EARTHQUAKE IN CHILI; MANY DIE

Is Followed By Tidal Wave And Northern Chili Is Devastated—Hundreds of Vessels Beached.

MANY CITIES ARE RUINED

Telegraph Wires Severed As Far South As Antofagasta—Tremors Are Registered In Chicago.

SANTIAGO, Chili, Nov. 11.—Northern Chili was devastated by an earthquake early this morning. Hundreds of deaths have already been reported. A tidal wave following the shock inundated the coast, wrecking hundreds of vessels, flooding the coast towns and drowning many victims.

Cables and all telephone and telegraph service north of Valparaiso was disrupted and no adequate estimate of the loss of life or damage is available tonight.

Fires followed in the wake of the shock adding horrors to the devastation at Nequimbo, Antofagasta, Caldera and other cities.

Street lights in Santiago went out following the first shock at 12:20. The city was shaken and buildings rocked on their foundations, some falling. People hurried to telegraph offices for news from other cities only to find that communications were disrupted.

The first reports that came through stated that Antofagasta had been destroyed but this was discounted as being improbable. Reliable reports of the terrible disaster in the north began coming in, with the most appalling report from Serena that the tidal wave which swept Coquimbo had caused hundreds of houses to collapse and whole families washed to sea. Ships were tossed about like matchwood and overturned.

Later dispatches confirming the Coquimbo disaster reported the recovery and panic reigned in the town.

Survivors camped in the ruins. Telegrams from the city were in ruins with more than 50 dead and hundreds injured, many victims being buried under heaps of bricks and mortar.

The tidal wave destroyed wharves and boats at Antofagasta according to a telegram from the mayor to the Minister of the Interior. It stated that this population was without food but that there had been no loss of life.

BURY ODESSA, 48-0

Sweetwater High School Team Pours It On Odessa High Football Team—Was Third Straight Win.

Odessa High school football team went down in defeat before the Sweetwater High School team Saturday afternoon at Swatter Park by a score of 48-0. It was the third straight victory for the Sweetwater team, which seems to be coming into it now after one or two false starts.

Referee Doyle blew the opening whistle at 3:10, with Mitchell kicking M. Sweetwater recovered the ball and made a touch down in the first five minutes of the play. The Sweetwater team kept the ball in their opponent's territory for the balance of the quarter but did not score again.

In the second quarter, play started with the ball in the midfield. Steady hammering by the locals resulted in a touchdown within a few minutes. Weatherby scoring and Crutcher kicking the goal.

Two more touchdowns were added in third quarter and in the fourth three more. Toler deserves special mention for his able generalship of the team while the whole backfield started as did Herndon and Smith in the line.

Touch downs, Toler, Weatherby (3) Mitchell (2) Kicked goals 3 out of 3; Mitchell 3 out of 4. Te line-up: Herndon, center, McCall, guard, Smith, guard, Kelsey and Armstrong, tackle, Crutcher and Ellis, ends, Weatherby and Trammell, halfbacks, G. Mitchell, punter. Later M. Toler and D. Mitchell took the ends, Bishop took a guard and Farris tackle positions. Officials included referee Doyle, Umpire Robinson and Pluke, head linesman.

CAPTURE DWARF DONKEYS.

By The United Press.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Cincinnati Zoological Garden here is said by Sol A. Stephen, general manager and an authority on animals, to have the only dwarf donkeys in captivity in the United States. Three were received from Ceylon and the fourth one was born here. They stand twenty-eight inches high. According to Mr. Stephen, the donkeys can bray louder than a Missouri mule, and have the traditional mule trait of being lazy.

Blood Was Spilled in This Clash of Naked Steel

Two of the most famous swordsmen in Italy are shown here fighting with unguarded rapiers. The bout ended when Sasfene (left) received a thrust in the left shoulder. The winner was Aurelio Greco. Contestants in these bouts fence with bare arms and the swords are lowered as soon as blood is drawn.

AMERICAN LEGION IS BOOSTED HERE

Armistice Day Cake Sale Proceeds Amount to $100—Turned Over to Organization's Sick Fund.

MORONY IS THE CHIEF SPEAKER

Tell Of Boy's Work—Former Service Men March In Parade—Veterans Are Guests of Sdrosis Club.

Sweetwater turned out en masse between 10:30 and 12 o'clock Saturday morning for the observance of Armistice Day, which was started by a parade of various local organizations and concluded by a cake sale for the benefit of the local post of the American Legion. All Sweetwater business houses remained closed from 10:30 until noon Saturday.

Short talks were made by Arnold Drossler, commander of the local post, the Reverend W. E. McLaurin, chaplain of the Post, and later by the Reverend L. G. Morony, who delivered the main address of the program from the north steps of the courthouse. Rev. Morony spoke in place of Judge Harry R. Bondies, who was scheduled to be the chief speaker but who was detained in a trial in the District Court.

The parade formed in front of the local National Guard Armory, getting under way for their march to the T. & P. depot and back around the east side of the Square, continuing on around to the west where the parade was disbanded in preparation for the address of the program. The fire alarm blew for one minute while the marchers and spectators stood at attention with bare heads in silent prayer in honor of those who lost their lives during the war. The parade was headed by the Sweetwater Booster Band, followed by Nolan county's former service men, many in uniform. Boy Scouts and girls who were on the "foot" sales force were followed by decorated cars bearing Confederate veterans, the members of the Woman's Auxiliary, a Red Cross car, the local High School football team and followed by the local chapter of the order of De Milay, who marched.

Stating that Armistice Day is a monument to the valor of the American soldier, Dr. Morony, pastor of the First Baptist Church, raved "slackerism" and the pseudo-pacifistic propaganda, which seeks to wipe all mention of war from history text books, declared his position regarding release of war-time agitators from the Federal penitentiaries placed the position and ideals of the American Legion before his audience in no uncertain manner.

Rev. Morony spoke in part as follows: "All Nations raise monuments in honor of their fallen heroes and deeds of courage and now before the American people and for the past three years has come November 11, Armistice Day as a monument to the valor of the American soldier. It is an honor to be listed in the American Legion, which is made up exclusively of men who were in the service of their country defending her flag in World War. I would not care to lift my head before the people and I do not see how anyone who was eligible meaning slackers, is able to stand today insensitive if he failed in full rendition of his duty in time of strife.

"I am against the release of the agitators and other people who sought to hinder the actions of this Nation in the war. It is my wish that they be allowed to spend their last breath in the penitentiaries of the country." The lukewarm business man, which were found in some places throughout the United States during the war, also came in for a scolding by the speaker.

The formation of a large standing military force as a guard against future war was also recommended by Dr. Morony, who urged "precaution against war in time of peace." Dr. Morony called attention to the likelihood of America again becoming embroiled in the Near East over oil interests and concessions there. "The want and lack of raw materials was what made France foster her deadly animosity against Germany for the seizure of Alsace-Lorraine in the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and similar causes underlie many wars," said Dr. Morony.

"There is no hope for the millennium, when war will be a thing unknown and I am against the movement now on foot to obliterate all mention of war from the histories in the schools. I am proud of America's record in war, a ground that she has never entered except it be in the cause of the oppressed people and weaker nations. I want my children to know the details and learn their lesson, so that in case a similar occasion, God forbid, arise, that they shall know the path of their duty," said the speaker.

