For Short Turns and Quick Stops these Ford Brakes are Tops

We told you how fast the Ford Tractor can stop and turn, you wouldn't believe us. But when you see a demonstration, you'll agree that the Duo-Servo brakes on the Ford Tractor are the "stopping-est," "turning-est" brakes ever. Here's something else. Both brake pedals are on the right . . . leaves the left foot for the clutch. Stop straight, or turn, with one-foot braking. Easy to service these brakes, too . . . no need to pull the axle. When can we demonstrate? We also have parts and service and Dearborn Implements for all Ford Tractors.

The Law & You

By Robt. (Bob) Kirk

County Attorney, Lamb County, Texas

DO YOU KNOW WHAT "BALL" IS?

Generally bail or bail bond refer to criminal matters.

Bail is the security given by the accused that he will appear and answer before the proper Court the accusation brought against him. Bail bond is an instrument which evidences this security.

In all cases, except two or three extreme situations, when a person has been arrested for violation of the criminal laws, he is entitled to make a bail bond, and be released from jail until his trial is held. This bond must be signed by the Defendant, and usually two other persons, who will guarantee that the Defendant will be present for his trial, or that they will pay into the Court the amount of the bond. When this bond approved by the Sheriff, the Defendant is released. Before approving the bond, the Sheriff must be satisfied that the parties signing the bond have sufficient property, over and above their exempt property, to pay the bond.

It is a tany time the bondsmen get uneasy that the Defendant may be about to leave the county and not be present for trial, they may deliver him to the Sheriff, and be relieved of their liability under the bond.

Cattle Grub Damage Expensive, Says Jones

The damage caused by cattle grubs each year in Texas exceeds $20 million. Beef cattle producers and dairy men can do something about these losses and this is the time of the year when control measures must be used.

According to County Agent Joe W. Jones, the cattle grub has a rather complicated life cycle. The heel fly which is the adult of the cattle grub emerges in the early spring. They lay eggs on the hair about the due claws of cattle. The eggs hatch in a short time and the young grubs enter the skin tunnel through the connective tissues of the animal's body until they reach the gullet of the animal. After spending some time in the gullet, the grubs move again through the animal tissues up to the back of the animal and here they cut a hole through the skin and form a cyst.

The grubs move into the back of the animal late in the fall, from September to December and after about 30 days, completes its development, emerges and drops to the ground. The grub enters the ground where it undergoes the change from a grub to the heel fly. The only time, says Jones that effective control measures can be used are while the grubs are in the animal's back and rotenone is the only insecticide that is effective.

Treatments Listed
For the small herd owner, the dust method of application will probably prove to be the most practical. A five percent dust should be used. The backs of the animals should be scrubbed with a stiff brush to knock off the scabs that cover the grub cysts. Dust the powder over the animal's back and rub it in so the dust will get into the grub holes. Treatment should begin about two or three weeks after the first grubs appear and Jones says to repeat the treatments three times at intervals of three weeks.

For the large herds, dipping or spraying is the most practical method to use in applying the rotenone. The dip or spray should contain seven and one-half pounds of five percent rotenone for each 100 gallons of water. If you spray the cattle, use a cattle chute. The sprayer should deliver at least 200 pounds of pressure and the nozzle should be held within four inches of the animal's back. You should use approximately one gallon of spray per animal.

Regardless of whether the dipping or spraying method is used, Jones points out that three treatments should be used at three week intervals. Controlling the grubs now will break the life cycle of the parasite and thus will eliminate the egg laying heel flies next spring. The annual loss can be reduced and livestock producers will profit from marketing grub free cattle.

Mrs. Canda Jones of the Oklahoma Lane community, who was a patient in the Friona hospital is now home.

Farwell Exes To Stage Homecoming Events Friday

All exes of Farwell Consolidated schools are urged to attend the first annual Homecoming to be held Friday at the schools, LaMoin Williams, secretary of the newly organized association, has announced.

