Herald plans to publish special history of county

The Big Spring Herald will publish a 128-page pictorial history of Howard County this fall and is seeking old photographs from county residents for possible inclusion in the publication.

"We are seeking old photographs from members of the community," said Herald Advertising Manager Guy Huffman. "This will offer members of the community the opportunity to have photographs published that have never before been reproduced."

More than 250 photographs will be included in the book, which will be printed on archival paper and bound in a leatherette cover.

Huffman said a logging and indexing system developed by the book publisher assures the safeguarding of the photographs.

Pre-publication cost is $24.95 for the first 500 copies. After that, the cost will be $34.95.

A limited edition also will be offered — a one-time printing of a deluxe edition that will include only 100 copies. The limited edition will carry a custom bookplate and will be bound in a genuine leather cover.

For more information, contact Huffman at 263-7331.

Center sets ceremonies

Ceremonies for the grand opening of the Big Spring State Hospital Downtown Mental Health Center will be May 27.

Scheduled to appear during the grand opening of the center — the former Southwestern Bell building on Fourth and Main streets — are State Reps. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, and David Counts, D-Knox City, and former State Sen. Ray Farabee. Other out-of-town guests are expected as well, said Johnnie Lou Avery, coordinator of the event.

For more information, contact Avery at 263-1451.

911 board schedules Thursday meeting

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The board of directors of the Howard County 911 Emergency Telephone District will meet at 5 p.m. Thursday to discuss mistakes on a May 8 call in which a heart attack victim died.

It is the only item on the agenda, said 911 Director Carl Dorton. The meeting was moved from a usual noon meeting time and will be at the Big Spring City Council meeting room at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

"At this particular time there's a lot of discussion that needs to take place," board member C. Roy Wright said of the time change.

City and county representatives are expected to be at the meeting to discuss possible changes to the 911 calltaking system, which operates out of the Big Spring Police Department using police dispatchers as calltakers.

"We're going to have to come together and work on it," said Mark Sheedy, grandson of the victim and a member of the Big Spring City Council. "I haven't really put together what I want to say yet."

"I hope it will be a productive meeting," said Sheriff A.N. Standard, who said a representative from the sheriff's office will be at the meeting.

A spokeswoman from the police department was checking this morning to see if the police department will have a representative at the meeting.

Lack of address information is blamed in part for Aurelia Sheedy, 87, waiting 18 minutes for help May 8 as she suffered a fatal heart attack.

Sheedy possibly could have received help in less than two minutes if the address was entered in the computer system as it should have. Officials say the missing address should have been detected during a previous 911 call in January.

Since Sheedy's death, officials have been looking closely at the 911 system.

Issues raised include closer scrutiny of all addresses in the system, implementation of a central dispatch station separate from the police station, staffing and training of calltakers to handle medical trauma emergencies over the phone, implementation of a 911 computer printer in the sheriff's office as a backup and the manpower and funding for any changes.

Welk and band played Settles here during '30s

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

"I'm happy to be here at the wonderful, wonderful Hotel Settles," band director Lawrence Welk may have said during his two-year stint in Big Spring.

The world-famous master of "champagne music" spent the early days of the Great Depression playing dinner music at what was then the grandest ballroom in West Texas.

Welk died Sunday night in his home in Santa Monica, Calif. He was 89.

In the early days, playing early evening dinner music paid for room and board at the hotel. Welk and his combo would then make money from other bookings in town, said Joe Pickle, who spent most of this time, 1929-1931, away at school.

During this time, Welk established a wide clientele, even playing some of the rougher clubs on the outskirts of town, he said.

Welk came to Big Spring at the request of Adolph Swartz, who met Welk in Abilene and later became his booking agent. Welk had been working Abilene, but was having difficulty finding bookings. Swartz, who later opened a women's fashion store under the same name, became fast friends with Welk, according to his son, Andrew Swartz of Midland.

Later, Welk had his own room in a now demolished building near the 600 block of Main Street, said Tommy Hart, who became friends with the gregarious descendant of German immigrants.

"He was very approachable and he stuck by the old music," Hart said.

After his career grew, Welk would occasionally return to the area, but could not play Big Spring. ● PLEASE SEE WELK, PAGE 7A

Board trims $60.8 million from budget

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders are getting closer to their goal of whacking $300 million from the state's budget.

On Tuesday, the Legislative Budget Board found $60.8 million worth cutting, leaving lawmakers $12.7 million short of their requirement. Last month, the board axed $226.5 million from Texas' $60 billion budget.

Tuesday's reduction increases the Budget Board's reductions to $287.3 million.

The 10-member panel is headed by Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis, and includes an equal number of Senate and House members.

Through a $43.3 million reimbursement from the federal government for matching funds on medical payments, and $900,000 in cuts by the General Services Commission, the board secured $44.2 million.

An additional $16.6 million in savings resulted from productivity savings plans from several state agencies.

The board's only other vote Tuesday was a denial of a request by the University of Texas at Arlington for $100,000 to be used for an urban studies institute.

Board members also were warned by staff members that Texas may face a $343 million shortfall in state funding for public schools in the 1993 budget.

"That's a very preliminary estimate," said staffer John O'Brien, who presented the five-page report.

"It's too early to make a good estimate. Preliminary or not, it's the best we have to go on. It could be off by $100 million ... higher or lower," he said.

O'Brien said the figures were released to help school districts begin planning their budgets.

Another issue raised by board staffers was the problem of state inmates backed up in county jails. Staff members said that by October the state may fall short in paying for the housing of some of these inmates.

Perot discloses extensive finances

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas businessman Ross Perot revealed a glimpse of where his $3 billion self-made fortune is invested. In the biggest financial disclosure form ever filed by a presidential candidate, Perot reported extensive holdings in tax-free state and municipal bonds from Hawaii to Massachusetts.

Perot hid his true wealth in a filing with the Federal Election Commission required of all presidential candidates, declining to disclose dollar amounts but checking an "over $1 million" box on 174 separate entries.

Perot's 123-page report on his assets was released by the FEC on Tuesday. He listed his name as "Henry R. Perot" on the form that called for a first name and middle initial. Under office being sought, Perot wrote, simply, "president."

The report indicates a range of income for Perot from an absolute low of $26.6 million annually to more than $131 million. Even the high figure is below private estimates that Perot earns $3 million a week or more.

The report reflects only income from assets, not salary or other sources, so the figures reported are likely only a fraction of his earnings.

Occupying a commanding position in Perot's bulging portfolio are hundreds of millions of dollars in tax-free state and municipal bonds.

Perot's wealth previously has been estimated at between $2.5 billion and $3.5 billion. Perot has not disputed these estimates and his FEC filings are consistent with such wealth.

The document reveals Perot is a relatively cautious investor, putting most of his money in low-risk bonds and governmental securities even though he invested some funds in higher-risk stock-option accounts. He also dabbled in foreign currency markets and invested heavily in emerging electronics and computer enterprises.

He reported substantial real-estate holdings throughout Texas, but mostly in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Bush, Clinton grab primary wins

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Independent Ross Perot has barged in on the presidential primaries, gaining write-in support among both Democrats and Republicans as Bill Clinton and President Bush both won easily in Oregon and Washington.

The size of Perot's write-in vote wasn't clear, but the message was: The third man in the race is likely to be a problem for both major-party candidates.

And with eight primaries to go, including the grand finale in California and five other states on June 2, the write-in idea could spread into a new sort of protest vote.

The primaries next Tuesday are in Kentucky and in Clinton's Arkansas home. Idaho holds a Republican primary and a Democratic preference vote that does not allocate delegates.

In Oregon, with half the precincts reporting early today, Clinton had 51 percent of the vote to 33 percent for Jerry Brown, his only campaigning rival.

In Washington, with nearly all precincts reporting, Clinton had 51 percent to Brown's 29 percent. But that primary was just for show; it did not bind the 71 Washington delegates who are being apportioned in caucuses and conventions.

Clinton was winning 30 delegates in Oregon. That pushed his count to 1,856.5 of the 2,145 he needs for nomination, with nobody close and the majority within reach.

Brown was winning 17 delegates, but he's too far behind to have a chance anymore. His count puts him fourth, behind uncommitted

Clinton star of Demo fund-raiser

AUSTIN (AP) — The United States needs a leader with a plan to work with Congress to turn around a country in "profound trouble," Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton says.

"Both parties in Washington seem locked in paralysis, nothing seems to get done, and out here in the country... our people are as divided as they have been in a long, long time," he said.

"We need a new economic policy, we need political reform and we need to come together as one people again," he told a crowd of about 500 at a Tuesday fund-raiser that netted him an estimated $400,000.

That made it the largest fund-raiser in Texas so far for the Arkansas governor, said Dallas mortgage banker Jess Hay, who coordinated the event.

Hay said most of the money would be used for the June 2 California primary.

Gov. Ann Richards introduced Clinton as someone who would be "the first people's president... in a very long time."

Clinton urged an election concentrating on "the real problems of real people."

Jobs must be created through investment and education, he said. Clinton cited the need for a change in the tax code to give people incentives to invest, and for investing more tax dollars in the infrastructure, education and environmental protection.

As for political reform, he said the influence of political action committees should be reduced and the cost of campaigns cut.

Clinton also decried the lack of the Democratic presidential nomination. The poll, taken for Time and Cable News Network, showed Perot as the choice of 33 percent.

Twenty-eight percent backed Bush, and 24 percent supported Clinton. The survey of 917 registered voters was conducted May 13-14

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Moviemaker Spike Lee says he went hat in hand to some wealthy and prominent blacks to finish his film about Malcolm X.

The donors include Bill Cosby, Oprah Winfrey, Janet Jackson, Prince, Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson, Lee said Tuesday.

"The amount is secret," he said at a news conference to observe the 67th anniversary of the slain Black Muslim leader's birth. "The most important thing is that some black folks with money got together and came to the rescue."

The more than three-hour epic ran $5 million over budget earlier this year, prompting a bonding company to seize control of production. Lee said he used the donations for post-production work. The film opens in November.

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — The number of people lining up for tickets to "The Tonight Show" has swelled with the approach of Johnny Carson's final show.

"There's an enormous anticipation that somehow his life is going to be different after Friday," said NBC spokesman Mark Kern.

