WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

The Halifax talks between Viscount Halifax of Britain and Chancellor Halifax of Britain and Chan come to naught. So the press reports from London tell us.

Fears expressed in this column last week that the German dictator would demand too much of a Britain at last willing to compromise and make concessions emoted from the conference.

Reliable diplomatic sources say Hitler asked for:

1. A statement of British recognition that Germany has special interests in Central Europe.
2. Abandonment of Britain's attempt to obtain a general European settlement.
3. An agreement that the question of colonies and all other questions concerning Germany be settled bilaterally and without connection with the League of Nations.

Only one encouraging report was forthcoming. That was, that Hitler assured Lord Halifax he was willing to withdraw from Spain, provided he were guaranteed that Communism could gain no foothold on the Iberian peninsula.

Acceptance by Britain of the three German proposals or demands, whichever they were, would mean either outright abandonment or modifications of the entire British foreign policy.

The first proposal means, it is said, that Hitler be given a free hand in the Danubian basin where, he contends, there are 30,000,000 Germans living under the flags of Poland, Austria, and Czechoslovakia.

Kaiser Wilhelm held dreams of a great middle European empire dominated by Germany and extending from the North Sea to the Persian Gulf. He came in fatal conflict with the interests and ambitions of Britain, Czarist Russia and Italy in the pursuance of this scheme. Does Hitler entertain the same dreams as his ill-fated former Kaiser?

Last week before a Nazi audience Hitler reiterated, in veiled language, his intention to bring the rich Russian Ukraine under the flag of Nazi Germany. The logical point through which to strike at the Ukraine is through Czechoslovakia. The reason why Hitler wants a free hand in the Danubian territory is not difficult to understand, nor does Britain miss the point by any means.

Britain has striven by one means or another since 1918 for a lasting and general European peace. British security is the issue at stake—security against attack from the continent by Germany, security against a new balance of power on the Continent that would mean the demise of France as a free state and a world empire, security for millions of pounds of British investments on the Continent. Why should Britain abandon her attempt to obtain a general European settlement, as Herr Hitler suggests?

British support of the League of Nations has been the determining factor in maintaining the League as a factor for peace. British backing of the League has tied to her banner the smaller world powers which fear aggression from the Fascist states. Any settlement with Germany outside the League would be an abandonment not only of the League and revocation of one of the cardinal points of British foreign policy, but also would cut adrift the smaller powers that still cling to Britain for protection in spite of the demise of the League.

An equitable and peaceful settlement of the Spanish imbroglio may at last be forthcoming, now that Hitler has signified his willingness to withdraw from Iberia. But British diplomats are not deluded by this action into believing that Hitler is abandoning his expansionist policies. Rather they believe that the German has realized that Mussolini wants all the Spanish cake for himself and that little would be left for Germany once General Franco set up a Fascist regime at Madrid.

If the press reports that Britain and France are willing to concede to Germany some of her post-war colonies are correct, there is some gratification to be derived there. In the first place, if Hitler were granted any appreciable overseas territories, the long heralded "push to the East" against Russia might be postponed and with the postponement an accompanying lessening of war tension.

Secondly, while the German colonies are worth little in an economic way, the German people might be brought to realize that such action by their former foes meant that they were not to be starved by a vindictive world that still hates Germany.

There lies one hope for both peace and for the salvation of the German people. Hitler and his hateful regime can last only so long as a majority of the German people support it. Not even the army will stay with Hitler when the German people desert him. If the sense of injustice still prevalent in Germany and so cleverly exploited by Hitler and his Nazis can be placated by a conciliatory and friendly attitude such as Britain and France are apparently willing and ready to pursue, then the very basis upon which dictatorship is founded in Germany will fall. That basis is military expansion in Russia and Central Europe in order to secure for the overcrowded German homeland a more equitable distribution of the world's goods.

