Local High School One Act Play Wins Second Place at Waco Meet

Gatesville High School's one-act play evidently impressed the judges at the District Meet held in Waco the latter part of last week, as the local stage aspirants carried off second place, receiving 12 points; while Waco High won first place, receiving 13 points, one point more than the locals. Three of the Gatesville troupe were awarded first three places for individual acting: Albert Dickie, first; Bill Whit, second; and Dave Culbertson Jr., third. These young men are indeed worthy of the congratulations they have received, and the News wishes to compliment them for their splendid showing.

OPERETTA PRESENTED FRIDAY EVENING AT H. S. AUDITORIUM

"Sunny of Sunnyside," an operetta will be presented at the high school auditorium, Friday evening at 7:30, under the direction of Misses Maude Alyce Painter and Robbie D. Simpson.

Sunny, an orphan girl and the favorite of the other orphans, returning from a hospital, where she was taken after rescuing one of the children, finds her mates excited over the news that a wealthy patroness of the home is planning to adopt one of the orphans as a companion for her niece. Who will be chosen is not known.

Sunny finds plenty to do settling disputes, protecting a new boy from a bully, and comforting a crippled boy. The crippled boy, unable to interest the patroness in sending him to a hospital, steals her purse, and Sunny shields him, taking the blame.

Someone in turn steals the purse, it finally getting into the hands of the bully who is prowling around the home. The bully attempts to kidnap the crippled boy and is thwarted by Sunny. She escapes from her captor, recovers the money, and finishes by finding herself selected as the patroness' protegee, completing the stirring cycle of her adventures.

REPORTS IN DAILIES GIVE WORD AND WORRELL HIGHWAY CONTRACT

Word and Worrell, contractors who were low bidders on the Coryell Creek and Greenbrier Creek bridges on Highway 7 east of Gatesville, have also been awarded 3.6 miles of grading and drainage structures on Highway 7 from 5.5 miles east of this city.

This leaves only the connecting link between the McLennan County line, and the new parts that have been already let to be offered for bidders.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS HAVE CHANCE TO EDIT PAPER

DIVOT DIGGERS TO VIE FOR HONORS

Ben Sellers of the local golf club, announces that the person making the lowest score for the remainder of this month will be entitled to play the month of May without cost. If the response is good this prize will be given each month.

It is to be hoped that the local flowers of the "Scotch past time" will begin to turn out as a tournament of some kind will be held each month with prizes going to the winners. Also the tournament with neighboring cities will probably start in May.

FISHERMEN LEAVE FOR MEXICO SUNDAY

L. B. Brown, Dawson Cooper, B. K. Cooper, Seaborn Ashby and Francis Caruth, left Sunday morning for Don Martine Lake in Mexico, where they will spend this week fishing.

These local "fly casters" always report a good catch when they visit that "fish sanctuary," so there'll probably be some wild tales circulating round town when they return.

CORRECTION

In reporting the meeting of the farmers who came to hear about the new farm program, we erroneously reported Frank J. Brown, as a member of the Gatesville District committee, and this place is filled by D. I. Glass.

Also, the chairman for the county-wide committee has not been selected.

MORE THAN 1300 WOMEN
FORMERLY ON RELIEF
NOW EMPLOYED

Waco, April 13.—More than 1300 women formerly on relief rolls throughout the 13 counties comprising Works Progress Administration District No. 8 are now gainfully employed on women's projects, it was announced today by C. H. Harrison, district director.

Harrison estimated that approximately 1600 of these women are at work in the 33 sewing rooms scattered among the counties of the district. Sponsored by the county governments, these sewing rooms are distributed among the 13 counties.

"We believe our sewing room projects are of far-reaching significance," said Mrs. Alice Lee Willis, District Supervisor of Women's Projects, "because of their four-fold aims which we are realizing.

"EXCLUSIVE STORY" DRAMA OF CRUSADE AGAINST VICE

As timely as the black headlines from which it is fashioned is the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Exclusive Story," featuring Franchot Tone and Madge Evans and coming Wednesday to the Palace Theatre.