"Tonight Show" tickets are dispensed free on a first-come, first-served basis. Carson's final program is by invitation only.

Jay Leno takes over on Monday.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Pulitzer Prize-winning author James Michener has given the University of Texas 172 prints by 20th century American artists.

The works were valued at $15 million.

Previously, Michener and his wife, Mari, donated 120 works of art and money that the school used to buy 84 paintings. An exhibit of 46 paintings was scheduled to open today. Michener is a professor emeritus at the school.

"My wife and I were interested in the total sweep of American paintings in the period we were collecting, 1902 to 1992," he said. "This exhibition shows to good effect several dozen of those works that gave us intense pleasure."

Jessie Hite, acting director of the university's Huntington Art Gallery, estimated that the 376 art works in the Michener Collection are worth $20 million.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Soul singer Billy Preston is free on $25,000 bail after pleading innocent to sex, drug and assault charges involving a 16-year-old boy.

Preston, 45, entered the plea Monday. A hearing was set for June 26.

The entertainer was arrested in August after the teen-ager told sheriff's deputies Preston showed him sexually explicit photos and tried to assault him.

Preston was charged with offenses including cocaine possession and sexual battery.

He could get six years in prison if convicted.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Rock singer Melissa Etheridge has established a scholarship for performing artists at her old high school.

The scholarship at Leavenworth High School is in memory of her father, who died of cancer in August.

"He bought me my first guitar and he would come with me to bars in the area when I played because I was under-age," she said Tuesday.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Bill Cosby joked to University of Maryland graduates that they should sue their alma mater because it has left them unprepared for the menial jobs they are likely to get upon graduation.

"There are no courses in valet parking, waitressing and grinding coffee," he said at Tuesday's commencement. "You people are not prepared. You are well-educated and you look cute, but that's not going to do it."

The comedian was awarded an honorary doctorate.

Records show DISD has hired many felons

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas school district has launched a review of its hiring practices after an investigation by The Dallas Morning News revealed the district unknowingly employed dozens of felons, including murderers, robbers and drug pushers.

The Dallas Independent School District also is examining the personnel files of 185 employees the newspaper revealed as felons and is preparing to fire many of them.

Superintendent Marvin Edwards said the DISD will begin semi-annual record checks of all employees.

"We'll have to do random checks," Edwards said. "We'll have to be checking all the time. That's a policy we'll have to consider because we certainly need to make sure that our environment is clean of felons."

Edwards said the district may need to find more methods of checking the backgrounds of new employees.

The Morning News began its computer review last winter after an elementary school teacher was charged with indecency with a child. A check of county records showed that the teacher, Freddie Carmichael, had two previous convictions for sex-related crimes that the school district was unaware of.

The newspaper, in a copyright story today, reported that its investigation found that at least 185 DISD employees had been convicted of one or more felonies in Dallas County or had received probation through deferred judgement on a felony charge.

Forty-seven of those employees have worked inside classrooms as teachers, teacher aides or substitutes, district records show.

The school district is in the process of firing at least 49 employees with criminal records who were identified when the Morning News asked to see their personnel files.

At least 25 of those employees have requested hearings to appeal their cases. Seven people were found not to be active employees, though their personnel records don't reflect that, district officials said.

The district is still reviewing the remaining cases, which involve employees who completed probation and had their charges set aside or dismissed by a judge, the newspaper reported.

Since September 1989, state law has required the school district to make criminal record checks on all new employees.

The largest group of the 185 employees identified by the Morning News + 58 people + had been convicted of or had been ordered to serve a non-adjudicated probation for some type of welfare fraud.

Thirty-three employees had a drug charge for which they were convicted or received deferred judgment. Ten employees were convicted or placed on non-adjudicated probation for robbery.

Eight employees had an aggravated assault charge.

In two cases, the district employed people charged with murder. A custodian who was hired in October 1989 was awaiting trial on a murder charge at the time, worked only three days, and subsequently was convicted and sentenced to 40 years in prison in May 1990.

In the other case, a substitute cafeteria worker hired last August had a 1981 conviction for capital murder. The district has moved to fire him.

Most people with criminal histories checked by the newspaper misrepresented their records when hired by the school district, and the district didn't discover their false answers, personnel files show.

To compile a list of school district employees with criminal histories, the Morning News made a computer-assisted comparison of the district's personnel records for the 1991-92 school year with felony prosecutions by the Dallas County District Attorney's Office since 1981.

Texas man executed

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — A Rio Grande Valley man who giggled during his murder trial appeared nervous and glassy-eyed as he was put to death early today for raping and killing a teen-age girl nearly eight years ago.

Jesus Romero, 27, was given lethal injection for killing Olga Perales in an attack that involved several other young men. One of his companions also is under a death sentence.

Romero had no final statement. His attorney, Elizabeth Cohen, entered the death chamber and said she loved him. Romero, visibly nervous and appearing near tears, stared intently at her.

Thai demonstrators rampage on main avenue

Four-year-old Maggi Yo carries a sign that reads "Stop Killing People" during a demonstration Tuesday outside the United Nations. Thai nationals are protesting the violence in Thailand.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thousands of protesters venting their rage at the military-backed government rampaged along a major avenue today, smashing street lights and starting fires. They fled when soldiers advanced, and some shooting was heard.

Prime Minister Suchinda Kraprayoon, the former military chief who has been the target of weeks of protests, said today that 40 people had been killed and 600 injured since unrest over his government erupted into violence Sunday. "The government must take drastic measures with the intention to prevent the situation from damaging our loving country," he said in a national broadcast.

Earlier in the day, a member of the widely revered royal family appeared on television for the first time since the uprising began.

"We all want the same thing, which is democracy," Crown Princess Sirindhorn said, appealing for an end to the bloody political strife but refraining from taking sides.

Some Thais cried as they watched the broadcast.

The capital had its first generally quiet night since Sunday, but the streets still seethed with anger over the military's six decades of dominating politics and the use of force against demonstrators. The protesters are demanding that Suchinda resign because he is not an elected member of parliament.

Roughly 10,000 protesters stormed down Rajdamnern Avenue, the same street where soldiers clubbed and fatally shot demonstrators earlier in the week and forced arrested people to crawl on their knees to vans.

Marching with raised fists, protesters flipped over a burned-out bus and set fire to decorative planters and two trucks. Pitch black smoke obscured the nearby Democracy Monument.

About 500 soldiers, some carrying M-60 machine guns, marched slowly down the avenue, and the demonstrators fled. For about 15 minutes, sporadic gunfire rang out on a sidestreet where troops were chasing demonstrators.

Later, an Associated Press reporter saw a large, fresh bloodstain on the street. Two men said a Thai had been shot in the chest by soldiers and taken to a hospital on a motorbike. An army captain who would not give his name said two women were injured.

In the evening, trucks loaded with hundreds more soldiers arrived at the monument. Protesters shouted taunts at them, then dashed off.

Wednesday morning commuters look over a barricade made up of bags of cement on a Bangkok street leading to Ramkhamhaeng University. The barricade was erected by students and others staging an all-night demonstration against the military government.

Protests began after Suchinda, who led a coup last year, was appointed prime minister on April 7 by a coalition of five pro-military parties that emerged as a parliamentary majority in March elections.

An army-run radio station quoted Deputy Prime Minister Narong Wongwan as saying today that Suchinda would not resign and that coalition parties still supported him. Narong heads the Samakkhitham Party.

Thousands of protesters at Bangkok's Ramkhamhaeng University spent Tuesday night listening to denunciations of Suchinda and building barricades of cement bags, metal fences, logs and trucks.

"Get out get out" the protesters yelled today, referring to Suchinda. They passed out photocopied fliers depicting protesters bloodied in the crackdown.

People on motorcycles brought the protesters water, bananas and mangoes. Almost all shops in the area closed early due to a fear of renewed violence.

Alongkorn Sujiratpongsin, a 45-year-old factory manager who joined the students, said he came out because "the military killed the people. It was very cruel."

Congress expected to endorse amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Though it's already the law of the land, Congress was adding its blessing today to the 27th Amendment to the Constitution, ending its ability to vote itself a mid-term pay raise.

The House debated the matter on Tuesday, but held off voting until today so more lawmakers could return to Washington in time to cast what they see as a politically prudent vote.

The amendment, written by founding father James Madison, was among the first ever sent to the states by the very first Congress in 1789. But unlike the quickly ratified Bill of Rights, it languished without ratification until Michigan put it over the top earlier this month, and some have questioned its validity because of the extraordinary time involved.

Senators were also expected to act as early as today to endorse the amendment, which became official when it was published in Tuesday's Federal Register by Don W. Wilson, archivist of the United States.

"Our predecessors in 1789 offered wisdom by which this body can still live in 1992 and beyond," said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, during Tuesday's perfunctory 30-minute House debate.

But one leading constitutional scholar said the action was irrelevant.

"By going through the motions of approving it, Congress might be understood by some to be implying... that it might also have the authority to say no" to some future ratified Constitutional amendment, said Harvard Law School professor Laurence Tribe.

"There's no basis whatever for that kind of Congressional assertion of power."

The amendment states simply: "No law varying the compensation for the services of the senators and representatives shall take effect, until an election of representatives shall have intervened."

Maryland became the first state to ratify the amendment, soon after that first Congress forwarded it, without a deadline. Since then, 39 other states have followed suit. Michigan became the 38th state to ratify on May 7, pushing the amendment over the required three-fourths of the states.

Besides the obvious political motive for voting approval of the amendment, House members said they were seeking to lay to rest any lingering concerns over its validity because of the nearly 203 years it took for ratification.

"It's appropriate for Congress to resolve such doubts," said Rep. Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y.

Inhalers may be banned

Dr. Jeffrey M. Drazen, of Boston, holds an inhaler during a meeting of the American Lung Association Monday in Miami Beach. Lung specialists fear an upcoming ban on chlorofluorocarbons will result in a ban on medical inhaling devices. CFCs are the propellants used to deliver medication deep into the lungs in devices known as metered dose inhalers.

Wrestling with fetal tissue issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans are finding themselves torn between the possibility of a medical research milestone and their loyalty to the anti-abortion cause, their party and their president.

At issue is legislation to authorize federal sponsorship of research on fetal tissue transplantation, said to hold promise for victims of Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, diabetes and other diseases.

