County's CCC Enrollees Quota Set at Twenty; Selections Open Today

Austin, Tex., April 15.—Authority to enroll 4,986 Texas boys in citizens conservation camps in the eighth corps area was received here last week by Neal E. Guy, enrollment supervisor for Texas.

County administrators were notified immediately to instruct boys selected to report to recruiting stations between April 17 and 23. Enrollment will be for a six month period as usual with an opportunity to re-roll for an additional six months.

Effect of this new enrollment of boys will be to take approximately 5,000 Texas families off the relief rolls by June 1, at which time first checks will be received by beneficiaries of enrollees.

Guy said approximately 2,725 young men will be sent out of the state to camps in Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado and Wyoming. The remainder will go to the 55 camps in Texas.

Enrollment of these boys will again bring the quota of Texas young men in CCC camps to the maximum figure of slightly more than 14,000.

Coryell county's quota of enrollees is twenty.

Refrigeration Plant to Be Constructed to Keep Foods Safely for Trade

Visiting one of our progressive grocers yesterday, we note a large refrigerator being installed by them for preserving and keeping fresh groceries, etc. that might spoil during the long summer months.

We're referring to the H. Bauman & Son Store on North Lutterloh. These merchants are so constantly changing and improving for the benefit of their customers, that it is hard to keep up with what is actually being done. Just one of the additional services performed by the groceryman that is overlooked by many customers.

Arran's oldest twins, William and Andrew McNichol, recently celebrated their eighty-seventh birthday, and the six-foot-plus brothers received many good wishes from many parts of the isle.

Baptists Meet 10 a. m. Today; Contract on Church to Be Let

The First Baptist Church people are anxiously waiting the results of the call meeting of the general building committee for today at 10 a. m. This committee meeting is called for the purpose of opening and considering bids on the new building.

Those best acquainted with the situation believe that we are nearing the time to let the contract and break ground for the new building. Architect Birch D. Easterwood will be on hand to advise an assist in any way possible to bring about an understanding concerning the building plans. This committee meeting may be called for several sessions during this week.

Two One-Act Plays and Spring Fashion Show Please Audience at Gym

The program presented in the gymnasium Friday night by the Gatesville Merchants, dramatic Club and home economics department was a huge success.

The style show, which presented the styles of fifty years ago was a contrast to the display of feminine fashions of today. Dresses were modeled by Painter & Lee, Joe Hanna, Alvis-Garner Co., Davidson Bros., Leaird's Department Store and Benson's Millinery.

Pupils of the Raye Rayford School of Dancing gave two tap routines and the Choral Club, under the direction of Miss Selby, rendered two musical numbers.

"Thursday Evening," a one-act comedy, by Christopher Morley, was presented by the dramatic club with Joe Satterfield playing the part of Gordon Johns; Beverly Chamlee as Laura, the wife of Johns; Fred Byrom as Mrs. Sheffield, the mother of Gordon. This play Culberson as Mrs. Johns, the mother of Gordon. This play was presented at the one-act play tournament in Waco, winning second place.

The second of the one-act plays was "Frank and Erna," by Frederick Douglas. The cast for this play included Durward Taylor, Leah Dale Franks, Mona Draper, Elaine Wiggins, Frankie Mae Blair, Dave Culberson and Mildred Morse. Miss Villa Holmes was director of both plays.

With an entire cast of high school students, the plays were presented with a finesse not usually witnessed by such immature thespians. With these coming up for the Little Theatre, Gatesville is liable to produce some actors or artists along this line of endeavor, as she has in the fields of poetry, music and others of the fine arts.

As a whole the program furnished an evenings entertainment of tremendous appeal.

Mrs. K. W. Ray has been ill the last few days.

