Weekend activities varied for residents

Activities in Big Spring this weekend range from watching bucking bulls to savoring your favorite brisket or chili or dancing to your favorite western music, going fishing, sailing or hiking.

- The Friday night performance of the 59th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo begins at 8:30 p.m. at the Rodeo Bowl. A dance featuring Jody Nix follows at the county fairbarns.
- Highland Mall will be the site of the first CASI-sanctioned Bar-B-Que cookoff, beginning at 8 a.m. and lasting until about 5:30 p.m. Categories include brisket, chili, ribs, fajitas and beans.
- In conjunction with the 59th Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, the Rodeo Parade will begin at 10th and Main streets at 10 a.m. Saturday.
- The 2nd annual Cowboy Poetry and Music Gathering will be held from 11 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday at the Howard County Courthouse. Aside from the veteran poets, interested novices also will have a chance to read their offerings.
- The rodeo will hold its final performance at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at the Rodeo Bowl. A dance follows in the county fairbarns, adjacent to the rodeo arena, again featuring Nix.
- Regular activities for area residents include:
 - Swimming, sailboating, golf, fishing and picnic facilities are available at Comanche Trail Park.
 - Hiking trails and picnic spots are open at Big Spring State Park.
 - Moss Lake offers fishing, picnic areas, boating and swimming.

Railroad issue clarified

Railroad employees of the Union Pacific Railroad said Thursday afternoon that they were not on strike, despite what company officials said from the line's Omaha headquarters.

"We have been locked out," one worker, who requested anonymity said. "The strike is by a group of machinists against CSX in the northeast. Workers around the country have been locked out by the railroads to put pressure on Congress to settle the strike."

"We aren't on strike and don't want to be on strike... we want to be able to work and service our local customers, but we aren't being allowed to do so."

Semi-pro team profiled

The Big Spring Tigers, a local semi-pro baseball team that played here from the 1920s to '60s, is profiled in Prime of Your Life, an insert in today's Big Spring Herald.

The Tigers, using Steer Field as a home base, played several West Texas semi-pro teams during their existence. The article features interviews with several ex-players.

Hearing on new dam slated for Stanton

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

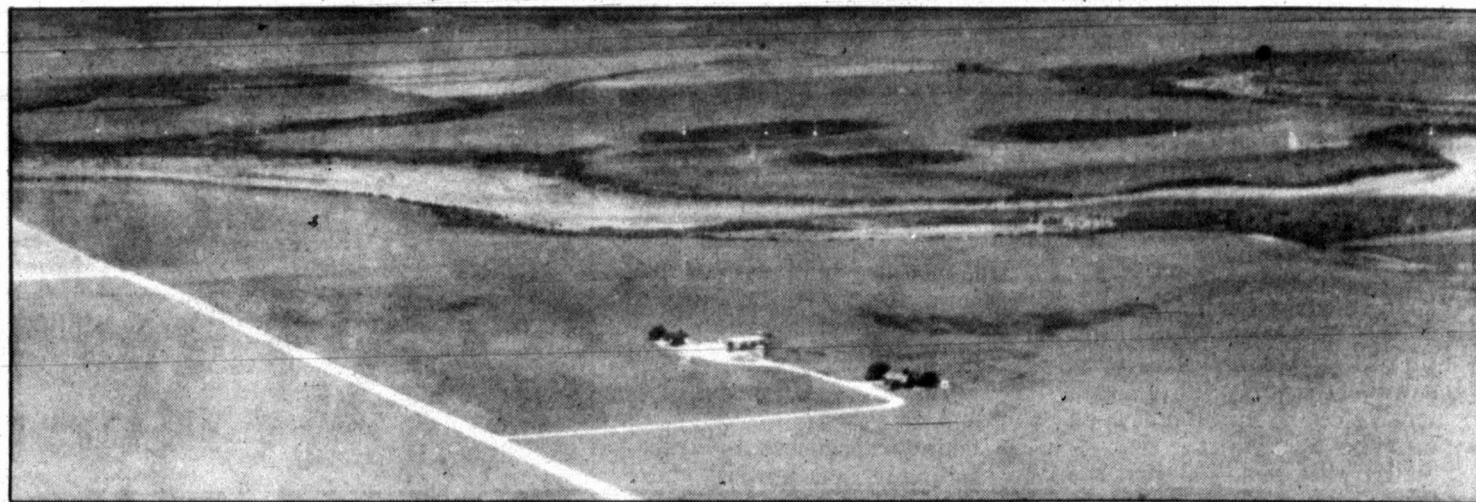

A public hearing on a proposed flood and pollution control dam on Sulphur Creek Draw in Martin County has been scheduled for Tuesday in Stanton following concern voiced by county residents there.

The hearing, to be conducted by the Colorado River Municipal Water District, is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in the district courtroom of the Martin County Courthouse.

The $2 million Sulphur Creek Dam will help prevent salty water from spilling out of Natural Dam Lake in Howard County and polluting Lake E.V. Spence, which supplies drinking water to 500,000 West Texans, including those in Stanton and Big Spring.

The Texas Water Commission two weeks ago issued an emergency permit for the CRMWD to build the new dam following unusually large amounts of rain in late May and early June that brought lake levels near the top of Natural Dam. The new dam is expected to be finished by September.

"We're just holding a public hearing to satisfy any curiosities people might have and to show them what it's going to look like," said CRMWD Manager Owen Ivie.

"There's a lot of people concerned about it," said Martin County Commissioner Charlie McKaskle, who lives near the dam site and learned of the proposed dam from a newspaper report. "I'm kind of glad we're having a hearing so people can have some input into it."

The dam, 13 miles northeast of Stanton, will be able to impound 8,971 acre-feet of water behind an earthen dam and another 9,150 acre-feet in a nearby playa lake and should only impact land unfit for agriculture use and underground water already "highly contaminated" with dissolved solids, Ivie said.

McKaskle said residents are concerned that more water could back up than expected at the dam, which is located on a flat site and would further

Decatur cowboy scores 90 on bull

The night belonged to the athletes.

The second night, or third night if you count Tuesday's slack, of the 59th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo was dominated by the cowboys and cowgirls as new leaders emerged in almost every event.

RELATED STORY — 5A

Fittingly, the best was saved for last as highly ranked Decatur bull rider David Fournier turned in a 90 on 2,200-pound Rock-N-Roll-Skoal. Fournier's score took over the lead from Coy Allen and Brent Thurman, who scored 77s Wednesday night. Fournier came into the rodeo ranked sixth in the world.

Making a strong move into second place was Cleveland, Texas cowboy Greg Vance, who hung onto Mr. Hyde for a score of 86. Former Howard College cowboy Randall Thornton, from Madisonville, had a 69 on his ride, the fourth best score of the night.

Two other National Finals Rodeo cowboys showed their expertise in the saddle bronc competition. Billy Etbauer, one of three brothers on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA) circuit, got the high score with an 81. The mark easily beat Wednesday's best of 74 scored by T.J. Kenney and Jim Bob Custer.

Dan Etbauer followed closely behind his brother, scoring an 79 on his ride. Craig Latham's 78 was the third best ride of the night.

Billy Etbauer is currently ranked second in the world and Dan Etbauer is ranked seventh. Their other brother, Robert, the defending world champion, won't be competing in the rodeo. Robert is currently ranked 10th in the world.

Delbert Davis of Hereford took the lead in the steer wrestling competition by downing his prey in 4.7 seconds, giving him a two-head total of 10.9.

Lomax cowboy Steve Fryar had some trouble with his steer. Fryar got to the calf quickly but lost almost two seconds getting it down. Still his time was a respectable 8.4.

Second annual cowboy poet gathering Saturday

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Born of the frontier and seasoned with humor and the flamboyance of the Old West, cowboy poetry is an art form once again thriving in Texas.

The 2nd Annual Big Spring Cowboy Poetry and Music Gathering is one of the events across the West where these men of simple guile gather and share stories of the Old West and apply the same humor and insight to the economic and environmental issues of today, according to Marae Brooks of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Cowboy poetry can be traced to the 1800s when cowboys wrote and recited poetry to help pass the time on the long cattle drives, according to Alvin Davis, cowboy poet and chairman of the National Cowboy Symposium and Celebration in Lubbock.

After the herds were calmed down for the night, the cowboys used the poetry as a diversion, sometimes putting them to familiar tunes on simple instruments, he said.

Currently, cowboy poets are professionals and business people who share their talents and observations via this unique art form, said Clay Lindley of Van Horn, who was forced to cancel this year's performance due to pressing business with the Texas Department of Agriculture in Van Horn where he serves as a range conservationist.

One of the returning poets this year is the Rev. Monte Jones, better known as "Biscuits" O'Brian. Biscuits has become a regular performer at the National Cowboy Symposium and Celebration in Lubbock, the Texas Folklife Festival in San Antonio and Storyfest in George West, according to Members approved one administrative and 13 faculty hirings in a special meeting Thursday afternoon of the Big Spring Independent School District Board.

The board also accepted new Chapter One and Chapter Two Budget agreements and approved a bid on roofing repairs at Goliad Middle School and Moss Elementary School.

Included in the hirings were Bill Tarleton as principal at Washington Elementary and Linda Gutierrez for special education instructor at Bauer Magnet School. Tarleton, 39, has 12 years experience as an educator and comes from Dawson ISD where he was principal of the elementary school.

"He doesn't have a lot of experience, but he has the right experience," Superintendent William McQueary told the board.

Railroads getting back on track

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The nation's railroads began rolling today after a congressional back-to-work order ended a two-day shutdown that disrupted freight and long-distance passenger service.

RELATED STORY — 2A

"They're getting back on the job," Transportation Secretary Andrew Card said this morning. "The trains are starting to run."

Amtrak said it would put short-haul passenger trains back on the rails in quick order, but that cross-country and other long-distance trains might not be back to normal for two days.

The freight railroads said three quarters of their trains would be running in 24 hours.

But union leaders clearly were unhappy that President Bush signed the back-to-work legislation into law at 1:02 a.m. EDT today, less than an hour after Congress acted.

"I think Congress bowed to blackmail," said Jed Dodd, chief negotiator for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees. "The railroad industry essentially held the Congress hostage to crush the collective bargaining rights of railroad employees."

But a Bush spokesman, Paul Clarke, said the arbitration law offers labor and management an opportunity to settle the issues between themselves.

"If that proves impossible, the bill also offers a fair way to resolve any impasse to keep the railroads and our economy moving," Clarke said.

DALLAS — Freight railroads have said they expected to have 75 percent of their trains running within 24 hours after back-to-work legislation is enacted.

Some spots — such as the Port of Beaumont — were dramatically impacted by the two-day rail strike that was ended early today by Congress and President Bush.

Bush signed the arbitration law at 1:02 a.m. EDT today, less than an hour after Congress acted. The new law orders a 35-day negotiating period.

Roger Campbell, spokesman for Fort Worth-based Burlington Northern, said 60 percent of the company's 365 parked rail cars were back in operation by 7 a.m. He said he expected to be in full operation within 24 hours.

"We have no idea yet what the economic impact is for Burlington Northern," he said.

In Beaumont, grain shipments scheduled for foreign ports had been delayed, while a load of military equipment expected to arrive this weekend would have been stranded, spokesman John Roby said.

"Everything's pretty well at a standstill," Roby told the Beaumont Enterprise.

Chevron spokesman Art Spencer told the Enterprise its Port Arthur lubricants and grease distribution center could not survive for long without rail service.

DuPont's facility in Orange, which produces ingredients for nylon and plastics, could have seen more than one-third of its efforts slowed, spokesman Mike Nicholas said.

