

RETURNED TO U.S. — Accused hijacker Nikola Kavaja, center shackled and handcuffed, is escorted by federal marshals to arraignment at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey Friday. Kavaja and the hijacked plane were returned to the base early this morning.

Hijacker returned to United States

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (AP) — An anticommunist Serb who hijacked an American Airlines jet with 135 persons aboard earlier this week was returned to the United States today on the same Boeing 707 that he forced to fly him to Ireland. Nikola Kavaja was led off the plane in handcuffs shortly after his arrival here on a flight from Shannon, Ireland, where he arrived on Thursday and was ordered deported early today. Kavaja was not allowed to talk to reporters as he was taken to be arraigned on an arrest warrant issued because he failed to appear for sentencing Thursday for the 1975 bombing of the home of Yugoslavia's consul in Chicago. His hijacking odyssey began Wednesday when he commandeered a jetliner on a flight from New York to Chicago, where he was to have been sentenced. U.S. Magistrate Stephen M. Orloffsky ordered Kavaja returned to Chicago and officials said he would be flown to Illinois aboard a chartered airplane after the arraignment was completed. Five Irish policemen guarded Kavaja and his American lawyer, Deyan Brashich, on today's flight to the United States. The jet was flown by the same volunteer crew that took it to Ireland on Thursday. One of the Irish guards, Deputy Superintendent Pat Docey, said Kavaja was "very calm and relaxed. He might have dozed for a short time." At his arraignment, Kavaja was asked if he understood his right to remain silent. Brashich, who translated for Kavaja, quoted his client as responding: "I know that and I will make no comments or any statements or answers to any questions."

When asked if he was tired, Kavaja said: "I have not slept for four days. What kind of country is this? America is not a communist country." He asked that the hearing be rescheduled until Saturday morning, but Orloffsky rejected the request. The Irish government announced early today that it was sending Kavaja and his lawyer back, even though Ireland has no extradition treaty with the United States. The pair apparently were deported as illegal immigrants.

Agenda items dispute to be discussed at council meeting

A dispute about how items end up on the agenda for the Big Spring City Council may result in a change in the rules at the regular Tuesday meeting. Several weeks ago Councilman John Massey requested that Mayor Wade Choate place two previously considered items on the council agenda. Saying that the items had already been properly discussed, the mayor refused. The council will consider changing the policy. No alternate plan was specified in the agenda for the meeting. The council will also consider a request to the Federal Government to conduct an account and inventory of former Webb Air Force Base property at the Big Spring Industrial Park. Councilman Bill Henkel made the proposal at the last meeting of the council, but because it had not been specified on the agenda, members had to wait until Tuesday to formally consider it. In other business, councilmen will: —Consider increasing the monthly car allowance for Police Department Detectives using their own vehicles. —Accept a petition concerning the construction of fishing docks at Moss Lake. —Consider a second and final reading of an ordinance amending the city's taxicab ordinance. —Appoint a new member of the Board of Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District. —Consider a zone change request made by Clyde McMahon. —Present service awards. —Consider a livestock request submitted by James W. Doss. —Vote on the second and final reading of a resolution authorizing the mayor to execute a lease agreement with Tentex Broadcasting, Inc., owners of KBYG Radio Station. —Consider limiting the use of city vehicles for personal use and out of city use. —Appoint a new member to the Zoning Board.

Carter keeps promise to truckers

Farmers' diesel priority ends

The White House announced plans today to end the federal rule giving farmers priority in obtaining diesel fuel, apparently so it can be diverted to independent truckers. Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said President Carter ordered an end to the rule. The action followed the worst day of violence yet in the strike by the nation's 100,000 independent truckers. The president's action followed his promise Thursday to make more diesel available to the striking truckers, who have complained of fuel shortages. Bullets tore into more than three dozen rigs in 18 states Thursday. Other trucks were pounded by rocks, run off the road, set afire or plagued by nails strewn on roads. In Idaho, drivers had to make their way around two trees set across a highway. Rupert Welch, a spokesman for the American Trucking Associations, said in Washington today that more than 40 percent of the hauling capacity of regulated carriers had been stopped by the strike and by fuel problems. Welch said the 40 percent plus shutdown figure — "a ballpark estimate" — was a couple of days old and that the percentage probably was higher today. He said the shutdown had been across the board — both among the irregular route carriers, who haul goods from factories to distribution points, and those who have regular routes between trucking terminals. Refrigerator trucks, which carry meats and frozen vegetables, have been among the hardest hit by the shutdown, and another major casualty are the moving lines, which depend almost entirely on contracts with independent owner-operators, he said. In the incidents Thursday, two men were injured — one critically — when their tractor-trailer rig swerved off Interstate 64 east of Mount Vernon in southern Illinois after the right tire was shot out, state police said. Officers said John Kelley, 26, of Florissant, Mo., was in critical condition at a hospital with a back injury, and Barry Awalt, 32, of St. Louis was admitted for observation. The Tennessee Highway Patrol said driver Don Collins was shot in the arm early today after he got a call on his citizens band radio that one of his wheels was loose and he got out to check it. Meanwhile, in Chelsea, Mass., about 80 rigs parked bumper-to-bumper today to shut down the New England Producer Center, and state police arrested more than a dozen persons, many of them protest leaders. The remaining drivers cleared away from the gate after the arrests, but left their trucks. The truckers' strike called to protest rising diesel prices and dwindling supplies, load regulations and the 55-mph speed limit, also tightened its grip on the nation's supply lines for fuel and food. Five poultry producers cut back operations in Georgia, chickens were drowned and eggs smashed in Tennessee for lack of transportation. North Carolina's cucumber crop was rotting, milk was dumped in Pennsylvania and cotton piled up in Louisiana warehouses. "At least half of the potato people up and down the East Coast aren't even digging potatoes," said Raymond Martin, a reporter for the U.S. Agriculture Department. "I don't think they are doing anything because of the strike." In California, air freight and railroad carriers were forced to turn away millions of dollars in orders for lack of space in the crunch to get to market. Some producers were paying premium prices to shippers who could deliver. "What transportation we've been able to find in the way of trucks we have to pay almost double the price," said Tom Powell, vice president of E.R. Albergotti Inc., a Salem, Va., producer. Meat packers asked President Carter for armed guards on their trucks and the head of the Food Marketing Institute, which represents half the nation's grocers, asked him to give the protesting truckers some relief. Carter called Thursday for a quick end to the protest and said he had instructed the FBI to assist local law enforcement agencies in keeping peace on the highways. "Violence and lawlessness will not be tolerated under any circumstances," he said. FBI Director William Webster said agents were already investigating the shooting death of an Alabama trucker earlier this week. The president also said he would soon take steps to meet "legitimate grievances" of the nation's 100,000 independent truckers. Gunfire was reported Thursday in Florida, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Indiana, Oklahoma, Connecticut, Minnesota, South Carolina, Colorado, Oregon, Mississippi, Missouri, Georgia, Arkansas and Washington. City Manager Don Davis today named Robert Clark as interim manager of the Big Spring Industrial Park. Clark has served at the park for two years as both assistant administrator and, more recently, as real estate and property manager. "Clark will serve for a minimum of two months while applications are being screened," said Davis. "The screening will begin immediately with the deadline for applications being July 1," he added. Davis estimated that the process will take a minimum of two months, and possible as long as 10 weeks.