Trustee Election Quiet New County Board Will Meet Here April 26

The trustee election held April 6, passed off quietly. Communities seemed to have elected their best business men. Many of these trustees qualified the last week and seem anxious to do the best thing possible for their community in the school work during the coming year. The election on the County Trustees for Precinct No. 3 shows the following results: Harmon White 33 votes; Evant Brooks 78; Ed Huckabee 179; for Precinct No. 4 the following results: Jim Gault 152; Albert Turner 169.

The County Board as it now stands is composed of James Evetts of Oglesby, Barney Morgan, Jonesboro; H. E. Huckabee, Ireland; S. A. Turner, Copperas Cove and Zim Scott, member at large.

This County Board has been called to meeting on April 26. President Scott has called the board together at this time to reorganize and transact any other business that may come before the body.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Glass are the proud parents of a baby daughter born April 12. The baby has been named Carol Dawn. Mother and babe are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bates were Saturday visitors to Gatesville.

TRADES NEW FOR OLD

"Silent, shady summer afternoons!"

That's the story behind a buggy recently traded by Mr. Eli Williamson to a local dealer for a 1935 washing machine.

The buggy in question was of the old "courting" vintage, umbrella top with dangling fringe, rubber tires, probably a fancy dashboard. It had as accessories, fancy breast harness.

Said buggy was a part of the courting equipment used by Mr. Bird Hair, local barber, and was sold by him just a short while before he and Mrs. Hair were married in 1915.

Mr. Williamson has kept this buggy thru the years and once or twice a year he'd give it a dressing down with the old reliable "linseed oil" process, resulting now in practically a brand new buggy.

There's one sad thing missing to this turnout, and that is the buggy whip (and why did they always call it a buggy whip when it was used to whip the horse?) is missing.

Mr. I. O. Scott, new owner, has this vehicle or relic for sale, as you will note from reading our want ad column.

So, the world moves on-

Victim of Automobile Accident Here Sunday Succumbs in Hospital

Mrs. George West, 74, of Gatesville as seriously injured Sunday morning as she was crossing 8th Street at Leon on her way to Sunday School.

Mrs. West had just stepped off the curb on to 8th Street when a ford pick-up driven by Mr. Tom Coskrey, coming down Leon going east, turned toward the old cotton yard off of Leon when the car struck her. It is thought that the back end of the car struck her and threw her under the automobile. She received laceration of the head and face, a broken shoulder bone and a limb was broken. Neither Mrs. West nor Mr. Coskrey saw the other, according to their own statements.

Mrs. West was conveyed to Waco for further examination Sunday morning by Scott's ambulance service.

At press time last night a report came that Mrs. West was dying in a Waco hospital.

American Legion Meets And Discuss Plans for Erecting a Memorial

Local members of the American Legion met Wednesday night, April 10. The body voted to open a county-wide drive for new members in an effort to erect a memorial in the City Park.

A committee composed of Dan McClellan, R. L. Ables, George Hodges, Dee Swift and Wm. Weigand will meet tomorrow night to further plans of erecting the Memorial.

Much interest was shown at the meeting and approximately forty members were present.

LUKE WALKER'S FATHER DIES LATE MON.

Mr. Bill Walker, formerly of this city and now of the Spring Hill Community, father of Luke Walker of Gatesville one of the proprietors of Byrom & Walker, died yesterday afternoon.

Luke received a telephone call about 3 p. m. that his father was seriously ill and hurried out to where he was confined.

Complete details were not available yesterday, but will appear in Friday's edition of the News.

"Happy" Lee, round filling station operator in these parts, announces elsewhere in the paper, that he has taken over the management of the Sinclair Filling Station located at the Scott Motor Company corner.

"Happy," having plenty of experience in this line of work, invites both old and prospective customers to visit his station and "gas" with him—either in the tank or just "gas."

England's population of 38,000,000 is expected to decrease to 33,000,000 by 1976.

Leading Citizen Passes Away at Ranch Home Near Ireland, April 9

George Lawrence Doyle, resident and business man of Gatesville and Coryell county for the past thirty-five years, passed away last Tuesday, April 9, at his home, the Doyle Ranch near Ireland.

