FIFTH ANNUAL CARNIVAL OPENS AT BURKBURNETT TOMORROW MORNING

AN AGRICULTURAL SHORT COURSE ALSO ON SAME DATES

BURKBURNETT PREPARES FOR THREE BIG DAYS FULL OF INSTRUCTION AND ENTERTAINMENT FOR ALL

EXHIBITS WILL BE A FEATURE

Agricultural Short Course For Both Men and Women—Big Agricultural and Home Exhibits and Many Entertaining Features

Staff Special to The Times.

Burkburnett, Tex., Aug. 18.—Although Wichita county as a whole has never had a county fair, being behind most of her Northwest Texas neighbors in that regard, it has not been altogether without a place where farmers and their women folks may compete for crop and handwork honors. Thanks are due the Burkburnett community, with its annual carnival, for doing much to supply the needs of the county in this regard, and on tomorrow Burkburnett will open its fifth annual affair of the kind. Prizes for various products of field and home, races, contests, aviation flights and theatrical performances are promised, to fill the three days with festivity before the most significant feature in sight is not a festive one at all—it is the Farmers Short Course, conducted by members of the A. & M. College faculty, along practical lines, for the benefit of farmers who otherwise could not obtain this instruction. Thus Burkburnett will combine business with pleasure, and the Wichita county farmer who no longer thrills at sight of the merry-go-round and the swelling balloon bag can find something to interest and benefit him, if not to thrill at this farmers' school.

For Mrs. Farmers Too.
The short course is open to all farmers of Wichita county, Texas and Cotton county, Oklahoma, and there are no frills or formalities about it. All he has to do is be there, bringing Mrs. Farmer if possible for there will be some very particular features designed especially to benefit her. Wichita county farmers have not had such an opportunity before but it due patronage and appreciation is given this course there will be others to follow.

Carnival Features.
The program for this short course has already appeared in The Times. It will not, of course, be the only attraction for farmers during the next three days at Burkburnett. The carnival committee has prepared a series of stunts that ought to make up a truly metropolitan carnival. All kinds of races are to be held, a baby show, band concerts, airship flights on Friday and Saturday by an experienced aviator, tent shows and similar features, all have been secured. This is Burkburnett's fifth carnival and she knows how to do it by this time. A. J. Betts, who runs the hotel, plays in the band and is otherwise a benefit to the community, is chairman of the carnival committee. Will Daniels, W. Cheanuit, W. C. Walling, J. E. Shepperd and Editor Milton Clendening comprise the committee, the last named being secretary-treasurer. They will let editors handle the money in some places.

In years when the watermelons are plentiful this annual festivity at Burkburnett is a watermelon carnival. The last one was held in 1912 when the Burkburnett country raised more melons than it knew what to do with. Great piles of them were heaped in a shed on the street here and you came along and picked out one that you wanted a slice from. When it was all over there were only ten wagon loads of melons left. But since then Burkburnett has always found a market for all the melons the vicinity could raise and as long as folks will pay money to eat them, Burkburnett won't give them away. Not many melons will be shipped this year on account of the bugs, but Burkburnett hopes to repeat the free watermelon stunt some of these seasons. Burkburnett has taken pains to make this year's carnival a greater success than any which preceded it, and even if no such golden opportunity as the short course were offered the farmers, the other attractions would be well worth coming to see.

The carnival has been extensively advertised and a round trip rate of a fare and a third has been given by the Katy along the Wichita Falls Route, at all points from Newcastle, Texas to the south to Forgan, Oklahoma on the north. This is not a county fair, but until Wichita Falls gets busy and organizes a county fair, Burkburnett citizens have quite cheerfully taken upon themselves the burden of seeing that Wichita county farmers have some place to exhibit their products; Burkburnett has offered prizes on nearly all farm products from peach preserves to babies and Irish potatoes. The prizes are large enough to be worth while, but of course it isn't the prize but the glory, that counts.

Burkburnett's Progress.
Burkburnett is a young town, even as they count young towns in this part of the world. It's been only seven years since the Wichita Falls & Northwestern arrived, hesitated long enough to open up the townsite, then plunged fearlessly across the river and into the Big Pasture. Before that, the site of the town was part of the ranch of S. B. (Burk) Burnett, from whom it takes its name. The headquarters of the Burnett ranch were located about two miles

BRITISH GAIN 500 YARDS GALLIPOLI PENINSULA

Sir Ian Hamilton Tells of Capture of the Turkish Trench in His Recent Report.

