Specialists listed on the program are Ed Bush, gin specialist; Neal Randolph, entomologist; and Fred Elliott, cotton work unit specialist, all from the Extension Service.

Farm Bureau Report

Senate Bill 215 has been passed by the Senate. It is called Texas Grain Elevator act. As we mentioned previously, it embodies a resolution adopted last year by Farmer County Farm Bureau members, and later by the State Farm Bureau in San Antonio. Senator Andy Rogers introduced it.

Well, you've been hearing about a road map to go with the Rhea Road Markers for some time now. In a short while, you will see one. Melvin Sachs and Charlie Calaway of Rhea Farm Bureau, and Verne Cubit, Phillips 66 fieldman of Clovis were in the office last Thursday evening from six to ten-thirty completing details. Mr. Cubit is doing the drafting and printing work in Clovis. We think that when you see this map, you will be interested in marking some county roads.

Bovina Farm Bureau meets Monday night, April 27. That's next Monday. Be there, because you're always welcome and the program is always informative and interesting.

Explanation for legislative issues of moral nature being brought to the attention of families through this column: Farm Bureau Members are, generally speaking, agricultural, rural people. Since the settlement of America, it has been generally recognized that these are the people who have steadfastly insisted on moral integrity among our leaders and in the business people with whom they deal.

In 1952, in San Antonio, the following resolution was adopted for record by unanimous vote: "We express our appreciation to Rev. Albert R. Peterson, pastor, First Methodist Church, Floresville, for conducting the vesper service" in 1951.

"our appreciation to Dr. Charlie L. King, pastor First Presbyterian Church, Houston. . . . In 1950. . . . our sincere appreciation to Rev. Roger Bell, pastor, First Baptist Church of Mineral Wells. . . . Each State Farm Bureau Convention, and each panel of such convention is opened with prayer, declaring dependence upon God for guidance in conducting business of great magnitude.

Two movies, "Family Living" and "Vacation in Canada", were given during the evening. Vocal selections were presented by Joe Reeve, Frankie Spring and Robbie Osborn accompanied by Mrs. Eva Miller.

Hostesses were members of the program and social committees of the club.

"Uncle John" White Tells of Early Hotels; Alludes to Wampus Cat Tale

That was many years ago and the day of the closed car had not yet come to pass, and the snow continued to fall, and the hands of the chauffeurs, riding in the open cars were becoming numb from the effect of the falling snow melting on them, as, it being in the early part of October, people generally had not begun carrying gloves with them in readiness for a change of temperature from balmy autumn to the depth of winter, and the condition was some thing similar to holding one's hands in a tub of ice water.

At least one of these chauffeurs complained that his hands were becoming so numb that he would have to stop and place his hands under the hood of the engine to warm them. It chanced, however, that one of his passengers had in his overcoat pockets a pair of those old fashioned "jersey" gloves. They were of knitted cotton just like the material of those old fashioned sweaters which ladies used to wear. The passenger drew them from his pockets and handed them to the chauffeur and they felt so good to his cold wet hands, that he made the remainder of the trip in comfort. The shades of night were beginning to lower when this car, which was among the first to arrive at the destination.

The destination was a two-story frame hotel building which had been built and was owned and operated by the people of the land company, and where these people entertained as their guests the train load of home-seekers and prospective land buyers. It was some eighteen miles out on the prairie north west of Friona. The building was perhaps 60 or maybe 75 feet long and about 25, or maybe 30 feet wide. The ground floor contained the lobby, the dining room and the kitchen, while the upper room was used as one vast bedroom, and its floor was covered with one-person cots placed in rows across the building, the cots standing lengthwise across the short way of the building, with narrow aisles between the rows, leaving a space between the cots sufficient for the occupants to move between them while preparing for their night's repose.

The cars continued to arrive from Friona in singles, pairs or groups until all the excursionists had arrived, which was some two hours or more after night fall. The building was comfortably warmed throughout and bright fires glowing the coal-burning stoves; and the guests were agreeably surprised to find the same force of cooks and waiters there to serve them that so ably served them on the train during their trip to Friona, and the first call to supper was issued at about the usual supper time. It was then jet black outside and the snow still falling, though the wind was abating. It was about nine o'clock when the last of the guests had arrived and all had been fed. Some of the guests, going outside to see about the weather, found that the wind had entirely subsided and the stars were shining brightly, and after all had been warmed and fed, they began ascending the stairs to the large bedroom on the second floor. That room was soon a babel, (sometimes almost a roar) of voices as the guests were being assigned to their individual cots.

