President sees 'some positive signs'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, in a move to gain release of some 50 American hostages, is endorsing an international commission to explore Iran's long-festering grievances against the shah and the United States.

His declaration, at a news conference Wednesday, appeared to mark a policy change. Carter said there were "some positive signs" toward ending the 103-day impasse but refused to go into details.

His announcement capped day-long rumors and political duels between his administration and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, his chief challenger for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Massachusetts senator had sought to take credit for the latest move. But Carter called Kennedy's claim — and the senator's litany of alleged U.S. foreign policy mistakes — "damaging to our country."

The president's endorsement of "an appropriate commission with a carefully defined purpose" contrasted with his doubts at a news conference

Nov. 28 that any forum would listen to Iranian complaints, justified or not.

Carter was careful not to proclaim a breakthrough in the tedious and still unsuccessful negotiations over the Americans seized by militants on Nov. 4.

Reflecting past disappointments, he said "experience has taught us to guard against excessive optimism."

The president did not spell out the kind of commission he had in mind, although he said any settlement must be "consistent with our goals and our essential international principles."

Sources said he wants a neutral commission conducting a balanced inquiry into past U.S. support for the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Carter's approach clearly rules out a show trial designed merely to assess guilt against the United States, the sources said.

Kurt Waldheim, the U.N. secretary general, and other intermediaries have been at work for some time on a number of plans keyed to creation of a commission and freeing the hostages.

However, a spokesman for the militants who occupy the U.S. Embassy in Tehran reiterated Wednesday their initial and unwavering precondition — return of the shah to Iran to face trial as a war criminal.

Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, the new Iranian president, stressed three demands in a broadcast interview. He said the United States must acknowledge its "crimes," accept Iran's right to extradite the shah and recover his wealth and promise not to interfere in Iranian affairs.

Stiff as his proposals are, Bani-Sadr did not insist on extradition of the shah from Panama, but simply Iran's right to bring him back.

The key to the crisis may be held by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, whose position U.S. officials said privately is not clear.

For his part, Carter struck a conciliatory stance. He did not castigate Iranian authorities or the militants, as he had in the past, and he did not insist that the Americans be set free before the commission could begin its inquiry. And yet, the president refused to accept blame for the U.S. role in restoring the shah to the Peacock throne in 1953.

"That's ancient history," he said, "and I don't think it is appropriate or helpful for me to go into the propriety of something that happened 30 years ago."

He also drew a line at home against Kennedy, who has questioned Carter's tactics in the hostage situation and charged that weakness in foreign policy prompted the Soviet thrust into Afghanistan.

"His statements have not been true, they have not been accurate and they have not helped our country," Carter said.

Campaigning in New Hampshire, Kennedy said his criticism was "obviously not directed to the country, but directed to Mr. Carter and his handling of foreign policy."

Kennedy likened Carter to former President Richard M. Nixon under attack. "We heard similar kinds of allegations and charges and I would hope that the country has learned that lesson and learned it well," Kennedy said.

For weeks, Kennedy has tried to draw Carter into campaign debates over foreign policy and inflation and other domestic problems. Carter has resisted, saying he had to remain in Washington to deal with the plight of the hostages and the Soviet intervention into Afghanistan.

At his news conference, the president said he would not resume "normal campaigning" until they are released, but he did not directly rule out a debate with Kennedy before then.

Meanwhile, Carter reaffirmed that if Soviet troops were not withdrawn from Afghanistan by next Wednesday he would ask American athletes to boycott the Olympic Games in Moscow in July.

He said he would not relent even if the Soviets pulled out between the Feb. 20 deadline and May 24, when national Olympic committees must decide whether to send teams to Moscow.

CARTER MAKES POINT — President Carter emphasizes a point during his news conference Wednesday evening in the Executive Office Building. Carter opened the session with reporters with a statement followed by questions from the floor.

FOR HIJACK LOOT — Geologist Leonard Palmer of Portland State University shows layer of coarse sand dredged from the Columbia River and thrown up on the north bank nine miles north (downstream) from Vancouver, Wash., where some of the $200,000 loot from a 1971 D.B. Cooper hijacking was found Sunday by a family on a picnic. The trench was dug for FBI investigators.

Tax board to hire mapper, sign contract with county

Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal Board agreed Wednesday to contract with the county for computer services.

The board asked Zirah Bednor, Howard County Tax Assessor and Collector, to draw up a contract for use of a computer, the county will soon purchase.

It's quickest way to success

The best kind of want ad is always one that produces results in a hurry. It can be worded perfectly but if it doesn't "sell," some ingredient to the winning formula is missing.

A man willing to swear by Herald want ads recently offered a 1966 Ford pickup for sale. The ad ran for two days in the Herald but the second day with the word "sold" across it.

Dial 263-7331 and initiate your order for space in the Herald's want ad section. It's the quickest, less complicated way to insure success of the business transaction you're undertaking.

The rent charge for computer services will be $1,000 monthly. This amount compares to $2,100 monthly if the tax board rented a separate computer. Outright purchase of a computer would be $65,000.

Board member Jack Watkins said, "I think if we utilize the county's computer it would be most economical."

In other action, Earl Dean, Chief Appraiser for Howard County, told the board his office has completed ownership mapping of the county one mile north and south of Interstate 20 from Coahoma to the Cosden Refinery.

Dean told the board his work crews have skipped the refinery and are currently working on the original Big Spring township.

Dean also reported to the board he will be hiring a man to start in June for mapping. The mapper is presently attending college and will graduate in June.

The board also voted to allow Dean to attend six tax appraisal seminars in the West Texas area.

In final action, Pritchard and Abbott, a firm that has been evaluating oil and mineral land in Howard County, appeared before the board to ask for an extension on an appraisal bid.

The board told representatives from the firm that bids will be asked for beginning the second Wednesday in April.

Double jeopardy cited as reason

Charges against Green dropped

By DON WOODS
District Judge Jim Gregg dismissed involuntary manslaughter charges against Lonnie Ray Green Wednesday when he learned that Green had entered a no contest plea to the same charge in municipal court.

Defense Attorney Dick Milstead introduced the motion to dismiss the case shortly before the trial was to begin Wednesday.

Raymond Brown, 50, Lamesa, died in a collision between his car and Green's Oct. 30 at the corner of FM 700 and Cedar.

Charges filed in city court by Major Crime Task Force member Jimmy Lockhart and the indictment presented to the grand jury were almost identical.

District Attorney Rick Hamby said, "It's hard for me to imagine a more clear cut case of double jeopardy. I don't like it, but it's the law. The right thing was done. It just so happens that in this instance the right thing makes me sick at heart. From my discussion with the widow, it has done little to alleviate her anguish."

Hamby said the matter wasn't the fault of any one individual but a procedural problem.

"No one can be blamed at the police department. The officer investigating did his job in issuing the citations and did it well. Everyone else connected with this matter did their job and I can only speculate that there was a break down in communications somewhere," he said.

Green pleaded no contest to failure to control speed in City Judge John Coffee's court on Oct. 31, the day after the accident. Green was fined $40. He was then transferred to county jail where he was released on $15,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Lewis Heflin.

"Everything went the way it was supposed to go," said Lockhart. "We write a citation every time someone is in an accident. He (Green) paid the citation the next day."

Lockhart said he would be careful about writing citations on accidents in the future. "You can always mark on your accident report who is wrong," he said.

Lockhart was on patrol at the time. He came onto the Major Crime Task Force in November.

"If the district attorney had known how the citation was written maybe he could have prepared the charge to the grand jury a little different," he said.

Hamby said the case shouldn't have been brought to his office to begin with.

"If they've taken care of the case, why have they brought it to me?" he said.

Pleas of no contest on traffic citations are not routinely included in the information folder given to Hamby by the investigating officer.

Defense Attorney Milstead didn't know of the plea of no contest in city court either until after the jury was picked Monday.

Hamby issued this statement: "The Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution says...Nor shall any person for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy for life or limb." The courts have interpreted the "same offense" to mean the same action or activity by a defendant that is relied upon for prosecution.

"Our indictment relies on the method in which the defendant drove his vehicle causing it to collide with the vehicle of Mr. Brown causing his death. The offense which the defendant pled guilty to the day after the offense also relies on the manner in which the defendant drove his vehicle causing it to collide with the vehicle of the deceased. It's hard for me to imagine a more clear cut case of double jeopardy."

"The problem can be alleviated in the future by not pleading the defendant guilty to lesser included offenses when felony charges are going to be brought against the defendant in my office."

HC Communications Workshop expected to lure 100 students

About 100 area high school students are expected to attend the annual Howard College Communications Workshop scheduled for Saturday on the Big Spring Campus.

A staff of 17 communication educators and professional journalists from throughout Texas will conduct sessions during the workshop. Topics which will be covered include news-writing, sports writing, feature writing, advertising, radio and photography.

The workshop will begin at 9 a.m. and run through 3 p.m. with students participating in seven 30-minute sessions.

Members of the Big Spring Herald who will participate are Bill Forshee, photographer, Nathan Poss, sports editor, and Oliver Cofer, advertising manager.

Jim Baum, owner and manager of KBYG in Big Spring, Gary Bradbury, owner and manager of KFNE and KHEM in Big Spring, and Winston Wrinkle, owner and manager of KBST in Big Spring are also scheduled to participate.

Walter Buckle, publisher of the Lamesa Press-Reporter, and Larry Sanders of Keaton Kolor in Abilene will also participate.

From the academic world, Dr. Harmon Morgan and Dr. Phil Issett, both on the Texas Tech faculty, J. R. Parrish, assistant professor at East Texas State University and LeRoy Ramsey, journalism instructor at Paris Junior College, will speak during the workshop.

David Matustik, editor of the Richardson Daily News, Vicki Matustik, public information office at Richland College in Dallas, and Vivian Morrow, staff writer at the Grand Prairie Daily News, will also participate.

Jerry Clark of Taylor Publishing will host a session on yearbook production.

Coordination breakdown occurred, Mitchell says

By JAMES WERRELL
The dismissal of manslaughter charges against Lonnie Ray Green Wednesday was the result of a breakdown in coordination between municipal and district agencies, said City Attorney Elliott Mitchell, today.

In a prepared statement, Mitchell stated: "The policies and procedures of the Police Department and Municipal Court are currently being reviewed in order to insure that future prosecutions of individuals at the Municipal Court level are properly coordinated with the District and County Attorneys so as to prevent the recurrence of such as incident in the future.

Action/reaction: Traffic tragedies

Q. For the newborns in America, what are their odds in escaping death or injury in an automobile accident?

A. It's estimated one of every 60 babies being born today will perish in a traffic accident. Six in every ten American babies will be injured in a traffic accident during their lifetime.

Calendar: 'Passport to Adventure'

TODAY

Bill Forshee, Herald photographer, will be interviewed by Jim Baum, KBYG newscaster, beginning at 7:15 a.m.

The District 9-B girls championship game between Borden County and Klondike will be held today at 7 p.m. in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Salute to Hospitalized Veterans will be held at VA Medical Center from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Some of the activities will include cheerleaders from Big Spring High School and four choral groups.

The Building Trades class at Big Spring High School will conduct demonstrations on how to change out plugs and switches. They will also demonstrate simple plumbing repairs. Both demonstrations will be conducted at 7 p.m. at the high school. Those planning to attend should call 267-7461 Ext. 63.

Big Spring Rotary Club's 'Passport to Adventure' program, entitled 'Taiwan,' 7:30 p.m., Howard College Auditorium.

FRIDAY

The Howard County Library will have Story Hour for pre-school aged children from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m.

Howard County supporters of Larry Don Shaw, candidate for State Representative of the 63rd District, will host a come-as-you-are candidate's reception at 5 p.m., at Shaw's home at 1307 Barnes Ave.

Tops on TV: 'A Touch of Class'

It's the best thing to happen every four years, and we don't mean the presidential elections. ABC will feature the second day of the Winter Olympics at 7:30 p.m. Events will include the U.S.-Czech hockey game, men's downhill skiing, speed skating and cross-country skiing. The affable Jim McKay will host. Late-night viewers should catch the 15-minute Olympic wrap-up at 10:30 p.m. and the movie that follows, "A Touch of Class." The flick stars the classy actors Glenda Jackson and George Segal. Both shows are on ABC.

John Joyce saw the gift as a way of opening trade with mainland China and a chance for the bull to be among the few of his breed to see China. See page 8-A.

Outside: Rain

Partly cloudy and warmer through Friday with a slight chance of afternoon and evening showers. High this afternoon and Friday near 70, low tonight in the mid 40s. Northwest winds will blow at 15 to 25 mph and gusty through Friday, but only 15 to 20 mph tonight. Chance of rain this afternoon and tonight is 20 percent. Wind warnings are in effect for area lakes.

Police beat Sorry to eat and run

Two couples at Jo-Boy's Restaurant apparently felt no qualms about eating and running, 2:45 a.m. today.

The two pairs ordered and ate $15.35 worth of food at the restaurant, and then ran out on the bill.