There must be easier ways to make living

Stubborn stock shocks cowboys

Many of the cowboys who helped open the 46th annual Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion Wednesday night hung around Thursday to compete for the all-around money but a new group takes over this evening, as the show moves into its third night. The action gets under way shortly after 8 p.m., in the Rodeo Bowl located next to the Howard County Fairgrounds. Thrush Judy Lynn, who entertained the crowds with her remarkable singing ability the first two nights, has moved on. Replacing her in the spotlight this evening will be young Marty Davis and his band while comely Charly McClain takes center stage Saturday, when the rodeo winds up. There must be easier ways to make a living than the manner in some of the cowboys were doing it Thursday night. The stock, for the most part, was salty and completely uncooperative. Some of the horses were sitting down in the chutes and one of them was so recalcitrant his would-be rider finally gave up on him and had him turned into the arena. A double winner Thursday was Tutt Garnett of Matador, Tex., who tied with Houston's Steve Thornton in the calf roping event, each in the time of 9.4 seconds, and who won the steering wrestling event in the rather remarkable time of 4.9 seconds. In the latter event, Garnett caught his calf right in front of the chute and got to him immediately after dismounting. When calf roping is done right, it can inspire a lot of emotion in the stands and all eyes in the arena were riveted on Mr. Garnett. George Anderson traveled east 40 miles to capture first place money in saddle bronc riding. Up on a horse called Reeves County, he rode in the classic tradition to register 72 points. Anderson resides in Midland. Paula Muirhead of Marshall, Tex., made her journey west worthwhile by winning the girls' barrel race in 18.2 seconds. Lyn McKenzie of Shreveport, a former world's champion, would have been in that neighborhood but for the fact that she knocked over a barrel and was penalized five seconds. Among local entries, Shawn Moser posted a 19.1 for a very respectable finish. Following the grand march which opened the show, Ron Law posted a score of 62 to win the bareback riding event, beating out Red Atterby by a single point. Jack Himes remains the all-around leader in that event with a score of 69 achieved opening night. The wind wasn't the factor it was the first night, when some people occupying the reserved seats complained of the restless sand. The specialty acts, which included some amazing horsemanship exhibited by Leon and Vickie Davis, were well received and gave some of the hard-working cowboys a chance to get their breath. The crowd dropped off noticeably from opening night but that was not unexpected. There were yawning spaces in the east stands Thursday, and plenty of room in the west stands for those who wanted to stretch. An added attraction of tonight's show will be the recognition of the Rodeo Queen. Eleven girls are in the running for the crown. They are Kerry Swann, Melanie Walker, Brenda Scott, Debbie Robertson, Carie Poyner, Ann Clark, Terry Leonard, Toni Hale, Hoylene Nix, Cindy Russell and Barbi Kothmann. THURSDAY'S RESULTS: Bareback riding — Ron Law, Monahans, 62 points; Red Atterby, Godley, Tex., 58 points. Calf roping — Steve Thornton, Houston and Tutt Garnett, Matador, tied for first with 9.4; Jerry Jettison, Stephenville, 9.5. After the rodeo, George Cox, Del Rio, 9.9; Travis Condon, Fort Worth, 9.1; Mike Hughes, Stephenville, 10.4. Leaders to this point on two calves are Jerry Jettison and Travis Condon, 18.2; Johnny Hudson is third with 18.7. Barrel race — Paul Muirhead, Marshall, 18.20; Sherry Johnson, Dermott, 18.57; Sue Overton, Fort Sumner, N.M., 19.8. Saddle bronc riding — George Anderson, Midland, 71 points; Rusty O'Neill, Pharr, 66; Mike O'Neill, Washett, Tex., 65. Steer wrestling — 1. Tutt Garnett, Matador, 4.9; Sam Koeing, Cross Plains, 6.2; Chuck Garrett, Denver City, 8.8. Team roping — Max Schneemann and Mark Tiltman, Ozona, 8.3 (won first go-around); J.B. Whitley and David Cockran, Abilene, 8.9; Ralph Harrison and Phillip Harrison, Amarillo, 9.8. Bull riding — 1. Wacey Cathey, Big Spring (up on Bull 147), 74 points; No second.

Focalpoint

Action / reaction: Bike routes idea

Q: Why doesn't the city make bike routes on downtown streets so downtown employees could ride to work? A: City Manager Don Davis said the city may be able to do it but will have to take the matter under advisement. He also said, however, that it is more complicated than it looks at the outset.

Tops on TV: 'Kotch' caper

Walter Matthau is the best thing (and possibly the only thing) going for tonight's ABC Movie, "Kotch." He plays a 72-year-old widower who avoids going to an old-folks home by "adopting" a pregnant teenager. It airs at 8 o'clock. Fight fans may want to check out "Ali, The Fighter" at 10:30 p.m. on ABC. It features one of Ali's greatest bouts against Smokin' Joe Frazier.

Calendar: Rodeo info

TODAY Recording artists, the "Continental Singers and Orchestra," will present a concert of contemporary Christian music at 7:30 p.m. at Hillcrest Baptist Church. Public is invited. 'Imperial position' proposed by Clements

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt says some of Texas Gov. Bill Clements' proposals on Mexican energy development sound like the "American imperial position."

However, Clements says he is waiting to hear that description from Babbitt himself.

The Texas governor will get a chance to exchange views with Babbitt today at a four-hour meeting of the Southwest Regional Border Commission.

New Mexico Gov. Bruce King and Tom Hayden, a representative of California Gov. Jerry Brown, will join the talks on mutual problems facing the four border states.

"The first thing you learn in Mexico is they're not in the business of joint ventures in energy," Babbitt told reporters Thursday after reviewing a Clements position paper on the topic.

The Texas Republican governor calls for a joint U.S.-Mexican corporation to provide financing for development of Mexico's burgeoning energy industry.

"That sort of strikes me as the American imperial position," the Arizona governor said of suggestions that the United States has the knowhow, but Mexico has the raw energy sources. Babbitt says he will offer his own position paper calling for use of traditional commercial loans to boost Mexico's economy. A stronger industrial base will help stem the stream of poor Mexican gaining illegal entry into the United States in search of jobs, he added.

Clements' paper calls for limited entry programs in which Mexican workers could stay in the United States for six months. They could work anywhere and would be guaranteed a minimum wage plus medical and health insurance.

Under the proposal, an employer caught hiring illegal aliens would be fined $1,000 for each unregistered worker arrested on his property.

Babbitt says that Clements' original "guest worker" proposal advanced in February smacked too much of the Bracero program of the 1950s and 1960s. The Arizona governor called that arrangement "exploitation of the worst kind."

America should develop some legal brainwork for Mexicans to work in this country, Babbitt said, but that topic might be beyond the commission's authority.

Weather — Warm temperatures still being forecast

By The Associated Press

Partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene today.

Forecasts called for continued partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures statewide. There was no mention of rain in the forecasts.

Showers are expected on the Atlantic coast from North Carolina to New England. Cool weather is forecast for the Northeast. Warm weather elsewhere.

Construction of border fence to begin Monday

SAN YSIDRO (AP) — Construction of a controversial 10-foot high fence along the U.S.-Mexico border is scheduled to begin Monday in San Ysidro.

Border Patrols agents in San Diego County hope the 5.6-mile long fence will "help divert the traffic (of illegal aliens) into areas we can patrol easier," said Don Cameron, chief of the Chula Vista sector.

The steel and mesh structure will replace a barbed wire fence described by patrolmen as "leaky as a sieve."

The new fence will not run in a continuous line, Cameron said, but will reinforce security along regions that are difficult to patrol. Construction will begin about 2.5 miles west of the San Ysidro point of entry and two miles from the ocean.

Construction of a similar fence between El Paso, Texas and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico has already begun, officials said.

Supporting local police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For years, the Columbus Police Department has listed a "personnel complaints" in the phone book to handle gripes about officers on patrol.

But the police have received so many good words from the public lately that officials have decided to establish a "personnel compliments" phone listing as well. According to Chief Earl Burden, more compliments than complaints have been received since 1977.

When a caller compliments a particular police officer, a special form is completed by the division for the officer's personnel file and commanding officers.

"Our officers have been doing an outstanding job for many years and the public realizes this. We expect to be receiving many more calls when the personnel compliment telephone number is published in the directory," Burden said.

Fink pride

FINK, Texas (AP) — Among many other things, today is the second annual National Fink Day, when Finks from across the country will reunite in this northeast Texas town.

"We're really going to put Fink on the map this year," said Robert Fink of Converse, Texas, president of the Texas Finks.

He says there will be golfing, a talent show and a striped-fishing contest — open to Finks and non-Finks.

"The angler who catches the biggest striper gets all of the pot if his name is Fink, but only half of it if it isn't Fink," Fink said. "The rest will go to the Texas Finks war chest for promoting National Fink Week."

But the highlight will be the Fink of the Year award. "This Fink of the Year competition is open to anyone who has performed some act during the past year to help his fellow man," Fink said.

Hurricane Center sights tropical depression

MIAMI (AP) — Forecasters at the National Hurricane Center said a tropical depression about 275 miles east of the northern Windward Islands in the eastern Caribbean might strengthen today as it moves west at 10 to 15 mph.

Highest winds in the depression were estimated at 35 mph early today, the center said. Further strengthening to winds of 39 mph or more would result in the Atlantic season's first tropical storm, forecasters said.

"Conditions are becoming a little more favorable for strengthening," said forecaster Paul Hebert, who was careful to add that the depression might not pick up strength.

"Conditions for it to maintain itself have been marginal, and now it looks a little more favorable. The problem is that they may change again in 12 hours or less."

The disturbance was moving west-northwest, but Hebert said it would turn slightly more to the west later today.