President Bush argues that such research should be limited only to fetuses that are involuntarily aborted, on grounds that women might otherwise be encouraged to have abortions simply to produce fetuses for tissue transplants.

"It is a tough fight," said Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn., a member of the House GOP leadership that will be asked to lead the battle to sustain the veto expected from Bush.

Weber and fellow Republican Fred Upton of Michigan agree will be close, but they're on opposite sides.

"A number of members are switching their position to support the bill, and I expect it to be very, very close," said Upton, who favors lifting the ban.

But Rep. Chris Smith, R-N.J., another ban supporter, says the votes are switching the other way.

Perot hasn't yet proved himself

Slowly the country is getting a chance to see past the talk-show aphorisms emanating from Ross Perot, the non-politician of the month.

Perot is hardly the only person in this campaign to claim to be the outside voice of reform. Jerry Brown has tried; Pat Buchanan has tried; even George Bush is trying. But in the past month, Perot, the Texas billionaire, has been the most successful. He will be the fresh face in Washington with the fresh approach, he suggests, the non-sense man of business who will solve problems, not just sit around and appoint commissions to discuss them.

But it has now become clearer that Perot has not thought very deeply about what many of his one-liners suggest — he now promises to go back and rethink some of them. Nor has he been the outsider that he claims to be — he was, in fact, closely connected with the Nixon White House to which he offered, and from which he sought, substantial favors.

A lot of people will say — perhaps correctly — that the attraction of Perot is largely the repulsion of conventional politics, a sign of the exasperation that the nation feels with its leaders.

Others will point out that Perot — who mounted his own private hostage rescue mission, led a campaign for education reform in Texas and built a successful business — has not just been sitting around.

But the sort of activism with which Perot built his business and reputation may not be the kind of activism, one requiring negotiation and compromise, suitable for running a country.

As for Perot's claims to being an outsider, White House memos from the Nixon years say he offered Nixon aides $50 million to improve Nixon's image in a public relations campaign. At the same time, he devoted considerable effort at the White House to trying to get political help from the administration in obtaining federal Medicare claims-processing contracts for his data-processing firm and in solving his problems with the Internal Revenue Service.

He was at the White House constantly, one official said, "the ultimate insider." The offers and requests may not have had any connection, but they certainly belie the image Perot has been cultivating as an outsider.

And then there are the unanswered questions about his own proposals. Perot now concedes that some of his quick-fix answers about things like the deficit were just plain wrong. You can't eliminate the federal deficit, for example, just by cutting fraud and waste and tightening tax collections.

He says he'll refer questions to the country through televised town meetings, says he has a secret plan for fighting drugs, says he admires Singapore (which is run by authoritarian rule), but chafes when reporters question him about details.

Now he says he's going to huddle with himself to figure out some answers. Maybe persuasive answers will be forthcoming, but until they do, Perot has to be considered far more a reflection of the nation's problems than a path to a solution.

Sacramento, Calif., Bee

Ed Carnes should be confirmed

WASHINGTON — On May 17, 1954, when Brown v. Board of Education came down, Ed Carnes was not quite 4 years old. He was 5 when Rosa Parks refused to sit in the back of a bus in Montgomery. He was just past 12 when James Meredith fought his way into the University of Mississippi.

All this came flooding back the other afternoon. I was sitting in the empty hearing room of the Senate Judiciary Committee, going over the file on Carnes, and I fell to musing on the changes in his life and mine. We grew up in different worlds.

For the record, President Bush has nominated Carnes to succeed the venerable Frank Johnson on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit. He is pretty well assured of Senate confirmation, now that the committee has voted 10-4 in his favor, but the nomination merits a friendly boost anyhow. With Sens. Kennedy, Biden, Metzenbaum and Simon against him, who could fail to vote in his favor?

Further for the record: Carnes is 41, a native Alabamian who got his degree at Harvard Law in 1975 and went immediately to work as an assistant attorney general in Montgomery. After four years of handling general trial work, he became chief of the division involved in capital sentences. That has been his specialty ever since.

The NAACP sent two witnesses to testify against his confirmation. Lillian Jackson charged him with "indifference and insensitivity to racial discrimination." George H. Kendall charged him with supporting local Alabama prosecutors who classify prospective jurors as "strong, medium, weak and black." Such a view is "smoking gun evidence" of intentional discrimination.

This adverse testimony was largely discounted by the support of a dozen Southerners, black and white, who have been closely identified with civil rights and desegregation. Carnes has the backing of Sens. Howell Heflin and Richard Shelby, both Democrats, and of Rep. Bill Dickinson, a Republican. Dickinson complained lightly that Carnes has "a dearth of Republican credentials," which is true. He is about as non-political as a man can get in public life.

What set me to musing was Carnes' account of his first jury trial as an assistant attorney general. He was assigned to represent the sheriff of Macon County and his three deputies. They had been charged in a civil suit with violating the civil rights of two plaintiffs by arresting them wrongly.

The interesting thing is that the sheriff and his deputies were black and the plaintiffs were white. "In 1976 it was noteworthy," said Carnes, putting the matter mildly, "to find two white lawyers employed by Alabama to defend four black citizens."

Noteworthy? In my day it would have been unheard of. I was born in 1920, a child of the wholly segregated South. By 1950, thanks to desegregation of the armed forces in World War II, the walls of segregation were beginning to crack. In 1964, with the Civil Rights Act, they would all come tumbling down.

As a reporter in the 1940s, I covered racist judges. One luminary of the police court bench spoke openly of the tough sentences "niggers" could expect from him. By the time Ed Carnes came of age in Alabama, it was very different.

An Alabama judge, Wilson Hayes, tried a divorce case involving a black husband who asked to be awarded the homestead he had brought to his marriage. The husband had fathered a number of children, some of them illegitimate. Judge Hayes offered to award him the property if the man would undergo a vasectomy.

"I felt that attitude had no place in Alabama and no place in the judiciary," Carnes said. He prosecuted charges against the judge that led to his removal from office. In another case, a judge publicly used a racial epithet. After an investigation, Carnes had him removed also.

The world goes round and round. In the 1930s, as a teenager, I would have scoffed at the notion that Alabama ever would have black mayors, black sheriffs, black judges. Today Ed Carnes numbers among his supporters Justice Oscar Adams, who sits on the Alabama Supreme Court, and Judge Charles Price, who sits on the Circuit Court bench in Montgomery.

In the ugly light of a burning city, it is apparent that the United States has a long way to go in race relations. Everyone knows that. But in reflecting on the nomination of Edward Earl Carnes of Montgomery, Ala., I am bound to believe that in his lifetime, and mine, we have come quite a long way.

Getting along with the police

Today, a lesson on how not to get clubbed, beaten, kicked, or otherwise physically put upon by the police:

It's pretty simple, really. Whenever dealing with a law enforcement officer don't argue, don't be a smartass, and do whatever the policeman tells you to do.

If a policeman tells you to get out of your car and lie facedown on the pavement and put your hands behind your head, do it.

If a policeman tells you to get out of your car and jump up and down while singing, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," do it.

The reason is you can't win when you attempt to do anything cute with the cops like arguing or resisting.

Normally, you will be outnumbered.

And, normally, the officers will have large guns, big sticks, and handcuffs, and you won't.

A comedian I saw once added, "And they will have the telephone number where they can reach more guys with large guns, big sticks and handcuffs."

Cops are trained not to take any crap. You open your big mouth to a cop and it's a pretty good bet, no matter what color you happen to be, he or she is going to shut it for you one way or the other.

A cop stops you and it's dark and he or she doesn't know what you could be up to or who you are.

So you're a law-abiding citizen, who just happened to be going 50 in a 30-mph zone.

The cop doesn't know you're a law-abiding citizen except for the fact you have a tendency to speed. For all the cop knows you could be some nut hopped up on drugs with a gun on the seat next to you.

So start giving the cop a little business and see what happens to you.

I had a friend in yonder years who enjoyed driving automobiles at high speeds, and he also liked to drive automobiles at high speeds while tanked.

One night he was pulled over for speeding.

He had a beer in his hand that he did not try to conceal.

The first thing he said to the policeman was, "If you sons of bitches would stop harassing innocent people you might catch a few crooks."

The policeman called to his partner. They dragged my friend out of the car, handcuffed him and put him in the back seat of their patrol car and took him to jail, where he spent the night.

They didn't say, "Please get in to the back of the police car, sir." They threw him in head first.

That's always the risk you run when you don't follow every order a cop gives you and say, "Yes, Mr. Policeman, Sir, I will get into the back of your car right this very minute, just please don't hit me with that big stick."

Later, you can call your lawyer and say you are innocent and that the cops violated your civil rights. Regardless of whether or not any of that is true, at least you have saved yourself from a lot of bumps, bruises, contusions and concussions.

The cops aren't always right. But they always have the means of messing up your face and throwing you in jail.

Former Georgia Governor Marvin Griffin once said the best advice he could give any politician was, "Keep your mouth closed and your bowels open."

That's not bad advice for dealing with a cop, either.

Letters

The Big Spring Herald recognizes the importance of the "Letters to the Editor" column and letters on issues of general interest are welcomed.

To be considered for publication, letters must adhere to the following guidelines:

- Letters must be signed and must include a street address and daytime phone number for verification, although the address will not be published.
- Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. While some lengthy letters are published, we reserve the right to edit when necessary due to space limitations.
- Letters should be typewritten and double-spaced if possible. If handwritten, letters must be legible.
- Form letters will not be published.
- Representative letters will be published when numerous letters are received on the same topic.
- Letters of political endorsement will be published on local and regional campaigns. No letter of endorsement will be published within seven days of an election.
- Local candidates are allowed one letter to present their viewpoint. Candidates' letters are subject to the same limitations as those submitted by non-candidates.
- The Herald reserves the right to limit publication of letters to one per month per writer.

Steers to learn the meaning of Frenship

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Big Spring's area round baseball playoff game with Frenship Thursday in Lubbock appears to be a meeting of two teams going in different directions.

And Big Spring hopes it can change that.

The Steers have lost their last two games and four out of their last eight. They come into the 6 p.m. playoff at O'Banion Field having missed two consecutive chances to win District 3-4A in 4-3 and 5-3 losses to Sweetwater. They have a 12-13-1 overall record.

