Reagan says U.S. schools flunking

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, saying the nation's report card on schooling is "capital U" for unsatisfactory, urged parents on Saturday to join in a "national campaign to restore excellence in American education."

Also on Saturday, Reagan said that if he runs again he will definitely ask Vice President George Bush to be on the ticket.

"If I run again in 1984, I would want George Bush as my running mate. You don't break up a combination that is working," Reagan told his chief of staff James A. Baker III.

In his weekly radio broadcast, the president blamed decreasing parental control and increasing federal intervention for the decline in the quality of education, which was reported last week by the National Commission on Excellence in Education.

"There are things the federal government must do to ensure educational excellence," Reagan said. "But bigger budgets are not the answer."

Reagan noted the commission called for four years of English in high school, three years of math and science, longer school days and better trained and paid teachers.

"Parents, please demand these and other reforms in your local schools and hold your local officials accountable," Reagan urged. "Let our parents once again be the rudder that puts American education back on course to its success through excellence."

The president's radio address, usually delivered live, was taped in advance in Washington before Reagan traveled to Houston on Friday. He was returning to the White House on Saturday.

In the speech, Reagan said that the educational system was in a "sorry state of disrepair," and that 13 percent of 17 year olds were functional illiterates, 40 percent among minorities.

"Our grade is a stark and uncompromising capital U for unsatisfactory," he said. "We must act now and with energy if we're to avoid failing an entire generation."

Though children are as smart as ever, Reagan said, the quality of learning has been declining for two decades.

"Those were the years when the federal presence in education grew and grew," he said. "Well, government seemed to forget that education begins in the

Dog nurses kittens at shelter

Five motherless kittens and a heartbroken dog have formed a family at the Big Spring Animal Shelter.

A stray brown dog — dubbed Mama by shelter workers — lost all seven of her puppies Thursday. Friday she was scared and shaking, but was nursing two litter of kittens.

"She was so heartbroken," said Ardis Hodges, one of the animal wardens. "The kittens settled her down."

Mama, a Chihuahua mix, was picked up two weeks ago, according to animal control secretary Pam Matthews. The dog gave birth to seven puppies last Monday. They all died Thursday night.

Friday morning Linda Thacker, another warden, started taking the dead puppies out of the shelter to be buried.

"She (Mama) was crying horribly," Ms. Matthews said. "She left the cage and tried to bring the puppies back — she didn't know they were dead."

Ms. Thacker and Ms. Matthews decided to put two litter of kittens into the cage with Mama.

"She took to them right away," Ms. Matthews said.

The kittens were born two weeks ago. Both of the mothers had died during the last week. Shelter workers said the kittens would have died also if they had not been nursed.

Ms. Matthews said the puppies and the cats were probably killed by distemper or a similar Parvo virus. Both the feline and canine forms of distemper affect animals like severe colds affect humans, said a local veterinarian who asked to remain anonymous. The Parvo virus has been especially prevalent in dogs and cats recently, he said.

"It's a big problem," Ms. Matthews said. "The strays most likely have not been vaccinated. The shelter is cleaned, but it's almost impossible to keep it free of the disease."

She said they will keep Mama at the shelter until the kittens are weaned.

"It will probably be three weeks. Then we'll try to adopt her out."

She said Mama was healthy. It costs $18 to adopt a dog from the shelter.

Cleaning up the city

SWCID students show their appreciation

By CAROL HART

It was a dirty job but someone had to do it, so more than 75 students and staff members from the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf combed Third and Fourth Streets Friday afternoon picking up debris littering the thoroughfares.

The group, armed only with elbow grease and sturdy trash can liners, braved unidentified insects, sultry spring temperatures, splinters and dust in their efforts to clean up.

More than 100 trash can bags full of debris were taken to the city dump before the day's end.

Dominick Bonura, dean of students at SWCID, said "About two or three months ago, a group of students came up to me and said they wanted to do something for Big Spring. They wanted to thank Big Spring."

Bonura explained both students and staff are appreciative of the support Big Springers have shown SWCID in recent months in the school's battle for funding with the state legislature.

More than 4,500 local residents signed petitions in support of the school, and other residents wrote letters to legislators. Others lended facilities for car washes and donated prizes to various events.

Sam Hill, vice-president of SWCID, said the clean-up campaign was the brainchild of Bonura; Diane Linhart, a counselor at SWCID; Walker Estes, student government president, and Nancy Bonura, president-elect. They coordinated the day with the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee.

Students and staff members signed up for one-hour shifts, but most volunteers stayed on for several hours. Steve Baldwin, a social science instructor, said many motorists showed their support by honking and waving as they drove by.

Staff members Patsy Pettitt and Rita Windham drove a van up and

May month for city cleanup

May has been designated as official "Beautify Big Spring" month by the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee.

Litter, weeds, junk and other unsightly items are the targets of this month's campaign.

The official chamber "clean team" will have regular junk pickups every weekend in May to get large items ordinarily not picked up by city garbage crews, according to committee chairman Chuck Benz.

Persons wishing to volunteer trucks for this service should contact the chamber.

In addition to trash pickup and cleanup, area garden clubs will be installing plants in downtown areas as part of the month's activities. An art competition with the "Beautify Big Spring" theme will be held in Big Spring schools.

The Beautification Committee will also select a residential and commercial Beauty Spot of the Month.

Citizens interested in more information on the beautification month or the trash pickup should contact the chamber at 263-7641 or Benz at 263-7331.

Highway 87 delegates endorse gasoline tax

An additional five-cents-a-gallon tax on gasoline is needed now to prevent a Texas highway funding crisis, Gene Robbins of the Texas Good Roads and Transportation Association said Friday.

Robbins spoke to the U.S. 87 Highway Improvement Association at their meeting in Big Spring. The association is composed of representatives from towns seeking improved usage of the state highway.

Robbins said decreasing state revenue has ended any chance of general funding of the highway system by this legislative session. The Austin association president said the situation would get worse as funding was expected to drop $167 million under appropriated amounts.

Texas has not changed its gasoline tax in 28 years and even with a five-cent increase the state would be lower than half the nation,

Robbins said.

Two bills are currently being considered in the Texas House and Senate to impose the additional gasoline tax. The user fee would still be less than what was needed to battle aging roads, Robbins said.

The area highway improvement association adopted a resolution backing the additional tax during their business session Saturday. Other resolutions include one asking the legislature to return the speed limit to the states and end penalties for states not following the 55 m.p.h. limits.

New association officers include Alton Brazell of Lubbock, president; Arnold Marshall of Big Spring, Ed Keeling of Brady, Bob Brown of Lamesa, Jim Bertrand of Lubbock and David Partlow of Dalhart, vice-presidents and Larry Hoffman of Lubbock, secretary/treasurer.

Firemen fire up chili

By MIKE DOWNEY
Staff Writer

Question — Just what was in the winning chili at the Big Spring Fireman's Association chili cookoff Saturday?

Answer — "Coffee, brown sugar, a little cerveza, chili and tender loving care," according to winning cook Randy Condit from Gaines County.

The two judges for the cook-off — selected since they were the first women at the event — picked Condit's concoction as the best.

"It has better texture than the others," Elaine Tubbs said, holding a spoonful of the brown mixture to the light. "More spicy and better flavor" were the comments from Becky Dorton as she finished the last of her sample.

Stirring his winning compound on the tailgate of his pickup, Condit said he had no secrets to making his chili. A pot takes about four hours to cook, he said.

Don Clark pulled in second place with his chili and beans. Larry Tubbs was relegated to last place — even with his wife as one of the judges.

Big Spring firemen held their community chili cook-off Saturday to raise money for their disaster fund to aid fire victims. The association gave over $4,500 last year to victims of fires, according to Tubbs.

"Our fund's getting a little low and we just want to build it up again," Tubbs said.

Saturday's events at the Howard County fair barn also included a cow chip tossing contest, a tobacco-spitting contest and a washer tossing contest.

home where it's a parental right and responsibility. "Both our private and our public schools exist to aid your families in the instruction of your children."

But Reagan said "well-intentioned but misguided policy makers have stamped a uniform mediocrity on the rich variety and excellence that had been our heritage. I think most parents agree it's time to change course."

He called for putting "the basics back in the schools and the parents back in charge."

The Bush comment was reported by Anson Franklin, an assistant White House press secretary who volunteered it to reporters as the president returned from Washington after an overnight Republican fundraising trip to Houston.

The statement echoed a comment Reagan made in an interview that appeared in Saturday's Houston Post.

Reagan, who has not yet announced whether he will seek re-election, told the paper he believes that conservatives who once opposed Bush should be over their objections by now. If not, "then it is their fault because he has really been — without any reservation — a total team player," the president said.

"I just can't believe there is much of that (opposition) left because his record has been so obvious," Reagan said.

Asked about his initial reluctance to select Bush, Reagan said, "Yes, I have to admit that, but the Lord was watching out for me."

He said his commitment to select Bush again is firm "as far as I'm concerned and I hope he feels the same way."

Reagan shook hands with 10 players, assistant coaches and athletic director John Kasser. Kasser gave him a copy of the T-shirt most of the players were wearing, which said "Phi Slama Jama" in red letters. "It'll help you slam-dunk," Kasser told Reagan.

The joke organization, billed as Texas' tallest fraternity, was conceived by Houston Post sports columnist Thomas Bonk and served as the Cougars' theme throughout the year.

down the streets offering water to thirsty workers.

Student Esperanza Mendez said she signed up because "Big Spring is a nice place and I wanted to help keep it clean."

Staff member Delores Erlanson added "We believe in Big Spring, and it's time SWCID did something for Big Spring because Big Spring is very supportive of SWCID."

Julie Droustas, a dorm counselor, said she hopes that such activities become "an event in Big Spring. If we do it, maybe others will too."

Staff member Marilyn Myers said although there was a lot of broken glass and splintery wood to contend with, the students did find plenty of aluminum cans which will be cashed in. Money earned from the cans will go toward a television fund at the school.

The clean-up campaign helped kick-off "Big Spring Beautification Month" which officially begins today, Chuck Benz, co-chairman of the Beautification Committee, said.

Benz thanked SWCID for their efforts and said he hoped other schools and clubs would offer similar services. "SWCID issued a challenge to all schools in Big Spring — during May — to clean up an area of the city. If a school or group wants to do this and they don't know of an area, they can call me or Bill Draper, the other co-chairman of the Beautification Committee, or LeRoy Tillery at the Big Spring chamber offices, and we'll recommend an area.

"We hope SWCID's efforts will be a kickoff — an impetus — to activate people in this town to take a little pride in the city and clean up. If everyone did nothing but clean up their own alley, that would be a great movement forward in cleaning up the town."

Violent storms pound Midwest

By The Associated Press
Violent weather over the Midwest spawned heavy rain and swelled rivers past flood stage Saturday, and residents of Springfield, Mo., returned to a neighborhood torn up by a tornado that destroyed 100 homes and killed a 16-year-old girl.

Lightning struck an Indiana church softball tournament knocking four players off their feet and jolting five more.

"We were just playing a tournament. It started raining, and we were changing over to the sixth inning with our backs to home base when it hit," said Danny St. Clair, who was playing shortstop in Anderson, Ind., when the lightning struck. "It felt like a bunch of electricity went through swollen Mississippi River crept a fraction past flood stage and forced some evacuations from homes not protected by levees in low-lying areas. The river stood at an estimated 43.1 feet Saturday morning, just over an inch above flood stage.

Residents in southwest Indiana also were warned of possible flash floods following heavy morning showers, with showers and thunderstorms forecast for the rest of the day.

Low-lying areas in southern Illinois had minor flooding, said Illinois state trooper Randall Tolbert. The Big Muddy River at Murphysboro was nine feet above flood stage.

Illinois Route 37 south of West Frankfort was reported closed because of water about a foot deep and rising.

Southern California was soaked by another rainstorm Friday which brought the season's total to 30.79 inches. Normal rainfall for this time of year is 14.57 inches.

Funnel clouds were reported Saturday in northern California and the weather service issued severe thunderstorm warnings for three central counties.

The National Weather Service also warned residents of Contra Costa County to "be prepared to seek safe shelter" after three reports of funnel clouds near Richmond, on the northeast side of San Francisco Bay.

Guerrillas kill 12 in ambush

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Anti-Sandinista guerrillas killed 12 people including a West German doctor in an ambush early Saturday in northern Jinotega province, government officials reported.

The doctor was identified by Health Ministry sources as 36-year-old Georg Pflaum, who was working with the ministry. Officials said the other victims included two nurses, four members of a Sandinista youth organization, a land-reform official and several peasants.

One government source, who asked not to be identified, said all 12 suffered gunshot wounds to the head "as if they had been finished off or executed at close range."

Officials said the victims were riding in a truck on a rural road in Jinotega 155 miles north of Managua when the rebels opened fire on the vehicle or stopped it and shot them.

Pierre Grosjean, a French doctor who had worked with Nicaragua's national university, was killed in a rebel attack in northern Zelaya province on March 26.

Military commanders, in other battlefield reports, said Sandinista forces captured 40 rebels in the south, dismantled four guerrilla camps near the Costa Rican border and repelled insurgents trying to enter Nicaragua from Honduras.

In San-Jose, the Costa Rican government said both Costa Rica and Nicaragua were reinforcing their border patrols because of rumors that anti-Sandinista commandos might try to cross into Nicaragua over the weekend.

Nicaraguan Commander Roberto Calderon, military chief of the southern zone adjoining Costa Rica, reported the four rebel camps were 110 miles southeast of Managua. He said government soldiers and the rebels clashed a half-dozen times in the area in the past week.

Capt. Rodrigo Gonzalez, the military commander in Jalapa, 175 miles north of Managua, said the army drove back six rebel groups that tried to enter Nicaragua from Honduras on Friday. He said each of the bands had from 30 to 60 men and were backed by Honduran air force helicopters.

Government troops killed four rebels in the attacks while the insurgents killed a civilian and kidnapped 13, he said.

Calderon claimed the 40 rebels who he said were captured were part of a force of 700 based in 12 camps inside Costa Rica.

"These Somoza groups are led by Eden Pastora, Alfonso Robelo, a former member of the Nicaraguan government junta, and Brooklyn Rivera, leader of the Miskito Indians," he said.

The three men are leaders of the Democratic Revolutionary Alliance, a coalition of Nicaraguan exiles based in Costa Rica. Pastora, a former Sandinista war hero, announced in late March that he was returning to Nicaragua to fight his former comrades.

Robelo served in the first junta installed by the Sandinistas after they ousted the rightist government of the late President Anastasio Somoza in July 1979.

Navy passenger plane crashes; 14 die

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A Navy passenger plane carrying 15 people crashed into the St. Johns River on Saturday after one of its engines caught fire and exploded five minutes after takeoff from Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

One survivor was pulled from the 10-foot-deep water. Divers scoured the wreckage in the murky, swift current and had recovered three bodies eight hours after the plane went down.

"It is not expected that there will be any (more) survivors," said a young, a civilian spokesman for the base. One body was pulled from the wreckage, and the other two were found on the river bottom, he said.

Navy officials were contacting the families of the people aboard to tell them the plane had crashed, Ensign Erik Dahl said.

All those aboard were Navy personnel based at the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, Dahl said. The C-131 twin-engine turboprop took off at 11:04 a.m. EDT bound for the base, he said.

The pilot radioed the control tower at 11:09 a.m. that his left engine was on fire and he was returning to the base, Dahl said.

"He was approaching the runway from the east and landed in the water of the St. Johns River about 100 to 125 yards east of the runway in 10 to 15 feet of water," he said.

Witnesses said the plane was making an even approach to the runway with the engine ablaze. A trail of smoke when the wing broke off and the plane rolled over and crashed into the water.

"If he had another 15 or 20 seconds, he would have made it to the runway," said Rich Collot, a fireman on crash duty.

The aircraft fell in four pieces, near four sets of signal lights mounted on pilings in the water, into a section where the river is about three miles wide. Witnesses said another piece fell into their neighborhood on the civilian side of the river.

All but the top 10 or 15 feet of the battered fuselage was under water.

At 3 p.m., a team of 11 divers from the Navy and the Jacksonville sheriff's office began marking an area to search.

"The current is quite strong out there, the water is very murky, and they are, of course, in danger of hypothermia with the water temperature at only 64 degrees," Young said.

WHO'S IN CHARGE HERE?
...Boston drivers are infamous

Boston's traffic jam a major mess

BOSTON (AP) — Police Commissioner Joseph Jordan figures there are worse places to drive than Boston. Istanbul, maybe.

"You really take your life in your hands there," says Jordan, who started out as a traffic cop 36 years ago and wants to change Boston's acknowledged reputation as the nation's home of dangerous, dirty driving.

"I don't think it's a difficult task at all," says the commissioner, who has ordered his officers to enforce such rules as coming to a complete stop at a red light.

But doubters wonder if anything can be done with the city's wheeled anarchy, the product of narrow, meandering streets, few parking spaces and an acquired aggressiveness that makes Boston drivers legend in a town where signaling for a lane change can be considered a sign of weakness.

It wasn't coincidence that Massachusetts was the last state to permit right turns on red lights. One lawmaker warned the new freedom would mean disaster in a city where "a yellow light is taken as a sign to speed up and a red light is considered strictly advisory."

Jordan says the stepped-up enforcement is the result of an election-year poll by City Hall that found "a frustration among the citizens" about traffic.

So a month ago Jordan proposed that the city's drivers actually be expected to obey traffic laws. He assigned 26 motorcycle police officers to a special moving violation enforcement brigade. Since then, the number of tickets issued daily has gone from 100 to 250, he says.

But some say stronger steps are needed to change Boston's driving habits.

"You would have to raze the city and build it up again to achieve a change," says Richard Trachtman, co-author of a paperback entitled, "Wild in the Streets — The Boston Driver's Handbook."

Loss of a dance master, a blues great

Visions of ballet inspired Balanchine

NEW YORK (AP) — George Balanchine, the Russian emigre whose graceful vision of ballet and theater made him the leading choreographer of his time, died of pneumonia Saturday at age 79.