Hitler should read history—read it in the faces of his people—and not repeat the Kaiser's mistakes in demanding too much for a peaceful policy. Time after time before 1914, even after the cementing of the Anglo-French and the Triples Entente agreements, Britain offered to make peace with Germany. The Kaiser rejected these overtures, and continued upon his naval expansion program which presented little alternative to the British than to defeat Germany and obliterate Britain's greatest naval and commercial rival.

Britain is willing to pay a great price for peace. The entire world is willing to make concessions to Germany if she will abandon her warlike attitude. The world does not hate Germany; the world does hate war, and so long as Germany remains the personification of war, of militarism, of aggression, the world will continue to boycott Germany and to regard every German citizen and every German action with suspicion.

Mr. and Mrs. Tucker Surprised With Shower

After gathering at the home of Mrs. John T. Post friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Tucker went to their lovely new home on Lutterloh Avenue, and surprised them with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening.

Those who surprised the happy couple with lovely gifts were: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lutterloh, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maxwell, Mesdames Ora Davidson, John Powell, John T. Post, L. K. Thomson, Ernie Chamlee, R. L. Saunders, Bruno Melburn, Monroe Blankenship, Elgin Davidson, Craig Davidson, R. S. Farmer, Tom Carlton, Tom Davidson, Lyman Scott, D. D. McCoy, Misses Martha Ann Davidson, Nettie Jane Thomson, Mr. and Cliff Rankin and Jack Hearn.

Dr. and Mrs. Brown Honor Foot Ball Boys

Dr. and Mrs. Jno. T. Brown complimented the Gatesville foot ball boys with a very delightful informal affair in the form of a banquet Wednesday evening in the Home Economics Department of the High School Gym.

On the reflector in the center of the banquet table was a miniature Christmas tree and Santa Claus in a sled driven by his reindeer. The place cards were red bells, and the other appointments carried out the Christmas idea. Lovely red tapers burning in holly candleholders added to the lovely table.

A three course dinner was served to about thirty seven members of the football team, also Supt. and Mrs. E. W. Brooks, Coach and Mrs. Earle Worley and Coach Schwarz, by the pep squad leaders, Misses Flogene Marti, Eloise Cook, and Anita Lowry, also Francis Brown and Nettie Jane Thomson.

During the enjoyable evening an informal program was had with Supt. Brooks leading in prayer; Coach Worley giving a short talk on his appreciation of the football team and to Dr. and Mrs. Brown; Capt. C. H. Wallace responding.

Talks were also given by Coach Schwarz, Dr. Brown and Supt. Brooks concluded the evening.

Ladies Missionary Society Honor Mesdames Seymour and Stanford

Tuesday afternoon in honor of Mesdames L. W. Seymour and E. R. Stanford, wives of the pastor of the First Methodist Church and Presiding Elder, respectively, the Ladies Missionary Society entertained with a tea at the home of Mrs. W. C. Guggolz. The receiving line was composed of Mesdames Howard Franks, Clyde Bailey, C. E. Alvis, Pearl White, W. C. Guggolz and the honorees.

The reception room was made attractive with vases of red berries.

Throughout the evening Mrs. Byron Leaird Jr., accompanied by Miss Orpa Mayo presented several musical numbers. The guests were invited into the dining room, by Mesdames J. H. Hamilton and Eugene Alvis Jr. Presiding at the table, which was lovely with a centerpiece of giant yellow chrysanthemums with candles burning in the candleholders, at each end, were Misses Opal Dixon and Dolly Farmer.

The refreshments plates consist of openfaced nut sandwiches, toasted pecans, olives and mints. Others assisting in the dining room were: Mesdames Bill Thomson, Floyd Zitzler, Francis Stout, Elmo Washburn, Fred Mike and Miss Bess Chapman.

Others in the house party were: Mesdames H. T. Chapman, E. G. Beerwinkle, and Guy Powell.

Over hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Tucker, Jack Hearn and Esteen Poston were visitors in the Lyman Scott home at Pidecke Sunday.

Quite the brightest spot in Hollywood last Summer was the enormous Stage 7 at Warner Bros.' studio where youth, pep and frivolity held forth. It was there that scenes for the pretentious new musical, "Varsity Show" starring Dick Powell and Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, were being filmed with merry abandon. This is the picture that opens at the Regal Sat. night at 10:30 also Sun. and Monday.