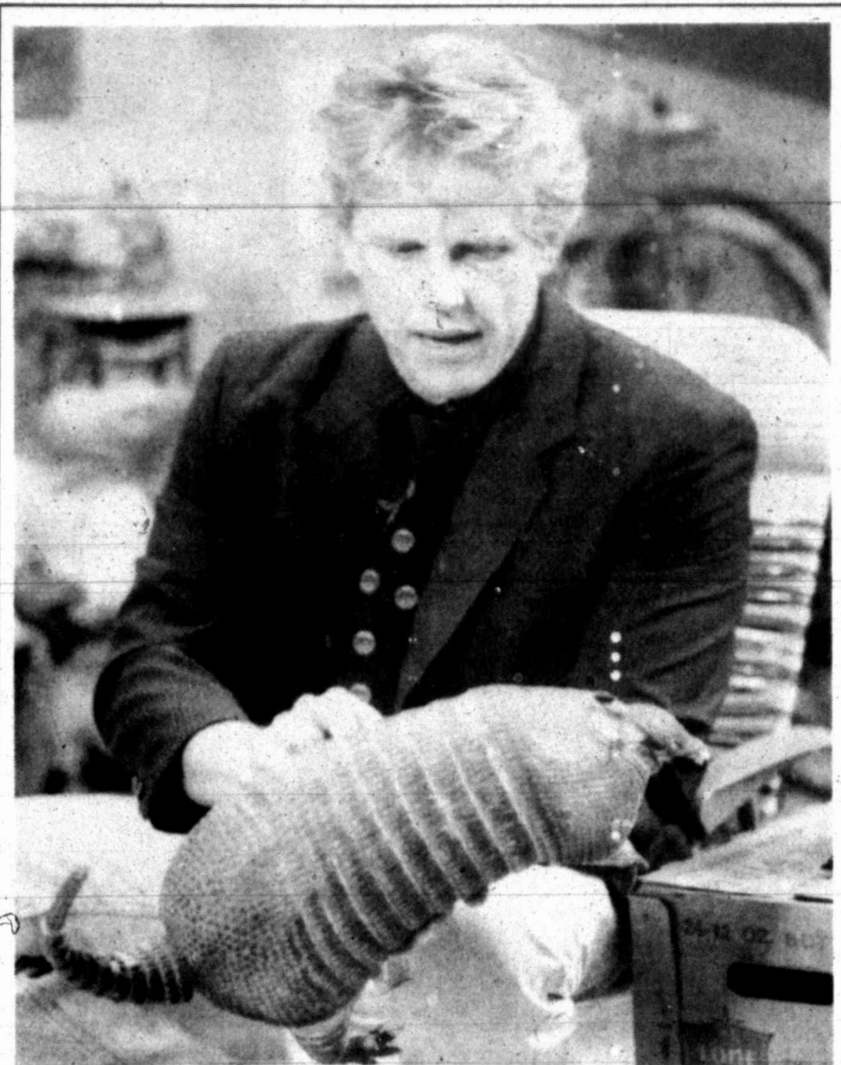

"We have about 18,000 to 20,000 shipments annually and 38 percent of that is by rail," he told the newspaper.

"In this day and age of bad economic times ... it's hard to believe this could become a prolonged situation," Jeff Joachim of Houston's World Trade Distribution told the Houston Chronicle.

Joachim's warehouse and trucking company was among those forced to make alternate shipping and delivery plans in the wake of the walkout.

Some companies had been prepared.

Officials at Southwestern Public Service Co., which supplies power to residents across the Panhandle, said they had stored a two-month supply of coal.

Teachers' group endorses new tax

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — A tax on bullets could help school districts pay for security measures, the Texas Federation of Teachers has told a House subcommittee on gangs.

"School districts are having to spend increasing amounts of money to combat violence and vandalism," Walter Hinojosa, TFT legislative director, told lawmakers Thursday.

For example, Hinojosa said, Houston Independent School District has spent more than $1 million on security, including metal detectors for a number of schools and security personnel.

Truancy programs also would be a good investment of state dollars, Hinojosa said. Some have discussed imposing a 1-cent tax on each bullet and shotgun shell sold, which by one estimate would raise $300 million a year.

Hinojosa told the subcommittee that education can be a "relatively cheap date" in the effort to combat juvenile crime.

He cited figures that the state spends about $16,000 a year to keep a criminal in prison, compared with $3,700 to educate a student.

"Unfortunately, many of the kids active in gangs today will end up on the expensive end of this government dole," Hinojosa said.

The subcommittee also heard from state Attorney General Dan Morales, who said the Legislature should explore the idea of regional alternative education and youth service facilities to help fight the gang problem.

"Fighting gang violence requires a declaration of war, but it is a war for the hearts and minds of misguided kids," he said.

Morales also stressed the need for uniform reporting standards among law enforcement agencies on gang activity, so that the state can accurately gauge the size of the problem.

Public education also is important, he said.

"The consensus we need for strong action is obscured by a number of prevailing myths about gangs," Morales said.

For example, he said, many people wrongly believe that criminal gangs are only a "big city problem," or that their members come only from among minorities or poor families.

COSTA MESA, Calif. — Despite a best-selling solo album, country music singer Wynonna Judd fears failure.

"I constantly worry that I'll get out on stage and fall on my face or totally humiliate my family," she said. "Am I gonna get out there and ... spell potato wrong or something?"

Miss Judd, 27, who used to tour as The Judds with her mother, Naomi, also says she misses her mom. Naomi Judd retired in January because of chronic hepatitis.

"On one hand, I feel real proud. I put this band together and I'm making a decision," she said of her solo career. "And then I get on the bus and I feel like, you know, where's Mom? It feels very foreign to me. It's like somebody cut off

Miss Judd, whose solo debut album "Wynonna" has sold more than 1 million copies, is to perform in Costa Mesa on Saturday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Fred Rogers of "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" will be honored today by the Illinois State Bar Association.

The longtime host of PBS' show was chosen "because of his lifetime commitment to helping children," the Bar Association said in a news release Thursday.

The award caps the group's Year of the Child activities.

TULSA, Okla. — Miss Oklahoma DuShane Carter says she's dedicated to fighting breast cancer, especially since she had a lump removed just days after the state pageant.

"My fight to get more funding for breast cancer research will go on long after the pageant is over," the 21-year-old said. "It's not just something I say to impress a judge."

Miss Carter, who will compete for the Miss America crown in September, said her doctor is 99 percent sure the breast lump was not cancerous. She still awaits biopsy results from the surgery June 16.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Jazz great Joe Williams says Count Basie's secret as a band leader was that he let his players alone.

"The sum total of that band was what the men contributed. Nobody in that band intruded on anybody else," he said.

The 73-year-old Williams, who rose to fame in the 1950s as a member of the Count Basie Band, performs Saturday in Nashville.

Williams also performed with Lionel Hampton, Coleman Hawkins, Duke Ellington and Buddy Rich.

LOS ANGELES — A man arrested outside Janet Jackson's house has pleaded innocent to charges of stalking the pop singer. "He thinks he's Janet Jackson's husband," Deputy City Attorney Holly Beckner said. "He is willing to engage in disruptive acts simply to get her attention."

Frank Jones, 33, of New York, pleaded innocent Tuesday to charges of trespassing, making terroristic threats and stalking.

He was arrested Monday in the driveway of the gated Jackson family compound in the Los Angeles suburb of Encino, Beckner said. Family security guards held Jones until police arrived.

NEW YORK — Producer and playwright George Abbott turned 105 with one regret — he hasn't been back to Broadway for more than a year.

"There's a whole flock of new stuff. I'd like to go up and put in a week and see everything," he said by telephone Thursday from Philadelphia, where he was celebrating his birthday with his wife and friends.

Abbott wrote, directed, produced or acted in more than 120 plays and musicals. Among the Broadway plays he directed were "The Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees" and "Pal Joey."

He was the co-recipient of the 1960 Pulitzer Prize for "Fiorello." The last show he directed on Broadway was the 1983 revival of "On Your Toes," which he originally directed and co-wrote in 1936.

SPACE CENTER, Houston — The seven astronauts on Columbia's marathon mission will be too busy to get sick of each other, a NASA official said as the 13-day flight entered its second day.

While in space, the crew of five men and two women will grow crystals, study drops of fluids, set small fires in sealed chambers, and undergo medical tests needed to gain understanding of the effects of extended space travel.

The mission, NASA's longest shuttle flight, is intended to prepare for longer shuttle trips and life on a space station.

"We're going to find out whether those kids are really friends or not," said Brewster Shaw, deputy director of the shuttle program.

Columbia blasted off from Florida's Kennedy Space Center just after noon Thursday. It is due back July 8.

The crew quickly powered up Spacelab, a 23-foot laboratory in the cargo bay. Almost all the round-the-clock research will be performed there.

Shaw, an ex-astronaut, said Columbia's crew would be less cramped because of the extra room Spacelab provides.

"This is obviously the longest mission we've flown so they'll be cooped up together," Shaw said. "But we've flown seven people before without a Spacelab module, which is a heck of a lot more cramped than they're going to be.

"They're going to be so busy over these 13 days that I'm pretty sure they won't have time to get mad at each other," he said.

Crystal experiments were among the first to be activated. The mission is expected to yield thousands of specimens bigger and purer than those cultivated on Earth, where gravity hampers growth.

Scientists hope the crystals will speed the search for drugs against AIDS and other diseases, and lead to better semiconductors and infrared detectors.

Astronauts also tested the glovebox, a sealed compartment where they will study the behavior of small fires in low gravity.

"It looks like we're off and running, and we're looking forward to the rest of the flight," payload commander Bonnie Dunbar said.

NASA plans two more 13-day flights before lengthening to 16 days and more. The agency hopes to have astronauts living on a space station for months at a time by the decade's end.

The third and final mission of Skylab, an orbiting station, lasted 84 days in 1973-74. The record for a shuttle flight was 10 days and 21 hours, set by Columbia in 1990.

EC trying to reassure voters

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LISBON, Portugal — With their vision of a unified Europe battered after Danes rejected a treaty on closer ties, European Community leaders today discussed limiting the trading bloc's central authority to reassure other voters.

The two-day summit that opened today is the first gathering of the 12 leaders since the Danes voted down the so-called Maastricht Treaty in a June 2 referendum. The vote upset the community's union program and underscored simmering doubts in other nations.

Despite Ireland's ratification of the treaty in a referendum last week, the Danish vote altered the atmosphere in the community. The treaty is likely to dominate the summit because it cannot be implemented next year unless every nation endorses it.

"If you can't join them, beat them," Danish Foreign Minister Uffe Ellemann Jensen remarked as he arrived at Lisbon's Belem Cultural Center.

Egon Klepsch, the German president of the European Parliament, said in an opening address that the Danish referendum was the biggest blow yet to European integration.

The community will "follow resolutely the process of integration to achieve European union," Klepsch insisted.

However, European diplomats said they expected the leaders to agree to a statement that would emphasize restricting the EC's central authority, the Brussels-based European Commission, to matters that cannot be handled at a national level.

Britain hopes a new emphasis on bolstering national powers will enable the Danes to find a way to ratify the treaty, allowing it to be implemented next year as scheduled.

"We do not want a centralized executive in Brussels which tried to insert its tentacles into the nooks and crannies of national life," said British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd.

The community's paymasters — Germany, France and Britain — are leading objections to proposals for a 31 percent increase, to $116 billion, in the 1997 budget to finance the unity program.

Britain, which takes over the community's six-month rotating presidency from Portugal on July 1, will press for the budget issue to be left until it is in charge, British officials said.

The Danes narrowly rejected the union treaty reached in December in the Dutch town of Maastricht by the leaders of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Greece, Spain, Portugal, Ireland and Denmark.

The treaty, calling for a common foreign and security policy and a single European currency by 1999, was accepted by Ireland in a June 18 referendum. Apart from a planned French referendum, the other countries' parliaments will vote on the treaty.

"Certainly (the Danish vote) is hanging over everything that happens," said Finn Laursen, professor at the European Institute of Public Administration in Maastricht. "It is clear the community is facing a kind of crisis."

Previously, Britain was often a lone voice in objecting to what its Conservative government saw as progressive erosion of national sovereignty.