Roosevelt Hospital spokeswoman Bernie Wisneski said Balanchine died at 4:27 a.m., six months after he was admitted to the hospital with neurological problems that robbed him of his balance.

Balanchine had been head of the New York City Ballet for 35 years before he relinquished control this year to Danish ballet star Peter Martins and choreographer Jerome Robbins. He was a co-founder of the ballet company in 1948.

In 1936 he choreographed the show "On Your Toes," which has been revived and is playing on Broadway.

"Although Mr. Balanchine is no longer with us, the body of his repertory has its own permanent life, not only in performances by his own company, but wherever, all over the world, his works may be seen," said Lincoln Kirstein, general director of the ballet and a Balanchine colleague for 50 years.

Both the ballet and "On Your Toes" had performances Saturday. Ben Morse, a spokesman for the Broadway show, said the houselights would be dimmed for a moment before the evening performance, which would be dedicated to Balanchine. Ballet officials said their tribute to Balanchine would come later.

The Joffrey Ballet dedicated its inaugural performance in Los Angeles on Saturday night to Balanchine's memory. In a statement issued by the ballet company, artistic director Robert Joffrey called Balanchine "one of the giants of all time and the father of American ballet as we know it ... His legacy is incomparable and his ballets will live on forever."

Martin E. Segal, board chairman of Lincoln Center, said Balanchine "will leave an indelible imprint on ballet and the arts. He was an extraordinary choreographer, director, teacher, and all of this with compassion and tender attention to whatever mattered to civilized people throughout the world."

A funeral was planned for 11 a.m. Tuesday at the Russian Orthodox Cathedral of Our Lady of the Sign in Manhattan.

"Ballet is important and significant — yes," Balanchine once said in an interview. "But first of all it is a pleasure. No one would enjoy watching a group of dancers jump about the stage aimlessly, no matter how well they jumped. After all, a pig can jump — but who wants to see a pig jump?"

Balanchine was born in St. Petersburg, now Leningrad, in 1904, the son of a composer and a musical prodigy in his own right.

Waters' music a major influence

CHICAGO (AP) — Muddy Waters, the blues singer and guitarist who brought his brand of music from the Mississippi Delta to the urban north and worldwide popularity, died in his sleep Saturday at age 68.

Waters died of "cardiac arrest" at home in the Chicago suburb of Westmont, said his manager, Scott Cameron. He was pronounced dead at 2:17 a.m. at Good Samaritan Hospital in suburban Downers Grove, spokeswoman Roberta Butler said.

The rotund singer hadn't been ill and had planned to make another album this summer, Cameron said. He had earned six Grammys during his career.

Waters, son of a sharecropper, was born McKinley Morganfield on April 4, 1915, in Rolling Fork, Miss.

He picked up his nickname in his early days playing at fish fries and other social gatherings along Deer Creek.

His early musical influences included such famed bluesmen as Son House, Charlie Patton and the legendary Robert Johnson, and he frequently slid a steel cylinder along the neck of his guitar to evoke the wailing sound of the Mississippi Delta blues.

In turn, Waters influenced a generation of English and American rock 'n' roll bands, including the Rolling Stones, who took their name from a Waters blues song. His songs appeared on many rock albums throughout the 1960s and 1970s.

"My feelings toward Muddy is like a father, you know, and my tears have been running," said the blues singer and guitarist Buddy Guy, a Waters protege.

"He's the father, one of the fathers of rock."

MUDDY WATERS
...dead at 68

Waters sang "Mannish Boy" in Martin Scorsese's 1978 movie "The Last Waltz," which was based on a final concert by the Band.

Among Waters' well-known songs were "I Just Want to Make Love to You," "Hoochie Coochie Man" and "Got My Mojo Working."

Folklorist Alan Lomax found Waters working in the cotton fields of his native state, and in 1943 the bluesman moved to Chicago at a time when many Southern blacks were moving to the industrialized North in search of work.

By 1948, he had assembled the band that spread the sound of 12-bar, amplified Delta blues to millions of urban blacks and, 15 years later, young white rock musicians and fans around the globe.

Despite Chicago's position as the mecca of the blues world, and Waters' prominence in that world, he barely earned a living through most of the 1950s.

Port Aransas windsurfer dies in shark attack

PORT ARANSAS, Texas (AP) — A human leg clad in a tattered wetsuit and tennis shoe that washed ashore on Mustang Island was severed from a windsurfer by a shark, the Nueces County medical examiner said Saturday.

Dr. Joseph Rupp said that the leg has been identified as that of Robert Troy Swetnam, 20, of San Antonio, who was swept out to sea April 1 while windsurfing off the coast near Galveston. Galveston is about 200 miles from where the leg was found.

The leg, which was found at 8 a.m. Friday, had probably been in the water a couple of weeks, said Rupp.

Family members identified the remains of the wetsuit and running shoe as belonging to Swetnam, said Vernon Moore, Nueces County assistant medical examiner.

"I am sure that it was" severed by a shark, Rupp said. "The bone had marks on it from the aquatic life."

He said it was impossible to determine whether the windsurfer had drowned or had been killed by a shark.

Rupp said the bone, with large teeth marks, had been severed at the hip. No other body parts have yet been found.

The identification was made by the man's family early Saturday afternoon after a friend of Swetnam's read news reports of the discovered leg.

Swetnam had been windsurfing with friends off the beaches at Galveston when a wind shift pushed him out to sea, said friends who were surfing with him.

The friends told authorities they tried to swim to Swetnam's aid but were turned back by difficult winds and seas.

His windsurfing board was found four days later by the U.S. Coast Guard about 60 miles off the coast of Sabine Pass.

The leg was found on Mustang Island by a passing fisherman.

The thighbone and shinbone were all that remained of the leg, but the foot was still intact inside a Nike running shoe, a law enforcement officer said.

Part of a torn wetsuit was attached to the leg and the initials "TS" were written on the inside of the suit in indelible ink.

Moore said "a positive match" was made when the top of the suit, which Swetnam had not worn the day he disappeared, was provided by the family. The top contained the initials "RTS."

Ex-Pentagon analyst's death called suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medical examiners said Saturday that Waldo H. Dubberstein, a former Pentagon intelligence analyst charged with selling secret information to Libya, died of a "shotgun wound ... consistent with being self-inflicted."

FBI officials, meanwhile, said they were pursuing their investigation of the apparent suicide.

Dubberstein, 75, is the third figure to die in the tangled set of cases involving ex-CIA agent Edwin P. Wilson, who has been found guilty of smuggling arms and explosives to Libya.

The results of the autopsy were announced in a statement by Arlington County Police Lt. Clyde Hall.

Dr. James Byer, deputy chief medical examiner for northern Virginia, performed the autopsy, Hall said.

"Dr. Byer has determined the cause of death as a perforating shotgun wound to the head consistent with being self-inflicted," Hall said.

Dubberstein's body was found, shot in the head but sitting upright on a chair in the basement of a building in nearby Arlington, Va., where the former Pentagon Middle East specialist apparently lived with Renata Strelau, his 32-year-old East German girlfriend, federal officials said.

Just hours earlier, Dubberstein failed to appear in federal court in Alexandria, Va. He was to have entered a plea to charges filed Thursday that he sold secret U.S. information about the Middle East to Wilson and Libyan intelligence agents for $32,000.

Although officers said they found nothing to indicate anything other than a suicide, one federal source said,

"As in the case of Kevin Mulcahy, of course we're looking at any possibility of foul play, and if there is any, of any possible involvement of Wilson."

Wilson was sentenced to 32 years in prison and been fined $340,000 on two sets of convictions for smuggling arms and explosives to Libya. He also faces trial in New York on charges of plotting from his cell to murder two U.S. prosecutors and several government witnesses.

Mulcahy, a former CIA analyst who was expected to testify against Wilson on Libyan dealings, was found dead in a remote area of the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia last year. And Rafael Villaverde, a Cuban whom sources said would have testified about Wilson's involvement in an alleged plot to kill a Libyan dissident in Egypt, died in a boating accident near Miami.

Mulcahy's death was ruled due to natural causes and Bahamian authorities ruled Villaverde's death accidental.

Wilson was acquitted of the plot charge earlier this year.

Friday morning, U.S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. issued a bench warrant for Dubberstein's arrest when he failed to appear. Arlington County Police spokesman Tom Bell said officers were called early in the afternoon and found Dubberstein in a storage area of the Arlington building, with a shotgun and shotgun shells next to the body.

His attorney, Howard Bushman said his client was planning to plea innocent on charges of bribery, conspiracy to defraud the government, disclosing secret and top-secret information and concealing his alleged Libyan contacts from Pentagon security officers.

BUSINESSPERSON OR SHOPKEEPER
(Which Are You?)

It seems that the operators of small businesses can be divided into two main classes, businesspeople and shopkeepers.

Businesspeople analyze, compare, budget, project, and review information to try to be the best in their business community and to make the most profit on their invested time and money.

Shopkeepers, on the other hand, open their doors at 8:00 and close at 6:00 day after day all year long. They show up at their accountant's office in April of the following year and ask, "What's left over for me?" or, "Did I make any money?"

Do you suppose that 20% of the businesses do 80% of the volume and the other 80% of the businesses get the remaining 20%? It's impossible to run a business properly without a record system designed for your specific needs. To be in the top 20%, you must have adequate financial information to make proper decisions.

Whether your business is large or small, it needs management information. Such information will help you to control costs, manage inventory, assess equipment purchase needs, do tax planning, etc. If the business is small, your system will be simple and the cost to install and maintain it should be minimal in relation to the benefits. If your business is large, you need management information to survive profitably, and the cost to obtain such information will be returned in higher profits.

Many businesspeople with poor information systems promise themselves that each year they'll have a better reporting system. Well, next year is here and if you as the owner-manager don't decide to improve the system, no one else in your organization will get the job done. Get together with your accountant and decide your business needs.

Searching for Loch Ness monster

Once again scientists are trying to learn if there really is a Loch Ness monster. This time they are using a blimp.

The British Scientific Exploration Society plans to take pictures of the lake from the air in hopes of sighting the monster that has been the subject of rumor and fable for hundreds of years.

EACH SUMMER, Nessie is sighted by visitors to the beautiful lake. Vaguely suggestive photographs have been taken from great distances. Scientists have argued pro and con. And the monster has become a great tourist attraction. But no one knows the truth.

WE REALLY DO NOT think it matters whether there is a Loch Ness monster, or a family of monsters. More important is the mystery that feeds the human imagination, for we need mysteries and romance.

It would be exciting if a real creature is found. But we prefer the romance of the unknown. We would rather use our imagination and muse about the annual stories of strange and unexplainable creatures lurking behind the realms of science.

Too much rock

"There's too much rock and roll in the newsroom" — a frequent visitor to the Herald

This month marks the first anniversary of my move into Big Spring. West Texas is not my idea of paradise, but I will celebrate on May 17 because — for want of a better phrase — living here has expanded my horizons through the people I've come to know.

This is especially true of the Herald staff. Here is a group of people who delight in horizon-expanding. Some of them have made it a mission to educate me in what gifts this world has to offer.

I reflected on this last Monday night as four of us rocked to an Austin-based blues rock group, The Fabulous Thunderbirds, in Odessa. We may not have much else in common, but there are those of us in this newsroom who relish and revel in rock music. Mike Downey, Bob Carpenter, Richard Horn and I are just four who wholeheartedly embrace that music genre.

UNTIL I moved here, however, I had a tendency to hold forth with any old kind of rock. Rubbing elbows with the likes of Mike, Bob and Richard has refined my ear, it seems.

The first step was accompanying them to see rockabilly musician Joe Ely at a classy dive called The Pink Flamingo in Odessa. We cringed our way through three hours of a horrendous group, called "Wheat Shaft" or something, until Ely appeared and stroked our souls with his inimitable style.

I was hooked.

That was almost a year ago. The blues rock show last Monday was our first trek together to Odessa since that time.

During that year those three writers have deluged me with new and wonderful material in both music and literature.

Bob told me about Larry McMurry — I have yet to find a book of his I like — and Hunter S. Thompson. Bob is a cool one on the dance floor. With a battered alto sax cradled in his arms he'd pass for a blues brother any day.

From Mike I learned of Bruce Springsteen, he and his wife being the ultimate Springsteen disciples. After listening to Mike's spels for a year, I could never listen to the likes of Journey or Styx again without feeling like I do when I eat a whole bag of Doritos and picante sauce at one sitting — guilty and disgusted.

Richard introduced me to Van Morrison, among others. He also convinced me to try escargot, that slimy French snail dish that I always swore I'd ignore. How that happened I'll never figure out.

Richard holds nothing back on the dance floor. He's great to dance with because he doesn't give a hoot what anybody thinks and just lets the elbows and feet fly.

I ONCE went rock and rolling with Cliff Coan, our resident country music fan, and his wife who took me to Odessa in honor of my birthday. Cliff warmed to the climate pretty fast, although he tended to look down from his 6 feet of height and give the punk kids squirming on the floor a bewildered look that asked "Why are you doing those disgusting things?"

Our city editor, Keith Briscoe, is the perfect leader for a group such as this. He just gazes benignly at our shenanigans through his pipe smoke and tucks another photo of James Brown on the wall.

Yes, there is too much rock and roll in the news room. It keeps us all far too happy here in the Spring City. Crank it up.

Modest proposals on Gregg St

What is this Gregg Street, of which all men speak?

A flurry of editorial correspondence tells of wanton behavior, drunken hooliganism, sexual lasciviousness and life-threatening rowdiness along the traffic artery during late night revelry.

If these things be true, then what are the good citizens of Big Spring to do in guarantee of civic virtue?

Police patrols, exhortations by the offended and wise sayings do not abate the ramblings. The Hellenic proscription of "avoid excess" has no meaning on this four-lane byway.

Has the West's legacy provided no measures for this debauchery? The Hebrews gave us morality, the Greeks civil responsibility and the Romans legal restraint. All three inheritances are flouted on Gregg Street.

Like the tragic Medea, the night sprites of Gregg appear to have the power to do as they will, acting without the constraints civilization imposes. There must be sorcery here, and madness too, which defies propriety.

If so, then we are provided no solution. And City Hall has no funds budgeted for a deus ex machina with which to spirit away the antagonists.

Two expedients can depopulate the haunts of hooliganism.

Make Gregg Street a free zone. Barricade the byway beginning at 10 p.m. each night and allow only those with no legitimate business there. All statutes would be suspended, and no one would be held responsible for their actions.

Declare a pogrom. Arm the bored and righteous with axes and clubs and unleash the Greeks upon Troy for one weekend. Crimes and torts shall have no significance for the duration of the mele.

In either case, we shall probably sacrifice unnecessarily to appease the wrath of the City Gods.

On Gregg Street, you can get anything, the streetwise advertisement goes. Any establishment that is open after sundown is found on this passage. Here is fertile ground for the rites of the Bacchus.

Watching the cars go by Grandmother lived down the street from us in a two-room, white frame house.

Every time one of my baby sisters or brother was born, I was sent to Grandmother's house to spend the night. I can still see Grandmother getting ready for bed. She would sit at the dresser and pull bobby pins from the top of her head, allowing ringlets of grey hair to fall to her shoulders. She wore a peculiar pink corset that had strings on the side. Later, she would emerge from the bathroom wearing a gown and carrying a glass of water that contained her teeth.

Then it would be time to climb into bed. Grandmother's bed was a four-poster mountain in the corner of the living room. Once I had reached its summit and lain down, the thunderous ticking of a pendulum clock kept me awake.

"Grandmother, where do babies come from?"

"I don't know," she said, turning over on her pillow.

"Do they come from your stomach?"

"Go to sleep."

"Grandmother, what happens when you die?"

"If you don't go to sleep I'm going to take you home."

"I just want to talk, Grandmother."

"Go to sleep."

THE FIRST TIME I ever saw Grandmother acting funny was when her bathroom caught on fire. I was at my house when I heard the fire engines and saw smoke coming out of her house. Part of the roof was on fire, and when I got there, firemen were going in and out the front door. Grandmother was grabbing each firefighter in the smoky haze at the door to show him a picture she had painted. She would explain that it was a paint-by-number picture but that she hadn't followed the numbers. I remember the fire chief saying, "That's real pretty, ma'am."

LATER GRANDMOTHER began to suspect that the people down the street had dug an underground tunnel to her house and connected the water pipes. That would explain why the water bills were so high. She claimed she heard men cursing in the tunnel.

THE YEARS PASSED, and one day when I was in junior high I popped by Grandmother's house and announced that I was hungry. She set the table and I ate. Then I went into the living room, sat in the rocker and read the funny papers.

Grandmother stood at the door and watched the cars go by. "I called the sheriff last night and asked him to get those blame trucks and cars off the highway," she said. "He thought I was crazy!"

I remained silent. Grandmother walked over to the couch and sat beneath the window. I had planned to finish reading the comics and then chat with her. In the meantime, I uttered monotone replies to her comments.

Suddenly she walked over, swung at the comics with her arm and snatched them from my hands. "Talk to me!" she screamed. The slap of her palm on the paper and the tone of her voice frightened me. I stiffened against the back of the chair. Her eyes shimmered as they searched mine. A long moment passed. Then she put the comics back in my hand.

"Go ahead and read them," she said. She walked to the door and watched the cars speed by.

Mailbag

A night in the drunk tank

Dear Editor,

On Feb. 5, 1983, I had a date with a lady to take her out for a few drinks and then have supper. Got a block from her house and my pickup quit so we took her car.

Went to the Other Place and I had two mixed drinks. From there we went to Wallis and I had two beers. That is all I had to drink. So from there we were going to Hermans and eat. On the way I said let me drive and (she replied) no I can handle it this is my car. She did weave over the line but did not run no red light.

Time we pulled in back of Hermans here the red lights come on, the women cop got the driver and a man cop came up to me and said have you been drinking and I said yes, I had a few. So they handcuffed both of us. I am 63 years old and that is the first time in my life that ever happened.