A gold and diamond ring belonging to Charlotte Hensley, 1208 Ridgeroad, was stolen from a desk drawer at the Big Spring YMCA, 6:15 p.m. Wednesday. The ring was valued at $500.

Burglars broke into a home at 711 Willia belonging to Sam Leeson, P.O. Box 1045, recently. After breaking a window there, the intruders made off with an electric guitar valued at $110.

Burglars stole a bone-handled hunting knife from a car belonging to William Litscombe, 2404 Allendale, sometime between Saturday night and Wednesday morning. The knife was valued at $24.

Mrs. W.R. Loper, 2912 Cherokee, reported that when she went to pick up her children at the Howard County Fair Grounds, a man known to her threatened her with a knife. Police will investigate further.

Deborah Hurrington, 1411 Bluebird, believes she knows the vandal who broke out the right window and bent the antenna on her car while it was parked at Bauer Elementary School, 11:50 a.m. Wednesday. Damage was estimated at $100.

Only one mishap was reported Wednesday. Vehicles driven by Evangelina Arenivaz, 100 Carey, and Larry Simmons, Gail Route, collided at 1207 W. 3rd, 3:13 p.m.

City manager declares No one to blame

ordinarily do not constitute a basis for criminal indictment."

Were mistakes made in the prosecution of this case?

"In a qualified fashion, they were. A legal deficiency has been discovered and it will be corrected," added Mitchell.

Both Mitchell and City Manager Don Davis are quick to point out that the blame in this case rests on the shoulders of no individual or single agency.

"We do not allocate the blame anywhere, not on the district attorney who was unaware that the Municipal Court proceedings had already been done when he got the case," said Mitchell. "And not on Officer Lockhart, who did exactly what he was supposed to do," he added.

"Officer Lockhart was not at fault in any way or fashion. And I want to stress that we are not trying to lay this at the door of the District Attorney's office either," said Davis.

Where, then, was the breakdown in coordination?

"The District Attorney gets a folder from the Police Department when a case is filed. The folder usually contains copies of arrest reports, the status of the defendant, whether he is out on bail and that sort of thing," explained Davis. "This (Green's plea of nolo contendere) should have been in the folder, but without looking, I can't say whether it was for sure."

whether that information had been included in the case folder he received.

"I knew a citation had been issued for a traffic offense," said Hamby. "But if this (the nolo contendere plea) had been done, the law is so fundamental I wonder why the (manslaughter) case was brought to me to begin with."

According to Davis, similar situations in which double jeopardy was involved have occurred before in the city.

"We had double jeopardy cases earlier this fall that involved DWI (driving while intoxicated) charges. Those cases had to be dismissed," said the city manager. "We revised the city policy so that if someone were arrested for DWI, he would be issued a DWI charge and no other moving violation."

Why wasn't the policy changed to cover all violations?

"It is hard to play the what-if game to cover all circumstances on the street," he replied.

What will the city do to see that this situation does not occur again?

"We don't want to overreact. We are constantly reviewing departmental procedures, and this situation will certainly be taken into consideration in future reviews," said Mitchell. "Although we are not placing the blame on any person or department, I can say that there was no coordination between the Municipal Court and the District Attorney's office in this instance."

THAT PERSONAL TOUCH — Editor Tommy Hart of the Herald was one of the lucky ones who received a 'singing telegram' Wednesday, a Valentine's Day special offered by Mary Jane Ward and Gayle Osborne, owners of Roadrunners Errand Services and Timesavers (REST). The two women, dressed as rag dolls, added a postscript to the message with pecks on the cheek of a somewhat surprised Hart. Members of the Herald's editorial staff chose that way to remind their co-worker that Valentine's Day should have a special meaning for everyone, that the only things you keep are the things you give away.

Clayton may escape grand jury quiz

Labor leader accepted money from undercover FBI agents

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston labor leader says he accepted money from undercover FBI agents in operation "Bribab," but claims the funds were used for his public relations firm.

"I received fees and commissions from (Joseph) Hauser and the FBI for services of my company," Harold Grubbs, education director for the Pipe Fitters Local 211 Joint Apprenticeship and Training Committee, said Wednesday.

While refusing to say how much money he received or what he did with it, Grubbs added that if he was doing business with the FBI, "they owe me my commission for February, and I wish they would arrange to pay me."

He said he was willing to tell his story "for a price."

We're in trouble when they can send the FBI with a sack of money to entrap legitimate business people."

A federal grand jury spent Wednesday hearing testimony from Grubbs and other labor leaders, but the key Texas political figure — House Speaker William Clayton — apparently will not appear until Friday.

Clayton's attorney is tied up with another case and was not able to appear Thursday. U.S. Attorney A.J. "Tony" Canales has agreed to the delay.

Another key figure in the probe — union official L.G. Moore — may not testify at all if his lawyers are successful in their appeals to the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Moore, regional director of the Operating Engineers

International Union, was originally scheduled to appear Tuesday, as was Clayton. But Moore's lawyer went to court asking that the grand jury subpoena be quashed.

U.S. District Judge Carl O. Bue Jr. denied the request, but attorney Michael Ramsey then took the case to the appeals court.

Judge Reynaldo Garza granted a temporary delay Wednesday only moments before Moore was to begin his testimony. Ramsey said the appeals court can now either erase the temporary stay or agree to hear oral arguments why the subpoena should be withdrawn.

Ramsey said the U.S. Justice Department purposely leaked accusations about Moore's alleged involvement in Bribab.

"So much damage can be done to a citizen when the secret police version is made public," the lawyer said.

Published reports said Clayton accepted $10,000 from Moore during a Nov. 8 meeting in Austin when insurance coverage for state employees was discussed.

Also attending the meeting was Joseph Hauser, an FBI informant posing as a representative for Prudential Life Insurance Co.

Clayton has insisted he thought the money was a political contribution from Moore and that when the two men left his office the money was "put in a safe place" so it could be returned to the labor leader the next time he was in Austin.

Sherman Fricks, business manager for the 8,000-member Pipefitters Union, Local 211, and once secretary-treasurer of the Texa AFL-CIO, said Hauser had once offered him money to help any political candidates being backed by the union.

Fricks, talking with newsmen shortly before going into the grand jury room, said he had refused the money.

Hauser posed as a special consultant to Prudential who could handle all the problems that labor unions might encounter with insurance programs, Fricks said.

The union official said he now is convinced, "I was being set up to talk about money."

Fricks said in one of four meetings with Hauser, "He talked about the mayor's race in Houston and said he would be happy to support our candidate."

"He said he would give us some front money for the candidates and then talked about how to raise money that did not have to be reported."

The pipefitters local took out a policy with Prudential, making monthly premium payments of about $420,000. But, Fricks said, "We were already in heat for Prudential before Hauser came around. The majority of our members wanted Prudential and we got an excellent policy."

Harold Grubbs, identified as an official of a joint union-management committee overseeing apprenticeship programs for the pipefitters, had this to say to newsmen after his grand jury appearance: "If you want to buy this story, I'll tell you what you want to know. But, you won't get it free."

Wells Fargo loot found

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police, acting on a tip from a witness, say they have recovered more than half the loot and arrested five persons following the robbery of a Wells Fargo truck.

The Tuesday robbery of $367,000 was believed to be the biggest robbery in New Orleans history. Police said Wednesday they recovered $167,000 and made the arrests after a bystander got the license plate number of the alleged getaway car.

Chrysler keeping quiet

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time since 1975, all Big Three automakers were offering rebates to buyers — but Chrysler Corp. kept its offer quiet.

The financially troubled automaker confirmed Wednesday it had offered rebates of $200 to $700 since Jan. 21 to buyers of some 1979 models, but a spokesman who asked anonymity would say only, "We just decided to work on it ourselves."

Both General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. began rebate offers this month.

Stay of execution given

ATLANTA (AP) — Death Row inmate Jack Howard Potts, who said he wanted to die as scheduled Friday, has received a stay of execution.

Gov. George Busbee granted the stay of up to 90 days at the request of the state Board of Pardons and Paroles. The stay will allow the board to hold hearings on whether Potts' sentence should be commuted or upheld. Potts was convicted of kidnapping and murder after a 1975 crime spree in north Georgia.

23 state representatives study plans to avoid 'blitz'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House Speaker Bill Clayton still holds his powerful job, but 23 representatives conferred Wednesday about avoiding a "blitz" from speaker candidates if he resigns.

Leaders figure the "Uncommitted Independent Caucus" could eventually attract 40 or more members.

"Any candidate will have to deal with this group," said Rep. Bill Caraway, D-Pasadena, who organized the closed-door meeting in a downtown hotel.

Most of those attending were conservatives or moderates.

The 150 House members elect the speaker, whose dominance over legislation makes him one of the three most important state officials.

Clayton appears Friday before a federal grand jury in Houston about receiving $5,000 during a conversation with a Houston labor leader and a man posing for the FBI as a Prudential insurance agent.

Some legislators and lobbyists believe Clayton would resign as speaker if he is indicted.

If Clayton resigned, House members would elect a new speaker at the special session of the Legislature that Gov. Bill Clements says he will convene in August.

Caraway said he was not a candidate for speaker if Clayton quits but added, "You never say 'never' in politics."

Rep. Gene Green, D-Pasadena, walked out of the meeting because, he said, some spoke against speaker candidate John Bryant, D-

Dallas.

"I think if you are uncommitted, you are uncommitted toward everybody," said Green, who told reporters "if the election were held today, I'd probably vote for Johnny Bryant."

Caraway said the group would "activate our communication system" if a speaker's race emerges and would gather here to interview candidates.

"The biggest fear of our members is being caught in a blitz and not know how our colleagues are responding," he said.

Reps. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, and Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, are seeking votes to succeed Clayton. Both revved up their campaigns when news that Clayton was the target of an FBI "sting" broke the weekend.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, who has talked of running for speaker himself, acknowledged the likelihood of a "blitz" if Clayton gives up the speakership.

"Candidates should make their candidacy known now, because when the moment comes, it will be over in a matter of hours," he said.

Others attending the meeting were Reps. Dan Kubiak, D-Rockdale; John Sharp, D-Victoria; Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk; Walter Grubbs, D-Abilene; Bill Messer, D-Belton; Bob Maloney, D-Dallas; Don Rains, D-San Marcos; Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque; Gerald Geistweidt, R-Mason.

Two men charged with theft at Zales here

Two 24-year-old men from Los Angeles have been arrested in connection with the Jan. 18 theft at the Zales Jewelry Store, 100 E. 3rd.

On that day, said local police, two men walked into the store and asked to see a large diamond ring valued at $6,250 in a display case there. When they had the ring in hand, they ran from the store and fled in a car.

Two suspects were arrested in Lubbock on suspicion of a similar theft of a Zales Store there. After questioning, Lubbock Police suspected that the two men may have been involved in both the Big Spring theft and another that occurred in Plainview shortly thereafter.

On Wednesday, Detective Avery Faulkner and Texas Ranger Eddie Almond took a witness from the local Zales store to attempt to identify the suspects in a lineup in Lubbock. Subsequently, Ron Ray Smith and David Johnson, both 24 and both residents of Los Angeles, were charged with the local theft.

Deaths

Mrs. Guilliams

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Cal Guilliams, 72, a former resident of Big Spring.

Funeral services for Mrs. Guilliams will be today at 3:30 p.m. in Wichita Falls.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Cal Guilliams; one daughter, Mrs. Jim (Maude) Barrington; grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mrs. McGowan

Mrs. Ina (Smitty) McGowan, 76, died 2 a.m. Thursday at her home.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Friday at First United Methodist Church with burial at Mt. Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

She was born Jan. 3, 1904, in Jones County. She first came to Howard County in 1909 with her parents. She had been a beautician since 1930.

She was a member of First United Methodist Church. She was active in the church. She was honored Wednesday night by Chancel Choir at First United Methodist Church for 50 years service in the choir.

She married Fred McGowan, Dec. 31, 1935 in Big Spring. He died April 20, 1977.

She was a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club and the auxiliary of Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. She was a member of the Philathea class at the church.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. P.E. (Kawana) Newman of Lomax; a stepson, Bennie McGowan of Odessa; four sisters, Mrs. Bill McIlvain; Mrs. W.L. Osborne; Mrs. Willie McDaniel and Mrs. Grady Hodnett all of Big Spring; two grandsons, one granddaughter; and six great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by one great-grandson.

The family suggests those desiring to give memorials give to Chancel Choir, a favorite charity.

Declining water levels may lead to rationing

LUBBOCK — Because of declining water levels in Lake Meredith, cities served by the Canadian River Municipal Water Authority may be facing problems.

If current drought conditions continue, the CRMWA board could be forced to ration the water its member cities get from the lake.

Lake Meredith is located on the Canadian River in the northern part of the Texas Panhandle. Lake Meredith serves as the major supplier for the city of Lubbock. In 1979, the city received nearly 11 billion gallons of water from the lake.

Other cities which would be affected in event a water rationing plan is adopted are Borger, Pampa, Levelland, Brownfield, Slaton, Lamesa, O'Donnell, Tahoka, Plainview and Amarillo.