But now the others also have reservations about giving up more powers to the unelected European Commission or the 518-member elected European Parliament.

In France, for example, resentment of the community is growing among farmers angry at cutbacks in farm subsidies. In Germany, there are second thoughts about abandoning the powerful mark for a European currency.

Angry farmers pile up tires they are going to set on fire while their colleagues park their tractors in front of the main entrance to EuroDisneyland amusement park in Marne la Vallee, east of Paris, Friday. About 500 militant farmers drove 300 tractors across the main car entrance and roads leading to the park in protest of the European Community's farm subsidies policies.

House panel scrapes to finance new programs

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the federal treasury running on empty, the House Ways and Means Committee is scraping the bottom of the barrel to find the taxes to finance new programs.

The committee's latest effort, approved Thursday by voice vote, is a mixture of new and extended benefits — highlighted by a new enterprise zone program to help revitalize the nation's inner cities and blighted rural areas.

Mixed in with all those benefits are targeted tax increases to pay for them.

Among the losers: Families that move to take a new job; securities dealers; some investors in real estate; recreational boaters; business people accustomed to writing off their club dues; and the heirs to some of the nation's richest estates.

The bill would cut taxes by about $14.4 billion over the next five years and raise other taxes by the same amount. The House is expected to vote on the package next week, and there is no assurance it will pass.

For one thing, some of those proposed tax increases aren't all that popular.

And Republicans insist that the enterprise zone proposals approved by the Democratic-controlled committee are far too stingy in offering relief from capital-gains taxes.

Investors and businesses in the 50 proposed enterprise zones would not have to pay capital-gains taxes on investments in the zones as long as the gains were reinvested in the zones.

That is not enough to help potential investors take the risk of putting their money into a blighted neighborhood, insisted Rep. Bill Archer of Texas, senior Republican on the committee. Only a full exclusion from the capital-gains tax would work, he said.

The bill also would extend a dozen special tax breaks that are due to expire June 30. These are popular enough that they could overcome lawmakers' reluctance to raise taxes to pay for them.

Among these extensions are benefits for the self-employed who must buy their own health insurance; employees whose employers help them pay for education and group legal services; moderate-income families buying a first home; and higher-income people who give art and other appreciated property to charity.

Another popular item in the bill would repeal luxury taxes on expensive furs, jewels, yachts and planes. The 10 percent tax on high-priced cars would be continued, but the $30,000 level at which it takes effect would be adjusted each year to offset inflation.

The single biggest money raiser in the bill — $3.5 billion — would hit workers who have to move because of a job change. The measure would impose a $5,000 limit on tax-deductible moving expenses.

The bill would relax a 1986 law on "passive losses" and permit builders and real estate managers to use losses on real estate activities to shield wages and other income from taxes. The provision would apply only to property placed in service before Wednesday.

The bill would eliminate the tax deduction allowed for dues paid to athletic, business or social clubs. Owners of diesel-powered recreational boats would have to start paying the diesel tax of 20.1 cents a gallon starting Oct. 1.

Doctor killed by patient in exam room

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — One of the nation's leading pediatric specialists was gunned down in an examining room by a man officials said was angry over the treatment he received for a hearing problem.

Dr. John Kemink, 42, was shot in the head, shoulder and abdomen Thursday at the University of Michigan Hospitals clinic where he worked and died a short time later, officials said.

A 67-year-old man was arrested minutes later as he tried to leave the building, said university spokesman Joseph Owsley.

The man was a regular patient of Kemink's, said Leo Heatley, chief of the university's police department.

The suspect's name was withheld pending arraignment today, Heatley said. "Apparently he was a disgruntled patient," Owsley said.

Letters

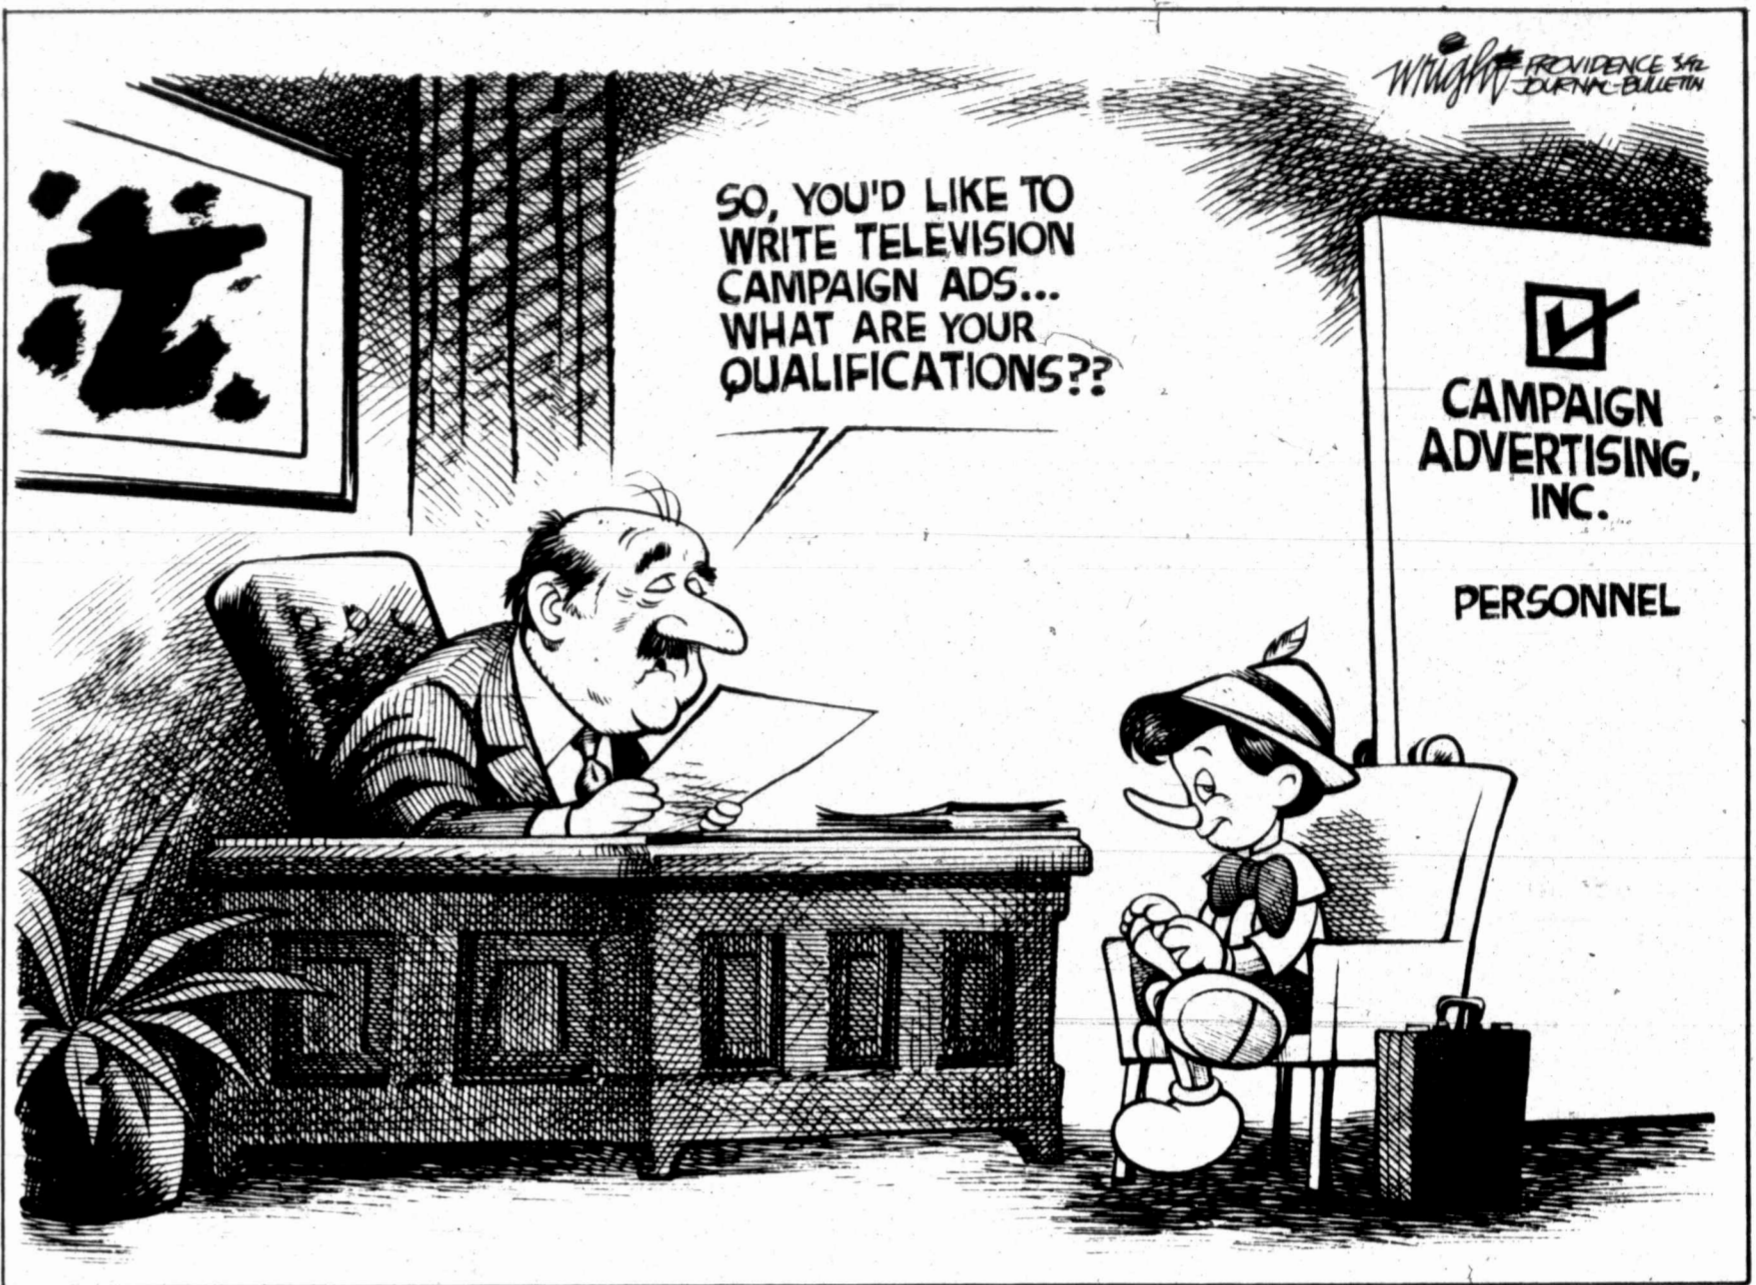

The Big Spring Herald recognizes the importance of the "Letters to the Editor" column and letters on issues of general interest are welcomed.

To be considered for publication, letters must adhere to the following guidelines:

- Letters must be signed and must include a street address and daytime phone number for verification, although the address will not be published.
- Letters should be no more than 300 words in length. While some lengthy letters are published, we reserve the right to edit when necessary due to space limitations.
- Letters should be typewritten and double-spaced if possible. If handwritten, letters must be legible.
- Form letters will not be published.
- Representative letters will be published when numerous letters are received on the same topic.
- Letters of political endorsement will be published on local and regional campaigns. No letter of endorsement will be published within seven days of an election.
- Local candidates are allowed one letter to present their viewpoint. Candidates' letters are subject to the same limitations as those submitted by non-candidates.
- The Herald reserves the right to limit publication of letters to one per month per writer.

Because we cannot research and verify all information in letters, by publishing them we neither imply nor guarantee the accuracy of information stated by writers.

Letters should be sent to: The Editor, Big Spring Herald, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79721.