More than an all-American college picture is "Varsity Show" it typifies the international college youth, for representatives of the leading colleges of the world appeared in the production crew.

The scenes they filmed were of a prom at good old Winfield College, which supposedly exists somewhere in Pennsylvania. On the dance floor were nearly 200 boys and girls from the University of Southern California. They were the members of the SC Varsity Club, who recently put on their third annual show "Its Come to This".

They confided that the University authorities disregarded the class cutting, but if the students, most of whom were in their junior year, failed to pass the final exams it would be just to bad.

Included among the students were a number of football stars including Gil Kuhn, 1936 varsity captain and President of the SC Varsity club; Glenn Calvin, Red Morgan, Ed Kuntz, Bill Radovich, Coy Dunn, Phil Duboski, Miles Norton, Jack Clark and Eddie Stevenson.

There was also Bill Sefton, who recently broke the world's record in pole vault; Miles Calvert, Olympic tumbler; Elliot Steinman, water polo star and Del Hessick, golf and water polo star. Joyce Rippe, honor student, and Nancy Holm, both of whom are star debaters, were prominent among the many lovely co-eds.

Dick Powell who plays an old grad in "Varsity Show", is in reality an old grad of Little Rock College in Arkansas and his two leading women, Rosemary and Priscilla Lane, are products of Simpson College at Indianola, Iowa.

Fred Waring, of course, attended Penn State College where with his brother Tom, Poley McClintock and the late Fred Buck, he started the orchestra that has grown into the present organization known as the Pennsylvanians.

SPORT SCRAPS

By JONES

Now, just to close the football season, and because we have only received one All-Conference selection, (evidently, there's no interest), we'll present ours for your probable disapproval—our own selections.

We've seen the entire Gatesville schedule, nothing else. Unfortunately, Marlin and Itasca, two of the leading teams are not included in this selection, because of the fact, we haven't seen them in action.

Ends: Pisek, West; Gilbreath, Gatesville; Tackles: Lamb, Mart; Williams, Gatesville; Guards: Blankenship, Gatesville, Honeycut; Mart; Center: Wallace Gatesville; Quarter, Rogers, Mart; Half Backs: Gamble West; Fore Gatesville; Fullback, Voss.

Best passer: Hinsley;; Best punter, Hinsley;; Best runner Rogers, West; Most Valuable: Rogers, Mart.

Them's our'n! We made our selections. We have been asking for yours. We'll still take them.

Here's Francis Rutherford's selections; Ends: Pisek, West, Gilbreath, Gatesville; Tackles: Adams and Williams, Gatesville; Guards: Left guard Valley Mills Blankenship; Gatesville; Center: Wallace; Quarter, Rogers, Mart; Half: Hinsley Gatesville Gamble, West; Full;; Voss, Gatesville; Best Passer, Hinsley, Gatesville; Best punter, Gamble, West; Best Runner, Rogers, Mart; Most Valuable, Rogers, Mart.

Now basket ball! And how it is coming in! Yes folks, the court game is taking the forefront.

Right now, Friday and Saturday, Ireland is having an Invitation Tournament, principally the boys with one or two girl's games for variety. Teams so far, include McGregor, Turnersville, Ireland Hamilton, Blue Ridge, Liberty Jonesboro; Pearl; Gatesville Star

SYNOPSIS
 Just before the discovery of oil at Titusville, Pa., in 1858, Sally Watterson comes to the town with her father's medicine show. She falls in love with and marries Peter Cortlandt, a young farmer who is drilling for oil on his property. Cortlandt's first well is a gusher. The farmers organize to ship the oil to Eastern refineries. But a group of Eastern capitalists headed by Walter Brennan keep raising the freight rates to obtain control of this new industry. Cortlandt attempts to negotiate with Brennan but the latter threatens to run the farmers out of business by raising the rates still higher.