The problem is not immediate but John Williams, director of CRMWA, said if low stream conditions continue for another two years, the area cities will have to control the withdrawal of water from the lake.

The water level in the lake is now at 75.8 feet. It was at an all-time high in April 1973, when the lake reached a depth of 101.9 feet.

Development of a third major water source for the City of Lubbock has been a major concern for city officials for a decade. The city has a backup source wells in the Sand Hills, located in Bailey County, but has used very little water from that source in recent years.

Weather — Some fog reported in West Texas area

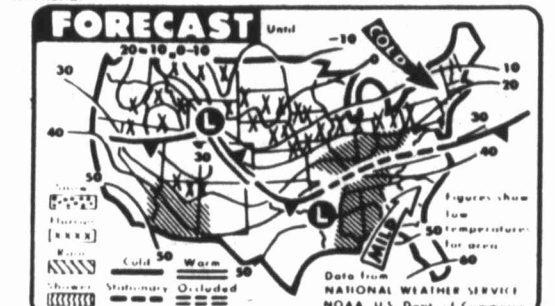

By the Associated Press

Clear to partly cloudy skies and warm temperatures dominated Texas weather today.

Dense fog covered the eastern half of the state from the Dallas-Fort Worth area southward into the Lower Rio Grande Valley during the morning hours.

Travelers advisories were issued because the fog created hazardous driving conditions, particularly south of Corpus Christi. Some fog was also reported in West Texas.

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow flurries are expected in the forecast period, today until Friday morning, from the northern Rockies through the Midwest to western Pennsylvania. Rain is forecast from the central Gulf to the Midwest and in the Southwest. Cold weather is forecast for the northern tier of states and mild weather in the southern regions across the country.

Firefighter badly hurt in Abilene

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — An investigation was to be launched by the Air Force today after a pressurized tank containing firefighting material exploded, injuring nine persons at Dyess Air Force Base.

One person was seriously injured in the accident, an Air Force spokesman said Wednesday.

There was no fire, the spokesman said, but that the force of the blowout fragmented the three-foot-tall tank and blew out windows at the station. An Air Force spokesman first reported that the men were injured by a flash fire.

One of the first men at the scene, Tech Sgt. Ronald Kennedy, said the men were performing a routine transfer of the Halon from the tank to a truck at the time of the blowout. He said Halon was a material used to fight aircraft fires.

"All I heard was an explosion," said Kennedy.

Kennedy, an 18-year firefighting veteran called the blowout a "freak accident" and said he had never seen anything like it.

All the men handling the material were experienced firefighters familiar with the equipment, he said.

Lt. Col. Donald Neal, chief public affairs officer at the base, said the cause of the blowout had not yet been determined.

Demo, two Republicans challenging Dick Slack

ODESSA — Incumbent Dick Slack faces opposition from a fellow Democrat and two Republicans in the race for state representative in the 8th District this year.

The winner of that race will oppose the winner of the Republican clash between Jerry Cockerham of Monahan and Carolyn Powers of Odessa.

Slack is the dean of the Texas House, having served in the legislature since 1952. He is a resident of Pecos.

Good neighbors increase house's value

There's much wisdom in the old saying, "Good neighbors increase the value of a house."

In these dangerous times, when the curve in crime statistics moves ever upward, that becomes especially true.

In some great cities, some tenants will not live in apartment buildings and condominiums unless a doorman is on duty 24 hours a day in the lobby. And that doorman must not only be on his toes but reinforced by elaborate alarm and surveillance systems.

PEOPLE WHO RESIDE in private dwellings, of course, cannot count on such an intricate plan of observance and detection. That is why good and alert neighbors can play such an important role in the protection of your well being and your property. Of course, it goes without saying that you owe them the same level of protection when they are away from their premises.

It is especially important for you to get to know those neighbors who are likely to be home when you are not and who can be counted upon to alert you or police if they see anything of a suspicious nature around your home.

It is important to those who feel threatened by individuals who would steal their property or do them bodily harm to take some lessons in self-defense. Don't, however, get rash and take unnecessary chances with a person who might be holding a gun or a knife. Use good common sense.

If you are threatened, it is recommended that you call "Fire!"

That may seem strange but the truth is, the word elicits more response from passersby than the word "Help!"

Other safety tips: —If you're a woman, hold clutch or shoulder bags close against your body with your elbow bent — this usually foils the casual purse-snatcher.

—Always carry some money. A mugger who didn't get any from you is likely to turn violent.

—Don't walk by yourself at night if you can help it, especially on a desolate, dimly-lighted street. Walk ahead or behind a group of people. Stay on streets where businesses are open late or all night.

—Have your key ready well before you reach the front door — don't fumble.

—If you think someone is following you and you live alone, head for the nearest well-populated area rather than home.

—As a precaution, ring your own doorbell before entering your apartment or house. Why risk surprising a nervous burglar caught in the act?

Harper's Bazaar magazine, which offers many of these suggestions, also has advice for women who might be faced with an assailant who might have designs on their person as well as their purse. Try fainting or giving a good imitation of it. Drooling might work, too, even acting as if you are about to throw up. A would-be rapist can be discouraged by a limp body and put off by non-aggressive, though repulsive behavior.

Ethics questioned

Around the rim

Steve Hershberger

The FBI "Sting" operation raises some questions of ethical propriety on the part of the accused and law enforcement officials.

On one hand we have state officials who allegedly took cash in exchange for political favors; at the same time, we have law enforcement officials perpetrating crime.

Who was wrong in the celebrated "BRILAB" and "ABSCAM" operations, those who took bribes or those who did the dealing?

THE ISSUE BECOMES especially acute when considering two prominent political figures from this region, Billy Clayton of Texas and Gene Howard of Oklahoma.

Clayton, Speaker of the House in Texas, has made us all aware of his yearnings for the governor's mansion. Howard, Oklahoma Senate President Pro-Tem, is seeking election to the U.S. Senate from Oklahoma being vacated by Henry Bellmon.

Howard allegedly took $5,000 in exchange for promised manipulation in the awarding of an insurance contract covering state employees.

Howard has admitted he took the money. Clayton is charged with taking $10,000 from a union leader in exchange for giving specifications on state employee insurance bids. The speaker was to go before a grand jury Tuesday, but gained postponement until yesterday.

According to news accounts, Clayton took a stack of $100 bills from Houston labor leader, L.G. Moore, during a meeting with FBI agent Joseph Hauser, who was posing undercover as an insurance company representative. Moore had set up the meeting with Clayton to introduce Hauser.

Clayton claims he took the money so as not to embarrass Moore in front of Hauser. The speaker further maintains he was to return the money.

After three months, Clayton had not returned the money to Moore.

Two questions come to mind. Why did Clayton, reportedly a millionaire, take the money in the first place?

SECONDLY, WHY didn't Clayton report the money as a campaign contribution on state financial forms or contact authorities as to the money's legality?

Both Howard and Clayton are shouting "entrapment." This issue of "entrapment" is so pertinent that the Texas Civil Liberties Union has stepped into the picture.

TCLU claims the FBI violated the rights of Clayton and Howard by enticing them to wrongdoing. The issue, of course, will be decided by the courts.

Does the enormity of the FBI's actions vindicate the politicians' wrongdoing?

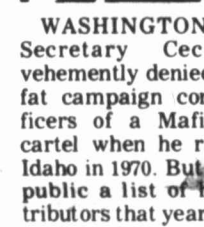

Before answering bear in mind the following. Three New Jersey congressmen were approached with bribes. They declined and reported the shady activities to the FBI or Justice Department. U.S. Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., stormed out of a meeting when a "deal" was mentioned and also contacted legal authorities.

The courts will decide if those who received bribes are guilty, many will not be.

But I would question the ethical capacity of any person to serve as a "speaker of the house" or "president pro-tempore" if he were acquitted of bribery charges because law officers acted wrongly by offering enticing sums.

Mafia linked

Jack Anderson,

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus has vehemently denied that he accepted a fat campaign contribution from officers of a Mafia-connected sports cartel when he ran for governor of Idaho in 1970. But he refused to make public a list of his campaign contributors that year.

His reluctance to go beyond a simple denial was shared by the Carter White House, which cut all mention of the alleged contribution out of Andrus' FBI background check before allowing the Senate confirmation committee to see it.

WHILE DIRECT evidence is thus lacking, four of Andrus' top appointments as Idaho governor lend indirect credence to the suspicion that he was indebted to Emprise Corp., which wanted to build a fancy race track in northern Idaho. At the very least, the appointments indicate that the race track entrepreneurs had a friend in Andrus.

The most obvious of these appointments was that of Ken Malone to the state horse racing commission. Malone was a known backer of Emprise's bid to get a license for the northern Idaho race track. He even appeared as an Emprise representative before the horse racing commission on Nov. 19, 1966. His appearance for Emprise was duly noted in the minutes of the commission's meeting.

The minutes of that meeting mysteriously disappeared, along with other minutes, after Malone took his seat on the commission and was left alone with the documents. The minutes reappeared just as mysteriously three years later. Furthermore, Malone's connection to Emprise was deleted from a legislative audit made after the minutes had been returned to the files.

When he eventually left the racing commission, Malone wound up in the middle of an organized-crime battle over Boise message parlors, sources told my associate Dale Van Atta.

A SECOND ANDRUS appointee was J. Ray Cox as state personnel boss. Cox was Emprise's attorney in Idaho, and also represented Mob-connected bars in Stateline Village, the free-wheeling town on the Washington state line near which Emprise planned to locate its race track.

Cox was master of ceremonies at a banquet Emprise President Jeremy Jacobs had hosted in 1967 for northern Idaho bigwigs to drum up local support for the corporation's race track. One of those present who signed a letter of support for Emprise was Ed Williams, who became Andrus' campaign manager in the 1970 race; another was Darrell Manning, who ended up with a top appointment in the Andrus administration.

Andrus' choice for his No. 2 man when he became governor was Robert Lenaghan, a rough, tough union organizer who had been an effective fund-raiser for Andrus. Lenaghan was also deeply involved in horse racing and helped push through the state legislature a parimutuel betting bill — the necessary precursor of Emprise's move into the state.

According to witnesses, shortly after his appointment Lenaghan accosted a state legislator, Robert Graham, pushed him against a balcony of the state capitol and threatened to "bounce him off the floor" below if he didn't stop his opposition to legislation that would have given Andrus control of the racing commission.

The fourth of Andrus' controversial appointments was that of John Bender, a grizzled, small-town sheriff in northern Idaho, as the state's law enforcement commissioner. Such was Bender's reputation among lawmen — both in Idaho and out of state — that several of them characterized his appointment as putting the fox in charge of the chicken coop. I'll give details on Bender's activities, including his alleged links to organized crime, in a later column.

WOMANLY WILE: As both a woman and a liberal in the macho hawkish world of the House Armed Services Committee, Rep. Pat Schroeder, D-Colo., has her share of disagreements with her colleagues. So she smooths things over by sending valentines to her fellow committee members each year.

MISERY'S LOVE: Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., is apparently one of the few members of the House who greeted the ABSCAM scandal with satisfaction. He's been under investigation by the House Ethics Committee on charges of taking $15,500 from an individual trying to influence legislation. As one congressman remarked to another on the elevator the other day: "Charlie Wilson has been looking happier than ever now that he has all this company."

formal gowns touched our lives briefly and we are richer for it. Looking around the seemingly empty auditorium I realized that there were nearly as many people on the stage as in the audience.

Could we, the citizens of our town, respond in a more positive manner? Next time, could we not tear ourselves away from the "boob tube" for one hour of one night and make our visitors know that we appreciate them and want them back.

Or is it too late for Big Spring? The disease of indifference is more damaging than the sting of criticism. Sam M. Ainsworth 2500 Ann Drive

'That's show biz'

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — "FBI Casting Agent Riley speaking."

"Riley, this is Charles Hawkins of the Atlanta office. I hear you're looking for someone to play an Arab sheik in the sequel to 'Operation Abscam.'"

"Where did you hear that?"

"I read it in Variety."

"Damn, we were trying to keep the sequel a secret. What experience do you have?"

"I PLAYED A French dope peddler in the 'Marseilles Connection,' a Latin American arms merchant in 'Buenos Dias, Senor Fidel,' a Swiss gnome in 'Goldiggers of 1979' and the brother-in-law of Madame Marcos in 'I'll Take Manila.'"

"I didn't cast any of those stings," Riley said. "How were your reviews?"

"They were fantastic. Listen to this one by Rep. Greensleaves in the Congressional Record, 'FBI agent Hawkins certainly fooled me when I met him on the Eastern shuttle going to New York. He convinced me he was Mao Tse-tung's long-lost son, and gave me $50,000 to put in my briefcase until we got to La Guardia, because he said he didn't trust the stewardesses. I was never so entrapped in my life.'"

HAWKINS CONTINUED, "Here is one from the Newyday on Long Island: 'While the FBI's sting operation in Garden City left a lot to be desired, the casting of Charles Hawkins as a Mafia hit man was a stroke of genius. He brought life and excitement to what could have easily been a cliché role in the hands of a less-talented undercover man. It is a pity that the authors of this scam did not give Hawkins a bigger part. Had they recognized his talent, 'Operation Sticky Fingers' might not have closed on Saturday night.'"