He warned small craft in the northern Windward and Leeward islands not to venture far from port. The Windwards and Leewards separate the eastern Caribbean from the Atlantic Ocean.

A tropical depression is a cyclonic weather system that becomes a tropical storm if winds exceed 39 mph.

"It's the magic number," Hebert explained. "If you have 35 mph winds, it's a tropical depression. If the winds are 40 mph, you have a tropical storm."

Bad press reason for retrial request

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Sometime next month, the Kerr-McGee Corp. will learn whether it will get a new trial in the Karen Silkwood nuclear contamination case because of what the company calls "reams of bad press."

U.S. District Judge Frank This said he will wait until after the Fourth of July to rule on that request and other post-trial motions discussed at a Thursday hearing.

"There have been simply reams of bad press," Glen McGee said in arguing for a new trial.

McGee, who is in a relation to Kerr-McGee co-founder Dean A. McGee, said that during the 11-week trial a number of incidents involving the nuclear industry combined to prejudice the jurors, who awarded Miss Silkwood's estate $10.5 million in damages.

Among the incidents the energy conglomerate's lawyers mentioned was the Three Mile Island nuclear reactor accident in Pennsylvania in late March.

Silkwood estate lawyer Jim Ikard accused McGee of sanctioning the jurors by implying they disregarded the judge's instructions to avoid trial news coverage and any nuclear industry-related news. He quoted from interviews with jurors and alternates in which they said news accounts did not come up during deliberations.

On May 18, the three-man, three-woman jury found Kerr-McGee liable for Miss Silkwood's 1974 contamination with highly toxic plutonium and said the company negligently operated its Crescent, Okla., plant. Miss Silkwood was a lab technician there when she died in Nov. 13, 1974, single-car crash.

This formally accepted the jury's verdict Thursday by entering judgment in the case and denied Kerr-McGee's request to interview jurors.

He also ruled that about $76,000 in interest on the actual damages accrued since the case was filed in 1976 should be included in the amount that will gather 10 percent interest during appeals.

Earthquake rumbles along Mexican coast

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake measuring at least 6.2 on the Richter scale rumbled along the Pacific coast of southern Mexico at 11:36 p.m. PDT Thursday, an official at the University of California Seismographic Stations said.

Such an earthquake is capable of severe damage in populated areas.

"It's an earthquake which is capable of doing damage, but for Mexico it is not a particularly large quake," said David W. Gordon, a seismologist at the National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo.

Preliminary computations of the quake's epicenter placed it 2,200 miles southeast of Berkeley in the vicinity of the southern coast of Chiapas, a Mexican state, said Dr. Robert Uhrhammer, research seismologist at the Berkeley station.

Gordon said the Colorado seismograph registered 6.3 on the Richter scale. Gordon said the Colorado center also estimated the epicenter as just off the Pacific coast of Mexico. He said he didn't know if the area was populated.

The Richter scale is a gauge of the energy released by an earthquake, as measured by the ground motion recorded on a seismograph.

Every increase of one number, say from magnitude 5.5 to magnitude 6.5, means the ground motion is 10 times greater. Some experts say the actual amount of energy released may be 30 times greater.

A quake of magnitude 6 or greater can cause severe damage. The San Francisco earthquake of April 1906 was later computed to have a Richter magnitude of 7.9. The quake and subsequent fire were blamed for an estimated 700 deaths.

The word epicenter means the point on earth above the center of an earthquake.

Boycott of gas, meat called for by Nader

HOUSTON (AP) — Ralph Nader says consumers should boycott such items as gasoline and meat to control inflation.

The consumer advocate said the United States is on the edge of a major price explosion and any control on inflation will have to come from consumers, not the Carter administration.

He called on President Carter to support a symbolic one-day consumer boycott of purchases of both goods and services.

Nader told a University of Houston news conference Thursday such a boycott would tell such industries as food, oil and banking that consumers are concerned about the economy and want to do something about it.

He suggested a longrange boycott on meat and gasoline, which he termed as compulsory inflationary products.

"Retailers accept higher prices from the wholesalers because they can pass them on to the consumers," he said.

"Boycotts can make retailers allies of the consumers rather than the manufacturers."

There is a drama to surgery unequalled by almost anything else. This really is life and death, and sometimes the balance is incredibly slight. The operating room team is highly trained, the surgeon is supremely skilled. His hands are a marvel to watch, his technique flawless. Yet no one knows better than he that, in this critical moment, there is a much higher authority involved. Before he entered the room he paused for a moment, in silent prayer. He asked for God's guidance, as he always does. His patient is now in two sets of hands, one human, one divine. Have you ever stopped to think how many people who do important things are regular churchgoers? They have realized, long since, the need to go beyond themselves.

Big Spring man to be ordained

The First Christian Church will have a special service of worship Sunday in which Robert Lane Hoover will be ordained into the Order of Christian Ministry of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

The degree of Master of Divinity was conferred on Hoover by Texas Christian University on May 12, 1974.

Vesta "Dutch" Schulze, Abilene, a member of the Committee on the Ministry of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in the Southwest; Dr. R. Gage Lloyd and Dr. Glenn C. Routh of Brite Divinity School, TCU; and others will represent various participating communities in the ordination.

Hoover received the B.A. degree from TCU in 1974 and continued his work in Brite Divinity School. He attended public schools in Big Spring, graduating in 1970 from Big Spring High School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hoover, 1213 East 16th Street.

Robert and his wife Linda,

who also grew up in Big Spring, live in Carrollton, Texas, where he is involved in commercial construction work and she is Associate Director of Food Service for Methodist Hospitals of Dallas.

Hoover will be continuing in construction work while actively seeking a full-time pastorate in Texas.

The public is invited to participate in this ecumenical service of worship at 10:50 a.m. Rev. Bill Smythe, pastor, will be leading the service.

Blagg accepts church post

The Rev. James R. Blagg began his duties as Curate at St. Mary's Episcopal Church this week.

He is assisting the Rector, the Rev. Father Harland B. Birdwell, in the ministerial duties of the parish.

Blagg was ordained to the Diaconate by the Right Rev. Willis R. Henton, Bishop of Northwest Texas, on June 16. The Ordination took place at Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd in San Angelo.

Blagg has most recently completed studies at the School of Theology of the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

He is also a graduate of Brite Divinity School of Texas Christian University at Fort Worth and Angelo State University at San Angelo.

A San Angelo native, Blagg is married to the former Caroline Terrell of Odessa. Mrs. Blagg is also a graduate of Angelo State University and has been teaching English at Grundy County High School in Tennessee.

The Blaggs reside at 408 Dallas.

Last Supper film airs

Long ago, in a small dusty upstairs room, a group of friends met to share a last meal together. Most of them thought it was the end — one of them knew it was the beginning.

Today, almost two thousand years later, that simple and distant event is celebrated by people around the world.

E.C.R.F.'s newest film, "In Remembrance," captures an unforgettable story of the men who chose to follow a young teacher from Nazareth and of the night that would change their world forever.

It is a film about real people, fiercely Jewish, who felt the doubts, loves, fears, and loneliness that are the common bonds of all humanity.

"In Remembrance" is a stunning recreation of the men and events which surrounded the Last Supper — a film for all time and all people.

You can see it at Evangel Temple Assembly of God, 7 p.m. Sunday.

Jellos plays for service

A local man, Gregory Jellos, will present an instrumental concert during Calvary Baptist Church evening worship Sunday.

According to Rev. Herbert McPherson, pastor, though Jellos cannot see, "He is the best pianist I've ever heard." Jellos also plays violin and accordion.

The public and congregation are invited to hear Jellos at 6 p.m. Sunday at the church, 1200 W. 4th.

A Farthing's Worth

WHAT IS A SQUARE?
Everybody knows a few squares. I know one. He's that strong, polite, God-fearing young fellow who freely admits that he prays, weeps for joy, plays with little kids, kisses his mother, goes to his dad for advice, and thinks old folks are great. He wears clothes that fit him, puts savings in the bank, has his hair neatly groomed, likes school, can't imitate all the television comics, avoids dirty discussions about sex — he even blushes. He goes to church, drinks milk, drives within the speed limit, is in bed by 12, doesn't smoke, and expects purity in girls.

As a result of his unusual behavior, he suffers the loss of gang companionship; but he gains the gratitude and admiration of his parents, family, and teachers, has an unjaded imagination, and enjoys spiritual perception. To some he may seem a strange fellow, but I like him!