So while we were being handcuffed the wrecker backed up to the car and almost hauled it off before we got in the cop's car. Why was that so fast? So to the jailhouse we went. The cop said you look like a party nice guy, if I take the cuffs off will you be nice? I said yes so he did.

I made one phone call to (a lawyer), he talked to the cop. I had a blank check in my pocket and $25. He told them he would okay my check and have someone come and get me, so I made one more call and the people were not home. So the cop said no one home? I said no, so to the drunk tank I went.

So cold in there almost froze the — off a brass monkey, no smoking and I have smoked since I was 14 years old.

That next morning about daybreak, a woman cop comes in, throws white coveralls in and says take all your clothes off and put these on. So I said let me make one phone call and I will get out of here and go home and feed my animals. She said no, we have to take you upstairs and process you.

So up the stairs we went. No coffee or breakfast or cigarettes. So about 15 minutes till 11, I got a cup of coffee, 15 minutes before I got out.

But my animals get fed every morning at 6, and here I am in jail. I have 5 calves and one cow, four cats and one dog and live by myself so they went hungry and so I did not feed them till 12 o'clock.

Now you think that is kind to dumb animals. I was the animal. So I had to pay $60 to get out. They said if I wanted to come to court the next morning I could plead not guilty. So like all dumb people, I said once they get your money it's gone so forget about it. So the lady I was with got a DWI, cost her $100 for the bondsmen, then she got $21 court cost plus $300 fine and one year probation.

But the tickets cost $70 at the police station so in all it cost her and me $646 for three hours of partying. That is the first time either one of us have been out in six months. Both of us have been staying home.

So now when someone comes to town and says let's go partying, I say let's go out of town, so we do go to Midland, Odessa or San Angelo. So we stay overnight, cost us for four people maybe $200. They say spend your money at home in Big Spring. This is what is driving people out of town.

As a former bar owner, I had three at one time. Now the cops want to walk in and check every thing. We had that at one time. When we had Chief Banks here I went to him and told him what was going on and he told me they had no business in there unless they were called. No one in uniform was to go in but would have a plain clothes man once in a while, got checked.

He was a good chief. If you had any trouble you could walk in his office and talk to him. Now they got a monkey (in) charge in there. Looks like they are hiding from the people so no one can talk to them.

Now the rumor is out that every cop has to get three DWI's a month or it's their job, if this is so I want to know.

Has our Police Department nothing to do but hang around these bars and chastise the drunks and prostitutes and pick on the Fire Department? We have the best Fire Department for a town this size of anywhere in Texas.

Now who runs this town.

I am Carl Schwab and am 64 years old. Let the people know what is going on in Big Spring. I have lived here since 1962. What happened to the one-half bottle of whiskey they kept at the Police Department?

About a week after this happened some women called me up and wanted some money for the Police Department. I have always give money for the police and sheriff every time they had something going on. I told her what happened. I would not give $5 if all their guns burned up. I have respect for the law, always have, never been in trouble.

Man thanks students on Bus 97

Dear Editor,

As I love children, every afternoon when the school buses pass my house I try to be out so that I can wave at all the students.

I would like to thank all the students on Bus 97 for their kind gesture and thoughtfulness, for on Thursday afternoon Bus 97 stopped at my driveway and two precious ones hopped out and presented me with a red rose and a belated Easter card.

My eyes were misty as I embraced the little girl. As I looked up, Mrs. Horn the driver was smiling and waving. As everybody left I went in the house and cried, tears of joy of course.

Again, may the Good Lord bless each and every one of you. God bless you, Mrs. Horn.

Yours in Christ,

Charities going to the races

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Now is the time for anyone with a favorite charity to hit up the horse-racing and dog-racing folks.

The Texas Horse Racing Association and Texas Greyhound Association are so close to winning the legislative fight for pari-mutuel betting that they can almost smell the roses in the winner's circle.

'Last week the horse racing and greyhound racing lobbyists pulled off another PR coup with an offer to help the Special Olympics. They agreed to pay $10,000 for security for singer Willie Nelson to perform for the event for the mentally retarded.'

Apparently, they're also seeking any good publicity they can find these days.

Almost everyone agrees that AFDC payments in Texas need to be increased, but the big jump that Gov. Mark White and others talked about a few months ago have vanished with the dire revenue projections of Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The dedicated funds for welfare won support for the bill from a few legislators who put a premium on helping the needy and from others who needed an excuse to explain their support of pari-mutuel betting to the folks back home.

Next in line for a tug at the racing bunch's financial udder were West Texas farmers who face economic disaster with the diminishing supplies of underground water in their area.

Their first PR move was a brilliant one. When the racing lobby and its legislative allies wrote their bill, they decided to dedicate half of the state income from pari-mutuel taxes to Aid to Families with Dependent Children.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, gave an example of legislative trade-offs by voting to allow Senate debate on the betting bill even though he voted against it later. The vote on taking up legislation — two-thirds of the senators present — is the key in the Senate, and Montford's vote was needed. Once accepted for debate, a bill can be approved by a simple majority.

Montford's reward was an increase in the amount of the total betting pool that the state would receive from 5 to 8 percent, with the extra 3 percent going to the Texas Water Development Fund. That could help solve those farmers' water woes.

The racing lobby agreed to the change as the only way to move the bill out of the Senate and over to the House, but it's unlikely the amendment will stick for long. Pro-betting House members will attempt to amend that provision either out of the bill or to a reduced rate.

If they are successful and pass out the bill, their cohorts on the Senate side could adopt it by majority vote. Montford's vote wouldn't be needed.

But there still is strong opposition to the bill in the House and it's possible the water-fund aid, or a number of other special aid requirements, could be attached to a final bill.

Last week the horse racing and greyhound racing lobbyists pulled off another PR coup with an offer to help the Special Olympics. They agreed to pay $10,000 for security for singer Willie Nelson to perform for the event for the mentally retarded, scheduled for late May in Austin at the University of Texas football stadium.

University officials discouraged Nelson's offer by citing security problems. The racing folks grabbed Page 1 headlines by offering cash from their well-stocked funds.

House Speaker Gib Lewis has indicated support for the bill as long as it retains the requirement for statewide voter approval. He says he isn't working for the bill, but his top sidekick, Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga of Corpus Christi, is pushing hard.

And that extra state income that pari-mutuel betting would bring is looking good to legislators with pet projects needing funds.

The major problem for opponents is to get a bill out of committee in time for final action before the May 30 legislative adjournment. A majority of the committee considering the bill earlier introduced in the House has kept it bottled up there.

But there are signs of cracks in that formerly solid committee wall. If the Senate-passed bill gets out of committee and to the House floor, according to House insiders, the odds for approval would be about even.

Water plan sponsors are catering to voters

By BRUCE MILLAR

Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Eight Senate sponsors of a long-term Texas water resources plan predict that their program — which stresses conservation over grandiose development plans — has something its predecessor lacked: voters will accept it.

In 1981, voters rejected a constitutional amendment that would earmark half of the state budget surplus for a water development plan. The 1983 version places the emphasis on conserving existing water supplies and contains specific proposals for funding local water development projects through state-backed general obligation bonds.

"As Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower told a committee hearing, there are no provisions to bring glaciers down from the Arctic and melt them," said an aide to Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock.

"This package — unlike the so-called 'Water Plans' the voters have rejected in the past — is a practical, workable solution to Texas' water problems, not a dream that can probably never be accomplished," said Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso.

The West Texas lawmaker is chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee which last week recommended the "Water for Texas" program to the Senate. It has the support of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and approval by the Senate is expected this week. But as the final 30 days of the legislative session wind down, the plan faces a race against time in the House, where it must be set for committee hearings.

Supporters said the plan is designed to ensure that Texas has adequate supplies of water to meet its future needs: It includes three constitutional amendments authorizing state guarantees of a new water bond program, tighter restrictions to protect bays and estuaries and a controversial proposal aimed at controlling water pollution from oil and gas related activities.

If approved, the constitutional amendments would be placed on the November 1984 ballot. The eight proposals in the package are:

*A program, sponsored by Sens. Ed Howard, D-Texas and Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, under which the state would guarantee repayment of bonds issued by local governments to finance water development, conservation or quality improvement projects.

The program, not to exceed $250 million, is aimed at reducing taxpayers' costs for water projects by boosting local governments' bond rating and lowering interest ratings. The state bond guarantees could not exceed $250 million.

*A constitutional amendment authorizing the bond guarantee program. The proposal also authorized the establishment of a program for lower-interest, long-term loans to local governments for water development, conservation or quality improvement projects.

Unlike Proposition 4 of 1981, there is no automatic appropriation of any state "surplus" revenues for these loans. Under the proposed amendment, sponsored by Parker and Howard, legislators would adjust spending according to current priorities.

*Santiesteban's proposal to set up a system under which local governments requesting state aid for water development projects or the right to use state-owned groundwater must adopt and implement water conservation programs.

*A constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of an additional $300 million state water development bonds. Half would be used for water development projects and half would be used for water quality improvement projects. The proposal is sponsored by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls.

*A program, sponsored by Montford, to allow farmers to obtain loans at reasonable rates enabling them to convert to water conserving equipment and more efficient irrigation methods.

*A companion constitutional amendment by Montford that would allow the state to sell up to $200 million in Texas Agricultural Water Conservation Bonds.

Lawmaker pleads no contest, apologizes for DWI charge

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — State Rep. Je Gamez has pleaded no contest to a driving while intoxicated charge and apologized to his constituents for the January incident.

Gamez, a Democrat, entered the plea Friday.

"It's an unfortunate incident," Gamez told reporters. "I want to get to Austin to do my job and represent the people. I promise you it will not happen again, and I apologize to the people in my district and my family."
 County Court-at-Law

Judge Keith Burris delayed sentencing pending a review of a probation report.

Gamez's attorney, State Rep. Matt Garcia, has requested either probation or deferred adjudication, which means if Gamez has no other brushes with the law the DWI conviction would be erased from his record.

Strake named head of GOP executive panel

HOUSTON (AP) — The State Republican Executive Committee unanimously elected Houston oilman George W. Strake Jr. chairman Saturday as part of a compromise made necessary by dissent over former chairman Chet Upham.

Strake, elected in a voice vote, called on Texas Republicans to "come out fighting the other guys" rather than each other.

Democratic incumbent Bill Hobby defeated Strake last November in his bid for the lieutenant governor's post.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, told the group he believed President Reagan will run for a second term and that the political climate will be favorable for a Republican victory.

"I can tell you in my view that Ronald Reagan regards that he has not yet finished his work and will run for another term," Tower said. Reagan was the main speaker at a fund-raising dinner for Tower in Houston Friday night.

Upham, who had been chairman since 1979, offered to resign after 51 of the 64 committee members pledged to support Strake in March. Many blamed him for Republican losses in Texas last year, when the party's entire statewide ticket was defeated.

Upham, of Mineral Wells, said before the meeting began that vice chairman Dorothy Doehne and other members of the committee "worked behind my back" and tried to block every action he suggested.

"It was not a matter of content," he said of objections to his proposals. "It was a matter of strategy. She (Mrs. Doehne) even voted to table the motion to hold the state convention in San Antonio and that is her hometown."

Upham stipulated that Mrs. Doehne must also resign if he stepped down.

Strake called for the state party members to put their differences behind them.

"We're going to walk out of here liking each other today and we're going to keep it that way," Strake said before the meeting.

He said name-calling has hindered the party. Texas Republicans elected their first governor in more than 100 years in 1980, but Bill Clements was soundly defeated by Democrat Mark White when he sought reelection.

"I want words like 'crazies' and 'obstructionist' dropped from our vocabularies," Strake told the committee. He warned that "diversity is welcomed but divisiveness cannot be tolerated. When we speak, we shall speak as one."

Upham also asked the group to strive for unity.

"There are no liberals in this party. There are no moderates in this party," he said. "We are all conservatives."

Governor-for-a-day says state needs new economy

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Grant Jones told the crowd that packed the Senate gallery Saturday for his inauguration that Texas is a state in transition and should move now to build a new economy.

Texas' economy will loom even larger in Jones' mind Monday, when he steps down from the governor's office and resumes his duties as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and president pro tempore of the Senate.

Jones was governor only for the day Saturday, while both Gov. Mark White and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby were out of the state. His wife, Anne, was feted as first lady of Texas.

The inauguration ceremony for Jones rivaled the one thrown for White when he was sworn in last January.

The University of Texas Longhorn Band played "Ruffles and Flourishes" for him and launched into a rousing march as cannons outside fired a 19-gun salute.

The University of Mary Hardin-Baylor Choir sang "Everything's Coming Up Roses" for the man who had to write a budget that for the first time over a decade required him to say "No" to those seeking big increases in their state money.

"It used to be when you came in and told him your roof was leaking, he said, 'Well, I guess we'd better repair it,'" said Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, who acted as master of ceremonies. "Now he says, 'How bad is it leaking?'"

Jury awards CRMWD

SNYDER — A 32nd District Court jury Thursday held with the Colorado River Municipal Water District in a contract dispute with the SACROC unit in Scurry County.

SACROC (Scurry Area Canyon Reef Operators Committee) in 1952 contracted for surplus water from Lake J.B. Thomas. This was to be up to eight million gallons a day for makeup water in the unit's secondary recovery project.

When prolonged drought reduced reserves and threatened a reduction or cutoff, SACROC and CRMWD in 1970 contracted for the district to drill and operate brine wells.

CRMWD contended that this was a supplemental source and that if the wells were operated when surface water was available to the full contract quantity, then the well water would be in addition to the terms of the additional contract.

The jury agreed and awarded CRMWD $408,479.

Police told of 'suspicious customer' in Exxon bombing

DALLAS (AP) — Police were searching Saturday for a "suspicious customer" sighted at a north Dallas Exxon station with what appeared to be pipe bombs in his car.

Authorities say the customer may be the man who telephoned an extortion threat to officials of the oil company's Dallas office April 15. The man demanded 250 gold Krugerrands, worth about $112,000.

Since then, four bombs have been found in or near underground storage tanks at Dallas-Fort Worth area Exxon stations. One apparently exploded without igniting the gasoline, another exploded in a trash container without injuring anyone and officers defused the other two.

The fourth bomb was taken Friday from a storage tank at a station in Arlington, between Dallas and Fort Worth. The bomb was found by employees who noticed that someone had tampered with tape they had placed over a pipe leading to the tank.

Employees at a north Dallas station said a man who stopped at their station Friday had what appeared to be a bundle of pipe bombs in his back seat. They told police the car contained a black bag with three or four orange, foot-long pipes that were capped with metal and had wires protruding from the ends, said officer Dan Trippel.

The man filled his tank and paid with a credit card issued to a female Exxon employee in Grand Prairie, police said.

"He was acting a bit suspicious while he was there," Trippel said. "He asked to use the john but never used the john. He drove around. He kind of backed in and out and acted kind of weird."

The man was working on one of the pipes when he noticed the employees were watching him and he drove off, Trippel said.

Exxon and FBI officials have refused to discuss the case, but the Dallas Times Herald Saturday quoted an unidentified federal source as saying agents tried unsuccessfully last weekend to comply with the extortionist's demand.

Federal judge won't block Tuesday execution

MIAMI (AP) — A federal judge on Saturday put off until Monday a decision on whether to block the execution of Luis Carlos Arango, a Colombian condemned to die in the electric chair Tuesday morning for a drug-related murder.

U.S. District Judge Eugene P. Spellman said he could not rule on new defense arguments until after they had been exhausted in the state courts. Defense attorney Sharon Jacobs is scheduled to ask the Florida Supreme Court for a stay Monday morning.

Arango, 47, was convicted of murdering fellow Colombian Jario Arango-Posada on March 28, 1980, at Arango's $125,000 condominium in Miami. The case has become front-page news in the South American nation, which has no death penalty.

Spellman ordered Ms. Jacobs, fellow defense attorney Steven Chakin and Assistant Florida Attorney General Penny Brill to stay in close touch with his office Monday.

"I will be here all day Monday, ready to act," Spellman said. "I want you to stay in touch with me, to make those calls and to keep me posted."

Police linked the Dade County murder to drugs, and authorities said 2.2 pounds of cocaine, $7,800 cash and pistols were found at the murder scene.

Arango claimed three men killed Arango-Posada in the apartment, then escaped by jumping off a balcony.

His wife and three children flew to Florida on Thursday to visit him and hoping to meet with Gov. Bob Graham. Graham, who has a policy against hearing clemency pleas after a death warrant has been signed, had already refused meetings with three senators and a television personality from Colombia.

Seven people, including one in Florida, have been executed in the United States since the U.S. Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976. John Spenklink was electrocuted in Florida's electric chair May 15, 1979, for shooting and beating a man to death.

Economic signals show strong gain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another gain in the nation's main business forecasting measurement, the seventh in a row, is being welcomed by government and private analysts as an encouraging signal of economic recovery.

The Index of Leading Economic Indicators rose 1.5 percent during March, the government announced Friday, continuing an upward trend in the compilation of forward-looking statistics that measure unemployment, prices, business orders and other economic areas.

Wall Street followed the report with another record-setting day. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 6.68 points to 1,226.20, the ninth new peak in the past 13 sessions, ending a week that saw a gain of 29.9 points. Volume was 105 million shares.

The increase in leading indicators was larger than the 1.4 percent increase in February, but below the January gain of 3.2 percent.

In addition, the Federal Reserve Board said its basic measure of the money supply fell $2 billion in the week ended April 20. Interest rates fell immediately after the report was released at 4:15 p.m. EDT, and economists said they expected rates to continue a slow and modest decline over the next several weeks.

John M. Albertine, president of the private American Business Conference, was among those responding with enthusiasm. He said the continued strong performance by the leading indicators "shows that the nay-sayers who predict a feeble recovery are dead wrong. This is a robust recovery."

A more restrained view was taken by Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, whose department compiled the index. He said increases in coming months may well be slower, but that the overall trend is positive.

"Based on past experience, the recent strength in the leading index foreshadows further advances in key economic series such as employment, production, income and business sales," he said.