The Writer's Art

Wrong words are always wrong

Back in February the bankers of San Antonio planned a reception to honor one of their own, C.J. Krause, for his 50 years of service to Cullen-Frost Bankers Inc. Reported the Express-News:

"The senior vice president and cashier faces his latest rite of passage with duplicity. 'I accept it with mixed emotions,' he said. 'In a spirit of respectful admiration, I nominate that item as the finest malapropism of 1992. It is the kind of mix-up that makes an editor go quietly mad. Duplicity? Was "equanimity" the intended word? Probably not; in view of the mixed emotions, but what was the errant noun?'

Here is another mystery for you, from The Birmingham (Ala.) News in March. The story had to do with "Embrace the Serpent," a novel by Marilyn Quayle. Crown Publishers had ordered a first printing of 75,000 and had picked up the check for a 10-city promotional tour. Said the News: "It is a way to show that 'Embrace the Serpent' is not a dilatory exercise."

Well, now, a dilatory exercise would be an exercise in procrastination or purposeful delay. Members of the U.S. Senate are masters of dilatory exercise. Did the writer mean to say that Mrs. Quayle is a serious novelist who is not engaged in a dilettantish exercise? Seems likely.

Even the venerable New York Times confuses us now and then. The Times carried a review of "Basic Instinct," a lurid, red-hot, violent, dangerous and sexually frank film that begins with a naked lady stabbing a naked gentleman with an ice pick. Two detectives interview the blond bombshell who is the prime suspect. "They exchange wary glances over Catherine's absolute diffidence and superiority."

If there is one thing the lady was not, she was certainly not "diffident," which is to say, she was not reserved, shy, hesitant, or lacking in self-confidence. As we say in fractured French, O contraire! She is described as mocking, seductive, malicious, contemptuous and disdainful. How did "diffident" get in there? The ghost of Mrs. Malaprop ought to be interrogated also.

The U.S. hockey team was in Meribel, France, in February for the Winter Olympics. USA Today quoted Coach Dave Peterson: "I think we've had a good acclamation period since we came over to France."

As a matter of fact, the team had come to the tournament "barred by criticism." Our players had been denounced as "dirty." They weren't acclaimed. They had dodged bottles and stink bombs. What did the coach really mean to say? He was probably after "acclimation" or "acclimatization," a period of adjustment to being booed and hissed.

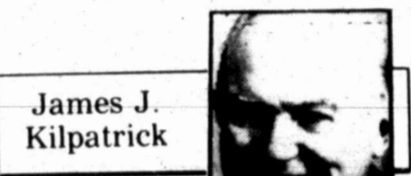

In Redlands, Calif., last fall, police arrested a suspect in a string of burglaries. The fellow had been convicted in 1985 of 28 residential burglaries in which thousands of dollars worth of property were stolen. Said the police chief: "He was very prolific at that time."

Prolific? Maybe so, if the burglaries were "marked by abundant inventiveness or productivity," but I suspect the chief had some other adjective in mind.

In Vero Beach, Fla., a staff writer for the Press-Journal interviewed the author of a new guidebook for the area. The book "is a handy resource for the moribund tourist." Moribund? To be moribund is to be approaching death. A moribund tourist would be a tourist in very bad shape indeed. What kind of tourist did the staff writer have in mind? Beats me.

Back in January, the Palm Beach area went through a spasm of uneasiness about spoiled fish. The Post interviewed a local specialist in the fish market. He said that "most people wouldn't want to eat fish that doesn't smell right, doesn't look right, and is simply impalpable."

There is some sound advice for you: Never eat a fish that is simply impalpable.

James J. Kilpatrick

Thinking of things in Florida: The Associated Press reported from Tampa on the recovery of sunken treasure. Salvagers had brought up 11 silver coins, 15 ceramic containers, "and a pair of brass sextons."

For a church to have even one brass sexton would be regrettable. But two? The vestry, the elders or the pastor had better call in the surly fellows and give them a lesson in being polite.

Being a Trekie is tough admission

Everybody has a deep dark secret.

It could be worse. Some have deep mental aberrations that are best kept secret. Some have homicidal or suicidal ideations.

I'm a Trekie.

This is tough to admit. The popular notion of a trekie is a 35-year-old nerd still living in his parents basement.

Oh, I don't mean I wear Vulcan ears to Star Trek conventions. I don't need to go to TTrekies Anonymous.

"Hello, my name is Gary and I'm a Trekie." Crowd — "Live long and prosper!"

But I like the idea that human society can one day evolve into something more grand than the crime, poverty, starvation and disease infested chaos it sometimes seems to be.

The fantasy of a time in the future, when all of Earth's problems are solved and mankind can devote all resources to pure research and the exploration of space, really grabs me as the ultimate justification of existence. I guess the reason it's so appealing is, I'm not sure humanity will ever reach the level of sophistication depicted in Star Trek. And the recent scrapping of plies of cheap electricity, all of the world's problems could be solved.

From electricity, we can get hydrogen from ordinary water. Airplanes and other engines that cannot easily run on electricity, can be powered with hydrogen. The combustion (oxidation) of hydrogen merely returns it to water, leaving none of the toxic contaminants and greenhouse gasses we get from burning fossil fuels.

With clean, unlimited electricity, we could mechanize to our hearts delight, fly supersonic from here to Dallas and back just for lunch, and still live in a garden paradise, free from the pollution of common combustion power.

OK wise guy, where do we get unlimited supplies of clean electricity. We don't have the technology to get enough juice from sunlight, and you've already said nuclear power is ridiculously dangerous — where's it going to come from?

Well, I don't know, doggone it! But I do know that we'll never find it if research projects like the Waxahachie supercollider are scrapped in favor of building the superconducting supercollider has really enforced this idea. I'm not talking specifically about the technology of Star Trek. It's highly unlikely that we'll ever find a way for matter to travel faster than light.

I'm talking about the ability to bond humanity into a cohesive group, set upon common goals. To at least develop technology to the point where the environment is conducive to life; and everyone on the planet is fed, educated and given access to medical care. Only when the basic needs of the body are met, can a person turn his energies to higher things.

While there may or may not be a way to travel faster than light, somewhere — lurking in the unexplored recesses of science — is a way to bring adequate quantities of good, clean power to the inhabitants of this planet. Electricity is the name of the game. With near unlimited sup-bombers and other stupid war crap!

The reason scientists need the collider is to learn new stuff! How do we know what we'll find until we get there?

What if the secrets of cold fusion power is lurking in this un-built supercollider? Vast amounts of juice with no radioactive residue.

Our current technology is killing us, and our "Environmental President" hasn't done much to instill faith, especially when he snubbed the first global effort to address the future of the planet.

We're just now, as a species, learning how small the Earth really is, and the Earth isn't doing so hot (Oh, the rock and magma parts will survive, I'm sure. I'm talking about the parts that support life).

Autopsies commonly show how a patient should have been treated in order to save his life. But there won't be anyone around to do a post-mortem on the Earth, we've got to learn more about the old girl while there's still time.

Peace.

Tulia coach to head Steers basketball

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Gary Tipton was approved by the Big Spring School Board as the new head boys basketball coach Thursday afternoon.

The 38-year-old Tipton replaces Tommy Washington, who accepted the Stephenville boys basketball position. Tipton comes to Big Spring from Tulia, a Class AAA school in the Panhandle. Tipton, who coached at Tulia for three seasons, has 17 years coaching experience, 16 as a boys head basketball coach.

Tipton is from Dalhart and comes from a coaching family. His dad, Wayne Tipton, was a coach at Dalhart when Tipton played. Tipton's head football coach at Dalhart was Doc Rowell, who's now the head baseball coach at Coahoma.

Tipton attended Amarillo College for one year before graduating from West Texas State University in 1975 with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Physical Education.

His first coaching job was a ninth grade basketball coach at Pampa. The following year he was named head basketball coach at Happy, a Class A school. He had three winning seasons at Happy, finishing second in district each season.

District teams Silvertson and Narazeth made it to the state tournament two of those years.

His next job was at Ralls, a Class AA school, for four years. "We became competitive," said Tipton of his stint at Ralls. "We went from obscurity to the thick of things."

Tipton's next stop was at Frenship, which was a Class AAA school at that time. He stayed six years at Frenship, which eventually moved up Class 4A.

"We made the playoffs the first year and lost in bi-district," said Tipton. Then we became one of the smallest AAAA schools in Texas, I think we had something like seven over the limit. We upped our district win record each year, but we weren't dynamic by any means."

At Tulia, Tipton took a team and had to build it from the ground up. "They have won five ballgames in the previous two years," he said. "The program was a little down, but I knew they had good athletes. They had been to the playoffs in football and had won the district track championship. They had good athletes, it was just getting them to play."

His first year at Tulia his team went 12-15. The second year it went 16-13 and made the playoffs and was 19-11 and made the playoffs.

Tipton said he heard about the Big Spring opening in May. "I still have contact with Frenship, my brother Sam is the head football coach. Everything he told me about Big Spring was real positive. To be honest, Big Spring is the only school I've talked to in three years.

The situation looked very appealing. It's a great situation to put yourself in to. It would've had to be that kind of situation to leave Tulia. I was highly impressed with coach Butler (Dwight) and Mr. Bowerman (Kent). I liked what I saw with what came along with a great reputation Big Spring has built." Tipton said he wants his team to be versatile in its game plan. "In order to be successful in 4A basketball you have to be able to do a multitude of things well. We want to be able to run if the opportunity presents itself. Also we want to be able to run a halfcourt offense. You have to play with what your talents performs the best."

Tipton and his wife Kay, have two sons. Lance is a 20-year-old sophomore at South Plains and Doug is a 10-year-old fifth grader. Kay will be teaching first grade at Washington Elementary.

Tipton's step-dad Mark Hayworth, and mother Tommie live in Big Spring.

A familiar voice to rodeo fans

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Randy Corley had a modest beginning. Now he's made it to the big time.

Corley's voice is the one you'll hear at the 59th Annual Big Spring Cowboys Reunion and Rodeo. He has been announcing at the rodeo for the past seven years, one of the stops among the 32 rodeos he'll announce this season.

Corley is considered one of the top announcers on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association circuit. He has the credentials to back it up. He was the PRCA Announcer of the Year in 1984, '90 and '91 and has announced the National Finals Rodeo in 1985 and '86.

Corley's career had an illustrious beginning in Broken Bow, Neb. After attending Broadcast School for a year in Seattle, Corley got a job working for a small radio station in Broken Bow in 1978. "I used to ride bareback bronc, but I wasn't very successful, mind you. That's why I had to do something else," said Corley.

Corley's break into the broadcasting business came at radio station KCNI in Broken Bow. "It was like any small town radio station, you work from noon to sign-off and empty the garbage and clean the toilets in the meantime. After that I tended bar at night to make ends meet," said Corley.

A few years later Corley got his first job announcing at a rodeo. Bill Smith, a three-time world saddle bronc riding champion, started a series of rodeos in North Platte, about 70 miles from Broken Bow. Smith asked Corley to announce the rodeos, which were seven days a week, all summer long.

His big break occurred when Hadley Barrett came to one of the rodeos to listen to Corley. Barrett, a long-time PRCA announcer himself, was asked by his son and daughter to come listen to Corley.

Randy Corley, of North Platte, Neb., describes the action to the crowd at the 59th Annual Big Spring Cowboys Reunion and Rodeo at the Big Spring

Rodeo Bowl. Corley has been named PRCA Announcer of the Year three times. This is his seventh year at the Big Spring rodeo.

"(He Barrett) asked me if I would be interested in getting my PRCA card," said Corley. To obtain a PRCA card an announcer has to be endorsed by two PRCA members, in this case it was Barrett and one of his friends.

From that point, Corley's PRCA career took off. Five years later Corley married Barrett's daughter, Michelle. They have a son and a daughter, Cole Edward is three-years-old old and Brittany is two.

In his 12-year career Corley has become one of the most well known announcers in the PRCA. He says a major key to being successful is knowing the background on the cowboys competing and being able to ad-lib.