TWEEN 12 and 20

Teen suicide

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

Suicide is the third leading killer of teen-agers (following accidents and homicides). And while about 5,000 teen-agers commit suicide each year, the number who attempt to kill themselves is 100 times as high.

Psychiatrists claim that many in this last group — the attempted suicides — are really looking for attention, not death. And many of these teens have a common and all-too-fatal belief — that a brush with death will bring them the love, attention and respect they are desperate for in life. Their suicide attempts are what doctors call "cries for help."

How can you tell if someone you know is contemplating suicide? Dr. Mary Griffin, a psychiatrist, reports that an easily observable change in behavior might be a sign of impending suicide. The honor student who stops studying, the easygoing girl who suddenly turns sullen and forlorn, and the quiet boy who becomes loud and aggressive all might be suicide signals.

The signs seem easy to spot. Why then do too many suicide notes lament, "None of my so-called friends would listen to me?" Dr. Francine Klagsbrun, author of "Too Young to Die: Youth and Suicide," points out that some very dangerous myths often keep us from helping our friends.

"Too often people ignore the suicidal person's talk of killing himself because they think he's just looking for attention," says Dr. Klagsbrun. "Ignoring people who are on the verge of suicide is the worst thing to do. People who talk about suicide want attention — in the same way a drowning person wants a lifeguard to save him.

"Some people feel that once a person has decided to kill himself, no one can stop him," Dr. Klagsbrun remarks. "This is wrong. Everything we know about suicide shows that people desperately want to find a better way. Thus, no matter how distraught or self-destructive the individual is, there is a good possibility he can be helped."

There are 200 centers across the country that offer help to suicidal persons, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. To find the nearest center, call 411 or look in the Yellow Pages under "Suicide Prevention," "Mental Health" or "Clinics." The American Association of Suicidology in Houston (713-644-7911) will refer any person needing help to a doctor or center close to his or her home. Or look under "CONTACT" in the telephone book. There are 81 CONTACT centers across the United States.

If you're worried that a friend is about to kill himself, don't carry the burden alone. Involve parents, teachers, counselors. Your friend may be furious with you for betraying a confidence. But losing a friendship beats losing a friend.

Write to Dr. Robert Wallace, TWEEN 12 and 20, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TRANSPLANT RECIPIENTS WED — Kidney transplant recipients Steven Tipler and his bride, the former Debbie Jenewein, leave the First Presbyterian Church in Libertyville, Saturday, after their wedding. The newlyweds first met when they were dialysis patients at Victory Hospital in Waukegan, Ill. They became better acquainted a year ago when both had to undergo kidney transplants at the University of Illinois Hospital in Chicago.

Bridal shower honors Tere Deel

Tere Deel, bride-elect of Chris Chaney, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Monday in the Reddy Room at Texas Electric Service Company.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Herb Kothmann, Mrs. Bill Pollard, Mrs. Don Adams and Mrs. Wade Choate.

Kim Deel, sister of the honoree, registered guests at a table draped with a white embroidered orgazine cloth.

The reception table was covered with a pink linen cloth overlaid with a white orgazine and lace Army-Navy table cloth centered with an arrangement of pale pink carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

Petit fours and strawberry punch were served by Barbie

Kothmann, using silver and crystal appointments.

The gift display table was covered with a linen cutwork cloth.

The honoree was presented a corsage of silk pink roses with deeper pink rosebuds. Her mother, Mrs. Roy Deel, was presented a corsage of silk roses as were her grandmothers, Mrs. R. Clyde Hollingsworth and Mrs. Avery Deel, all of whom were special guests.

Miss Deel and Chaney plan to be married June 30 in the First Christian Church with the Rev. William H. Smyth officiating.

The bronc breakers would ride the wild horse about nine times which educated them enough to buck good, then turn them over to the cowboys to make cow horses of them. The bronc breakers made better wages than the cowboys.

Fellowship is awarded Cowboy recalls other Days

NEW YORK (AP) — May Swenson has been awarded the $10,000 Fellowship of the Academy of American Poets, which is given for "distinguished poetic achievement."

Miss Swenson, the 38th American poet to be named an Academy Fellow, is the author of eight books of poems. Her latest is "New & Selected Things Taking Place."

Winners of the award in previous years have included Robert Frost, William Carlos Williams, Ezra Pound, Marianne Moore and Louise Bogan.

Mexican masks on display

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Dance Masks of Mexico," an exhibition of traditional Mexican craft form, is on display at the Smithsonian National Museum of Natural History through Dec. 31.

The museum says the masks were created for dance dramas and "are among the surviving traditional Mexican folk-art forms fused with the beauty and magical power of the old Mexican Indian way of life."

Bob Allen, 80, re-lived some exciting moments in his life as he watched the Big Spring Rodeo Thursday night.

Allen, who lives with his wife, Alice, at Parkview Manor, wrangled 175 horses on the matador, a ranch of around 500 sections of land, at 18 years of age, in 1917. The $30 a month wages he earned just about covered his tobacco, boots and saddle. The cowboys furnished their own bedrolls which they rolled up each morning.

The wrangler stayed with the horses all day while the cowboys punched cattle on a drive. He'd gather all the horses and bring them to the round-up where they were going to work the cattle. Each cowboy had a drive horse, a round-up horse and an evening horse. When they got in off the drive they would change to the round-up horse to work with. Out of the round-up they let all the cattle go except the ones they cut out to hold, these they'd pen up.

Bob went to the army in 1919 and trained at Ft. Crockett in Galveston. After the armistice was signed, he went back to work at the Matador mavericking calves. These were the calves that were missed in the regular branding. The cowboys roped the calves, tied them down, built a fire and heated the branding iron, then branded a V-7 on each calf.

Bob worked that winter, then went to New Mexico, 15 miles north of Ft. Sumner, and farmed and ranched for $30 a month. The next summer he followed the wheat harvest and made $7 a day.

Bob married in 1924, and had five children, four of whom are living. His wife died in 1943.

He came home to Dickens and farmed for four years, marrying Alice Criswell in 1955 at 56 years of age. They've been married 24 years.

In addition to wrangling and hunting, Bob plays the harmonica. He led singing in Baptist churches in Lynn, Dickens, Stonewall and Jones Counties. He also taught an adult Sunday School class in Dickens County for 35 years.

He and Mrs. Allen have been at Parkview three months, coming from a home in Childress. He has planted some vegetable seed in the greenhouse behind Parkview just to keep his hand in.

Sometimes, Father Doesn't Know Best

DEAR ABBY: At 82, father is becoming increasingly frail and forgetful. He has substantial means and has lived alone with a housekeeper since Mother died five years ago. I am his only child (a daughter) with a family of my own. I've invited him to live with me but he's reluctant to give up the home he's lived in for so many years.

Now the problem: Some former friends who wronged Dad in business years ago have suddenly started to visit him regularly. They've introduced him to a young member of their family and he has become quite infatuated with her. The dollar signs in her eyes are obvious to me, but not to Dad.

I don't want to deprive my father of any real happiness in his last years, but neither do I want him to fall prey to these opportunists I do not trust. What, if anything, should I do? CONCERNED IN CALIF.

DEAR CONCERNED: How much your father should be protected "for his own good" and whether he's competent to make his own decisions are proper questions to discuss with his lawyer and physician. In the meantime, spend as much time with your father as possible but resist the temptation to bad-mouth his new friends.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps you will put this letter in your own words and tell my husband that he needs help. He won't listen to me.

He is 60 pounds overweight and, to make matters worse, a diabetic. He has a wonderful family who loves him very much. Whenever one of us reminds him that he needs to lose weight, he says, "So if I die, you will be left well-off."

Please, please, help us to help him. He is a dear and wonderful person. I want him around to see his grandchildren grow up, and he won't be around if he doesn't take better care of himself.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: An obese person knows he needs to lose weight, and being constantly reminded of it will only make him feel guilty — which will make him feel rotten, which will cause him to eat to feel better.

If he chooses to dig his own grave with his fork, no one can stop him. But if he really wants to help himself, let him write to me and I'll tell him what to do.

DEAR ABBY: I have a beautiful diamond ring which was given to me by my mother-in-law when I became engaged. It was given to her by her mother-in-law, so I consider it a priceless heirloom.

When the time comes, I will offer the ring to my son for his bride — and that poses a problem because I have twin sons!

How should it be decided twin which gets the ring? Should it go to the first-born twin? Or should they draw straws for it?

They are only 17 now, so I have time to make that decision, but I would appreciate your suggestions.