Written by ace reporter, Martin Mooney, it is dramatization of his crusade against the racketer overlords of New York, dealing in particular with the notorious "policy game," which is said to rob citizens of millions each year.

Gaining fame from his dramatic expose, Newspaperman Mooney was recently given a jail sentence for failing to divulge the sources of his astonishing information. It is this material which provides the sinews of the new screen play.

Briefly, the exciting theme of "Exclusive Story" is told in the lives of a group of people who are in one way or another affected by the machinations of the gang bosses.

A beautiful girl, daughter of a "policy racket" victim, appeals to a great metropolitan newspaper for aid. With her help and information, the paper's young attorney and crack reporter bring to a dramatic close the supremacy of the gang.

Franchot Tone portrays the attorney and Madge Evans the girl. Both players have distinguished themselves recently on other pictures, Tone in "Mutiny on the Bounty" and Miss Evans in "Transatlantic Tunnel."

Heading the featured cast are Stuart Erwin in the role of the crusading reporter and Joseph Calleia as "Ace Accello."
Erwin has long been a screen favorite, while Calleia leaped to fame with "Public Hero No. 1," and has since completed "Riff-raft" with Jean Harlow and

"Tough Guy" with Jackie Cooper.

"Exclusive Story" was directed by George B. Seitz, who has recently distinguished himself with "Kind Lady," "Society Doctor" and others.

OMELETS

The omelet is a versatile dish and appears with equal grace at breakfast, luncheon or informal dinner. A good foundation recipe may be varied to suit individual taste and different occasions.

PLAIN OMELET

Break eggs into bowl; beat slightly and add 1 tablespoon milk or cream for each egg. Season with salt and pepper. Pour into greased pan placed over moderate heat. Cook slowly, lifting with spatula occasionally to allow uncooked portion to run onto bottom of pan. When of an even creamy consistency cook without stirring until brown on the bottom. Fold and turn onto a hot platter.

VARIED FILLINGS FOR OMELETS

It is possible to vary the flavor of omelets almost endlessly by such a variety as these:

- Gruated cheese.
- Chopped parsley and spring onions.
- Bacon fried crisp and broken into small pieces.
- Canned tomatoes cooked with minced onion.
- Jams and jellies.
- Canned fruits such as pineapple, peaches and apricots.
- Plain omelets may be given a new zest by serving them with separate sauces such as mushroom sauce, cranberry sauce, or the following:

TOMATO MUSHROOM SAUCE
Five tablespoons fat, 1 slice onion, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups tomato, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, ½ cup mushrooms.

Melt 3 tablespoons fat, add onion, stir and cook until brown. Add flour. When slightly browned add tomato, salt and pepper and stir till sauce boils. Cook 5 minutes. Slice mushrooms, pan-fry 3 minutes in 2 tablespoons fat, add mushrooms to tomato sauce and pour over omelet. This recipe calls for a large omelet.

WHAT SHOULD A CHILD EAT?

The essentials in the daily diet of every growing school child are these:

1. A quart of milk. "The Most Nearly Perfect Food," in some form, that is, as a beverage, in custards and puddings, on cereals.
2. Generous servings of at least two vegetables, and tomato in some form daily. Every mother should be familiar with the exceptional value of the tomato.
3. Fruit, either raw or cooked. There is especial merit in the fruitjuice beverages made from the orange, the lemon, or grapefruit, though tomatoes and tomato juice, which are less expensive, will take the

4. Egg, meat, or fish, in moderate amounts as compared to the above basic foods, should appear in every child's diet.

5. Bread and butter are also essentials. The kind of bread does not matter if the child is receiving his daily ration of fruits and vegetables. Lacking these, whole wheat bread is necessary.

THIS WEEK IN TEXAS HISTORY

(Week of April 12)

1834—The great necessity for a well-organized judiciary inducted the passing of a decree on April 17 making Texas a judicial circuit, dividing it into three districts, and prescribing the mode of procedure. The most important feature in this law was the provision establishing trial by jury.

