts in the Spring with a thin ewe, should have next Spring a fat ewe, a fat lamb, and a clip of wool.

This is the only real combined feeding and breeding proposition we have; the finished Spring lamb usually sells above any other class of meat; it is to the sheep business what "baby beef" is to the cattle business.

The S. M. S. Ranch sells its old cows in Northern markets through one firm, which has a large clientele, that purchases these cows and takes them to their farms; they do this because they expect to get a fine white-face calf from registered male in the Spring.

Now the ranchman in the Concho country and the Devil's River country is rapidly getting into shape to breed these ewes to mutton type rams, and as soon as bred sell them to the farmers in the above described counties, and the time has come when it is imperative that he should be educated to handle them; for the reason that he is being forced to reduce his cotton acreage and he must have something else to do with the unused portion of his cotton farm. The Farm Bureau will soon take up the question of economical fencing for this class of farming.

Now if the ranchman is really ready to assist in putting this matter over as "Pig Clubs" and "Baby Beef Clubs" have been put over, then the college and other interests are ready to assist in making demonstrations in this kind of feeding and breeding; the same as has been at Spur in feeding calves and making "Baby Beef."

There is no good reason why at least 100,000 of these lambs should not be marketed at Fort Worth.

Yours very truly, C. C. FRENCH, Industrial Agent.

saved in each household. In Lafayette county, 96 per cent of the washing was done at home. The tub and washboard method was used by 29 per cent, hand-power machines by 34 per cent, 21 per cent had gasoline washing machines, and 16 per cent had machines operated by an electric motor. Clothes were handled 5 times on an average. The time for doing washing by motor power was approximately half of that used to do it by tub and washboard method.

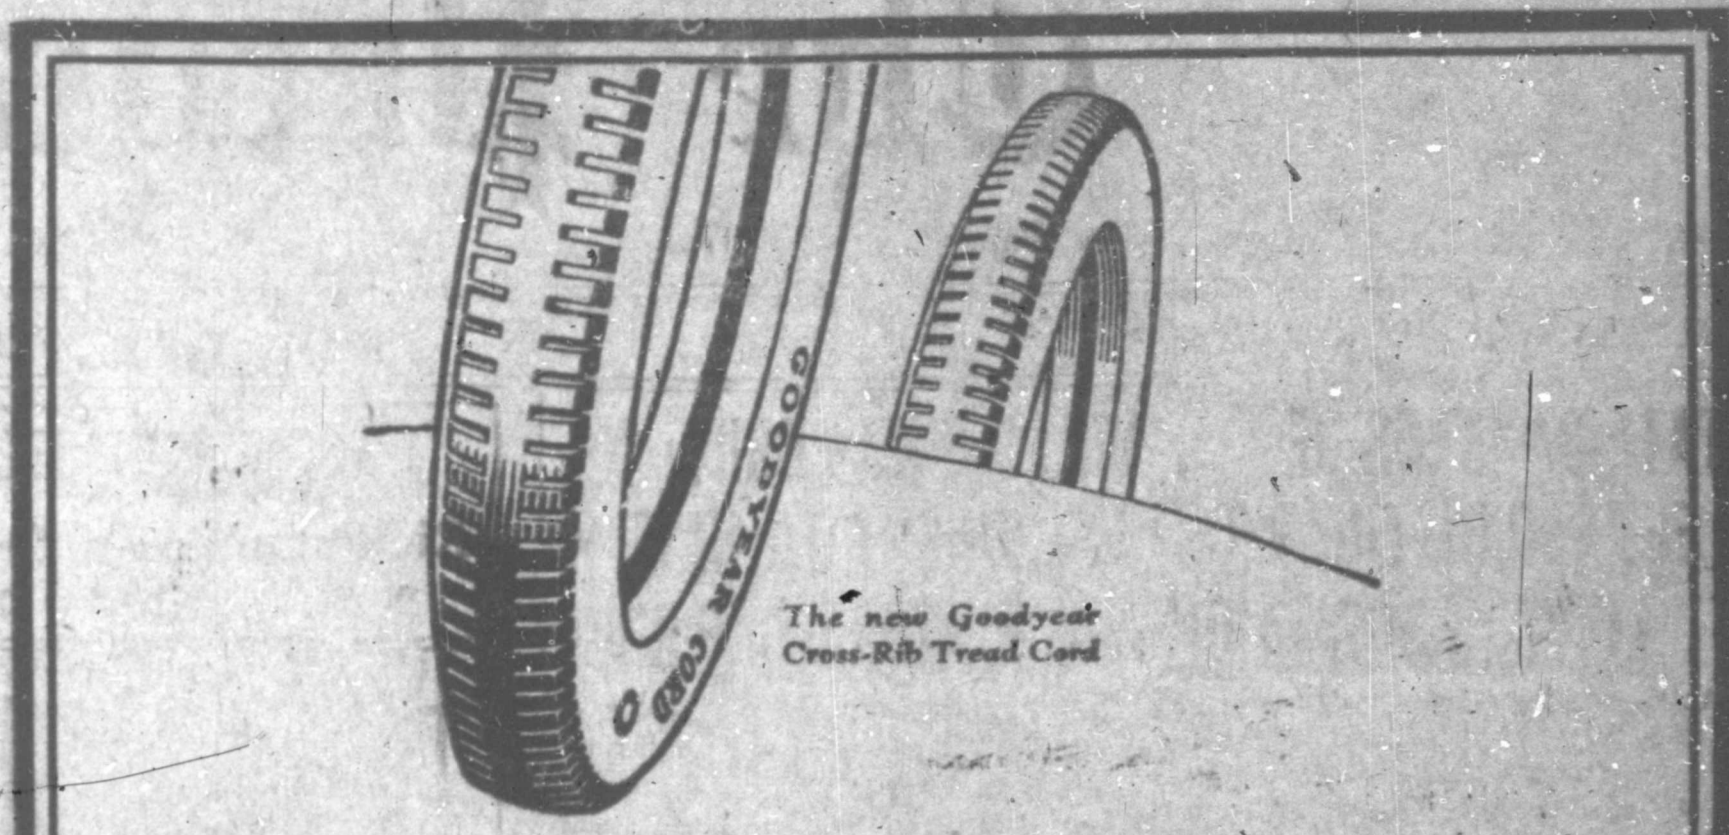

Similar comparisons between hand ironing, both with and without an electric iron, and ironing with a mangle, were made. To iron 25 pounds of clothes with an electric iron took 6 1/2 hours and cost 32 cents for electricity. To iron 25 pounds with a mangle took 1 hour and used current worth 39 cents.

MEMORABILIA

From Major Bomars Scrap Book:
My Dear Enterprise—

I wish to call your attention to an indigenous plant of the Pecos country that is quite valuable, even in its wild state and cultivation would undoubtedly add vastly to its value.