"I have some more," Hawkins said. "No, that's okay," Riley replied. "How do you look on video-tape?"

"I'll send you a cassette of me bringing a food inspector in the 'Little Caesar Salad Caper.' After my appearance as a crooked female jockey, I received an Academy Award for 'best drag performance of the year in front of a hidden camera.'"

Riley said, "Your credentials seem to be in order. But the director is looking for a big name to play the sheik — someone a senator would pay money to see. We're putting $10 million into this production, and if we don't get any indictments out of it, we'll all be out of show business."

"Give me a break, Riley. I haven't had a good part since I played Robert Vesco's bagman in 'Oh Costa Rica.'"

"I'll put your name in, but don't get your hopes up. Every agent in the bureau wants to play the Arab sheik. You get a rent-free house, a Cadillac limousine and a yacht for wild parties."

Taking coals back to Newcastle

Alaskans have a problem, and it's directly related to oil. That is a paradox, since the state is supposed to collect billions from its production of oil.

Due to a combination of high prices and false hopes bred by recent mild winters, numerous rural villages in Alaska miscalculated their fuel needs last spring. This winter has been more severe than expected, with the result that the communities have had to cut into their supplies.

Happily, the state legislature has voted emergency funds for fuel purchases and transportation costs. This will help, but it does not alter the irony of a situation in which residents of a state blessed with an ocean of oil are running short of the commodity in a time of bitter cold.

Cystic fibrosis rare in adults

Paul G. Donohue, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My sister, age 37, was diagnosed recently as having cystic fibrosis. I am very worried. I have read in my encyclopedia that they treat this with antibiotics and with enzymes. Can you write on this subject? She is very depressed. — Mrs. B.

It is important to be very positive about the treatment of this illness to avoid the depression you speak of.

Your sister must have a very mild form of cystic fibrosis for it to be diagnosed at her age. It is most often discovered in infancy or early childhood.

There is an abnormally thick mucus produced in the lungs and in the pancreas, leading to blockage and malfunction there. As I mentioned, mild forms may appear in adults. If there is a family history of cystic fibrosis, heredity is blamed.

Involvement of the pancreas is somewhat easy to establish with laboratory tests. There is also an abnormally high level of chloride in the sweat, and certain changes can be found in the glands of the gastrointestinal tract (by biopsy).

There are several therapies available to help patients with cystic fibrosis. Use of expectorants, postural drainage to help clear the lungs and pancreatic enzymes (to replace those not being produced in the pancreas) are but a few. You live near a large city where there may be a local unit of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Your sister can obtain much useful information there and perhaps meet other persons with her illness to compare notes. Parents should suspect cystic fibrosis if a child has repeated lung infection and is failing to grow normally.

Dear Dr. Donohue: You wrote about leg cramps recently in answer to F.B.S. I used to have them and finally went to a doctor. He gave me quinine pills to take at night. It helped within two weeks. He was an older doctor. He told me it was not known why they worked, but I keep them on hand just in case. I haven't needed them for two years. I am 74 now. How does this help? — A.S.

Quinine does have an effect on muscles. It decreases their excitability and therefore tendency to cramp. There is a preparation that contains quinine in combination with another medicine, aminopylline. It is given to help people with muscle cramps, especially those that occur during the night. It is not always helpful. Often cramps can be due to an underlying circulation problem, and that has to be treated. I suspect this is what I was telling "F.B.S." with regard to her specific problem.

Congratulations on your own success. Other readers with the leg cramp problem might want to read further in the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pain," which they can order by mailing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Donohue: The agony suffered by the compulsive gambler, his wife, family and friends is so great I would appreciate very much your thoughts about it and where help can be obtained. — Mrs. A.D.

Compulsive gambling is certainly recognized as a psychiatric problem. The best advice I can offer is for you to locate a local branch of gambler's anonymous, a national organization which uses group therapy techniques to help men and women overcome or control this compulsion.

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am 17 and have a problem. I am beginning to feel it is a serious one — bed-wetting. I have heard that children of four or six years or even 12 years old have this. What about me? What should I do? — U.D.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I live in a neighborhood that has a lot of crime. I am getting rather old and I live in fear all the time. How can I deal with this? — Mrs. M.I.G.

DEAR MRS. M.I.G.: I believe God would have you take every reasonable precaution for your safety, and you should get the advice of others about ways you can make your apartment more secure. You also may find there are many others in your area who share your concern. Perhaps you will want to join with them when you go shopping. City life can often be lonely, and you need other people. If your church has a number of people who are in your situation it would be a logical place to start.

But I believe also that God wants you to learn to trust Him more, and not spend your time being fearful about what might happen to you. He does not want you to be blind to the real dangers you might face, but He also does not want you to exaggerate those dangers or live in fear all the time. If you belong to Christ, He is with you no matter where you are.

David was a man who knew what it was to live in fear, since he had many enemies. But some of the greatest Psalms were written by him in the midst of danger and express his great confidence in God. He came to know that no matter what happened to him he was in God's hands: "I will say of the Lord, 'He is my refuge and my fortress, my God, in whom I trust' ... You will not fear the terror of night, nor the arrow that flies by day ... If you make the Most High your dwelling ... then no harm will befall you" (Psalms 91:2,5,9,10).

When you learn to trust God more fully you will find your fears will lessen. Turn your attention to Him and don't spend all your time concentrating on what might happen to you. Discover His promises in His Word and ask Him to help you have confidence in them. That does not mean difficulties will never come your way. But even if they do, you need not fear the future because you know that nothing "will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:39).

Where are you going Mister Sugarato 806?

HOUSTON (AP) — Mister Sugarato 806 was an eager 13-month old, 900-pound purebred Brahman bull a year ago when his owner presented him as a gift to Chinese vice premier Teng Hsiao-ping during a visit to Texas.

John Joyce, managing partner of the Seaberg ranches at Boling and Dayton, saw the gift as a way of opening trade with mainland China and Mister Sugarato 806 may have seen a chance for world travel and to be among the few of his breed to see China.

Alas, neither dream has come true. Joyce has spent the past year trying to find out from both governments how and when he can deliver Mister Sugarato 806 to mainland China.

"Meanwhile, Mister Sugarato 806, famous at the time he was made a gift to the vice premier, now languishes on a pasture 30 miles south of Houston, pondering his fate and toornily munching on oats with the common cattle.

He's two years old now and weighs 1,400 pounds and he may die of old age before he ever gets to China," said Joyce. "I just want someone to tell me if they still want him. I wouldn't have any trouble selling the bull to someone."

After receiving approval of both governments to make the presentation, Joyce said he gave the bull to the vice premier Feb. 2, 1979 when Teng attended a rodeo at Simonton, 30 miles west of Houston.

"They told me they would get in touch with me as to how I was to get the bull to China," Joyce said.

But no one ever called and Joyce has been unable to get an answer after calls to the Secretary of Agriculture's office in Washington, Texas state officials and the Chinese consulate in Houston.

"They (State Department) first called and wanted me to bring some cattle to the rodeo to show the Chinese what we had," Joyce said. "I thought making the presentation of a bull would help them do a better job with their cattle.

"Number two, I thought it might give us a new market over there. So I figured if I was going to give them a bull, I'd give them a good one."

Sugarato 806 was valued at about $10,000 at the time of the presentation.

For several months after the vice premier's visit, the bull was pampered in a his own individual stall, given special high protein feed and scrubbed often to be ready for travel.

"We finally had to put him back in the pasture because it was costing too much," Joyce said. "He's still in very good shape but we hope to have enough time to get him cleaned up and fattened up if he ever gets to leave."

Joyce said if the Chinese do not want the bull, he will sell it. "But I'd hate to tell it and three months from now the government tells me they want the bull," Joyce said. "I'd just want to know how to get rid of the bull."

All Mister Sugarato 806 wants is more high protein feed.

Vocational education an alternative

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Texas system of publicly supported higher education is one of the largest in the nation and accounts for billions in expenditures from the state budget. In the fifth of six parts, Associated Press newsman Lee Jones explores options to a traditional four-year hitch in a university.

High school counselors shooed Robert Krienke off their campuses a decade ago whenever he came around to evangelize on behalf of vocational education.

"Our students go to college," they would sniff. But as new realities emerged in the 1970s, "their attitude changed from hostile to neutral to very supportive," says Krienke, general manager of Texas State Technical Institute at Waco.

TSTI and junior colleges

boomed as tighter family budgets, fewer jobs for college graduates and better opportunities for skilled workers caused many youngsters to seek alternatives to the traditional four-year university education.

State university

enrollments grew less than 1 percent this fall while TSTI's four campuses posted a 10 percent gain and the 47 junior college districts had a 3.79 percent increase.

Junior colleges have 241,799 students, almost three times as many as a decade ago. TSTI campuses in Waco, Amarillo, Harlingen and Sweetwater have 5,949 students.

Junior colleges offer a mix of freshman and sophomore university courses and vocational education. They are inexpensive and close to most Texans' homes.

Lacking entrance requirements, they also open higher education to students with poor high school records.

"Junior colleges are finding that a disadvantaged academic background does not mean that you are dumb, it does not mean an inability to learn," says Stanton Calvert, director of community college programs for the Texas College Coordinating Board.

A freshman or sophomore also might get better teaching at a junior college than at a university.

"Students are not taught by teaching assistants. They are taught by full-time faculty members, and the quality of instruction is outstanding," says Kenneth Ashworth, state commissioner of higher education.

Created locally, junior colleges get $245.6 million a year from the state, about a fifth of all general revenue appropriations for higher learning. TSTI gets $30.8 million.

Junior college districts, except Austin and Houston, supplement their state money and student tuition with property taxes. Half get more than 67 percent of their income from the state.

In theory, a student who wants a degree can take the freshman and sophomore years at a junior college, then finish at a university or upper-level school.

The Coordinating Board has issued "core curricula" in several fields that are supposed to transfer freely from junior colleges to universities.

"I would have to say it is reported to us that some of the universities are not honoring certain of the core courses," said David Kelley, the board's director of community colleges and continuing education.

The board is trying to learn why and iron out the problems, he said.

Kelley said national studies show that junior college transfers "compare favorably with students who began at a university."

Vocational students don't have to worry about transferring and can expect almost immediate employment at good wages.

TSTI president Maurice Roney says his graduates average three job offers apiece, while some college degrees are not marketable. Between 350 and 400 TSTI-Waco students already have bachelor's degrees.

Average starting salaries for 1979 TSTI graduates included $16,896 for welders; $18,133 for instrumentation technicians; and $16,300 in laser optics.

Students at TSTI-Waco's drab but well-equipped campus — a former Air Force base — average two hours of hands-on experience for every hour of instruction.

A machine shop course for 20 students is backed up by a $10,000 lathe, $10,000 milling machine and $30,000 turret lathe for each student.

Roney says students who attend TSTI — at an estimated cost of $3,435 per year for tuition, room, board and expenses — can expect hard work, with no college-type diversions or snap courses.

Nobody graduates from the FAA-approved aviation mechanic program without understanding the mathematics and physics of flight, and the drop-out rate is 50 percent.

"I told one student, 'Son, you are going to learn what makes that airplane work instead of just working on it.' That theory is very important. If they know the why and the how, they will develop the manipulative skill right along," said instructor Walter Luther.

Canyon officials indicted for perjury

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Randall County commissioners Jim Fletcher and Dee Griffin Sr. have been indicted on aggravated perjury charges by a grand jury investigating "gross deficiencies" in county fiscal planning.

Griffin, a two-term commissioner, was indicted Wednesday on two counts of aggravated perjury and two counts of official misconduct. Fletcher, who is leaving office to run for the Texas Legislature, was named on one count of aggravated perjury.

The panel also released an eight-page report critical of a county budgeting process containing "gross deficiencies and lack of judgment which have caused Randall County citizens to pay many unnecessary tax dollars."

The indictments allege Fletcher and Griffin made false statements to the grand jury and that Griffin tried to avoid investigation and that he refrained from performing the duties of his office.

Grand jurors also charged in the report that the county auditor's office has not been functioning according to law and that County Auditor William F. Tiley has been negligent in his job.

The panel said the auditor's office had not provided the Commissioners Court with timely financial statements.

The panel recommended the county hire a full-time auditor.

The grand jury returned the indictments and released the report about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Fletcher, Griffin and Tiley could not be reached for comment Wednesday night.

The report also said the Commissioners Court "must be more diligent in observing the letter and spirit of the laws governing their activities. Past actions have indicated a blatant disregard for these matters."

Criminal District Attorney Randall Sherrard said his office will prosecute the indictments even though the grand jury had acted against the wishes of his office in returning the indictments.

Not dangerous, construction official says

'Voids' found in nuclear plant walls

HOUSTON (AP) — From 50 to 60 "voids" — airholes — have been found in the concrete walls of two reactor buildings at a nuclear power plant near Bay City, a Brown and Root Inc. spokesman says.