In reply to the oft-stated query regarding the functioning of the American Legion, Dr. Morony declared: "The American Legion needs no defense. It has done enough. It is made up of the survivors of that host of men who staked their life for their country and are now banded together for their existence here. Hundreds of the present members have returned to their homes only shadows of their former selves, maimed and low in health. Again I state that they have done enough." Dr. Morony received repeated applause during his speech.

Nolan County Service Men were the guests of the Sorosis Club at a program followed by refreshments here Saturday afternoon.

Following Dr. Morony's speech, two cakes, donated by J. M. Greene of the Cozy Cafe and one by the Pace Bros' restaurant were sold and re-sold, the proceeds of the sale going into the disabled soldier's fund of the local Post.

Buck Johnson, Chief of Police, acted as auctioneer. The monster cake from the Cozy Cafe was sold seven times and was finally knocked down following the threat of the auctioneer that the would "eat it himself." The cake was sold to W. F. Ward for $5. Henry Bartlett, city clerk, was the first purchaser, taking the cake for $14.00. Mr. Bartlett and five other successive buyers donated the cake back again to the Legion and ordered that it be sold again. Other bidders upon the big cake were G. E. Ramsey $10; C. A. McClintic $10; C. A. Rogers $10; C. A. McClintic $5; J. C. Rutledge $5, and W. F. Ward $5. Another attractive but smaller cake donated by the Pace Brothers was sold three times first to Effie Bassett for $5, E. O. Collins $2.50, and finally to Lee Lusk for $2.00. The total amount derived from the cake sale amounted to $71. The opinion voiced by the auctioneer that the cakes were worth $100 and following the auction a collector was stationed with instruction to take any and all small amounts. This collection amounted to $27.30, which lacked very little hitting the $100 mark. D. A. Ray of Marynead, who lost a son in the war, notified the auction officers that he would assure them that he would donate the amount necessary to make the fund an even $100.

Pyromaniac Fires Another New York Apartment House—Alarm Saves Lives.

By The United Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—One hundred tenants fled to the street in their night clothing early today when the pyromaniac whose outrages have claimed 22 lives here recently fired another house.

The incendiary blaze started in a baby buggy in a hallway similarly to the other fires.

The cool headedness of a late resident theater goer saved the lives of many. He gave the alarm and awakened tenants.

WILSON BREAKS SILENCE OF YEARS

Tells Enthusiastic Audience in Washington That United States Has Truce, Not Peace.

SCORES SENATE OPPONENTS

Is Ex-President's First Speech Since Breakdown In 1919 When He Toured For The League.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The United States has remained content with a mere armistice in the late war and has not moved forward in the course toward world peace, Woodrow Wilson told a gathering of three thousand enthusiastic persons here in the first speech he has made since he was stricken while touring the country on behalf of the League of Nations in 1919.

He scored particularly the little group in the Senate which he declared had stood for their partisan motives instead of honor and the peace of the world.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—After two years of silence, Woodrow Wilson Saturday made his first speech upon international affairs since leaving the presidency. Speaking to 3,000 people in front of his home here, he told that he still stood for the things for which he fought from 1918 to 1920.

Wilson did not refer specifically to the present administration, but mentioned arch opponents in the Senate with biting sarcasm. The United States has remained content with the armistice and has not moved forward peace, the former President declared, further stating that "these persons will find that their weakness will not stand longer against the strength of Providence."

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The most amazing plot in recent criminal history involving nearly a score of wives, whose husbands died under mysterious circumstances is being —but deeper and deeper by the authorities here.

WETS PLAN FOR WINE AND BEER

"Wet" Gains In Congressional Elections Arouse Hopes of The Leaders.

WET LODGE LIMPS IN

Woodrow Wilson Has Interesting Comment Concerning Arch Enemy In Senate.

By The United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Imbued with high hopes as the result of "wet" gains in the Congressional election, liberal members of Congress will hold a conference shortly after the start of the special session Nov. 20 to lay plans for an organized campaign for the modification of the Volstead Act to permit the manufacture and sale of light wines and beer.

This information was obtained from Representative George H. Tinkham of Boston, who is one of the wet leaders in the House.

Tinkham predicted success for the "modificationist" movement after the 1924 elections.

LIMPED IN

By The United Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—"So Lodge came limping in, did he," commented Woodrow Wilson to a friend who called at the Wilson residence to inform him that the ex-president's arch enemy Henry Cabot Lodge ran more than 40,000 votes behind the Republican margin in Massachusetts, but was re-elected by a narrow margin.

J. PLUVIUS VISITS HERE.

Arrived Here Heavily Sheeted Late Saturday Night With Lightning.

J. Pluvius arrived in Sweetwater at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night in full force, preceded by a genuine West Texas shower and accompanied by plenty of lightning and some wind. A hard twenty-minute shower was followed by a slower fall and an "attract" but unappreciated electrical display. A few spats of hail was "also present."

At 12:15 the rain was coming down in gushes, heavy for a while and light for a while, with plenty of moisture in evidence, judging by the flooded appearance of the pavement which for a time resembled a small "Mississippi River."

The rain was general as far north as Canyon, according to reports received here. Slaton received three-quarters of an inch early Saturday evening and Post City got one inch. Other places between Slaton and Sweetwater came in for good showers. In the face of the above, Sweetwater bids fair to lose her thus-far Florida winter.

Clemenceau Leaves On Armistice Day—McAdoo Delivers Address On The Soldier Bonus.

By The United Press.
Four years ago today in a little shell-swept town in Northern France representatives of the German Empire and the Allies met and concluded agreements which brought about an end to the greatest war the world has ever known.

Today throughout the United States business and other affairs will pause a minute, while a grateful nation pours forth its thanks for the termination of that terrible conflagration. In Texas the celebration in honor of the occasion will be held in every town, village and hamlet. Programs ranging from parades in honor of those who still "lie in Flander's fields" will be held.

Parades and public speaking will be the order of the day in the larger cities of the state. Religious ceremonies in churches will also be held. At San Antonio and at towns with army camps, military exercises will take place and "taps" will be blown for the boys killed in the war.

State militia companies throughout the state will be mobilized today to take part in parades and exercises.

At Gonzales and other points a realistic sham battle with veterans of the World war taking part will be held. Rodeos and other western celebrations will feature Armistice Day celebrations in scores of West Texas towns.

By The United Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—A tribute of silent homage impressive and significant was paid here today to the Unknown Soldier on the fifth anniversary of his return from foreign battlefields.

The President of the United States stood before the tomb in the great white marble amphitheatre in Arlington cemetery where last year all the world paid him homage and on behalf of the American people placed a memorial wreath upon the unadorned tomb.

The secretary of War and the Secretary of Navy stood silently beside the President.

No others took part in the impressive ceremony.

"TIGER" SAILS

By The United Press.
PARIS, Nov. 11.—Georges Clemenceau sailed for America today on the Fourth Anniversary of the collapse of Germany's military machine which he helped demolish.

Standing on the bridge of the French liner Paris, the Tiger was enthusiastically cheered as the great ship swung away from the quay and proceeded slowly through the gateway in the breakwater into the English Channel.