CHAPTER VI
 SALLY had something, at least, to occupy her time, now. She had a job to do. It concerned Molly, the shantyboat girl.

Caleb Stark, true to his vow, had led a formidable raid on the shantyboat, burning it, whipping the inmates from it, and Molly, bruised and dangerously hurt, had taken refuge at the Cortlandt house. Sally and Peter, with Grandma, ever willing to fight, had withstood the anger of the fanatical reformers, had driven them from the house and taken the girl in. Now, Sally and Grandma were nursing her back to health. She had been there two weeks and was nearly well enough to leave, but Sally knew Molly could sing, so she had an idea. She was teaching her to sing brightly, to sing something beside the sad ballads she had used on the shantyboat. If she learned, Sally said, there might be a job for her in Pop Bowers' circus. Pop Bowers, Sally explained, was a friend of her father's. So they rehearsed.

It was a gloomy day. Rain fell dismally. Down the street in Titusville, the farmers met in gloomy session. Peter, on the platform, exhorted them to further effort in the fight with Brennan, but they were doubtful now. Thousands of barrels of oil lay on the railroad sidings; production had shut down.

He looked at them and pitied them. There was grizzled Rafe Moulton, who had put all his savings into his oil; Jim Stackpole, who had done likewise; Doc Lippincott; all the others. They looked at him dumbly, hoping he would say or do something that would work the miracle, bring back their profits. But all he had to offer now was his courage. He had plenty of that, but it wasn't, he was afraid, enough. Yet he spoke on. Then he was interrupted by a porter from the hotel.

"Mr. Brennan wants to see you," said the porter.
 They were jubilant then. "I got a hunch I'll bring back good news," said Peter as he hurried away. He buttoned his coat against the rain, whistling as he went to the hotel. He found Brennan in the latter's suite.

"Listen, Mr. Cortlandt," said the railroad man, smiling, "this is between you and me, nobody else. Why don't you give your business to Central Refineries in Pittsburgh?"

"Your railroad owns that, doesn't it?" asked Peter.

"Yes—" Brennan chuckled—"so if you deal with our refinery you get certain favors, to make up for the high freight rates. Understand?"

"Yes," said Peter. "That takes care of me. You just freeze out the others, is that it?"

"You catch on quickly, Mr. Cortlandt."

Peter had been calm. Now his calm broke. "That's stealin'!" he shouted. "You can't tie up this oil and make it at any price you like! Damn you, you can't!"

Brennan only chuckled. "Oh, yes, I can, Mr. Cortlandt. And I will."

"Not," said Peter Cortlandt, "while I got any breath left in my body to fight you!"

"Fight me?" Beneath the smiling mask, the ruthlessness of the man showed for a moment. "You fool!"

Peter shouted, "We'll lay pipe clear across the State o' Pennsylvania to the refineries and pipe our oil to 'em. And we'll tell Walter Brennan to go to H...!"

What can you do without the railroads? Are you going to carry the oil in your hat to the refineries? Go ahead and fight. I'll smash you!"

Peter flung from the room. Outside he stood by the building in the pounding rain, a picture of dejection. Nearby a rain pipe spouted a flood of water. Some of it splashed him and he looked up, started to move away; then something gave him pause. His eyes widened unnaturally as he looked at the pipe. The pipe conveyed water.

Why could it not convey oil!

With a whoop, Peter raced across the street to the office of his friend John Thompson, the engineer and builder.

"John!" he shouted. "John! I got it! Look at that pipe!"

John looked. He looked at Peter, too, said he thought Peter was drunk. But Peter explained. Slowly, excitement came into the engineer's expression.

"By God, Peter!" he exclaimed. "You got something!" He paused. "But what about money, costs for labor, for pipe, for rights of way?"

"We'll do it somehow, John. We'll lay pipe clear across the State o' Pennsylvania to the refineries and pipe our oil to 'em. And we'll tell Walter Brennan to go to hell!"

He hurried on. "I was just now married, honey. He had to share this with Sally. On the way he broke off a cluster of dripping apple blossoms and took them along.