By Associated Press.
London, Aug. 18.—A further advance of 500 yards by the allied troops in the Gallipoli peninsula is announced in a report from Sir Ian Hamilton, the British expeditionary commander in chief, given out here today. The statement follows:
"Sir Ian Hamilton reports that in the southern zone the situation was unchanged during the fourteenth and fifteenth. The Turks kept busy the usual artillery fire with the usual effect. In the northern zone the right flank of the Australia and New Zealand army corps position was heavily attacked during the night of the 14 and 15, but all attacks were repulsed. At Suvla the troops on the left flank made a short advance on the afternoon of the 15 with a view to straightening out the line. They moved forward under considerable gun and rifle fire and gained about 500 yards, capturing a Turkish trench and taking officers and twenty other prisoners."

GERMANS ANOTHER STEP NEARER GOAL, RUSSIAN CAPITAL

RUSSIAN UNABLE TO OPPOSE FORWARD MOVEMENT AND FORTRESS OF KOVNO TAKEN BY GERMANS

TRYING TO SEPARATE ARMIES

Germans Trying to Drive Wedge Between Main Russian Armies and at Same Time Capture Brest-Litovsk Line of Defenses and Petrograd

By Associated Press.
London, Aug. 18.—The fall of the Russian fortress of Kovno was announced from Berlin today. The Russian armies apparently have not been able to organize sufficiently to oppose the German advance which is pushed against the ring of strong fortresses which form the outward defenses of Petrograd. The armies of the central powers show no disposition to relax pressure on the eastern front nor are they likely to do so until they have tried once more to separate the Russian northern and southern armies and capture Brest-Litovsk. Military experts have agreed that the loss of the fortress of Kovno would be a serious blow to the Russians the critic of the London Times in an article this morning says:
"If the enemy succeeds in reducing Kovno and is thereby enabled to cross the Nieman he will be in the rear of the Russian line of north of the Sventia and with the junction of the two wings of Von Hindenburgs army the position of the Russian flank will be very difficult."

News from Turkish sources that the new landing party on the Gallipoli peninsula near Suvla bay has been engaged heavily is contained in an official report from Gen. Ian Hamilton, stating that the British left had won five hundred yards of ground, including a Turkish trench. Sir Ian also reported the repulse of determined Turkish attacks against the Australian positions.

Little change is reported in the diplomatic situation in the near east. Former Premier Venizelos who asked for four days to study conditions before deciding whether to form a new cabinet is believed to have arrived at an understanding with King Constantine, but it is not considered to be probable that the result will be early entry of Greece into the war on the side of the allies.

Capture of two additional forts at Sin which also declares that Field Marshal von Mackensen has driven the Russians across the Bug and into the outer positions of Brest-Litovsk. On the western front in the Vosges German attacks on French positions on the crest of the Sondernach were repulsed. Paris reports to Berlin declare the French were driven back at Sondernach.

GALVESTON WITHOUT DRINKING WATER AND MUCH SUFFERING IS REPORTED

Definite reports as to the damage done by the Gulf hurricane at Galveston were still lacking this afternoon, but reports that have come from Houston and other points indicate that the property damage has been immense, and it is feared there has been serious loss of life. Meager wireless reports from naval vessels at Galveston speak of damage and serious conditions, but do not mention loss of life. Bodies have been found on the landward side of the bay which are believed to have come from Galveston.

The last wireless report from Galveston late this afternoon from the army transport Buford says: "There is considerable suffering in the city. The water system, and gas lines are out of operation and no street cars are running. There is no drinking water in the city. Three hundred feet of the causeway has been destroyed. It is reported that all the men officers and their families at Fort Crockett are safe."

The army wireless at Brownsville in an effort to reach Galveston this afternoon overheard the Buford's wireless say something about a "ship in distress" but were unable to get anything else.

SCORES REPORTED DEAD AND PROPERTY LOSS WILL RUN INTO THE MILLIONS

Fifty Dead At Texas City, Six At La Porte, Three At Seabrook Eight At Morgan's Point

By Associated Press:

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 18.—Scores are said to have perished in the West Indian hurricane that swept Texas coast points in round about reports received here today from points in the stricken district. Eighteen soldiers, it was said, were killed at Texas City, the regular army camp near Galveston, and thirty or forty civilians also from La Porte, eight from Morgan's Point and three from Sylvan Beach.