Thousands massed around the lighthouse on the end of the breakwater for a last look at the great statesman who bowed and waived his hand in salute as the cheers came faintly over the water.

FLOWER SHOW IS BEST EVER HELD

Beautiful Blooms And Plants Attract Large Audiences—Other Displays Attractive

LONG LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS

Culinary Fancy Work, Painting And Art Work Praised—Economy Garments Noted.

The Flower Show held in this city Saturday under the auspices of the ladies of the Sorosis Club has been pronounced the best ever held in this county.

All departments were full and in the floral displays all plants and blooms were the best of their kind. Some of the specimens were enough to put California to shame.

The fact was brought out that Sweetwater has several artists whose pictures would be a credit to any art gallery. The China painting was excellent.

In the needlework departments on through the different classes the specimens shown were very fine. A number of pretty birds and gold fish were on display.

The culinary and candy displays were splendid.

The canned fruits and vegetables shown proved that many of the ladies have taken advantage of Miss Spann's instructions and saved lots of good things for use this winter.

The three Thrift displays attracted quite a bit of attention. Under "Special mention" comes a little two-piece calico dress for a ten-year-old girl made in 1881 and shown by Mrs. Caloway.

While there was not as large a number of individual exhibits in the floral department, the flowers were of a better class. The Mashburn collection included all varieties of plants generally seen in this section, and received lots of attention. Their roses were fine. The whole collection drew some real money in prizes. Mrs. Bondies' Chrysanthemums were so near perfect that many remarked they looked like artificial blooms.

SHRINE REVUE TO BE SOCIAL EVENT

Mrs. Popboy Smith And R. D. Cox Play The Leads With Fun Paramount In Every Line.

BILL WADE'S EMETIC DANCE

Vaudeville And Musical Chorus Feature Three Act Comedy—House Is Nearly Sold Out.

The Shrine Musical Revue to be staged at the Lyric Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday nights for the purpose of furnishing the new Masonic Temple will be a social event of the season. There will be a three-act comedy on the Geo. M. Cohan style featuring Mrs. C. O. Smith as the feature comedy part of the show. Mrs. Smith has a part that causes a laugh every time she appears on the stage. R. D. Cox is playing comedy part of the Hen Pecked Husband opposite Mrs. Smith and between the two there are many laughs. Cox is very funny in the second act when it appears that he has been dissipating the night before. Miss Florence McKisick is playing the part of the leading lady and handles the part to perfection announced Director Hull last night. She has the looks, she knows her lines, and she plays the part like an old timer in the business.

F. W. Ater plays the part of the father of Miss McKisick and altho he misunderstands most every thing and everybody he puts the part in real class. Bill Wade is the Uncle from Japan, and has many funny stunts. His emetic dance all through the third act is very funny. Miss Hazel Jordan has the part of the mischievous maid, and cuts up all thru the play. She even poisons Uncle Obediah, and is up to anything devilish. Miss Jordan puts everything into the part, and is unusually good. Mr. Doyle plays the part of the detective, and although a small part he handles it in such a manner as to make it a big part.

Jimmie Hull, director, also takes a part in the play. There are several vaudeville acts that will please the most skeptical, including classical songs, dancing, comic stunts and musical acts.

There is also a chorus of thirty pretty dancing and singing girls who will appear throughout the play. The Smiles Fun Makers will be a feature act, as well as the Sweetwater symphony orchestra. There will be a tremendous rush at Bownes Drug store Monday morning, on account of so many Masons and Shriners having tickets to be exchanged for reserved seats. It is a wise tip that those wanting choice seats will be there early and get reservation.

LIFE-SAVING CAMPAIGN IN SOUTHWEST DIVISION

American Red Cross Organized and Trained Many Corps in This Section Last Summer.

More than 34 chapters have been visited during the months of May, June and July by Captain Norbert E. Raacke, first aid and life saving representative of the Southwestern Division. While visiting these various chapters, Capt. Raacke gave first aid demonstrations before Rotary, Lions and Kiwanis Clubs, as well as life saving demonstrations and instructions at Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A. and many outdoor pools and lakes. At the majority of the pools and lakes visited, the Captain has noted particularly that practically little or no life saving precautions are taken. A large lake at Nevada, Mo., is owned by an old Indian, who believes that if a person were drowning someone near at hand would come to the rescue.

Many letters of commendation have been received from chapters visited by Capt. Raacke. Salina, Kan., was particularly well pleased with his demonstrations at the Country Club outdoor pool. The following is an extract from a letter recently sent in by the life saving examiner of that town:

"Capt. Raacke's clever work at the large outdoor pool of the Country Club was watched in breathless silence, only to be broken by wild cheering at his many extraordinary feats of swimming and life saving. Capt. Raacke, to us, is a marvel of efficiency and his crawl stroke is still the talk of the town. He not only has been a great help in the Life Saving Department, but has given even greater interest to the Red Cross in its other lines of work."

There are several well organized life saving corps in the Southwestern Division. Kansas City, Mo., has an excellent women's corps. At the annual banquet, held in May, life saving badges were awarded to more than forty women, service medals to two and the life saving bar to one.

On July 30th the river patrol of the St. Louis Chapter gave an exhibition and races at Lincoln Beach, on the Meramec River. This exhibition was witnessed by probably the largest crowd ever gathered at Lincoln Beach. More than 500 canoes fringed the sand when the first event, the canoe singles race, was announced. Capt. Raacke had charge of the life saving demonstration, showing the various methods of breaking death holds encountered in rescuing a drowning person.

Eight life guards, after his demonstration on the barge, struggled viciously with each other in a practical illustration of life saving tactics.

The Galveston, (Texas) Life Saving Corps have frequently exhibited their skill in first aid and life saving. Owing to the prompt and efficient first aid administered by three members of the Galveston Life Saving Corps on June 4th, the life of John D. Wheeler, 23 years old, of Houston, Tex., was saved. Mr. Wheeler was overcome while bathing in shallow water and was found floating in an unconscious condition. The three members of the life saving corps succeeded in reviving Mr. Wheeler through the application of the Schaeffer method of resuscitation. He was taken to the hospital in a very weakened condition. As Mr. Wheeler was found in comparatively shallow water, it is believed his mishap was due to a fainting spell.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL AND CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE ARE DISTANT

At a joint meeting of the National Committee of the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association, held recently, an agreement with regard to the campaigns conducted annually by each organization, which follows each other only a day apart this year, was reached. The American Red Cross will conduct its Roll Call from November 11th to November 30th. The National Tuberculosis Association will conduct its nationwide sale of Christmas Seals from December 1st to January 1st.

A statement issued jointly by the two organizations says that undoubtedly the effectiveness of the mutual understanding depends in large measure upon the extent to which the local workers of both organizations adhere to the agreement. Overlapping of effort will be injurious to both causes, the two national organizations believe, and it is of great importance that this idea be thoroughly understood by the local workers on both, according to John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, and Dr. Alexander Miller, president of the National Tuberculosis Association.

The official statement of the two organizations follows:

1. There is no official connection between the campaign of the National Tuberculosis Association and that of the American Red Cross.
2. There is to be no use of the Red Cross emblem by the National Tuberculosis Association.
3. The title of the American Red Cross is not to be used in the sale of Tuberculosis Seals.
4. The dates of the American Red Cross Roll Call are to be November 11th to November 30th, inclusive; and the National Tuberculosis Association's sale of seals begins December 1st and continues until January 1st.