In contrast Frenship's Tigers bring an eight-game winning streak to the one-game playoff. They are District 2-4A champs and beat Canyon Randall 8-2 last week in a bi-district round playoff game. (Big Spring had a bi-district round bye.) They have a 21-8-1 overall record.

Those numbers indicate Frenship has the better team. But when the squads faced each other early in the season in a March 7 doubleheader Big Spring lost both games by one run, each in the last inning. And less than two weeks later the Steers beat the Tigers in the Snyder tournament, 7-6.

"Obviously they're a better team than (their record) looks like," Frenship coach Steve Coleman says of the Steers. "I think it's gonna be a tight game, just like all three of (the previous games) this year."

Coleman says the Tigers have put together all three phases of their game — defense, pitching and offense — in recent weeks. They will throw senior righthander Storm Murry, 9-1, against Big Spring.

"We're playing at a good level and feeling good about ourselves now," Coleman says.

Steer coach Bobby Doe plans to start either senior Gerald Cobos (2-5) or freshman Frankie Martinez in the game. Martinez had his best outing in weeks Friday at Sweetwater last Friday where he threw four-shotout innings after giving up two runs in the first.

Big Spring Steers sophomore catcher Mike Oliva puts the tag on an Andrews baserunner in action earlier this season. Thursday the Steers will be in area playoff action against the Frenship Tigers.

"If he's on he's very, very tough," Coleman says of Martinez. "Providing the pitching matches up, which I anticipate it will, the key to deciding the game will be execution on offense and who can get the clutch hit to win the ballgame."

The game's Lubbock location gives the Tigers, from just outside the Lubbock city limit in Wolfforth, an advantage, but Doe says that should not deter his team.

"We've got to beat 'em where we play 'em, (so) we might as well play 'em up there," Doe says.

The Tigers are led by senior shortstop and Texas Tech scribe Chris Matthews, who leads the team in stolen bases and hit .392 in the regular season. Their leading hitter is Michael Denson. He batted .402 in the regular season and drove in 30 runs.

O'Banion Field can be reached by taking U.S. 87 north to Lubbock, Exit Loop 289 west to 34th Street. Go right on 34th to Frankford Avenue. Right on Frankford then left on 41st Street, which leads to the ball park.

Shining stars at state

The Crossroads Country made a fine showing at a wet state track meet in Austin this past weekend.

The area nearly made a perfect showing. That doesn't mean all the area participants won first places, but most of all of them scored points. It's hard enough making it to Austin, but to medal or just score points is a huge task.

Crossroads Country athletes competed in 12 individual events. Of those 12 events, 11 scored points. Area teams sent five relays to the meet. All five scored points.

The area's top performance came from Stanton's Jeremy Stallings. The junior's goal was to break the Class 2A state record of 1 minute, 52.5 seconds in the 800 meters. The record came tumbling down with Stallings' 1:51.9, which happens to be the fastest time in the state.

Stallings failed in his repeat to double when he finished second in the 1,600 meters, running behind a 2A state record of 4:19.5 by Sam Umberhagen of Little River. Stallings ran a career-best 4:21.1.

Umberhagen's time broke one of the state's oldest records, a 4:20.6 by Ricky Marquez in 1974. Umberhagen's time was the fastest turned in at the state meet this year. Granted, Friday's running conditions weren't as bad as Saturday's.

To show you what kind of competitor he is, Stallings, 30 minutes after running the 1,600 meters, anchored Stanton's 1,600 relay from eighth to sixth place.

Stallings said he's ready to start working on the overall state meet record of 1:49.8 in the 800. He plans on running in several meets this summer against some good competition. He's planning on running in a national prep meet in Los Angeles this summer.

The Colorado City Lady Wolves made the biggest impact in one event than any other area athletes. Senior Rosemary Rosas and junior Christy Hulme finished second and fourth in the discus.

It seemed only fitting that Rosas beat Hulme in the finale. All season long they were two of the top discus throwers in the state. Hulme had the upper hand in the early going. Rosas finished strong by beating her teammate in the last three competitions of the season.

The final verdict: Each thrower beat the other five times. That's what I call competition.

Besides Stallings, Coahoma hurdler LaTisha Anderson scored the most points of any area individual. Anderson finished third in the triple jump and 100-meter hurdles.

Her best chance for gold was in the hurdles because she had one of the better times in the state, regardless of class.

As far as regional times, the race went just about as planned.

Regina Brown of Refugio had the fastest time of 14.62, followed by Anderson's 14.82 and Tracy Jeffery of Cooper who ran a 14.88.

At state, Jeffery won in 15.4. Brown was second at 15.5 and Anderson was third in 15.6.

Look for good things from Klondike's Marilyn Franklin. Franklin jumped 36 feet, 3 inches and was fourth in the Class A triple jump. The best part is that she has three more years to compete.

The Stanton Lady Buffalos 800-meter relay team had the best finish of any area relays. The team of Laura Herm, Stacy Tollison, Nancy Chapa and Lupe Chapa finished third in 1:46.2.

The best news for Stanton is that Nancy Chapa is the only graduate.

The Big Spring Steers' 1,600-meter relay got the last laugh against district rival Sweetwater. The two teams had been in heated battles all season. At district, Sweetwater anchorman Dominic Villa made up a two-meter deficit on Big Spring's Nick Robertson to win by a nose.

At regional Sweetwater won handsily. At state Villa had a 10-meter lead on Robertson and the Big Spring anchorman ran him down for a three-meter advantage, giving Big Spring fifth place.

Robertson ran a 49.6 on his leg. Leadoff runner Lehebron Farr ran a 51.0, followed by Tim Pearson's 50.1 and Duane Edmonds' 50.3 split, giving the Steers a 3:21.2 time. Not bad, considering Big Spring had the last-place time going into state.

Bulls cruise past Cavaliers

CHICAGO (AP) — This was almost too easy.

After surviving the rough-and-tumble series with the New York Knicks, the defending NBA champion Chicago Bulls cruised to a 103-89 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers Tuesday night in the opener of their best-of-7 Eastern Conference final.

Michael Jordan, with 33 points, and Scottie Pippen, with 29 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists, led the attack in a relatively relaxed atmosphere.

"It was calm out there with no flagrant fouls," said Jordan, who has not scored less than 30 points in his last 11 games against the Cavaliers.

"It was kind of quiet and the intensity was not as high as it has been," Pippen said.

"We came out flat, but I'll guarantee you we'll be a lot sharper in our next game," said Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens.

The next game is in the Stadium Thursday night, with the series shifting to Cleveland for games Saturday and Monday.

This one wasn't much of a contest. Bill Cartwright hit two successive baskets to break a tie and put the Bulls ahead to stay 12-8 before Jordan had scored a point.

Jordan started hitting and the Bulls took a 30-21 lead at the quarter. They pulled ahead 45-25 in the second quarter before a 15-7 Cleveland run led by Mark Price helped cut it to 52-40 at the half.

The Bulls opened up an 18-point lead midway in the third quarter that ended with them on top 76-65. The Cavaliers crept within seven at 82-75 in the fourth quarter before the Bulls pulled away again.

"I felt we had control even when they got it to single digits," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "We came out with the intensity that we left the court with Sunday."

That was the 110-81 victory in the seventh game against the Knicks.

"We had to get out of the blocks early, we felt the first game was the most important," said Jordan. "We learned that lesson against New York when we lost the first game and that gave them a lot of confidence."

But Jordan said he was "very surprised this game was so easy. Every time they made a surge, we came back with a surge."

"We controlled the tempo," he said. "I'm sure it won't happen again. Their defense was tentative. This is new ground for them and we've been here before."

Brad Daugherty led the Cavaliers with 23 points and Price had 15 of his 21 in the first half. Larry Nance added 19 and John "Hot Rod" Williams 10. Horace Grant and Cartwright had 12 each for the Bulls.

Porter, Clyde kill Utah Jazz

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Utah Jazz needs a fire extinguisher to cool off Terry Porter.

"If I get any hotter, it'll be scary," Porter said. "I don't think it's humanly possible to be any hotter than I was tonight."

Porter scored a career-high 41 points and Clyde Drexler added 36 Tuesday night as the prolific Portland backcourt led the Trail Blazers to a 119-102 victory to take a 2-0 lead over Utah in the Western Conference finals.

"You can't play a better game than Terry played," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "and Clyde had a monster game. He had 12 assists. Of course, every time he threw it to Terry, he made it."

Porter continued his torrid playoff shooting by making 12 of 14 field goals.

Karl Malone scored 25 points,

John Stockton had 24 and Jeff Malone added 21 for the Jazz, who return home for Game 3 of the best-of-7 series Friday night. Utah is 4-4 at the Delta Center, including 6-0 in the playoffs.

The Blazers never trailed after Danny Ainge's 3-pointer one minute into the second quarter gave them a 32-29 lead. Portland was up by 13 at halftime and 16 in the third quarter.

O'Neal receptive to Orlando Magic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Even though he has said he wants to play for the Los Angeles Lakers or Los Angeles Clippers, it appears Shaquille O'Neal is receptive to playing for the Orlando Magic.

O'Neal, of San Antonio, issued a statement Tuesday reacting to the NBA draft lottery on Sunday, which the Magic won.

"I am thrilled that Orlando Magic's general manager, Pat Williams, was so excited and sincere about the possibility of having me on the team," O'Neal said. "I was particularly happy to see the people of Orlando so complimentary towards me."

"I am excited about my upcoming career in the NBA. Soon I will sit down with my family and my attorney to formulate a game plan."

The statement was issued by O'Neal's agent, Leonard Armato of Management Plus Enterprises in Los Angeles.

Williams left no doubt the Magic will choose the 7-foot-1 center with the first selection in the draft, to be held June 24 in Portland, Ore.

"Ultimately, in this league you win with special players like Dr. J (Julius Erving), Kareem (Abdul-Jabbar), Larry Bird or Magic Johnson," Williams said after Sunday's lottery. "I get the sense that O'Neal is a special player."

"But it's too soon to be talking playoffs and dancing in the streets. He's only 20 years old and not finished offensively. But on ability, potential, size and power, he's the class of the draft."

O'Neal averaged 24.1 points, 14 rebounds and 5.2 blocked shots as a junior at Louisiana State last season. He passed up his final year of eligibility to make himself available for the NBA draft and has been touted as a future great.