This tumult of voices continued for, perhaps an hour, but was beginning to die down as the guests retired to their respective cots for the night, but just at that time two belated drivers arrived with their cargo of guests and after eating their supper, came up to the sleeping room.

Of course, some one wanted to know what had made them so late, and they at once began telling about what a large "wampus" they had encountered on their way out, and it looked for awhile that they would not be able to get by it. It was sure a big one - the biggest they had ever seen, and it refused to give the road and threatened to attack them. It sure was a big 'un and if it had got onto them, they might all have been killed. Then the other fellows in the room began to tell what big "wampuses" they had seen and how dangerous they were; but our boys maintained that this one was the biggest one that ever was, for they had seen lots of "wampuses", and there weren't any more as big as that 'un. And so the talk went on until some "sucker" prying from Illinois, bit. And he took the whole thing, hook, sinker, cork and all and made off with it. There was then a few seconds of deathly silence in the room, for they all wanted to know. He just asked what sort of a creature is one of them "wampuses". Then one of the boys told him, and such a shout and noise as went up. There were yells and screams and guffaws and cackles and gurgles, almost enough to bow the roof off, and it lasted for several minutes. Then when all was silent again the "biter" broke the silence by saying: Well, I just wanted to know and it seemed like no one else was going to ask what it was and now I know, and that started another row.

DENNIS THE MENACE

WASHINGTON AND "Small Business"

—By C. WILSON HARDER

In present Congressional considerations of a Taft-Hartley Labor Act overhaul the proposal by Rep. Wingate H. Lucas (D., Tex.) to outlaw industrywide bargaining ranks among the most important.

As to be expected, Big Labor allied with a few major corporations oppose amendment, proving once again that circumstances make strange bedfellows.

The facts are these: Industrywide labor C. W. Harder bargaining gives a few leaders in any industry a powerful weapon to freeze the status of independent competition; discourage start of new competitors.

As it stands now, labor and a few firms in an industry, can set the regulations on wages, hours, pension plans, and other trimmings, that all in the industry must follow.

In a typical industry today, three firms will do 70% of the business. Around 500 other firms of an independent status will also be in the industry. Yet, the terms by which these 500 independent firms must operate are often determined by Big Three.

The Big Three, in a high tax bracket, operating with stockholders' money, are not too particular about a deal they make with labor.

But an independent firm in a lower tax bracket, and without unlimited stockholders' funds has no such latitude. But by a strange circumstance, his operating costs are fixed for him by his biggest competitors.

From the worker's standpoint, there are also many reasons why industrywide bargaining is not to his advantage. A man working in Pittsburgh at a wage rate of $3.00 per hour, where living costs are high and where there are many disadvantages to his manner of living, may well consider, for example, that he and his family would be far ahead in many ways to work for $2.50 per hour in some small rural community where living costs are cheaper; conditions more pleasant. Yet, industrywide bargaining prevents a small employer and labor making an agreement for their mutual benefit.

It is possible that without industrywide bargaining, migration of labor to smaller plants in more pleasant smaller communities, would have brought about the decentralization of industry that both informed economists and defense experts claim is vital to national safety.

Thus, many communities working for greater hometown industry, have been stymied the past few years due to the agreements reached in some distant city between representatives of the Big Three and the union.

Also, in the past few years there have not been any big and prolonged strikes in the plants of the top leaders of any industry.

The reason is that due to a tax situation, other factors, industrywide labor agreements have become a competitive weapon for Big Business against independent competition.

There will be great opposition to Rep. Lucas' proposed amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act.

But independent business will be battling for this amendment, not to break unions, as is charged but to put collective bargaining where it belongs, at the local level and not in the hands of a very few concerns.

When a hearing is to be held on the creation of a road district, notice must be published in the counties included in the proposed district.