FARMERS IN NEED

Nation's Producers Have Average of Less than $200 Above Expenses

By The United Press.
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The farmer of today has on an average just $186 left at the end of the year to pay for education, doctor's bills, recreation, repairs and other incidentals, President J. R. Howard of the American Farm Bureau Federation declared to the United Press.

"This is the third successive year when the farmer faced a market returning prices below the cost of production", Howard said.

"Organized business must get behind a prostrate agriculture and aid it to reach a position of prosperity before a period of normalcy will be restored."

"The income of the six and a half million farmers in the country totaled $10,976,000,000 according to the latest survey."

"The farmer borrows approximately $12,500,000,000 on his aggregate capital of $78,000,000,000. The interest amounts to more than $1,000,000,000 a year."

"The farmer pays about $663,000,000 in taxes and $1,103,000,000 for transportation."

"This means at the end of the year he has just $186 left for the expenses named."

"The result is that the farmer must get cost of production over a number of years or go out of business."

TEXAS CATTLE TO ROYAL

Texas A. & M. and Largent and Sons of Merkle Make Entries

By The United Press.
KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Twenty-two Herefords entered by two Texas exhibitors will be shown here at the American Royal Live Stock show to be held in the new half million dollar Royal building here November 18-25.

The Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas will show 4 Hereford steers. A Hereford herd is maintained by the animal husbandry department of the College for educational purposes, and the steers to be shown were fitted by college herds-men.

C. N. Largent and sons, of Merkle, will exhibit seventeen breeding cattle and one steer. The Largents are showmen of long experience. The Largent show herd has been prominent in all middle-western fairs this season, winning many ribbons at Missouri, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, and Oklahoma. The two Largent cows, "Frances Lassie" and "Shadaland Jewell 3rd" were grand champions at several shows. "Frances Lassie" was later sold at a big figure.

The twenty-two Hereford entries from Texas are only a part of the 650 head of Herefords which will make the 1922 Royal Hereford show the greatest exhibition of Herefords ever assembled in an American arena. Sixty breeders from fifteen states will participate. Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana is sending twenty Herefords from his great breeding farm at Kentland, Ind.

Hereford entries, competing for $11,255 in prize money outnumber two to one all other breeds of cattle at the Royal.

Proof Positive Against Superstition Show by Mexia Residents

By The United Press.
MEXIA, Nov. 11.—J. D. Buie, local photographer has taken sides against popular superstition that the number "13" is unlucky. And who wouldn't if his fortunes ran like this:

Buie bought 13 acres in the Kosse oil field just before the big oil rush there. On last Friday the thirteenth he sold the 13 acres for $13,000, realizing a handsome profit.

Another instance of this peculiar arrangement of circumstances is shown by the records of the Danziger Development Company here. BUICK MEN MEET

Preston Ragland Returns From Dallas Where He Attended Meeting Of The Buick Agents.

Preston Ragland of the Western Motor Company has returned from Dallas where he attended a service meeting of Buick Dealers. The principal topics of discussion were the Delco Starting and Lighting units, the Marvel carburetor, and the Buick motor and chassis. Great stress was laid upon the high quality of material in each and the methods of repair and adjustment.

The cheapness of Buick parts was also emphasized. For example, the Buick Four motor block lists for $25 and pistons at $2 each, cheaper than those of many other four cylinder cars selling hundreds of dollars cheaper. All of which may be attributed to the foresightedness of Buick engineers in designing the motor.

It was announced that a system of flat rate prices would be inaugurated in Buick Service stations in the course of the next few months. This, together with several labor time saving tools, would materially decrease the cost and render more satisfactory the servicing of Buick cars.

Summing up, the Buick Motor Co. has placed the matter of selling secondary, and is stressing the matter of building the car and a system of national service up to such an extent that an investment in a Buick car will mean an investment in uninterrupted and economical transportation.

PEACE BY EDUCATION.

Kansas U. Professor Gives German War Training And Results.

By The Associated Press. LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 11.—World peace as a result of education of the youth of the world, was the suggestion made today by F. J. Kelly, dean of administration of the University of Arkansas, speaking here before the Arkansas State Teachers' Association, now in session.

"The teaching profession possesses the instrument for making the next generation believe practically a wish to rule the world. The same thing is true of the work of the W. C. T. U. in American schools. Long before the nation was ready to go record against intoxicating liquor, a national policy, the public teachers, often under direction, almost unanimously were vigorous in their teachings of the evil effects of alcohol.

"Just as it is impossible and unwise for a particular nation to go far in the movement for disarmament without a corresponding disarmament on the part of other nations, so it is unsafe for a particular nation to go too far in a spirit of international mindedness without seeing to it that other nations are moving as rapidly in the same direction. Thus, if educators are to undertake the task educating for world peace, it ought to be after an agreement on the part of educators everywhere to make the movement a truly international one.

"If it is urged that the school system reflects the public sentiment of a nation, and does not initiate reforms, the army is to be found in American experience, and in the fact that the school sought to be one of the great factors making for a healthy public sentiment, or shall assume a place of leadership.

"The dignity of the teaching profession demands that it take a stand with reference to fundamental questions of public welfare. This, I believe, the teaching profession is willing to do. If it does, it possesses the instrument for molding public opinion of the next generation."

DUCKS HOLD "BOOZE" RECORD.

Veterinarian Administers Alcohol To "Pep-Up" Prize Gifts.

By The United Press. LONDON, Nov. 11.—A flock of ducks were presented recently by Emmanuel College to the Cambridge University Botanic Gardens. After a few days sojourn in their new homes the birds began to lose their liveliness. They strolled about in a listless manner, refusing to be gladdened even by the appearance of their keeper with a supply of food.

Finally the veterinarian administered some liquor to the birds. The effect was remarkable. They resumed their quacking, and began flying about in a most gleeful manner.

The Emmanuel ducks have for some time had a reputation for inebriety. They had inhabited an old-world garden, two sides of which are overlooked by the students' rooms, and it has been a favorite sport of the undergraduates to feed them from their windows with cake or bread soaked with alcohol.

CANCERS ON THE INCREASE.

Rising Cancer Rate Causes Alarm—Advanced Age Sufferers.

Special To The Reporter.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Metropolitan Life Insurance company, in a recent issue of its statistical bulletin, devotes considerable space to the fact that the death rate from cancer in 1921 was higher than for any year since 1911. The years of 1918 and 1919 show a drop, but this may have been accounted for by the influenza epidemic which unquestionably killed many persons who would otherwise have died from cancer.

"Whatever the explanation for the lower mortality in 1918 and 1919," says the bulletin, "we are facing at the present time a rising cancer death rate."

In discussing tables showing that the upward sweep of the cancer death rate affects primarily persons beyond 55 years of age, the bulletin commends the educational campaign of the American Society for the Control of Cancer. It says:

"Careful analysis shows that there is an underlying downward tendency, slight, indeed, but quite definite, at the ages below 45 years. This may have followed because the cancer control message has been favorably received and understood by persons of the younger ages. But the bulk of the loss of life from cancer, the toll of intense suffering and prolonged incapacity, occurs at the advanced ages.