O'Neal has been living in a rented apartment in Los Angeles, and Armato has had a long working relationship since he represented Abdul-Jabbar, who retired as the NBA's leading career scorer after the 1988-89 season.

Midas is bringing a franchise opportunity to Big Spring

Midas is coming to your town with one of the most exciting franchise opportunities that exists today. Now is your chance to join the leader in the automotive aftermarket.

As a Midas franchisee, you have the name people know, the products people want, the warranty people trust. And with all the training you'll receive, you don't even need an automotive background to begin.

There are two ways to join the Midas family. You can develop an all-new Midas Muffler and Brake Shop. Or, if you already own a repair shop, you may be able to convert it to Midas.

Midas is on the move. And if you're an aggressive entrepreneur, we'd like to make our move with you. Just give us a call today, and we'll discuss all the possibilities. Then, if it makes sense to us both, we'll send a representative to meet with you.

Hot Potatoes

The Retired Seniors Volunteer Program band, The Hot Potatoes, opened the RSVP banquet with 30 minutes of musical enjoyment. The banquet's guest speaker was Kent Newsom, local businessman and vice chairman for volunteer services at the Big Spring State Hospital. The 14th annual banquet had more than 170 attending, which is half of its membership.

Japanese automakers say dumping charges unfair

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese auto companies expressed outrage today at Washington's conclusion that they have "dumped" minivans at artificially low prices in the United States, and vowed to prove the ruling wrong. "We are very surprised by the Department of Commerce decision," said Hiroshi Hashimoto, a spokesman for Toyota Motor Co. Both Toyota, Japan's leading car maker, and Mazda said they would provide evidence that would lead to a reversal of the ruling. Shigeru Okoshi, a spokesman for the Japan Automobile Manufacturers Association, called the ruling "part of their Japan-bashing campaign."

"We are confident that Japanese automakers are not selling cars at unfairly low prices in the U.S. market," he said. U.S. figures released on Tuesday estimated the dumping margins — the percentage below the prices charged for the same vehicles in Japan — at 12.70 percent for Mazda Motor Co., 6.75 percent for Toyota and 9.88 percent for all other Japanese automakers. Selling items below cost violates international trade agreements. If the International Trade Commission finds the Japanese imports damaged American automakers, the U.S. Commerce Department will instruct the Customs Service to levy duties on the Japanese minivans. Toyota spokeswoman Rika Oishi said the company sells a model in Japan, the Estima, that is similar to its U.S. model, the Previa, but has a higher minimum price because of several structural differences and options, not all of which are available in the United States. She said a Previa equipped with the Estima options available in America is priced about $2,000 higher than the Estima. The Estima sold in Japan ranges from $23,400 to $26,380, and the Previa from $17,518 to $25,518. A Mazda official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the company sold similar minivans in the United States and Japan, but that the Japanese model is priced higher because of lower sales volume and several structural differences.

Sales rose after Old Joe's bad publicity

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The onslaught against Old Joe, the debonair cartoon dromedary in Camel cigarette ads, began in December, when studies showing he had strong appeal among kids brought loads of negative publicity. Did all the bad press hurt sales of the 75-year-old brand? Hardly. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. says sales of its third most popular brand rose 6 percent in the first quarter, compared with a drop of nearly 16 percent in the same three months of 1991.

Some youths think the publicity actually helped. "If everyone hadn't made such a big deal about Joe Camel, I don't think many people would be interested in it," said Mike Whitlock, a senior at North Forsyth High School in Winston-Salem, where RJR is based. But analysts cautioned against linking the negative publicity with Camel's sales. They said the first quarter of 1991 was weak, making the latest results look better. They also noted that the brand has been the beneficiary of expensive promotions and the introduction of Camel Wides in March. "If the negative campaign helped, it was to an infinitesimal degree," said David Goldman, an analyst with Oppenheimer & Co. in New York. "The turnaround came from the massive direct media campaign, not the negative campaign." In December, the Journal of the American Medical Association published studies that found Old Joe's image was as familiar to 6-year-olds as Mickey Mouse. The U.S. surgeon general accused RJR of encouraging youngsters to smoke. Camel has become the brand of choice for 32.8 percent of the smokers under 18 — up from just 0.5 percent three years earlier, according to the journal. In money, that's a boost from $6 million a year to $476 million a year.

Old Joe been the bane of the health community since his introduction as the "smooth character" in 1988. Joe comes across as a sort of dromedary James Bond. He plays piano, races cars and wears tuxedos, often catching the eye of a beautiful woman. Critics of the tobacco industry agree that RJR has been able to create a strong image for the product. "They are feeling the effects of an ad campaign that began four years ago," said James Bergman of the anti-smoking group, Stop Teenage Addiction to Tobacco. "If they weren't, I'd fire my ad agency for spending hundreds of millions of dollars for nothing." The tobacco industry argues there's no proof that the ads influence young people to reach for a Camel.

Bush

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A Democrats and those favoring dropout Paul Tsongas, who ran third in the Tuesday primaries. In the Republican primaries, Bush was rolling up 76 percent of the Oregon vote, with nearly half the precincts reporting. Conservative Patrick Buchanan had 21 percent. Washington Republicans voted 83 percent for Bush, 13 percent Buchanan, with nearly all the precincts counted. Bush was adding at least 53 delegates to the majority he's already won; his new count would be 1,350. Buchanan was winning five delegates to go with the 69 he'd won earlier. Were the write-in votes tabulated, those percentages could change. Oregon does not require that write-in votes be tabulated in primaries except in special circumstances, and in Washington, they don't have to be tallied for a week. So there was no count of Perot's share today. But a survey of voters leaving polling places put the Perot vote at roughly 11 percent in each party primary in Oregon, CNN reported. In sparsely populated San Juan County, Wash., Perot led both party's primaries on the strength of his write-in votes. The primary returns that counted were for Bush, already guaranteed renomination, and Clinton, all but assured of the nomination to challenge him on Nov. 3. Perot is poised to declare his candidacy as an independent to tackle them both. With Bush and Clinton in full command, the primaries had fallen into a weekly pattern, and their easy victories were foregone conclusions. The Perot write-in was not. There had been no campaign for it in Oregon, and only talk of it in Washington. Ted Thomas, Perot's Oregon coordinator, said he had told supporters not to bother with protest votes in the primary, but to concentrate on the drive for petitions to put his name on the general election ballot. "I guess they didn't listen to us," Thomas said, chuckling. "What can you do. People just want to vote for this guy." Along with the write-in report, the CNN exit poll showed substantial support for Perot in the general election from Oregon voters in both major parties. More Democratic primary voters said they'd support him than Clinton, 45 percent to 41 percent. Among Republican primary voters, 49 percent said they favor Bush for re-election, but 40 percent said they preferred Perot. In Austin, Texas, Clinton said he understood the phenomenon. He said people "don't believe anybody associated with a political party can make a difference." But Clinton also said Perot is still in the honeymoon phase with the voters. "They haven't heard anything negative about him," he said. Vice President Dan Quayle made much the same point as he campaigned in California on Monday. Quayle said he assumes that when Perot announces his candidacy, "my friends in the media will give him the same treatment that they gave to me in 1988, and we'll see how he likes that." In Oregon, four-term Republican Sen. Bob Packwood was renominated over token opposition. Harry Lonsdale, a businessman from Bend, was in a close contest with Democratic Rep. Les AuCoin, plagued by 83 overdrafts on the old House bank, for the Democratic nomination to oppose him.

Israeli woman becomes unlikely heroine

JERUSALEM (AP) — Bella Freund set out from home the other morning to keep an appointment in town. By lunchtime she was being hailed as a heroine — and reviled as "an Arab-lover."

Mrs. Freund reached her destination, a busy shopping center, moments after Adnan al-Afandi, a 21-year-old Muslim extremist, stabbed and slightly wounded Yaniv Shahar, a 13-year-old Jewish boy.

All she saw was an Arab pinned to the ground by a guard, and a mob bent on vengeance. She heard shouts of "terrorist" and "Arab," someone fired shots in the air, "and I felt that something terrible was going to happen."

"I threw myself on him," she said. "I didn't want there to be a murder."

Since last week's incident she has become a media star, hailed by commentators as a symbol of enlightened Israel and denounced by Yaniv's mother for impeding mob justice.

Such knifings have become a common feature of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

But the emotions unleashed by this particular incident illustrate some of the conflict's complexities, not least of them the character of Bella Freund.

Mrs. Freund, 40, belongs to the haredi community of ultra-Orthodox Jews. But "she confounds all the stereotypes," says Peggy Sidur, who researched a TV debate about the incident.

In the secular stereotype of the haredi world, women are supposed to be homely and submissive, bear lots of children and keep their opinions to themselves. Apart from her eight children, Mrs. Freund is none of the above.

Mrs. Freund says she was beaten by bystanders, and that after police arrived and rescued the Arab, there were shouts of "leftist" and "bitch."

But instead of fleeing back into anonymity, she has gone on radio and television. In an interview Monday, her voice was hoarse from constant talking.

The chief rabbi justified her deed, and secular commentators chorused approval.

She had "saved Jerusalem from comparisons with Los Angeles," wrote Dov Ganchovsky in Yedioth Ahronoth. "We are lucky to have heroines like Mrs. Freund."

Dudu Topaz wrote in Maariv that she made him "proud to say I'm Jewish."

Some of the raw emotion engendered by the incident bubbled up during "Confrontation Line," the TV debate that brought Mrs. Freund face-to-face with Yaniv and his mother, Hanna Shahar.

"I am very, very angry at this woman, more at her than at the terrorist," said Mrs. Shahar. "I would like to ask her: if they had stabbed her son, and I had protected the terrorist, how would she have felt?"

Moderator Dan Raviv asked Mrs. Shahar whether she would have preferred the mob to kill al-Afandi.

"Since we don't have (capital punishment), the people have decided that the time has come for us to take the law into our own hands and lynch these people, because we can't go on like this," she replied.

Yaniv, still nursing a knife cut in his shoulder, wondered whether an Arab would have done the same for a Jew if the situation was reversed. Mrs. Freund replied that such things had already happened.