"What's tough is knowing the circuit cowboys," he said. "You already know the big names. You store it all in your memory, anything that is important. You have a script, but you just can't read it. You have to announce what's actually happening out there, and nothing ever happens by the script."

Surprisingly, the NFR isn't all the glamour and fun it's cracked up to be, according to Corley. "It's the biggest there is, but it's tough to work and it's certainly not the most enjoyable. But prestige wise, it's good to say you've been there.

"It's like going to the cotton field for 10 days, you're going to work all day long. It's a pretty heavy myth that once you get to the Finals your career is made. I've seen the Finals ruin a lot of people."

The drawbacks of working the PRCA is numerous travel hours. "For me it's the worst and best part," he said. "I love to travel and meet new people. But with two kids and an awful good wife, it's harder and harder to walk out of that door. I always say I get paid to travel. I announce the rodeo free because it's fun."

Workers clean up the aftermath of a wreck that killed Philadelphia Eagles' Jerome Brown and his 12-year-old nephew in Brooksville, Fla. Thursday.

Eagles star killed in vehicle accident

BROOKSVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Friends and colleagues of Philadelphia Eagles star defensive lineman Jerome Brown say they will best remember him for his zany humor in the locker room and his kindness off the field.

Brown, 27, was killed Thursday when the sports car he was driving skidded out of control and flipped on a slippery road in his hometown, Brooksville police chief Ed Tinchler said.

Brown's 12-year-old nephew also died in the single-car accident, Tinchler said. The boy's name was not immediately released.

"He hit a palm tree when he left the shoulder of the road," a witness, told the Ocala Star-Banner. The car "rolled over and wound up against a light pole."

Brown, a powerful 6-foot-2, 295-pound tackle, anchored the Eagles' defensive line. He was voted to the Pro Bowl the past two seasons.

"This is a devastating loss to his family, his friends, his community and obviously to this football team," Eagles general manager Harry Gamble said.

McEnroe outlasts Cash in five sets

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — One wears a knee brace and is losing his hair. The other spends almost as much time playing guitar as tennis. Both have wedding rings and small children.

But former champions John McEnroe and Pat Cash frolicked like a couple of teenagers Thursday on Centre Court, producing great tennis and high drama before McEnroe won in five sets.

They dived after balls and rolled into the net. They cursed at themselves and fussed at line judges. They hit blistering aces and soft drop shots, overhead slams and delicate lobs.

And, for four hours, the unseeded veterans created the tension-filled tennis that has been in short supply at a Wimbledon tournament featuring few upsets and many lopsided matches.

McEnroe, a three-time Wimbledon champion, lost a pair of tiebreakers but rallied to defeat 1987 champion Cash 6-7 (3-7), 6-4, 6-7 (1-7), 6-3, 6-2.

"I climbed off the ropes and was able to get a second wind. He had me on the ropes," McEnroe said. "We both played really hard. It was a great match."

Only five of the 32 seeded players — three women and two men — were eliminated in the first two rounds, an unusually low number for the quirky grass courts of Wimbledon.

Jim Courier, the top seed who hasn't lost a set since the quarter-finals of the French Open, defeated Byron Black 6-4, 6-1, 6-4 on Thursday, but fourth-seeded Boris Becker needed five sets to beat Martin Damm.

Becker, who's won three Wimbledon titles and reached three other finals in the last seven years, defeated the Czechoslovak 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Andre Agassi, the 12th seed, started slowly but defeated Eduardo Masso 4-6, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3. David Wheaton, the 16th seed, defeated American compatriot Todd Martin 6-3, 6-3, 6-7 (3-7), 6-3 and will face McEnroe in the third round.

Others advancing to the third round included No. 9 Guy Forget and No. 14 Wayne Ferreira. Petr Korda, the sixth seed, was eliminated by Jakob Hlasek in a marathon match that went to 16-14 in the final set.

Women's defending champion Steffi Graf cruised to a 6-1, 6-1 defeat of Marianne Werdel and nine-time champion Martina Navratilova finished off a 6-2, 3-6, 6-0 victory over Kimberly Po in a match that began Wednesday.

Gabriela Sabatini, the third seed who lost in the Wimbledon final to Graf last year, was a 6-2, 6-3 winner over Isabelle Demongeot.

Jennifer Capriati, seeded sixth, crushed fellow American Pam Shriver 6-2, 6-4 in a Centre-Court mismatch that was even more lopsided than the score.

Also advancing were No. 9 Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, No. 11 Jana Novotna, No. 13 Zina Garrison and No. 16 Judith Wiesner.

Conchita Martinez, seeded eighth but a poor grass-court player, lost 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 to Natalia Zvereva.

McEnroe, 33, who won his last Grand Slam title in 1984, produced memories of his old brilliance against Cash — including drop shots, lobs and sharply angled volleys.

McEnroe, wearing a bright, red knee brace and a grimace when he missed shots, lost the tiebreakers but gradually regained control in the final two sets.

He yelled at himself and line judges, slashed the ground with his racket and showed flashes of his famous temper — but never lost control.

Cash is six years younger than McEnroe, but has played infrequently this year and fallen to 191st in the world. He said his lack of match experience made it emotionally difficult to finish off the match.

Dodgers top Astros, 8-5

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One down and 21 to go.

The most critical 18 days of the Los Angeles Dodgers' season of underachievement began Thursday night with an 8-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

And while the defense appeared as suspect as it was in their just-concluded 1-10 road trip, the pitching of Ramon Martinez and the timely hitting of Lenny Harris and Jose Offerman were enough to overcome it.

"Things aren't impossible in this game," said Harris, who had a pair of RBI doubles against Houston's Jimmy Jones (3-1). "Anything can happen if you put your mind to it, play as hard as you can and don't worry about mistakes."

The only two mistakes the Dodgers made were Offerman's wild relay throw from shortstop on a potential double play grounder by Scooter Tucker in the second inning and a dropped foul pop by catcher Carlos Hernandez that led to one of Jeff Bagwell's four hits.

Both miscues led to unearned runs and increased the Dodgers' error total this season to 64 in 67 games, tops in the National League. The defensive horror show was prevalent in Dodgers' road trip, which included the last nine games of a 10-game losing streak — their longest since 1961.

The Dodgers feel they can make a 180-degree turn now they've returned to Dodger Stadium — where they are only one game over .500. The recent resurgence of the Pittsburgh Pirates gives them hope.

Eric Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers is in for a stolen base as Houston Astros second baseman Craig Biggio makes the tag Thursday in Los Angeles.

Martinez (4-4) was charged with four runs and eight hits over six-plus innings. He struck out four, walked three and threw 105 pitches in his first start in 11 days.

"If I kept going I might have made it worse," said Martinez (4-4). "But I think I'll be alright for my next start."

Offerman had a pair of RBI singles off Jones and Brett Butler added a two-run triple off Joe Boever.

Padres 8, Giants 0
At Jack Murphy Stadium, Bruce Hurst pitched a seven-hitter and struck out a season-high 11 as the San Diego sent San Francisco to its third straight shutout. The Giants were also shut out in their previous two games, losing 7-0 and 5-0 at Atlanta.

Gary Sheffield had three hits, including his 15th homer, and three RBIs for 53 on the season. He's now tied for the National League lead in both categories.

Hurst (7-5) topped his previous season best of eight strikeouts on April 22 against the Braves in recording his third shutout and fifth complete. Dave Righetti fell to 1-5, allowing six runs in 4 1-3 innings.

Twins doomed without 'Dome

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the first game of their big series at Oakland, the Minnesota Twins were outclassed because they had to play outside.

The Twins, who fell three games behind first-place Oakland in the American League West, have a well-known dome advantage. Thursday was their first game outdoors in almost two weeks.

"We had a bad time in the field, we had a bad day," Minnesota manager Tom Kelly said, after the 5-1 defeat. "Professional players are supposed to catch those balls that went for errors."

Two popups were dropped by third baseman Scott Leius.

Nothing could help the Twins adjust to Mark McGwire, who hit his 25th homer following Carney Lansford's RBI double in the first inning off loser Bill Krueger (7-2).

Bob Welch (4-4) pitched in and out of trouble for seven innings and allowed one run and eight hits. The Twins put two runners on base in three innings against Welch, but got their only run on Brian Harper's leadoff homer in the fifth.

"I didn't walk anybody and I got some good plays defensively," Welch said. "It worked out well."

Dennis Eckersley pitched 1 1-3

American League

innings for his 25th save this season and 29th straight over two seasons, an ongoing major-league record.

Yankees 4, Royals 3
At Royals Stadium, Kevin Maas hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning off Mark Gubicza (7-5) to lift New York.

Andy Stankiewicz led off the seventh with a single and Mel Hall singled with two outs. Maas then worked the count to 3-2, fouled off four pitches and hit the 10th pitch into rightfield for his ninth home run.

Scott Sanderson (6-5) held the Royals to five hits in six innings before leaving with stiffness in his side. Steve Farr got the last three outs for his 12th save.

Brewers 1, Orioles 0
At County Stadium, Ricky Bones pitched eight shutout innings and Robin Yount drove in the only run with a sacrifice fly as Milwaukee avoided a three-game sweep.

Bones (4-3) struck out two and walked two before giving way to Doug Henry with two runners on in the ninth. Henry struck out two and got a fly ball out to earn his 13th save in 15 chances. Rick Sutcliffe (9-6) took the loss.

Rangers 5, Tigers 2
At Tiger Stadium, Kevin Brown became the American League's first 11-game winner with a four-hitter to beat Detroit. Ruben Sierra had four singles and scored twice for Texas.

Brown (11-4) pitched his fifth complete game, allowing two runs, with two walks and nine strikeouts. He joined Atlanta's Tom Glavine as the only 11-game winners in the major leagues.

Rookie Buddy Groom dropped to 0-2, allowing four runs and eight hits in four-plus innings.

Mariners 13, Angels 4
At the Kingdome, Ken Griffey Jr. returned to the lineup after a 15-game absence and hit the first of four Seattle homers as the Mariners broke a five-game losing streak. It was California's fourth consecutive defeat and its 19th loss in 22 road games.

Tino Martinez capped a seven-run second, a Mariners' season-high run total for an inning, with a three-run homer. Edgar Martinez and Dave Valle also homered.

Winner Rich DeLucia (3-4) pitched six innings, giving up one earned run on eight hits. Julio Valera (4-6) gave up seven runs on five hits in 1 2-3 innings.

McGirt sends Italian into retirement

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — James "Buddy" McGirt hoped to send a message to promoters in the United States.

He certainly sent one to Italian challenger Patrizio Oliva.

McGirt scored a unanimous decision over Oliva, a former WBA junior welterweight champion, to retain the WBC welterweight title Thursday night.

Afterwards, the 33-year-old Oliva had tears in his eyes in announcing his retirement.

The reigning European welterweight champion, and a former Olympic junior welterweight titlist, sobbed "it's time to say enough."

McGirt, a 28-year-old from Brentwood, N.Y., battered Oliva throughout the 10-round bout and the challenger was bleeding from the nose and from a cut above his left eye.

"He was a brave opponent," McGirt said. "I had the match under control from the first to the last round. My title was never at risk."

McGirt, who demolished his taller opponent with steady, close-in punching, won decisively on all three cards.

American judge Thomas Kazmanek voted for McGirt 119-111. Mexican Jorge Juan Guerra and Italian Giuseppe Ferrari gave the American 118-110 and 116-112 margins, respectively.

McGirt said he was never in trouble against Oliva.

McGirt, a former IBF champion who staged the first defense of the WBC crown won from Simon Brown last year, said he was now looking forward to a rich title-fight in America.

HC boys hoop camp rescheduled

The boys basketball camp at Howard College has been rescheduled for June 28-July 2 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Cost is $85 per camp, which includes lunch. Camp times are from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The camp is held in conjunction with the Lady Hawks girls camp.

The primary purpose of the camp, which is open to boys and girls ages 8-18, is to teach fundamental basketball skills. College players and high school and college coaches make up the camp staff, which is under the direction of Howard College Lady Basketball Coach Royce Chadwick.