"The task of the cancer prevention movement seems to be to reach that part of the population in advanced life. This point should be borne in mind in discussions of cancer mortality during the campaign of public education planned for the week beginning November 12, 1922, by the American Society for the Control of Cancer. Through its 55 state and local committees, the society will conduct a 'Cancer Week' and will bring to public attention the facts on cancer prevalence and on measures for checking the rising death rates. There is hardly any life conservation measure of such intrinsic merit as the effort of this group to hold down the annual increment in the cancer death rate and if possible to achieve a substantial reduction."

November 12-19 has been designated as anti-cancer week by the American Society for the Prevention of Cancer, according to Dr. A. H. Fortner, secretary of the Nolan County Society. Literature has been distributed country-wide regarding the spread of the disease and method of prevention.

GERMANY CAN'T PAY.

Is Opinion of Sir Eric Geddes, Former Member of Parliament.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Sir Eric Geddes did some very plain talking about German reparations as the guest of the Thirty Club, of London, recently. This club is an association of advertising experts. When in Parliament Sir Eric was noted for his straightforward style of speech, and since he became a business man again he is more outspoken than ever.

"In 1918 I was a politician," he said, "and I said then that we should not make a fetish of reparations; that we might find reparations a boomerang, and that the demanding of great sums from Germany might be bad. I nearly lost my seat over that statement, and I had to hedge a bit."

He was under no necessity of doing any hedging before the Thirty Club, he continued. "What I said in 1918 has come absolutely true now," he declared. "We were absolutely wrong as allies, in trying to get the last penny out of Germany. We cannot get it because it is not there.

"It is no use chasing a mirage. You can only get reparations out of Germany by either money or goods. She has no money, and if you take her goods it will mean unemployment here. If the leaders of thought could bring that home to our people, it would be a good thing for this country.

"I have just come from Germany. They are desperate there. There will never be a strong government until the people know that they can manage their own affairs. Until we and our allies come down to bed-rock, find out what Germany can pay, and tell them so there will be no improvement. When we do that Germany will try to pay, if possible. But you cannot enslave a nation of 70,000,000 people for generations."

TO RESUME RELATIONS

Kansas and Colorado to Play Football After Lapse of 15 Years.

By The Associated Press. LAWRENCE, Kans., Nov. 11.—Kansas and Colorado will resume athletic relations after a lapse of 15 years when the football team of the Mountain State comes to Lawrence, November 18, for a contest on the Stadium field. In the middle 1900's four games were played with the scores showing the teams evenly matched.

The first game of 1903 was won by Kansas by the close score, of 12-11 and the next year the teams battled a 6-6 tie. In 1905 Colorado cleaned up the Kansans 15 to 9 and the next year Kansas came back with a 16-0 victory.

While the record shows that Kansas won two out of the four games and tied in one, the total of scores is decidedly close—34 for Kansas and 32 for Colorado. The game comes a week after the home-coming contest with Nebraska and is the last game before the Jaihawkers invade Missouri territory at Columbia on Thanksgiving Day.

SYNOPSIS

VI—SEPTEMBER.—A new arrival in the little town, one Neil Cornish, is an event of interest. Herbert invites him to the house and he becomes a friend of the family. A message announcing the alarming illness of Herbert's foster mother calls him and Ina to the East. In his absence Lulu and Cornish become better acquainted. Lulu tells him of her unfortunate affair with Ninian and for the first time receives sympathy. Ninian's answer to Herbert's demand for full information arrives. It gives proof of his first marriage, and that the woman is living and not divorced. Lulu receives the news with something like satisfaction, now that she understands her position. Diana, with youthful impulsiveness, decides she will marry Bobby Larkin, and goes, alone, to the adjoining town of Milton to meet him. Dismissed, Lulu follows her, succeeding in inducing her parents, unexpectedly returned. Despite Lulu's pleadings, the girl refuses to tell her mother of her foolish adventure. Confronted with proof, she admits it, but denies any intention of having planned an elopement. Disgusted at the lie, Bobby impulsively breaks with her. The unsympathetic attitude of her sister and brother-in-law regarding her affair with Ninian causes Lulu to decide to leave their house and make her living elsewhere. She tells Cornish of her intentions. He declares he has loved her almost from their first meeting, asking her to take pity on his loneliness and share his humble fortunes. Happy in the first real love that has come to her, Lulu and Cornish are quietly married and immediately astound Herbert and Ina with the news that they are taking their last leave of Miss Lulu Bett.

"That's what it is, my little girl," said Dwight, and shook his head. "Well, I think it's a shame," said Di stoutly. "And I think Uncle Ninian is a slunge."

"I do. And I'd be ashamed to think anything else. I'd like to tell everybody."

"There is," said Dwight, "no need for secrecy—now."

"Dwight!" said Ina—Ina's eyes always remained expressionless, but it must have been her lashes that looked so startled.

"No need whatever for secrecy," he repeated with firmness. "The truth is Lulu's husband has tired of her and sent her home. We must face it."

"But, Dwight—how awful for Lulu!"

"Lulu," said Dwight, "has us to stand by her."

Lulu, walking down the main street, thought: "Now Mrs. Chambers is seeing me. Now Mrs. Curtis. There's somebody behind the vines at Mrs. Martin's. Here comes Mrs. Grove and I've got to speak to her."

One and another and another met her, and every one cried out at her some version of:

"Lulu Bett!" Or, "W-well, it isn't Lulu Bett any more, is it? Well, what are you doing here? I thought..."

"I'm back to stay," she said. "The idea! Well, where you hiding that handsome husband of yours? Say, but we were surprised! You're the sly one—"

"My—Mr. Deacon isn't here."

"Oh, I see."

"No. He's West."

"Oh, I see."

Having no arts, she must needs lead the conversation die like this, could invent nothing concealing or gracious on which to move away.

She went to the post office. It was early, there were few at the post office—with only one or two there had she to go through her examination. Then she went to the general delivery window, tense for a new ordeal.

To her relief, the face which was shown there was one strange to her, a slim youth, reading a letter of his own, and smiling.

"Excuse me," said Lulu faintly. "Oh, I see."

The youth looked up, with eyes warmed by the words on the pink paper which he held.

"Could you give me the address of Mr. Ninian Deacon?"

"Let's see—you mean Dwight Deacon, I guess?"

"No. It's his brother. He's been here. From Oregon. I thought he might have given you his address—" she dwindled away.

"Wait a minute," said the youth. "Nope. No address here. Say, why don't you send it to his brother? He'd know. Dwight Deacon, the dentist."

"I'll do that," Lulu said absurdly, and turned away.

She went back up the street, walking fast now to get away from them all. Once or twice she pretended not to see a familiar face. But when she passed the mirror in an insurance office window, she saw her reflection could turn Lulu out—should do so, in fact. Still the story would be all over town.

"Dwight," said Lulu, "I want Ninian's address."

"Going to write to him?" Ina cried incredulously.

"I want to ask him for the proofs that Dwight wanted."

"My dear Lulu," Dwight said impatiently, "you are not the one to write. Have you no delicacy?"

Lulu smiled—a strange smile, originating and dying in one corner of her mouth.