Every one in Pecos has noticed the small yellow flowers that grow so profusely in damp places along the fences. Mrs. J. W. Moore's lawn is almost covered with them like some immense green velvet carpet dotted and pinked with yellow stars, it is a vision of charm. This plant, the (Cyperus Esculentus) is known as the Chufa.

The yield is variable, under fair conditions from 100 to 200 bushels per acre may be expected. At the Arkansas Experiment station 184 bushels per acre was obtained. The Alabama Experiment station 172 bushels per acre was made.

In terms of pork produced, from 200 to 300 pounds per acre may be expected. One advantage of the Chufa is, that it does not rot if left in the ground for winter grazing, hogs get fat on them, and always leave enough small roots or tubers to reseed the land next spring. The taste of the dried nut is very agreeable, somewhat like fresh coconut and children follow the plow to gather and store them. Digestible nutrients in 100 pounds, (according to Professor Henry) of the following foods:

- Mangels 1 pound protein.
- Mangels 5 1/2 pounds carbohydrates.
- Chufas 0.6 protein; 9.11 carbohydrates; 5 1/2 pounds of fat.
- Sweet potatoes 0.8 pounds of protein; 22.9 pounds of carbony; 0.6 pounds of fat.

About 25 years ago, Captain Irvin carried a small bunch of hogs to an alfalfa pasture in Barstow, they either escaped or were stolen for no trace could be heard of them, but next spring wild hogs were reported in the bottom lands below the narrow drive, about nine miles from Barstow. On investigation they proved to be the bunch of hogs and a considerable increase that had escaped from Captain Irvin the year before. They had lived, waxed fat and multiplied on chufas.

FABULOUS RICHES

West Texas people talk about money and how to get it and a lot of us take a big chance sometimes in trying to get more gold. Some persons get gold for the joy of possessing it—but most people want money for the use they can make of it and love to accumulate it for the fascination of the struggle to get it.

Thirty gold coins, of the first series of gold coins ever minted by man, are dug up by American archaeologists in the buried ruins of Sardis, ancient city in Asia Minor.

These 30 coins were minted by Croesus, last of the kings of Lydia and first big international banker. You have heard the expression, "Rich as Croesus."

John D. Rockefeller could buy and sell Croesus at least a dozen times over. Yet Croesus' name endures on through the ages as the greatest symbol of wealth, in all important languages.

It was Croesus' ability in handling money, rather than his actual cash, that made his wealth proverbial.

The psychology of this is that people are less interested in possessing wealth than in getting more. That was Croesus' way. He could start with a shoestring and keep trading until he had a million.

Henry Ford's appeal to the popular imagination. There are several men in the world with about as much money as Ford. Yet they are seldom heard of.

Ford's wealth would not fire the average brain if he had inherited it. The glamor that surrounds his bank account is due to its being built up from practically nothing. Ford, you know, only a few years ago, ran a bicycle repair shop.

People, in their mad scramble for wealth, are more interested in accumulating more and more than in reaching any definite fortune. When it comes to wealth, most of us are insane—with a pronounced wealth-phobia.

Croesus became king when he was 35. This was in the sixth century B. C. He was a great conqueror and specialized in collecting tribute. Solon, famous Athenian sage and law-giver, was asked by Croesus: "Should not my vast wealth make me the happiest of men?"

Solon answered that no man is really happy who is yet alive. This, of course, was ridiculous cynicism—the "sour grapes" line of Big Talk frequently heard from financial failures today.

Socrates, the truly wise, if he had lived in Croesus' time and could have looked into the future 2500 years, would have said to Croesus:

"Money and gold are not the real wealth. Far ahead, in the year 1922, I see American workers. A far as money is concerned, you would call them impoverished."

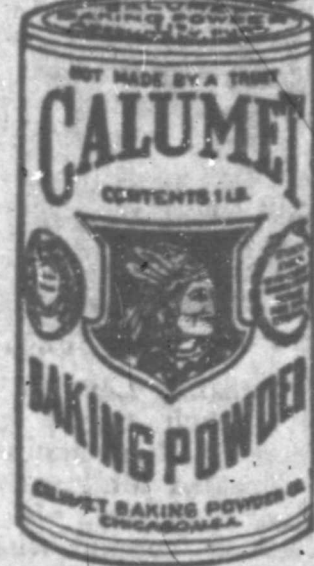

"Yet they have porcelain bathtubs."

The Toyah Lube Refinery

We proposed last week to start a refinery in the near future; when we said near future we didn't mean next year or even next month but we will start next week to install the refinery

We have land in fee which we are sub-dividing in lots of 1-10 of an acre each which we are selling for $10.00 per lot. Now these lots may be worth $10.00 and they may not be worth 10c but with each lot we give 10 units in the Toyah Lube

Refinery which will be run on a co-partnership plan and we believe these units will pay you larger dividends than a $10.00 investment in anything else we know of will.

We have been advised by oil stock promoters that an advertisement in the big papers would sell all the units desired before we could get started this way and that the units would be taken before an investigation would be made.

We invite an investigation of this project and believe we will be able to sell the greater portion of units to home people who know the facts. Therefore we are not unduly pushing the matter nor are we rushing the sale to anyone desiring to purchase before an investigation is made but we do wish to say that in our honest opinion the units will all be taken in a very short time when we say "Shoot."

CAN'T FOOL FARM BUREAU

We learn through the "New York World" that "Congress resents the $16,000,000 Farm Federation Lobby," this in a "special dispatch" which might be even deliberately aimed at the destruction of The American Farm Bureau Federation, now found very annoying to certain members of the national legislature who speak for interests opposed to agriculture.

A great hue and cry is raised about the enormous salaries paid to the personnel of the Farm Bureau Federation. J. R. Howard, the president, is quoted as receiving $15,000 a year, and the secretary, Mr. Cloverdale, receives $12,000; the treasurer and assistant secretary get $8,000; Gray Silver, the director, $12,000; and so runs the list covering the department of marketing, the legal department, the information department and so on.

It is shown that approximately $75,000 a year is spent in salaries. These "startling figures" may frighten the farmer, who has no conception of such fabulous salaries, and perhaps he may revolt, is of course the hope.

As a fact, the cost of the whole personnel does not foot up to the salary of any one of a hundred heads of the great business organizations who would like to destroy the Farm Bureau Federation, put an end to the farm bloc and yank the tiller of the soil back into the yoke.

It is said the Bureau has grafted itself upon the Federal organization; made possible the Smith Lever act; and is now the dictator of the farm bloc. If that be so, then Senators who form the bloc have operated much more efficiently in the interest of the heart of America than the independents who roll the pork barrel without discretion.