A full afternoon and evening of activity is slated beginning with a Homecoming football game at 2 o'clock in the afternoon between the Steers and the Spring Lake Wolevines, with a Homecoming queen to be crowned at the half.

However, the event of the evening, when students can get together and renew old acquaintances, is the barbecue to be held at the football stadium. In case of bad weather, the barbecue will be served in the school cafeteria.

But that isn't all—there's entertainment galore; the planning committees aren't missing any feature to make this a memorable event, LaMoin adds.

Parmer County Agent Warns Against Grain Insect Infestation

Some crops of grain sorghum being produced in Parmer County this year will probably be stored on the farm, Joe Jones, county agent says, and farmers should give special attention to controlling insect infestation in the stored grain.

Thorough cleaning of the bins is necessary to prevent the new crop of grain from being mixed with old grain which is already infested. If the bins are constructed of wood, farmers should apply a residual spray to the walls and floor at the rate of two gallons of spray per 1000 square feet of surface area. Spray steel bins around the door frames and other places where the insects may be concealed, Jones emphasizes.

A satisfactory treatment consist of sprays consisting of two and one-half parts DDT or clordane as emulsions or water suspensions. Of DD can be prepared by mixing ten and one-half gallons of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in 25 gallons of water.

As further precautions against insects, Jones advises removing all sources of infestation, including feed, waste grain and other materials stored or accumulated near the bins, before new grain sorghum is moved in.

Jones warns that the grain sorghum should be as dry as possible when stored. If the moisture content is higher than 12 per cent the insect infestation will be heavier.

Fumigation is also recommended for insect control if the same quality grain is to be moved from the bin as was stored, Jones says.

Possibly the best time for initial fumigation is within a month after the grain has been placed in the bin. Monthly inspections during warm weather are recommended to determine whether or not refumigation is necessary.

Since insects are likely to be found near the surface of a bin the degree of infestation can usually be determined by sifting a sample of the surface grain. To be safe, Jones adds, if as many as two weevils or five bran beetles are found in a two pound sample, the bin should be refumigated.

In wooden bins, 1000 bushels of grain can be fumigated with a mixture of 10 gallons of one part carbon tetrachloride and three parts ethylene dichloride. Other recommended dosages are eight gallons of carbon tetrachloride or eight gallons of a mixture of four parts carbon tetrachloride and one part carbon disulfide per 1000 bushels of grain. The dosages of the three fumigants can be reduced by 5 percent if the grain is stored in steel bins.

Fumigants should be applied from the outside of the bin by means of a bucket pump or other type sprayer and they should be distributed evenly over the surface of the grain. It is unwise to attempt to apply the fumigant with a sprinkling can because the vapors are dangerous to breathe, Jones emphasizes.

Farmers are cautioned that the person applying the fumigant should avoid spilling the insecticide on his skin, clothing or in his shoes. If the clothing becomes wet, it should be removed at once, and the skin should be washed with soap and water to prevent blistering, Jones says.

EDITORIAL

What of the "State of Our Nation"? Do the Little Men Now Controlling the Politics of Our Country Represent the Utmost of our Capabilities? No!

The past is behind us . . . the present is at a point of near wholesale confusion . . . the future, what of it?

Hardly a broader problem could be presented; but just now this editor is limiting observations to the welfare of our own home and nation.

The "past" of our United States has been one built upon sound principles of economy, society and government. Or at least we thought our forefathers had a solid foundation in all these.

But vacillation and insecure leadership in every sphere of our living in this "present" is pitifully exhibited at every hand. The national debt has reached the high of well over, $2,000,000 per capita, and our leaders scorn every attempt at reduction of this load. This is serious.

And still more serious is the lack of "Big" men at the helm of our government, men big in capacity for service, big in their thinking, big in their actions.

Surprising to this paper has been the minimum criticism of the political address of Mr. Truman last week. Even as we recognize that party politics controls in the United States, it is mighty hard to "take" the accusation made by our president over the nationwide radio hookup wherein he stated in substance "Any person in our whole country who does not think as I do, politically, should have his head examined." Yes, our president used those very words—"should have his head examined." Dignified language? No! Statesmanlike thinking? No! Good politics? I think not. Why, the very basis of American democracy is the right to think as we please, and this paper will never be influenced by any man, regardless if he is a sidewalk politician or a president politician, who says our brains are missing should we differ in opinion to his little brainstorms!