"Yes," she said. "So much delicacy that I want to be sure whether I'm married or not."

Dwight cleared his throat with a movement which seemed to use his shoulders for the purpose.

"I myself will take this up with my brother," he said. "I will write to him about it."

Lulu sprang to her feet. "Write to him now!" she cried.

"Really," said Dwight, lifting his brows.

"Now—now!" Lulu said. She moved about, collecting writing materials from their casual lodgments on shelf and table. She set all before him and stood by him. "Write him now," she said again.

"My dear Lulu, don't be absurd." She said: "Ina, help me. If it was Dwight—and they didn't know whether he had another wife, or not, and you want to ask him—oh, don't you see? Help me."

Ina was not yet the woman to cry for justice for its own sake, nor even to stand by another woman. She was primitive, and her instinct was to look to her own male merely.

"Well," she said, "of course. But why not let Dwight do it in his own way? Wouldn't that be better?"

She put it to her sister fairly: Now, no matter what Dwight's way was, wouldn't that be better?

"Mother!" said Lulu. She looked resolutely toward her mother. But Mrs. Bett was eating caradom seeds with exceeding gusto, and Lulu looked away. Caught by the gesture, Mrs. Bett voiced her grievance.

"Lulu," she said, "Set down. Take off your hat, why don't you?"

Lulu turned upon Dwight a quiet face which he had never seen before.

"You write that letter to Ninian," she said, "and you make him tell you so you'll understand. I know he spoke the truth. But I want you to know."

"M—m," said Dwight. "And then I suppose you're going to tell it all over town—as soon as you have the proofs."

"I'm going to tell it all over town," said Lulu, "just as it is—unless you write to him now."

"Lulu!" cried Ina. "Oh, you wouldn't."

"I would," said Lulu. "I will."

Dwight was sobered. This unimagined Lulu looked capable of it. But then he sneered.

"And get turned out of this house, as you would be?"

"Dwight!" cried his Ina. "Oh, you wouldn't!"

"I would," said Dwight. "I will. Lulu knows it."

"I shall tell what I know and then leave your house anyway," said Lulu, "unless you get Ninian's word. And I want you should write him now."

"Well," She Thought, Almost in Ina's Own Manner.

and at its appearance she felt surprise and pleasure.

"Well," she thought, almost in Ina's own manner.

Abruptly her confidence rose. Something of this confidence was still upon her when she returned. They were in the dining room now. All save Di, who was on the porch with Bobby, and Monona, who was in bed and might be heard extravagantly singing.

Lulu sat down with her hat on. When Dwight inquired playfully, "Don't we look like company?" she did not reply. He looked at her speculatively. Where had she gone, with whom had she talked, what had she told? Ina looked at her rather fearfully. But Mrs. Bett rocked contentedly and ate caradom seeds.

"Whom did you see?" Ina asked. Lulu named them.

"See them to talk to?" from Dwight. Oh, yes. They had all stopped. "What did they say?" Ina burst out. They had inquired for Ninian, Lulu said; and said no more.

Dwight mused.

He shrugged, pursed his lips crookedly, rolled his head to signify the inexpressible. "Isn't that like a woman?" he demanded. He rose. "Rather than let you in for a show of temper," he said grandly, "I'd do anything."

He wrote the letter, addressed it, his hand elaborately curved in secrecy about the envelope, pocketed it.

"Ina and I'll walk down with you to mail it," said Lulu.

Dwight hesitated, frowned. His Ina watched him with consulting brows.

"I was going," said Dwight, "to propose a little stroll before bedtime." He roved about the room. "Where's my beautiful straw hat? There's nothing like a brisk walk to induce sound, restful sleep," he told them. He hummed a bar.

"You'll be all right, mother?" Lulu asked.

Mrs. Bett did not look up. "These caradom seeds got a little mite too dry," she said.

In their room, Ina and Dwight discussed the incredible actions of Lulu.

"I saw," said Dwight, "I saw she wasn't herself. I'd do anything to avoid having a scene—you know that." His glance swept a little anxiously his Ina. "You know that, don't you?" he sharply inquired.

"But I really think you ought to have written to Ninian about it," she now dared to say. "It's not a nice position for Lulu."

"Nice? Well, but whom has she got to blame for it?"

"Why, Ninian," said Ina. Dwight threw out his hands. "Herself," he said. "To tell you the truth, I was perfectly amazed at the way she snapped him up there in that restaurant."

"Why, but, Dwight—" "Brazen," he said. "Oh, it was brazen."

"It was just Ina, in the first place." "But no really nice woman—" he shook his head.

"Dwight! Lulu is nice. The idea!" He regarded her. "Would you have done that?" he would know. Under his foud look, she softened, took his homage, accepted everything, was silent.

"Certainly not," he said. "Lulu's antics are not fine like yours. I should never think of you as sisters."

"She's awfully good," Ina said, feebly. Fifteen years of married life behind her—but this was sweet and she could not resist.

"She has excellent qualities." He admitted it. "But look at the position she's in—married to a man who tells her he has another wife in order to get free. Now, no really nice woman—"

"No really nice man—" Ina did say that much.

"Ah," said Dwight, "but you could never be in such a position. No, no. Lulu is sadly lacking somewhere."

Ina sighed, threw back her head, caught her lower lip with her upper, as might be in a hem. "What if it was Di?" she supposed.

"Di!" Dwight's look rebuked his wife. "Di," he said, "was born with ladylike feelings."

It was not yet ten o'clock. Bobby Larkin was permitted to stay until then. From the veranda came the indistinguishable murmur of those young voices.

"Bobby," Di was saying within that murmur, "Bobby, you don't kiss me as if you really wanted to kiss me, tonight."

VI

September.

The office of Dwight Herbert Deacon, Dentist, Gold Work a Specialty (sic) in black lettering, and Justice of the Peace in gold, was above a store which had been occupied by one unlucky tenant after another, and had suffered long periods of vacancy when ladies' aid societies served lunches there, under great white signs, badly lettered. Some months of disuse were now broken by the news that the store had been let to a music man. A music man, what on earth was that? Warbleton inquired.

The music man arrived, installed three pianos, and filled his window with sheet music, as sung by many ladies who swung in hammocks or kissed their hands on the music covers. While he was still moving in, Dwight Herbert Deacon wandered downstairs and stood informally in the door of the new store. The music man, a pleasant-faced chap of thirty-odd, was rubbing at the face of a piano.

"Hello, there!" he said. "Can I sell you an upright?"

"If I can take it out in pulling your teeth, you can," Dwight replied. "Or," said he, "I might marry you free, either one."

On this their friendship began. Thenceforth, when business was dull, the idle hours of both men were beguiled with idle gossip.

"How the dickens did you think of pianos for a line?" Dwight asked him once. "Now, my father was a dentist, so I came by it natural—never entered my head to be anything else. But pianos—"

The music man—his name was Nell Cornish—threw up his chin in a boyish fashion, and said he'd be jiggered if he knew. All up and down the Warbleton main street, the chances are that the answer would sound the same. "I'm studying law when I get the chance," said Cornish, as one who makes a bid to be thought of more highly.

"I see," said Dwight, respectfully dwelling on the verb.