Between fifty and sixty soldiers are said to have been injured at Texas City. Three are reported lost at Seabrook near Houston. According to the Houston Chronicle a copy of which has reached Temple, J. R. Montgomery, a correspondent of the Chronicle who viewed Galveston from the shore point of the wrecked causeway the property loss at Galveston will exceed that of the 1900 storm.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE AT HOUSTON

Storm damage at Houston, according to the Chronicle, which was issued Tuesday afternoon is mentioned at $1,000,000. No loss of life is mentioned. Eight soldiers who were killed at Texas City were caught under the ruins of the Thompson building, a three story brick structure. The others were drowned. Most of the two score civilians who perished were women and children. Military rule has been established.

Property damage at Texas City, according to the Houston Post which quoted E. V. Rhodes a Texas City railroad official, will amount to $400,000. He is also said to have stated that the bodies of eight women washed ashore at Texas City were believed to have come from Galveston as happened in the 1900 storm. Reports from San Antonio were to the effect that Point Isabelle is safe and that no lives were lost and little damage done on the coast between Corpus Christi and Brownsville.

Much damage was done to the cotton crop and it is feared that fifteen to twenty-five per cent of the crop in South Texas was ruined. While reports of death and damage continued to trickle in from the storm zone state officials at Austin prepared to rush tents and food to Galveston and other points if relief measures were found necessary.

HUNDREDS OF BUILDINGS WRECKED--LOSS OF LIFE IS BELIEVED CERTAIN

Reporter Who Attempted To Cross Causeway Tells Of Picture Of Ruin And Devastation

By Associated Press:

Houston, via telephone to Temple and Dallas, Aug. 18.—The Houston Chronicle prints the following interview with J. R. Montgomery, a Houston correspondent of a Galveston newspaper, who got as far as Virginia Point Tuesday, and viewed the wrecked city of Galveston:
"I am confident the number of dead in Galveston is large. I could not see an elevator in the port side of the city and my opinion is that the number of buildings destroyed will run into the thousands. I believe the property loss will be greater than that of 1900."

DRAWBRIDGE SWEEP AWAY
Montgomery made his way to the drawbridge of the Galveston causeway and owing to the fact that this structure was swept away he was forced to return to Houston. He made the trip in an automobile.

"We encountered indescribable conditions," he said, "the drawbridge at Clear Creek and Dickinson were washed out and we ran our automobile over the railroad bridge and across the ties. We saw thousands of bales of cotton on the prairie all the way from Virginia Point (the mainland end of the Galveston causeway) to the town of La Marque inland. These were washed from the Galveston docks by the great tidal waves. The water must have been several feet deep over the causeway and serious damage must have been done by the washing out of large quantities of filling in the center."

"We saw thousands of dead animals along the way," continued Mr. Montgomery. He said he could see the buildings at Ft. Crockett and that all seemed intact. He could recognize some of the tall building in the city with which he was familiar but was most impressed by the gravity of the situation by the fact that the grain elevators were gone.

FIFTY DEAD AT TEXAS CITY
The Chronicle also reported that it received information that fifty persons are dead in Texas City, that accounts for twelve soldiers who perished when the Thompson building collapsed. These were all private soldiers, no commissioned officers having lost their lives.

The railroad bridge has been washed away at Seabrook, about twenty miles from Houston.

EDISON OUTLINES HIS PLANS FOR U. S. DEFENSE

Warring Nations, He Says, Think Twice Before They Attack Country Prepared for Resistance.

From Washington Post.) "I would put the United States prominently on a war footing against invasion. I would make it vast storage battery charged with war forces, which might be focused on the instant."

This is Thomas A. Edison's new declaration of Americanism as he concluded the unfolding of a complete, radical plan for an ever ready but unburdened defense of the United States against foreign aggression.

Would Organize for Defense. "I would organize the Nation for defense at once and I would organize on very broad and comprehensive lines, taking full advantage of the factors which have made this country what it is today," he continued.

"The men of big business know how to marshal the resources of the Nation more quickly than any other men because they have been fighting industrial battles all their lives."

"I would have this board adopt something of the German methods in an elaborate and laborious tabulation and coordination of all the factors that might enter into a defense of our country."

Need Plenty of Officers. "We need plenty of officers, drill sergeants and trained experts. And to provide these men we should have at least two military academies in addition to West Point, and then several schools of less comprehensive scope to train drill sergeants, artillerymen, aviators, signal men and the other classes of expert war men. The graduates from these schools will be given a year or two of experience and then returned into private life on a small salary in order that they might always be on call.