"None of the voids would probably have been any problem even if not found," Steve Grote, the construction company spokesman said Wednesday.

"But we certainly don't want any voids in the containment walls," he said, adding that "about 90 percent" of the air holes are in the range of inches or less.

The South Texas Nuclear project is managed by Houston Light and Power and includes as a partner Austin's city-owned utility.

A spokesman for the Austin power company said a report they received indicates there are 77 voids in the walls, including one 27 feet long.

Grote said he did not believe any of the spaces, which are created when concrete is poured, reached that size, but added that "it's possible."

HL & P suspended pouring last June when three voids were found in one of the reactor buildings. Other voids had been found earlier.

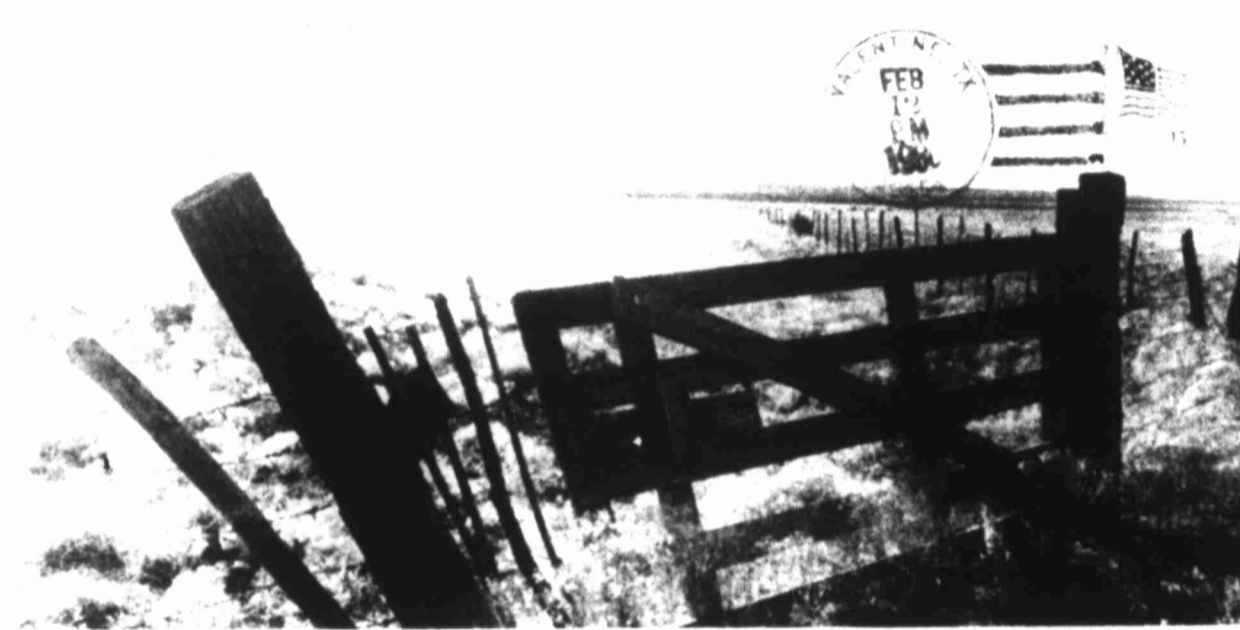

Grote said Brown and Root decided to perform the current survey after the voids were found last year.

Although he declined to release the results of the survey, Grote said the results would be included in a "non-compliance" report being prepared for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission which will be made public late this month.

Karl Seyfried, NRC regional director, said he knew of the survey. "We sort of anticipated they (Brown and Root) were going to find a fair number of additional voids," he said.

"But the number of voids is not significant. The critical aspect is the total volume of the voids," Seyfried said he would not find a 27-foot void "very disconcerting" based on the location of the earlier voids.

POSTMARK VALENTINE — An old gate on the ranchland near Valentine, Texas is superimposed on a postmarked envelope. Doris Kelley, postmaster for the past 25 years in this West Texas town of about 400, says she received about 2,000 valentines last year to be remailed throughout the world. The town's mayor Jesus Calderon, 29, says Valentine was named in the late 1800s when railroad through here was completed on February 14.

West Texas town hopping recently

Romance time fun in Valentine

VALENTINE, Texas (AP) — There are only 180 boxes in the little post office in this West Texas town, but Postmaster Doris Kelley gets real busy just before Feb. 14.

Mrs. Kelley, postmaster here for the past 25 years, says last year she received more than 2,000 valentines from people who wanted her to postmark and send them on.

She says she relayed some valentines as far as Australia and Saudi Arabia.

She says, "Quite often they even put one in for me. It's nice."

Valentine, with its population of about 400, is between Marfa and Van Horn, about 160 miles from El Paso.

Valentine Mayor Jesus Calderon, 29, says there are different stories about how the town got the name.

He says he thinks the Southern Pacific Railroad completed a section of track here Feb. 14, 1890. He says the town was just a railroad "watering stop" when it was named.

Calderon, who coaches at the Valentine school and runs a grocery store-gas station operation, says the town is growing.

He says railroading, farming and ranching keep the town going.

"The railroad exchanges crews in Valentine, so that brings more people," says Calderon. "All trains — except Amtrak — stop here."

Besides the post office, Valentine has two gas stations, a trucking company, three grocery stores and a bar.

Mrs. Kelley likes life here, especially Valentine time. She says, "Really, there's not much to it. It's a fun time."

Calderon adds:

"We have the friendliest people and the best weather in the nation."

"I've lived here all my life, and I don't plan to move."

One thing is for sure about Valentine — it's a long way to drive to mail a Valentine.

Doctor's opinion opposing Aspirin: The pound of cure?

EDITOR'S NOTE — A recent report disputing aspirin's value after a heart attack created controversy among doctors, but another report due out soon may redeem the drug. This is the second of a three-part series.

By KEVIN McKEAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It used to be simple — you had a headache, you took two aspirin.

But today, Americans are increasingly reaching for the aspirin bottle for the ounce of prevention rather than the pound of cure — and for some unexpected ills, like heart attacks and strokes.

In fact, many doctors are worried by the prospect of millions of Americans taking daily aspirin to ward off these diseases.

"Any time millions of people do something you're bound to see some side effects you hadn't noticed before," says Dr. Philip Majerus of Washington University, one of those whose work has showed why aspirin might be helpful in blood vessel disease.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration is expected soon to approve aspirin for helping prevent strokes among men who have had so-called transient ischemic attacks. These temporary blockouts are sometimes precursors of a stroke.

But a recent $17 million, three-year study of 4,500 persons who survived heart attacks suggested aspirin was worthless in preventing a second attack.

The results of at least one other study of aspirin — this one more favorable to the drug — are due to be released at a two-day conference at the institute beginning Feb. 20.

The excitement over aspirin comes from a new understanding of how it works.

Doctors have long known that aspirin prolongs bleeding, but in the last decade they learned it does so by blocking the production of clot-promoting prostaglandins in blood cells called platelets.

Blood clotting is a natural response to injury, and hemophiliacs who lack it can bleed to death from small cuts.

But when the interior of a blood vessel is damaged by atherosclerosis, diabetes or other diseases, dangerous clots can form even though the vessel is not ruptured.

This is believed to contribute to heart attacks and strokes, which occur when blood is cut off to portions of the heart or brain.

One of the first to notice the effect of aspirin was the late Dr. Lawrence Craven of Glendale, Calif. He wrote in 1953 that patients who took an aspirin a day seemed to get fewer heart attacks.

But it was not until 1974 that two studies emerged with good scientific evidence for this. The Boston Collaborative Drug Surveillance Program noted that heart attack victims tended to use less aspirin. And a British epidemiologist, Dr. Peter Elwood, said deaths were reduced 25 percent in the first year after a heart attack among people who took an aspirin a day.

Two studies — one in Canada and one in the United States — showed clear benefit from aspirin for men with transient ischemic attacks.

And Elwood published a new study last December showing 17 percent better survival for those taking aspirin among 1,682 men and women who had survived heart attacks. Unfortunately, in both Elwood's studies the benefit did not reach statistical significance — that is, it could have been due to chance.

British and American physicians are now being recruited into a study of whether daily aspirin can prevent vascular disease in people who do not already have symptoms of it.

In another study, National Eye Institute researchers are enrolling 3,000 diabetics to see whether daily aspirin can prevent the retinal damage that causes 15 percent of new cases of blindness.

"Aspirin makes good scientific sense and good biochemical sense," says Dr. John A. Colwell of Charleston, S.C., who heads a 10-center study of aspirin in diabetics for the Veterans Administration.

"But the bottom line is going to be whether platelets are involved in the small blood vessel disease (of diabetes). We certainly are not promoting the general use of aspirin in diabetics yet," he said.

Several researchers have noted that aspirin taken before or just after exposure to the sun reduces the redness of sunburn.

Sunburn is an inflammatory reaction to skin damage from the ultraviolet rays of the sun. By blocking the prostaglandins that promote inflammation, aspirin can slow this reaction — but cannot, of course, prevent the damage or heal it.

They're still in love after 50 years

Aside from annual wedding anniversaries, tradition has it that the next best time to show appreciation to that man or woman who vowed to stand beside you for 'better or for worse' is Valentine's Day.

And although that particular day has served the purpose of bringing together many shy secret admirers through a verse inside a Valentine's card, it's probably safe to say that just as many relationships have fallen by the wayside because one member of the husband and wife team failed to take the opportunity to say with a rose, or with a box of candy, or even just a card and a kiss just how special he or she is.

Sad, but true. However, there is the group of the elite — men and women who were shot by Cupid's arrows over 50 years ago. And after cupid's initial arrows were shot, these couples found ways to make their marriage work without any additional help from him.

For a marriage to survive over a half of a century, it must be built on much more solid ground than special remembrances on special occasions.

True and lasting love and relationships are uncommon aspects of today's get-a-divorce society which thrives on the motto, "if it doesn't work out, we can always get a divorce."

But whether these unique couples just tried a little harder during the rough times or whether they took their "till death do us part" marriage vows seriously, their special relationships deserve special recognition this Valentine's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Reynolds were married Dec. 29, 1929 in Texarkana, Ark., during the Depression.

How has this marriage lasted 50 plus years? What strengthened and bonded their lives together while other marital relationships were tearing apart at the seams?

Mrs. Reynolds said general remembrances and anniversaries played only a minor part. But whether it was her juicy pot roast or his faithfulness in bringing her roses on special occasions, it's for sure when Cupid shot his arrows at this couple, he intended for them to stick.

Obviously, in half a century or more of marriage, there's bound to be hard times as well as happy times.

Mrs. Reynolds said that although she and her husband went through many trials during the Depression years, it served as a force which drew them closer together.

The Reynolds stated that being Christians had "a whole lot to do with the surviving of our marriage."

"We strived to have a Christian home and realized the importance of loving and sharing," Mr. Reynolds stated.

And according to Mr. Reynolds, the couple are in as much love today as they ever were.

Mr. Reynolds is a retiree from Webb Air Force Base. He and his wife are the parents of three, including Mrs. Doyce (Della) Elliott, Odessa; Mrs. Charles (Jolene) Dunnam, Big Spring; and Carl Reynolds, Dallas.

The couple enjoy all types of handwork. They are also avid walking enthusiasts. Most of their days aren't complete without a walk around Scenic Mountain.

They are members of the First Baptist Church.

"Because we were and still are deeply in love," is how Carl Elliott explained why he has been married to the same woman for 56 years.

"Yes, agreed Mrs. Elliott, "that's the glue that has held it together all these years."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Elliott were sweethearts their last three years of high school.

"What I remember most about Carl," Mrs. Elliott recalled, "was his beautiful brown eyes and his coal black hair."

While reminiscing, Mr. Elliott recalled the day in class when he winked at his future wife.

"She completely turned around and faced the opposite direction," he said.

"So I wrote her a note that read 'the sweetest girl in all the world has turned her back on me'."

Mrs. Elliott read the message, then sent it back to him with the word "Never" written all over it.

So began the romance which has lasted 56 plus years. They still have the note to this day.

"Carl and I got married to stay married," Mrs. Elliott stated. "We never once entertained the idea of divorce."

The celebration of their 55 wedding anniversary was proclaimed by both of the Elliots as the happiest occasion of their lives.

"We had every member of our family here — kids, grandkids and great-grandkids," Mrs. Elliott recalled.

"We renewed our wedding vows, too," Mrs. Elliott continued, "and our grandson, a Baptist minister, officiated."

"Of course," said Mr. Elliott, "our marriage has had its share of ups and downs and they've all been her fault," he added humorously.

"We were both school teachers," said Mrs. Elliott. "We were poor, but we didn't know it."

After many, many years of good times and not so good times, Carl Elliott says a night still doesn't go by that he and his wife don't tell each other "good night honey, I love you."

Mr. and Mrs. Elliott are the parents of two daughters, Mrs. Shelby (Carleta) Parnell, Big Spring; and Mrs. Bill (Marleece) Kendrick, Albuquerque, N.M. They also have five grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

They are members of the Wesley United Methodist Church as well as the National Retired Teachers Association. Mr. Elliott also holds a lifetime membership with the Texas State Teachers Association.