If there is anything wrong with the Farm Bureau it will be corrected, but the body will not be disintegrated.

The farmer has just felt his strength. He is merely stretching at the present time.

PUT A CRIMP IN CANADA

Surely it is time the American government pinched itself and put an end to the Canadian propaganda aimed at stripping the United States of its farming man power.

Publishers of weekly newspapers, particularly those in distinctly farming centers, are being bombarded with camouflaged news articles sent out by the Canadian government with the object of advertising Canadian agricultural possibilities right here in the United States.

The hope is that the publishers will print the matter not sensing its injurious effect on the agricultural interests they should fight to protect.

Here lies a splendid opportunity for Postmaster General Work to show his loyalty and relieve overburdened employees from excessive work.

The propaganda is disseminated in this country in the familiar O. H. M. S. (On His Majesty's Service) envelopes, the international franking privilege being used to undermine the development of this country.

In other words, American taxpayers are paying for postmen and rural free delivery men to distribute through the country Canadian propaganda directed openly against the interest of the American farmer and the American land owner.

There may be some question as to whether the Post Office Department, Congress, or the Secretary of State should act in the matter, but some one should act and without delay.

WHY TRADE AT HOME

An article appeared in the Church Booster, the new church paper the first issue of which appeared last week and of which mention is made in the editorial columns of this paper, carrying the above caption. The article is well worth the reading of every citizen of West Texas. "It is so simple a child could understand it, and what a child can comprehend should not go unheeded by adults," says the article and it is true and rings the bell at every stroke of the pen. But the thing that puzzles this editor is how on earth can any one write an article with such a true ring of common sense and justice and then send right away from his home town without consulting his home printer and have his paper printed. The Enterprise can do just as good and probably better work and is more than likely a much better shop than the one which printed this paper, yet this editor did not even know that such a paper was contemplated, until the first issue was circulated. The article in question follows and should be read by every reader of the Enterprise:

"Many people ask that question, but few trouble to seek the answer. "Why should people patronize their home merchants?"

"Because it is a great saving of time, and time today represents money."

"Because the home merchant can only remain in business through the patronage of home people, and a town without merchants would be a sorry place in which to live."

"Because the home merchant sells goods that do not have to be returned because of defects or inferiority of quality. It is the only way in which a local man can hold his trade."

"Because the local merchant is not in the habit of charging excessive prices. You may at times be able to get the same article elsewhere for a little less money, but the quality will invariably be reduced in proportion to the price. The local merchant cannot afford to sell "cheap" stuff. His customers would not tolerate it. Because the prosperity of a community depends upon the amount of money in circulation in the community, and that is regulated mainly by the marketing of surplus products abroad and the keeping of as much as possible of the receipts at home."

"Because a community that spends most of its money abroad for supplies soon finds that it has but little left for the purchase of additional supplies."

"It is so simple a child could understand it, and what a child can comprehend should not go unheeded by adults."

"Think it over. Thinking may accomplish much good. It certainly will do no harm."

THE CHURCH BOOSTER

A new publication under the above caption appeared in Pecos last week. This was Volume 1, Number 1, and consists of a neatly printed two color cover with twelve inside pages. It is put out by members of the Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Mr. Sparks, pastor of that church, is editor, J. A. Drane business manager and I. J. Sims advertising manager. It is full of good reading matter and carries an advertisement from practically every business establishment in our city. The Enterprise wishes it success.

ENTERPRISE EDITOR BRUTALLY BEATEN

On Saturday afternoon at about 4:30 the Enterprise editor was brutally beaten by a peace officer in the person of the City Marshal, M. L. Roddy. Had the editor known or anticipated that he was going to be attacked by Mr. Roddy the result would have been the same, since the fighting ability of the two would be about the same as that of a grizzly bear and mollie cottontail.

The beating administered was the result of the publication of the following paragraph in last week's Enterprise:

"Before reaching Sheriff Kiser the elder Litchfield asked that when they reached Pecos Attorney Jno. B. Howard be asked to come that he might employ his attorney, and naming three other parties, all residents of Pecos, asked that they be notified as bondsmen."

The editor appreciates the expressions of sympathy and the disapproval of the conduct of the peace officer in this affair from many of the best and most influential citizens of Pecos and friends elsewhere over the county.

B. H. RAMSEY CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Mr. B. H. Ramsey was arrested this week by deputy U. S. Marshal Emer Johnson and placed in the Pecos jail under orders from Federal authorities in Los Angeles, Calif. The Enterprise has been unable to get the information from the authorities but Mr. B. Ramsey, the uncle of B. H. Ramsey, gives the Enterprise the following information.

Mr. B. H. Ramsey was cashier of a bank in Willits, Calif., and loaned money in the sum of about $16,000 to a party, making the notes payable in three installments. The directors of the bank approved the loan, in which the man charged had no interest whatever. The first note became due and the interest was promptly paid. As much as three interest payments have been made on the notes in question and the loan approved by said directors. But as time passed it appears that the ability of the bank to collect these notes is now a mooted question, but could have been collected at other dates had the collection been pushed. In order to insure the collection the bank preferred charges of embezzlement which resulted as above.

Mr. Ramsey says that as a matter of fact they will be unable to sustain any of the charges against his nephew and that he will eventually be released. The matter of making his bond for appearance in the courts of California is now under way and is expected to be completed in the next day or so.

Suzanne Avenged—Now the Test

Miss Suzanne Lenglen, temperamental French tennis champion, who quit in her match against Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, American champion, last year, was avenged last week at London when in the English finals she won over Mrs. Mallory, 6-2, 6-4. An effort is now being made to have Suzanne come to the United States for a third and deciding match.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER
 Summer heat was forgotten when in response to an invitation from the Ad. of the First Baptist church the ladies of the church gathered to shower with good wishes and with expressions of appreciation; Mrs. W. K. Glascock, formerly Miss Carl Rutledge, one of June's loveliest brides.

A more beautiful setting for this affair could not have been found. The cool shaded lawn at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Garner, where graceful vines and brilliant hue flowers made a pleasing background.

The guests as they arrived were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Rowden, and after expressing good wishes in the bride's book presented over by Mrs. Heiner, were presented to the bride by Mrs. J. C. Wilson, in her own charming manner.

Mrs. Glascock wore a most becoming gown of beaded cotton crepe in the shade, and was never more beautiful. In the school room, in the Sunday school as a teacher, and in social circles she has endeared herself to both old and young.

The porch overlooking the lawn was made attractive by ferns and baskets of shasta daisies. Music from the Victrola was a pleasant accompaniment to the conversation.