Increases in those areas would be the real measure of recovery. The leading indicators index is merely a forecast of the future for production, jobs and the economy in general.

At a minimum, though, seven straight monthly increases in the index appear to indicate that recession will not resume this year.

In other economic news, the government reported that sales of new single-family houses fell 1.7 percent during March, compared to the previous month, to an annual rate of $77,000. But the sales rate was 54 percent higher than the rate during March of last year, and analysts continue to say the revival in housing will aid in recovery.

Footnotes from Howard County Library

Patrons thanked for week's success

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

Last week was a particularly busy week at the Howard County Library — full of interesting activities. Beginning with the ceremony for the first Monday opening through the festive Silver Tea and the book sale, it was especially rewarding to the library staff to see the support provided by the patrons.

The Citizens Federal Credit Union, Don Newsom's Grocery and Faye's Flowers provided supplies for the Silver Tea. Some of the many patrons and staff who contributed delicious baked goods and supplies include: Shirley Darden, Lois Cave, Jackie Olsen, Bonnie Franklin, Susan Lewis, Janell Davis, Rose VonHassell, Connie Ramirez, Judith Gray, Martha Viero, Milton Perkins, Agnes Currie, Louise Porter, Mary Randle, Edward Mayson, Carolyn Reed, Beverly Yarbar, Celeste Carson, Jane Thomas, Helen Doll and Oma Anderson. Thanks also go to those who dropped off baked goods but did not leave their names.

Monetary contributions were made by: Martha Youngman, Myra Robinson, Agnes Currie, Raymond Leonard, Carol Owen, Mary Randle, Jean Kuykendall, Aurora Etheridge, Naomi Hunt, William Slagle, and Henriette Kionka, and other who left cash donations at the tea.

The Chamber of Commerce Blue Blazers contributed their time to hostess the Silver Tea and were kept busy pouring tea and punch for the many guests.

Volunteers who helped with the book sale sponsored by the Friends of the Library include: Stephanie Roll, Carolyn Reed, Sue Bacon, Mattie Watson, William Slagle, Lilia Hinojos, Christina Lawrence, Virginia Sweeney, Ruth Carpenter and Joyce Backus. The Junior Library Club provided a lot of help in organizing the large numbers of books donated for the sale. Since the book sale has become regular April and October events, more and more books are being donated and thanks to those patrons who supply the, the semi-annual sale has become a big success.

Many comments and recipe requests were made on the snacks and desserts that were available. The Herald's Tina Steffen would like to feature Silver Tea favorites on the Lifestyle recipe page soon so we are hoping to collect recipes from those who provided the delicious food everyone enjoyed. Any patron who contributed baked goods for the Silver Tea and would be willing to have her or his recipe included, please call Donna Jackson at the library, 267-3295, or drop the recipe off at the library next time you stop in.

Whataburger has been collecting overdue books (fine-free) for the past two weeks in return for free soft drinks. We appreciate their help in reducing a serious problem.

Thank you for your continued interest and support to make Howard County Library the best it can be.

Austin's Lloyd Doggett files as U.S. Senate candidate

HOUSTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, says he has notified the Federal Election Commission in Washington that he is a candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

Doggett told a news conference Friday he would make a formal announcement of his candidacy later when his state legislative duties are completed.

Doggett held his news conference Friday outside the Albert Thomas Convention Center where a $1 million fund-raising dinner was held for Tower, with President Ronald Reagan as the main guest.

Voters will decide the race in 1984.

Pro-nuke race passes TMI plant

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) — More than 700 runners, including some opposed to nuclear power, ran past the damaged reactor at Three Mile Island on Saturday in a charity race staged by a pro-nuclear group hoping to show the plant is safe.

"I had no qualms about it whatsoever," said the Rev. Jay Haug, 32, an Episcopal minister from Lancaster who won the first TMI Reactor Run-By, a five-mile race, in 25 minutes, 6.5 seconds.

"To me, it's safe. I wouldn't run here if I didn't think it was," said Haug, who finished 480th in this year's Boston marathon. He said the run-by, which snaked past the cooling towers and the damaged reactor on a sunny spring day, was "just another race."

The Friends and Family of TMI, the race sponsors, presented a check of $710 to the Hershey Medical Center for the Ronald McDonald House, which will provide housing for parents of hospitalized children. There were 710 runners in the race.

The group also plans to donate the net proceeds from concessions and the sale of T-shirts, coffee cups shaped like cooling towers, key chains shaped like reactor buildings and bumper stickers.

The race included a stretch on the island in the Susquehanna River where the nation's worst commercial nuclear accident occurred in March 1979. The course brought the runners within 600 feet of the damaged Unit 2 reactor, where a $1 billion cleanup is about one-third complete.

David Trimble, 39, of nearby Litzitz, wore an anti-nuclear T-shirt during the race, which started at 10:30 a.m.

"I just wanted to get close to the belly of the monster," said the bearded Trimble, a surveyor who described the race as "a publicity stunt."

"It's good media, good public relations," he said. "TMI has become a novelty, just to make it seem like it's harmless. I don't think it is."

Most of the participants came as a testament to the popularity of running, not to debate nuclear power.

March of Dimes walk raises $14,000

Officials of Big Spring's March of Dimes WalkAmerica/TeamWalk last weekend say the 10-mile event has brought in $14,000 for the charity so far.

Mrs. Barbara Holdampf, executive committee chairmen of the Caprock Chapter of the March of Dimes, gave special thanks to Sen. John Montford and Rep. Larry Don Shaw for their participation in the walk.

"We are proud that two such important men gave of their valuable time to be with us on the first WalkAmerica to be held in Big Spring in 10 years," she said.

The walk began at 9 a.m. at the Big Spring Mall. Mrs. Holdampf, TeamWalk chairman Dick Hoolahan and executive director Doreen Zilberg welcomed Shaw and Montford for a 15-minute symbolic walk.

With Shaw, Montford, Big Spring Mayor Clyde Angel and other city dignitaries in the lead, the crowd of 400 began the march. The Howard College Presidential Classics carried a banner which read "WalkAmerica — Fight Birth Defects."

Three cars from Highland Pontiac Datsun followed the walkers in case there were some who could not go the distance.

Starting at 10:30 a.m., The Outlaw Band from the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp began playing as walkers reached the end of the course.

Approximately 250 walkers finished and received their prizes. Those walkers who had turned in $50 or more were given free movie passes donated by Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac. Those turning in $75 or more received a free Burger King meal every month for a year and those turning in $100 or more received an official WalkAmerica T-shirt and a "Grog" March of Dimes mug.

All walkers were given "Grog" and John Schneider decals, Burger King coupons and certificates and letters of thanks.

Mrs. Carla Henry of Big Spring raised the individual high of $1,273.50 and won a trip to Orlando, Fla. donated by Places and Pleasures Travel Agency.

Magnavox radios were given to the oldest and the youngest participants.

First Federal Savings and Loan of Big Spring raised the most money per capita and raised the highest total amount — $2,884.69 — and will receive Battered Boot trophies at an award dinner to be held at a later date.

Battered Boot trophies will also be sent to Shaw and Montford.

Other awards will be given to the City of Big Spring for having the most walkers, the KWKI air staff for their help, and the Southland Corp. (7-Eleven stores of Big Spring and Midland) for raising $3,000.

Dick Hoolahan will be honored for organizing the teams at the walk. Recognition will also be given to David Largent of First National Bank for coordinating the banks' efforts.

The following firms and groups formed teams: American Well Service Co., Big Spring State Hospital, the City of Big Spring, Citizens Federal Credit Union, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co., Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, First Federal Savings and Loan, First National Bank, Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital and Clinic, Malone Hogan Hospital, Malone and Hogan Clinic, radio stations KWKI and KKIK, the National Guard, Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home and Trinity Memorial Park, Security State Bank, Southland Corp. (7-Elevens of Big Spring and Midland), and the Spanish Inn Restaurant.

"We would like to thank the many big-hearted people of Big Spring who sponsored the walkers," Mrs. Zilberg said. "The March of Dimes fight to prevent birth defects, to protect the unborn and the newborn is truly supported by Big Spring."

The money raised will go to research for Texas and national grants and to other research oriented fields.

The walk's organizers also wished to thank the following:

Southland Corp., KWKI and KKIK radio stations, Highland Pontiac Datsun, Burger King, Jack Lewis Buick and Cadillac Places and Pleasures Travel Agency, Bealls Department Store, J.C. Penney Department Store, the City of Big Spring, Big Spring Mall, Big Spring High School Band, Howard College Cheerleaders, Howard College paramedics students, Howard College Presidential Classics, Malone Hogan Hospital, Big Spring Police Safety Department, Gayle Moran, Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, Big Spring Herald, KBYG radio, Shafter Ambulance Service, Big Spring Federal Prison Camp band and walkers, police explorers, Cosden Oil and Chemical Co.

2,000 march for Vietnamese resistance

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 2,000 Vietnamese marched through several downtown blocks on Saturday in a demonstration of support for anti-communist resistance efforts within Vietnam.

Marchers chanted "Human rights for Vietnam!" and other slogans as they proceeded from Farragut Square to a rally in Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

The demonstration was staged in conjunction with a three-day conference sponsored by the National Support Movement for the Resistance in Vietnam, a group based in suburban Annandale, Va.

At its concluding session later Saturday, the conference adopted a declaration asserting that "the Communist regime in Vietnam offers no future other than one of constant war and poverty."

Hanoi's leaders, the statement said, "have prostituted themselves to the charity of the imperialist Soviet Union and subjected the Vietnamese people to exploitation and repression."

Earlier this week, the conference was addressed by Hoang Co Minh, chairman of a resistance group calling itself the National United Front for the Liberation of Vietnam. Minh, a former admiral in the South Vietnamese navy, secretly returned to Vietnam last year in an effort to organize-armed opposition to the Hanoi regime.

"Our front has contacted and united 36 different resistance organizations from all over the country, a total of approximately 10,000 resistance soldiers," he told the conference on Thursday.

Vietnamese officials have acknowledged to Western reporters the existence of rebel groups within the country — particularly in the long-restive central highlands region. But they have contended that the groups are small, fragmented and militarily insignificant.

Poland begins May Day crackdown

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — Police seized at least 12 people including five of Lech Walesa's aides, towed cars from a potential flashpoint in Warsaw and tightened security Saturday on the eve of May Day protests called by the outlawed Solidarity union.

The 39-year-old Walesa said that despite the police action he planned to "actively participate" in events Sunday in his hometown Gdansk. He did not elaborate, but he is expected to attend Mass at St. Brygida's church, near the shipyard where he helped organize Solidarity nearly three years ago.

St. Brygida's priest, the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, said "many people have been taken into custody in my parish during the last few days. I can't give you any figures today, because I don't want to cause panic."

Walesa's wife Danuta said, "About a dozen people around Lech were detained." It was the third straight day Walesa's aides have been questioned.

Walesa said police interrogated his secretary, Bozena Rybicka, and bodyguard, Henryk Mazul. Also detained, a Walesa spokesman said, was Mrs. Rybicka's brother Aram, aide Adam Kinaszewski, and Gdansk Solidarity leader Zygmunt Maruszczak.

Mrs. Rybicka and Mazul were released later Saturday, but Kinaszewski remained in police custody, Walesa said. There was no word on the whereabouts of the other two aides.

Walesa, his wife, and the half-dozen Solidarity loyalists who assist him have been questioned by police repeatedly since he met with five fugitive union strategists April 9-11 and indirectly endorsed anti-government protests for May Day, a major holiday in communist-ruled countries.

Walesa also said police were searching homes of shipyard workers in Gdansk in an apparent effort to block the May Day protest. He said many of his closest advisers were in hiding.

The labor leader said he had planned to attend Saturday night church services but stayed home because of what he described as police harassment. Police have stopped Walesa from joining any large gatherings since he was released last November after 11 months of detention under martial law.

Police patrols in Warsaw towed parked cars away from the historic Old Town, where the Solidarity underground has urged supporters to demonstrate Sunday morning after Roman Catholic Mass. The cars were towed apparently so police could easily disperse any demonstrators.

City crews bedecked Warsaw streets with red and white national flags and red communist banners. Extra patrols of police, carrying only sidearms instead of their usual automatic weapons, could be seen mingling in downtown Warsaw with crowds of poles enjoying sunny spring weather.

Q. Is there any recourse for the homeowner who receives a tax assessment which he believes to be too high?

A. Yes, there is, although he should be certain the assessment is too high. If the assessment is found too low, it can be raised. But, if too high, you can protest your assessment to the local taxing authority. You'll need to do some homework, gathering information and evidence you'll need to prove it's out of line. A professional appraisal does not necessarily guarantee a lower assessment, but keep in mind as a last resort. Check the assessors records for errors — lot size, house dimensions, etc. Check on assessments of homes in your neighborhood of similar size. Then, talk to the assessor. If necessary, you can take your case to the local board of appeals or equalization, a review board and, if all else fails, the courts.

Fired general gets 3rd star

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army general fired from the National Security Council has been promoted by President Reagan.

Maj. Gen. Robert L. Schweitzer, 54, will receive his third star, making him a lieutenant general, according to a routine listing of top officer changes posted Friday at the Pentagon.

In October, 1981, Schweitzer was on the NSC staff when he made a speech at an Army Association convention here in which he said "the Soviets are on the move; they are going to strike." He also warned of a "drift toward war" between the two superpowers.

An Old Wobbly on May Day '82

For this 80-year-old, the workers' struggle goes on OGDEN, Utah (AP) — The strident cries of the Industrial Workers of the World still echo in the ears of 80-year-old former "Wobbly" organizer Luther Wyatt, but never more loudly than on May Day.

"There's few of us left any more," he says. "Most of my comrades in arms have gone on to their rewards." Although decades have passed since Wyatt rode the rails to sign up IWW members — Wobblies, as they came to be known — in lumber camps, farms and rail yards, the same fiery zeal today spurs him to organize senior citizens and retirees.

"Let somebody else talk about that age stuff," he says. "Eternal vigilance and getting off your prat and being part of the struggle — that's how we got things and that's how we keep things."

May Day has been a worldwide day for celebration of the accomplishments of labor ever since the Second Socialist International declared it a holiday for radical labor in 1889. And for Wyatt it is a time of reflection.

"I remember the day when I thought workers would never get a vacation with pay, old age pensions and such," he says. "All those things were fought for. They weren't just given to us. It came out of tears, sweat and blood."

Wyatt fondly recalls joining the IWW at 15, shortly after union balladeer Joe Hill was executed in 1915 by a Utah firing squad. Those were the banner years, when IWW membership exceeded 10,000 and before violence and factionalism tore the union asunder.

"I've spent my entire life in the labor movement," Wyatt says. "I didn't make the exit Joe Hill did, but I was in there."

Wyatt was working at an Oregon ranch dawn to dusk, six days a week, when three grizzled Wobbly recruiters came by. Wyatt's $1-a-day wage made him an attentive listener.

He paid his 25-cent initiation fee, was handed his membership card and was fired when his boss found out.

Wyatt turned to organizing, working as a cowboy,

LUTHER WYATT
...former "Wobbly" organizer

railroad laborer, longshoreman and in lumber camps in the Northwest and Midwest trying to make the IWW's dream of "one big union" come true.

The IWW — which detractors said stood for "I Won't Work" — tried to recruit Chinese laborers on the West Coast, and some say the Chinese coined the name Wobbly by mispronouncing the initials as "I Wobbly Wobbly," according to the linguist and social historian Stuart Berg Flexner. But Flexner says in his book "Listening to America" that a more likely origin was the IWW's other abbreviation, WOW, Workers of the World, which somehow became "Wowbly."

Wyatt was run out of towns, jailed, beaten and escorted off a North Dakota farm with a double-barreled shotgun jabbed in his back.

'Let somebody else talk about that age stuff. Eternal vigilance and getting off your prat and being part of the struggle — that's how we got things and that's how we keep things.'

Like many American radicals of the era, Wyatt and a fellow Wobbly wanted to see for themselves the new "workers' paradise" in the Soviet Union. But on arrival in Vladivostok in 1924, they found snow 20 feet deep and people shivering in straw-covered cattle cars.

"We came to the conclusion there was something wrong," he says.

Back home, he was further disillusioned by the IWW's violent death throes.

"There were Wobbly goon squads," Wyatt says, and one squad threw "a kid off the top of a train, never knowing whether it killed him or not, because he didn't have a red (union) card."

By 1935, Wyatt had severed his Wobbly ties and began organizing railroad workers in Ogden. Working as a local and later national union representative to the Union Pacific Railroad, he began a 13-year stint with the National Mediation Board in 1955.

But retirement in 1968 did not end Wyatt's activism. He promptly founded the Railway Retirees Club, serving as president until last year. And he still works occasionally as a consultant to both labor and management.

800 evacuated after methanol leak

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Up to 800 people living near the Grand Ole Opry House were evacuated from their homes Saturday after a railroad tanker derailed and began leaking explosive methanol, officials said. No injuries were reported.

Authorities said the evacuees, who began leaving their homes at about 9:45 a.m., probably could return to their homes by evening. The leak stopped within two hours.

The homes that were emptied were within 2,000 feet of the tanker in a residential area east Nashville section near the Opryland U.S.A. entertainment park and the Grand Ole Opry House.

Radioactive iodine could help treat prostate cancer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Implanting tiny capsules of radioactive iodine directly into tumors has been as effective as surgery in treating prostate cancer and preserving sexual function, researchers say.

Titanium seeds about 9 millimeters in diameter provide more concentrated doses of radiation than is possible through external radiation therapy, said Dr. Julian Rosenman, a radiation oncologist at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill School of Medicine.

A special device called a Mick applicator is used to implant 30-50 seeds in the tumor. While they remain in the patient's body permanently, the iodine loses its radioactivity after one year and the seeds pose no risk to other parts of the body, Rosenman said.

Dr. Floyd A. Fried, chief urologist at the school, said implants are far better than removing the prostate gland, a procedure that leaves a man impotent and may impair bladder control.