"I'm not sorry for what I did," replied Mrs. Freund. "I didn't go out that day with the purpose of protecting terrorists. . . . But we mustn't take the law into our own hands."

After the show ended, Mrs. Freund tried to give Yaniv a box of chocolates, but he refused it. Finally his mother took it, and the two women embraced awkwardly.

Mrs. Freund blames stereotypes for much of what's wrong with the Middle East: "We don't know each other: secular and religious Jews, Middle Eastern and European Jews, Jews and Arabs."

She believes her action springs from her upbringing. Her parents survived the Nazi Holocaust, and she was raised to believe that the highest value is human life.

"I believe we are a special people and that it shows itself at special moments," she said in an interview. "I think something important happened last week; that we showed ourselves as Jews, not as a lynch mob."

Study suggests 'patterns' of police abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the House civil rights subcommittee says a Justice Department study of police brutality shows the need for legislation empowering federal authorities to sue local departments to stop widespread abuse.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said the study undertaken after Rodney King's videotaped beating by Los Angeles police officers suggests that some departments have policies that lead to brutal treatment of suspects.

"The report suggests there are patterns of police misconduct," Edwards said in a statement disputing the Justice Department's contention that no conclusions could be drawn from the data. He made the study public Tuesday.

"The report supports our conclusion that in some departments and sheriff's offices there appear to be repeated abuses which could be addressed" by court injunctions, said Edwards, who backs legislation authorizing the department to seek such relief.

The study showed that New Orleans police led the nation with an average of 35 complaints a year during the 1984-90 period. There was an average of one complaint for every 38 officers each year or one for every 305 arrests.

The Los Angeles Police Department, now the focus of a federal civil rights investigation into the March 1991 King beating, ranked 11th with an average of 14 complaints a year, or one for every 15,393 arrests.

The Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office ranked second with an average of 34 complaints a year, or one complaint for every 519 arrests, according to data compiled from files of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

The Jefferson Parish, La., sheriff's office, which serves suburban New Orleans, ranked third with an average of 23 complaints — one for every 782 arrests.

San Antonio police averaged 21 complaints a year to rank fourth in the study. There was a brutality complaint for every 2,126 arrests made by officers in the Texas city.

The report involves only complaints filed with the Justice Department and not those lodged with local authorities. Crime legislation currently stalled in the Senate would require the department to collect figures on police brutality.

The Bush administration opposes the measure, which also empowers showed that some police agencies with a disproportionate number of complaints "deserve a closer look."

"There may be legitimate explanations for the disparities in some cases, but they seem to be policy-based in others," he said.

The Justice Department study acknowledged that particular policies pursued by local police could lead to more brutality complaints.

The vigorous anti-drug campaign begun by a newly elected sheriff in Shelby County, Tenn., may have contributed to the jump from one complaint in 1985 to 29 in 1990, the study said.

Three deputies were prosecuted for brutality in 1990 and since then the number of complaints about the Memphis-area department have dropped, the study said.

The Shelby County Sheriff's Department ranked 19th overall with an average of nine complaints annually.

Justice Department officials refused to release the report, which Edwards distributed Tuesday after it was obtained by his House Judiciary civil rights subcommittee.

The complaints covered fewer than 4,400 of the nation's 16,000 state and local police, sheriff's and corrections departments.

Kerrville Folk Festival hits 21 this year

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Final preparations for the 21st Annual Kerrville Folk Festival are underway at the Quiet Valley Ranch, nine miles south of Kerrville on Texas Highway 16.

During the course of the 18-day festival, about 20,000 people are expected to travel to the quiet little town, located 70 miles northwest of San Antonio along Interstate 10, said coordinator Brian Young.

In its 21-year existence the festival has grown from a modest affair to an internationally known folk-art celebration, Young said. Tickets for the festival range from $9 to $15 per day with multiple-day discounts and free camping for three-or-more-day ticket buyers, according to festival director Rod Kennedy. Tickets at the gate are an average of $2 higher.

Kennedy acknowledged the continuing sponsorship of Southwest Airlines and Texas Times magazine. This year's official "Folk Wine" is Texas Grape Creek Vineyards' 1991 Cabernet Blanc.

Entertainers for the festival are as follows:

- May 21 — Steve Key, Melissa Javors, David Massengill, Carolyn Hester, Jimmy LeFave, Vally, Steve Young.
- May 22 — Mickey Cates, Aileen Vance, Rick Beresford, Alisa Fineman, Bob Franke, Allen Damron, Connie Kaldor.
- May 23 — Michael Elwood and Beth Galiger, Bob Gibson, Crow Johnson, "Trout Fishing in America," Bobby Bridger, Lucy Blue Tremblay, David Amram.

- Turk Pipkin.
- May 24 — L.J. Booth, Don Sanders, Bill and Bonnie Hearne, James Keelaghan, Laurie Lewis and Grant Street, Peter Yarrow, Sara Hickman.

- May 25 — Blues Project, Steve James, Sue Foley, Nat Reese, Johnny Nicholas, Lindsay Haisley, Kimberly M'Carver, Chris Smither, Doug Killard Band, Christine Albert, Ain't Misbehavin' Reunion, Bourne and McLeod.

- May 29 — Richard Ferrer Follett, Pete Kennedy, David Maloney, Janis Carper, U. Utah Phillips, Jose White Jr., Walter Hyatt and Champ Hood.

- May 30 — Banded Geckos, Tom Chapin, Kat Eggleston, David Roth, Sally Rogers, Jon Ims, Robert Earl Keen Jr.

- May 31 — Mitch Walking Elk, Stephanie Davis, Tennessee Valley Authority, Heidi Muller, Bryan Bowers, Jonathan Edwards, The Sundogs.

- June 5 — Joel Mabus, Dick Siegel, Cathy Winter, Killbilly, Butch Hancock, Austin Lounge Lizards, Shake Russell and Jack Saunders.

- June 6 — David Garza, David Broza, Tish Hinojosa, Chuck Pyle, Eliza Gilkyson, Tom Paxton, London's Bootfare.

- June 7 — Larry Long, Steve Seskin, Country Gazette, Tom Ball and Kenny Sultan, Dana Cooper, Paul Glasse Sextet, Timbuk 3.

During the four days of June 1-4, the Second Annual American Indian Festival of the Eagle will be held as part of the Kerrville Folk Festival at Threadgill Memorial Theater.

The celebration of American Indian history, culture and spirit will feature two 2-hour concerts a day with each of the performers taking part in one-on-one "circles" with the audience, Kennedy said. No pets are permitted and no throwaway cups are allowed. Be prepared to bring or purchase permanent cups to cut down on trash. (This saved 18 tons of garbage last year, he said.)

Country Hall of Fame, Comedy Awards air tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a moment in tonight's "Country Music Hall of Fame 25th Anniversary Celebration" when the word "entropy" comes to mind.

Granted, entropy — the tendency of the universe to fall apart over time — is not generally associated with country music. Not like momma or trains or cheatin'.

But tonight, with her rendition of Hank Williams' "Move It on Over," Tanya Tucker changes all that.

As frisky as a robo-kitten, Tucker turns a classic good-time song into piffle suitable for Paula Abdul. This happens in the show moments after Randy Travis strums Williams' guitar; it is a wonder Hank doesn't return from the dead to brain Tucker with it.

It must be said at this juncture that the special — scheduled for 8 to 10 p.m. Eastern time on CBS — offers some nice performances and is not a bad show, which is more than can be said of "The Sixth Annual American Comedy Awards," which airs from 9 to 11 p.m. tonight on ABC. But more about the comedy awards later.

The problem with the country show is that it is far more educational than its producers intended. They wanted to use country's new stars to salute their predecessors; instead, they proved that this generation of country heroes can't hold a rhinestone to their elders.

Kind of like ... entropy. Even the best of them is blown away when Bill Monroe appears, with a face suitable for Mount Rushmore. Can you imagine putting Don Schlitz on Mount Rushmore? Even on a second-tier Mount Rushmore, with Dan Quayle and James Buchanan?

The effect is repeated again and again in live and film performances: Jimmie Rodgers' and Gene Autry's guitars and Elvis Presley's piano make appearances, and even the instruments of these giants upstage the younger musicians.

In a Western swing segment, the great Texas Playboy fiddler Johnny Gimble blows Barbara Mandrell off the stage. And when 92-year-old Gov. Jimmie Davis sings his "You Are My Sunshine," he gets a standing ovation because he's old and he's up there; he deserves one because he's great.

The standing ovations at the comedy awards, by contrast, are strictly ersatz. Actually, the entire show is ersatz.

We are told that these awards are selected by a vote of working comics, and the presence of representatives of the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse is meant to indicate that the voting is on the up and up, and that your Uncle Sy, the one who tells jokes involving farm animals and members of the clergy, is not among those polled.

This says it all: Mel Brooks and Jonathan Winters are nominated for 1992 American Comedy Awards. For what? For their performances as presenters at the 1991 American Comedy Awards.

Bobcat Goldwait is a scream. Billy Crystal has his moments. But mostly, the American Comedy Awards are on the level of a stand-up club at a strip mall somewhere in East Podunk.

No. 1 with a bullet

"Lethal Weapon 3" stars Danny Glover and Mel Gibson flank Rene Russo in real life (and Joe Pesci in the poster) as they arrive at the film's premiere at the Mann Village Theatre in Westwood Monday. The film was the top box-office draw last weekend taking in 10-times more than "Basic Instinct," which was pushed to the No. 2 slot.

Candice Bergen: Dropout to doctor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Candice Bergen, who flunked out of the University of Pennsylvania in 1965, returned Monday to receive an honorary degree.

Bergen, in cap and gown, thrust her fists skyward after the hood signifying her doctor of laws degree was draped across her shoulders at commencement exercises. "I was being pulled in different directions," she said in an interview. "I was not a focused academic candidate."

School officials "politely asked me to move on" after the sophomore year, she said. She had flunked basic "gut courses" in painting and opera.

"I always did respect them for that. That was a very strong lesson," said Bergen, who plays a television newswoman in the CBS hit comedy. "But then they kept asking me for donations. I didn't give."