Mrs. Slack, a favorite reader with Pecos people, gave a humorous selection, "The Printing of the Wedding Invitations," and so natural was her manner that it became almost realistic. But the climax of the afternoon came when old aunt Polly of Ante Bellum days discovered "Me's Glascock" on the lawn and rushed to her with a whole hearted welcome interspersed with bits of advice of how to manage a husband when he was in "a mode" and so characteristic of the old time back mammy.

"Dem two nigger chiluns" were instructed to assist her in taking "de clos" from the line, which she insisted looked "bran new", and to present them to the bride for her inspection. The picnicinies brought two baskets full.

Gifts of pyrex and of aluminum, cut glass, silver, hand painted china and linen speak of the popularity of the bride.

At the conclusion of the afternoon an apricot ice and nut cake were served by Mesdames, Camp, Ross, Harlen and Hicks.

A VALUABLE BOOK ON HORTICULTURE

Texas Agricultural Experiment Station B. Youngblood, Director.

"The lack of rational methods in the cultivation of trees, whether for fruit or other purposes, is especially noticeable in Texas farming, even though great proficiency has been attained through the accumulated experience of several generations in the care and cultivation of certain staple crops, such as cotton and corn. The beauty of the trees is a feature of great importance, not only from a sentimental point of view, but also from the actual enhancement in value, which it gives to the whole farm; yet the appreciation of the home-like comfort and hospitable appearance, which a little judicious planting will give to a farmstead, is frequently ignored by the rural population of our state. Consider the obvious advantages of fruits on the farm, it is amazing that the cultivation of any kind of fruits is so little practiced in our State that a great many farmers, and even whole communities, know neither the advantages of the enjoyment of fruit, nor the disadvantages of the lack of it; nor is it certain that the interest in fruit cult. in Texas is on the increase."

such exact and specific directions that the average farmer should have no difficulty in achieving reasonable success by simply following these terse instructions. Varieties found through research and long observation to be suitable, are noted and proper cultural treatment is prescribed for the various species. The outstanding forest trees, their value and adaptation to the several regions are discussed, as are the sundry ornamental trees; the causes of the decline in fruit culture in Texas; the present status of fruit culture on the Texas farm; cover crops for orchards; the situation of an orchard; woodlots for shelter, and planting of levees and river banks. In short, this is considered the complete and most valuable contribution to the horticultural needs of Texas farmers yet achieved by the Texas Experiment Station.

MELVIN DAMS KILLED

Tuesday evening friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dams were shocked to learn that their son, Melvin, had been killed at Pioneer, in the southwestern corner of Eastland county.

Melvin grew to manhood in our city, having come to Fort Stockton as a small boy with his parents, in 1910. During the World War he served as a volunteer in the Navy, and his record of service is excellent. There has not been a young man resident of this community who was more universally liked than he. After his return home he went to Pecos and had been employed with an oil well drilling crew in that vicinity until about a month ago, when the crew moved to the Pioneer fields. After a few days with his parents here he joined the crew there.

According to the most authentic information received, Melvin had gone to town from the rig where he was working. He stopped his car in front of the Texas Co.'s supply store, went in and transacted some business, and left the building. He immediately upon his turning the corner of the building a shot was heard, and when friends came up he was lying on the ground, mortally wounded, and he died about fifteen minutes later without regaining consciousness. It seems that a boy in a yard, adjacent to the supply store was working with a shotgun. As Melvin passed the place the boy "broke" the gun and closed it again, and as it closed it fired, striking Melvin, who was only about twelve feet away.

The body was prepared for shipment and was met at Monahan's Thursday morning, and brought to Fort Stockton for interment. A family vault is being constructed at Fort Hill Cemetery. The day and hour of funeral services will not be announced until it is determined when the vault can be completed.

The entire community is in sincere mourning, not only because of the deep regard felt for Mr. and Mrs. Dams, but for the true love felt for their son.—Fort Stockton Pioneer.

Head, et al, and placed in my hands for service, I, E. B. Kiser, a Sheriff of Reeves County, Texas, did, on the 3rd day of July, 1922, levy on certain Real Estate, situated in Reeves County, described as follows, to-wit:

The South one-half (S 1/2) of section No. Nine (9), in block C-20, Public School Survey, containing 320 acres of land in said Reeves County, Texas, and levied upon as the property of said defendant, J. A. Moore. And on Tuesday, the 1st day of August, 1922, at the Court House door of Reeves County, in the town of Pecos, Texas, between the hours of ten A. M. and four P. M. will sell said Real Estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said J. A. Moore, by virtue of said levy and said order of sale.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Pecos Enterprise, a newspaper published in Reeves County.

WITNESS my hand, this 3rd day of July, 1922.

E. B. KISER,
Sheriff Reeves County, Texas.

HAWTHORNE'S RHYTHM

He is a music-maker rather than phrase-maker in his use of words. Movement is more to him than metaphor, though he can combine them attractively, as in the opening sentence of "The Seven Vagabonds":

"Rambling on foot in the spring of my life and the summer of the year, I came one afternoon to a point which gave me the choice of three directions."

You may turn Hawthorne's pages almost at random, and you can scarcely help noticing example after example of this characteristic rhythm of his. It is noticeable even in such a simple narrative sentence as that with which "The Artist of the Beautiful" opens:

"An elderly man, with his pretty daughter on his arm, was passing along the street, and emerged from the gloom of the cloudy evening into the light that fell across the pavement from the window of a small shop."

This all seems to me to flow with something of the noble ease of Hamlet's yet without ever falling into the vices of pseudo-poetic prose. The mere sound of his sentences gives Hawthorne's prose a wonderful momentum that keeps us interested even when at times we begin to wonder if his subject-matter is quite as interesting as it ought to be. This queer and equable momentum is one of his greatest technical qualities. It is quality that cannot be adequately illustrated in single sentences or detached passages, because its success is not the success of occasional felicities but of something sustained and pervasive. It may even be imputed as a fault to Hawthorne that he can never, or almost never, escape from the equable rhythm of his prose. He seldom ends a story with the slightly different momentum due to an ending. It is not merely, however, that his stories end quietly; he is like a rider who rides beautifully but does not know how to dismount. He maintains his graceful ease of motion until the last moment, and then he slides off as best he can.

But it would be folly to regard Hawthorne's rhythm as wholly—or even mainly—a technical quality. The rhythm of prose is never that, and it is in vain to play the sedulous ape to the great master if nothing but their style is imitated. It is not an accident that the greatest English prose is to be found in the Bible. The rhythm of a Plato, a Milton, a Sir Thomas Browne, is inevitably of a kind that Jane Austen or a Thackeray, with all their genius, could never achieve. It is the echo of the emotion felt by men to whom time and place are fables with another meaning on the surface. The realists can never write the greatest prose, because to them the world they see is not fabulous but a hard fact. The greatest writers all see the world as fabulous.—Robert Lynd, in the New Statesman.