"I should provide the coast and harbor fortifications with the most powerful armaments that could be devised, and I should provide more field artillery per capita than any other nation. I think we ought to keep in stock at least half as many guns as the French now have on the firing line, and supplement these with a great number of forges, rough turned and bored, ready for a quick finishing when they are needed."

"These guns must have plenty of ammunition. I would provide for more ammunition than the military men could possibly use; I would be extravagant in every ammunition estimate, and I would keep a vast stock—enough for all the needs of several months war."

"This stock would not be of itself enough for an extensive war, and therefore I should build large government plants in various sections of the country, capable of enormous manufacturing capacity; I would suggest a capacity double that which we might imagine to be needed under the most unfavorable conditions. These plants should be equipped to make their own acids and should have a great stock of raw materials."

"I cannot overstate the value of good military roads; the railroads have nothing like their elasticity. "Given good roads and plenty of motor cars, I million men, with artillery and supplies, could be shifted two hundred miles in twenty-four hours. There is nothing like a motor car on a good road for the rapid transportation of men and materials."

"I should give the government the right to commandeer any article or piece of property which might be needed for war; I would not stop at any measure which might insure efficiency."

"So much for the army. The first line of defense must be the navy, and I would make our navy among the most powerful on earth, with a great number of extremely rapid ships of the highest gun power. I would build many fast mine laying boats and store them in fresh water rivers. I would have several hundred submarines, stored mostly on land. And, of course, I would have an excessive number of mines and torpedoes."

Carl Jungk's Parents Having Trouble in Operating Their Store at Minaca, Mexico

Letters received by Carl Jungk of this city from his parents in Minaca, Chihuahua state, Mexico, tell of the taking of their store by Villa agents. The last letter dated August 13, states that they were awaiting the coming of the judge appointed by the commander to take charge of the store. For a month or more the Jungk store has been closed, it being practically impossible for Americans to do business there. Since the writing of the letter General Villa has announced that the store levied upon will be returned to Mr. Jungk, supposes that his parents are now in possession of their property once more. He intends to go down there himself next month if possible to spend his vacation with his parents.

A jewelry store owned by Jungk's uncle at Chihuahua, also was levied on by Villa, but probably has been released following General Villa's conference with General Scott at El Paso.

UNITED STATES MARINES IN CONSTANT READINESS

Force of 40,000 Men Kept Ready to Move to Any Part of World on Few Hours' Notice.

Washington, Aug. 18.—There is one branch of the United States military service that cannot plead guilty to the charge of "unpreparedness" as has been evidenced by the dispatch with which the marines have been sent to Fort Au Prince and to Vera Cruz.

"Semper Parati." That motto translated into English means ever faithful. It is the motto of the United States marine corps, and no body of men ever lived up to traditions handed down for years with greater fidelity than the officers and men comprising this force. Whenever there comes a cloud on the horizon of peace, activity is at once apparent in the barracks where the marine corps is stationed. Even before the shadow becomes anything of a reality the orders come, and away the detachments start for the nearest point of possible conflict.

In nearly all maritime countries the marines constitute a separate military body, trained to fight either as infantrymen or as artillerymen, and especially for participation in naval engagements. No other country in the world has put her marines to work as has the United States, and it is safe to say that no other body of fighting men has so justified the trust put in it or better accomplished the work set for it to do.

The service of the marine corps dates back to the earliest days of the Republic. In February, 1777, a battalion of 300 marines and landmen was landed from the fleet under command of Commodore Hopkins at the island of New Providence in the Bahamas, assaulted and captured the English forts protecting the island, taking a large quantity of cannon and military stores. This, the first battle of the American navy, was fought and won by the marines. Back in the early days of the last century it became necessary for this government to chastise the Turks along the Mediterranean coast for their acts of piracy and interference with American commerce. The march of the marines across Northern Africa from Alexandria to Derne is one of the most brilliant exploits in the annals of the corps and perhaps in American history.

Again in the war of 1812 the marines distinguished themselves by the gallantry of their conduct and their work in battle. The first officer to fall on the Continent in her famous battle with the Guerriere was a lieutenant of the marine corps.

In later years the marine corps has figured conspicuously in many parts of the world. They landed in Alexandria, Egypt, in 1882 to prevent piracy; two years later they were keeping traffic open across the isthmus of Panama, and they protected American lives and property in Navassa Island. They were among the first to land in Honolulu in 1893. The work of the corps in the Spanish-American war, in the Boxer uprising and at Vera Cruz last year is still fresh in mind.