1835—Sam Houston left the banks of the Brazos on April 13, and arrived at Harrisburg, April 18.

1843—Henry Clay made public his opposition to the annexation of Texas on April 17.

1853—A land board was created by law of April 12 for the classification, sale, and lease of lands belonging to common schools, University, and asylums.

1918—On April 15 the ten-mile zone law became effective which had an object to protect the thousands of soldiers whom the United States government was training in Texas. It stopped the liquor business in every important city in the state.

TEXAS NEWSPAPER MEN TOUR IN INTEREST OF CENTENNIAL

Dallas, April 13.—A delegation of 125 Texans, accompanied by a band of 32 pieces, will leave Dallas at midnight of April 26 for a tour of the more densely populated sections of the Nation. The tour is in behalf of the more than 200 Centennial celebrations to be staged in various parts of Texas during 1936.

Headed by Governor James V. Allred and Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul the delegation will include leaders in statecraft, business, economics and all lines of trade.

The Train is sponsored jointly by the Texas Press Association, the Texas Centennial Commission of Control and the Texas Centennial Central Exposition Corporation.

Basic rate for the round trip from Dallas is $198.50, which includes Pullman, hotel accommodations in places where overnight stops are made, and meals both aboard the Train and during these stops. The rate lowers or increases in proportion to the Pullman accommodation required. The Train departs from Dallas, but assembly points are also arranged for Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth.

Sam P. Harben, Chairman of Transportation and Hotels, announces that the list of reservations rapidly is absorbing the capacity of the Train. For that reason he urged prompt action upon the part of any person desiring to go. Reservations may be made with him by wire or letter at Allen Building Dallas.

Any patriotic Texan is welcome to make the trip. Reservations are being made on the democratic fashion of first come, first served.

SAN JACINTO CELEBRATIONS ON APRIL 21

Austin, April 13.—The one-hundredth anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto, decisive military event which gave Texas its freedom and led eventually to the extension of the borders of the United States to the Pacific ocean, will be observed on April 21 in state wide celebrations as the Lone Star State continues its Centennial year observance.

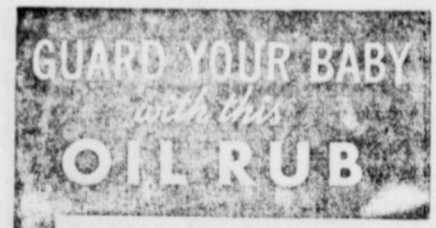

San Jacinto day celebrations will center in Houston, metropolitan port city which has grown up near the old battleground, and in San Antonio, historic Alamo and mission city. Numerous other events will be held in many cities.

Texas is observing its Centennial year of freedom and progress throughout 1936 in more than 200 separate celebrations.

SPORTS

The County Base Ball League got underway Saturday, but we only have reports on three games. In the Saturday division, Pideoke won over Osage by a score of 6-to-1. In Sunday's games, Seattle beat Flat 7-to-6, while the Gatesville C. C. C. outlasted the wood cutters from Neff Park 14-to-13. Carter hurled for the winners while Beran toiled for the losers.

The local track and field team scored 10 points at the District Meet held in Waco the past Saturday. Wicker took first place in the pole vault and third in the high hurdles, while Holt placed second in the broad jump. These two athletes may attend the regional meet to be held in Denton at a later date.

According to the reports of the boys themselves as well as the coaches, the spring workouts for the gridiron hopefuls are anything but a picnic. The blocking and tackling sessions have been of such a nature that home and sleep have never been so desirable to the athletes before.

It is almost certain that softball will again be the summer's leading attraction. The lights will be mounted soon and teams organized to begin play about the middle of May. Details will be ironed out very shortly and will appear in this column as will the results etc., for the duration of the season.

FARM PROGRAM PLANS GO FORWARD

College Station.—"The whole purpose of the new farm program is to help farmers plan their farming operations so as to conserve their soil and enable them to reap greater returns from the land in the long run," Jack Shelton, vice director and state agent of the Texas Extension Service, announced in reviewing some of the major problems of the new program.