Mr. and Mrs. B.M. Newton are yet another couple who have passed the half century mark in the number of years they've lived together in wedded bliss — 56 years to be exact.

These love-birds met and married in Big Spring Nov. 14, 1923.

"I think we just have so much in common," stated Mrs. Newton when asked why she thought her marriage had survived everything life has to dish out.

"I believe I like some things just because he does and visa versa. We've always been very close," she continued.

"I really don't know how to say we fell in love, but we did. We were both country people. We liked fresh air and the harvest time."

Although Mrs. Newton said she and her husband have gone through their share of crises, she believed each one served the purpose of bringing them closer together.

"God being the center of our marriage is the main reason it has survived so long," Mrs. Newton concluded.

The Newtons reared three sons, Norman Newton, Corpus Christi; David Newton, south of Coahoma; and Bill Newton who is now deceased.

They are also the grandparents of six and the great-grandparents of eight.

Mr. Newton did Farm Bureau work for many years. Hobbies enjoyed by the couple include reading the Bible, going to church and visiting with their friends and relatives.

Every married couple and even those contemplating marriage should make note of these three couples' lives. Somewhere along the line, they discovered that secret ingredient that makes a marriage work — a secret that goes beyond special remembrances on Valentine's Day.

Below are several recipes submitted by the cooking half of these couples. They're bound to be good. Look how long their husbands have stayed around.

Mrs. Elliott's COFFEE CAN BREAD
Use two clean one-pound coffee cans, lightly oiled inside. Lids of cans are used. 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour

1 package active dry yeast
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sweet milk
1/2 cup butter or oleo
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs slightly beaten

Mix two cups flour with yeast. Stir water, milk, butter, sugar and salt over low heat until butter melts. Cool for about five minutes.

Add remaining flour, eggs (and if desired, nuts and raisins). Dough will be stiff. Knead on floured board or cloth until dough is smooth and elastic.

Divide dough in half, place one half in each can; cover cans with plastic lids. Let rise in warm place (85 degrees) until dough reaches to about one inch from top. Remove plastic lids. Bake in 375 degree pre-heated oven for about 35 minutes, or until top sounds hollow when tapped and vake tester comes out clean.

Mrs. Reynolds' PINEAPPLE CHEESE CAKE
1 8-oz. package cream cheese
1 cup sugar
1 small box lemon gelatin
1 cup hot water
32 graham crackers, crushed
1/4 cup melted butter or oleo
1 large can evaporated milk, chilled
1 cup crushed pineapple

Soften the cream cheese at room temperature. Beat cheese with sugar in a bowl till smooth. Dissolve the gelatin in hot water and chill until it thickens. Reserve 2 3rd cups cracker crumbs. Mix remaining crumbs with butter and press into an 8 by 10-inch dish. Whip the milk

1 small box orange jello
1 teaspoon lemon extract
Mix and beat all the time it takes to grease and flour a tube cake pan (and clean up the mess you made doing it). The mixing should start slowing then when all is moist turn on high.
Cook lower rack of oven preheated to 325 degrees for 45 minutes or a little longer. Test if cake springs back when lightly pressed with finger.

Glaze:
Have the juice of one lemon squeezed and strained. Gradually mix lemon juice and powdered sugar until all juice is used and the mixture can be dribbled on top and sides of hot cake.

This cake can be cooked, wrapped in foil and frozen for weeks.

Mrs. Reynolds' CARAMEL CORN
4 quarts popcorn
1 cup brown sugar
1 stick oleo
1/2 cup syrup
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon soda

Bring sugar, oleo, syrup, and salt to a boil. Boil 5 minutes stirring constantly. Add vanilla and soda. Pour over popcorn and stir till it is well coated. Bake 1 hour at 250 degrees. Stir every 15 minutes.

Mrs. Newton's CHICKEN FRITO PIE
Boil one chicken until tender and remove the bones leaving the meat in chunks.

In stew pan saute 1 medium sized chopped onion in small amount of cooking oil, add 1 can cream of chicken and 1 can cream of mushroom soups, prepared as directions on cans.

In casserole dish layer the following, starting with a layer of fritos, next a layer of chicken pour over this some of the soup mixture and sprinkle with grated cheese. It will take one (1) large package of Frito corn chips and 1 pound of grated American cheese. There will be several layers, with the grated cheese on top. Lastly pour two cups of chicken broth over the casserole mixture and bake at 350 degrees for forty five minutes.

Funeral directors manipulate consumers, house panel told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Funeral directors learn how to manipulate grieving consumers to unnecessarily expensive bills, a Texas embalmer-turned-dentist has told a congressional panel.

Dr. James Reveley of San Antonio said Wednesday he once attended a one-month funeral management course where he was taught "a very subtle hard sell."

The techniques included lighting and arranging caskets to make the cheaper ones look less attractive.

"They keep the low-end units looking as unattractive as possible," Reveley, who now operates a no-frills funeral business as a sideline, said.

Reveley testified before the House commerce subcommittee on oversight and investigations chaired by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Texas. The House has taken a step that could prevent the Federal Trade Commission from enforcing its proposed rule on the funeral industry.

"The House voted to stop the FTC funeral rule without the benefit of any hearings into the problems of the consumer, the states or the FTC," Eckhardt said in a statement. "Aside from the merits of the rule, I think it is important to closely examine the kind of special interest lobbying that appears to go on behind the scene."

Reveley told congressmen how he was "dressed down" by funeral managers for not having a sales average that was high enough. He said he decided to become a dentist and worked his way through dental school as an embalmer because he could no longer tolerate the industry's practices.

"I do think the substantial majority of funeral directors need some sort of regulation, very much so," Reveley said. "I think that the majority of funeral directors either practice or condone the abuses outlined by the FTC."

The no-frills funeral that he offers with a plain, rope-handled pine box costs $335 for a simple cremation or $365 to prepare for a burial. Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., said the average funeral nationally costs $1,400.

The Texas Legislature passed a law in its last session to put consumers on the State Board of Morticians and establish a Bill of Rights for the bereaved.

Among its requirements are itemized bills and the display of lower priced caskets with a sign telling how many colors in which they are available.

Reveley contended that some funeral businesses are finding their way around the law by resorting to "pre-need" sales because the state board said the law only regulates sales "at need," or at the time of death.

"My next push in the state of Texas is to see that all that pre-need law is taken care of," he said.

BACK IN WASHINGTON — Richard Starr, left, the Peace Corps worker held for ransom for three years in South America, walks with Peace Corps Director Richard Celeste at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., Wednesday. A ransom of $250,000 was paid for Starr's return.

Students to participate in basic skills test

All fifth and ninth grade students from the Coahoma ISD will participate in the first Texas Assessment of Basic Skills test program scheduled for mid to late February 1980.

The assessment plan, first of its kind in this state, will be scheduled once each year under requirements set by the Texas Legislature during its 1979 regular session.

The Coahoma ISD students will be among 500,000 expected to take the reading, writing composition, and mathematics tests during the February 25-March 12 statewide testing period. Each of the tests will require a maximum of 40 to 60 minutes to complete.

The Coahoma ISD will report its district and campus aggregate scores to the public at a May or June meeting of the Board of Trustees, according to Richard Souter, district superintendent. However, individual student scores will be reported only to the student, parents or guardian, and the school personnel directly involved, Souter adds.

This testing program is designed to help the student and the school improve achievement, Mr. Souter points out.

Overall student performance, both by campus and by district, will be reported each year to the public by the local board of trustees.

Each test question will relate to a specific objective or skill students are expected to learn by the time they complete the particular grade.

The annual test program will be administered by specially-trained personnel in each school district under the guidelines and supervision of the Texas Education Agency.

Hawks visit MC Chaps

MIDLAND — The Howard College Hawks will try to play the role of the giant killer tonight when they invade Chapparral Center for a battle with the Midland College Chapparrals.

Game time is 8:00 p.m.

The Hawks are currently 7-6 in conference play and 16-10 on the year. But Coach Harold Wilder's team has been playing with improvement recently, as they have won six of their last eight contests, and all in conference play.

Midland College, meanwhile, has been in only one gear all year, overdrive. The Chaps are ranked seventh nationally and sport a record of 12-1 in conference play and 23-2 on the year. Their only two losses came at the hands of the nation's top ranked team, Western Texas College.

Both teams are high scoring outfits, as the Hawks have been rated high nationally all year, and the Chaps have put on some scoring exhibitions.

The two teams have met twice thus far, with Midland College winning both affairs. One game was a conference match, while the other was in the ABC Olympic Classic in Big Spring.

Sands caps district title

ACKERLY — The Sands boys basketball team put the finishing touches on their undefeated District 9-B campaign Tuesday night in taking an 80-56 win over Wellman.

The win, the final district game of the year for both schools, put Sands at 10-0 in district play and an auspicious 28-2 for the year.

Sands once again had a balanced attack, with Bill Wigington and David Long leading the way with 12 points each. David Hall and Frank Garfias added 11, with Shayne Wigington and Larry Feaster contributing 10.

Bill Tankersly paced Wellman with 27 points.

The Sands boys will travel to Sterling City tomorrow night for a practice game against Santa Anna. Game time is 7:00 p.m.

Borden County-Klondike meet for 9-B title tonight

The District 9-B girls championship game between Borden County and Klondike will be held tonight at 7:00 p.m. in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Both teams enter the district championship with excellent records. First half champion Borden County sports a mark of 28-2, while the Klondike girls, who won the second half, have a record of 24-2.

The two teams have split their games thus far. Borden County won the first half battle by a score of 56-40, while Klondike claimed the second half crown with a narrow 41-40 win.

JHS tennis tryouts today

On Wednesday, February 13 and Thursday, February 14, tryouts for the Big Spring Junior High School boys and girls tennis teams will be held from 4:00-5:30 on both days, at the Figure Seven Tennis Center. Regular practice will begin on Friday, February 15th.

Coahoma game rescheduled

The Coahoma-Wylie games, originally scheduled for tonight, have been changed to Friday night.

The games will be played in the Hardin-Simmons University Gymnasium in Abilene. The boys game, a second half contest in District 6-AA, will start at 7:00 p.m.

The girls game between the two schools, which is a playoff for the second half title in 6-AA, will begin at 8:30 p.m.

Injured Rockets fight off Knicks

HOUSTON (AP) — The last time Houston Coach Del Harris tried to coach a team with eight players was 20 years ago in a church league.

That was before Wednesday night when the injury-riddled Rockets fought off fatigue and a fourth quarter New York surge to defeat the Knicks 122-117 in a National Basketball Association game.

"I thought it was a great eight-man effort," Harris said. "We gave a good effort in a very important game when we had played the night before and the opponent hadn't."

Harris said he thought forward Rudy Tomjanovich and reserve center Billy Paultz may have tired in the fourth quarter but the team emerged surprisingly resilient from its extra duty.

The Knicks, fueled by 7-foot Bill Cartwright and Mike Richardson with 20 points each, appeared to have the Rockets worn down with a 108-102 lead with 3:27 left in the game.

It was New York's biggest lead of the game, but it quickly disappeared as a basket and two free throws by Calvin Murphy and a basket by Robert Reid for a 108-106 tie.

HAPPY TORCH LIGHTER — Dr. Charles Kerr, of Tucson, Ariz., smiles after he lit the Olympic flame, which is starting to rise to the top of its stand, at the opening ceremonies of the Winter Olympics in Lake Placid Wednesday afternoon.

But that's the same old story

Aggies boast top grid recruits

By the Associated Press

Tom Wilson wore the biggest smile after Wednesday's first day for signing high school football players to Southwest Conference letters of intent.

The Aggie coach grabbed four players with super billing in linemen Tommy Robinson (6-5, 260) of Gregory-Portland, Ken Reeves (6-5, 240) of Pittsburg and Scott Polk (6-4, 240) of Dallas White and running back Bubba Hill (5-11, 190) of LaPorte.

But Baylor, which hasn't had a highly regarded quarterback in years, also was ecstatic after landing Waco Richfield's Alfred Anderson, who ran and passed for 31 touchdowns last season. Anderson was the most highly sought quarterback in the state.

"Obviously, I'm very pleased and excited about this group," Wilson said. "If the people who have evaluated these players — including our coaching staff, other coaching staffs and the media — know what they're talking about, then this could be a super group."

Only four schools announced their signings Wednesday. The others opted to wait until the national signing deadline next Wednesday to reduce the chances of presenting a "shopping list" for schools in other conferences to make an 11th-hour recruiting blitz in Texas.

Besides Baylor, Rice and TCU also disclosed their signings.

Here is a list of Southwest Conference schoolboy football signings Wednesday. Only Rice, Texas A&M, Baylor and Texas Christian said they would provide complete signing rosters. The other six schools said their lists would be withheld until national signing day Feb. 20th.

Winter Olympics underway

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. — The color-coordinated Olympics are under way, opened in a spectacular splash of rainbow patterns that lit up a dismal winter's day in this sleepy, picturesque little town. A crowd of 23,000 spectators, creating a massive traffic tangle, huddled together in frigid temperatures under overcast skies Wednesday and watched the pomp and pageantry of the opening ceremonies highlighted by the spectacular parade of athletes.