Since the beginning of the Spanish war the marine corps has been increased from 2,500 to 12,000 men. The requirements for enlistment are perhaps more strict than in any other branch of the service. This must be so, for they are always in the front rank when there is fighting to do. They are essentially the men on the job.

BRYAN WOULD PUT JINGO EDITORS IN FRONT LINE

By Associated Press. Kansas City, Aug. 17.—"In case this country is dragged into the war I hope all the 'jingo' editors will have the honor of forming the front battle line and will enjoy the privilege of being shot first," said William Jennings Bryan in an address at Independence, Mo., last night. Mr. Bryan was challenged by a man in the audience about the friendliness of Japan on an assertion "The United States has no enemy in Japan and the man who tries to make her out as one is an enemy to his own country," was the former secretary of state's reply.

NO WORD RECEIVED FROM THE WICHITANS NOW AT GALVESTON

REPORTS RECEIVED HERE INDICATE THAT DAMAGE HAS BEEN HEAVY AND LIVES HAVE BEEN LOST

MR. KELL LEAVES FOR COAST

Will Go Into Galveston as Soon as He Can Reach City to Look After His Grain and Other Interests in Island City

Messages received today by Frank Kell, regarding the situation at Galveston, added to the gloom which prevails here. One message received by Mr. Kell stated that Superintendent Maxson of the Santa Fe went as far south as Hitchcock, about fourteen miles from Houston. He was not able to leave his car as the wind was still blowing a hurricane, and the rain falling in torrents; however, the report stated that he saw seven bodies floating in the water.

Another report received by Mr. Kell stated that a Houston Post-reporter had been able to proceed as far as Texas City Junction, which is about three miles from the north end of the causeway. From that point he was able to see into Galveston and as near as he could tell all of the prominent buildings, grain elevators, etc., were intact; the causeway also seemed to have withstood the storm, but the reporter saw two vessels grounded. This report conflicts with that received by The Times this morning about the trip made by J. R. Montgomery, who is Houston correspondent for the Galveston News. Mr. Kell left this afternoon for the coast and will go into Galveston as soon as he can to look after his interests there. No word came from the Wichitans who were in Galveston when the storm came. Miss Nellie Ryan and Miss Anna Fitzwater started for Galveston Sunday, but were probably unable to reach that city before the storm. Chief Dispatcher H. J. Schaffer of the Denver left Monday night for Galveston, but is not thought to have been able to get there.

Her parents improvised a tourniquet with a handkerchief and a piece of coin and brought the little girl up on the train from Archer City this morning. While the girl is in a very bad case it is not believed that serious consequences will follow.

ENJOYABLE BIRTHDAY PARTY LAST TUESDAY EVENING.

A delightful children's party was given Tuesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. J. Pitman for the seventh birthday of their little daughter, Eleanor. The children observed "grownup" hours on this occasion, coming at seven.

Games were played on the lawn for some time and then a little impromptu musical program was carried out in the music room. Several of the small guests gave piano selections and Mr. Pitman, father of the hostess entertained for some time with instrumental music. Victrola selections were enjoyed and much amusement was derived from viewing the birthday gifts received by little Miss Eleanor. The gifts were all in a toy trunk and were placed in the center of the room, where the hostess displayed them to the guests. Late in the evening a line was formed to march into the dining room, Mr. Pitman playing the accompaniment. The room was prettily decorated and the table was an especial delight to the eye. Festoons of candy hearts in different colors and designs ornamented the table and the big white birthday cake, with the name "Eleanor" in candy hearts and the seven lighted candles, formed the centerpiece. The dime baked in the cake was cut by Lena Rount.

An ice course was served to the guests by Mrs. Pitman. Rubber balls were given each guest on leaving by the little hostess as souvenirs of the occasion. The children present included: Hortense and Lida Jo Horton, Lydia Krizan, Mary and Filmore Meredith, Eleanor Glynn, Jack Jamison, Mary Blair, Isabelle Stone, Mary Martin, Frances Bullock, Edna and Lorraine Tucker, Jessie Lucille Talley, Cecil Morris, Lena Rount, John Robert, Clarice and Eleanor Pitman.

ca. Why? Because it foretells early and certain prosperity—greater prosperity than this country ever before has experienced.