Interment was made in the Jonesboro Cemetery, April 11. Rev. C. F. Bell of Ireland officiating, assisted by Rev. B. F. White of Jonesboro. The funeral was largely attended by a host of people from Coryell and Hamilton counties who gathered to pay their last tribute of love and respect to a long-time friend. Floral offerings were profuse and attested the deep seated feeling of esteem and deference in the hearts of those attending. By special request, Mr. Doyle's favorite hymn, "When He Calls for Me," was sung in trio by Mrs. O. L. Wilson, Mrs. George D. King and Miss Lunette Wicker. The song was composed by Mr. J. S. Torbett, a long-time friend of the deceased.

Active pall bearers were Jno. P. Reasing, John L. Webb, Joe Monlehone, Stony Hammack, Warren Hammack, and V. Lovelace. Honorary pall bearers, Dan E. Graves, Byron Leaird Sr., Feno Straw, Dan McClellan, Tom R. Mears, C. C. Sadler, Bob Saunders, John T. Post, Dr. Ralph Bailey, R. E. Powell, Dr. Reb. Brown, Edd McMordie, Dave Culberson and Hon. Pat M. Neff of Waco, a close friend of Mr. Doyle's.

It's kinda hard for me to get accustom to snooping on Monday morning instead of Thursday, but saw Brooks Sasse, and he seemed proud of his new niece, Miss Carol Dawn Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Glass. That reminds me, as I dropped in the City Drug, Mrs. Morris Roberts, formerly Miss Camile Gordon, daughter of Mr. Boone Gordon, came in with her attractive young daughter. Boone is certainly a proud grandfather, why shouldn't he be C. E. Alvis was seen leaving the Court House yesterday in 'high,' probably spring buyers calling for him. A. T. H. Dryer of Coryell City was here selling produce to a local produce man. Mr. Lee Diddy of the Spring Hill community got acquainted with Gatesville's new grocers, T. L. Potts & Son. Attracting your attention even on a very busy Monday, was the Easterly dressed Painter & Lee Saleswomen, changing from the warm red to the cool and placid golden yellow.

DEVASTATING dust storms throughout west Texas and the mid-West plains have ravaged wheat fields and other early spring crops and swept away choice top soil from millions of acres in that section. In the Texas Panhandle the damage to the wheat crop—the money crop—is estimated at $20,000,000, based on current prices. Extension service officials reported last week that five million acres of the rich Panhandle wheat belt have been damaged by dust storms, ninety per cent of the farmers of the section need prompt emergency aid and are unable to treat their lands. Government officials fear an acute wheat shortage as a result of the crop reduction program and the damage inflicted by the dust.

Although Coryell county has had its share of dust this year, the damage is negligible, according to reports from all sections of the county.

THE SENATE last week raised the bond-issuing authority of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation from $3,000,000,000 (billions) to $4,500,000,000 (billions), and changed the existing HOLC and housing acts to encourage the development of sound home mortgage lending by the purchase of shares in Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered home-financing institutions. All attempts to transfer loan-collecting and servicing work from regional to State offices were defeated. The bill was designed to aid the thousands of home owners wishing to refinance their mortgage debts, and means that thousands of homes will be saved from foreclosure by government aid.

REPUBLICAN Congressional leaders are publicly expressing hope that Herbert Hoover will not seek the G. O. P. nomination next year to oppose Mr. Roosevelt. It has been authoritatively reported that if Mr. Hoover does not seek the nomination, he will use his post as titular head of the party to direct the elephant's effort to regain power. The former President secretly would like to take another crack at Franklin Roosevelt but the opposition to him inside the ranks of his own party is so great that any attempt on his part to gain the nomination would meet with determined opposition inside Republican congressional ranks. "From a practical standpoint," said Senator Hastings of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign, "I do not see how Mr. Hoover could become a candidate." And this seems to reflect the opinion of most Republicans in Congress.