The law provides that: "The county clerk shall forthwith issue notice of such time and place of hearing, which notice shall inform all persons concerned of their right to appear at such hearing and consent for or protest the ordering of such election. Such notice shall set forth in substance the contents of the petition, and shall give the name of each county proposed to be included within the road district. The clerk shall execute said notice by posting true copies thereof in five public places, to wit: One copy at the courthouse door, and one copy in each commissioner's precinct. Said notice to be posted for ten days prior to the date of such hearing. Said notice shall also be published in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the county one time, and at least five days prior to such hearings; provided, however, that if no newspaper is published in the county, then the posting of the notice as hereinabove directed, shall be sufficient. . . ."

The law also requires publication of notice that road district bonds are to be sold: "The commissioners' courts of the counties embraced in such district, at a joint meeting held in the county having the largest number of in-

COTTON QUIZ

WHY IS COTTON SO IMPORTANT IN A BASEBALL GAME?

Austin - Washington Comments . . .

The legislative spotlight centered this week on the question of whether or not public school teachers are going to get an increase in pay.

The teachers won an advantage when the Senate passed a bill giving them an increase of $600 a year.

Senator A. M. Aiken Jr. of Paris sponsored the bill, which has the support of the Texas State Teachers Association.

In passing the bill, the senators heard a warning that it will force a tax increase of about $30 million a year.

In the House, meanwhile, the teacher pay bill bogged down last week in a mass of technicalities.

Representative Lamar Zively of Temple, sponsoring the bill in the House, ran into trouble from the economy-minded members every time he tried to make progress with it.

For example, when Zively attempted to get the bill transferred from the house appropriations committee to another committee which he considers more friendly, Representative Joe Kilgore of McAllen brought up the point of order that no such transfer may be made without first giving six days' notice.

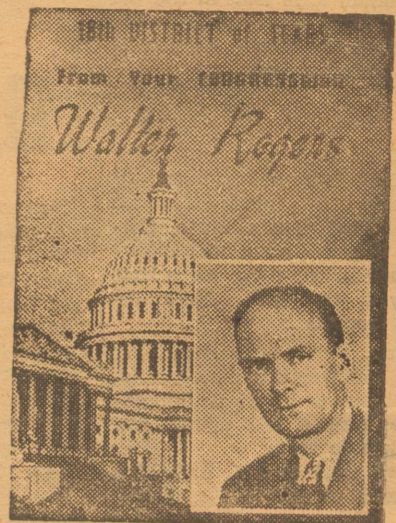

Speaker Reuben Senterfitt sustained the point of order.

Zively could not muster enough votes to suspend the rule. Nor did he get a motion passed instructing the committee to report immediately on his bill.

Representative Max C. Smith of San Marcos, chairman of the House appropriations committee, rose to deny that his group is unfriendly to the teachers bill.

"I know from talking to some of the members that they are willing to vote out some kind of teacher pay raise bill," Smith said. "I don't know which one. It is possible that we could vote out a bill that would not require a new tax."

Zively's bill, said Smith, was delayed pending certification

ALASKAN STATEHOOD

The subcommittee on Territories and Insular Possessions, of which I am a member, has been holding extensive hearings on the Alaskan statehood bill. These hearings are more extended, more informative and a great more in detail than were the hearings on the Hawaiian statehood bill. The committee has heard numerous witnesses during the past several weeks. These witnesses come from all walks of life in Alaska and their testimony has been most interesting. Many of the witnesses went to Alaska because of the opportunities offered in a new and undeveloped section and for the chance to grow up with the country. They are certainly to be commended for the manner in which they have taken advantage of these opportunities and made the most of them. Several of the witnesses outlined their personal histories, and it developed that when they went to Alaska, they hardly had the price of a meal on which to start. The last witness to testify was former Governor Gruening, who was as interesting as he was able and eloquent. The witness

Monday Morning Musings

Let the fault be placed where it may, the situation is un-called-for, disturbing, and even disgraceful in a decent community and educated age when groups of young folks of our own community resort to the crude practices of egg-throwing and even acts of vandalism in open feuds with the teachers of our schools.

That and more flared here again last week. In the future, The Star can no longer withhold the names of offenders. This newspaper is adopting the policy of calling names in instances of this type where the offenders' names are known.

Whether or not the injured teachers, the innocent public, the "law enforcement" officers or any other of the townspeople make public charges, The Star is going to carry the news stories of the overt acts, WITH the names when they are known, and they usually ARE known to everyone except the parents.