For more information call Chadwick at 264-5043.

Broncos player reaches settlement

DENVER (AP) — Denver Broncos receiver Vance Johnson has reached a settlement in his lawsuit against Home Box Office for allegedly broadcasting footage of him in the nude in a locker room following a game.

Details of the settlement were not available. The civil suit did not specify an amount, but said it did exceed $50,000. The suit claimed invasion of privacy, outrageous conduct, defamation and negligence.

The suit addressed videotape shot Jan. 5 after an AFC playoff game in Denver against the Houston Oilers. NFL Films, a subsidiary of the NFL, taped the game and a postgame victory speech by Broncos coach Dan Reeves.

HBO aired the tape Jan. 8 and 9, including the footage of the naked Johnson in which he was identified by Reeves. HBO later edited the segment, removing scenes of Johnson's frontal nudity.

ACC strikes deal with Peach Bowl

RALEIGH (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference signed a three-year deal with the Peach Bowl, giving the Atlanta-based postseason game a conference alliance for the first time in its 25-year history.

Neill Cameron, president of the Peach Bowl, said the agreement would allow the bowl to select the highest-ranked ACC team not playing in the two major bowl coalitions formed earlier this year, called Alliance I and Alliance II.

Five tied for lead in Buick Classic

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — Steve Elkington, Bob Tway, Ted Schulz, David Frost and Greg Kraft shot 4-under-par 67s to share the first-round lead in the Buick Classic.

Jeff Sluman, Emlyn Aubrey, Buddy Gardner, Craig Parry and Chip Beck opened with 68s on the 6,779-yard Westchester Country Club course. Tom Kite, who recorded the first major-tournament victory of his career last week in the U.S. Open, opened with a 70.

Lopez leading Rochester by one

PITTSFORD, N.Y. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, the tournament's only three-time winner, shot a 6-under-par 66 to take a one-stroke lead over Michelle McGann after the first round of the Rochester International.

Tanya Piper, 21, of 1311 Wright is in good condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center following this traffic accident near the intersection of Westover and FM 700. Piper, who was a passenger on a motorcycle, is being kept in the intensive care unit for observation, according to hospital officials.

The driver of the motorcycle, David Wayne Gilliam, 27, and the driver of the car that reportedly pulled out in front of the motorcycle, Sandra Ann Ross, 21, were treated and released from SMMCC. Piper and Gilliam reportedly flew 10 feet to 15 feet after striking the side of the car.

BSISD

Gutierrez brings 25 years experience with her from Snyder. Assistant Superintendent Murray Murphy expressed satisfaction with the mix of non-experienced "new blood" and experience among the new hires.

Also hired by the district was Gary Tipton, who replaces Tommy Washington as boys' head basketball coach.

Resignation acceptances were Kristi Couch, math teacher at the high school, and Sue Robertson of the Anderson Kindergarten Center.

The board accepted Turner Roofing's bid on maintenance at the Moss and Goliad campuses. The San Antonio firm's bid is $315,200 for the two projects. Funds for the work have already been budgeted.

Also reported on was redistricting clearance from the state department of justice. The board submits plans every 10 years for redistricting. The district will continue to operate with a voting plan of four single member and three at large board seats.

Former Sears mechanic files suit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A former Sears auto mechanic who says he was fired because he refused to cheat customers has filed a $1 million wrongful discharge lawsuit.

The lawsuit was filed Wednesday in the wake of allegations by California and New Jersey officials of widespread fraudulent practices at Sears, Roebuck and Co. Auto Centers.

that he meet quotas by cutting corners on oil changes and radiator servicing.

Other mechanics complied and also were pressured to encourage customers to have additional work done, he said.

Waddy is suing Sears for lost wages, vacation time, health benefits, pension money, as well as damages, said his lawyer, Paul Wotman.

Lawsuit against city dismissed

At least one of the lawsuits filed against the City of Big Spring has been settled bloodlessly.

A lawsuit against the city, which has been lying dormant for years, was recently dismissed by a visiting judge.

The original suit was filed by Jimmy and Dottie Leffler when the city's Planning and Zoning Commission ruled that they could not operate an automotive repair business from their home in a residential-only section of the city.

District Judge Bob Moore excused himself from ruling on the case as he also serves with the planning and zoning board, said Assistant City Manager Tom Decell.

Since the time of the filing of the suit, however, the Lefflers have secured a building to house their operation, Decell said. "It's really a win-win situation all the way around."

Hearing

plug a natural drain for the area. The capacity of Natural Dam Lake had already been doubled to 54,000 acre-feet after the only spillage ever in 1986, according to geological research.

"The concern," McKaskle said, "is what's going to happen to a lot of good farm land."

Also, Mark Hoelscher, manager of the Permian Basin Underground Water Conservation District in Stanton, said he wants to know what impact the dam will have on groundwater. "I would like to see what studies they have done to show that it will not harm groundwater."

Interested persons are invited to attend the hearing to make comments and ask any questions pertaining to the proposed project, a press release stated.

Natural Dam Lake water, naturally salty because of evaporation and salt deposits left from the prehistoric Permian Sea, is blamed for more than half of the salt in area tap water. One-third of salt in tap water is blamed on oilfield activity in the first half of the century.

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- A 16-year-old Big Spring male reported being fired upon by a man with a handgun in the 700 block of Owens.
- A lawnmower worth $190 was reported stolen in the 4100 block of Parkway.
- In the computer offices of Hall-Bennett Memorial Clinic, $6,500 was reported stolen.
- A 22-year-old Big Spring woman reportedly received bruises and abrasions to her neck when she was assaulted in the 600 block of West Fourth. The woman was treated and released from Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

- Randolph Lee Jowers, 47, of 3205 East 11th Place was arrested for family violence.
- Scotty Muri Casselman, 32 of Howard County and Johnny Dean Darden, 36, of 1501 Lincoln were arrested for possession of a controlled substance.
- Donaciano Rocha, 22, of 603 Northeast Eighth Street was arrested for failure to appear on traffic charges.
- A window worth $35 was reported damaged in the 1000 block of Goliad.

giving him a two-head total of 13.8. Davis leads the competition, but Kenny Newton of Keller had a 4.1 in his first run and still has one run to go.

A pair of West Texans took the lead in the team roping.

Jimmy Martinez of Pecos and Dan Fisher of Andrews were timed in 12.9, giving them a two-head total of 22.6. The fastest run of the night was a 5.9 by Ed Fernandez and Terry Glover. Rodeo clown Miles Hare and Bad Company Stock Producer Mack Altizer had a 7.1. All-Star Rodeo producer Don Gay and his partner Joe Don Griffin no-timed in the event.

The leader for one run is John Anderson of Gail and Sterling Price of Tatum, N.M., clocked at 5.6 during Tuesday's slack.

Two world-ranked riders rose to the top in the barrel race. Donna Kennedy, ranked eighth in the world, had the top time of 17.44. Corley Cox of Cotulla, ranked seventh in the world, was timed in 17.58. Cox is tied for second with Rankin's Kim Teague, who rode Wednesday.

The two events where a new leader didn't emerge were calf roping and bareback bronc riding.

Keith Hudson of Sonora leads the calf roping with 20.1 for two calves. Thursday's best time was recorded by Marty Yates, 10.5. Local roper Dane Driver, who's headed to the National High School Finals Rodeo, had a 12.3 in his run, the third fastest time of the night.

Chris Guay of Stephenville had a 73 for the best ride of the night in the bareback bronc competition. The overall leader is Shawn Frey with an 85 turned in Wednesday night.

Action begins tonight at 8:30.

literature from the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Biscuits is currently working on his doctoral project in theology, interviewing cowboys and cowboy poets about their religious beliefs. His goal is to write a series of cowboy poems about the theology of the American Cowboy.

The Cowboy poets, yodelers, songsters and musicians will perform Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the Howard County Courthouse Square. Performances begin one hour after the beginning of the Rodeo Parade at 10.

During the first hour, "Songster" Gil Prather, poet Jackie Green and story teller Hiley Boyd will perform. These and other performers will keep the entertainment going. Poets returning from last year's Inaugural Cowboy Poetry and Music Gathering include Alvin Davis of Lubbock, Dennis Gains of Matador, Jackie Green of Snyder, Frank Hill of Blanco, Coke Hopping of Snyder, Fletcher Jowers of Kilgore, Gil Prather of Alpine and Jerry Wiant of Fort Davis.

Interested beginning poets can take a turn at 4 p.m. alongside poets Stan Paregien, Curt Brummett and Dennis Gains.

Another riot loss
 Ted Watkins poses outside the charred remains of the Watts Labor Community Action Committee headquarters, which he oversees, in the Watts section of Los Angeles recently. The nonprofit groups' goal has been to improve the quality of life for the poor by recycling its dollars back into the community. The 68-year-old diabetic's storefront headquarters and mini-mall were looted and torches during the riots.

AMA fights antitrust regulations

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

CHICAGO — The American Medical Association is pressing for relief from federal antitrust laws so that doctors will have the right to bargain collectively for fees under Medicare and insurance.

"That's going to be a major part of our health-reform push," AMA general counsel Kirk Johnson said Wednesday, when the AMA reaffirmed its campaign for regulatory and legislative changes in the Sherman Antitrust Act.

Medicare, which pays doctors fees well below the market rate, accounts for 40 percent of the dollars paid to physicians, he said. And big insurance companies like Blue Cross and Blue Shield represent up to 90 percent of insured patients in some states.

In such cases, the government or insurance company in effect dictates the rates, and the doctors are prohibited from banding together to be on an equal footing, he said.

"Today, the only way to have that input is to lobby, to scream, to write letters. It's very disorganized. It's not scientific. It's basically price-fixing by the government," he said.

An AMA committee reported to the AMA's policy-making House of Delegates on Wednesday: "The ability of physicians to act collectively and to negotiate is the single most crucial issue facing organized medicine today" in the view of many doctors.

Doctors also are afraid to discipline colleagues who charge exorbitant prices, or who practice bad medicine, for fear of being sued for price-fixing, AMA delegates said Wednesday.

The 292,000-member AMA, the nation's largest organization of doctors, in April petitioned the Federal Trade Commission for protection so that doctors can ferret out price gougers without being sued.

The FTC, which doesn't comment on pending petitions, has yet to answer the AMA, Johnson said.

At least 20 county medical societies have been sued under antitrust laws by doctors they tried to discipline, the Chicago Sun-Times reported this week.

"We need clarification from the Federal Trade Commission that that kind of self-policing behavior is always OK as long as it's not geared to fixing prices," Johnson said.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of the Public Citizen Health Research Group, a consumer organization in Washington, warned that doctors cannot police themselves. "It's the ultimate conflict of interest," he said.

Wolfe said stronger state medical boards and hospital review committees are needed.

The Supreme Court appears to have an anti-abortion majority.

The revision replaces a simple one-page bill with a six-page document. Supporters said it would preserve three central holdings of the Roe decision:

- A woman has a right to terminate a pregnancy before the fetus is developed enough to survive outside the womb.
- A state may restrict abortion after fetal viability, except where the woman's life or health are at stake.
- A state has the right to require medically necessary regulation of abortion procedures.

The Senate Health and Labor Committee is expected to approve the bill next week.

In the House, a bill similar to the earlier version is awaiting action in the Judiciary Committee on Tuesday. House advocates have not gone along with the new Senate version, arguing privately that it contains too many compromises.

Abortion supporters readying bills in House, Senate

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of legal abortion, anticipating the Supreme Court's pending abortion decision, are readying bills in the House and Senate that would write into federal law the court's 19-year-old abortion-rights guarantee.

In the Senate, supporters introduced a revised bill on Thursday intended to broaden support before what they expected would be a restrictive court ruling.

A different version awaits committee action next week in the House.

Supporters hope a decision upholding all or part of Pennsylvania's abortion-restriction law would trigger a public backlash elevating abortion as an election-year issue and generate momentum for the legislation.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif.