THE STRESA CONFERENCE started off with a wide divergence of opinion among England, France and Italy. France backed by Italy, demands a showdown at Geneva on the part of the League of Nations.

in Caron, Ireland, February 22, 1874, and was brought to America by his parents when an infant of three months old. At the age of 22, after the close of the Civil War, he moved to Dallas county where he became a prominent citizen in the early days of that county. He lived there many years, serving as public weigher of that county for twelve years. By wise investments he became a large property holder, at one time being the heaviest tax payer of Dallas county. Later he became interested railroad construction and was active in contracting for the construction of a number of pioneer railroads.

Mr. Doyle moved to Gatesville in 1900 and established an undertaking and funeral parlor which he conducted for 12 years. After this time he purchased large ranch property near Ireland and improved what later became the Doyle Ranch, one of the best known ranches in this section of the state.

He was married to Miss Maggie Gilroy September 20, 1875. To this union one child was born. Mrs. Doyle passed away August 5, 1929. To mourn his departure Mr. Doyle leaves his daughter, Mrs. Rosa Doyle Nolan, nieces Mrs. Mable Crout and Miss Elizabeth Crout, and one foster son and nephew of his wife, Jno. F. Floyd.

CHAPTER V

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Arthur Ferguson Jones, clerk, looks too much like Killer Mannion, escaped convict, gangster and murderer, for his own good. He is mistaken for Mannion and taken to Police Headquarters. He is finally released when the fingerprints don't jibe, and given a passport that he can use when molested by police. He returns to his apartment to find Mannion waiting for him, and perfectly content to live there, using Jones' passport at night. Jones can use it by day. Because of his likeness to Mannion, Jones is doing a series of articles on the gangster for a local newspaper. Pretty Wilhelmina "Bill" Clark, a stenographer whom Jones loves, is astounded when Jones shows consternation upon receiving a telegram from his Aunt Agatha who is coming to pay a visit.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Unfortunately, Aunt Agatha arrived when Mannion was in possession of the room. Not knowing the difference, Aunt Agatha asked that "Arthur" take her to a hotel. Mannion made a few wry faces, then asked the boys to take care of her. Aunt Agatha was tickled. "Arthur" had such lovely friends. The boys "took" Aunt Agatha, but she didn't know where she was going.

Meanwhile, the Police, the Mayor and the Governor were casting ebon-hued aspersions at one another. Where was Mannion? In fact—WHY was Mannion? The Police couldn't—just couldn't—understand why people like Mannion had to be. Look at all the trouble they caused. The militia was out. State troopers were out. And the police chief would be out—unless Mannion was brought in! It was very essential—Mr. Mannion must be thrown into the bastille!

With all the hubbub going on around him, Mannion calmly made his plans to end the earthly days of Mr. Buggs Martin. In the face of his henchmen's advice, he stuck to his—er—guns.

"No! No! I'm not leavin' this town till I'm finished with Buggs Martin."

"Looks like you ain't leavin' this town," said one man. "They got things sewed up, you'll never get outa here alive."

"I don't expect to," said Mannion. "Whadda you talkin' about?"

"It's so simple," said Mannion. "even you guys ought to get it. If I croak, they'll stop looking for me, won't they?"

"Yeah, sure. But who's gonna croak you?"

"Nobody. One of these days Killer Mannion is gonna be found dead some place. But it ain't gonna be Killer Mannion."

"Oh, I see." The fellow grinned. "Two and two is beginnin' to make four. We get Jones, huh?"

"That's it! Get Jones!"

It wasn't much later, when Bill, with a check for one hundred and fifty dollars for Jones' first article in her purse, knocked on Jones' door, to be greeted by Mannion. That made two. Bill would have to join Aunt Agatha. Wherever that was.

Meanwhile, Jones had been escorted to Headquarters again. The D. A. explained. "The police are exceptionally trigger-conscious these days. Mr. Jones, and you can't very well blame them. That's why we want to put you under protective arrest."