Circumstances near parallel to the recent incidents came to a head in Friona some months ago when a meeting was called to discuss the situation that had drawn much comment. It was thereafter believed by the city administration, law enforcement officers and some parents that the problem was improving. Further meetings as planned were not held because it was thought that concerned parties were becoming "civilized" with the help of their parents.

Be that as it may, some people yet do not appreciate the ill-considered, planned or thoughtless, acts of pranksters, irresponsibles or delinquents.

We are making these observations - not to tell anyone how to raise the children, teach their classes, enforce the laws or command the respect of the youth; we make our statements at this time hoping to assist in some manner to prevent future trouble that might easily flare into a TWO-sided melee wherein someone would likely get hurt - and seriously.

Reports come to us that some parents don't know what their children are doing, and no doubt the law enforcement agencies cannot be everywhere in town at once, especially in the late hours when sleep is ever so much more convenient; but believe me, it's time for a general awakening wherein parents and teachers and officers and civic clubs must work very closely together, and no longer shirk any duties.

Whether that duty lies in correction and discipline, curtailment of activities of parents or children, provision for more activities and recreation, or what-not, SOMETHING IS AMISS AND MUST BE CORRECTED SOON.

Some citizens think that another public meeting should be called. If such is called, this newspaper asks that the following specific questions be discussed and answered at that session:

1. Are the crude acts of these students unjustly provoked?
2. Is someone other than the students to blame?
3. Is the local law any more strict in its enforcement and vigilance than before the ultimatum handed it at the earlier meeting? How many fines have been levied? Have any acts been justifiable of fines?
4. Why is it that the speeding and vandalism is heavier on evenings when there IS student activity?
5. Are the parents cooperating in the discipline or the recreation problem?
6. Are the "enforcement" officers expected to enforce the laws, or must the culprits be apprehended and brought before the officers by other parties who also must file any charges?

A Versatile 'King Kotton' Reigns Summer Fashions; Trend National

Dark cottons are going to be popular this summer, the National Cotton Council reports, and this striking afternoon dress by Henry Rosenfeld is typical of the smart, simple dark cottons that will be warm weather favorites. In navy blue Bates cotton, the scooped-neckline frock is accented with rows of stitching in Kelly green.

The 1953 Maid of Cotton, Alice Corr of Selma, Ala., shows how versatile cotton can be when she wears this fashionable ensemble made from bedspread cottons. Toni Owen, noted New York designer, used Bates sculptured bedspread cotton for the camisole and heavy cord bedspread cotton for the full skirt and trim jacket.

Vivacious Alice Corr, 1953 Maid of Cotton, shows one of the exotic cotton play ensembles from her famous all-cotton wardrobe. This sports costume, inspired by the rich colors of Indian madras, is designed by Korday in plain and multi-color striped denim by Cone. The ensemble consists of halter and pants, plus a cotton-fringed stole.

Beef Roast

2 to 3 rib standing rib roast (good or choice grade).
Have the market man remove the chine bone to make carving easier. Season. Place fat side up in open roasting pan. Insert meat thermometer so the bulb reaches the center of the thickest part, being sure that the bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in slow oven (300 degrees F.) to the desired degree of doneness. Allow 18 to 20 minutes per pound for cooking a rare roast;

22 to 25 minutes for medium; and 27 to 30 minutes for well-done. The meat thermometer should register 140 degrees for rare beef; 160 degrees for medium rare and 170 degrees for well done.

Timely Tips

1. Beef is one of the plentiful foods.
2. Rolled roast should be cooked on a rack in an open roasting pan.
3. You will get more servings from meat cooked at a slow temperature.
4. Searing a roast does not keep in juices and therefore is unnecessary.
5. A meat thermometer is the only accurate means of telling when a roast is done.

AMERICA'S NEW RAILROAD

"I want a ticket on the Atomic Super Chief!"

Well, sonny, just hang on to that dream. By the time you're a full fare, it might come true!

Of course there is no "Atomic Super Chief" . . . yet.

But, don't sell American ingenuity and progress short. At the rate things grow new for you on the Santa Fe, you only need to squint your mind's eye just a little to see tomorrow streaming toward you down the track!

You can feel the future of Santa Fe in the quick tempo of its progress in the recent past.

Just count the growing number of Santa Fe diesels that speed your freight and smooth your ride today.