MOTHER OF TWINS

DEAR MOTHER: The son who becomes engaged first should inherit the ring. And if the twins should announce a double engagement, let them draw straws.

Estes trial continues

No machines delivered, leasing firm officials say

DALLAS (AP) — Leasing company officials testified in the fraud trial of Billie Sol Estes that their companies bought a number of steam cleaners several years ago, but they have yet to see any evidence those machines exist.

"I've never seen anything we bought," said Jerry Fowler, president and general manager of Western Lease Banc, Inc. Fowler also said his company lost about $30,000 in the deal.

Prosecutors continue their efforts to link Estes to the allegedly fraudulent marketing scheme in federal court here today.

Estes and former associate Raymond K. Horton are accused of conspiring to defraud four leasing companies of more than $500,000 through the sale of 36 non-existent steam cleaners.

The government planned to try to connect Estes and the steam cleaner operation with the testimony of two former Horton associates in the fraud trial today.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe has called Frank Fuell and M.L. Copenhaver to testify in what he has described as a paper-only deal to buy and sell the cleaners. Fuell and Copenhaver both have pleaded guilty to fraud charges stemming from the steam cleaner deal.

Fowler testified that in 1975, his company agreed to buy eight steam cleaners from Atomic Enterprises Inc. of San Antonio and lease them to Wallace Oil Co. of Midland, companies the federal government says were owned by Horton and Estes.

The invoices showed the cleaners were delivered, but when he went to Midland to inspect them a year later, Fowler said they were nowhere to be found.

"We asked to be told where the collateral was," he said. "He (Horton) said he didn't know."

Fowler said he later was shown one brand-new steam cleaner, but he could not identify it as belonging to his company because it carried no serial number.

Estes was convicted in 1963 after he built a fortune in a similar scheme involving mortgages of fertilizer tanks that did not exist. He was paroled in 1971 after serving six years of his 15-year sentence.

Bill Stanton of Lubbock said he, too, was shown one steam cleaner with no serial number when he went to Midland to check on the eight cleaners purchased by Borg-Warner Leasing Co. of Chicago.

Farm Cotton comeback continues

Even though cotton has made a strong comeback in the fabric marketplace in the past few years, sales of all synthetic fibers combined continue to surpass sales of cotton.

One key factor in the past growth of synthetics is the aggressive promotion by synthetics manufacturers of their product. Dupont alone is reported as spending three times as much for advertising as does cotton, and 10 times as much for research as cotton.

Does this mean that cotton will be forced into a smaller and smaller role in the world apparel market?

Not necessarily. Continued support by cotton growers of Cotton Incorporated, which conducts research and promotion on behalf of producers, has been instrumental in helping cotton overcome the overwhelming odds in favor of synthetics in the marketplace.

"In 1960, cotton enjoyed a two-thirds share of the U.S. fiber market," said Hal Brockmann, vice president for textile research and development for Cotton Incorporated. "In just 13 years, by 1973, we were down to only a 29 percent share of the market. We consider 1973-74 the leveling-out year."

"The success of synthetics was due to their very aggressive research and marketing program. Another reason was that there was nobody on the other side. There was no competitive force on behalf of cotton for most of those years."

And when did this begin to change in cotton's favor?

"Cotton Incorporated made the difference," said Brockmann. "In 1974 when the Cotton Seal was introduced as the seal of the U.S. Cotton producers and when our advertising campaign began to be implemented on a national scale on network TV, we began to see a dramatic and immediate change. The payoff to cotton producers has been a stabilized market share since that time."

"In the apparel market, cotton has now regained about a 40 percent share," he added. "We have seen a dramatic return to cotton at the retail level, and this is in part due to the successful promotion of cotton by Cotton Incorporated."

There is one thing cotton producers can be sure of: Millions of dollars will be spent by synthetics companies to promote their product. The most effective counter-punch to their tactics is to pledge support of cotton research and promotion through the grower organization, Cotton Incorporated.

Bethany Nazarene College awards

$500 scholarship to local grad

Jessica L. Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L.W. Lewis of 4217 Parkway, has been awarded a $500 Dean's Honor Scholarship to Bethany Nazarene College in Bethany, Okla., according to Dr. John A. Knight, college president.

Lewis is a 1979 graduate of Big Spring Senior High School and will enter BNC's department of music this fall.

The Big Spring Coed is one of 103 high school seniors receiving financial aids through the ACT scholarship programs of Bethany Nazarene College, with current fundings nearing the $70,000 mark.

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of ACT testing scores to those students who show a promise of academic success in higher education.

Bethany Nazarene College, founded in 1899, is the second oldest private liberal arts institution in the State of Oklahoma with an enrollment of 1,325 students representing 38 states and 11 foreign countries.

BNC offers fully accredited bachelor, pre-professional and master of arts degree programs in over 70 major fields of study including the new bachelor of science program in nursing to be initiated this fall.

'Sorghum Cystitis' in equines warning

It is approaching the time when equine owners should be warned about the possibility of horses grazing sorghum hybrids, becoming affected with a problem called "Sorghum Cystitis."

This syndrome was reported by members of the Large Animal Clinic at the College of Veterinary Medicine in 1966. Reports from the clinic indicate that there have been at least 3 cases already this year.

Since the original reports in 1966, it has been recognized with increasing frequency in the south-western part of the United States.

It occurs more frequently during times of medium to high rainfall, usually from June to November. Cases are not usually seen after the first frost. Horses affected have a history of grazing hybrid plants resulting from crossing Sorghum vulgare (Sorghum) with the Sorghum vulgare variation Sudanese (Sudan). Other cases have been reported in horses grazing varieties of sorghum or Johnson Grass mixed with native pastures.

The problem occurred when the plant material was young and growing rapidly, but mature and second-growth pastures were also incriminated. Horses fed well-cured sorghum species hay were not affected, but cases did develop after eating freshly cut hay. The condition occurs in all equine breeds; however, age does not seem to be a factor since it has been reported in horses from 5 months of age to 20 years.

The majority were 2 to 3 years old. Cases have been observed in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Kansas and Colorado.

Signs: The first signs usually seen have been incoordination of the rear legs; this has been followed by urinary incontinence in about half of the horses. In mares, the most obvious clinical signs include opening and closing of the vulva and dribbling of urine which may cause of hair on the inner part of the hind legs due to uring scalding. Geldings may show a loss of hair on the ventral abdomen near the prepuce. Uring may drip continually and become intensified if the animal is caused to move suddenly. Some mares may abort.

When affected animals are removed from the pasture and fed a balanced ration, they usually improved, but complete recoveries have not been reported. Both the urinary incontinence and ataxia have been observed in some horses for as long as 3 years.

Prevention:

1. Keep equines off sudan type pastures.
2. Do not feed freshly cut sudan species hay to equines.
3. Horses fed well-cured sudan species hay did not develop this syndrome.
4. Many treatments have been used in affected equines, but with little success.

Cattle grub control outlined

Each year between May and September, Texas livestock producers can control costly cattle grubs by applying systemic insecticides, says Andy Vestal, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

During late fall and winter, the cattle grub appears on the backs of animals. It's too late to begin control measures then since most of the damage has already been done.

However, applying a systemic insecticide — one which is absorbed into the animal's bloodstream — can control grubs effectively between May and September.

In addition to controlling cattle grubs, the insecticide will also provide contact control of horn flies for two to three weeks. Vestal says, this makes the overall cost of treatment favorable.

The cattle grub is the larval stage of the heel fly. The fly has no mouth parts, so it causes no pain to the cattle. However, it frightens cattle, making them difficult to manage. Animals often seek relief by standing in shade or deep water.

The life cycle begins when the heel fly lays its eggs on an animal. The eggs, glued to hairs, hatch within a few days, and larvae (worms) enter the skin at hair follicles. The worms then migrate through the animal's body for six to eight months and reappear in the animal's back in the fall and winter, forming knot-like marbles or cysts.

Cattle grubs cause greater losses than any other cattle pests, says Vestal. Besides damaging meat and hides by their burrowing, they lower beef cattle gains and production throughout the year. Profit losses are estimated in the millions of dollars each year.

Dramatic savings incentive to switch

Americans turning to natural gas

By The Associated Press
Lured by lower prices and promises of plentiful supplies, thousands of Americans are turning to natural gas instead of oil to heat their homes.
"We're backlogged by 800 customers at this point," said Louis R. Hampton, president of the Providence, R.I., Gas Co. "Gas at the moment is considerably cheaper than oil."
Columbia Gas of Ohio expects to add 7,000 customers this year; Intermountain Gas in Idaho has signed up 1,300 families so far in 1979; and the president of Northern Utilities in Portland, Maine, reports a "substantial increase" in customers.
The American Gas Association says its members reported that 144,000 customers converted from oil to gas last year; this year, said spokesman Terry Uhl, the figure is expected to be even higher.