He also pointed out that diverting crops of soil depleting nature into soil building and soil conserving crops would pay the larger cash grants under the rulings of the new farm program.

"For the most part, the common, well-established soil building improvement crops and practices already in use by Texas farmers will receive recognition throughout in planning the program to fit Texas farms," Shelton said.

The temporary State Soil Conservation Domestic Allotment Board plans to apply the national farm program to Texas so that it will best meet the needs of the Texas farm people in carrying out their cropping systems.

Shelton also said: "Farmers must keep in mind that a separate base acreage will be established for each of the following crops: cotton, peanuts, rice, and sugar cane for sugar."

erald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic sores and ulcers are often entirely healed.

"The new farm program as applied to Texas is being pushed with all the resources of the Texas Extension Service to put it into the field as soon as possible," Shelton concluded.

The Junior Class, which boasts some of the best talent in school, presented a program of diversified entertainment be-classes last Friday.

Jack Hestilow, announcer per-dux, introduced the entertain-ers of the morning.

Lois King opened the pro-gram with a reading, entitled "When the Teacher Gets Mad," relating the harbored impres-sions of a persecuted school-maid about an instructor per-ennially frowning.

Pattie Ruth Stewart, imported from the Elementary School, story of "Handel," which won her first place in the tiny-tot story-telling division of the County Meet last month.

Madeliene Gossert recited an amusing episode of the cap-rices of a mother trying to place a mustard plaster on her small boy and entitled "Mustard Plaster."

Thursday Assembly

On Thursday, April 3, the High School students had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Dawson speak to us. She chose as her subject "Getting Ready for Life." It was very beneficial and was enjoyed by everyone.

Mrs. Dawson is connected with the Baylor University at Waco and is rated as one of the best speakers to young peo-ple that Texas has.

Tuesday Assembly

At the regular Tuesday As-sembly Rev. M. M. Chunn honored us with another of his visits. Before Bro. Chunn's talk, the student body was led in a song, "Rock of Ages" by Mr. Diserens.

Cracks From the Campus

By the Jester

Here are some new ones, maybe you can stand them:

An hour of Stephen Foster's music came over the radio re-cently. It was very enjoyable but most of the melodies were stolen from current musical shows.

Believe it or not, there are some roads in this country al-most wide enough for a bus.

It isn't coffee that keeps us awake nights—it's the radio programs advertising it.

Then there is the diehard who thinks the world is flat and te music goes sideways and sideways.

Everything in life eventually adjusts itself, except a bow tie.

Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club of G. H. S. is about the most heard of club in school. This week the club has presented its one act contest at Plainview and Pur-mela. This play entitled, "A Message from Khufu," has a very outstanding setting and plot. The scene is laid in an Egyptian tomb. Four explorers, three of which are deserted from the Foreign Legion, enter the tomb in search of a mummy. They also find a large jewel and when they take it from the hand of the mummy, the door to the tomb closes, leaving them to a horrible death. Three of the explorers meet their death, one by a knife, which was used by one of the men, and the other two die mysteriously. The fourth member, who was forced to make the trip, is sole survivor. The characters are Bill Witt, Albert Dickie, Dave Culberson, Neil Chapman and Edwin Mc-Donald. Property managers are Wendell Lowrey and Erle Powell.

The club has presented sev-eral other plays this season. One, "The Trysting Place," by Booth Tarkington, and several pantomimes.

They are planning a social for the future.

Campus Lowdown

Our superintendent's two pet words: The most used is that word slated. The second in im-portance is that oft-heard word related. Overheard at midnight, "Well, I'll see you tomorrow. I'll give you a ring about ten." "Be sure it isn't one of those imitation diamonds." We think we know why Miss Alleyne Kin-sey doesn't spell her name Alean! (Is has been unofficial-ly set at 165).

Mike Woodall has his orbs on Redhead Francis McCoy.

Thelma Beane, former siren of G. H. S. is to have the knot-tied on April 26.

Give me a lane, A moonlight lane,

And gimme a gal that's true, And let me Wahoo, Wahoo, Wahoo!!!