There was no arguing. Jones must go to jail to protect his own skin. Two detectives went with him to his room—that is, they waited downstairs—so that he might pack his belongings. Eventually, Jones came down. No, Mannion came down. Jones was still up in the room, dressed in Mannion's clothes. Mannion had donned Jones' suit.

"Well, Jones," said Boyle, the detective, "when we get you safe up there in prison, it'll be a cinch to get Mannion."

"Yes," said Mannion softly. "I'd like to use the phone before we get started."

"Okay. We'll stop some place." The police car roared off. Some few minutes later, Mannion's two henchmen were in Jones' room.

"The boss gave us a ring an' told us to come up here. Get into your clothes, buddy."

Jones was weak. "I can't. Mr. Mannion took 'em—and he took the rest of my suits, too, in the grip."

"Well, then, get into his clothes—and make it snappy."

"Yes, sir."

So Mannion was put in jail. He wasn't there long when the Warden summoned him. "Jones—I just had a call from the District Attorney's office. He wants to see you right away. I've arranged for one of the guards to take you in. You'll leave on the next train—that's two-thirty. Be at the prison gate at two sharp."

Unluckily—oh, very unluckily—for Mr. Buggs Martin, this was the very jail he had begged to be put into. Seaver, too. He was unlucky. He had come up with a basket of fruit, donated by the employees of J. G. Carpenter, for Jones. He was to ride to the station in the same car with Mannion. The affable Seaver told Mannion so, himself.

"That's swell," said Mannion, a murderous light in his eyes. Murderous is no word for it. He had just killed Buggs Martin.

The car rolled out of the prison and made for the station. It didn't reach there, however. The guard was conveniently slugged and thrown out while Mannion took the wheel and directed the car as to his liking. Seaver, palsied with fear, sat next to him.

Later that day, headlines screamed of Buggs Martin's death by Mannion. Once again, the wires burned. Once again, ebon-hued aspersions flew. The Police were to blame. The D. A. was to blame. The two detectives were to blame. Everyone was to blame. But Mannion was still free.

In an apartment, drab and dark, were Mannion and his gang. The hide-out. Mannion, his head bandaged, looked up as the henchmen led Jones into the room. "I got good news for you, Jones. I'm letting you go."

Then began a pathetic story. There were almost, so help us! tears in Mannion's eyes. His mother...his dear old mother...she was broke...and, on top of that, she had a gangster son.

Jones was a little bewildered, but listened bravely. Mannion took a small package from his pocket and handed it to Jones.

A little matter of ten thousand bucks...from the last job...all that Mannion had left...and it was for dear old mother. Would good old Jones take it to the first National Bank and deposit it in her name? He'd do it himself, but the guards had nicked his head when he made his getaway. Jones was fearful. He'd be recognized as soon as he set foot on the street! But Mannion could fix that. Easily. He took a little black moustache from his pocket, adjusted it on Jones' lip, then told him to look in the mirror. "My goodness!" exclaimed Jones. "It does make a difference, doesn't it?"

"Yes, sir. And as soon as you've planted the money for me, you're a free man. Good-bye, Jonesy. Don't forget—first National Bank—and be sure and get there before it closes."

"Yes, sir," said Jones. "Good-bye," Jones left.

"Boss, that was swell," said one of the men. "I'd a fallen for it myself."

"Never mind that," snapped Mannion. "Get over to a phone right away. Call the police. You're one of Buggs Martin's men, see? Sore about me knockin' 'em off. So you're tippin' 'em off that Mannion's on his way to pull a stick-up single-handed. Tell 'em just how he's dressed and how he's disguised with a moustache—see?"

"I got it." The man went out quickly.

"Well, that's that. The minute he's bumped, the bars are down—and that's all we need." Mannion started for the door.

"Where're you goin'?" asked another.

"Gertie's."

"Oh, now listen, boss—"

"Aw, shut up!" snapped Mannion. "She's only down the street. I'll be back in an hour."