"About 90 percent of patients receiving interstitial (implantation) therapy have preservation of sexual function," he said. "The chance of curing the patient is about 75 to 80 percent if the cancer is detected early and is confined to a small area."

Fried said he based his conclusions on his observations of patients receiving the treatment over the past two years at hospital.

For large tumors not confined to the prostate, external radiation therapy may be preferred, Rosenman said.

A year after oil shale shutdown, Colorado town is alive and kicking

PARACHUTE, Colo. (AP) — The local economy plunged when Exxon USA shut its oil shale operation a year ago, but with the help of an Exxon rival, Parachute floated to a soft landing and is "alive and well," as the bumper stickers say.

In the year since "Black Sunday," the day the Colony Oil Shale Project shut down, a feeling has developed around town that Parachute came out ahead of the boom-and-bust game of oil shale that companies have been playing since the 1920s.

"We're better off than a year ago," said Roberta Wambolt, a Parachute native. "We got paved streets, new businesses and came out smelling like a rose."

Residents can thank the Union Oil Co. of California, an Exxon competitor. Union Oil continued building its project to extract oil from shale, a type of rock that is plentiful here. The Union project is one-fifth the size of the venture Exxon shut down May 2, 1982.

The Union construction payroll has put families into Battlement Mesa, Exxon's planned company town, and has kept the community from reverting to its sleepy, pre-boom days when 300 people lived here.

About 2,600 people live in Parachute and Battlement Mesa, sister communities about a mile apart and separated by the Colorado River.

Battlement Mesa, with its carefully laid out streets and planned golf courses, shopping and neighborhoods, was supposed to have become a ghost town after the shutdown. It didn't. More than half the single-family homes were sold.

Oil shale has brought restaurants, a hardware store and other retail businesses to the region, and in July there will be a supermarket in Battlement Mesa. That means no more 16-mile drives to Rifle or 45-mile excursions to Grand Junction to buy groceries.

But the future is uncertain. Union is scheduled to complete its oil shale project on Aug. 1, and about 2,500 construction workers will be laid off. Many of those workers are living in Parachute and Battlement Mesa.

Union's permanent operating force will be 550 people. More than half have been hired, and some have bought homes in Battlement Mesa.

"We had no real qualms about buying here," said Patty Taber, whose husband, Jim, is an operator for Union. "We like it here. It's a beautiful town."

Planners envisioned Battlement Mesa as a model city of 25,000 people by the early 1990s, and hoped it would be the standard for future boomtowns.

"It's so pretty up there that I can't imagine people not wanting to live there," said Charlie Pence, who built Battlement Mesa.

track meet. Lorri Roman placed third in the open quarter. Vicki Baggett placed fourth in the two mile run and seventh in the mile run.

Clements: White 'deceived' Texans

Ex-governor still keeping close eye on state's politics

DALLAS (AP) — Bill Clements says Gov. Mark White has deceived the people of Texas "and he'll pay the price for that."

"I think he has lost his credibility," said the former Republican governor in his first interview since leaving office.

"When is he telling the truth? Does he really want more taxes or does he not want taxes?"

"I don't think the people of Texas believe him, one way or the other."

Clements, a 65-year-old multi-millionaire, upset all political speculation in 1978 when he became the state's first GOP governor this century, but then was upset himself in 1982 by Democrat White.

Now, the outspoken former oilfield roughneck is recuperating from hip joint surgery that eased the pain of a 16-year-old handball game injury which caused him to limp in recent years.

"I feel real good," he says and proudly tells of walking almost three miles every morning, with the occasional aid of a cane. He spends the afternoon in his Dallas office at SEDCO, the worldwide drilling firm he founded in 1947.

There is only one item in his office to remind him of four tumultuous years in Austin — a bronze plaque of the Texas governor seal on one wall.

But he still keeps a close eye on Austin and Washington — and does not hesitate to comment in his usual no-holds-barred manner.

"I am not a bit surprised at the (White) administration's start. They're doing about what I thought they would do," Clements said.

Clements recalled White's campaign promises of a 24 percent pay raise for schoolteachers and an elected Public Utility Commission.

"They're not going to fly. I think everyone else who had any knowledge of the Legislature and the general scene in Austin realized they wouldn't," Clements said.

"So, he deceived the Texas public, the Texas taxpayers, the Texas voters and he'll pay the price for that."

Clements also recalled that in his own "state-of-the-state" message to the Legislature, just before leaving office, he urged that the state's 1984-85 budget be "cut to a pattern to fit the cloth."

"I think it is incumbent upon our state government to live within our means and to acknowledge that a revenue increase of approximately 12 percent over the past two years is sufficient, and make it be enough."

"I don't think the public understands we do indeed have 12 percent more money for his (White's) budget than we did the last time around."

What would Clements do if still in the governor's chair?

"I would veto any kind of a budget that exceeded that 12 percent revenue. We do not need any new taxes."

Clements said he is puzzled, like others, about White's various statements on taxes.

"I suppose he's lying about that like he has a lot of other things," Clements said, and chuckled.

"He gives off the noises that 'Yes, we do want new taxes' and in his words we are going to have 'sin taxes,' more tax on gasoline, an increased tax on oil and gas severance in order to raise additional funds so that he could pay the teachers a 24 percent salary increase and so forth. Which story is correct?"

"Does he really want more taxes or does he not want more taxes?"

Clements has some definite predictions of how the budget-taxes controversy will end.

"Just from where I sit and from listening to a lot of people I'm of the opinion there will be no new taxes in Texas," he said.

"I don't think it is going to happen."

Furthermore, he said: "If I had to render a judgment, I'd say they (the Legislature) will get their business done in the regular session and the governor will not call a special session, because he knows it would not accomplish anything."

Before leaving office in January, Clements told a group of reporters that his main political aim of the future would be to make White a one-term governor.

"Right now, he doesn't need much help," Clements said in an interview during the past week in his Dallas office. "He's doing a good job of being a one-term governor."

Clements made it clear he would not personally oppose White in 1986.

"I won't run for public office again," he said. "I want to clear the air so far as that."

"So far as helping an opponent (to White), I certainly will help," Clements said. "We have a governor who was elected primarily by a coalition of minorities. I think the people of Texas are already manifesting their unhappiness, a lack of empathy with this present administration."

"I would suggest that Mark White ought to just keep on doing what he's been doing if he wants to be a one-term.

FORMER GOVERNOR — Former Texas Governor Bill Clements gestures in an interview at his Dallas office recently. In his first interview since leaving office, Clements said Gov. Mark White has deceived the people of Texas.

And Clements said he, and his wife, Rita, definitely will have a part in the 1984 GOP presidential campaign in Texas. He was President Ronald Reagan's state campaign chairman in 1980.

"I expect President Reagan to run again. He has not personally told me that, but that is my judgment," Clements said.

He thinks Texas will be a key state and maybe the most important state in the 1984 general election.

"The Democrats realize they have never won the presidency in modern times without carrying Texas. By the same token, I don't believe that Reagan can get re-elected if he doesn't carry Texas."

"Here are the two opposing forces — Reagan feeling like he is going to have to carry Texas, and the Democrats know they are going to have to carry Texas or they can't win the presidency."

"So Texas is going to become a real battlefield in the 1984 presidential election. I am going to do everything I can to help President Reagan carry the state."

Clements has been serving on the president's special commission to study the strategic forces of the United States, resulting in about a dozen trips to Washington.

However, he has no plans or wishes to return to Washington permanently, where he was deputy secretary of defense under Presidents Nixon and Ford.

"I'll be happy to help when I can make a contribution but so far as taking on a full-time job up there in the cabinet or something of that kind, I have no ambitions in that direction," he said.

Although he spent many long days involved in SEDCO's operations in the past, Clements hopes to limit his office hours to half a day. He remains chairman of the board and will sit in on policy decisions, but others will make the day-to-day operations, he said.

He points proudly at SEDCO's headquarters, actually a beautifully restored brick school building, one of Dallas' first. Some time in the future the building will become the home of the Clements Foundation. His prized collection of more than 6,000 books and other items of Texana, along with the papers from his gubernatorial administration, will be available to writers and researchers.

"But that's off in the future," he says, obviously enjoying his more leisurely life since leaving the stress of the governor's office.

"In due course I will go through them (his papers) but that is not a high item on my agenda and it doesn't really carry any priority with me."

Chief repels turkeys

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Fire Chief Ralph Crawford, who once championed the purchase of a squirrel caller and a tadpole converter for his department, is up to his tricks again. Now he's asking the City Council to buy turkey repellent.

Tongue firmly in cheek, Crawford says the sight of the city's yellow fire trucks activates a mating hormone in wild turkeys, and claims the 93-cent repellent is necessary safety equipment for firefighters.

"... This is a really big problem," the chief told a bemused council as he heard his request this week for the proposed 1983-84 budget. "The guys go out on runs in those yellow fire trucks and they come back with turkey dung and feathers all over them. It's really embarrassing."

As good as expected

The baseball season ended Saturday in Big Spring.

Although neither the Big Spring High Steers nor the Howard College Hawks made any sort of playoffs, the two teams did provide a few thrills and chills along the way for local baseball fans.

The Steers drew the toughest assignment. Ignoring their projected fifth place finish, the Steers rolled to the District 4-5A title last spring and almost pulled off a bi-district win against Denton.

With two starting pitchers back, Big Spring was considered a playoff threat again this year.

Meanwhile, the Hawks were a team of rookies — the exception of catcher-pitcher-first baseman Kelly Smith. If Howard had gone zero and 50 this year, fans might have shrugged off the record by saying, "Well, what'd ya expect. It's only thar first year, ya know."

The Steers didn't finish first, or second, or even third this year. The loss at San Angelo Saturday dropped Big Spring into a fourth place tie with Odessa High. BSHS finished at an even 14-14 overall and 7-7 record in district play.

Some were disappointed in that. Sure we'd like to have seen another district championship but those things aren't easy to come by. One fan went as far as to circle a petition at the last home game demanding the axing of head coach Frank Ibarra.

Give Ibarra the boot? Fire Tom Landry if the Cowboys don't win the Eastern Division?

Ibarra has won 50 games in three years at Big Spring High. Name a sport at the high school that's been more successful.

Was this team supposed to be better than a .500 club. I don't think so. Not with new faces at first base, second and shortstop. Not with a sophomore in center-field. Aside from two veteran pitchers returning, the Steers were a basically unproven team.

Ibarra said before the season began his team would make a lot of mistakes. I'm sure he didn't plan on 33 during one five-game stretch of district play. But face it, the Steers were inexperienced up the middle and it hurt.

The biggest letdown was the pitching...if you were one of those who thought Adam Rodriguez was Mario Soto and Jinx Valenzuela was his namesake Fernando. Otherwise, they didn't do too bad.

Rodriguez was wild earlier in the season but settled down in district play. His main problem was shaky defense around him. Valenzuela didn't pitch much last year and his inexperience showed up.

Both had a habit of getting raked over in one inning and then pitching well the rest of the way. Valenzuela was a battler but fell victim too many times to giving up the fatal walk or basehit with two out and-or two strikes on the batter.

The Steers hit the ball much better than last year, almost 50 points higher. But only Valenzuela was consistent, hitting just under .400 in district.

There's nothing wrong with winning as many as you lose, especially if that's the best you can do.

Turning to the Hawks, it was no secret that Howard College didn't have the pitching to match their hitting. The Hawks won 28 of 50 games in their first season but a few people thought more was in store when HC took seven of its first eight.

Not to totally blame the pitching, who was expecting Bruce Hollander to go down with an arm injury and miss most of the season? One good stopper in the bullpen, however, and Howard could have won at least 10 more games.

HC just missed the .500 mark in Region V games and they pinned one of only five losses on McLennan's season record — the Highlanders were 41-5 and ranked No. 1 in the nation this week.

There was plenty of hitting — Billy Mitchell's tennis court homers, Bobby Behnsch's drives to right field and Kelly Smith's moon shots. How about Stephon Hodge's 13 RBIs in a doubleheader?

The Steers and Hawks played as well as expected. Now if both teams can dig up a little pitching for next year, perhaps championships will return to Big Spring.

DOUBLE THE THREAT — Big Spring High showed its offensive punch at a Friday night scrimmage in Memorial Stadium. Two running backs hoping to earn a varsity job are Billy Wegner, left, and Robert Doperto.

Hard work defines practice

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

A new offensive star was born and the defense began making a habit of running to the football at Big Spring High's first spring scrimmage Friday evening at Memorial Stadium.

"We looked kind of ragged," head coach Quinn Eudy told his players after their workout, "but we ran to the football and the knocked the heck out of some people. Even when we were tired, we still played hard."

The new man on offense is junior Mike McKinley, a transfer from Coahoma, who broke away for touchdown runs of 20 and 30 yards. McKinley played on the junior varsity last year but is likely to become a familiar face on the Steer varsity in four months.

The first half of the two-hour workout was devoted to defense and a combination of defensive units shut out its opposition. Seven touchdowns were scored when the first team offense made its debut — four on the ground and three through the air. Against the second team offense, the No. 1 Steer defense gave up only 41 yards on 16 running plays while all four passes went incomplete.

"The defense played well," Eudy said. "They ran to the football well and hit with some enthusiasm."

It was almost the reverse situation when the Steer offense cranked up as junior Eric Sherman dashed 60 and 80 yards for touchdowns. When it was time to pass, quarterbacks Mark Johnson, Ted Gillis and Tommy Gartman found all-district receiver Dale Crenshaw and returning starter Robert Porras open for scoring passes.

Crenshaw hauled in scoring tosses of 30 and 80 yards while Porras got behind the secondary to pull in a 75-yarder.

"The quarterbacks came along as the scrimmage went on," Eudy said. "At first they were a little tentative but they began to read better as they went along."

Eudy said his defensive players tired near the end of the scrimmage, thus accounting for some of the long-range scoring plays.

"We played with a lot of enthusiasm," he said. "When they got tired, they continued to play hard. We fumbled too much and we're still making a lot of mistakes but I think we'll overcome that."

McKinley, Porras and potential two-way starter Doug Walker were named by the coaching staff as the top performers in the scrimmage.

"I get excited about the kids being excited," Eudy said, smiling. "As long as they believe in themselves, we'll be okay. We can teach them this football."

Spring drills continue for a second week Monday with another scrimmage scheduled Friday afternoon. This time the varsity meets sub-varsity players.

The Pro-Am Needs You, Big Spring

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

When Don Cook talks about the first-ever Signal Peak Shriner Pro-Am Golf Tournament, he gets very intense. After five minutes with Cook, nothing smaller than a moving van full of thousand dollar bills would be enough to send to the nationwide chain of hospital and special treatment centers.

Cook, who works at the Texas Education Agency when his desk isn't cluttered with Pro-Am literature, is one of 15 members of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce who originated, nurtured and are about to present a year's worth of hard work May 18-20 at the Big Spring Country Club. Now he's asking the residents of Big Spring to lend a hand in the final push toward making a five-figure gift to the Shriners.

"We need all the local support we can get," he said in his office Friday afternoon. "This is the first time for an event like this in Big Spring. We really need support now to get it all the way off the ground."

Cook estimates the cost of the two-day tournament will run close to $50,000. Half that cost, the organizers had planned, would be paid by the 240 participants in the tournament who will tee-off for a $100 donation. The rest of the expenses will be covered by daily admissions, concessions and donations.

To date, the basic tournament expenses are about to be paid. But this is no break-even event, Cook stresses. The more money the tournament makes, the more money goes to the Shriners.

"I know this is going to come off," he said. But with the Shriners facing expenses of $53 million a year, "we want to make a significant contribution. To do that,

"This is the first time for an event like this in Big Spring. We need all the support we can get." Don Cook we've got to have some help."

Cook labels himself a "pessimist" on the status of the tournament, but explains that as actually being over-anxious. "The time to wait is over. It's going to be here in two weeks."

Many golfing regulars at the country club have paid their $100 entry fee and there has been good response from outside of Big Spring.

"We still need more help from Big Spring and especially from the golfers at the municipal course," he said. While no strict entry deadline has been set, Cook would like to see his sign-up list for Pro-Am playing berths filled this coming week.

Country Club pro Gary Hammer is completing the list of 60 pros who will make up one of the four-man teams. Celebrities such as Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw, New Orleans Saints placekicker Russell Erleben, Olympic weightlifter Sam Walker and former Dallas Cowboys receiver Golden Richards are confirmed for the Pro-Am. More big names are pending.

The three-day event gets underway Wednesday with an afternoon (4 p.m.) parade through the city. A VIP party is planned for 8 p.m. that evening and Cook stresses it is not the for-the-rich-only affair as some people think.

"The party is for golfers who have paid the $100 entry fee, their spouses or guests and anyone who donates $500 or more and is not playing," he explains. "It will be a lot like the big party they had for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center."

Tournament play begins Thursday with 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. tee-off times. Thirty teams will take the course at each time. Cook is hoping for large galleries and thinks the biggest followings at first will be for the foursomes including the celebrities.

"You could park your cart at one hole and eventually they all will come through," he said with a smile.

Each foursome will contain a Texas club pro and A, B and C players. The pros will be competing for $15,000 in total prize money with the amateurs aiming for $7,000 in merchandise. A late bloomers flight for Friday will pay $3,000. "The thing is, anyone who plays golf can participate," Cook stresses.

Heat helps Rubio pitch Ex-Steer notches win

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

A year ago Saturday, Moe Rubio was tossing the Big Spring High Steers to the District 5-5A championship against the San Angelo Bobcats. Yesterday, he tossed the Howard College Hawks to their lone victory in four games against Texas Southmost College.

Rubio scattered six hits and gave up just two earned runs in the complete-game victory while Billy Mitchell, Kelly Smith and Bobby Behnsch hit home runs to spark the Hawks to a 9-3 win over the Scorpions. TSC came back in the second game, however, wiping out a 3-0 deficit to down Howard by the same 9-3 score.