(Not there, you might scare all the other parkers!)

Coach Worley was seen siz-ing up James Bradley as his tackle prospect next fall.

Chile Smith and Gerry Franks may bet that way. Ditto—Reb Brown and Fay Jones.

John Franks Post says that his roaster is so lazy that when the neighbors cock crows, John-nie's just mumbles ditto.

Miss Grimes has a great at-traction in West Texas.

Sonny Hair is about to dry up and blow away since his sun-burn has peeled off.

We hope winning tennis doesn't make Dave Culberson's head any longer, or is that pos-sible?

Wendell Lowrey went on a painting rampage recently.

Echel Wiegand and E. L. Taylor seem to be doing nicely.

Overheard comment about Skeets Sheppard and Mildred Grant, "Why doesn't he marry the gal?"

Theme song of a radiator on a model T Ford—"How Dry I Am."

"The bells of grammar school" is the theme that Saints Neal Chapman, Emil Lee, Red Fore and Chickenhouse Witt are moaning these days. Or is it $3.60?

One word description of Fats Williams—ticklish.

Since Franks knows quite a bit about Abraham Lincoln!

Sport Shots

It seems that the Hornet stars were too much for the rural competition and the track meet was a walkaway for Gates-ville High.

The highlight of this meet was Wick's winning over the highly touted Gift of Evant in the pole vault event. Cub Poston, probably the smallest man entered in that event, tied for the place.

Joe Satterfield may be toting the leather for the Hornets next season after all.

Spring training season started Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with a group of enthus-astic aspirants reporting. Only five lettermen returned.

In the district meet Friday and Saturday, Gatesville had men entered in tennis, some of the dashes, pole vault and the hurdles.

THE PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND

A novelization of
DARRYL F. ZANUCK'S

with WARNER BAXTER, GLORIA STUART and a cast of 1000 players

SYNOPSIS
Dr. Samuel Mudd, a simple country doctor, who unwittingly set the broken leg of John Wilkes Booth, assassinator of Abraham Lincoln, was convicted of conspiracy in the murder of the President. He was serving a life sentence on "Shark Island," America's hell hole of torture, where life is an ironic term for slow death. Peggy, his wife, determined to free and exonerate him, formulated a wild plan to rescue him from his prison and take him to Key West where he could be served with a habeas corpus, as a first step towards a new trial.

Chapter Eight

Knee-deep in water, Dr. Mudd, grown thin and haggard, was hard at work with a group of ragged and bearded prisoners in the construction of a breakwater outside the walls of the prison.

The men moved with effort, both from the weight of their chains and because of their emaciated condition. Every once in a while a colored guard would shout at them, or prod them with his rifle, in an effort to speed them up.

Except for a low growl or two, the men were apathetically silent. They did not even notice when a hundred foot schooner with black sails slipped up close to the landing wharf.

The soldiers, busy heckling and bullying the shackled toilers, did not notice the schooner either, until it was almost upon them.

Suddenly one of them looked up and quickly unsling his rifle. "Can't come in here!" he yelled.

A grizzled skipper at the wheel called back indifferently, "Where'll I anchor?"

The guard made a gesture out to sea. "A mile out. Government orders!" he barked.

Still Mudd did not look up as the schooner slowly swung around and put up. He did not look up until the boom of the sunset gun called a halt to the day's occupation.

In his cell the doctor lay half-conscious from exhaustion, unable even to feel the throbbing ache of the sores on his wrists and ankles, caused by his chains.

The whisper of Buck, the guard, who had once worked on his plantation, roused him. "Mars Sam! Here's yo' grub."

With the hunk of stale bread the Negro thrust a letter through the bars. It was addressed to Buck, but inside was a note to Dr. Mudd from his wife.

"We are now in Key West," she had written. "You will know the boat we have hired by the black sails and two lights at night."

Trembling with excitement, the doctor looked up at the Negro. "I'm ready to go," he whispered. "T-t-t-tonight?"

"But, how about the moat?" "I'll have to try the bridge." "Dey got a guard . . . but mebe Ah can arrange to be de guard dere tonight."