Inside the bank, the police were receiving their instructions. Outside, a parade was marching down the main thoroughfare.

"With that parade going on outside," said the Captain, "we can't take any chances. We're going to shoot it out with Mannion the minute he sticks his head in here. We don't want any of you to get hurt. So you all better go back in the Manager's office." The bank clerks walked quickly to the haven of safety. "Boyle, take charge of the machine guns. You and a couple of men go up to the balcony. O. K., Boyle."

The doorman was called in. "You say you've got a night-bell outside?" the Captain asked.

"Yes, sir."

"Fine. Soon as you spot Mannion, ring it. If any more customers show up, let them in as usual. We'll send them back in the Manager's office."

"Yes, sir."

The stage was set, with Death pulling the curtain strings. But Fate is very queer, don't you think?

MORTICIAN REMODELING FUNERAL PARLORS

Morton Scott, local undertaker, or mortician, is remodeling his mortuary, moving all the equipment to the newly remodeled second story of his furniture establishment, located on west side of public square.

For the convenience of relatives who are in to make funeral arrangements, Mr. Scott has the the display and reception rooms where the selection of caskets, shrouds and other paraphernalia necessary may be made. A separate room is used for the gowns or suits for the shrouds.

In the embalming room there is the latest embalming equipment including the hydraulic embalming apparatus, hydrator and other equipment. This room is more private than the show rooms, taking this part of the work out of the sight of the unfortunate visiting relatives.

These and other steps have been taken in modernization of this essential business by Mr. Scott.

8 CHURCHES REPRESENTED AT B. T. C. MEET

Eight churches were well represented in the Associational Baptist Training Union held Sunday afternoon.

Officers elected were: Brooks Sasse, president; Clinton Chamlee, vice-president and Mrs. Eual Strickland of Coryell Church, secretary.

The next meeting will be held at Coryell Church sometime in May.

World Comment—

England, ever cautious, seeks to check Hitler through conciliatory methods. The British are willing to offer concessions to Germany if it will return to Geneva. And Adolf Hitler's announcement that Germany will sign an Eastern European non-aggression pact seems to indicate that Germany is at last willing to return to the European circle of nations. By such an agreement, to include Poland, Russia, Germany, the Baltic states and likely Czechoslovakia, the signatories would agree to come to the aid of an Eastern European nation attacked by an European power. If Germany attacked Russia, the other signatories would come to the aid of Russia, and vice versa.

It all sums up to favor Mr. Hitler. No warlike measures will be undertaken to prevent Germany rearming—not with the sanction of Great Britain, and France and Italy will not act alone.

NOTES

Government spending for the current financial year has passed the $5,000,000,000 (billions) mark. Loans by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation up to the middle of March totaled $2,500,000,000 (billions). Unemployed in the U. S. up to April 1 totaled 10,830,000, according to Washington. Great Britain will spend 700,000,000 (millions) for defense—air, navy, army—this year. The U. S. will spend $400,000,000 (millions).

GRADE CROSSINGS MAY BE ELIMINATED

With the advent of the automobile as a means of transportation railroad grade crossings at once became a menace to life, and as the popularity and use of the auto increased the menace became increasingly acute. Many of the most dangerous grade crossings have been eliminated by underpassing or overpassing the highway, but many remain unimproved.

With every wholesale tragic accident the importance of the matter is forcibly brought to the attention of the public and it realizes something should be done. Shortly, however, interest lulls until another tragedy wakes us up. The nearer to us that these tragic accidents occur the more interested we become in wanting to eliminate the danger spots; that is human nature.

A few evenings ago a school bus at Rockville, Maryland, was smashed by a train and the lives of fourteen children were blotted out. The result of this accident was so tragic and far reaching that it instantly touched the heart of the President, who readily saw the importance of removing the causes of these tragedies, and remembering that at the same time means had been placed at his disposal that could be used for such a commendable work, he at once set about devising plans to that end.