Later on, Cornish confided more to Dwight: He was to come by a little Later On, Cornish Confided More to Dwight: He Was to Come by a Little Inheritance Some Day.

inheritance some day—not much, but something. Yes, it made a man feel a certain confidence. . . .

"Don't it?" said Dwight, heartily, as if he knew.

Every one liked Cornish. He told funny stories, and he never compared Warbleton save to its advantage. So at last Dwight said tentatively at lunch:

"What if I brought that Nell Cornish up for supper one of these nights?"

"Oh, Dwight, do," said Ina. "It there's a man in town, let's know it." "What if I brought him up tonight?" Up went Ina's eyebrows. Tonight? "Scalloped potatoes and meat loaf and sauce and bread and butter," Lulu contributed.

what is known in Warbleton as dapper. This Ina saw as she emerged on the veranda in response to Dwight's informal halloo on his way upstairs. She herself was in white muslin, now much too snug, and a blue ribbon. To her greeting their guest replied in that engaging shyness which is not awkwardness. He moved in some pleasant web of gentleness and friendliness.

They asked him the usual questions, and he replied, rocking all the time with a faint undulating motion of head and shoulders: Warbleton was one of the prettiest little towns that he had ever seen. He liked the people—they seemed different. He was sure to like the place, already liked it. Lulu came to the door in Ninian's thin black-and-white gown. She shook hands with the stranger, not looking at him, and said, "Come to supper, all." Monona was already in her place, singing under-breath. Mrs. Bett, after hovering in the kitchen door, entered; but they forgot to introduce her.

"Where's Di?" asked Ina. "I declare that daughter of mine is never anywhere."

A brief silence ensued as they were seated. There being a guest, grace was to come, and Dwight said, unintelligibly and like lightning, a generic appeal to bless this food, forgive all our sins and finally save us. And there was something tremendous in this ancient form whereby all stages of men bow in some now unrecognized recognition of the ceremonial of taking food to nourish life—and more.

At "Amen" Di flashed in, her offices at the mirror fresh upon her—perfect hair, silk dress turned up at the hem. She met Cornish, crimsoned, fluttered to her seat, joggled the cable and, "Oh, dear," she said audibly to her mother, "I forgot my ring."

The talk was saved alive by a frank about everybody coming back for more. They went on with Warbleton happenings, improvements and openings; and the runaway. Cornish tried hard to make himself agreeable, not ingratiatingly, but good-naturedly. He wished profoundly that before coming he had looked up some more stories in the back of the Musical Gazette. Lulu surreptitiously pinched off an ant that was running at large upon the cloth and thereafter kept her eyes steadfastly on the sugar bowl to see if it could be from that. Dwight pretended that those whom he was helping a second time were getting more than their share and facetiously landed on Di about eating so much that she would grow up and be married, first thing she knew. At the word "married" Di turned scarlet, laughed heartily and lifted her glass of water.

"And what instruments do you play?" Ina asked Cornish, in an unrelated effort to lift the talk to musical levels.

"Well, do you know," said the music man, "I can't play a thing. Don't know a black note from a white one."

"You don't? Why Di plays very prettily," said Di's mother. "But then, how can you tell what songs to order?" Ina cried.

"Oh, by the music houses. You go by the sales." For the first time it occurred to Cornish that this was ridiculous. "You know, I'm really studying law," he said, shyly and proudly. Law! How very interesting, from Ina. Oh, but won't he bring up some songs some evening, for them to fry over? Lier and Di? At this Di laughed and said that she was out of practice and lifted her glass of water. In the presence of adults Di made one weep, she was so slender, so young, so without defenses, so intolerably sensitive to every contact, so in agony lest she be found wanting. It was amazing how unlike was this Di to the Di who had ensnared Bobby Larkin. What was one to think?

Cornish paid very little attention to her. To Lulu he said kindly, "Don't you play, Miss—?" He had not caught her name—no stranger ever did catch it. But Dwight now supplied it: "Miss Lulu Bett," he explained, with loud emphasis, and Lulu burned her stow red. This question Lulu had usually answered by telling how a felon had interrupted her lessons and she had stopped "taking"—a participle sacred to music, in Warbleton. This vignette had been a kind of epitome of Lulu's biography. But now Lulu was heard to say, serenely:

"No, but I'm quite fond of it. I went to a lovely concert—two weeks ago."

They all listened. Strange, indeed, to think of Lulu as having had experiences of which they did not know.

"Yes," she said. "It was in Savannah, Georgia." She flushed, and lifted her eyes in a manner of faint defiance. "Of course," she said, "I don't know the names of all the different instruments they played, but there were a good many." She laughed pleasantly as a part of her sentence. "They had some lovely tunes," she said. She knew that the subject was not exhausted and she hurried on. "The hall was real large," she superadded, "and there were quite a good many people there. And it was too warm."

"I see," said Cornish, and said what he had been waiting to say: That he, too, had been in Savannah, Georgia.

Lulu lit with pleasure. "Well!" she said. And her mind worked and she caught at the moment before it had escaped. "Isn't it a pretty city?" she asked. And Cornish assented with the intense heartiness of the provincial. He, too, it seemed, had a conversational appearance to maintain by its own effort. He said that he had enjoyed being in that town and that he was there for two hours.

"I was there for a week." Lulu's superiority was really pretty.

"Have good weather?" Cornish selected next.

"Oh, yes. And they saw all the different buildings—but at her 'wady' she (To be continued next Sunday)

FAMOUS OLD STAGE HIT

As famous in the field of romantic comedy as "The Prince of Pilsen" was in the field of musical comedy, Eugene Presbrey's stage hit of twenty years ago, "A Virginia Courtship," has now been adapted to the screen of 1921, and will be shown here next Monday at the Queen Theatre, with May McAvoy, newest of Real-art stars, in the stellar role.

"A Virginia Courtship" tells three love stories, though chiefly concerns the adventures of Prudence Fairfax, the ward of a kindly old Colonel Fairfax, owner of a run-down and heavily mortgaged plantation which had once been the pride of the countryside.

1922 BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Dalton More was hostess Wednesday afternoon when the 1922 Bridge Club met for their regular series of games.

The home decorations were chrysanthemum blooms in the reception hall and living room and sweet scented violets in the dining room.

Three tables were filled with players, bent on making as many scores as luck would give them. Five games were enjoyed. Mrs. Ed Patterson, Mrs. S. L. Edwards, Mrs. A. J. Wimberly, Misses Helen Douthitt and Campbell playing substitute hands.

At the conclusion of the games a delightful salad course was served on the Bridge tables. Mrs. Guy Morris will be next hostess November 2.

PRISCILLA CLUB

Mrs. A. R. Cannon of 311 Hickory street was hostess at a pleasant meeting of the Priscilla Club Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Hughes called the meeting to order and conducted a few moments business session. The ladies all came armed with their work bags from which a number of beautiful pieces of fancy work were drawn. While a constant flow of merry conversation entertained, quite a nice bit of work was accomplished.

When work was laid aside Mrs. Cannon passed plates of salad, potato chips, olives, saratoga flakes and hot tea. Mrs. Joe Janner was a guest of the club. Mrs. O. L. Dodson will be hostess November 23.