Revolutionary action may be needed to direct American politics back to its high plane of Democratic, Christian standards. Though most of us are shocked by the term "revolution" we have been the victims in the past decade of a very real revolution in our own country, directing us away from the frugal teachings of our forefathers, directing us into a coma wherein we blissfully enjoy the false security of spending where there is no money, of leading the world when we have few leaders, of speaking of democracy when we practice bigotry in high circles.

WHAT OF TOMORROW?

Possibly less government might be the answer. Certainly it could be no worse than the near-socialistic trends of today, fostered by little men who discredit their position as "statesmen" stepping down from their responsibilities as leaders to all the people to hurl insults, to minimize the efforts of our fighting marines, to shirk their responsibility of maintaining a sound economy.

Lord, give us MEN, rugged men who fear God, businessmen who practice economy, good men who lead wisely, and men who humbly recognize their duty to this and the countless future generations affected.

We doubt if Harry Truman meets the specifications.

"A Taste of Texas" Is Unique Cookbook Listing Texas Recipes of Everything From Son-of-a-Gun Stew to Bowl of Red

By Corinne Jennings

From all over the world and even Texas itself came requests for a cook book made up of Texas recipes. Time and time again Neilman Marcus, the big store in Dallas received such requests. Finally they decided to attempt such a book and with the help of Marihelen McDuff to compile them and Jane Trahey to edit them, the book came forth, "A Taste of Texas."

Chosen were some 300 recipes out of 2,000 mailed in by Texans, all of whom were either born and bred in the state or had adopted it, or even those only living near by.

Besides being fun to read the delicious sounding recipes, it is like reading Texas history. Texas is a world in itself but in this volume it becomes the cross roads of the world.

The cooking of the Texans is influenced by the Indians, the Spaniards, the French, the Mexicans, the deep south which shows the fine cooking of the Negro, and last to make it all round state affair, the influence of the good chuck wagon cooking.

The first chapter under the heading of the title of the book contains the very special dishes, such as "Bowl of Red" one of the several chili concarnes. With side dishes of crackers, tamales, cheese, sour pickles, onions and topped with hot black coffee, or if one prefers, cold beer, it is a perfect meal for Texans or otherwise.

There is a Hopkins County Stew which takes seven hours to make; Hunter's Stew provided by the many hunters of the state. And even the well known writer, J. Frank Dobie, submitted recipes, top of which is the Deer Chili. This is especially good for the not so choice venison left in the locker.

Cow Camp Stew, or Son-of-a-Gun is probably the best liked of all the cow camp dishes the most famous as well.

For the coast country there is

Crab Gumbo and the knack is in the mixing and cooking which is not easily achieved by a green horn.

Other special recipes are for black eyed peas, barbecue sauce and barbecued meats, fish and fowl.

Southern pecan pie and chess pie are the top favorites in desserts for the state. And to finish the meal Boyce House, columnist, says is the coffee. Here is his recipe, "Use coffee and water. When it boils toss in an iron wedge and if the wedge sinks, put in more coffee."

Under the heading, "First come, First Served," is the avocado as the favorite canape spread. Under breads, of course are hot biscuits and cornbread.

Cheese, which never replaces meat in this state; curry, because of its high flavor and eggs, all have a place in the book. One old timer says of the last named, "Man can't do nothing to mess up them up, only nature can do that, and it takes time."

When a native says meat, he means beef. There are plenty of recipes for fixing this main dish of the state, as well as a few for pork, mutton, fish and fowl.

Vegetables have their place too, with corn high on the list as a favorite. Salads are eaten mostly because they are healthy and to be that, is one the Texans prides.

They like something sweet at the end of a meal, and alike all Americans, ice cream is a top favorite and pie is the next. There are several fancy desserts in the book with French and other foreign names but pie is hard to beat they think.