Nineteen years ago there weren't any. Today there are 1422 units. By year's end there'll be 97 more. Steam is disappearing fast. And more than 250 coaling and watering stations have bit the dust.

Santa Fe folks just don't dally when it comes to building new.

For today the Santa Fe is America's new railroad. And it's going to stay that way by growing newer every day—in every way that can mean new safety, better service, new comfort and dependability for you.

It costs millions of dollars to serve you so. But it doesn't add a penny to the taxes you pay. Santa Fe folks are proud of that, too—proud that the newness of the Santa Fe is a part of American progress that pays its own way.

TEXAS HIGHLIGHTS

by the state comptroller that the money will be available for the general appropriation of $166 million for the next two years.

Shortly thereafter, Comptroller Robert S. Calvert said the appropriations bill is within anticipated state revenue.

Smith, mentioning a bare possibility that teachers could be given a raise without an increase in taxes, said it might be done by passing Representative Kilgore's bill, which reallocates some taxes and puts a greater burden of school costs on the local districts.

Governor Allan Shivers had recommended a plan of this nature. But after last week's legislative skirmishing on the measure, the governor commented that a teacher pay increase bill without new taxes would look "like an empty gesture." The only other recourse apparently is settlement of the pending gas suit in favor of the state. This would provide $45 million dollars. Shivers' stand is definitely against any new taxes.

The governor, however, said that this legislature is, so far, "one of accomplishment." He expressed hope for passage of these measures:

1. Seven propositions dealing with water conservation.
2. A judicial redistricting bill.
3. Submission of Senator George Moffett's constitutional amendment to use the Confederate Pension fund surplus for new state buildings.
4. Co-ordination of higher education.
5. Action on a toll road program.
6. Classification of state jobs, and provision of higher pay for professional and technical employees.

Before the House went a judicial redistricting plan, aimed at the political organization of Geo. Parr of Duval County.

The house judiciary committee approved a bill for redistricting without a dissenting vote.

The bill would resuffle the strife weary, four-county 79th judicial district of South Texas.

Affected in the changes would be Duval, Webb, Starr, Zapata, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Nueces, and Brooks counties.

Charges against Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 79th District were aired in the Senate.

Rhea News

By FLORENCE DEAN

Those attending the annual banquet of the Friona Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture Monday, April 13, from the Rhea community were: Mr. Robert Schueler, Melvin Sacks, Mrs. Floyd Schlenker, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Caloway and Mrs. Elmo Dean.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Bauer are the proud parents of a new boy born Saturday morning early at the Friona hospital.

James and Ira Floyd Schlenker are confined to their home with the measles.

Carl Schlenker, Herman Sifford, Alvin Lee and Wayne Sifford of this community, Morris Means and three other men of Bovina went coyote hunting Sunday afternoon.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Dean and family Thursday night and Friday were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Dean of Reno, Nevada. Mrs. Bertha also visited with them Thursday night. Tom Dean is a brother of Elmo Dean and Mrs. Bertha Hurst.

Milady can dress to match the roof of her patio this summer. The lounging jacket worn by this pretty miss shows how fashionable and versatile striped awning canvas can be. Many new uses are being found for canvas in and out of its traditional role of protecting homes from summer heat. This heavy, colorful fabric is being widely used not only in window and patio awnings, in vertical shields, pivotable screens, portable shelters, outdoor draperies, backyard umbrellas, but also in feminine apparel.

no doubt made out an excellent case for their proposal. Much politics was injected into the hearings which I feel was definitely uncalculated for. Whether or not Alaska or Hawaii should be made states of the Union should not be considered or determined on the question of political party affiliation. Political party affiliation alone would not even be an excuse, much less justification for statehood. The basic question is simply whether or not the best interests of the United States of America would be served by changing the territorial status of Hawaii and Alaska and creating two additional states. It presently appears that the Alaska bill will not pass the Congress this year. The Hawaiian bill has encountered considerable opposition in the Senate. Unless this opposition can be measurably dissolved, Hawaii may find it difficult to see the passage of her bill during the year. The tidelands bill is presently being debated in the Senate and it looks as though a slight filibuster is shaping up. This may die aborning as Sen. Taft is doing his best to force the bill to a vote. I hope that a vote is taken on it before this letter reaches you, as we certainly have the strength in the Senate to pass the tidelands bill by a good majority. The debate in the Senate has engendered very little interest on the part of the public, in fact, much less than the debate on the confirmation of Bohlen, the new ambassador to Moscow. The public apparently thought that Senator McCarthy would have a fight on the Senate floor with someone about the Bohlen appointment. They crowded the galleries and lined in queues from the Senate chamber to the rotunda of the Capitol waiting to get in for a short glimpse of the show, which never took place.