She was asleep when he got home. For a moment he looked at her, his throat filling, then he shook the blossoms over, sprinkling her with the rain drops and the petals. She awoke, startled, to be pulled violently into his arms. He kissed her again and again.

"Peter!" she exclaimed, laughing. "Honey, you've had good news. Somethin's come your way. What's happened, Peter? Tell me!"

"Hush," he said softly. "Just lie there. Just be quiet. Just stay like this in my arms forever. Like this—"

with me—close, darlin', close . . . forever . . ."

"Peter," she whispered. "You're back again. You aren't far away like you were."

Her heart sang. It seemed that the dreary months when he had been preoccupied and distant were gone, that she would have him again, the husband and lover she had married. They lay still, close together, their hearts at peace.

It was broken by a voice calling Peter from the outside.

"John Thompson wants you," called the man. "Says he won't go ahead 'til he sees you. Got to ask you some questions."

"Peter!" said Sally. "You won't go! Not now. Not at this—this time of night!"

But he was going. His thoughts were far away again. "Can't help it honey. It's vital to us all. I got to go. A day lost maybe if I don't. Can't afford that. . . Goodbye honey."

He kissed her lightly, was gone. She lay there among the fallen petals of the apple blossoms and again the desperate loneliness came over her; again the fear of the dangerous forces that moved around her swept her.

She looked down at the spot where his head had lain so close to hers a moment before and wept without sound.

A county committee was elected as follows: N. Foote, J. Frank Blair, Frank J. Brown, and L. L. Schultz.

COPPERAS COVE COMMUNITY VOTES FOR ONE CLASS OF COTTON FOR '38

Copperas Cove is the first community in the county to decide on one variety of cotton for the 1938 crop.

Following a series of three meetings, in which large number of farmers took part, based on experimental station findings and that of the farmers of that community the farmers selected the Watson Mebane variety of cotton.

This comes as a continued development move in that community and will benefit the farmers of that section.

Statistics show that less than 12 bales in that community graded less than 7/8 inch staple and a large portion was 15/16 or better.

4-H BOYS SELL PIGS TO LLANO COUNTY 4-H CLUBS

Elmo King, Plainview 4-H club boy, sold a spring farrowed gilt, which was from his grand champion Duroc sow, to a 4-H club boy in Llano county.

The gilt will be used as a foundation for starting Durocs in that section.

King also sold four fall farrowed gilts, two being from the champion sow and two from the sow which Clovis showed. In addition to these two gilts, five barrows were bought by the Llano boys from the King brothers. They will be shown at the Ft. Worth Fat Stock Show next spring.

From Eddie Wiegand's litter, a boar pig was selected, and Travis Harper sold the boys one gilt, one boar and two barrows, which are from the first prize Hampshire sow at the Texas Centennial.

Two barrows were sold from Dr. M. W. Lowrey's litter of Hampshires, and one gilt from a litter owned by William McDonald, a Vocational Agriculture boy.

Notes From County Superintendents Office

Teacher Retirement became a reality throughout the State on December 1st. The 90 days given to sign waivers expired on Nov. 30th. Therefore it is not possible under the provisions of the law for any teacher to sign a waiver thereafter. Thirty one teachers out of 145 who draw pay through the County Superintendent's office signed waivers. This leaves 114 teachers in the common school districts, who are active members of the Teacher Retirement.

Supervisor, A. M. Tate has made no recommendations on State Aid for Coryell County yet. He has made the request that in State Aid Schools all Insurance policies held by Trustees are to be filed in the County Superintendent's Office. He also thinks it necessary that all Teacher's file accurate transcripts of their College Credits as required by the State Aid Law. These should have the signature of College authorities according to our supervisor.

McLennan County State Aid was held up, according to The Waco Daily papers because transcripts of Teacher's credits were not on file properly.

County Superintendent, J. M. Wäucher, is visiting all schools in the county this week and next. Registers, enrollment, attendance, and daily programs are studied. Standard schools and those who are going to try for Standardization this year are noted. Teachers of all schools who hope to be standard during this school year will have a meeting soon to study such problems as are peculiar to standard schools.