THINKING ON STATEWIDE TEXAS

A contemporary recalls that, when the 80's were still young, there was published the tale of a boy, Iver-like in that he was of imagination all compact, who by merely "thinking North" could vastly better play Eskimo. If he fancied a torrid, but brief career, as a sun-tanned islander, all he had to do was to "think South." Indeed, so far as naturally limited knowledge allowed, he had only to turn his mental compass to enter into whatsoever role, and quite to the manner born.

Now, Texas Commercial News wants Texans to quit thinking North, South, East and West, and think of Texas as a magnitudinous and perfect whole. Even the world has in recent years discovered itself to be all a part of the same thing.

Texas is all a part of the same thing. It should know neither direction nor section. The section and wheat and corn and cattle that grow and live and move and have their being in the Texas Panhandle all pay tribute to the South Texas ports, and these ports in turn receive the vast overseas commerce for which the Panhandle products are exchanged.

As far northwest as Abilene, during the past week, the writer has found that sons of the first two men he encountered are students at Rice Institute in Houston, and they are just as proud of the achievements as they are of what Abilene has accomplished. West Texas is radiant with brides from East Texas, and North Texas is equally blest with the bloom and fragrance of the American Beauty who lived in South Texas until she married. And South Texas as and East Texas, in exchange for these brides, have received a fair recompense in beauty and charm.

So when we travel north, south, east or west, let's think Texas. It's alright to refer to subdivisions of Texas, as the rivers make them, but let's cut out North and South and East and West organizations. Let's get together and have one Chamber of Commerce for the entire State, with sufficient zones to handle local problems. Let's have one organization for wholesalers, one for retailers, one for manufacturers, one for grain growers, one for hay makers, etc. These organizations can all operate through zones, so that the great diversity of the State's far flung interests may receive district as well as statewide study.—Texas Commercial News.

BABY FINGERS

Not long ago the owner of a swell apartment in New York City brought suit for damages against a tenant because there were baby finger prints on the wall paper.

We know a strong man who lost a baby girl at the age of eighteen months. Several mornings after the little one had been laid in the bosom of Mother Earth, the man found himself alone in the home, for the mother and the rest of the family had been sent away for a rest and a change of scene. The man was thought to be cold and unsympathetic because he did not wear his heart upon his sleeve and never gave way to his emotions in public. On this morning he awoke in a home that was desolate and still. The sound of the baby's dishes and pans in the kitchen was not heard. Only the solemn tick of the clock in the bedroom broke the heavy silence that settled like a pall over the deserted and empty home. The man arose and dressed and went down stairs. He stepped into the library to get his hat where he had tossed it on the couch the night before. The warm summer sunlight streamed through the windows and as the man stooped to pick up his hat his eyes fell upon something that sent a shudder through his being and caused a lump to rise in his throat and choke him. There on the glass door of a bookcase, scarcely three feet from the floor, were the prints of a baby's fingers. This man whom others thought cold and unsympathetic fell upon his knees, buried his face in the couch and sobbed like a little child. Ah, yes! The print of a baby's finger may irritate a landlord when he finds them on the wallpaper in the flat he rents to another, but the print of a father's finger will break a father's heart when the little one has gone away. It is the custom of cities to refuse to rent to a family with children. It is quite the thing for the idle rich to avoid entrance of babies into the family circle. It is even considered smart by social climbing wives and lazy ladies of selfish habits to sympathize with the girl who is kept home by the presence of a baby. But oh, listen! Long, long ago, Jesus said; "Suffer little children and forbid them not, to come unto me; for such is the kingdom of heaven."

Of all the mural decorations that ever adorned a frieze or stained a pane of glass the most beautiful is the print of a baby's finger.—Ex.

THE CHILD'S ENEMIES

All investigations should begin with and be for the benefit of the child. The population of the United States today would be fifteen or twenty millions more had it not been for the neglect of the parents and the municipal governments. More than fifteen or twenty millions of children have been born in the United States in the past fifteen or twenty years, who have died because of criminal, domestic, and municipal neglect.

We belong to the brass-band procession in works of superficiality. We are excessive talkers, but are rather meagre in labors of worthwhile investigations.

We hate the drudgery of patient, toiling investigating for the protection of our children. We have criminally neglected the child prior to birth and immediately following his entrance into the world.

We are perfectly willing for Congress to vote millions of dollars to fight diseases now destroying our hogs, sheep, cattle, and horses, but we have spent one hundred years preventing Congress from voting an appropriation to stamp out the diseases destroying our children.

We are perfectly willing for Congress to pass an appropriation from which we can get financial benefit, but we cry economy if Congress tries to pass an appropriation to stamp out the murderers of our children.

We are blowing trumpets and congratulating ourselves about the magnificent work we are doing along lines of sanitation, but we are doing practically nothing to eradicate the great venereal diseases that are affecting and staining ninety-two per cent of the population of the United States.

There is a cotinuous stream from the cesspools of society flowing through the yards and municipal governments of this country poisoning the lives of our children and training the characters of our boys and girls.

Before we used antitoxins in diphtheria five out of every ten cases died. Now, with the use of antitoxins only one out of ten die.

People who fight vaccination and other methods by which children are made immune to disease are the enemies of our children. They are the curses of society, and they ought to be incarcerated.

The time has come to spend any amount of money that might be necessary to give to this land boys and girls whose bodies and minds are absolutely perfect.

WHAT OF AMERICA?

There was probably never a time in the history of this nation when lawlessness was so rampant as at this time. This editor can remember the time when in San Antonio the merchants picked the change of a purchase price and the bill presented from a barrel which set behind the counter and into which gold, silver, bills, nickels and dimes were dumped. Were that custom in vogue today not a store using this method would have enough money in twenty-four hours to flag a bread wagon. Robbers would loot every store in the country. This writer can remember the time as distinctly as if yesterday that his father rode horseback from Hamilton county to San Antonio and forty miles east in Guadalupe county where he was paid the sum of one thousand dollars due him in silver dollars. He put this money in a seamless sack, placed it on his horse, mounted and rode to Hamilton county, a distance of some three hundred miles unmolested. How far would he get if he undertook the same feat today?

Right at our own doors it appears that it is now necessary for a man to get up his work and submit it to a band of thugs in order to get their approval before he goes further unless he is in line with a loaded Gatling gun and prepared to shoot down like a dog any who may approach him.