Killanin planning move

LOS ANGELES (AP) — International Olympic Committee president Lord Killanin may go to Moscow and personally ask Soviet President Leonid L. Brezhnev to remove Russian troops from Afghanistan to ensure normal Summer Games, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

Some senior IOC members told the newspaper that Killanin has discussed such a trip by telephone with President Carter, as a way of heading off a U.S. boycott of the Games.

However, the White House would not confirm such a discussion, the newspaper said. The IOC members told the newspaper a Killanin trip to Moscow could come even before the end of the Winter Olympics.

In his news conference Wednesday, President Carter dismissed a suggestion raised Monday by his chief counsel, Lloyd N. Cutler, that if the Soviets withdraw their troops from Afghanistan after the Feb. 20 deadline he has set, that it would still be possible to send a U.S. team to Moscow.

One ranking member of the IOC, Count Jean de Beaumont of France told the newspaper that if the United States recruits 20 or more countries for a boycott, the Games in Moscow would be "spoiled" and that the IOC probably would retaliate by removing the 1984 Olympics for Los Angeles.

But Juana Antonio Samaranc, a member of the IOC executive board from Spain, said he feels that regardless of what happens, the 1984 Games will remain in Los Angeles.

It started today with American Beth Heiden a clear threat in the women's 1,500-meter speed skating and skier Bill Koch, who stunned the world by winning a silver medal at Innsbruck four years ago, shooting for more metal in the men's 30-kilometer cross country race.

But the glamor event on today's schedule was the men's downhill skiing — a duel with Whiteface Mountain's 3,009-meter Alpine course. Italian Herbert Plank, bronze medalist at Innsbruck in 1976, had Wednesday's fastest training time — 1 minute, 43.91 seconds — a full second better than any other competitor. Peter Mueller of Switzerland, defending World Cup downhill champion, and Canada's Ken Read, winner of two of the last three World Cup downhills, shared the favorite's role in the event.

First runs of men's and women's luge competition were held Wednesday night, a few hours after the colorful opening ceremonies. Veteran East German Detlef Günther set a course record to take the men's lead, while Vera Zozulya of the Soviet Union led the women.

The second of the four luge runs were scheduled for today along with six more hockey games, including the United States against Czechoslovakia. The young Americans rallied for a 2-2 tie with Sweden in their hockey opener Tuesday, while Czechoslovakia ripped Norway 11-0.

The carefully orchestrated opening ceremonies went off without a hitch — unless you count the monumental traffic jam that left many of the spectators and even some of the athletes walking the 1 1/2 miles from the stadium back into town. It was faster than waiting out the hopeless tangle of cars and buses.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale was in the reviewing stand with Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, and other dignitaries. Mondale officially opened the Games with one simple sentence that stuck strictly to Olympic protocol.

"On behalf of the president of the United States, and the American people," the vice president said, "I am pleased to declare officially the opening of the XIII Winter Olympics held this year at Lake Placid."

There was no trace of the political turmoil that has overshadowed the Olympics for the last month, except for the presence of a few lonely demonstrators outside the arena who protested the IOC's treatment of Taiwan.

But Taiwan's athletes were absent, seeking to be officially excused from these Games rather than to compete under regulations set down by the IOC. Those regulations stipulated the name, flag and national anthem under which they would be allowed to participate — a move that cleared the way for the inclusion of athletes from Mainland China in these Games.

Taiwan sued over the issue, lost two appeals on the case, and then announced its decision to return home rather than participate on the IOC's terms. But a spokesman made it clear that his country was not withdrawing, but seeking to be excused. The difference seems semantic but is important in the IOC lexicon.

"The IOC rule says if you don't compete after you enter, you're subject to severe penalties."

Lucas sparks Nets

The recent trade with Portland for Maurice Lucas paid its first dividend for the New Jersey Nets Wednesday night.

Lucas scored 21 points, had 12 rebounds and put the Nets ahead for good with 1:02 left as New Jersey triumphed over the Indiana Pacers.

"Lucas did a good job for us," said Coach Kevin Loughery. "He had a lot of assists, scored 21 points and he didn't have any errors. It's great to get a player like Maurice Lucas. He's one of the premier forwards in the league. He's still not in the best shape yet, but he'll get there."

Elsewhere, the Phoenix Suns nipped the Boston Celtics 135-134, the Philadelphia 76ers creamed the Utah Jazz 107-85, the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Atlanta Hawks 93-86, the Los Angeles Lakers routed the Portland Trail Blazers 129-103, the Milwaukee Bucks whipped the Chicago Bulls 111-101, the Houston Rockets defeated the New York Knicks 122-117, the Washington Bullets turned back the San Diego Clippers 108-103, and the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the Detroit Pistons 107-102.

Lucas received plenty of help from 19-year-old rookie Cliff Robinson, who contributed 16 points, and Ed Jordan, who had 14 points plus eight steals.

Suns 135, Celtics 134

Walter Davis hit two free throws with 10 seconds remaining to boost Phoenix to its come-from-behind victory over Boston that ended the Celtics' seven-game winning streak. The Suns, who trailed by as many as 11 in the final period, outscored the Celtics 14-4 in the final two minutes. Davis had 20 points while Paul Westphal led the Suns with 34 and Len "Truck" Robinson had 24, offsetting a career-high 45-point effort by Boston rookie Larry Bird.

76ers 107, Jazz 85

Bobby Jones led a balanced Philadelphia attack with 23 points while Steve Mix scored 18 and Julius Erving and Darryl Dawkins had 16 each and Caldwell Jones snared 20 rebounds.

SuperSonics 93, Hawks 86

Reserves James Bailey and Fred Brown and starter Dennis Johnson rallied Seattle from an eight-point fourth-quarter deficit. The Sonics have won six in a row while Atlanta's seven-game winning streak came to an end. Seattle ran off 11 straight points midway in the final quarter for a 82-77 lead. Lakers 129, Trail Blazers 103

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 32 points and handed out 11 assists to lead Los Angeles... and he didn't even play during the final 14 minutes as the Lakers won their first game in four tries against the Trail Blazers this season.

Bulls 111, Pacers 101

Milwaukee rolled over Chicago behind 32 points by Junior Bridgeman and 23 by Brian Winters. Winters scored 13 points in the third period to help Milwaukee open a 90-77 lead and the Bucks went on to post their fourth consecutive victory.

Bullets 108, Clippers 103

Recently acquired John Williamson scored 12 of his 23 points in the fourth quarter as Washington rallied to defeat San Diego. The Clippers led 62-50 at halftime and 83-80 after three quarters before Williamson triggered the fourth-quarter rally.

Cavaliers 107, Pistons 102

Mike Mitchell scored 20 of his 40 points in the final period to help Cleveland snap a five-game losing streak while sending the Pistons to their seventh consecutive setback and 44th in 58 games.

College basketball roundup

Wolfpack upsets Blue Devils

By the Associated Press

Norm Sloan found some answers. On the other hand, Bill Foster was faced with the big question, that was the difference between winning and losing as North Carolina State upset 10th-ranked Duke 76-59 in college basketball Wednesday night.

"That certainly answered a lot of questions for me," said Sloan, alluding to his team's first-half rally without the services of leading scorer Hawkeye Whitney.

"We cut the lead with Hawkeye on the bench," added Sloan, in reference to Whitney's foul trouble which kept him out for the last 14 minutes of the first half.

"That showed me something about this team. Hawkeye's a great scorer and naturally, he's our scoring leader when he's out there."

The Blue Devils hit on 13 of their first 21 shots to take a big early lead over Whitney's team. But then Clyde Austin and Kenny Matthews led a 10-point burst to shoot North Carolina State back into the game, helping to cut Duke's lead at the half to three points, at 37-34.

With the foul-troubled Whitney contributing only 14 points, Austin took over the scoring burden for the Wolfpack with 20.

In other Top Twenty games, No. 1 DePaul routed Valparaiso 95-71; No. 5 Kentucky hammered Florida 95-70; No. 6 Louisiana State trimmed Auburn 50-44; No. 8 Maryland whipped East Carolina 85-72; Virginia upset No. 10 Clemson 89-87 and Iowa State stunned No. 19 Kansas State 66-58.

Mark Aguirre scored 23 points and Skip Dillard added 20 to lead DePaul's 21st straight victory this season and 22 over two years. The Blue Demons broke the game open with a 14-2 spurt at the start of the second half.

"We played about 25 minutes — the first five minutes and the last 20," said DePaul Coach Ray Meyer.

Trevino ready for Tucson Open

Although his scorecard didn't reflect it, Lee Trevino figures he "won" his last tournament, and he appears to have a good chance to win another — officially — in the $300,000 Tucson Open scheduled to begin today.

Trevino, coming off a six-week layoff, finished second to Andy Bean in the Hawaiian Open that ended Sunday, and he and Bean are co-favorites for the Tucson title.

"I felt like I had won," Trevino said of the Hawaii tournament. "That gives me a tremendous amount of confidence, to play well in my first tournament of the season."

"I hope I can continue it this week," Trevino, the Tucson Open champion in 1969 and 1970, is a crowd favorite with the greens here and said he particularly enjoys playing in the event.

"The people here are real friendly, and desert courses seem to suit me, too," said Trevino.

Another former champion in the 144-man field is Johnny Miller, who won three consecutive Tucson Opens in the mid 1970s.

However, many of the PGA circuit's top names — including Tom Watson, Jack Nicklaus, Hubert Green, Arnold Palmer and Ben Crenshaw — passed up the 72-hole tournament.

The Tucson National layout has been remodeled, with the greens now smaller and bunkers closer to the pin. The course is a whopping 7,095 yards, with 73 par.

NSA sets date

As the originator and founder in 1952, The National Secretaries Association (International) continues to be the sole sponsor of secretaries' week which will be observed April 20-26. Designated as Secretaries' Day by NSA is April 23.

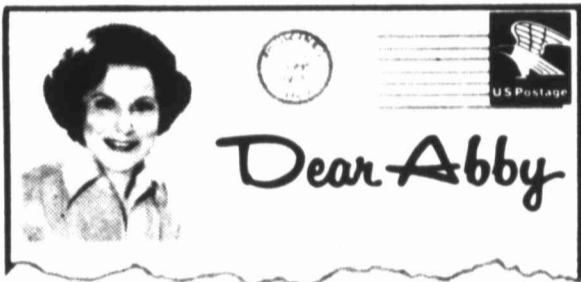

Using the theme, "Secretaries Are Forever!" local observances are being planned by NSA's Big Spring chapter, according to Ella Vonne West, president, who announced that Jan Steward, secretary to Jack Redding, division manager of Texas Electric Service Company, will serve as chairman of Secretaries' Week.

A seminar is scheduled April 25 with Dr. Paul Preston, Ph.D., Preston Associates, San Antonio, as the featured speaker. A luncheon will be held that day to include the secretaries' bosses.

In addition to the participation of nearly 800 chapters in every state of the United States and every province of Canada, Secretaries' Week events will be held in many foreign countries under the auspices of NSA Affiliates.

8th Commandment Includes Bibles

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed STOLE ONE asked how you thought God would feel about a person who steals a Bible as much as the person who would steal one.

Well, Abby, you sure goofed on that one. You should have pointed out that taking a Bible is not stealing! The Bible societies feel they have won a great victory when someone takes a Bible with them. That's the purpose of putting the Bible there in the first place. It is the duty of all good Christians to spread the gospel throughout the world.

I always feel sad when I see an old Bible, good as new, lying in the same place for years, unopened, unread, serving no one.

Please print my letter so the person who took the Bible will know that he is not guilty of stealing.

I took a Bible once and I feel real good about it.

C.M. IN MICHIGAN

DEAR C.M.: I've seen many a Bible in many a hotel room, but I've yet to see a sign saying, "Help yourself." Read on for an authoritative view of the subject:

DEAR ABBY: As a regular reader of your column in the Wenatchee (Wash.) Daily World, and a representative of The Gideons International, may I add to your logical reply to STOLE ONE.

The Gideons International is a society of Christian business and professional men—all members of most evangelical churches of which there are at 80,000 in 124 countries throughout the world.

Every 17 days we place about one million Bibles (for 20 million a year) in the rooms of hotels, motels, hospitals, jails, and other public places in an effort to serve mankind by making the Scriptures available to as many people as possible.

These Bibles are the property of The Gideons, and are paid for by the free will gifts and offerings of concerned Christians of all denominations.

Of course, we neither encourage nor condone taking the Bibles, but many do, which necessitates replacing a good number of Bibles annually at our expense.

We receive letters from people who confess having taken one of our Bibles; most send a donation along with their apologies.

The current cost of the Bible is $2.85. Abby, you would be doing us a great service to let your readers know that anyone who has taken a Gideons Bible and wishes to make restitution may send his donation to:

Boss Night scheduled

Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) will highlight its boss Night festivities with the presentation of the 20th Boss of the Year award on Feb. 20.