Southmost swept the Hawks 10-5 and 11-8 Friday. Howard finishes its first baseball season in almost 30 years with a 28-21-1 record. The Scorpions, leaders of the Texas Independent Conference with an 11-3 mark, are now 29-12 for the year.

"I'm just glad I went out with a victory," Rubio. The freshman from Big Spring lost his first three collegiate starts but won his last four decisions to finish 4-3. "We had a good day defensively behind me and we hit the ball pretty good."

Benny Mota's RBI single in the first inning gave Southmost a 1-0 lead but Rubio didn't give up another earned run until the sixth when David Hernandez lined a run-scoring triple over center-fielder Mark Warren's head.

Meanwhile Howard was banging out a dozen basehits including consecutive long-distance home runs to left-field by Mitchell and Smith in the fifth inning. Behnsch hit his 12th homer, a two-run shot in the sixth inning, to put the game away from the Hawks.

Rubio was doing nothing fancy on the mound, simply throwing strikes — he walked just one batter. The hot afternoon was working in his favor, he said.

"It really helps me out," Rubio said of the high temperature. "I feel more relaxed and my arm doesn't tighten as fast. I had to throw more fastballs today because it was so hard to throw a curve it so sticky."

Most of the fastballs went right to one of his defensive players but one was lined right back to him in the seventh inning. "Man, he hit that hard," Rubio said of Roby Robles' smash back to the box. The Hawk pitcher

Wadkins battles back to top

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Lanny Wadkins capped a closing burst with a 15-foot par-saving putt on the final hole and regained the lead Saturday in the third round of the $400,000 Byron Nelson Classic.

"The best putt I hit all day," said Wadkins, who birdied three of the last six holes. "It's a nice way to finish the day."

Wadkins, gunning for his second victory in a row and third in five weeks, took over the top spot with a wind-blown round of 3-under-par 68 and a 54-hole total of 204.

That's nine shots under par on the new Las Colinas Sports Center course, 7,002 yards of rolling hills in the Dallas suburbs, and one in front of Tom Purtzer and Hal Sutton.

Sutton, rookie of the year last season and winner of the Tournament Players Championship a couple of months ago, closed with a 67 that matched the best round of the day. He was tied at 205 with Purtzer, who had to one-putt the difficult 18th for a par that gave him a 70.

Brad Bryant, with a 69, was next at 206. Ben Crenshaw, who holed a hooking, uphill, into-the-wind 2-iron shot from the rough for an eagle-2 on the 16th, Ed Fiori and Mike Donald were another shot back at 207. Crenshaw's eagle helped him to a 67.

Fiori matched par 71 under the overcast skies. Donald, who shared the 36-hole lead with Purtzer, slipped to a 72.

Dan Pohl, Bruce Lietzke, Mark Hayes and PGA champion Ray Floyd were at 208, leaving 12 men within four strokes of the top going into Sunday's final round of the chase for a $72,000 first prize.

Byron Nelson

Lietzke had a 69, Floyd a 70, Hayes 71 and Pohl 66.

Tom Watson, a four-time winner of this event when it was played at Preston Trail, its home for 15 years until it moved to this new site this year, shot a 69 and was at 211. Jack Nicklaus had 70-213.

Wadkins, who won the Greensboro Open five weeks ago then took over the season's money-winning lead with his triumph in the prestigious Tournament of Champions last Sunday, was a single stroke off the pace when the day's play started.

But, with his putter again turning balky, he could do no better than a par 36 on the front side and fell two shots back at the turn.

Over the front nine he missed a 30-inch birdie putt and failed on four others from 8-12 feet.

But his patient, steady play began to pay off over the back nine. He got a 9-iron shot to within three feet of the flag on the 13th and made birdie. He flipped a little sand wedge shot to about the same distance and birdied the 15th to gain a share of the lead.

On the par-3 17th, playing into the prevailing winds, Wadkins lashed a 3-iron to within 12 feet of the flag and made that putt for sole control of the top spot.

He had to work hard to preserve it, however, on the 18th. His drive caught the left fairway bunker. He was short and right of the green in two, played a difficult little pitch to about 15 feet and made the putt that left him in command.

Aussies, Americans wage golfing war

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Australian Peter Thomson copped a four-footer for a birdie on the last hole and Miller Barber missed a short one on the same green Saturday to knot their teams in a tie after 54 holes of the $485,000 Legends of Golf Tournament at 14 under par.

Thomson and partner Kel Nagle shot a 4-under par 66 in best ball while Barber and teammate Julius Boros shot a 5-under par 65 for identical 196 totals over Par 70 Onion Creek Golf Club.

The team of Roberto De Vicenzo and Rod Funseth could manage only a bogey on the 90-yard par-5 No. 18 and fell into a tie with four other duos just a shot back in the scramble for the $100,000 first prize.

De Vicenzo-Funseth shot a 3-under 67 and were locked with the teams of Billy Casper-Gay Brewer, Gardner Dickinson-Dan Sikes, Charles Sifford-Billy Collins, and Jack Burke-Paul Harney at 197.

Casper and Brewer posted a 67, Dickinson and Sikes had a 65, Sifford and Collins shot 64, and Burke and Harney had 64.

Legends of Golf

The 64s were the best rounds of the day over the 6,584-yard course which was still damp from several days of drizzle.

"I hit just a terrible putt on the last hole," said Barber, known as "Mr. X" on the tour for his quiet mannerisms. "It's going to be a great race tomorrow. Maybe we'll shoot 62."

Barber had four of his team's birdies but pushed his downhill, breaking putt on the 18th green.

Nagle said "the pin placements were really mean out there. Peter hit a great third shot into the last green and hit his putt into the middle of the hole."

Defending champions Don January and Sam Snead could manage only a 68 and were three shots behind at 199.

A crowd announced at 22,600 swarmed the course to watch their golfing heroes of 50 years and older.

Stacy hangs onto lead despite 'off' round

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hollis Stacy fired a 2-over-par 74 Saturday, her worst round in three days, but still held on to a 2-stroke lead in the $175,000 CPC International women's golf tourney.

76ers topple Knicks 107-105; Spurs up by 3, Bucks up by 2

NEW YORK (AP) — Franklin Edwards hit a 14-foot bank shot with two seconds left to give the Philadelphia 76ers a 107-105 victory over the New York Knicks on Saturday and a 3-0 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Philadelphia needs one more victory to advance to the Eastern Conference final against the winner of the Boston-Milwaukee series in which the Bucks lead 2-0. Game 4 of the best-of-seven 76ers-Knicks series will be here Sunday.

Edwards shared the hero's mantle with Moses Malone and Maurice Cheeks, who scored 28 and 24 points respectively, and combined for Philadelphia's last 16 points before Edwards' game-winner.

New York trailed 99-89 with 3:38 to go but rallied behind six points by Bernard King, who led the Knicks with 21 points. They tied it at 105-105 on two foul shots by Ernie Grunfeld with 19 seconds left.

The 76ers called time out and ran the clock down until Edwards let his clinching shot go from the left side of the lane. The Knicks, with no time left, could only get off a desperation bomb.

Julius Erving added 20 points for the 76ers. Edwards had 11 points for Philadelphia.

Rory Sparrow and Bill Cartwright each had 19 for New York.

Bucks 95, Celtics 91

The Milwaukee Bucks figured the Boston Celtics couldn't keep hitting two out of every three shots, and they were right.

Trailing 57-42 after Boston hit 66.7 percent in the first half, Milwaukee cut the deficit to eight after three quarters and then held the Celtics to nine points in the fourth period en route to a 95-91 victory Friday night. The triumph gave the Bucks a 2-0 lead in their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff series, with the next two games in Milwaukee.

"Things looked pretty dark in the first half the way (Danny) Ainge and (Gerald) Henderson were shooting," Milwaukee's Sidney Moncrief said. "They really outplayed us, but we didn't panic. We knew it was just a matter of time when the Celtics' shots wouldn't fall consistently."

Larry Bird, the Celtics' leader in nearly every offensive category, missed Friday night's game because of a virus and a 104-degree temperature. But Ainge and Henderson took charge, scoring 12 and 10 points, respectively, as Boston raced to a 28-22 lead in the first period.

NBA Playoffs

Ainge went on to add 11 points in the second period, hitting 11 of 12 field goal attempts in playing the entire first half.

He hit his first shot in the second half, giving him a career-high 25 points, but then he turned as cold as he was hot, missing his last nine shots.

Milwaukee outscored Boston 32-25 in the third period, cutting the 15-point deficit to 82-74. Then the Bucks completed the rally as the Celtics hit just four of 22 shots in the final 12 minutes. The nine-point fourth quarter was one point higher than the all-time NBA playoff low.

Moncrief scored 20 points, Marques Johnson and Junior Bridgeman 19 apiece and Bob Lanier 13 for Milwaukee. Scott Wedman, filling in for Bird, had 18, Henderson 16 and Robert Parish 14 for Boston.

Spurs 127, Nuggets 126

Denver continued to give Johnny Moore open shots and he produced for San Antonio for the third straight game.

Moore, who averaged only 12.2 points per game during the regular season, scored 39 points and hit the game-winning three-point shot with 12 seconds left in overtime as the Spurs took a commanding lead in the series.

In the first two games at San Antonio, he scored 24 and 26 points while dishing out 17 and 20 assists, the latter an NBA playoff record.

Moore scored 13 of his points in the fourth quarter as the Spurs battled back from a 94-90 third-quarter deficit to tie the game at 118-118 at the end of regulation. Then in overtime, he scored all nine of the Spurs' points, including the game-winning three-pointer.

George Gervin, who didn't score after the third quarter, added 22 points for the Spurs, followed by Gene Banks with 21 and Gilmore with 20.

Lakers 115, Blazers 109

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored nine of his 30 points in overtime as Los Angeles squeezed past Portland for a 3-0 lead in the series.

The Lakers led by as many as 11 points in the second quarter and had a 54-47 advantage at halftime.

Portland outscored Los Angeles 16-2 over a 6½-minute stretch in the second half to take a 79-72 lead. The Blazers eventually built an 87-78 lead on Kenny Carr's three-point play with 7:36 left in regulation.

The Lakers responded with a 14-2 spurt to grab a 94-91 advantage, but the Blazers came back and Darnell Valentine had a chance to give Portland the lead with three seconds left in regulation. He made only one of two free throws to force the overtime at 98-98.

McEnroe, Lendl in Dallas WTC finals

DALLAS (AP) — Defending champion Ivan Lendl and No. 2 seed John McEnroe advanced into the finals of the $300,000 WTC Finals tennis tournament here after semifinal victories on Saturday.

Lendl, top-seeded, beat No. 5 seed Bill Scanlon 6-1, 6-7, 6-3, 6-3 and McEnroe defeated No. 6 seed Vitas Gerulaitis 6-3, 6-2, 6-2. The two winners will meet Sunday at Reunion Arena for the $150,000 first prize of the WTC Finals.

Last year, Lendl beat McEnroe in four sets for the title.

Lendl broke Scanlon's serve twice in the first set. But Scanlon, 26, came back in the second set to force a tie-breaker. He took a 5-0 lead, then fired a serve that Lendl returned into the net to give Scanlon the tie-breaker 7-2 and the set.

Scanlon pressured Lendl early in the third set with accurate approach shots, tying it at 2-2. Lendl fought off two break points to win the next game, then took another service break to lead 4-2. Scanlon escaped one set point before Lendl served an ace down the center line to win the set.

Lendl broke Scanlon's serve to open the fourth set, then scored two of his 16 aces to go up 3-1. With a 5-3 lead, he hit a diving service return winner for the match.

McEnroe, who now has reached the finals of each of the five WTC Finals he has entered, will be looking for his third win. He won the tournament in 1970 against Bjorn Borg and in 1981 over Johan Kriek.

The 28-year-old Gerulaitis, who reached the semifinals with wins over Argentinians Jose Luis Clerc and Guillermo Vilas, fell behind in the first set 3-1. McEnroe lost only one point on his next two service games for a 5-2 edge.

Gerulaitis survived three set points to take the next game, but McEnroe used an overhead slam at the net to win the next game in the set.

The second set was a display of McEnroe's dominance as the 24-year-old left-hander gave up only six points in taking a 4-0 lead.

Bryant, Philadelphia run by Tampa Bay, 24-10

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Kelvin Bryant became the United States Football League's leading ground gainer Saturday night as he rushed for 106 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Philadelphia Stars to a 24-10 victory over the Tampa Bay Bandits.

Bryant carried 22 times as he ran for 100 yards or better for the sixth time and hiked his season yardage total to 929 in nine games. The effort moved him past New Jersey's Herschel Walker, who has rushed for 851 yards in eight games.

The triumph was the fifth in a row for the 8-1, Atlantic Division-leading Stars, who avenged their only loss before a Tampa Stadium crowd of 41,559. Tampa Bay, which retained a half-game lead over the Chicago in the Central Division, dropped to 6-3.

Rangers rope Yankees

ARLINGTON (AP) — The way Charlie Hough was grousing in the Texas clubhouse, he sounded as though he had just taken a solid licking. In fact, he had just taken his fourth career victory against the New York Yankees, a team that has never beaten him.

"I was having a tough time," said Hough, 2-2, who battled a 25-mile-an-hour tailwind during the Rangers' 6-3 victory Saturday night. "The wind was bothering me, I wasn't feeling well and I wasn't throwing well, but I got away with it. I just struggled for everything. I made some good pitches and a lot of lousy ones. I was sloppy and I was tired."

Hough, who allowed five hits in 5 2-3 innings, got strong relief help from John Butcher, who pitched 3 1-3 hitless innings for his first save of the year.

The Texas attack, ailing until the Yankees came to town Friday night, was paced by Larry Parrish's two-run homer in the first inning and rookie Pete O'Brien's three hits.

Hough allowed an unearned run over the first five innings before the Yankees scored twice in the sixth to close within 5-3. Butcher retired Jerry Mumphy with two runners on base to end the inning.

Texas scored two runs in the first inning, when Billy Sample led off with a double off Ron Guidry, 2-2, and one out later Parrish hit his third home run of the season.

In the Yankees' third, Sample misplayed Mumphy's sinking line drive to left for a three-base error and Mumphy scored on a sacrifice fly by Dave Winfield.

In the Texas fourth, Dave Hostetler singled and was forced by George Wright, who stole second and scored on O'Brien's checked-swing bloop single. Consecutive doubles by Sample and Buddy Bell chased Guidry in the fifth and Bell scored on two wild pitches by George Frazier. It was only the second time in 11 decisions the Rangers had beaten Guidry.

The Yankees scored twice in the sixth on a single by Steve Kemp, a walk and RBI singles by Butch Wynegar and Andre Robertson. Texas added a run off Rich Gossage in the eighth on Bucky Dent's RBI grounder.

A's 5, Tigers 4

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Wayne Gross, who committed one of Oakland's four errors, made up for it with a run-scoring single in the seventh inning that gave the A's a 5-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers Friday night.

Mike Davis, who also committed an error, got his third single of the game off Detroit's Jack Morris, 2-3, with one out in the seventh and stole second. He went to third on a grounder by Bill Almon and scored on Gross' single.

Steve Baker, 2-0, the second of three Oakland pitchers, was the winner and Steve McCatty worked the final two innings to record his first save.

Indians 5, Royals 1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Rick Sutcliffe scattered nine hits over seven innings in his first appearance before his hometown fans Saturday night, leading the Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory over Kansas City for their first triumph in Royals Stadium since April 1981.

Sutcliffe, 3-1, a native of suburban Independence, Mo., struck out three and walked two before giving way to Neal Heaton at the start of the eighth.

Mariners 6, Orioles 2

SEATTLE (AP) — Todd Cruz drove in four runs with a homer and single as the Seattle Mariners beat the Baltimore Orioles 6-2 Saturday night.

Cruz's fourth home run of the season was a three-run shot in the sixth inning off reliever Sammy Stewart that broke open a tight game.

Twins 9, Brewers 7

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Brunansky's two-out, two-run homer capped a four-run ninth-inning rally to carry the Minnesota Twins to a 9-7 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers on Saturday.

With the Brewers leading 7-5, Darrell Brown singled and scored on John Castino's double. After Pete Ladd, 0-2, replaced starter Mike Caldwell, who had given up 16 hits, Gary Ward singled Castino to third.

Kent Hrbek hit a sacrifice fly to tie the game, and then Bob Gibson, the fourth Brewer pitcher in the ninth, came on to strike out Gary Gaetti before giving up Brunansky's home run deep into the left field stands.

HOWARD COUNTY BOXING THREAT ...Jaime Baldwin wins in Cleveland

Baldwin second at PAL tourney

CLEVELAND — Jamie Baldwin finished as runner-up in his age group at the Police Athletic League national tournament here last weekend.

Baldwin won his first two fights by TKO before being defeated. He represented the Howard County Boxing Club in the tournament; the local club was the lone team representing the state of Texas at the three-day event.

Other members of the club making the trip were Gene Dukes, Vince Gaona, Gabriel Gaona, Juan Baldwin, Marcus Garza and David Baldwin. These six boxers lost first round bouts.

Coaches Ed Garza, J.V. Martinez and Zeke Valles accompanied the contingent to Ohio.

Next on the agenda for the local club is the Junior Olympics in Pecos May 6-7. Winners from the Pecos tournament will fight in the Tri-State Boxing Tournament in Amarillo.

Denny halts Astros, 8-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia right-hander John Denny gave the credit to Gus Hoefling, the Phillies' strength and flexibility instructor, for his masterful two-hit shutout of the Houston Astros Saturday.

Denny faced only 28 batters, retiring the last 16, and struck out five in the Phillies' 8-0 victory that snapped a four-game Houston winning streak.

Acquired from the Cleveland Indians late last season, he has been working diligently under the eye of Hoefling, who also has helped Phillies ace Steve Carlton stay in shape over the years.

"I've been feeling very strong lately, and I give all the credit to Gus," said Denny, who won his third straight complete game after one loss. "I know I'm seven years behind Lefty (Carlton) since I've only been under Gus for one and a half months, but I've really been working hard."