The department of agriculture in its crop report just issued states that American farmers are harvesting the greatest wheat crop ever grown in this or any other country. The government estimate, based upon conditions August 1st, indicates a total crop of all grains almost if not quite equal to any grand total ever reached in America.

Large crops normally bring comparatively low prices—a matter of the old law of supply and demand. But war times have revolutionized conditions. This year's big crop will be sold at big prices.

Reflect on the figures a moment. "The government estimate in round numbers follows:

Wheat, 1,000,000,000 bushels.

Corn, 2,000,000,000 bushels.

Oats, 1,500,000,000 bushels.

Total for the three grains, 5,500,000,000 bushels.

Such figures are almost too great for comprehension. What does this mean in dollars and cents? Figuring wheat at a dollar a bushel (it's more than that now), corn at seventy cents, and oats at forty cents a bushel, the result:

Wheat $1,000,000,000

Corn 1,400,000,000

Oats 600,000,000

Total three grains $3,000,000,000

Crops that amount to that are now being harvested. That huge total is being put in circulation in this country. It goes not into the pockets of a few very rich men; it goes into the pockets of the farmers of every state—from there to reach every channel of trade.

It needs no prophetic soul to foretell early and certain prosperity. The billions from the harvest furnish guaranty.

There has been no overcapitalization, no overproduction, recently in this country. On the contrary, for two or three years there has been an extraordinary period of retrenchment and lower economy. Stocks are low, whether in big business or in the tens of thousands of little stores. The great railroads and the small factories need rehabilitation. All business is waiting for the word to start the greatest buying movement in this country's history. The billions from the harvest will do it.

While the European powers are at war, we are at peace, with prodigious plenty, and not one inherent economic weakness. It is not handwriting on the wall that is pointed out. Facts and figures reveal the future. There can be no question but that we are on the verge of prosperity far greater than ever before experienced even in this nation of great plenty. The far-seeing business men already are shaping for the booming times. Quietly they have been buying goods, laying in new stocks, all the while talking hard times so that no one would boost the prices on them.

The time to buy is when every one wants to sell; the time to sell is when everyone wants to buy.

There never was a better time to buy than now.

The country is just coming out of the cloud, into the financial golden sunlight. The wise men know it. Every one should wake up to the real condition.

Champ Clark predicts that within sixty days there will be a job for every man in the country who wants a job.

That may be an optimistic view, but the most pessimistic admit that the full tide of prosperity will be here within six months. Things are starting now. The big money will be made by those who begin their buying now, before the prices soar, by those who have new fresh goods to tempt some of the farmers, unprecedented wealth.

No state should have, greater or earlier prosperity than Illinois. Corn again is king, as the government figures show. And Illinois leads all the states, even Iowa in the field of corn.

This state, it is estimated, will raise 381,000,000 bushels.

In dollars at current prices that means over $265,000,000 to the farmers of Illinois for their corn crop alone, to say nothing of their herds, dairy products and crops other than corn. These tens of millions of dollars from the farms are going into the avenues of trade in Illinois this fall.

There are none so blind as those who will not see.

Opportunity knocks!

DISRESPECT OF LAW.

Editor Times:

Press dispatches and editorial comment on conditions that surround the commission of crime in various localities throughout the United States ought to be food for serious thought. Especially prominent in the newspapers at this time is the details of the hanging of Les M. Frank, the victim of a mob at Milledgeville, Ga. This case, attracts more attention than ordinary because the victim was the principal in one of the hardest fought legal battles in the State of Georgia, and illustrates an alarming condition of disrespect for law. There is an alarming tendency in every community to show disrespect for the criminal and civil laws. The solid foundation upon which rests the protection of life, liberty and property, is grounded in the just and humane laws of our land, enacted by the representatives of the people for the common good of all, irrespective of wealth or position. Insofar as we recognize the basic truth, do we receive the protection, freedom and benefits of citizenship. It follows then, as an axiomatic truth, that every community has just as good laws and just as good enforcement of their laws as the majority of its citizens desire. It is both a waste of time and money to pass laws that cannot be enforced. Because a non-enforced law becomes a menace to the community and breeds disrespect for all laws, and contempt for constituted authority. By precept, example and humane punishment, teachers in our public schools control the scholars, and parents govern their children at home. Along a progressive line of government control, from the municipality to the head of the nation, we are confronted with the problem of enacting and enforcing the laws. But, from an individual, seldon standpoint, the average citizen seems more concerned in avoiding the enforcement of the laws than a desire to bow to their mandates and support the officers in their execution. To what end are we coming, if this tendency go unchecked? Far better would it be if the laws were few and brief, than to create a disrespect for them and a contempt for the officers who try to execute them. What can we expect from the youth of today, who will be the citizen of tomorrow, if the average man and woman shrink their responsibility?