This unrest and lawbreaking element can be found in every nook and corner of these United States if newspaper reports can be depended upon. The time is near at hand when a change from this situation has per force got to be brought about or the foundation of our civilization is forever gone to the howl. It can't be possible that the lawless element are in the majority, but it must be conceded that they will dare to do almost anything and that without fear of punishment anything like adequate to the crime committed. Human life seems to be at a lower ebb now than at any time in the history of the nation. The probable solution of the whole matter is leadership. The lawabiding element seem to have no leaders who will say "the laws shall be enforced." Right here at home we can look and see the whole matter. In days past Pecos had big hearted, honest, Godfearing men as leaders, who would dare to do. Now there is none who will take the lead and say that the laws must be enforced. The following article which will give Enterprise readers an idea of this subject as given by more able counsel than this editor which as clipped from an exchange follows:

The editorial, "What of America?" printed in a morning edition of The Kansas City Star last week, attracted widespread attention among the readers. People called by telephone to commend the editorial. They stopped at The Star office to speak of it. And many letters have been received regarding it. Sunday many Kansas City ministers made it their sermon topic.

They have buried their dead in Illinois, and American civilization is composing its face to that bland expression that has come to be its main reliance against all questioning, all charges and all doubts.

But questioning and doubt are not buried. They can neither be shot to death nor assured by the smooth countenance of society through whose hasty make-up show the scars and ulcers of a raging disease.

Americans must answer the question, what of America?

It is being asked today all over this broad continent; asked by Americans; asked in shame, humiliation and fear. Their country, their democracy, their laws, institutions and civilization are under indictment and the indictment goes unanswered.

Only the other day we sent the flower of our young manhood across the seas to fight for liberty. Did we send them to the right place? Was our liberty secured on those European battle fields, or is it here, at home that it faces an enemy in arms?

Obedience to law is liberty. So stands it written over the door of our court houses. Can Americans read that solemn injunction and fail to acknowledge to themselves that tested by it there is no liberty in America?

There is no liberty where there is no law. There is no liberty where there is no protection for life or property. There is no liberty where there is no respect for human rights, where justice can not be invoked both for the security of society and the punishment of its enemies.

What of America? While that murder was being done in Illinois, a court and jury were delivering the judgment that no crime was committed when the public funds of that state were diverted from the public treasury.

Last year in London, a city of 7 million people, there were nine murders. In Chicago there were 150. In every American city known criminals walk the streets unmolested. In every American city crime goes unpunished, criminals walk unscathed from the dock and amid public plaudits while bold graft and flaunting vice enthroned in every political place bow graceful and pleased acknowledgment.

What of America? Rich, luxury loving, money grubbing, politically corrupt, lawless America. Land of liberty, land of sacrifice, land of soldier dead, of patriot devotion, of patriot ideals sealed on so many heroic fields, watched over now by no spirit of America, but only by the cold inanimate monuments that are American's last remaining sentinels.

The most lawless country in the world. A country of universal cynicism, skepticism and inhuman materialism. A country that raises a stately memorial to Abraham Lincoln and forgets, or openly jeers at his teaching. A country where class hates class and class arms against class shooting and lynching and burning and dynamiting while the law looks on and the public is so indifferent that it even looks away. A country that throws open its gates to alien criminal and alien lunatic, to anarchist, bomber and hired assassin, and where few Americans are born, few vote and few lead.

And of shotgun, dagger and bomb—America! Land of lawless might, of cruelty, injustice and ribald laughter; of sneers at morality, wrinkles at patriotism and open admiration of triumphant wrong.

What of America? What of its liberty and laws, its beliefs, faiths, sobriety and gravity of thought and action that were the America of old? If this republic could not endure half slave and half free, can it endure half law abiding and half lawless? Is there no leadership left to this land, on which so much of the last hope of humanity is fixed, to point out the course it is traveling and to call upon it with the voice of a Washington or a Lincoln or a Roosevelt to stay?

WHAT OF AMERICA?

HOMELY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

Six thousand nine hundred divorces granted in one court in Chicago in one year and the city newspapers record as the important result that the Judge has collapsed from the strain. The collapse of a thousand judges isn't comparable to the collapse of six thousand nine hundred homes and the lowering of the moral fibre of thirteen thousand eight hundred men and women, not to say a word about the children. Talk about happiness being the keystone of human development may be all right, but we don't get gold we can use till the ore is crushed and washed and the metal shot through the refining furnace. If ninety-five per cent of these trail love birds were made to see that a marriage license is not a scrap of paper we might produce a healthier and more self-reliant race.

President Harding took a summer vacation trip home to Marion, Ohio, this month and here is what happened the day he arrived. Dr. G. T. Harding, father of the president, went out behind the chicken house, performing that well-known execution (as shown here), which meant his boy was to have chicken for dinner—a big "yaller leg" that went fine with mashed potatoes, cream gravy and hot biscuits.

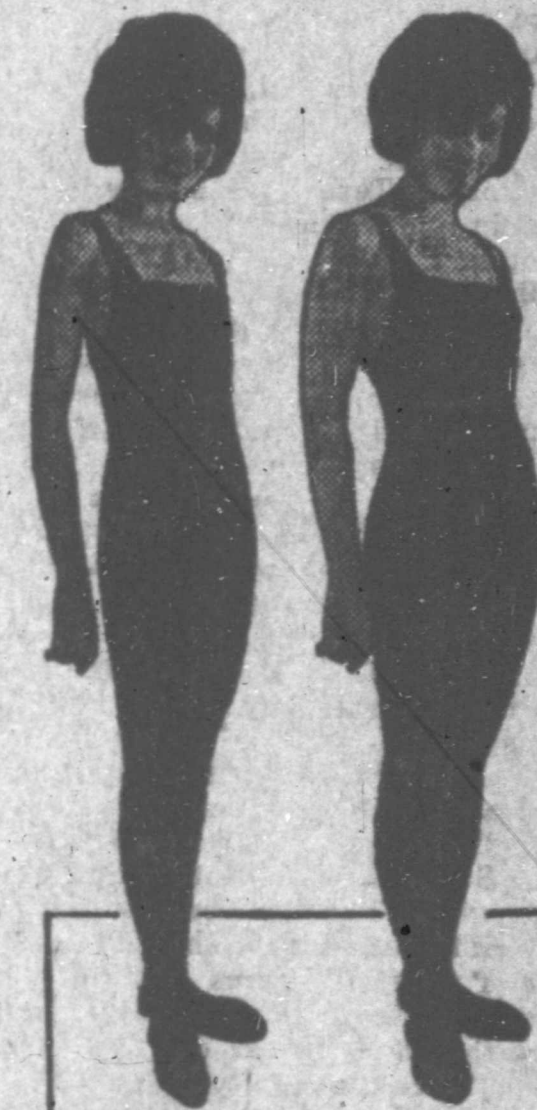

FINANCIAL SUPPORT SHOWS CONFIDENCE IN METHODS

In the course of 26 poisoning demonstrations held in Lane county, Wash., between March and June, to show the method of controlling the "gray digger," about 6,000 pounds of strychnine-coated barley were fed to the ground squirrels. Thousands of moles, pocket gophers, and skunks were also destroyed. The encouraging feature of this campaign from the point of view of the Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture and the extension agent who cooperated in the demonstrations was that the Lane county authorities and the local agricultural council each provided $250 toward the undertaking, and business houses, railroads, and farmers all cooperated in the substantial manner known as "going down into their pockets," with the result that the county is now almost cleaned up.