Between 60 percent and 65 percent of American homes use natural gas; about half as many use heating oil. Heating oil prices are soaring, however; they are expected to hit 80 cents a gallon this winter, up from 50 cents at the start of the 1978 heating season. There are warnings of shortages, particularly in the Northeast, which relies heavily on oil. And price and supply are prompting some people to switch fuels.
Heating bills vary widely, but a look at some averages shows that the savings achieved by switching can be dramatic.
The National Oil Jobbers Council estimates that the average household which uses oil consumes about 1,300 gallons during the heating season. At 80 cents per gallon, that would mean an annual bill of $1,040.

The American Gas Association says the average gasheated household used 78,000 cubic feet during the 1978-79 heating season. The group said the current average price is $2.53 per thousand cubic feet for a heating bill of just under $200. Prices are rising, but even if they reached $6 per 1,000 cubic feet, the annual bill still would be only $468 — less than half the amount spent by a family with oil heat.
Individuals aren't the only ones who are changing to natural gas. In New York City, the Lefrak Organization, announced it was converting 54 buildings with 9,214 apartments from oil to gas.
Legislation passed by Congress in 1978 lifted price controls on natural gas in a series of steps designed to result in nearly complete deregulation by 1985. It already has resulted in price boosts for consumers. It also is expected to bring increased supplies and has prompted some utilities to lift restrictions on utilities which had been prohibited from adding new natural gas customers.

The Washington Gas Light Co., which supplies the District of Columbia and its Maryland and Virginia suburbs, had not accepted new customers for over five years. Area public service commissions okayed a limited expansion last year and company spokesman Paul Young said Washington Gas Light is adding customers at the rate of 2 percent or 11,000 to 12,000 a year. "Supplies have been improving for this area and we are now showing a steady growth period," said Young.

Columbia Gas of Ohio recently ended a seven-year moratorium on new customers and spokesmen say they have a backlog of 10,000 to 14,000 orders for residential service. Dave Talbot of East Ohio Gas Co. said over 85 percent of the new homes built in his company's service area are using natural gas.
"We have a lot of customers who are switching from oil to gas and we are picking up a number of commercial accounts that are changing over," he said.
William Chapman of Idaho's Intermountain Gas said growth was small last year, but is up sharply in 1979. He said supplies were "excellent" and the company, which now has 96,000 customers, could add 70,000 more without trouble. Prices also are up.

Jennings delays concerts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Trucks, trains, broken hearts and whiskey are the staples of country music, but the diesel fuel situation is the villain in the postponement of two Waylon Jennings concerts in New York this weekend.

Jennings' office manager Don Davis said concerts Friday in Buffalo and Saturday in Binghamton have been postponed. As of Thursday, a Sunday concert in Saratoga, N.Y., was still scheduled.

"We have five vehicles that run diesel fuel and we just feel that it's best to move the concerts to another date," Davis said. The vehicles are buses used to transport musicians and equipment.

Asked if Jennings sympathizes with protesting truckers, Davis said, "It's not an alliance. We just felt in the interests of everybody to move the concerts."

Jennings, who often teams with singer Willie Nelson, is best known for hits like "Luckenbach, Texas," and "Good Hearted Woman."

Ullman's team victorious

NEW YORK (AP) — With actress Liv Ullmann leading their cheering section, it's hard to lose.

The star of "I Remember Mama" urged on the youngsters who appear with her in the Broadway musical as they defeated the kids from "Annie" Thursday in a game to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Broadway Show League.

Ms. Ullmann's daughter, Linn, also joined the team but wasn't so lucky. She struck out every time at bat.

"This is her first softball game, ever," said Ms. Ullmann of her Norwegian-born daughter.

The "Annie," headed by Sarah Jessica Parker, who plays the celebrated comic strip heroine, fell one run short in a seventh-inning rally to lose, 10-9.

Jackie still draws crowds

NEW YORK — Yes, that was Jacqueline Onassis standing on the corner of Madison Avenue and 51st Street in Manhattan. And despite her oversized glasses — or perhaps because of them — she drew a crowd, as she almost always does.

She was waiting to meet realtor Harry Helmsley to sign a lease for space for the Municipal Art Society on Thursday. She was early, and he was late, but they did finally conclude a deal for 30,000 square feet in Villard Houses, a landmark building.

After the signing, Helmsley asked, "So where's my first month's rent?" Mrs. Onassis smiled.

"So, I'll wait," Helmsley said.

Stalemate with Roloff continues as state awaits word on next move

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The stalemate siege at Lester Roloff's Rebekah Home for Girls entered its third day today with a state task force awaiting word on its next move.

"We are not an army. We are a social service agency," said Marlin Johnston, associate commissioner of the Texas Department of Human Resources.

A state judge has told the DHR to clear out the Roloff homes. The fiery fundamentalist preacher says licensing his homes would be a violation of the separation of church and state. The courts have said the homes can't operate without the license.

"It's not a matter of whether," Johnston said Thursday about the closing of the facility. "It's just a matter of when and how."

Until Johnston figures out how to get past the legion of Bible toting preachers and parents who have blockaded the church where the Rebekah girls have been spending their days, the 140-member state task force remains headquartered at Texas A&I University at Kingsville. While Johnston maintains the task force is not an army, he has started to talk about strategy and maneuvers.

He was told Thursday that the state cannot enter Roloff's People's Church to get the children. Johnston said state officials have told him that the church — though on the same grounds — is not considered a part of the homes.

"We will not go into the church," said DPS Lt. Herbert Hale, who is working with the DHR team.

Johnston was asked if the task force would wait until nightfall in an effort to catch the girls outside the church.

"My desire would be never to go in the middle of the night, but I wouldn't rule out anything," he said.

"I just don't know how you pull off a surprise action with everyone watching. I question whether it is feasible to go in at night," he added.

Johnston made a brief visit to the Roloff facility Wednesday — the day the state hoped to close the homes. He came out empty handed after a chat with Roloff.

He said the DHR had planned to return that day.

"We seriously considered going in, but we took a look at the number of people and the volume of the crowd and in my judgment it would have been dangerous. We did not feel we could go in without a major confrontation," Johnston said Thursday.

Roloff's followers formed a human wall in front of the church each time they thought the DHR was on the way.

A one-armed former Marine, clad in a sparkling dress white uniform stood as a lone sentry at the gate to the compound.

"If they want to run over me, my flag and my uniform — well that's what they'll have to do," said Vietnam veteran Clebe McClary.

At a DHR press conference Thursday, the leader of an association of licensed church-related youth homes said he opposed Roloff's stand. Charles Wright, president of the Texas Association of Licensed Children's Services, said it is possible to get a state license and still run a religious school.

"In my 15 years there," he said of his work at the Texas Baptist Children's Home in Round Rock, Texas, "not one time has there been one problem. We are free to preach and teach and establish a curriculum with no interference from the state," the minister said.

"This now is an issue of law and order here. It's not an issue of religious freedom," he said.

Wright said 90-95 percent of the operators of church-related youth homes in Texas disagree with Roloff.

But Roloff still claims mass support. He predicted more preachers from around the nation will come here to join the fight.

On a Thursday radio broadcast he called for a shift system — with 100 preachers on duty here at all times for 52 weeks.

"I think it's pitiful that so many people would be wrong," he said of Wright's statement.

"Years ago no one thought of taking a license from the state."

Texans' hopes dashed

No rise in gas set-asides

HOUSTON (AP) — Hopes that Texas might get extra gasoline to ease long lines at service stations throughout the state were dashed by Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, who said gasoline set-asides will not be raised.

Presently, 5 percent of each state's gasoline allocation is earmarked, or set aside, for use by the governor in emergency or spot shortage situations.

Houston Mayor Jim McConn, who met with Schlesinger in Washington, D.C., earlier in the week, said after the meeting that the secretary had indicated he might double Texas' set-aside within two to three weeks.

But during a news conference Thursday in Washington, Schlesinger said, "We do not contemplate any increase in the set-aside at this time."

Schlesinger also said, however, he agreed with McConn's argument that fast-growing cities such as Houston are penalized by their gasoline allocations because the amounts do not take recent rapid population growth into consideration.

Texas' present allocation is based on 1976 oil company allotments of gasoline to the state. Since then, McConn said, the Houston area alone has added 210,000 residents.