This indeed, a serious question to contemplate. And one that presents itself to us individually. None of us, however humble, but have a certain amount of influence in the community in which we live and do business. Judged by the natural laws of "cause and effect" the scope of our influence can be judged by the position we hold and the amount of business we transact. Then, the question comes home to us, how are we using our influence, relative to enforcement of the laws and backing up the officials?

This is not an abstract question, but a concrete problem to take home with you and ponder over during your leisure, quiet moments, when every man is supposed to be honest with himself. Do you believe you can afford to ignore your duty to your government, state and community, by failing to uphold its law and encourage its officers to do their duty? In the life of every man there will come a time when he will look back over the past and try to harmonize his sense of obligations to humanity with the realization of his own government. How many of us will be satisfied with the results? Earnest, thoughtful people see dire possibilities in this growing tendency of disrespect for laws. No man can claim a will power strong enough to govern himself and do justice to the fellowman. Consequently, but for the governing power and guiding hand of the law, there would be no harmony of action in human affairs. Greed, love of power, courtship and cruelty would dominate the individual and place him on a level with the lower animals that prey upon each other. Then, summing up the possibilities in his final analysis, how can any man or woman, conscientiously aid or encourage the tendency to disrespect for law?

FIFTH ANNUAL CARNIVAL OPENS AT BURKBURNETT TOMORROW

east of the present town. The new town flourished at first, the wheat, corn and cotton, as well as not a little cattle trade, bringing considerable money here. It was a trading point for a sizable stretch of country in Southwest Oklahoma also. In 1909 it shipped an immense amount of corn, probably as much as any community its size in the State.

Then a few lean years came and new towns took away the Oklahoma trade and for a while Burkburnett had something of a struggle to hold her own. But the oil boom came and from Electric, 25 miles came and their derricks dotted the landscape for long distances. In July, 1912, oil was struck about two miles west of town on the Chis Schmoock farm and there followed for Burkburnett an era of prosperity which even the declining price of oil did not end. The field widened steadily, supply houses came and built stations, stillers and toolies appeared by the score. Today Burkburnett is the most important point on the oil map of Northwest Texas, though other districts have larger production.

One factor which has contributed to Burkburnett's progress in large measure, as indeed it has contributed to Wichita Falls also, has been three adoption of better farming methods in recent years. Oil wells bring their booms and rushes of prosperity, but when a farmer has learned to make an acre over $15 where it used to only $15 before, he has pretty nearly discounted an oil well or two because the community will be benefited not merely one year or two, but for all time.

Three or four years ago a large part of Wichita county's farmers bought their feed every year. Today the farmer who has to buy feed is a very rare exception. But that is only one change that better methods have brought. The farmer who attends the short course and pays attention to what is said will gain information which, properly applied, will benefit himself and his community and county. The State isn't "blowing in" the money of its tax payers to amuse anyone or give someone a little recreation. It is looking for returns. The Wichita county farmer who fails to attend overlooks an opportunity that can put real money in his pocket.

First Day's Program.

The Wichita county farmer might consider, for instance, the program for the first day. A demonstration in judging horses and mules is the first thing offered; next is a discussion of farm marketing and co-operation. Wichita county farmers who have been letting the hogs eat their peaches knowing it wasn't worth while to pick them for 25 cents a bushel, may be able to learn something to their advantage. Peaches of course, are just one item. A lecture on spraying for insect pests and plant diseases will be third on the program. Red River county farmers who have just seen their melons "honey dewed" within the past few days can perhaps learn how to prevent it happening again.

Next is a lecture on the best way to raise peaches. In the past topic and the lecturer, William Ganzer of Denton will devote special attention to legumes, cowpeas, peanuts, soybeans, clovers and alfalfa. Rotation of crops is the capstone of the new doctrine of farming and Mr. Ganzer will no doubt make the subject very interesting. Other lectures will deal with milk testing and the care of milk with the care of the home orchard.

But the men folks won't be the whole show in this short course. There is a special program every day for the men and daughters, with women lecturers and demonstrators. Canning of fruits and vegetables in glass, making of preserves and jelly, care of the home orchard, milk testing and care are some of the first day's topics designed to appeal especially to the women folks.