Friday the President laid down the principles to govern the spending of from one hundred to two hundred millions of the more than four billion dollars recently voted by Congress, for the purpose of eliminating grade crossings throughout the nation. Whatever might be said of the various plans of spending federal money for the relief of unemployed, no one can reasonably object to the plan of the President to use the money in this good work. The plan carries a two-fold object and of the two, that of saving the lives of people in the future is of greater commendation.

HURST SPRINGS

We are having quite a bit of sand this week. The health of our community is better, which I am glad to report.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarver of Coryell Church community spent Sunday night in the home of their son, Herbert McCarver and family.

A number of people from our community went to Turnersville Saturday night to the Fiddlers' Contest. We heard some good music that was worth one's time and money.

Our school is progressing fine under the management of Miss Dalrymple and Miss Pardue. We have but about seven more weeks of school.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Box and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McCarver and daughters spent Sunday in the Hagan home near Purnela.

Mrs. Joe Crosley and Miss Pearl Ragsdale made a business trip to Clifton Wednesday.

Mrs. Morris Rice of the Clifton College visited in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Poston, recently.

MRS. A. J. McMEEDIN

Mrs. A. J. McMeedin died at her home Friday, April 12, at 6:45 a. m. Funeral services were held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the Ater church with Rev. Ben Reynolds of Pearl officiating. Interment was made in the Ater Cemetery.

Mrs. McMeedin was born in Falls county October 9, 1895. Before her marriage to Mr. McMeedin she was Mrs. M. L. Holster.

Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by three children: Elton and Haynes Holster and H. A. McMeedin. She is also survived by her mother, Mrs. M. E. Neyland of Ireland, one sister, Onie Neyland, and six brothers: Oliver, Bob, Jim, Willie, Lewis and Monroe.

Pall bearers were: Ross McMeedin, T. J. Cantrell, Raymond Edwards, C. A. Carr, B. O. Guley and Otto Yates.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. AMANDA THOMSON

In the sweet calm solitude of the late evening hours of March 29, 1935 the dear Jesus called Mrs. Amanda Thomson home to rest. Oh what sweet and loving soul has gone to be with her loved ones beyond the skies and to wait for the loved ones that are left behind.

She has left scores of friends to mourn her death. Our precious darling thou art gone to live beyond the skies while our hearts ache and long for the kind words you spoke. We miss you oh so much. We long for the sound of your precious voice. Oh love one where are you? We long for that gentle touch and that loving embrace so true that none can give but you.

Her life was sunshine to guide us on each day, leaving a train of memories that becom us over the way. May God in his unwaisted fullness richly bless and comfort the heart broken ones in this sad hour. Just as God breathed the resurrection touch of spring on the works of his hand and made to live again that which seemed to be dead, so in his own appointed time will He come forth to live here for evermore.

One Who Loved Her.

MUSIC TOURNEY FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Abilene, April 11.—Individual students of piano, voice, and violin in this territory will compete in an invitational tournament sponsored by the school of fine arts in Abilene Christian College at Abilene May 4, according to announcement of Miss Pat Malone, director fine arts at A. C. C.

Students in any grade in high school are eligible for the contests even though they are not studying now, according to the latest ruling of the managers. Voice contestants need not be voice or singing students. Scholarships in music in Abilene Christian college and individual medals will be awarded all winners in each division.

Many musicians from high schools in this territory are expected to enter the tournament from indications of interest on the part of students and teachers who have already inquired concerning the tournament. Both students in high schools and high school students who are studying music under private teachers may enter the contests. Entrees in the tournament will be accepted up to Saturday morning, May 4.

Students from Gatesville are invited to enter the contests.

DIST. SINGING CONVENTION

Singers of Coryell county are invited to attend the district singing convention which convenes at Hamilton Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and ends Sunday afternoon.

Representatives of Coryell, Hamilton, Erath and other counties will be in attendance. C. E. Skiles of Stephenville is district secretary.