But the congressional effort is more political positioning than lawmaking. Even if the bill is passed, supporters don't have enough votes to override a presidential veto.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a cosponsor, said the revisions "make it absolutely clear that the legislation simply codifies the principles set down nearly two decades ago in Roe vs. Wade."

right to freedom of choice," Cranston said. "We will be ready to respond rapidly with this revised version."

The new version is also sponsored by Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, who had criticized the earlier so-called Freedom of Choice bill. Four Republicans joined as co-sponsors.

Critics feared the earlier version would prohibit states from regulating or restricting abortion, including requiring minors to inform or get permission from a parent to seek an abortion.

The bill explicitly upholds a state's right to deny public money for abortions. It says states may require a minor "to involve a parent, guardian or other responsible adult" in the decision.

Anti-abortion forces, however, said the changes do not go far enough.

Doug Johnson, legislative director of the National Right to Life Committee, dismissed the revision as "phony changes."

"Each of these changes is artfully worded to invalidate existing laws," Johnson said. "This language in the bill would jeopardize all existing laws that require parental notification or consent."

Supporters say the bill is needed to secure the rights established in Roe vs. Wade now that the Supreme Court appears to have an anti-abortion majority.

Democrats revise their platform

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest version of the Democratic platform includes causes ranging from artistic freedom to Tibetan rights, but those who wrote it say it remains a back-to-basics document with an overarching economic theme.

"Whether you're in the left, the right or the middle, you still want to have a job. We have to understand that we have that common ground," said Rep. Nancy Pelosi, D-Calif., co-chairwoman of the platform committee.

The San Francisco lawmaker said her philosophy was more liberal than the platform, "but I believe that a moderate document with the biggest emphasis on jobs is what the party needs at this time."

The draft circulating Thursday managed to shrink from 22 pages to 19 pages compared with what it had been earlier this month, despite the new pronouncements on xenophobia, gay rights, Northern Ireland, carbon dioxide and other concerns pushed by various elements of the party.

The Democratic platform committee convenes in Washington on Saturday for further discussion and a final vote on a document that some see as the underpinning of the presidential campaign to come.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, who becomes the party's official nominee next month, has been telling various groups things they don't want to hear in a calculated display of independence.

The additions to the platform looked in many cases like responses to demands by some of those groups. Pelosi said they were included "because there was agreement on them," while other requests were turned down.

Clinton retained most of what he wanted, including an economic-growth focus and pledges that his party would uphold law and order and use military force when needed.

The 1992 document "reflects the broad consensus for a new direction," said Bruce Reed, the campaign's issues director. "It's bolder and more detailed than the 1988 Democratic platform or anything that the Republican Party or the Perot party have put forward."

There were some who didn't get what they wanted — including vanquished Democratic presidential contenders Paul Tsongas and Jerry Brown. Tsongas said a representative will press his views Saturday.

The former Massachusetts senator unsuccessfully urged the platform writers to include a broad capitol gains tax cut and to scrap a children's tax credit he contends the country can't afford. Brown offered extensive lists of campaign reforms, environmental goals and other proposals that also got short shrift.

The revised version does try to address complaints by Brown and others that an earlier version did not reflect the country's pain or traditional Democratic concern for the disadvantaged.

"We hear the anguish and the anger of the American people," the new draft says, and identifies the party as "the champion for those who have been denied a chance."

Low-income people and programs still don't get much attention, but the authors have added the assertion that economic expansion is "the most important family policy, urban policy, labor policy, minority policy and foreign policy America can have."

The platform drafters deleted some lines and rephrased others to meet the concerns of labor, management and numerous constituent groups. Some causes that made the final cut:

- New sections on cities, housing and immigration.
- Promises to "protect against xenophobia for our citizens," enforce the Americans With Disabilities Act and fight discrimination against homosexuals, including the Defense Department hiring ban.

- Support for pay equity and an indexed minimum wage.
- A commitment to run the National Endowment for the Arts "free from political manipulation" on principles of free expression.
- Support for continued U.S. troop presence in Korea.
- Human rights for Tibet as a condition of favorable trade terms for China.
- Special mention of "the heart-breaking famine in Africa."

Vacation Bible School

Several churches in the area are hosting Vacation Bible School. In the photo below, Candice Tuckness, 8, gathers papers she's been working on during Baptist Temple Church's Bible school, titled "A Fantastic Journey." Sixty-seven children took advantage of the opportunity to study the Bible and participate in various projects. In the photo at right, Hazel Duggan assists Hollie Harris, 6, as she finishes a project at First United Methodist Church. Sixty children attended the week-long Bible school, titled "Come to the Festival."

The Rev. April Ullring Larson, 42, poses for a photograph at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Rochester, Minn., last Sunday. The Rev. Larson, on June 12, became the first woman to be named a Lutheran bishop in the United States.

Woman named Lutheran bishop

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — It took just under two millennia for women to reach the top rung of the denominational ladder, but the recent election of two more women bishops signifies there is no turning back, church leaders said.

More than two decades after her church began ordaining women, the Rev. April Ullring Larson, 42, on June 12 became the first woman to be named a Lutheran bishop in the United States.

Two weeks earlier, the Rev. Jane Holmes Dixon, 54, became the second woman to be elected a bishop in the Episcopal Church. She still must be confirmed by votes of standing committees and bishops throughout the church, but her way was already paved by the election of Barbara Harris as suffragan bishop of Boston in 1988.

"For the sake of the Gospel, we have to keep moving forward in this direction," Larson said in an interview. "It's just shocking that it's taken us so long."

However, the Roman Catholic Church and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod do not allow the ordination of women. In a proposed pastoral letter on women, a committee of Catholic bishops said the unbroken tradition of a male priesthood "witnesses to the mind of Christ and is therefore normative."

Mainline Protestant churches have held the office of bishop theoretically open to women since they began permitting women clergy, but the ball didn't start rolling until 1980 with the election of Marjorie Matthews as the first United Methodist woman bishop. The church has elected four women bishops since then.

Larson said many in the 5.2 million-member Evangelical Lutheran Church in America had begun to despair of the church ever electing a woman bishop.

When she was elected bishop of the LaCrosse (Wis.) Area Synod of the ELCA, a number of women pastors rushed to greet her in a display of thanksgiving. Larson said would be difficult for some of her male colleagues to understand. "It has nothing to do with April. It is that whole deep, deep, deep affirmation that they're made in the image of God... and can serve the church in any dimension of leadership," Larson said.

The new bishop, who had never heard a woman preach until she heard her own voice in the pulpit, could identify with their feelings. Ordained in 1978, her first assignment was with her husband, the Rev. Judd Larson, as co-pastor of Calvary and Grand Lutheran churches in Crystal Lake, Iowa.

"It was very difficult in the sense that people would readily and quickly call my husband pastor and would just about choke at calling me pastor," she said.

By the time of her last pastoral assignment, she would have a response ready when people would come up to her and say, "Hello, Pastor April, where's your pastor today?"

"I could look at them and say, 'I am here with you,'" Larson said.

In 1989, she became assistant to the bishop of the church's Southeastern Minnesota Synod, where she could see the struggles faced by other women as local congregations considered hiring a clergywoman "a great risk."

But Larson said she saw barriers break down even as congregations came to experience her ministry as an assistant to the bishop. "It's absolutely critical that we have women in all dimensions of the church," she said.

United Methodist Bishop Sharon Brown Christopher of Minnesota, one of three active women prelates in the nation's second largest Protestant denomination, said the recent elections in the Episcopal and Lutheran churches "communicated to not only the church, but to the world the value of women in leadership."

She remembered when Marjorie Matthews was elected the first woman United Methodist bishop. "I knew for the first time women had a normative role to play in the center of the church's life."

After her election as suffragan bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, Dixon said more people will rejoice than will be disturbed.

"For women, this election is much more than Jane Dixon. It is a confirmation that we are created in the image of God, male and female, and a major statement of a basic Christian principle to empower both men and women," the Episcopal News Service reported her saying afterward.

And there are more signs of hope for the future of women in ministry, according to Larson and others. A recent Gallup Poll of American Catholics showed 67 percent support the ordination of women, up from 29 percent in 1974.

"That is part of the Holy Spirit blowing winds of renewal over the church, and soon there will be other women bishops who will join me," Larson said. "I pray for that, and I trust that will happen."

Church briefs

Hillcrest to host VBS

Hillcrest Baptist Church will host Vacation Bible School June 29-July 3, from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. All children, kindergarten through the sixth grade are invited to attend. Activities include fun, food, fellowship and Bible study. Transportation will be provided, if needed, please call the church at 267-1639.

First Christian Church news

Just around the corner — Aug. 3-7 — will be the time for a special camp that our area offers each summer. Camp Friendship is for underprivileged children who have completed grades 4 or 5.

You can sponsor one child yourself for only $75. You can share in sponsoring a child with someone else or you can generously give a free will offering that will be taken on this Sunday and July 5.

The following church members were elected to the church's Endowment Committee at last Sunday's congregational meeting: Claude Wright, Cliffa Slate, Beverly Marshall, Virginia Martin, Craig Balthrop, Janice Rosson and Jimmy Johnson. Virginia Martin is serving as chairperson for 1992.

Chi Rho Camp begins this Sunday at the Lake Brownwood Retreat Center. The church is being represented by three young people: Nathan Dearman, Somer Leubner and Lacey Lewis. The camp mailing address is: Lake Brownwood Christian Retreat, RR5, Box 153, Brownwood, 76801.

Response thus far has been good in collecting and bringing to the church office for storage items going into the hygiene kits for the homeless. In case you forgot, here are the items being gathered: 2 oz. shaving foam, personal size soap bar, 0.9 oz. tooth paste, toothbrush, 1 oz. hand cream, 2 oz. shampoo, and a disposable razor.

Women elect new officers

The following officers of Presbyterian women were installed during the June 14 worship service: June 14: moderator, Sherry Hodnett; vice moderator, Ethel Guthrie; historian, Jacquie Thomas; treasurer, Dorothy Kennemur; secretary, Pam Morgan; Church Women United, Louise Porter; bereavement, Margaret Cooper; community action, Kate Irons.

Registrations from Big Spring to the Presbyterian Conference in Midland, which began Thursday evening, are coming in. At least 15-20 people in the church are hoping to attend. Add your name to the list. The blue brochure at church gives the details and a registration form. Cost is $30; plan to attend and learn and enjoy meeting Presbyterians from all over West Texas.

This year, Vacation Bible School will be July 11 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The church needs teachers, assistants, story-tellers, cooks, arts and crafts, etc., to help make this year's children's day a success. If you'd like to participate, please call Cathy Smith at 267-2195, or 264-5035; Kay Kennemur at 398-5298, or 264-2200, or Jacquie Thomas at 263-1590.

The Rev. Flynn Long will present the morning devotionals June 29 through July 4 on KBST's "Look Up and Live" program following the 6:30 a.m. newscast.

World Youth Day

NEW YORK (AP) — Simplicity will be a theme of the Vatican-sponsored World Youth Day in Denver in August, church officials said. Planners are searching for ways to make the event that Pope John Paul II will attend affordable to tens of thousands of young people, some of whom will stay in college dorms or camp out, according to a church release on the Aug. 11-15 gathering.

"It's a 1990s pilgrimage, with sneakers replacing sandals and modern transportation replacing camel and horse," said Archbishop William H. Keeler of Baltimore, chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee for World Youth Day.

Leaders to meet Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Ecumenical leaders from Europe, South Africa and South Korea are planning to join U.S. church officials in Los Angeles on Saturday to study the causes of the violence that shook the city after the Rodney King verdict.

The Rev. Emilio Castro, general secretary of the World Council of Churches based in Geneva; the Rev. Frank Chikane, general secretary of the South African Council of Churches; and the Rev. Kwon Ho-kyung, general secretary of the National Council of Churches in Korea are among the nearly 40 church leaders scheduled to take part in a series of consultations coordinated by the Southern California Ecumenical Council.