Clements names associate judge

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced the appointment Thursday of Houston attorney William E. Junell to be an associate justice of the 14th Court of Civil Appeals in Houston.

Junell, 59, replaces Judge George E. Cize of Houston, who recently was sworn in as a federal judge.

Junell has been a partner in the law firm of Sewell, Junell & Riggs. He is a native of Sulphur Springs and lived in Wichita Falls.

KNOW YOUR CARRIER

Kevin Freeman

Eleven year old Kevin Freeman is a very conscientious young carrier. Subscribers on Kevin's Route 248 must be proud to have such a responsible businessman delivering papers to the Indian Hills area. He has had only one service error since he began as a carrier in February...that's only one error in 6,448 deliveries.

Accepting the responsibility of a Herald route is a great way for a young person like Kevin to acquire business know-how. Kevin is learning to manage money — he saves half of his earnings and spends the other half on his hobbies which include bicycles, bowling, and, as you can see, motorcycles.

Kevin was the May Carrier of the Month runner-up. His bill was paid on time, his books were in order, and he has maintained porch delivery service. His service was so satisfactory that he received complimentary letters from two of his subscribers.

Kevin's parents, John and Carolyn Freeman of 706 W. 14th Street, are behind him 100%, an important factor in stimulating any young carrier's enthusiasm. You can encourage your son or daughter to become and enjoy being a Herald carrier. Call 263-7331 or write the circulation department for an application.

Lemon to manage AL All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Lemon will put on his New York Yankees uniform once more when he manages the American League in the All-Star Game against the National League at Seattle July 17.

"I feel very great about being named AL manager," Lemon said. "I feel that it's an honor to be the manager of the All-Star Game. Always when I was playing I looked forward to playing in it...I was a coach twice and an honorary captain once."

Lemon was named manager of the Yankees at midseason in 1978, taking over for Billy Martin, leading the team to a World Series victory and was named AL Manager of the Year. He was replaced as manager last Monday by Martin.

"Bob wanted to be the All-Star manager and he certainly earned the honor," said AL President Lee MacPhail. "It seems to me that Bob is the perfect choice. He has been active in the league and has seen all the teams this year, and he knows all the league talent thoroughly."

"Together, we hope to select the best possible club to oppose Tommy Lasorda and the Nationals..."

A member of baseball's Hall of Fame, Lemon was a 20-game winner for the Cleveland Indians seven times, pitched in four All-Star games and two World Series as an Indian.

It will not be the first time that a manager has been called from the sidelines to handle an All-Star team. The last was Dick Williams, who piloted the 1974 American League team after resigning as Oakland manager following the 1973 World Series. But by then, he had been signed by the California Angels.

In the very first All-Star Game at Comiskey Park in Chicago, in 1933, John McGraw managed the National League team although he had been replaced as New York Giants manager by Bill Terry during the 1932 season.

The American League team was managed by Philadelphia's Connie Mack, even though Joe McCarthy's Yankees had won the pennant the previous year.

Neither Johnny Keane of the 1964 World Champion St. Louis Cardinals nor Yogi Berra of the Yankees was managing the same club at the start of the 1965 season. Keane was replaced by Gene Mauch, who had managed the Philadelphia Phillies to a tie for second place in 1964, and Berra by Al Lopez, who had piloted the Chicago White Sox to a second place finish in the American League.

In 1963, Ralph Houk's Yankees won the AL title, but Houk was named general manager of the team and Lopez again managed the AL All-Stars in 1964.

Newton's record 64 leading Canadian Open

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Jack Newton, with a record-setting 64, had the first-round lead in the $350,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament, but it was Tom Watson the other pros were watching.

"When Watson's in the field," observed Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller, "you just say, 'Oh, hell, I'm playing for second again.' What a great player he is."

And Watson, the game's outstanding performer over the last 2½ years, appeared to have it back in gear again after missing the cut last week in the U.S. Open.

"I'm not looking back at that," Watson said after putting his way to a 5-under-par 66 Thursday. "That's

Holmes defends WBC heavyweight title tonight

WEIGH-IN FOR CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT — World Boxing Council Heavyweight champion Larry Holmes holds up his championship belt as Mike Weaver, his opponent in their title fight Friday night, weighs-in at New York's Felt Forum Thursday morning. Holmes weighed 215 pounds and Weaver 202 pounds for their bout in Madison Square Garden.

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Holmes, the unbeaten heavyweight champion, and Roberto Duran and Carlos Palomino, two sluggers whose ability is greater than their size, fight tonight in Madison Square Garden.

Mike Weaver will be there, too. The 26-year-old Weaver, who doesn't like the nickname "Hercules" and is hurt by being referred to as a "tuneup," will fight Holmes for the World Boxing Council heavyweight championship in a bout network television wouldn't buy and which seemingly all boxing writers and the smart-money boys consider no contest.

"It don't bother me what the experts say," said Weaver about his $50,000 shot at glory. "What do they know about boxing?"

"One to seven," said Holmes when asked for a prediction. "I can't say which is closer because he might go in seven seconds."

"I got to fight somebody," said the 29-year-old unbeaten champion, who already is signed to defend against Earnie Shavers on Sept. 14 in a fight to be televised by ABC. "I've been working 11 years to get where I am."

Holmes is fighting for a percentage and it is in the pocketbook that many observers think he will take a beating.

"As long as I keep fighting and winning, the money will come," said Holmes.

Another man who could take a beating in the pocketbook, and knows it, is promoter Don King, who rented the Garden for $150,000 for the show. The presence of Duran-Palomino obviously is an attempt to spur gate sales — tickets range from $30 to $150 — and sales at the 45-location closed-circuit television network.

There will be no closed-circuit TV in the New York metropolitan area, but New York area subscribers of Home Box Office, which reaches 2 million sets in the country, will be able to see the two fights. King sold them to HBO for $200,000.

To many observers at Thursday's weigh-in, Jimmy Young of Philadelphia was an out-of-shape No. 5 contender as he weighed 235 pounds for his 10-round bout against Wendell Bailey, 202, of Baltimore. Young, who once lost a title bid against Muhammad Ali and beat George Foreman, lost decisions to Ocasio in his last two fights and has a 22-8-3 record, with seven knockouts. Bailey is 13-1, with three knockouts.

Sundberg's single lifts Rangers past Angels

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — So far, this trip to California has paid off handsomely for the Texas Rangers, with a jump into second place in the American League West and renewed hope for their starting pitching rotation.

Thanks to the efforts of youngsters John Henry Johnson and Danny Darwin and a 3-2, 11-inning victory over the Angels Thursday night, the Rangers managed a split in their four-game series with the American League West leaders at Anaheim Stadium. Johnson, acquired from Oakland a week ago today, gave up four hits in five innings to earn the victory in Texas' 2-1 win on Tuesday.

While Darwin didn't figure in that decision, he gave up just four hits and two runs in 8-1/3 innings Thursday in his first appearance since being recalled from Tucson.

"If Darwin and Johnson throw like they did in this series, things are looking up for us," said Ranger catcher Jim Sundberg, whose two-out bloop single scored the winning run Thursday.

"When I went out in the ninth inning, I wanted the shutout so bad I lost my concentration," said Darwin, who pitched in three games with the Rangers last September. "Plus I was a little tired."

NBA brass approves 3-point play

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Is the 3-point goal a gimmick whose only purpose is to capture the fans' fancy or is it a sound refinement in the way the game of basketball is played?

The National Basketball Association hopes to find out next season, when it will give the controversial rule a one-year trial run.

The NBA's Board of Governors voted to adopt the 3-point goal on an experimental basis at the opening session of its annual summer meetings Thursday following a debate that Commissioner Larry O'Brien described as spirited.

It was the NBA traditionalists debating those who have experienced the 3-point goal, particularly team a chance to catch up quicker, thus adding excitement to the game, and also that it will open up the middle and reduce contact around the basket.

Those opposed contend that a basket is a basket and distance should not enter into the equation.

In another major move, the governors voted to go back to two-man refereeing teams after trying a three-referee system for one year. Although the NBA coaches and general managers and the league's Rules and Competitions Committee all voted in favor of keeping the extra official, the owners turned it down, primarily for financial reasons.

The board felt it did not have enough evidence that there had been satisfactory improvement in the officiating to warrant the expense of the extra referee," said O'Brien, who estimated the cost at $600,000.

Norm Drucker, the league's supervisor of officials and a former referee, said the NBA employed 38 officials last year. This number will be reduced to 26 or 27 for next season.