"Gold! Gold!"

Back in the '40's it took months for the thrilling news of California's gold strike to cross the continent. Today, a few hours after so important a discovery, the entire story would be known to newspaper readers through the country.

In the early days, news spread by word of mouth. Today, the telegraph and telephone speed the message in to the newspaper office, it is rushed into type, the paper is printed and shortly the news becomes public property.

There are two kinds of news in the paper. One consists of the affairs of other people; their saving, doing and what they're going to do; things that have happened, may happen and didn't happen.

The other kind of news is about your affairs. That's the part you'll find in the advertisements. There's a lot of valuable news there about things you want or will want; things that have to do with your own personal comfort, convenience and every-day efficiency.

Every advertisement carries a personal message to some one. Many advertisements carry messages of vital interest or value to you.

That's why you can't afford to miss the advertisements.

Read them. The advertisements are decidedly valuable to you.

THE STATE HIGHWAY MEETING
In a very able discussion of the highway situation in Texas the Dallas News says:
"Whether the special meeting of the Texas Highway Association that is to be held in Galveston August 4 has a special purpose is not indicated in the dispatch reporting the fact of its having been called. It is remarked that the members of the executive committee, which issued the call, are unanimously opposed to the demand of the League of Municipalities that the cities be given a share of the license fee fund. But the likelihood of that proposal's being adopted by the Legislature can hardly be regarded as great enough to justify a special meeting of the association to prepare a plan of campaign against it. The probability is that it is the purpose of those who called the special meeting to bring under consideration the whole question of what should be sought in the way of legislation relating to highway construction."

Reference to a dispatch sent out from Fort Worth, Saturday by the Texas Highway Association shows that this is precisely the purpose of the meeting. The board of directors of the association has no fear that the Legislature will pass or even consider a bill further dividing the automobile license fees, but inasmuch as the Texas League of Municipalities dignified the proposal by appointing a committee to consider it, the members of the board felt that it was advisable to let the people of Texas know just how the association stands on that proposal. That is why a resolution condemning the proposal was adopted.

The dispatch sent out Saturday, among other things, says:
"The legislative committee of the Texas Highway Association, which was named by the board of directors at Waco Monday, has begun a study of the statutes and the Constitution of Texas, as they relate to highways with the object in view of reporting back to the association a full legislative program to be presented to the next session of the Legislature. The committee, of which Judge Hugh L. Small, county judge of Tarrant county, is chairman, will report to the Statewide convention of the association, which will be held at Galveston August 4 and 5."

Matthew, Martin E. Becka, by making publication of this writ once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Reeves County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof, in Pecos, Texas, on the 20th day of November, A. D. 1922, in suit No. 217, wherein J. Young Bell is plaintiff and Sunshine Oil Corporation, et al. are defendants, and said plaintiff alleges in substance that on the 25th of June, 1918, the plaintiff executed a certain oil and gas lease contract therein he leased to E. L. Stratton and Alfred Tinsley Sections 18 and 20, the NW 1/4 of 21, all of 22 and 23, in Block 24, Twp. 2, S. 4, R. 4, Co. survey, and the SE 1/4 of Section 19, in Block 33, H. & T. Co. survey, all in Loving County, Texas. That said lease was made for the purpose of prospecting said lands for oil and gas and other minerals; that said Stratton and Tinsley agreed to drill a well upon some portion of said lands within one year after the execution of said contract, or to commence and drill with due diligence a well in the general locality of said lands. That by depositing ten cents per acre on said lands in the First National Bank of Pecos, Texas, on each anniversary of said lease, twelve months from same, but not to exceed three years from said date. That said lease contract was assigned to Sunshine Oil Corporation and by it sold to the other defendants herein.
That defendants elected to pay the annual rental during the period of the lease and not to drill said wells, and that no well for oil or gas has ever been drilled on said premises, or in the general locality of same by the parties to said contract nor said defendants. That said contract has long since expired and plaintiff has not renewed the same. That notwithstanding same, all the defendants herein are claiming some interest in said lands, in armed and claiming plaintiff's title, and plaintiff wants to cancel said lease contract and remove said cloud from his title.
Herein fail not, but have before said court at the aforesaid regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and seal of said court at office in Pecos, Texas, this 20th day of June, A. D. 1922.

HOT DAYS—HERE AND THERE
"We sizzle in the livin' room, an' smother on the porch. Old Sol is mighty reckless with his pesky little torch! But soon we'll roll from under, an' there'll be the twilight breeze, till we get around an' wonder if there's better days than these.
A feller ort to think about the everlastin' flame, in the pit that's so infernal, that I hate to write its name.—But they tell us it is so real, an' we got to run the chance of payin' fer our meanness, where they wear asbestos pants!
It's foolishness to grumble when the sun's a little hot, with nothin' wuss to bother, than to hunt a cooler spot—while we face a possibility that's likely to occur, of sweatin' on, ferever, in the place we're headed fer.
So—we better be contented with the tan that's on our hide,—it beats the conflagration where they serve a feller—fried! An' I had ruther linger where the weather's apt to change, than to settle down fer ages, to a deathless cookin'-range!"

after the board of directors has passed upon the program which it proposes. Other members of the committee are Clifford B. Jones of Spur, Robert J. Potts of Waco, Cone Johnson of Tyler and Howard Bland of Taylor. The committee is authorized to add others to its personnel and to obtain whatever legal advice it may require.
It is announced also that "the committee desires that any suggestion that any citizen of Texas may wish to make with respect to the highway situation and legislation calculated to meet it, be sent to the secretary-treasurer, William T. Wheeler of Fort Worth. The committee is going into the whole situation in Texas and is drawing up a full legislative program with respect to highways."

In view of this the importance of the meeting at Galveston can not be exaggerated. Because the public mind is now occupied by the various political campaigns it will probably be difficult to arouse the people to its full significance. But the meeting ought to be representative of the entire State and every progressive citizen should take an active interest in its success. More important than the matter of making suggestions to the legislative committee is that of obtaining as widespread interest in the meeting itself as possible. The smaller newspapers of the State could do nothing better for the State's welfare at present than to keep this meeting and its object before their readers and to urge that the leading citizens of their communities join the association and have a delegation on hand at Galveston.