On the second day the all important subject of seed selection will be discussed. One of the A. & M. folks will lecture and demonstrate on butter and cheese manufacture. "Silos and Silage" will be the subject of another lecture. "Preparation and Cultivation of Land" and "Dairy Farm Management." There is to be a demonstration of methods of judging dairy cattle and Mr. Ganzer will discuss the new forage crops—Sudan grass, milo, forlita and kafir-corn.

Friday's program in the women's department will include two lectures and demonstrations on food values, and two special features dealing with general dairy methods.

More will appear later regarding Saturday's program which will deal mostly with bees and poultry raising.

Another feature in one that comprises a vast amount of valuable information and it is available for the expenditure of time. There are countless reasons why Wichita county farmers should flock to Burkburnett this week. The official program follows:

Thursday.

UNITED STATES PREPARING FOR ANY EVENTUALITY IN VERA CRUZ.

Alarming reports from Vera Cruz that anti-American demonstrations had broken out in the Carranza capital and that foreigners were in peril caused orders to rush the battleships Louisiana and New Hampshire from Newport to Vera Cruz. Opinion is general that a crisis has been reached in the Mexican situation. According to reports from official sources, mobs are gathered in the streets to listen to incendiary speeches against the Americans. The refusal of President Wilson and the Latin-American conferees to recognize Carranza is given as the cause of the demonstration. The accompanying photograph shows Mexican troops parading in the city of Vera Cruz.

The Lamar Airdome. The DeJoy Musical Comedy Company will present tonight "The Red Lily" a "boiled down" musical comedy—still containing a maximum amount of music and comedy.

To many a girl at the age of eighteen the life of the cloister, tranquilly shielded from the buffets of the world as it is, has a powerful appeal.

In "The Little White Violet" this point is brought out. Violet (played by Mary Fuller) has been educated by the nuns and shielded from the rough buffeting of the world.

Mary Fuller was confronted with a difficult role when first she undertook the delineation of the little white robed novice in the first of the Flower Wreath Series of character photoplays by Olga Printzlau Clark.

The Majestic. The $10,000 prize offered in connection with "The Diamond From the Sky" may be received here in Wichita Falls if the determination of a number of enthusiastic picture devotees will have any effect.

Mary Marah, stenographer to Rolf Howard, is a flashily dressed girl of low ideals, taking her pleasures in dance halls and drinking places.

Market Report

Chicago Grain Futures. Chicago, Aug. 18.—Wheat made fresh advances in price today as a result of continued rains that interfered with threshing and shipping. The opening was unchanged to 7-8 to 1 cent higher. Corn reflected the same strength as wheat opening 1-4 to 3-8 higher. Wet weather was said to be having even a more damaging effect on oats than on wheat. Wheat closed unsettled; corn steady. Wheat, Sept. 1.08; Dec. 1.05 5-8; May 1.09 7-8. Corn, Sept. 75 1-4; Dec. 64; May 65 7-8. Oats, Sept. 39 1-8; Dec. 38 3-8; May 41 1-4.

Kansas City Cash Grain. Kansas City, Aug. 18.—Wheat No. 2 hard 1.19 to 1.37; No. 2 red 1.18 to 1.19. Corn No. 2 mixed 75 1/2 to 76. Oats No. 2 white 45 to 46.

Fort Worth Livestock. Fort Worth, Aug. 18.—Cattle receipts 1690, slow; beefs $5.50 to $7.50. Hog receipts $6.50. 25 cents down, lights $7.55 to $7.60. Lambs $7 to $8.

New York Cotton Futures. New York, Aug. 18.—The cotton market opened at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points today and soon sold from 6 to 8 points above last night's closing figures on Liverpool buying and scattered covering. Much of the buying during the first order was attributed to Liverpool straddlers but as prices worked higher there was increased covering and local demand which carried the market about 9 to 11 points above yesterday's closing figures late in the morning. The favorable reading of the weekly weather report on conditions in most eastern and central belt sections checked the buying early in the afternoon but failed to promote much selling. Prices ruled steady. Cotton closed steady. Oct. 9.40; Dec. 9.53; Jan. 9.81; March 10.04; May 10.51.

EIGHT FISHERMEN REPORTED DROWNED AT MORGAN'S POINT Morgan's Point, Aug. 18.—Eight men are reported dead near this point. They were drowned while fishing. Reports reached here that the body of a baby, a woman and a sailor had beached near Sylvan Beach. They were unidentified.