Railway transportation in Spain is expected to greatly increase this year.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks and deepest appreciation to the friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our darling wife and mother, Mrs. A. J. McMeedin.

Your thoughtfulness, expressions of sympathy were sincerely appreciated and helped so much to make our grief seem easier to bear.

May we be such friends in your hour of sorrow.

CO. BASE BALL LEAGUE PROPOSED

Baseball fans and players met at Purnela Monday night, April 8, in the interest of forming a County Baseball League. Any community may have a team providing they pay a small entrance fee. This will not cost but very little as managers of the different teams can assess their players.

The League will run on the same order as the the local Softball League, as each team will be required to hand in a list of sixteen men, and there will be no adding to the list unless it becomes necessary by some of the men dropping from the list. Each team will be scheduled to play each other team twice. Once on their home field and again away from home.

Those who have definitely decided to enter the League are Purnela, Levita and Liberty. Teams who have received letters and who are prospective members are Leon Junction, Plainview, Ireland, Jonesboro, Turnersville, Mountain, Aleman, Evant and Ewing.

Kenneth Hedgpeth of Gatesville was instrumental in starting baseball fans thinking on the County Baseball idea. Play-eds or fans interested in promoting a team for the League should write or see Hedgpeth. No schedule has been made due to the fact that plans are not completed for the League. ### Blue Bonnet Workers' Club

The Blue Bonnet Workers' Club met with Mrs. Clarence Murray Friday afternoon, April 12. The afternoon was spent piecing quilts.

The hostess served refreshments of hot coffee and cake to the following guests: Mrs. R. E. Meeks, Mrs. Manson D. Meeks, Mrs. Walter C. Berry, Mrs. Hubert H. Berry and Miss Otha Berry.

The next club meeting will be April 25 with Mrs. Frank R. Wilson.

Happy Helpers' Club

The Happy Helpers' Club met with Mrs. Lillie McElroy Wednesday, April 3. They pieced a quilt, quilted one and appliqued some.

After the business session our hostess informed us that we were not dressed to suit her. Each was given a number and were told to go in another room and find a costume to correspond to the number. There were all kinds of old clothes. After the style show, there was a husband calling contest. Mrs. A. P. Dixon won first prize and Mrs. Effie Shelton and Mrs. Stella Lockaby tied for second. The dining room color scheme was pink and green. Sandwiches, cookies and lemonade were served to twenty-one ladies.

The Happy Helpers' Club met with Mrs. Stella Lockaby at a later meeting. They quilted a quilt and pieced one, while some croched. Refreshments of lemonade were served to 24 ladies.

On Thursday night, April 18, the Firemen will play the Turnersville High School Softball team a game at the Fair Grounds.

Friday night the four league teams were handicapped due to weather conditions. Players were stale and hurlers seemed to be having trouble controlling the pill. Several spectators were seen wearing their top coats. It was ideal football weather, but not softball.

In the first game Friday night the Independent crew defeated the Firemen 8-5. Both pitchers had good support but the Independent lads knocked Carter Ray all over the field. Summers pitched a good game for the Independent team. The dope bucket has been up-set twice, the Independent teams being responsible in both instances.

The Bachelors upheld the dope Friday night in the second game, but had plenty trouble. The Oilers led up until the fifth inning 4-0, and then lost 6-5. Joe Ricketts took the mound for the Bachelors for his debut this season. Ricketts is due to improve, and will give other Bachelor hurlers trouble for that position. Blanton pitched for the Conoco team, and did well as usual, but he is still having trouble in his infield. This team has lost four games, but according to their playing, should have lost only one, that being the first game of the season to the Round Table crew.

Tonight we find the Bachelors pitted against the Independent team. The Firemen nosed-out the Round Table crew and the Independent team defeated the Firemen, now what is your guess? We'll take the Bachelors.

In the second contest the Firemen are scheduled to play the Oilers. The Firemen are doped to win, but will have trouble.

Tonight