DAV elects new officers

The recently-elected officers of the Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary Unit 47, Big Spring, were installed by District Commander Clara Lewis. Those installed were: Commander Bernice Gibbs, Senior Vice Commander Tammy Evans, Junior Vice Commander Heidrun Covington, and Chaplain Ursula Gomez.

Evans and Covington, delegates, to the Disabled American Veterans and Auxiliary State Convention, reported on the recent event in College Station. They reported that the plan for the Internal Revenue Service to begin taxing VA comp checks has been defeated.

Anyone wanting to know more about joining the Auxiliary may call 353-4315 or 263-8496.

Stehholm seeking USSA applicants

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Congressman Charles W. Stehholm is currently accepting applications from young men and women who are interested in attending one of the United States Service Academies.

Eligible applicants will be at least 17, but not past their 22nd birthday, by July 1, 1993, and must have graduated from high school by that date. Competitive applicants will be in the top 20 percent of their class and have SAT scores above 500 Verbal and 550 Math, or ACT scores of 24 English and 25 Math. Involvement in extra-curricular activities, including school and community organizations and sports, as well as full or part-time employment is also in the applicant's favor.

Individuals who wish to attend the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Co., the Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. or the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, N.Y. and who wish to serve as a commissioned officer are strongly encouraged to contact Jayne Schoonmaker in Congressman Stehholm's Stamford office. Any individuals wishing additional information should call (915) 773-3623 or (915) 672-1322 or write to P.O. Box 1237, Stamford, 79553.

Brown School exes host recent reunion

Twenty former students attended the Brown School reunion Saturday at the Evangel Temple fellowship hall, Big Spring.

This is the 75th year since the school was organized. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kiser traveled the longest distance from San Angelo to attend.

Velma Blagrove attended the Brown School until she left for college. Later, she taught school at Brown for 10 years and she was principal when the school consolidated with other schools.

The next reunion will be the third Saturday of June 1993.

'You can begin your life again'

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I'm afraid I'm making a mess out of my life, but I don't know how to get out of it. My boyfriend and I have been living together for two years, but recently I found out he'd been cheating on me quite a bit and I've left him. He says he's sorry and I want to come back, but I'm not sure I trust him. The problem is, our year-old daughter doesn't have a father now, and I know that isn't good. Should I go back to him? — M.R.

DEAR M.R.: No, that would not be wise. For one thing, he has already shown he's selfish and not committed to anyone other than himself, and you have no guarantees he will act any differently in the future. Don't let your hunger for love mislead you again: The Bible bluntly says, "A scoundrel plots evil, and his speech is like a scorching fire" (Proverbs 16:27).

But it also would not be right. So far in life you have left God out, and you've turned your back on His moral law. Frankly, you're paying some of the consequences for your neglect right now, because this kind of relationship can never be stable. Don't compound your problem by getting into the same rut again.

Learn from the mistakes of the past. But more than that, examine yourself, and realize you are on the wrong path in life. You and your daughter need the love and security of a stable marriage and family, not this kind of relationship.

Begin life again — not just by turning over a new leaf, but by giving your life to Jesus Christ and building your future on the solid foundation of His teaching. "Therefore everyone who hears these words of mine and puts them into practice is like a wise man who built his house on the rock" (Matthew 7:24). Invite Christ into your life today.

other, and not to judge or nag or be critical. "Accept him whose faith is weak. . . let us stop passing judgment on one another" (Romans 14:1,13).

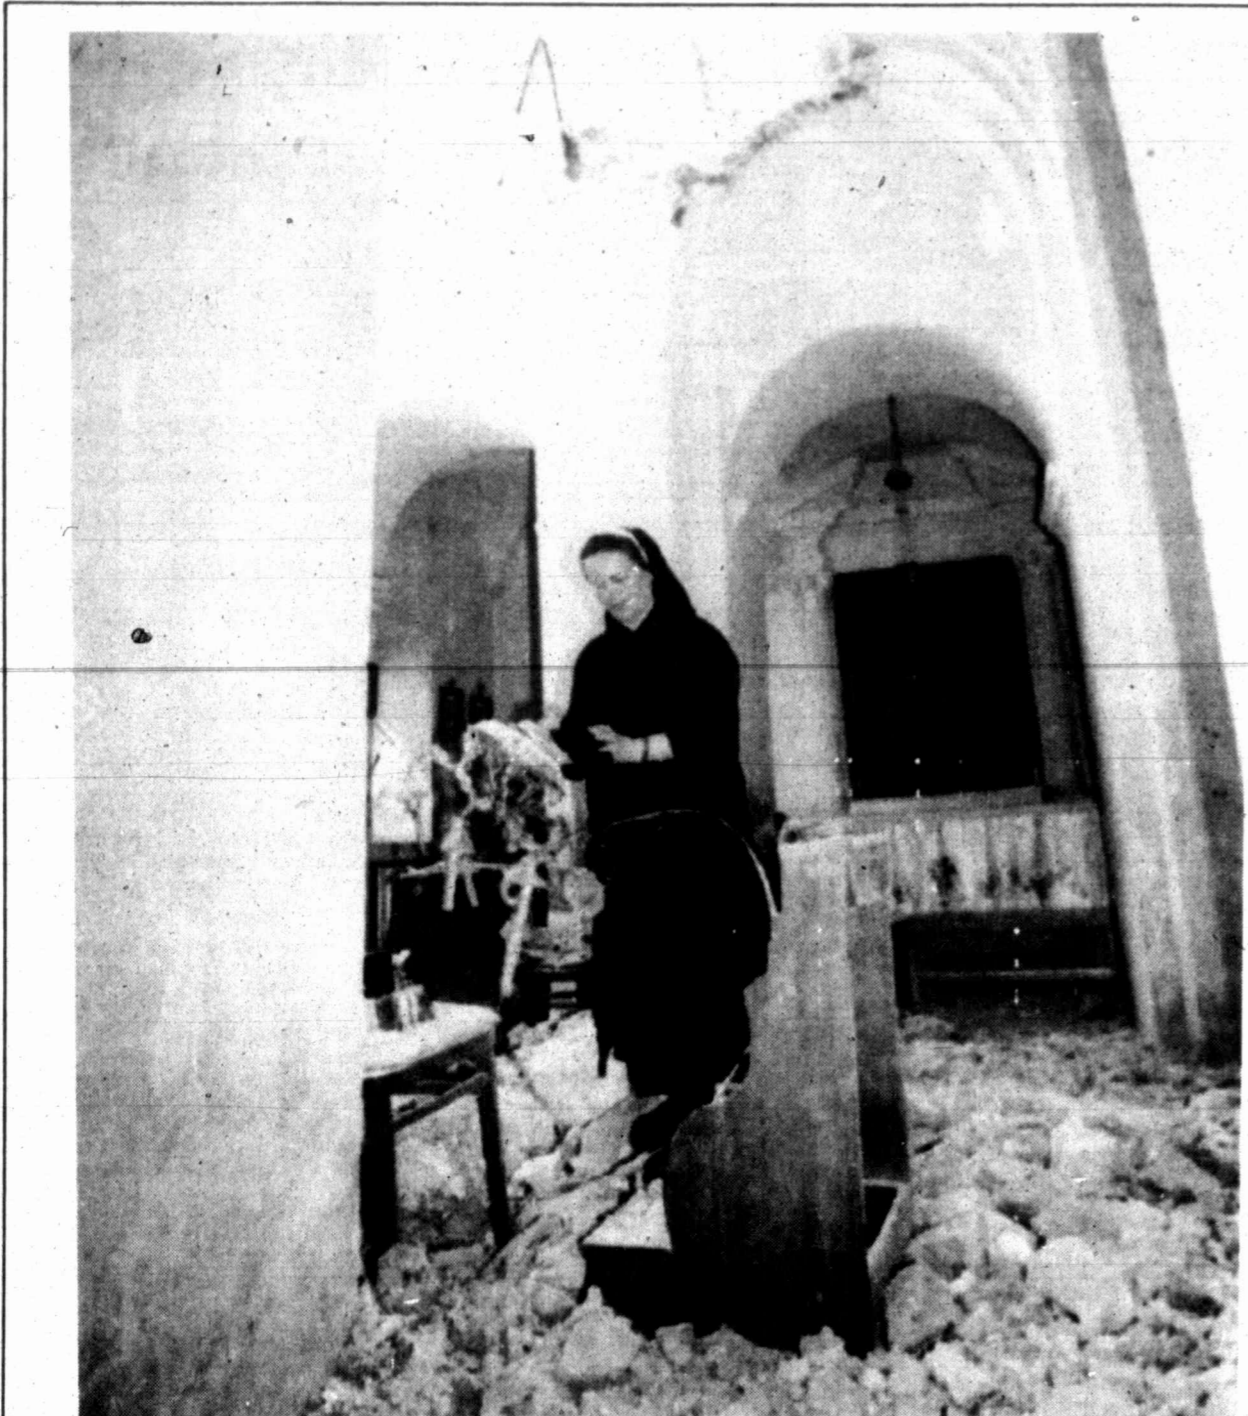

Ask God also to help you make Christ the center of your home. Don't rely on church activities alone for spiritual growth, but make your home a place where you both will "grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ" (2 Peter 3:18).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: We moved to a new city about a year ago, and our problem is that we can't find a church we like. I know the problem is that we were in a very active church back home and loved it very much, but none of the churches around here are anything like it. Maybe we shouldn't compare them, but frankly we don't see any reason to get involved in a church which doesn't have much going on. — Mrs. V.L.

DEAR MRS. V.L.: It's understandable that you would compare your old church with the ones you've been visiting — but the time has come to move beyond that. In fact, God may have a richer experience in store for you in the long run — even if you have difficulty seeing it right now.

Don't get into the habit of avoiding church, even if those you've found are not perfect. You need the support of other Christians, and you need the regular ministry of God's Word in your life. The Bible says, "Let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another" (Hebrews 10:25).

But there's another reason why you need to get involved in a local church. Has it ever occurred to you that God may want to use your background to help another church? You have had the opportunity to see what an "alive" church can be.

Church news

NEW YORK (AP) — Illinois United Methodists have launched a campaign to keep casino gambling out of Chicago.

Bishops Woodie W. White of Springfield and R. Sheldon Duecker of Park Ridge recently announced the start of the "Campaign for Accountability" in opposition to a proposed $2 billion gambling casino complex.

"Casino gambling will not solve the longstanding social and economic problems confronting this state," White told the United Methodist News Service. "It will only create more."

Chicago Mayor Richard Daley has backed the project as a way to bring in thousands of jobs and millions of dollars in revenue.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cutbacks in government funding amid growing social needs have led to increased competition for volunteers, and the church needs to keep pace with the secular world, a Southern Baptist official said.

"I'm afraid we sometimes feel that volunteers are supposed to sacrifice because they are volunteers," Reginald M. McDonough told a recent meeting of the Southern Baptist Conference of Associational Directors of Missions. "The quality and quantity of volunteer work is directly related to the quality of support provided volunteers."

The suggestions offered by the executive director of the Baptist General Association of Virginia for maintaining high morale and motivation among volunteers included offering good management and support services such as child care, parking, modern machinery and food service, Baptist Press reported.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The solutions to many of America's social problems can be found in the Bible, a Baptist leader said as about 40,000 worshippers gathered for a weeklong convention.

A. Lincoln James Sr., president of the National Baptist Congress of Christian Education, said Christian values can be a strong weapon against problems like teen pregnancy, drugs and violence.

"It's never too late to right a wrong, that's what we believe," James said. "Be doers of the word of the Bible and not hearers only."

The congress is the educational arm of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A. Inc. The delegates attending the convention, which started Monday, are pastors, Sunday school teachers and other church leaders from 45 states, Africa, Germany, England and the Bahamas.

"Go back to Christian ethics — the Bible, the home, the church, the school," James said to the delegates.