The annual Boss Night event is designed to honor the employers of ABWA members. Leroy Tillery, executive vice president for Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, will be guest speaker at the meeting at Big Spring Country Club.

Outstanding community service, business success, and consideration for employees are factors weighed in the selection of the Boss of the Year.

One goal of ABWA is to encourage better employer-employee relations by helping business women to increase their efficiency and business skills. ABWA promotes the professional, educational, cultural, and social advancement of business women.

The association currently has over 100,000 members nationally. As an educational association, the awarding of scholarships is one of ABWA's key programs for its 1,600 chapters. Over $1,500,000 in scholarships were awarded from ABWA's national scholarship fund since 1953.

Modern valentines may be sugar-free

There will still be plenty of traditional crimson hearts and cuddly Cupids around today. But there are unmistakable signs that valentines may be in the midst of a quiet evolution as we enter the 1980s.

"The century-old rule that a valentine is not a valentine unless it contains hearts and flowers, a deep red background and a rhymed message of love and affection seems to be breaking down a bit," explained Alan Doan, editorial manager for Hallmark Cards, the nation's largest publisher of valentines.

"In recent years there has been a growing interest in nontraditional cards," he said, and added: "Designs that incorporate romantic mood photography, shiny black backgrounds and bold modern graphics are becoming increasingly popular."

"But the most dramatic changes are occurring in valentine sentiments. A number of valentines this year are written in a conventional prose style that expresses the inner feelings of the sender as well as the endearing qualities of the recipient in a very straightforward fashion."

Doan said the new valentine sentiments also tackle the issues that touch the lives of modern-day couples such as the problems faced by a wife working outside the home. One Hallmark valentine this year, captioned "For My Husband," reads: "We don't always have as much time together as we'd like, but there are many times every day when my thoughts turn to you... I don't always take the time to tell you how much I love you, but I hope you know how very much I do."

No longer sent only to lovers, the valentine has evolved into a greeting exchanged by one of the broadest spectrums of people for any card-sending occasion.

Girl on the run says it's no fun

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D

Dr. Wallace: My name is Theresa Worthington. I'm 15 and I'd like to talk to teens who are thinking about running away from home. I've been running away for two years and believe me, all I did was make things worse. I thought it was cool and that I could escape from my problems but I always wound up in a detention center.

I'm very fortunate that I am alive today. I can't begin to tell you how many freaks and mental cases I met when I was on the run.

I'm writing this letter from a juvenile home in Helena, Ark., and I'm asking all teens who have thoughts of running, please remember me and please talk to a trusted adult.—Theresa, Helena, Ark.

Theresa: Thanks so much for sharing your experiences with us. Your message will help.

Dr. Wallace: We are two 16-year-old girls who will be graduating from high school in the summer of 1981.

Both of us are intelligent (over 3.5 grade point average) and mature.

We hope to travel in Europe after we graduate. We plan to stay in youth hostels and in homes of our relatives.

Our problem is that our fathers don't think we should travel without chaperones. It's very important to us to hear your point of view. — S. and S., San Diego, Calif.

S. and S.: I would give the OK to such a trip considering the circumstances provided, but when I asked my wife her thoughts, she frowned and said, "Not my daughter."

Mrs. Alden Ryan reveals the 'history of the valentine'

Ortry Boatler and Sue Stripling were hostesses at a "Dutch Treat" dinner-meeting Tuesday evening for the Past Matrons' Club of Big Spring Chapter No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, in the Big Room of Alberto's Restaurant.

Vera Gross read the Valentine message from the Worthy Grand Matron Kathy Johnston, Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star. Mrs. Johnston gave the thought for February — "Happiness is a tickle in the heart."

President Candy Andrews called for reports from Mrs. Stripling, Mary Hefley, Mrs. Boatler, Ruth Pittman, Zan Ryan, Bernice Davis, Mrs. Gross, Mae Hayden, Pyrie Bradshaw, Pearl Ulrey, Dorothy Hull, and Doris Mason.

Mrs. Alden Ryan gave the program "The History of the Valentine." She told the members that "the celebration of Valentine's Day seems to have its roots in an ancient Roman festival of love held for the young people."

When the Romans invaded Britain, they brought their festivals with them. Despite the rise of Christianity, the people continued to enjoy many pagan celebrations. Unable to eliminate the popular holiday, Christian priests determined to dedicate it to a Christian saint.

"Saint Valentine was elected, authorities say, not because of any special connection with lovers, but because the date of his martyrdom happened to fall in mid-February, Mrs. Ryan revealed. Myth has it, though, that during his imprisonment before execution he formed a friendship with the jailer's blind daughter, the only person who was kind to him. Just before his death he is said to have sent her a farewell message signed "From Your Valentine."

In time an additional superstition grew up that the first unattached member of the opposite sex one saw on the morning of Saint Valentine's Day would be one's sweetheart for the year and, ultimately, one's husband or wife."

Mrs. Ryan traced the history of the valentine from the 1600s when names were drawn in a lighthearted festivity to the introduction of handmade friendship or lover's cards, which prevailed in America for a time.

By the 1840s, however, they had been replaced by manufactured ones. In 1857 there were five firms making valentines in New York City. Cards were also imported from England, France, and Germany.

"Centuries after its beginnings, Valentine's Day is still celebrated. Gifts are bestowed on loved ones; handmade cards, created with love and painstaking attention, are presented to parents by eager school children; and lovers still choose with care the messengers of their affections. Its popularity may have faded for brief periods, but the joys of love and romance have kept Valentine's Day alive," Mrs. Ryan stated.

Mrs. Ryan then read "Love Is a Gift of God" written by Dorothy Betencourt Elfstrom.

Davis speaks

The Scenic Chapter of the American Business Women's Association met for a salad supper at Pioneer Gas Flame Room Tuesday night. Don Davis, city manager, was the speaker for the evening.

Davis spoke of the capital improvements for the city, citing the Industrial Foundation for all their work in developing the Industrial Park. He said there are three new businesses trying to locate in the city that would employ about 300 people. Davis was amazed about the apparent apathy and negative attitude of the people of the city.

"Big Spring has a lot of potential and untapped resources," he said. Everyone should get behind the new City Council and work for the betterment of the City."

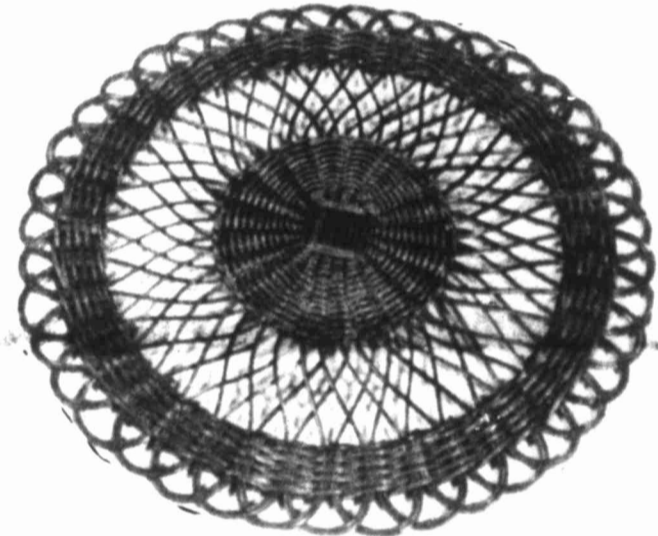

Delores Albert gave the vocational talk for the evening. She is employed at the Big Spring Herald as secretary to Tom Watson, publisher. She said her duties include writing letters for all departments and taking care of personnel records both old and new.

Pearlier Nason from the De Oceana Chapter Redondo Beach, Calif was affiliated with the Chapter.

Jeanine Rundell discussed plans for Boss' Night to be held March 4 in the Howard College Cafeteria.

Three guests were present at the meeting including Brenda Burnett, scholarship recipient; Neida Colclazer, Cactus Chapter; and Don Davis, city manager.

Youths in prison Secrecy-shrouded program funded by $20,000 grant

Special To The Herald
HUNTSVILLE — A $20,000 grant from the Dallas-based Southland Corp. is funding a secrecy-shrouded program that sends some Dallas County youths to the Ferguson Unit north of here for a six-hour look at prison life.

The program, named Face to Face, has been operating quietly for eight to 10 months, apparently because officials feared any publicity would be premature. They may have worried that it would be confused with a controversial "Scared Straight" program in New Jersey.

According to Robert Kaumeyer, director of juvenile services for Dallas County, the Texas program is designed to change the youngsters' behavior by showing them the reality of prison life.

Reality, in this instance, involves four groups of 14 to 16 male youths between 14 and 18 years of age, who have toured the prison unit.

Also involved are 16 probation officers who are undergoing training from Dr. S. Ateek, chief psychologist in the Dallas County Juvenile Department.

Ateek, who refused to discuss the program, is primary recipient of the grant money, according to Sherry Wood, executive assistant to Dallas County Judge Garry Weber.

Wood said Dallas County Family Court Judge Craig Penfold originated the program and sought funds from Southland's Community Service Program. Face to Face is funded through the summer.

The youths are selected at random from Penfold's court, according to Kaumeyer, the only Dallas County official connected with the program who would answer any questions about it.

He said that he, like Ferguson Warden Frank McCarty, finally agreed to talk about the program after conferring with Texas Department of Corrections Director James Estelle.

Estelle himself broke the wall of secrecy around the program several days ago after being contacted by The Item and at first referring all questions to Dallas officials.

It's a long day for the teenagers, McCarty said. The one-day visit gives the youngsters about six hours in the prison.

The teenagers eat with the inmates, but no inmates talk with them on a regular basis, McCarty said.

The Scared Straight program in New Jersey involved inmates talking to juvenile offenders. That program at first received positive publicity but then was criticized as involving oral abuse of the juveniles.

Tests still being run

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Tests were being run "in four different areas" to determine what kind of radioactive material contaminated 11 workers at a low-level storage facility.

"We are still trying to determine what we had," a spokesman who asked for anonymity said Wednesday after an accident at Todd Shipyard Co. on Pelican Island.

He said the mishap, which he termed "insignificant," occurred Tuesday about 2 p.m. He said the 11 workers were exposed to "low-grade" radiation which they later scrubbed off in showers.

The radiation poses "no hazard" to the employees, the spokesman said.

The spokesman declined to discuss details surrounding the incident, but said a press conference was scheduled for Thursday by the company.

The leak was discovered, according to Dr. Ed Ibert, Galveston County Health Department director, after an employee left a storage area to take a phone call and it was determined he had been contaminated.

Ibert said employees had received a "significant, but not unacceptable" dose of radiation. Plant workers were attempting to clean up the spill Wednesday.

The facility, used as a temporary storage depot for low-level radioactive wastes, has been the center of controversy in recent months.

The Department of Energy announced that it was considering the plant as a disposal site for high-level nuclear wastes, prompting both the city council and Gov. Bill Clements to reject the idea.

The firm was ordered last year to reduce its inventory after it was learned the plant was nearing its storage capacity.

EXPLOSION SCENE — A fireman examines a damaged car as it sits amid rubble following an explosion in downtown Essex, Ont., early Thursday morning. A police spokesman said another car smashed into the rear of a hardware store, its gas line started leaking and triggered an explosion of a ruptured natural gas line. The explosion and subsequent fire destroyed a whole block, sending several people to hospital.

'Olympic cub' bared

WASHINGTON, D.C. — This may well be the first year in memory that the Stars and Stripes do not fly during the opening ceremonies of the Olympics — if Russian aggression in Afghanistan goes unchecked.

An overwhelming number of my colleagues and I recently joined the President in calling for a boycott of U.S. participation in the Olympics, a difficult sacrifice to ask of our young athletes who have trained long and hard for their "shot at the gold," and for competition-loving Americans as a whole. It was difficult, but necessary in light of the gravity of the situation which has been thrust upon us in recent days.

Quite simply, the Soviet Union has spent an estimated $375 million in constructing facilities for the 1980 Olympics. Millions of tourist dollars have been anticipated as they have turned Moscow into a showplace for their system of government and way of life. But, perhaps most important, the televised games could cast a favorable light on their Capitol city and their government and take that message to millions of homes around the world. The Russians have counted on the 1980 Olympics as a political star in their communistic crown that would dull the impact of the hostilities they have initiated on their neighboring Afghanistan.

We must remember that this is not an isolated attack by terrorists, such as we witnessed in Munich in 1972 — as tragic as that incident was — but a carefully planned military operation. The rightful president of Afghanistan, put into power by the Russians themselves, and his family were assassinated. Afghan citizens have been killed by Russian troops. It is and should be recognized as a war. Nor can we ignore the "threat" the move makes clear. Russian troops are, at this minute, perfectly poised for a possible takeover of other oil-rich Middle Eastern countries. This presents a clear danger to the security of the United States.

I would agree with those that say the Olympics should not, idealistically, be a political arena. Realistically, however, we must recognize that those dreams were shattered in 1936 in Hitler's Berlin. The games held that year could only be called a charade of "the very meaning of the word sportsmanship" when viewed from a historic perspective.