At the sound of footsteps in the corridor, Buck quickly disappeared. After listening a moment, Dr. Mudd went to the barred window and hoisting himself up on a jutting stone in the wall, stared out of it. There . . . there were the two lights.

"What's out there?" It was Sergeant Rankin's voice. Mudd stepped down gingerly. "Just—outside."

With a contemptuous gesture, Rankin brushed past him and stepping on the stone, looked out of the window. Apparently he saw nothing to arouse his suspicions. Angrily he stalked around the tiny cell, flinging the mattress . . . moving the soap on the wooden box which answered for a table. There was nothing.

"Don't start anything you might be sorry for . . . Doctor," he muttered as he left. As Rankin's steps receded down the hall, Dr. Mudd, working rapidly, slit the mattress, took out a rope and breaking open the cake of soap, extracted a key improvised from a spoon.

A guard detail was lining up as Rankin entered the guard office on the way to his own room. He paused, looked sharply at the men, then walked over to Buck. "What were you doing in the cell block?"

The Negro looked astonished. "Says which?" "I saw you." "Naw, suh, twan't me."

Balked by the darky's wide-eyed innocent stare, Rankin continued, disgruntled, into his own office. Again he stared out of the window. But there was nothing to be seen but a few fishing sloops, one carrying two riding lights.

A corporal entering, asked, "Anything wrong?" "I don't know yet . . . but in a minute I'm danged well going to find out," his chief growled. Taking a club from a shelf he went out. Creeping down the corridor he came to Mudd's cell. Abruptly he stopped and whistled. The cell was empty. The prisoner was gone.

A moment later Rankin came running into his office. "What post is that nigger, Buck, on?" he shouted.

Startled the corporal answered, "The bridge. He swapped with a fellow."

"I thought so," grimly. "Relieve him. Place him under arrest and bring him here."

"What's up?" "Mudd's out. Wait! He's out, but I don't want him back alive! You understand? Post extra guards on the bridge, notify all sentries, and we'll see if we can't give this Judas what the Court-Martial should have given him. Tell 'em to shoot—and shoot straight!"

The corporal ran out. Grimly Rankin broke his service revolver, spun the cylinder and then strode out, gun in hand.

As he approached the great gate, closing the fort from the bridge over the moat, he stared warily around him. There was nothing to be seen. Nimbly he scaled the gate, climbing on the great hinges, and concealed himself in a crevice between the heavy wall and the iron framework of the gate. From this position he could see and not be seen.

As the great, revolving light in the prison light house swung slowly around, Rankin drew himself further into his hiding place, until nothing could be seen of him but the steely glint of his revolver as the light struck it.

Inside the prison a sentry was making his rounds. He passed close to a huge pillar in the long corridor outside Mudd's cell, just as the revolving light illuminated the great passageway. It was so bright in his eyes that he did not see a crouching figure behind the pillar and as the light and the sentry moved away, Mudd slipped out of his hiding place.

A moment later he was outside the prison, running along the wall of the parade ground. As the revolving light again made its circle he was cautiously preparing to climb the wall, but just in time he saw the waiting figure of Rankin, in the crevice of the gate, pistol in hand, and he quickly dropped back.

Realizing that his escape had been discovered and his only path to freedom cut off, Mudd looked desperately around. Suddenly he dropped flat on the ground, hugging the wall.

From his place against the wall, Mudd could see the legs of the sentry on the grassy embankment above him.

"Halt!" came the sentry's voice. "Who goes there?" A voice answered, "Corporal of the guard," as another pair of legs appeared.

As the soldiers moved away in opposite directions, Mudd began to creep along the wall, stopping each time the revolving light lit up the scene. He was behind the prison incinerator when several soldiers ran through the parade ground. By their breathless exclamations he knew they were hot on his trail.

Protected again by the darkness, but knowing that in another few seconds the light would disclose him to his enemies, Mudd began desperately to scramble up the wall.