Denny allowed a single to Tony Scott in the first inning, a walk to Jose Cruz in the second and a single to Dickie Thon in the fourth.

Cruz was erased in a double play and Thon was caught stealing, so Denny faced only 28 batters in getting his first shutout since September 1981.

Giants 5, Cardinals 0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie Andy McGaffigan checked St. Louis on five hits over 7 1-3 innings and Tom O'Malley rapped a two-run single in the fourth as the San Francisco Giants defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-0 Saturday night.

Before the regularly scheduled game, Ken Oberkfell scored on San Francisco catcher Milt May's throwing error as he attempted to complete an inning-ending double in the bottom of the 16th inning, giving the Cardinals a 6-5 victory in the completion of a game suspended a night earlier.

McGaffigan, 1-2, a 26-year-old right-hander making his fourth major league start, outdueled Joaquin Andujar, 2-3. He walked one and struck out four before needing help from Gary Lavelle in the eighth.

National League

Braves 6, Mets 1

NEW YORK (AP) — Craig McMurry pitched a four-hitter and Denny Murphy clouted his sixth and seventh home runs, leading the Atlanta Braves to a 6-1 victory over the New York Mets on Saturday.

McMurry, 2-1, struck out eight and walked one.

Rick Ownbey, 0-1, held the Braves scoreless until the sixth, when Murphy homered. The Braves scored their eventual winning run in the seventh on a triple by Bruce Benedict and a double by Brett Butler.

Neil Allen replaced Ownbey in the ninth and was tagged for four runs, two of them crossing the plate on Murphy's second homer.

The Mets scored in the seventh on a one-out triple by Hubie Brooks and Dave Kingman's infield out.

Reds 4, Expos 3

MONTREAL (AP) — Johnny Bench homered then singled in the go-ahead run as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Montreal Expos 4-3 Saturday.

The Reds trailed 3-2 entering the sixth but took advantage of the erratic throwing of Montreal catcher Tim Blackwell, replacing Gary Carter, who has missed the last three games with a strained elbow.

Eddie Milner drew a walk against Expos starter Charlie Lea, 2-1, stole second and took third when Cesar Cedeno singled. Cedeno stole second and Blackwell's throw sailed into center field, allowing Milner to score and Cedeno to advance to third.

Bench, who homered in the second, followed with a single, giving the Reds a 4-3 lead.

Rich Gale, 3-0, limited the Expos to six hits and two walks over 7 2-3 innings. Bill Scherrer and Tom Hume finished up.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Keith Moreland drove in four runs and Jody Davis added a three-run homer to power the Chicago Cubs to a 7-2 victory Saturday over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Moreland's bases-loaded triple in the first inning provided all the runs necessary for Chuck Rainey, 1-3, who scattered three hits. He was relieved in the eighth by Bill Campbell, who struck out the side in the eighth and allowed one hit the rest of the way.

Fernando Valenzuela, 3-2, was the loser.

The Dodgers scored in the second on a bases-loaded walk to Mike Scioscia. Rick Monday hit an RBI grounder in the ninth.

The Cubs chased Valenzuela in the sixth when Bill Buckner and Ron Cey singled and Moreland followed with a run-scoring base hit. Davis then belted a Valenzuela pitch into the left field seats.

Pro-Am aims at first class

An added attraction is the $15,000 automobile which will be given away should any golfer score a hole-in-one on any of the par 3 holes.

Just like the big-time PGA tournaments, the Pro-Am will be complete with a huge leaderboard at the clubhouse and on-course concessions.

Radio station KBST is providing live updates from the golf course and a computer system operated by Gordon Myrick will keep the results up to date.

In case golf fans are beginning to get excited, Cook says advance ticket sales will begin May 13 at the chamber office and both Big Spring malls. Booths will be set up to sell the $5 tickets which will get the holder into all three days (Wednesday's practice round also) of action.

Also on sale are official Signal Peak golf shirts ($25) and T-shirts ($6).

The idea for the Pro-Am developed last May. "We were trying to find an activity such as a golf tournament that would benefit some organization," Cook recalls.

PART OF THE PROMOTION — Souvenirs from the Signal Peak Shriners Pro-Am tournament will go on sale May 13 at both Big Spring malls. Showing off the special-order golf shirts are, from left, Casey Cook, Davis Chenault, John Freeman and Jeff Cook. Chenault is the first vice president of the Big Spring Shriners' Club while Freeman is vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors.

"We came up with two or three charitable organizations and we chose the Shriners because of the job those people do through helping people in their burn centers and hospitals."

Chamber members began making contacts with celebrities and organizing the event. "I never realized all the work it would take," Cook said, laughing. "It takes a lot of money to pull off something like this. Now we have to have some help."

What Big Spring residents can do to turn the Pro-Am from a marginal success into a bonanza for the Shriners, Cook says, is enter the tournament. Those non-golfers or persons not able to play this year can help out by attending the two-day tournament. If that's not possible, make a contribution to the chamber.

ANOTHER ONE BITES THE DUST — Howard College first baseman Kelly Smith is safe at third after advancing a base on a sacrifice fly in the seventh inning of Friday's doubleheader with Texas Southmost. Smith scored on a basehit by John Friesenhahn but the Scorpions won the game 10-5.

Big bats aid in Rubio's victory

batted the ball down and fired easily to first baseman Bobby Behnch to get the out but he was still shaken up by the play.

"I was lucky I wasn't seriously hurt," he said, recalling last year's playoff game with Denton while a line drive knocked him out of the game.

Mitchell went 3-for-4 while Stephen Hodge and John Friesenhahn had two hits each for Howard.

HC jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the second game. Blake Rosson tripled in Doug Hatch in the first inning and Jeff Hodges and Hatch had RBI singles in the second inning. Scorpion starter Dinato Salinas was pulled after Hatch's hit and reliever Arturo Guajardo stifled the Hawks the rest of the way.

The Southmost pitcher went the final 6 2/3 innings, giving up just a single to Smith in the fourth inning. He walked two, struck out four and ended the game with a doubleplay pitch to Hodge.

The Scorpions tagged two Howard pitchers for 10 hits. Guy Garibay hit a towering two-run homer over the Hawk Park "Green Monster" in the third inning and Southmost moved into the lead with a three-run fifth inning. A two-run triple by Mota and John Bermea's RBI double put TSC on top and four-run sixth — aided by two HC errors — locked up the win.

"It's too bad we didn't win the rest of these games," Rubio said. "We should have. They hit the ball hard, though."

Howard turned five doubleplays in the twinbill but were charged with seven errors.

Semi-pros play today

Two Big Spring semi-pro baseball teams are in action today, both playing afternoon doubleheaders out-of-town.

The Red Sox are in San Angelo today for a 1:30 p.m. twinbill against the Lions while the Cardinals are in Odessa for two games with the Orioles.

The Cunningham Oilers have the day off.

Schkade 4-hits Steers

SAN ANGELO — Bobcat pitcher Jeff Schkade allowed just one hit over the last six innings while Scott Bingham's double in the third inning knocked in the winning run to lift San Angelo to a 5-2 victory over the Big Spring Steers here Saturday.

The secured the District 4-5A championship for Central while Big Spring, the defending league champs, finish at 7-7 in district play and 14-14 overall. San Angelo is 17-10 overall and won the league title with an 11-3 record.

Big Spring scored its only two runs in the first inning.

Alan Trevino led off the game with a single up the middle and David Anguiano bunted his way on base. Tom Cudd hit into a fielder's choice and Trevino scored when Bingham threw the ball away trying to get Cudd at first.

Cudd advanced to second on the error and Jinx Valenzuela followed with an RBI single.

The Steers held on to their 2-0 lead until the third inning. With out one, two hits and a walk loaded the bases for the Bobcats. Zane Hoppe singled to drive in the tying runs and Bingham made up for his error with an RBI double to give San Angelo a 3-2 lead.

Central added two insurance in the fourth inning as Eddie Franco singled in one run and Augie Alcala drove in another with a fielder's choice grounder.

Schkade allowed just four hits in the game with three coming in the first inning. Losing pitcher Adam Rodriguez gave up eight hits but seven of those were bunched in the third and fourth innings.

"Adam didn't pitch that badly," said coach Frank Ibarra. "Our defense played pretty good, too. We just didn't hit the ball."

Big Spring was without the services of regular center-fielder Jay Pirkle who missed the game because of a death in his family.

JOB-SHARERS — Kay Lynne Brown, left, and Mary Henson, above, share the same full time position at Cap Rock Electric in Stanton. Job-sharing is a new employment concept in the business world. The concept is advantageous for young working mothers with pre-school children like Kay Lynne and Mary.

Job sharing

Program makes possible for Stanton women to split job

By TINA STEFFEN
Lifestyle Editor

A recent trend in the business world is practiced right in Stanton — job sharing.

Kay Lynne Brown and Mary Henson share a full time position as operations clerk in the Billings and Operations Departments of Cap Rock Electric. Each works one-half the time sharing the responsibilities, salary and fringe benefits of one position.

Before this setup began, Kay Lynne was on maternity leave for the birth of her second child. She had worked full time since 1972 and after the birth of her first child, and had 11 years in the company. When she began her six-week maternity leave, she intended to return and work full time after her second child's birth. Toward the last two weeks, she felt drawn to stay at home with this child.

"This time I wanted to be home and be mother with this one," she said. "I really didn't want to quit my job, but I wanted to have more say in raising my children and not be an after 5 mother." Kay Lynne didn't witness many of the firsts in her first child's life, including her first step. She wanted to see them with this one.

After much soul searching, Kay Lynne decided to submit her resignation. Once she made her decision, she felt good about quitting and looked forward to spending more time with her children.

KNOWING THAT LOSING Kay meant losing another experienced employee, the company sought a new approach to the situation. The company decided to implement a job-sharing idea suggested by the Mitchell County Extension Agent, Katherine Burch, wife of Roger Burch, a Cap Rock employee.

Mrs. Burch studied the concept of job sharing for her Master's thesis at Texas Tech University. "We had heard about it being used in other places and thought we would try it here," Burch said. He added that the reasons for its use in other places were similar to the situation in Stanton — family. The wife wants to work half a day and spend the rest of the day tending to family needs. "It just seemed to fit the situation," Burch said.

According to an article in the company's newspaper, "Cap Rock Electric News," Cap Rock lost some good employees during the last 40 years due to the desire to spend more time with families, especially with children and primarily those of pre-school age.

When the situation occurs, the company and employee are both at a loss. The company loses an experienced employee and the employee experiences financial loss. Many of the employees expressed the desire to work part-time yet have more time to do other things.

Some advantages listed by other firms in the country involved in job-sharing or split-job programs include: more flexibility; improvement in employee morale; reduction of absenteeism; encouragement of employees to stay on the job; insurance of job continuity if one employee leaves the position; increased job rewards by sharing pressures, problems and successes; the ability to maintain relationships with co-workers; and increased productivity due to friendly competition and less fatigue. "The shared-job concept has greater appeal than a part-time job by making the participants feel more like 'part of the team'" the article said.

Burch and Richard Lewis, Kay Lynne's supervisor, asked Kay Lynne if she would be willing to try job sharing to meet both the company's and her needs. "I talked it over with David (her husband), and we agreed it might be a good plan rather than give up my 11 years of service," she said. "I didn't want to give up my friends and I enjoyed my job and my supervisor."

"I was afraid I'd get bored in the mother role. What if I got bored and wanted to come back to work?" The position was divided into two shifts, morning and afternoon, with each one lasting four hours a day. "This works well with babysitters," Kay Lynne said. The benefits are split in half; however, the employees have to pay a little more for insurance for their dependents' coverage. "The whole idea was to have it cost what the Cooperative pays for one employee," she said.

Then the search was on to find the other person to fill the rest of the position. Mary Henson, also of Stanton, was in a similar situation as Kay Lynne. "I always worked before I had Eric. I wouldn't want to work full time with a baby," Mary said. Mary filled the position and began work in mid-November. She has been in the position five months.

"I think there's a lot of women who don't work that if given this opportunity to do it would," Mary said. Kay Lynne works from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. and Mary works from 1 to 5 p.m. Another employee they share their office with helps the two coordinate their work with each other. Rhonda Barnes hears and sees everything Kay Lynne does in the morning. When Kay Lynne gets ready to leave at noon, she leaves notes for Mary and reviews with Rhonda what Mary needs to handle. When Mary comes in at 1 p.m., Rhonda passes the messages to her. Mary completes the job tasks. The women handle credit checks and customer complaints.

This arrangement has worked well with both women's schedules. "My child sleeps late in the morning. And I'm not a person to get up and get going," Mary said. The only disadvantage the setup has for Mary is that it splits her day up if she wanted to go into Midland or anywhere else. But for the most part, the schedule works well for her.

Kay Lynne will be able to witness the firsts with her youngest child now. "Someone else saw Brittany take her first step," Kay Lynne said. "I missed out on so much with Brittany."

Both women said Stanton has few part-time jobs and that a person would have to go to Midland to get a part-time job. With the travel, time and fuel involved, a part-time job in Midland was not worth the effort to the two women. "Most part-time jobs do not have the benefits that this arrangement has," both said.

"The only people that it (the arrangement) confused were the service men because they were used to Kay Lynne's voice (on the dispatch radio)," Mary said.

Depending on the success of this initial job-sharing program, other positions in the Cooperative may be considered for similar work-sharing potential. The program has lasted five months, and according to the two women, it has been successful so far.

Father's book recalls Holocaust

Klila Caplan's eyes dance as she remembers the past. Her story, which begins with World War II, unfolds like an action thriller, keeping the listener hanging on to every word. It is a dramatic contrast to her life here in Big Spring, where her husband, Dr. Brian Caplan, is a physician at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Klila's background is not unlike that of many descendants of European Jews who suffered the atrocities of World War II. But watching Klila tell the story, it becomes real and closer to home. Her eyes mirror the pain, the tears, and the triumphs her family has weathered.

Her father, Moshe Furman, was born in Dolhinov, Poland, in 1913. Here he grew up and attended Jewish day schools, married a Jewish woman and began his own family. When the war began and his village was invaded by German soldiers, Furman's immediate family was murdered by German executioners during the early years of World War II.

Furman tells the story in a book he wrote for his children. "I hid Henya my wife with my daughter Rachel... all in the cellar and in order to disguise it I put a carpet on the door and on it put a table... I went out into the street to see what was happening."

Furman bribed a guard and managed to crawl under a barbed wire fence. Other guards began firing at him as he ran toward another village. He was looking for a safe refuge for his wife and daughter.

Before he could return the Nazis and peasants working for the German soldiers began a mass execution of Jews in Furman's village which continued for four days. The executioners found his wife and daughter and murdered them. Also killed were his mother and in-laws. Two thousand people died.

Grief-stricken and wandering without his family, Furman was on his own with no weapons. He attempted to join the Polish partisan ranks. The partisans were a guerrilla movement battling the Germans with weapons they could steal or make. They roamed through the forests and hid in ditches and under piles of branches. The high commander of the partisans had been Furman's employer and "He was fond of dad," Mrs. Caplan said. "He let dad join."

The partisans decided to attack the Germans in Furman's village and prepared maps and marked houses where soldiers were staying. Furman carried an ax and cut telephone wires going into the village. The partisans attacked but were driven back and lost one of their generals to the Germans. Another general was severely wounded and had to be carried away. Furman's group scattered into the forest and regrouped later. For months the partisans roamed the countryside, never staying in the same place for more than 12 hours. They ate what food they could find and suffered from the cold.

When the Russians turned against the Germans in the latter part of the war they began dropping supplies to the partisans. Furman remained cold and ill while living in the forests, but he survived.

At the end of the war, he settled in Minsk, Russia, where he met his second wife, the late Lisa Volman, whose husband had been murdered by German soldiers. The couple agreed to marry "on the condition that we would go to Israel." Furman related in his book.

Mrs. Caplan said her parents smuggled themselves back into Poland, where they met with other friends and partisan survivors. This group made its way into Germany where the German Jewish Agency was promoting illegal immigration to Jewish Palestine.

Young children, old people and pregnant women were being taken out of the country on boats. Mrs. Caplan's mother was pregnant and the family was allowed to board the "Exodus," which "was a terrible boat," Mrs. Caplan said. "It was a freight boat. The people made bunks on it and squeezed 4,500 people on it."

The Exodus sailed to the shores of Israel followed by menacing English naval cruisers ordered to frighten the Jews back to Germany. But the Jews ignored the English orders to turn back, saying "they'd be drowned or let into Israel."

When the English soldiers attempted to force the ship to leave the Israeli shores, "There was a physical fight. The people threw potatoes and cans at the English boats. At one point, an English ship rammed the Exodus."

Because they were not allowed to disembark, the Exodus sailed on and the passengers had no idea of their destination. They sailed across the Strait of Gibraltar, around Spain, all the way to North Germany.

At this point, the passengers "were exhausted and couldn't put up a struggle. They were forced off the boat." Mrs. Caplan was born right after her mother got off the Exodus. Her parents were put into detention camps.

Eight months later, in May of 1948, Israel was declared an independent nation and Jewish immigrants were freely allowed into the country. Mrs. Caplan was taken by her parents into Israel in October of 1948.

She grew up in Tel Aviv and attended Israeli schools. Her primary language was Hebrew and she was also fluent in Yiddish.

All Israeli youths are required to serve in the Army, and Klila joined at 18. She was assigned to the Intelligence division and worked in the general headquarters in 1967. It was during this period that the Six-Day War erupted between the Arabs and Israelis. Klila found herself working down the hall from Defense Minister Moshe Dyan and Chief of Staff Yitzhak Rabin.

"It was an exciting time," Klila concedes, but "We were confident (of victory) at the time."

After being released from the Army, Klila decided to travel. She remembers her English was very poor and she wanted to visit Europe to "polish my English skills." She stopped first in South Africa to visit friends of her family.

Instead of moving on, she discovered "I loved it there. The people were nice, the weather was nice. Life was very good." She settled in Johannesburg and began working as a secretary for 20th Century Fox offices. Through friends she met her husband, Brian, a native South African, and the two married in June of 1969.