The last chapter reads, "Shake Well Before Using" and is not what you would think, but is a dedication to those who can't or won't cook. But we truly think few Texas women belong in this category, since they are famous for their cooking an done has to like to cook to get to be that good.

DO YOU REMEMBER

Homer Fox Recalls Baseball Clubs and Tennis Players in Friona, Back in 1913

Hicks Daniel moved up from Farwell to take over the Station Agent's job for the Santa Fe, early in 1913. He moved his family, his mother and a couple of kid brothers, and they moved into the little bungalow across from the depot, and a fine family of folks they were.

The first warm days, Hicks and I started planning something that we could get started out of doors. We decided that the first thing, we should have a tennis court, we ordered a net, racquets and what it takes to build a court. Just north of the store, the folks of Friona had fenced off a block, set out trees and was saving it to set a nice life sized court house on as soon as we voted the county seat out of Farwell.

Anyway, this ground was idle and it was handy and some way, we made arrangements to build our tennis court on the "Court House Square." There was a young fellow that I can't remember his name that was section foreman for the Santa Fe. He brought his crew of Mexicans up a couple of afternoons and scraped the turf off with push hoes, we erected the back stops and had a real nice court in a very short time. There just wasn't very many young folks around at that time, anyway ones that were interested in tennis. George Trieler was around some, but most of the time he was out of town. Max Brownlee over at Gishler's store, but not interested. Two of the most popular young fellows in the community were Dick Glennin and Lawrence Dillard, but those guys were as busy as an old hen with one chicken, on account of a little girl named Elsie. Dick was riding herd on the Goodwine ranch south of town, and Lawrence was watching incoming traffic out at the George Maurer hacendia on account of a little girl named Edith, and they sure wasn't interested in tennis. We had quite a gallery part of the time watching us build up the court, they called us sissies and had a lot of fun over it. Among the bunch that was laughing at us were Dave Sutton, big rough fellow, he ran Fabe Kinsleys water well rig, strong as an ox and did lots of 'hard work. Harley Cady, the local blacksmith, Edd Tiefert carpenter, bricklayer or most anything you wanted, big, strong and rough. Anyway, after we started playing tennis, we had enough interested to at least play. Tess and Elsie Glennin, Inez and Charles Wynn, joined our bunch and we had a lot of pleasant afternoons out there. We still had our hecklers, especially Edd, Dave and Charlie.

One afternoon we finally persuaded them to try it one round anyway, and boy did they go for it, we just almost lost our tennis court to that bunch, and a couple of them turned out to be fair players, especially Edd Sutton. Edd Tiefert couldn't ever make up his mind that he should knock the ball as far as he could, and after having to go after the ball a few times, he gave up.

Pretty soon the days got longer and warmer and our minds turned to other sports. We organized our baseball club, Dave Sutton played along with the kids and did most of our pitching. Hicks Daniel behind the bat and Dave chunking 'em across, we won quite a few ball games and had a lot of fun. As we started baseball, we tore down the back stops and cleared out our tennis grounds from the "courthouse square" so all we would have to do as soon as the election was over, was start building the courthouse. Election time finally rolled around and it looked like we had it in a bag, everyone we talked to was going to vote for Friona. Guess it was kinder like a fellow getting lost and traveling in a circle, maybe the ones we talked to that was going to vote for Friona, were the same fellows, maybe it was because the women weren't voting yet and maybe we had the election too early, anyway more people voted against Friona than voted for it, and we had our ears trimmed. Friona still has that pretty little square and Farwell still has the courthouse.

King candidates in the same order are David Koelzer, R. L. Porter, Derrell Jennings, Ronnie Briggs, Eugene Howard, Junior Mallouf, Leland Gustin, Robert Ivy, Kenneth Hall, Richard Engleking, Max Grim and Albert Clark. In charge of the coronation are Mrs. Stuard,

Local Groups To Observe National F. H. A. Week

The local Future Homemakers club has been organized for 24 years. There has been a Home Economics club at Friona High school since 1926, at which time it was called F.H.T. (Future Homemakers of Texas). In 1945, the organization became nationwide, and so it is now F. H. A. (Future Homemakers of America.)