PLEASANT PARTY

A most pleasant affair was the afternoon party with which Mrs. Robert Withers honored her little niece, Nancy Elizabeth Faver of Wichita Falls, who is spending the winter here.

Mrs. Withers invited eleven of her little friends to meet her niece and enjoy an hour of games which were conducted by Mrs. Faver.

Nina May Brand, Nancy Elizabeth Faver, Jannita Holland and Evelyn Doak added pleasure with readings.

Pinning a hair bow on the little girl all ready to go to a party but her hair bow proved lots of fun. Each little girl was blind folded and given a chance to pin the bow in its proper place. Virginia Stewart won the "little girl" herself, which proved to be a large handpainted paper doll in full party costume, the clever work of Mrs. Faver. Plate favors of "all day sucker" dolls with handpainted faces were given when refreshments were served.

The guest list included Nancy Elizabeth Faver, Nina Mae Brand, Jannita Holland, Virginia Stewart, Evelyn Doak, Ruth Withers, Po Hall, Pauline and Evelyn Sorenson, Baby Dale Warren, Aline Gray and Louise Toler.

ANOTHER AUTO GRAVEYARD

ARDMORE, Okla., Nov. 11.—What is believed to be an "automobile graveyard", similar to that discovered in the Missouri river, near Kansas City, has been located in the Washita river near here, according to reports.

Numerous parts of automobiles, reported stolen in Custer county, have been found and fished out of the Washita. It was said, leading officers to believe the river has been, or is being used as a regular burial place for stolen automobiles and parts.

Abandoned mines, filled with water in the past have been found to contain "buried loot" but this is the first indication of a regular "burial ground" in the state, officers said.

Experience has shown Buick owners that "authorized" service means a conscientious, helpful interest in the continued and perfect operation of their Buicks.

Authorized service is a guarantee of skilled labor from mechanics of long experience on Buick cars, and that every new part is genuine, factory-made of the same high quality as the original unit.

It is an assurance that the establishment is conducted to serve Buick owners first, last, and always in the way that will continue the dependable performance built into every Buick car.

JAP STEEL PLANTS CLOSE

Industry in Deplorable condition and No Solution at Hand

By The Associated Press

TOKIO, Nov. 10.—The iron and steel industry has been in deplorable condition during the last few years and is shows no sign of improvement. Various means of relief have been proposed but so far have been tried or carried out. Some works have been entirely closed down, while others are working on short time. The output of the government works shows an increase over that of the same period last year. This, however, is not the result of revival of demand, but is due to the resumption of work by some of the furnaces that were under repair last year. Steel making establishments, except the government works, have been restricting output. The total production for the first six months of the year will show a decrease of about 10 per cent over the second half of 1921.

None of the iron and steel manufacturers are conducting business with any prospect of making a profit as the present market price is barely sufficient to cover the cost of material and wages.

COLEMAN NEWS

By B. C. Campbell Special To The Reporter.

COLEMAN, Nov. 11.—There is one more week of district court and the court this week granted a new trial in the case of H. I. Rumfield, charged with assault to murder and who was last week given a sentence of two years. The case will go over to next term.

The case of John Elkins, charged with murder, was continued to next term upon motion of state. Absence of material witnesses was alleged in motion for continuance.

An explosion which occurred at the Frank Rucker blacksmith shop in Coleman came very near claiming the life of Sam Goodman, blacksmith. Mr. Goodman is able to see slightly out of his left eye but the vision of the right eye seems to be destroyed. The explosion was caused by the heating of a hollow drive shaft of an automobile, throwing the cinders and smoke into Mr. Goodman's face and eyes.

The new South Ward school building is two stories with basement, and contains seven class rooms with a large auditorium. It is one of the prettiest and most substantial buildings in this country, and Coleman is justly proud of her new school building.

Cotton receipts at Public Weigher

Starnes' yard this week were 9,350 bales; bonded warehouse receipts were 8,301, totalling 12,651 bales. This does not include Farm Bureau Cotton. In Tuesday's election Mayfield carried Coleman county in the Senatorial race over Peddy by 416 votes. The election was very quiet. Miss Mae Cherry, formerly of Sweetwater and Big Spring but now of California is in the city for a few days visiting Mrs. Carl Williams.

MILLS ARRIVES

Paul Q. Mills of Mills and Juengerman Jewelry Co. arrived in Sweetwater Saturday for a few days visit.

AN OLD WILL

A granddaughter of Mrs. N. L. Hopkins of this city, Mrs. George Pearce of Abilene was in the city Friday to attend the dinner party given in honor of her grandmother's 75 birthday anniversary.

She had in her possession a copy of the will of Mrs. Hopkins' great, great grandfather written in 1774, 2 years before the declaration of American Independence. He lived in Rowan county, North Carolina and was an old age.

He possessed slaves at that time but they were not mentioned in his will. Every item of his property seemed to be grouped according to their value and divided between his children. His lands, stock, silverware, pewter, brass and copperware and house furniture were all enumerated.

ALASKAN RAILROAD PAYS

Business Good on Far Northern Rail Lines—River Shipping Good

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 11.—Uncle Sam is finding the railroad business good on his new Alaska line which runs from tidewater at Seward and Anchorage, across the mountains to Fairbanks and Nenana and the territory's interior river system.

Traffic was so heavy on the line that it has been necessary to add more Pullman sleeping coaches and baggage cars. At present the road is operating thirty passenger coaches, 716 freight cars and 236 cars of miscellaneous nature, making a total of 782 cars.

In addition to railroads the government also is operating two river transport ports to connect the lower-river points with the road. These boats will connect with mosquito fleet operating on the smaller rivers of the interior and will serve to hook up the entire section in one great transportation system.

Coal is one of the big items on the freight bills on this transportation system. The coal is taken from the mines along the railroad and sent to all parts of the interior by rail or boat.

With a good supply of coal at reasonable prices it will be possible to mine large areas of frozen ground which, it is believed, contain gold-bearing gravels. Geological survey officials estimate there is $300,000,000 in gold in these gravels.

None of the distant points in Alaska will benefit by getting coal at lower prices. At present coal is $45 a ton in Nome. By taking it down the river and across an arm of the Behring Sea to Nome it is thought coal can be sold there for half that price.

BAND PLAYS WELL

Enjoyable Concert Friday Night Appreciated By Large Crowd—Ensemble Work Improved.

One of the most enjoyable band concerts of the current season was given Friday night by the Sweetwater Band under the direction of Sam Goldman. This is the first concert in several weeks, but continual rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Goldman has produced noticeable improvement in the ensemble work of the organization.

The balance, volume of tone, sharpness of attack and alertness of response were remarkably improved. Concert work of this nature provides an infallible test of ability, a test that the organization met Friday in splendid manner.

There was a large audience, as there always is when a band concert is announced, and there was every manifestation of extreme pleasure at the performance rendered.

By a thumbmark on a tin dipper the heroine unmasked a band of counterfeiters in this colorful story of the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. Don't miss it.

In the lovely atmosphere of an old Southern plantation is laid the scene of one of these stories of the Old South. The ancient feud between the Fairfaxes and the Llewellyns is settled by a lovely girl, despite a fire-eating colonel of the old school. A story of madcap adventure-love-romance and thrills; in the lovely settings that only Virginia can provide.