They settled in Stilfontein, the site of two of the largest gold mines in the world. Her husband set up a medical practice and the couple's three sons, Shamir, 12, Liron, 11, and Ilan, 9, were born.

But "the future wasn't clear" in South Africa, Mrs. Caplan said. The family decided to relocate and Caplan began studying medical journals advertising for doctors in the United States.

While in Austin to take American medical exams, Caplan met Dr. Buerk Williams of Malone-Hogan Hospital. Williams convinced Caplan to come to Big Spring to take a look.

"We thought Texas would be a nice place to come to," Mrs. Caplan remembers. "The weather was nice, and the climate was similar to South Africa." Caplan liked what he saw at Malone-Hogan, and the family relocated in November of 1978. Big Spring gradually became home.

Mrs. Caplan spends her days studying accounting at Howard College and working with her children who are actively involved in local schools and are members of the Y.M.C.A. Because her husband maintains grueling hours in his work, "He can never be depended upon around the house. I must always be available."

The Caplans are members of Temple Beth El in Odessa and they drive there once a week to attend services.

Mrs. Caplan's father remains in Tel Aviv, and although he has visited his daughter in Texas, "He will never leave Israel" to relocate in another place. He holds on to the idea that "Israel is the place to be."

Focus on the Family

By NAOMI HUNT
County Extension Agent, H.E.

Women's seminar helps find hidden assets

Discover your hidden assets at the women's seminar Saturday, May 14, in the Tumbleweed Room at Howard College.

The seminar is an annual event sponsored by the Howard County Family Living Committee and Texas Agriculture Extension Service. The program will begin with coffee and registration at 9 a.m. and conclude by 1 p.m.

A varied program has been planned to meet the needs of the women of the 80s.

• Mrs. Nancy Granovsky, Extension Family Resource Management Specialist, will present Financial Management from a woman's perspective. She will discuss managing now, planning for the future, your financial rights and responsibilities as a female.

• Surviving as a single will be presented via a panel discussion. The panels will include viewpoints from widowed, divorced, never married women as well as a sociological psychological perspective.

• Aubrey and Mavis Moody of Aubrey's of Dallas will show how women can emphasize their best features with a practical hairstyle for easy care and maintenance. Mavis will discuss use of makeup to help a woman look her best.

At noon a salad buffet luncheon will be served by the Howard College food service. Women who have found Hidden Assets in their closets will present a style show during the luncheon. Mrs. Laverne Gaskins will narrate the style show. Garments to be modeled have been changed from closet clutter to wardrobe assets through recycling. Models participated in a clothing recycling workshop in March to learn how to recycle clothing in a variety of ways from simple modifications to major make-overs and interweaving wardrobe elements for greater flexibility.

Cost of the seminar will be $6 per person which includes registration and lunch. Advance reservations are required and must be made by May 6. To make reservations, write County Extension Office, Box 790, Big Spring, Texas, 79720, or come by the County Extension Office in the basement of the county courthouse. Make checks payable to Women's Seminar.

For more information, call the Extension office at 267-8469.

All educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic level, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Tidbits

South Pacific applauded

The cast and crew of "SOUTH PACIFIC," performed by the CHORAL DEPARTMENT of BIG SPRING HIGH SCHOOL, did a nice job with their musical April 22 and 23. MICHELLE BOWERS, who played the part Bloody Mary, was excellent. My congratulations to these persons for a job well done. By the way that little chicken surprise was great.

Some of the people I visited with while attending the musical during the Saturday evening performance were LINDA AND BILLY ADAMS, MARTHA POSS, JANICE ROSSON, and LAURA McEWEN.

Congratulations also must go to BILL NEHLS for being presented the Community Service Award sponsored by the J.C. Penney Co. District 8453. The award is presented in each district to an employee displaying outstanding community service and involvement. Bill was selected from all employees in a district comprised of 33 stores representing 33 communities in New Mexico, West Texas and Oklahoma. DON FISHER, store manager of the local J.C. Penney store, presented the award to Bill at Wednesday's Chamber of Commerce board of directors meeting. The award was signed by J.C. MORGENSEN, regional corporate vice president, and K.G. ACKER, district manager of the J.C. Penney Co.

Bill has indeed been involved in our community. He has lived in Big Spring for one year and five months. During this time he chaired the Chamber of Commerce Christmas activities including the production of what may have been the largest parade in Big Spring's history. He also hosted the Arnis Martial Arts Festival, is active in the United Way board of directors, Chamber of Commerce's retail committee and Ambassador Club, and the Administrative Board of First United Methodist Church. He is co-chairman of the Signal Peak Shrine Pro-Am Golf Tournament committee and president of Big Spring Area Jaycees.

In addition to receiving this award, REP. LARRY DON SHAW nominated Bill for the 1983 issue of "Outstanding Young Americans."

County attorney BOB MILLER and MARY VALLI just returned from a week-long Caribbean cruise. And speaking of traveling, ROSE THOMAS, travel agent for Skipper Travel, returned Wednesday from a week in Rio de Janeiro. She says she went with some other travel agents to check out the hotels there. I'll bet she took in the sights and had some fun too. Certainly it couldn't be just all business on a trip like that.

RAUL and SARA RUBIO were given a trip to Mexico from their children and grandchildren for their 25th anniversary April 19. The couple plan to take the two-week trip sometime in June. The couple's children are LARRY AND PAT MENDOZA, RAUL JR. AND BRENDA RUBIO, TONY RUBIO AND MARVIN RUBIO. The couple's grandchildren are STEPHANIE MENDOZA and MONICA RUBIO.

Wedding

MRS. MARK MCCONNELL
...formerly Kathleen Anderson

Anderson-McConnell

The Baptist Temple Church was the setting Tuesday evening for the wedding of Kathleen Anderson and Mark McConnell. The Rev. Mike Patrick, pastor, officiated at the ceremony which was conducted before an altar decorated with spring arrangements of the wedding colors of pastels.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Anderson, Colorado City. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward McConnell, Houston.

Mary Anne Hastin was pianist. During the ceremony, a tape-recorded song written and sung by the bride was played.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown covered with lace and lined with acetate taffeta. The gown featured a stand-up neckline and the front yoke was trimmed with Venice lace. The gown featured a ruffled bodice. The tiered skirt formed a chapel length train. A long veil with seed pearls and a blusher completed the ensemble.

For something old, the bride carried an old handkerchief with her bouquet and wore an old penny in her shoe. Something new was her wedding gown. Something borrowed was her skirt and handkerchief and something blue was her garter.

The bride's bouquet was made by the bride and featured yellow and pink rosebuds with white daisies and lace.

Jane Miller, Westbrook, was maid of honor. Brian McConnell, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Vic Blackburn was an usher.

A reception followed the ceremony. A white, two-layered cake with yellow and pink rosebuds and white daisies was served. The bridegroom's table featured a Hersey bar cake.

The bride is a graduate of Westbrook High School and attended Howard College. She is employed at the Baptist Temple Church Wee Care Center as assistant director.

The bridegroom graduated from Lubbock Coronado High School and Howard College and works for American Muffler.

Following a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the couple will reside at 506 Nolan.

Sources of consumer information available

Most persons have experienced buying a product and then finding out later that another brand might have been a better choice. But the frustration of a poor purchase decision can often be avoided by seeking out information before buying.

Many consumers want product information but do not know where to find it easily and in convenient form. In Howard County, several sources for reliable consumer information is available to all.

The County Extension Office in the Howard County Courthouse basement offers free Extension Service Fact Sheets which include objective information about the features, use, care and operating procedures of various products. Some of the more popular Fact Sheets include those on microwave ovens, clothing and convenience foods.

Fact sheets are prepared by home economics specialists on the basis of the latest research information concerning that product. Although brand names and prices are not included on Extension fact sheets, they do provide general guidelines which can help in purchase decisions.

The public library is another good source of information. Magazines such as "Consumer Reports," "Consumer's Research" and other specialized publications give brand name and price comparisons along with quality ratings. The librarian can direct persons to the consumer magazines available in the library.

Stores also can be a source of information. Manufacturers often provide information pamphlets on major appliances, for example. Although these materials are also meant to be advertisements, consumers can compare the feature of products with this information. Use and care booklets and warranties available with the products also provide valuable information.

For information about a firm, check with the Better Business Bureau. The BBB provides consumers with information on products and selling practices and provides an opportunity to mediate grievances between consumers and sellers.

Effective use of product information by large numbers of consumers can also have a disciplinary effect on sellers, encouraging them to offer better products or better terms to other consumers.

For further material about consumer information, contact the Howard County Extension Office.

Dear Abby

Nosebleed triggers love affair for woman

DEAR ABBY: When I was seven month's pregnant with my fifth child, I had a severe nosebleed, so my obstetrician sent me to the hospital's emergency room where I was treated by a very nice young doctor for approximately six hours. He made me feel so good, I hated to leave him. He and I are exactly the same age (30).

It's been four months now, and I realize that I am very much in love with this doctor. I don't know if he's married, has a girlfriend or anything else about him. All I know is that I dream about him every night and I can hardly wait to go to sleep because these dreams are so realistic and wonderful.

Three weeks ago I wrote him a letter to thank him for his kindness to me. I told him how I felt about him and asked him if he would like to spend a day with me. I told him I was married and had a family and I didn't expect any commitments, but if he was interested to call or write. I gave him certain times to call and an address that would be discreet.

So far, I haven't heard from him. Do you think he's still considering it? Or should I consider myself rejected?

DEAR IN LOVE: Don't consider yourself rejected. Just assume that the young doctor wisely decided against having an affair with a married woman.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 44-year-old professional married man. Our children are grown and away at school. My wife and I have grown apart over the years, and several years ago, I fell in love with a girl 17 years my junior.

After several years of a beautiful love affair, my wife and children learned about his affair. My wife became panic-stricken! She has lost 40 pounds and has changed back to the beautiful woman I married 20 years ago. Now I find that I have "fallen in love" with her all over again. However, I am no less in love with my younger girlfriend.

Now that each knows about the other, I am expected to make a choice. How does a man who loves two beautiful women choose between them when they both love him very much?

TORN BETWEEN TWO LOVES
DEAR TORN: Choose the wife. It will be less strain on your conscience — not to mention your pocketbook.

What to do with basil

Probably everyone has heard of basil, but not everyone knows what to do with it. Basil is an easily grown herb that is used in sauces, soups, and with tomatoes, and it is the main ingredient of the mouth-watering pesto, an elegant uncooked green sauce to pasta.

Basil is not really that fussy about soil, light, or water. Like a good friend, basil enjoys attention, but forgives neglect. Basil likes full sun, but it does well in partial shade, too, and can take dry spells and wet spells with little problem.

Basil doesn't have much of a bug problem either. It seems to shrug off the many insects its spicy fragrance attracts. In the spring, pests sometimes nibble at the tender edges of the leaves, but as the summer wears on, the vigorous young plants usually outgrow the pests.

During the spider mite season, you may have some problems, but those can often be taken care of by spraying the undersides of the leaves with soapy water as needed.

Though basil will grow under poor conditions, it is better to plant it as follows for the best results.

Prepare a seed bed in the spring that has been enriched with manure and 5-10-5 fertilizer. You can plant seed 1/2 inch deep in rows, or broadcast the seed and cover it with 1/4 to 1/2 inch of soil. Thin the plants to 12 inches apart, and don't forget to save the thinnings for cooking.

If given room, basil will grow to 18 inches, and some varieties even grow to 36 inches high. You should keep the young plants weeded, but as basil grows taller, it tends to shade out anything below it, so it almost weeds itself.

As the plants and you need for basil grow, you can pull off the outer leaves and stems, and new growth will constantly follow. For maximum production of leafy shoot, pinch off the clusters of white flower buds that form on the ends of the stems. Even if you don't pinch these buds or thin the plants, you will probably still end up with more basil than you can use.

Now, what do you do with mass quantities of basil? Give it to friends, eat it with tomatoes, or hang it up and dry it for your herb shelf. Or better yet, look through your cookbooks for a recipe for the delicious pesto, and then make all your freezer can hold.

Dr. Donohue

Reader worried about dizziness

Dear Dr. Donohue: I am a fitness enthusiast and have managed to bring my resting pulse rate down to 60 beats a minute. My question is this: Given my previous rate (over 75), could this sudden low heart rate produce a low blood pressure and account for the periodic episodes of dizziness I have begun having when I get up from a laying position? Have you ever heard of this happening? — F.W.

It's doubtful that an exercise would do what you say. When you exercise the heart, the pulse rate drops. That's the goal, and each remaining beat is a stronger one. Heart rates much lower than 60 per minute are seen in athletes (as low as 35) without affecting their blood pressure adversely. Your heart rate (same as pulse rate) does affect blood pressure, but other mechanisms — such as the greater force of the beat, which as I said, is a training goal — keep the pressure up as the heart slows.

You should, therefore, have yourself examined to find if your blood pressure really is too low and to determine if there is some other cause of your recent bouts of dizziness. The condition you describe is orthostatic hypotension.

Dear Dr. Donohue: My husband and I are concerned because we have heard stories of young athletes who have suddenly collapsed and died during heavy exertion. How common is this? How can a parent know in time to prevent such a tragedy from occurring? — Mrs. E.G.I.

I have no statistics, but it is a common occurrence. However, I can understand the anxiety those stories must have stirred in you. When a young athlete dies of a heart attack, the cause is almost always some congenital defect in his heart. The condition most often referred to in connection with this kind of tragedy is hypertrophic cardiomyopathy (HCM). Often, there is a family history of heart disease and the youngster himself often has displayed earlier signs of such a problem — chest pain, fainting spells and ease of fatigue.

Very often such problems serve to rule out athletic participation early enough in the young person's career. Parents should be aware of such possibilities and coaches should be alert to the symptoms. If either suspects a young man or woman has HCM, a doctor should be the one to confirm it through closer examination of the heart with echocardiography. Also, there is a heart murmur that is characteristic of hypertrophic cardiomyopathy. Dear Dr. Donohue: Can an elderly man build up muscles in his upper body by isometric or other exercise? — J.J.

Sure, if health permits it. But, if you have heart or blood pressure problems, then you would not want to be pumping iron. And you wouldn't be able to build up your muscles to the extent that a growing teenager would. The youngster is in a period of rapid growth. He's anabolic. The hormones that influence muscle growth are surging through his body. You do not have the same amounts of those body-building reserves. But you can still build yourself up.

Carol Cooper representing club at Abilene meeting

Carol Cooper, a 1982 Big Spring High School graduate, was selected as a 1983 debutante to represent the Ever Ready Civic and Art Club at the convention of the Stokes-Parker District Association of Women's Clubs, held in Abilene this weekend.

Miss Cooper is a Howard College student studying toward a degree in elementary education. Hobbies are music, singing and reading.

She is a member of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church and has served as president of the youth department and Sunday School teacher. She is vice president of the young adult choir.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Cooper. She will compete with women from Abilene, Sweetwater, Midland, Odessa, San Angelo, McCombs and Lubbock for the title of "1983 Debutante of the Year."

Mrs. Barbara Bess, president of the Ever Ready Civic and Art Club, is a delegate at the convention.

Theme of the convention is "A New Beginning." Several activities were scheduled for this weekend, with events to conclude with a morning worship service today at the New Light Baptist Church.

The Ever Ready Civic and Art club will compete for trophies for best club report for the year, including civic projects and participation, charity support and art participation.

Big Spring club women serving in district offices include Mrs. Louisiana Jones, art chairperson; Mrs. Lizzie Mae Turnipseed, scholarship committee; Mrs. Naomi Graham, assistant chairman of the finance committee; and Mrs. Essie L. Person, parliamentarian and past president council. The district gives $1,000 scholarships to two senior girls each year at the convention, in alphabetical order by cities. Big Spring will be the 1984 scholarship recipient and will be host city for the 1984 annual convention.

CAROL COOPER represents club

Etiquette Notes
SHOULD AND SHOULDN'TS FOR SHOWERS

Bridal showers are really parties, and as such need not be formal. There are, however, some formalities of etiquette to note: The bride shouldn't give her own shower, nor should her mother. It may, however, be held at the bride's home as a "surprise." Other family members may give the shower if they are members of the wedding party. Normally, it is up to the maid (or matron) of honor to organize a shower.

Only people invited to the wedding should be invited to the shower. If, however, it is a "family-only" wedding, a shower can be held for friends.

If only a single bridal shower is given, both friends and relatives should be invited. If the invitation list is large, however, this can be broken down into smaller groups. A family-only shower is often good for letting the bride's and groom's families get to know each other.

Everything about your wedding is special. Your experts at Blum's are here to help you with all your Bridal Registry & Wedding Ring needs.

Businesses support charities

Despite a difficult economy, American business is maintaining its support of charities, according to the chairman of one firm's contributions. More than 270 organizations in 13 states are sharing Emhart's 1983 outlay of $787,555, an increase of 3 1/2 percent over grants made by the firm in 1982. What makes a 1983 wedding different from a 1963 wedding? Here at THE ACCENT SHOPPE we suggest you give a little thought to the many modern options available to you that were unheard of only a few decades ago. For instance, how about videotaping your wedding? It's one of the most important days of your life, after all. If you do not own a video machine, you can rent the necessary equipment through the company that makes the recordings. And what a special gift it would make for close friends and relatives. Do give it some thought — and rejoice in our 1980's technology!

Interest Rates Going Up... Or Down?

These days nobody knows for sure. But one thing is certain, whatever happens, First Federal can provide a means for you to make the most of your money.

If you think interest rates will go up, First Federal has Money Fund Accounts or short-term certificates that provide early maturities... giving you the option of withdrawal if rates escalate.

If you think interest rates will continue to fall in the future, First Federal has Money Market Certificates with long-term, fixed rates that will safely lock up high interest rates now. And, if you like, interest from these can be distributed to your First Federal savings or checking account. With the safety of FS LIC insured funds, you can't go wrong whether you choose long-term or short-term certificates at First Federal Savings.