In 1939, the F. H. A. of Friona made a scrap book, which has been added to in the years following. This scrap book shows signs of the many projects carried out, parties given, and trips taken.

In 1941-42, there was a home making class of four boys who learned to cook, etc.

Next week, November 12-18, is National F. H. A. week. During this period, local organizations are asked to put F. H. A. in the public eye by carrying on clean-up projects, informing people of the purpose of F. H. A., helping the needy, and many other things.

Our local organization plans to attend church in a body on Sunday, November 12, wear an F. H. A. badge during the week, and have a project for helping the needy. The week is to be climaxed by a Box Supper on Saturday evening, November 18. These are only tentative plans and are subject to change, but the local chapter hopes in some way to make themselves known by accomplishing some worthy tasks during National F. H. A. Week.

Hayride Was Sponsored By Seniors Tuesday

On Tuesday night, November 7, the senior class sponsored a hayride. Sack lunches were taken by the three wagon-loads of students attending. Twenty-five cents per person was charged, with free cokes provided by the senior class.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cook and Mr. Glen Cunningham.

Chieftain Eleven Has Happy Hunting As Mustangs Bow to 39-0 Score In Season Finale; Friona Controls From Beginning

Before a small and chilled crowd Friday night Friona won a decisive victory here over the Whitharral Mustangs. From the beginning whistle to the final gun Friona was out ahead all the way.

On the opening whistle Friona received the ball with Robbins running back upfield to the 50 yd. line. On successive plays Friona moved on down to paydirt with Robbins going over on an end sweep in the first quarter. The extra point try was no good, so the score stood 6-0.

Friona kicked and Whitharral received moving back upfield very few yards being forced to kick. Reed received the ball on the 10 and running back upfield 90 yards for a touchdown. Haws' try for the extra point was again no good making the score 12-0.

Early in the third quarter Cleveland added another 6 points to the score by plunging through the line and going some 30 yards to a counter. When the extra point failed to Late in the first half Whitharral fumbled the ball in their own end zone with Miller recovering the ball to make the score 20-0.

To start the second half Friona kicked the ball with Whitharral receiving deep in their own territory. After fumbling Whitharral set Friona in a strategic position for another touchdown (which Cleveland put over in the next play).

Play moved back and forth up and down the field the rest of the third quarter with neither team being in position to score. Early in the fourth period Friona exploded with a touchdown when Cleveland connected with Miller in the end zone for the fifth touchdown. Haws kicked the extra point making the score 27-0.

Touchdowns came fast and furiously now with Cleveland going over again and Haws again kicking the extra point. Late in the fourth quarter Houlette made a touchdown on an end run to make the final score 39-0.

Someone has said that thirty is the proper age for a woman. If she isn't proper by that time, she will never be.

There is a greater demand for people of character today than anytime in our history.

There is no advantage in waiting until tomorrow, because there will be no more time tomorrow than there is today.

Are Our Texas Highways Being Destroyed by 1% of Highway Users?

This question is presented squarely for the first time by the Texas Tax Journal in its booklet, "The Case of the One Per Centers."

Every Texan who wants good highways, adequate for 99 of every 100 users, should write for a free copy of this revealing booklet.

Approximately 99% of all Texas motor vehicles are registered for a gross weight of 20,000 pounds or less.*

All Texas taxpayers, including your Texas Railroads, have reason to be concerned about the high cost of constructing and repairing our highways and the prospect of building more costly roads made necessary by the operation of highway "box cars."

No one has any desire to bar vehicles of reasonable size from our highways, so long as each pays its fair share of construction and repair costs.

Other Texas taxpayers should not be required to shoulder the burden of a roadway system for highway "box cars", representing only 1% of highway users.

Every Texan interested in good highways without increasing the growing tax burden should fill out the coupon below and get a copy of this valuable booklet.