Gaining the top after tremendous effort, he rolled over on the grass, wet with perspiration and breathing heavily. He was just in time. There was the sound of hurrying feet below him. Soldiers were now examining every inch of the parade ground between the cell blocks.

In the meantime on the bridge, outside the great gate, Buck marched back and forth searching the darkness for a sign of his former master.

"Oh Lawd," he prayed, "let him come through! Oh Lawd—" And then he knew that the worst had happened.

Two white soldiers had appeared on the bridge. "Halt, nigger!" came the sharp order. A bayonet point was pressed against his back. "You're under arrest."

"But—" whispered Buck through parched lips. "Keep it to yourself. Move!"

On the embankment below, unaware of what had just happened, Dr. Mudd had somewhat recovered from his exhaustion.

As the light again swerved toward him, he slipped into one of the gun placements and rested in this cramped space between the cannon and the masonry, wiping his brow and gathering strength for his next move.

Then, sheltered by the ensuing darkness, he crept to the edge of the embankment and looked down into the dark, shark-infested moat.

Pulling the rope from around his waist, where he had previously concealed it, he made it fast to a support of the cannon. Then, throwing the other end over the edge, he let himself down over the side of the moat.

Below in the glittering, dark water, hungry sharks await him. Can he possibly evade this horrible death? Don't miss this tomorrow.

Dr. Mudd lowered the rope over the cannon and prepared for his dash to liberty.

TEXAS WILD LIFE

With its vast area, its pine forests, its wooded hills and valleys, its rolling brush country, Texas should be by far the greatest hunting and fishing State in the Union. Texas does lead in the total value of wild life resources but has a disappointing record in game conservation and propagation. Some of the State's most valuable game animals are in danger of becoming extinct.

As Alonzo Wasson pointed out recently in The News, Pennsylvania, with a fifth of the area of Texas, offers sportsmen as many deer as this State. Pennsylvania issues five times as many hunting licenses as Texas, New York four times as many, Illinois and Ohio each three times as many. Other States are increasing their fish and game while those of Texas are allowed to diminish.

Despite the fish propagation and other work done by the Game, Fish and Oyster Commission of Texas, the depletion of the State's wild life has continued. Stream pollution and the unlawful use of dynamite have made fishing an idle occupation in many places. Prairie chickens and wild ducks are disappearing; bear and antelope, once plentiful in Texas, are now hard to find.

Instead of tightening game laws and providing greater means of enforcement, Texas has reduced the number of game wardens from 125 to 65. This number is obviously inadequate. While violations of game laws probably have increased in the last few years, prosecutions have dropped to a low figure.

Hunters and fishermen spend $25,000,000 a year in Texas but they would spend much more if additional game were provided. A more active propagation of Texas wild life would greatly increase the State's food supply, as well as expanding the opportunity for healthful and exciting recreation.—Dulas News.

WORLD COMMENT

By
BURNS

WISCONSIN'S primary to choose delegates to the two party conventions developed into an unofficial battle between President Roosevelt and Senator Borah. The President's vote mounted to 350,000 to top Borah's total by 180,000. All Democratic delegates were instructed for Roosevelt and Senator Borah twenty-one out of the twenty-four Wisconsin delegates to the Republican convention.

Borah, with the winning of his first instructed delegates, is for the first time officially in the running with the other two chief contenders, Governor Landon, with 74 instructed delegates, and Colonel Knox, with 24 instructed delegates. Of those instructed six are known to be friendly to Landon and 24 to Knox.

Significance of the election to Democrats was that while Borah went personally to Wisconsin to bid for votes and raised the Canadian tariff treaty as an argument against Roosevelt, he did not diminish the President's vote. It appears that, while Wisconsin voters prefer Borah to any other Republican, they intend to roll up a big Democratic majority in November.

Today Illinois Republicans decide whether they prefer to be represented by their adopted son, Col. Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher, or by Senator Borah, who was born in Illinois but now represents Idaho in the Senate. Nebraska votes today and the Borah and Landon forces clash here.