Moss hosts tasting tea with international flavor

Moss Elementary students spent last Friday sampling the tastes of different cultures from around the world. Librarian Roxy Belew helped coordinate the 'Read Around the World' project for the students. Throughout the term students read 49,455 books about other cultures and lifestyles. While the students read about the world around them, Belew was busy gathering recipes. When the reading project was complete, she distributed the recipes and it was the student's job to prepare them for a luncheon. On May 15 from 1:30 to 3:00 the children from Moss Elementary enjoyed the fruits of their labors. "We had so much food," said Belew. "I wanted the kids to get a taste of different cultures and what they eat. It helps them get a better understanding of what life is like there. It was a lot of fun for them." Listed below are a few recipes from the 'Recipes from Around the World' cookbook.

COCONUT CAKE
(own thee moant)

1 lb. butter
1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
3/4 cup faroma
1/2 cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 1/2 cups coconut
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg whites
Cream the butter, add the sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add the egg yolks and beat again. Sift the farina, flour and baking powder together and add to the butter mixture, beating wells. Chop the coconut very fine and add with the vanilla. Mix well. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Beat the egg whites until stiff but not dry and fold into the coconut mixture carefully. Pour into two buttered 8 inch layer cake pans. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 20 minutes or until the cake tester comes clean. Note: in Burma the cake is served plain. It may be iced or decorated with whipped cream and grated coconut.

GERMAN STEAK
2 lb. round steak
1 cup of flour

1/2 cup parmesan cheese, grated
2-3 cups milk
1 cup of butter
Salt and pepper to taste
1 egg
Tenderize steak and cut into steak fingers. Mix egg and milk and set aside. Mix flour, parmesan cheese, salt and pepper. Melt butter to fry. Dip steak into egg-milk mixture and roll in flour mixture and fry until done.

PHILIPPINES MEAT SOUP
3 tablespoons salad oil
3 cloves of garlic, minced
4 onions, chopped
1 1/2 lb. beef ground
3 tomatoes coarsely, chopped
4 potatoes, peeled and cubed
2 quarts of water
1 cup stock
1 T salt
1 T pepper
Heat oil in saucepan. Add the garlic, onions and saute for 10 minutes. Stirring frequently. Add the beef and cook over high heat for 5 minutes stirring frequently. Add the tomatoes and potatoes and continue browning for additional five minutes. Add the water, stock, salt and pepper. Reduce heat to medium and cook for 25 minutes. Correct seasonings. Serve hot.

SYRIA EGGPLANT APPETIZER
1 eggplant
4 tablespoon butter
3 tablespoon sesame oil or olive
3 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 green pepper, chopped
1/2 cup yogurt or sour milk
Peel the eggplant and cut it in half. Slice as thin as possible. Melt the butter in a frying pan and saute the eggplant slices in it on both sides until tender. About 10 minutes. Set aside to cool for 1 hour. In a bowl combine the oil, lemon juice, parsley, garlic, green pepper and yogurt. Mix well. Add the eggplant slices and baste them a few times. Chill. Serve with thin slices of bread.

SOUTH AFRICA FRIED CAKES
2 cups sifted flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
3 tablespoon butter
1 egg, beaten
Oil
1 1/2 cup sugar
One-third cup water
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
Sift flour, salt and cream of tartar together into a bowl. Cut in the butter with pastry blender or two knives until the consistency of coarse sand. Add egg and toss lightly with fork until the mixture forms a ball of dough. Roll out 1/4 inch thick on a lightly floured surface. Cut into circles and roll up in the shape of cornucopias, so that one end is closed and the other open.

Heat the oil in deep saucepan. Drop a few cornucopias at a time into the fat fry until they rise to surface. Remove and drain. Combine 1 cup of sugar and water and cinnamon in a saucepan. Boil until syrupy about 5 minutes. Dip each cake into the syrup then roll in the remaining sugar.

Food was in abundance at Moss Elementary last Friday as the children brought in goodies from other nations for a tasting tea. The tea was an effort to make the youngsters more aware of the world and the different cultures therein.

Cooler heads prevail
Jody Morris, 7, cools off during a hot afternoon by dunking his head in a bucket of cold drinking water in front of his Baton Rouge, La. home last week.

Nothing beats some casserole, fluff

I love casseroles. They are the epitome of one dish meals. A full meal for the family and best of all. Very little cleaning up afterwards. If one's recipe box has about a dozen good casserole recipes, you can eat forever. You practically need nothing else. This week we have an unusual casserole that I know you will like. It's simply a:

BEEF AND CABBAGE CASSEROLE
Hamburger, 1 lb.
Cabbage, 1 head, medium
Onion, 1 cup, chopped
Tomato coup, 1 can
Rice, one-half cup, uncooked
Water, 1 tomato can
Sugar, 2 tablespoons
Vinegar, 1 tablespoon
Salt and pepper to taste

First, you brown the hamburger with the onion until the meat loses its red color and the onion is transparent. When the meat is brown, stir in the raw rice. Meanwhile, as the meat is cooking, shred the head of cabbage very coarse. Place in a greased baking dish or shallow casserole. Now place the beef mixture in a layer over the cabbage. Now mix the soup, water, sugar and vinegar together and pour over the beef and cabbage layers. Cover with a lid or foil and bake at 350 degrees for about one hour. There you have it. A beautiful casserole that will make a complete meal.

Nothing compliments a casserole better than a nice vegetable salad. This one is simple, different and delicious. It's just a:

BROCCOLI SALAD
Broccoli, 1 head
Bacon, three-fourths lb.
Cheese, 1 cup, cheddar, shredded
Onion, 1, large
Salad dressing, one fourth cup
Vinegar, 1 tablespoon
Wash and break the broccoli into bite size pieces. Next, brown and crisp the bacon. Grate the cheese and then slice the onion into slices and cut into halves. Separate. Make the dressing of the one half cup salad dressing, one-fourth cup sugar and the tablespoon of vinegar. Toss well all the ingredients and chill before serving.

Papa Joe Reed

Now for a dessert. With this one, we don't count the calories, but we do enjoy. It's:

CHERRY FLUFF
Cherry pie filling, 1 can
Pineapple, 1 can crushed
Pecans, 1 pkg. chopped
Eagle brand milk, 1 can
Cool whip, 1 large carton Open all the can and drain the pineapple and mix all the ingredients on a large bowl. Chill and serve.

Papa Joe's kitchen tip: If you have a recipe that calls for just egg yolks, the remaining whites can be stored in the refrigerator in an airtight jar for up to a week.

If you would like a copy of Papa Joe's cookbook, "How to Open An Egg," just send $5.95 plus $1 postage to: Papa Joe Reed, 1425 E. 6th St., 39, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

IQ linked to breast milk

LONDON (AP) - A study provides evidence that breast milk may have a beneficial effect on the mental development of children. In a study of 300 children who were born prematurely, children who were fed breast milk scored significantly higher on IQ tests than children who received formula only. The results are reported in the Feb. 1 issue of the Lancet, a British medical journal. Previous studies linking breast milk to intelligence have caused considerable controversy. Many doctors wondered whether benefits attributed to the milk were in fact due to mothers' motivation and education, or bonding during feeding. In the new study, investigators said they were able to isolate and assess the effects of the milk itself because both groups of children had been fed via tubes. They had been too premature to suckle. The study is not definitive proof, but "very strong evidence," that an as-yet-undefined substance in breast milk affects mental development, said Dr. Alan Lucas, researcher and head of Infant and Child Nutrition at the Medical Research Council's Dunn Nutrition Unit in Cambridge.

Dr. Neville Belton, a University of Edinburgh pediatrician specializing in nutrition, said Lucas is a well-respected investigator and this study will draw "considerable interest." Lucas's study found that 193 children who had gotten either breast milk alone or breast milk plus formula scored significantly higher on IQ tests compared to 107 who had gotten formula only - scoring 103.7 points versus 93.1.

Young mother practices pitch for dates

DEAR ABBY: I am a recently divorced, 27-year-old mother of three children. My son is 5 years old, and I have twin daughters who just turned 3. I need some advice on dating.

I just relocated and am meeting a lot of men for the first time. Should I tell them right away that I have three children? I am not looking for a husband or a father for my children so soon after my divorce.

An older woman who works with me told me not to mention my three children to any man I date until we have gone out a few times and he shows a special interest in me.

Abby, I believe in being open and honest right from the very beginning. I trust your advice, so please tell me what to do. — RECENT DIVORCEE

Dear Abby

DEAR R.D.: I would not, on meeting a gentleman for the first time, say, "How do you do. I am recently divorced and have three children."

But I would tell the gentleman early on + before either of you has invested too much emotionally + that you have three children. To deliberately withhold such important information would be deceitful. If the gentleman, on hearing about your children, finds you less attractive in his scheme of things, he is not for you. You surely wouldn't want to become seriously involved with a man who would not want your children.

DEAR ABBY: Next week, I will celebrate 25 years as a registered nurse. I have seen it all, and now may I share some pointers for visitors/

(1) Do not bring small children to the hospital to see "Grandpa" or "Grandma." The hospital is teeming with germs that small children have trouble fighting.

(2) Please wash your hands after using the bathroom. It's the best way to stop infection.

(3) Do not smoke around oxygen. (Yes, I have seen visitors who don't know better.)

(4) All electric fans, radios and CD players brought from home must be checked by the engineering department. Many fires have been started by a faulty electrical appliance.

(5) Please don't eat the patient's meals. We want to see how much the patient has eaten when the patient's tray is returned to the kitchen.

(6) Leave the pets at home. (Last Christmas, a mother brought a hamster in her purse for her little boy. It got loose, and created a big fuss until it was finally found and captured.)

Abby, if you use this in your column, sign it: F.L.O. NIGHTINGALE, FORT MYERS, FLA.