The board fixed the date of the meeting with the deliberate purpose of avoiding even the semblance of politics. The primary election will be over and the personnel of the new Legislature will be known. This will be largely true also with respect to the county judges and the members of the commissioners' courts. These officials would be serving the State by attending the meeting and getting a first hand impression of what the leading advocates of a State highway system believe is necessary to put Texas in line with the progressive States.

The Galveston meeting can be made the real beginning of a new era in highway construction in Texas as if all friends of good highways get behind it. Texas faces what is nothing less than a highway crisis, and no time must be lost in devising ways and means of meeting it.—Star-Telegram.

FOUR THOUSAND PAPERS GO OUT OF BUSINESS

Records recently compiled show that more than 4,000 newspapers of various sizes have suspended publication in the United States during the past four years. A printing journal ascribes to the rapidly mounting cost of publication, estimating that the cost of publishing a newspaper is now 300 per cent on an average above what it was fifteen years ago, most of the increase coming since the outbreak of the war. Time was when a man of no experience worth mentioning and a handful of type and a G. Wash. press considered himself a newspaper man and with a mission to reform the universe. In the general change of conditions the printing business has reached the level of a real business and that one requires brains as well as money to make it go. In the end it will be a survival of the fittest.—Exchange.

Always be yourself.—Truculent Bill Collector—"Are you Mr. Smith?" Mr. Smith (meekly)—"No, sir, I'm my roommate."—Record.

SCHOOL BOARD ELECTS R. B. NORMAN SUP'T.

At a meeting of the school board one day this week Prof. R. B. Norman was elected superintendent of the Pecos Public Schools. Prof. Norman was principal last year and his service were so very good that he was selected this year after the resignation of Superintendent Rutledge from a large number of applicants for that position.

That the school board has made a splendid selection is hardly to be doubted. Prof. Norman has taught for at least six years and every school he has ever taught has been pronounced a success. As principal in Pecos last year he won the plaudits from the best of our people as one altogether capable and worthy. He is a splendid gentleman, courteous, affable and obliging, and is believed to be a born educator. The Enterprise wishes here to congratulate Prof. Norman in securing the situation and the school board in the selection.

The balance of the faculty will stand as announced in these columns some time ago.

Dr. Camp, one of the board, states that it will be necessary for the board to economize to the limit in order to continue the school the full nine months. It will also be necessary that every patron of the school lend that institution all the moral support within their power. The school is one of the necessities of every live town and the better the school the more will outsiders want to locate there. Besides the future of the town hinges largely upon the school, from that institution comes the leaders of tomorrow.

Let's all get behind our school and do our part toward making this the very best school year in the history of that institution.

DR. W. F. STARLEY.

The citizens of Pecos were shocked on Tuesday afternoon when the news was spread that Dr. W. F. Starley had passed on into the other world. He had been ill for the past week or more and seriously ill, but few of our people were prepared to hear such news. Dr. Starley was a quiet, unassuming gentleman, cordial and warm hearted, and made friends of all with whom he came in contact. The brief history of this venerable old pioneer which follows shows that he was one of the pioneers of the Republic as well as of the State and helped to make it habitable to those of us who are here today.

He passed away Tuesday at about 5 p. m. at the home of his son, Judge J. E. Starley in Pecos. The funeral services were conducted by his pastor, the Rev. L. L. Thurston, at the residence after which the body was taken in charge by the Masonic lodge of which he was an honored member, and laid to rest in Fairview Cemetery with their impressive ceremony.

William Franklin Starley was born September 4, 1843 near Nacodoches, Texas, the son of Dr. Silas F. Starley, a pioneer physician, who had immigrated to Texas from Alabama at a very early age. Shortly after the birth of the deceased the family moved to Fairfield, Texas where they resided until after the close of the Civil War.

Dr. W. F. Starley entered the Confederate Army at the age of eighteen and served until the close of the war, taking part in many important engagements.

After the war he studied medicine and was graduated from the Long Island Hospital and Medical College in the spring of 1871. The same year he was married to Miss Louise Karner at Fairfield, Texas, the niece of Mr. John Karner, a Texas pioneer and survivor of the Battle of San Jacinto.

They removed from Fairfield to Mexia, Texas, shortly after their marriage, where many years of his professional life were spent and where his children were born, and where he occupied a commanding position in the social and professional life of the community. In his early days Doctor Starley became affiliated with the Masonic Fraternity and occupied many positions of honor and trust over a long period in that organization.

Later Dr. Starley removed to East Texas with his family and resided at Tyler, where he did an active practice. Several years ago he retired from active practice and for the past several years has resided mainly in West Texas and New Mexico, coming to Pecos and making his home with his son, Judge J. E. Starley for the past year.

Dr. Starley survived his wife about five years, she having died in 1917.

Four children were born to the family, two of whom survive him, Dr. W. F. Starley, Jr., of Galveston and Judge J. E. Starley of Pecos. Surviving also are a brother and three sisters and other relatives in Texas, principally located at Tyler and Mexia.

Dr. Starley became identified with the Methodist church about twenty years ago and has been a devout and faithful member of that christian organization. Throughout his long and active life Doctor Starley was a man of high ideals and great determination and was unwavering in his devotion to his friends and patients, and the great esteem in which he is held in the cities where the major portion of his life was spent is eloquent testimony to the sterling qualities that were developed in a rugged career beginning in the pioneer days of the Republic of Texas.

The Enterprise joins a host of friends in extending sincere sympathy to the bereaved in this hour of their bereavement.

BAPTIST NEWS NOTES

There will be no preaching at the Baptist Church Sunday since the pastor is to be away. All other services will be as usual. Let there be no letting up in any thing pertaining to the Lord's work. The Methodist meeting will still be in progress and you will have a chance to worship with them.

Quite a few Pecos people will be in attendance on the Paisano Encampment which begins Saturday, July 22. Paisano is located on the Southern Pacific Railroad between Alpine and Marfa. It is five thousand one hundred feet above sea level which makes it delightfully pleasant. The Baptist have secured a thousand acres of land there covered with beautiful oaks and other trees. They have built a reservoir there and supplied plenty of water; a large tabernacle has been erected and electric lights and tents are on the grounds. An eating place has been arranged and all other equipment necessary to make it a desirable place to go for a good rest and at the same time enjoy a great program of speaking and music as well as have the fellowship of many old and new friends. Those going will need to carry bedding, and plenty of it or sleep cold.

If you cannot go and stay the whole time go for part of the time. It will be worth your while. The meeting will last until July 30th. Everybody is welcomed to attend. In fact we urge all who can go. Men like Truett, Gates, Brooks, Hardy, Sandefur, Brown, Groner, Neal, Neff and others will stir your soul. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will manage the music to the satisfaction of all. Go.

J. M. GARNER, Pastor.