WHEN WILL CONGRESS GET THROUGH?

Predictions as to the possible adjournment date of Congress are beginning to crop up all over Capitol Hill. Actually, the Congress has done very little this session on legislation. Outside the tidelands bill, the Hawaiian statehood bill, the Reorganization Plan No. 1, raising the Federal Security Agency to cabinet status, there has been very little important legislation or controversial legislation before the House. The first of the appropriations bills is scheduled for this week. The chairman of the appropriations committee has predicted that he will have one of these appropriations bills up each week, and possibly two or three some weeks, until they are completely finished. The appropriations bills are considered separately, that is, the appropriations for each of the several departments of government are considered separately. In view of the turn of events in Korea, it is probably safe to say there will be the need for legislative measures that otherwise would not be necessary. What these will be of course will depend upon the success of the truce talks and the turn of events in other sections of the world outside Korea. All in all, it seems that Congress will probably follow one of two courses. It will either recess during the summer months and come back in September or will continue in session through the summer and try for adjournment early in the fall.

THE EASTER RECESS

As most of you know, Jean and I together with the six little Rogers drove down to Florida during the Easter recess. We had a wonderful time and the kiddies enjoyed it immensely. Our stay was very short as the trip down and back consumed five days. We all learned a lot, and I am sure that the children got much more out of the trip than Jean or I, for which I am duly thankful. I discovered why the oil companies build so many different and varied filling stations. It is to serve people traveling with their children. No two children ever want to stop at the same filling station, so that you can appreciate that, with six, we inspected every filling station from Washington to Daytona Beach. I got to the point where I was afraid to buy more than two gallons of gasoline at a time. We stopped for a while in St. Augustine, Florida, to view some of the points of interest. We started to visit the Fountain of Youth but discovered that each occupant of the car had to pay 80 cents a piece. A quick calculation reflected that we had to dig up $6.40, so I decided there was already enough youth in our family, and backed out. I am sorry that I am not in position to either recommend or disapprove of the Fountain of Youth. From the outside it appeared to be very pretty, but no $6.40 worth, when the children would much prefer a hamburger with onions.

LET'S TALK LIVESTOCK

BY
TED GOULDY

The likelihood that Southwestern cattlemen may well consider supplemental feeding of this year's calf crop to enhance the chances of selling as beef calves loomed on the basis of the way the stocker market behaved in the opening session of the week at Ft. Worth. Indifferent demand for stockers except cows and high grade calves and yearlings was notable. Reports from Corn Belt points indicated feeders there aloof. A recent survey of the Corn Belt feeders intentions by the Wall Street Journal summed up the intent of many feeders to put their corn in the loan instead of into cattle feeding. Some 200 head of high grade thin stocker steer yearlings from the Fort Davis country sold at Ft. Worth Monday averaged 497 lbs. at $19 per hundred. Most observers agreed these yearlings probably would have sold around $40 last year at this time. Stocker cows sold from $14 to $17 some had calves at side and the calves sold around $17 to $20.

Slaughter cattle and calves were steady. Good and choice fed steers and yearlings topped at $18 to $23, some club yearlings from Knox County at $22 to $23, and plain and medium butcher cattle sold from $13 to $17.50. Fat cows drew $12.50 to $14.50, and canners and cuttens sold for $9 to $12.50. Bulls brought $10 to $15. Good and choice fat calves sold at $18 to $22 and cull, common and medium grades sold for $10 to $17. Stocker calves and yearlings ranged from $15 to $20.

Hogs sold at the highest prices since last August, topping at Fort Worth at $23 and $23.25. Last August, the highest point reached was $23.50. Sows were steady at $17.50 to $19 on Monday. Pigs sold from $15 to $17, and stags sold for $12 to $15.

Fat lambs and feeders were steady Monday at Fort Worth, and old sheep ruled weak. Good and Camp Leonitas is located at Buffalo lakes in the Yellowhouse canyon 12 miles southeast of Lubbock.