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY. IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Someone who always keeps you waiting for a decision may be able to help you. Move on to more positive situations and people this summer. Seek influential allies in a campaign to improve your work environment or neighborhood next fall. Children will be especially eager to win your approval in December. Set a good example. The romantic outlook is rosy in February of 1993. A key financial goal moves within easy reach by next April.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Armand Hammer, novelist Harold Robbins, actors Raymond Burr and David Grob.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A give-and-take attitude will improve home life. Devote at least part of the day to community affairs. A newspaper article could trigger a terrific moneymaking idea.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Today is a lot busier than yesterday. Complete old business before tackling a bold new plan. A private problem may sadden you. Avoid dwelling on what might have been. People do not offer to pay their share of entertainment expenses. Romance improves when you are candid.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If you feel as if you are in a rut, today's events could prompt you to try a change in lifestyle. Do not be afraid to ask for assistance when tackling something new.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are in tune with the infinite today and likely to have some worthwhile hunches about getting ahead. Good friends are the backbone of your support system.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The emphasis is on protecting your resources. Take off those rose-colored glasses before you fall for a friend's tempting financial scheme. You will certainly see the light of reason later on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Someone's advice could put you in a strange mood; you would like to believe a tip or rumor, but skepticism is strong. Postpone making any serious decisions. Relax with a best-seller tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Seize an opportunity to latch onto a better-paying job or brush up on your skills. A computer is a good investment now. Drop a critical attitude along with old worries. Think positive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An important relationship could be a trial run, and that is putting it mildly. It certainly is not the time to pursue a legal matter. Speak your mind during a philosophical debate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Regular correspondence could brighten the outlook for a long-distance romance. Some of you will say "yes" to a proposal, or make one yourself. Discuss any potential problems with a close friend.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): By taking advantage of every twist and turn of opportunity, you can quietly accomplish great things. Pay more attention to your home or finances.

A little knowledge travels a long way

Vacation travel peaks in the summer, especially for families with children below the age of 13. According to travel experts, more and more American families are spending their summer vacations exploring the country's theme parks, such as Disney World, Busch Gardens and Universal Studios. National sites and natural wonders like Mount Rushmore, Yellowstone National Park and the Grand Canyon also receive a high share of visitors.

Traveling with the family is rewarding but often not easy — all kinds of emergencies pop up to interfere with your vacation. Planning for and anticipating problems can help prevent them. Before you go on any trip, check your credit card's cash advance limit and travel services. Most gold cards, like Gold MasterCard®, offer several emergency travel services, such as rental car collision damage insurance and medical and legal referrals away from home, which can really help save your vacation.

Also, if you're one of the 15 million Gold MasterCard cardholders, you have access to cash from more than 76,000 Automated Teller Machines (ATMs) all over the country and the world through the MasterCard ATM network. Cash machines have become such a part of our lives that 49 percent of Americans make an average of six transactions per month at an ATM. It's reassuring to know that this service can be of great help on vacation. All you have to do is call 1-800-4-CIRRUS for locations wherever you are traveling, or just look for a cash machine displaying the MasterCard or CIRRUS logos when you arrive.

As a cardholder, you also can obtain money through the Emergency Cash Advance (ECA) program, which gives you up to $1,000 if you lose your credit card and aren't near a card replacement center. With this service, you can avoid trip interruptions.

Here are some other helpful tips to keep in mind that can help make your traveling much easier.

If you're traveling by air:

- Remove old destination tags from luggage, so your bags arrive at the right airport!
- Pack essentials like eyeglasses, personal hygiene products, a change of clothes, and a book in your carry-on bags, in case your luggage is lost or delayed.
- During takeoffs and landings, bottle-feed infants and give children some gum to chew to alleviate the discomfort of cabin pressure changes.

If you're traveling by car:

- Store equipment like cameras, video recorders and film in a small cooler, especially in hot weather.
- Give each child a back pack to carry games, toys, pens and paper so they can play with several things during a long trip.
- Before leaving, check your car's oil, anti-freeze, power brake and steering fluids, tire pressure, etc., to ensure a safe trip.
- If you are a Gold MasterCard cardholder, keep in mind that Master RoadAssist™, the company emergency roadside service, is a toll-free call away if you need towing, a jump start, or to be pulled from a ditch.

So, this summer, with these traveling tips in mind and your Gold MasterCard in your wallet, you should be able to handle most unforeseen situations that may pop up on your vacation.

Speeding

Slow down, for your life! An accident is much more likely to be fatal at 65 m.p.h. than at 55 m.p.h. That's because crash forces multiply as speed increases. Nevertheless, over 40 states have raised the speed limit to 65 m.p.h. on rural interstates. Death rates have already started to climb.

Accident rates climb when states raise their speed limit.

Tips for car-travel safety

School's out, the summer is here and it's time for a family get-away. But before you get on the road — whether you're headed to a tourist attraction just a few hours from home or a vacation spot a few driving days away — make sure to pack the following items, which can be helpful in case of an on-the-road emergency:

- vehicle registration and proof of ownership;
- evidence of vehicle insurance (check expiration date);
- auto club identification and road service phone number;
- Cyalume lightsticks (safer than road flares, no batteries needed, wind-proof and waterproof);
- spare tire, jack, lug wrench, jumper cables and tool kit;
- first-aid kit;
- empty one-gallon gas can;
- can of engine oil, spare parts, fan belt, fuses;
- fire extinguisher.

ILLUMINATE THE ROADWAY to warn motorists of a disabled vehicle with Cyalume lightsticks. They also provide adequate light for nighttime engine repairs or changing a flat tire.

Don't forget to bring the toys

Children add a unique, infectious spirit to family travel. They're specialists at creating memorable family vacation moments.

Pre-planning means everything to a successful vacation, whether exploring beaches close to home, traveling to a theme park or touring historical sights across the country. Whether you're going by land or air, consider your children's capacities and limitations during the confinement of travel.

Just as at home, children need the stimulation of toys, games and activities while traveling. Crayons, puzzle books, cards, storybooks and small games are basic.

Among children's favorites are any music by Joe Scruggs. The soothing sounds of Sounds Like Fun, from Discovery Toys, settles the most weary young traveler.

Children of all ages need time to run. Frequent stops to break up a car trip avoids frustration for adults and child alike. Pack a ball, chalk for hopscotch, and a jump rope. Try Sing Along Skipper from Discovery Toys, an adjustable jump rope with a booklet of original jump rope songs. If you consider a rest stop a fun time, not an interruption, you'll continue your adventure on a happier note.

Be aware of and respect the short attention span of toddlers. A small backpack for a youngster can hold an abundance of distracting treasures. Add interest at each stop by suggesting your older youngster collect postcards, recording personal highlights on the back. When you return home, a metal ring will keep this travel journal together.

Traveling with children enriches the experience for adults, and creates family memories forever. Discovery Toys specializes in bright ideas for parents and families. Check the phone directory for an Educational Consultant in your area, or call 1-800-426-4777. SL928267

FAMILY TRAVEL AID: What can you do if you run out of — or need more — cash while traveling? If you're a Gold MasterCard® cardholder, you can obtain cash at more than 76,000 Automated Teller Machines or access emergency cash at financial institutions all over the country — and around the world. These services can be of great help on vacation!

Furniture Shopping? Look For The Tag That Can Save Your Life

By shopping smart, you can reduce the chances of a fire in your home.

Here's how. The next time you're in a furniture store look for a little hangtag on upholstered furniture that states: Important Consumer Safety Information From UFAC. UFAC is the Upholstered Furniture Action Council, a group of industry leaders who have spearheaded the effort to create beautiful, modern, cigarette-resistant sofas and chairs. When you see this little gold tag on a piece of furniture, you know it's cigarette-resistant.

About two percent of home fires start in upholstery. Of these fires, 80 percent are started by burning cigarettes abandoned by smokers who generally are sleepy or affected by alcohol, recreational drugs or medication. Manufacturers of upholstery have spent the past 15 years looking for ways to make their product more resistant to burning cigarettes.

By looking for that little gold tag, you can help keep the home fires from burning.

OF HEALTH

Working Together For Your Good Health

Whenever you go for your annual checkup, your physician routinely schedules a variety of laboratory tests that can detect early problems. Potential problems with high cholesterol, liver or kidney disease, diabetes and even cancer can be detected by early screening. And these problems can be treated when your physician is alerted early—and accurately.

When your physician orders a laboratory test, he or she sends a specimen to a highly specialized medical testing laboratory, where trained professionals—known as pathologists and medical technologists or clinical laboratory professionals—are working to ensure that your test results are as accurate as possible. These professionals have undergone years of training and rigorous review to ensure that they understand all aspects of medical testing. For the medical laboratory professional who recognizes that he or she is dealing with life-and-death issues, there can be no margin for error. The laboratory test, as reported, must accurately detect any potential problems.

Medicine is becoming increasingly sophisticated, with new equipment and new technologies designed to give your physician as accurate a picture as possible of your physical well-being. These tests, however, still are dependent on the skill and training of those health care professionals who monitor and evaluate these tests. The medical laboratory professional is working, along with other members of the health care team, to keep you—and members of your family—healthy.

Clinical laboratory professionals around the nation will be celebrating National Medical Laboratory Week from April 14-20, 1991. Let them know you support them.

Unique Award Sets Up Radiology Suite

A million dollar gift to Temple University Hospital is helping to establish a state-of-the-art radiology suite for diagnosing and treating vascular and gastrointestinal diseases. The gift, from SmithKline Beecham Foundation, is one of the largest corporate awards ever received by the hospital in its hundred year history. John Haas, chairman of the Hospital Board of Governors Centennial Development Campaign, said the award from the foundation—the philanthropic arm of SmithKline Beecham—will serve as the leadership gift for the kick off of Temple University's Hospital Centennial celebration starting next January.

Call Culligan For All Your Water Needs

Richard Wright, manager of Culligan, invites everyone to give Culligan a call for your free water analysis today at 263-8781. Rentals, Sales and Service.

Culligan Water Conditioning has been serving Big Spring since 1945. During this time, Culligan has seen many changes in the water conditioning industry. From portable exchange tanks, very popular in the 1950's, to automatic conditioners.

One of the major breakthroughs in the past few years has been the development of the twin metered system. This has two conditioning tanks, one on standby while the other is in service giving the customer continuous service regardless of the amount of use involved. There is never any down time for regeneration. It doesn't matter how much water the customer uses. By being able to regenerate when needed there is a substantial saving on the amount of salt used and is much cheaper on the customer's pocketbook.

With Reverse Osmosis Systems being very popular, Culligan of Big Spring, has developed a special system to handle the local water supply with its high total dissolved solids. The system, a Culligan Aqua-Clear H-83 WT. The WT stands for West Texas. This system gives the maximum efficiency with Big Spring water. This system was developed due to our training schools and the constant research we do to provide our customers with the latest equipment available on the market today.

For complete sales, leases, and service on any water equipment give Culligan a call at 263-8781.