Two weeks from today Senator Borah comes before the Republican voters of Pennsylvania. But not until May 19 will there be a State-wide popular test of strength between the Idaho Senator and Kansas' Governor Alf M. Landon. It will be in New Jersey, where Governor Landon filed last week.

PLUTARCO ELIAS CALLES retired from the Presidency of Mexico in 1928 but continued to rule the Latin Republic through his dominant National Revolutionary Party. From his Santa Barboro ranch outside Mexico City Calles chose Mexico's chief executives and determined internal and foreign policy of our neighbor across the Rio Grande.

Portes Gil and Ortez Rubio were successively chosen President and summarily removed for refusing to take their orders from Santa Barboro. Abelardo Roldriguez served out the unexpired term of Senor Rubio, who resigned and came to the United States. Then, in 1934, Mexico's Iron Man chose Lazaro Cardenas, native Indian and general in the national army. Cardenas was elected by Boss Calles' party and installed as puppet president. For a year he occupied just that position, said nothing, secretly consolidated his position with the people and the army. Last year a conflict over policy developed between Calles, supported by the financiers, and Cardenas, backed by the army and the people. Calles found himself powerless, stripped of all power, and finally exiled from his native land.

Reason: Calles, in his years of power, had acquired an enormous fortune estimated at 156,000,000 pesos. Cardenas, elected on a socialist platform, meant to carry out his promises of dividing the huge estates among the peasants, increasing laborers' wages, and socializing the major industries. Calles was no longer the friend of the laborer and the peasant but the leader of the capitalists and financiers.

Returning to Mexico City late last year, Calles precipitated serious labor disturbances and found his home guarded by police day and night, "for protection against agitators," the government explained. Fearful of subversive activities against the government, President Lazaro Cardenas last week busted his one-time boss unceremoniously out of his home at a midnight hour and into a chartered plane, sent him to Texas to stay.

TOWNSEND SENATORIAL CANDIDATE NOW IN FOR ELECTION

Waco, April 9.—Central Texas has a candidate for the United States Senate in Richard C. Bush, young Texas advertising executive and newspaper editor, who this week announced his candidacy opposing Senator Morris Sheppard.

The latest entry in the senatorial race, is 34 years old, a resident of Waco for the last eighteen years and is a contributing editorial writer.

Seeking the democratic nomination in the July primary, the candidate's platform will include "definite approval of the Townsend pension-recovery plan, relief for the people from extortionate utility rates, sponsorship of measures for the protection of union labor, and safeguarding the interests of Texas farmers."

In the preceding years, he spent ten years in editorial capacities on various Texas newspapers, during which time his chief interest was in the study and interpretation of economic and political developments in the news.

"I do not believe that any senator or congressman should disregard the desires of the people. Many of our troubles today can be traced to misrepresentation."

"I will discuss the utility question, the vital necessity of improving labor and farm conditions, and explain misunderstood features of the Townsend plan, during the campaign."

No "Pauper's Oath" Is Required to Get Old Age Assistance Money

Austin, April 9.—No "pauper's oath" is required to obtain assistance under the new law, Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission, declared this week.

"It is unfair to consider a man or woman a pauper when he or she has $5,000 or $7,500 worth of property and has $500 or $1,000 in the bank. These are the maximum amounts of property and cash an applicant may have and still qualify for assistance. The larger amounts are for married applicants," he explained.

"Broader qualifications would keep us from receiving federal aid. If our law were changed to make everyone past the age of 65 eligible, we could not obtain funds from Washington. Cooperation of the Federal Government is limited to only those states giving aid to the needy.

"The National Social Act reads that it was passed for the purpose of giving financial assistance to states for helping aged needy individuals (Section 1, line)," Mr. Carpenter stated. "Our old age assistance set-up for administering the new law was created only after I had conferred with the Social Security Board in Washington."

"State legislators passed the Texas law in such form as to agree with the national one. The Texas Old Age Assistance Commission and our entire plan are based on the State law and upon rules and regulations made by the Federal Government," he added.

"We have formulated our plan in such a way to be acceptable by the Social Security Board, which must pass upon our law and plans before matching our payments dollar for dollar," the Executive Director said.