In other actions: —A proposal to legalize zone defenses was allowed to die in committee.

—A rule was passed requiring that all fines levied by the commissioner be paid by the person fined and not by the team.

—The NBA pledged its assistance to the U.S. Olympic Committee for 1980 and a report was heard from the expansion committee, which is currently holding hearings to determine which two cities will be added to the league for the 1980-81 season.

The governors also formally approved the sale of the Houston Rockets to George Maloof, but delayed confirmation of Jerry Buss as the new owner of the Los Angeles Lakers pending receipt of additional financial data.

"The course is in perfect condition. The weather was perfect," said Trevino, who chipped in for birdie on the final hole to gain his share of third place.

"It was a day when we caught Glen Abbey under the best conditions," said Jack Nicklaus, who designed the layout that will become a permanent home for the Canadian Open.

"Some of the fellows took advantage of it. Some of us," continued Nicklaus, who was well back with a 70, "didn't take as much advantage as we'd liked to have."

In addition to the five men who broke or tied the old record, Bob Murphy, Terry Diehl, Bob Lunn and D.A. Weibring were a single shot off at 68.

Recently-crowned U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin, however, could do no better than a 72. Defending titleholder Bruce Lietzke shot par 71. And Gary Player, whose strong last round brought him a share of second in last week's American national championship, closed double bogey-double bogey for a fat 80.

"I don't wanta even THINK about what today would be like if I HADNT found the four-leaf clover!"

FAMILY CIRCUS

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of this day will bring you a surprise condition that you would be wise to seize and use quickly to your advantage. A considerable amount of confusion present would make it advisable to examine whatever arises carefully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to take care of some details in your work early in the day, but later the situation is not too easy for you. A co-worker has good ideas that should be followed.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Accept a social invitation that could offer financial benefits. Don't lose your temper with anyone. Use caution in travel.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be conscientious in the handling of home affairs and be kind to kin. A new project requires that you study every detail of it carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle correspondence early and then get into other duties that are important to your welfare. Clear up any errors in your work, and be on the safe side. Avoid exaggerations.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on practical affairs and know how to increase present abundance. Listen to what a successful acquaintance has to suggest.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Morning is best for pleasure; later you can handle personal affairs more wisely. Good day to plan future social activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are able to attain a secret desire early. Although advice an expert gives you is not to your liking, follow it anyway for best results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A precise friend has fine ideas as to how to gain your most cherished wishes, so listen carefully and follow them. Steer clear of group affairs. Forget anxieties and be happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get at those outside affairs quickly and stop procrastinating and get excellent results. Exercise care in the handling of some credit affair. Don't get caught in the wind.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) New interests may require more time before they become workable and practical so be patient. Hunches are good only in the morning. Later use your mature judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep promises and show you are a reliable person. You can solve some limiting situation with a loved one. Show that you are thoughtful but not a pushover.

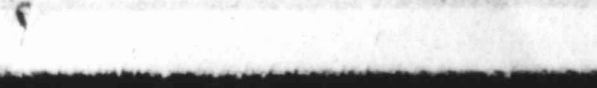

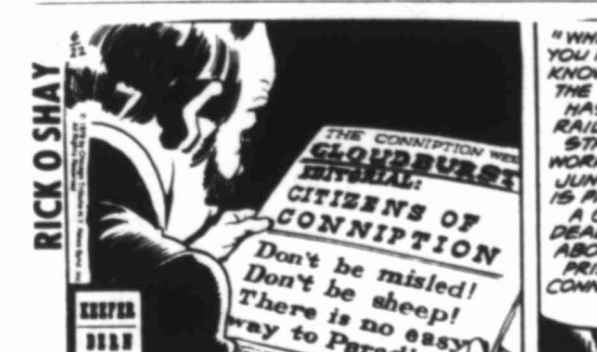

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do what is expected of you by associates and see to it they are not disappointed. Handle that task that is hardy to your liking but will bring you needed goodwill.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability to solve problems of all kinds, no matter how intricate they may be. Teach early that courses must be completed otherwise your progeny could go off on tangents that will mar the success here.

Ideal way to spend a weekend

MUSICAL BACKGROUND — By profession, Mickey Owens (above) of Seminole is a band director, but he plays as much golf as he can in the summer time. He was a participant in last week's Big Spring Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament. Here, he prepares to hit from a relatively poor lie with tree limbs obscuring his vision.

THE WAY A CHAMPION DOES IT — Mike Weaver, who wound up as co-champion of the Big Spring Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament last week, shows championship form as he leaves the first tee in Sunday's final round. Mike's swing obviously is something to envy, judging from the kibitzers who gathered to watch him.

THE SHOT THAT GOT THE FIELD ON ITS WAY — Teddy Griffin, assistant golf pro at the Big Spring Country Club, raises the shotgun to get the field in the annual Partnership Tournament on its way. Players are sent to tee off from each of the 18 holes, awaiting the sound of the shot gun; hence the word "shotgun start."

PLOTTING STRATEGY — Howard Stewart (right), one of the entries in the annual Big Spring Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament here the past week, seems to welcome the advice of assistant pro Teddy Griffin before completing his round of play.

HOUSEKEEPING CHORE — R.P. (Nick) Nicholson cleans a ball at the tenth hole at the Big Spring Country Club, while waiting for a chance to tee off. Nick was one of the entries in the Partnership Tournament which took place here.

FAMILY REUNION — Members of the Tommy Rutledge family uses the Big Spring Country Club Partnership Golf Tournament as a time for catching up on conversation, although the menfolk devoted most of their time to the game.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — R.H. Weaver, using an unusual putting style, practices before charging onto the Big Spring Country Club course the past weekend. Weaver's putt is true is Don Reynolds.

Police find bodies of 246

HONG KONG (AP) — Police have found the bodies of 246 persons they believe drowned while trying to swim from China to Hong Kong this year, compared to 209 in all of 1978, a government spokesman reported.

Hong Kong police have rounded up and deported 41,727 illegal immigrants from China since January compared with 1,566 in the same period last year. Officials estimate that for every one caught, two elude the border patrols.

MANAGER — Ed McCauley, 37, has been named manager of Gibson Discount Center, 2303 Scurry. McCauley worked for the San Antonio store for five years and was then transferred to the Roswell, N.M., store where he was manager for two years. He is a native of West Virginia. He and his wife, Becky, have one son, Dwayne, 8.

Illinois doctors to use weed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Illinois, which generally outlaws use of marijuana, is about to start distributing the weed to doctors — for medicinal purposes only, of course.

It looks like a regular cigarette, comes in cans of 300 and is grown on the grounds of the University of Mississippi, according to Thomas B. Kirkpatrick Jr., executive director of the Illinois Dangerous Drugs Commission.

"It's Mexico stock," Kirkpatrick said Thursday. "It's very carefully grown, just like a commercial tobacco crop."

Kirkpatrick said Illinois is the first state approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to distribute the pharmaceutically pure, government-inspected, pre-rolled and packaged marijuana to treat the side effects of chemotherapy.

Marijuana reportedly alleviates the extreme nausea and discomfort that can accompany chemotherapy treatments for cancer.

According to the National Organization for Reform of Marijuana Laws, at least 13 states now use marijuana in legal research programs conducted under federal auspices. And a NORMAL spokeswoman, Alice O'Leary, said Oregon authorizes dispensing of the drug by doctors and use by patients under limited conditions.

Kirkpatrick said the pot will be given to doctors throughout the state who have been approved by the Illinois Cancer Council, a private organization.

Doctors who receive monthly marijuana shipments must have no criminal records and secure places to store the drug, Kirkpatrick said. They must also report their results to the council.

When the Legislature first authorized the plan last year, it did not specify how doctors were supposed to get the pot. Street sales obviously were not suitable, Kirkpatrick said, because the dosage is irregular and they often are contaminated by herbicides.

For example, Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is seeking comment from federal agencies on a study suggesting paraquat spraying to kill marijuana grown in Mexico may lead to lung illness in pot smokers. Paraquat is a herbicide.

So the Illinois pot, grown from Mexican marijuana seeds with the federal government's approval, will be obtained from the National Institute of Drug Abuse, Kirkpatrick said.

Kirkpatrick said the active ingredient — tetrahydrocannabinol, or THC — varies with different types of marijuana. He said Illinois will be getting two batches, one containing 1.2 percent THC, and the other 2 percent.

Kirkpatrick said he already has samples of the marijuana, but it will be about 90 days before the way is cleared for patients to start using it.