New South Tests Form C are in the office at present some schools are giving them. Others schools desire Form A or B since C was given in this County last April. Actual statistics show that pupils who take the same test the second time gain an average of 3/10 percent. The test given at this time are for remedial purposes and are given by the teachers to their own pupils under direction of

GATESVILLE HUNTER BRINGS DOWN BUFFALO IN ARKANSAS

Buffalo hunting, a sport that is almost extinct now and which can only be engaged in on a limited scale compared to the days of herd hunting, thrilled a Texas hunter and his party of Anadarko friends in the Wichita mountains last Saturday.

Howard S. Compton, Gatesville, Texas banker was the hunter whose adventure in the wilds of the Wichita mountains was planned by his friend, Pat Stevenson of Anadarko.

Compton has a specimen of every kind of big wild game native to the United States for a long time he has wanted to come to Oklahoma, once the scene of many hunting parties and wild stampeding buffalo herds, to get a buffalo head to add to his collection.

The animal was purchased from a small private herd belonging to B. W. Hammert, local merchant, who has a pasture adjoining the national forest reserve. The hunting party was led to the killing by Arthur Manning, manager of the reserve, and by Jim Turnbull state game warden.

About an hour was required to single out the big bull buffalo, and three shots from Compton's rifle brought the animal down. All members of the party helped skin and butcher the animal.

The buffalo, a 1600-pound bull, had horns that spread 26 inches and were 16 inches long from base to tip. They were 14 inches in circumference at the base.

"It took us about an hour to stalk and kill the animal, and we spent the rest of the day getting it butchered and back home over those mountains" Stevenson related.

Steaks were cut off the freshly butchered animal and cooked over an open fire in the pasture before the hunting party returned to Anadarko. Arriving home they had more of the steaks for dinner that night to celebrate the "kill".

Compton sent the head of the buffalo to Denver, where it is being mounted to be placed among his collection at home. He will have the skin prepared for a rug.

Members of the hunting party included Compton, his companion Charles McConaughy, also of Gatesville, Texas, State Senator W. L. Mauk, John Turnbull, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Grimes and son, Buck, Jake Grimes, John Ruzicka, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson and daughters, Jacqueline and Ocie Mae.

At the buffalo dinner, given by Stevenson and Fred Grimes, the hunting party was joined by Mrs. Turnbull, Mrs. Burkhalter, Mrs. Jake Grimes and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Stevenson of Chickasha.

Ruzicka was the head butcher for the party, superintending the skinning process and preparation of the steaks.—The Anadarko Daily News.

'THE AMERICAN DREAM' TO BE REVIEWED BY MRS. BROOKS THURSDAY

Mrs. Ercell W. Brooks, talented wife of Supt. Brooks of the Gatesville Schools, will review "The American Dream," a very popular book by Michael Foster Thursday afternoon at 3:00, December 9th.

The book review will be given at the home of Mrs. W. C. Bradley, 400 Finnermore Street, and is sponsored by the Presbyterian Woman's Auxiliary.

"The American Dream" is one of the latest and most talked of books this year, and has been on the reserved book list in the Waco public Library for a number of weeks. It has been reviewed very recently by excellent speakers in such places as Temple Waco, and Belton.

A very enjoyable afternoon is promised to those who are interested, for Mrs. Brooks is a very popular speaker, and has worked very diligently on her review. Clubs and auxiliaries in larger cities very frequently sponsor book reviews, but it is something different for this city.

Everyone is asked to come, and tickets may be bought before the review from Mesdames R. W. Ward, Pat Olsen, or W. C. Bradley.

TEXAS PUBLISHERS WORRY OVER 22 PERCENT PAPER RAISE

Announced increase in newsprint prices for 1938 presents a serious situation to Texas newspaper publishers it was said at a meeting of newspaper men in Dallas.

Higher prices for paper,—a 22 percent increase in newsprint, was discussed at the meeting of representatives of weekly and daily newspaper men said that "While it is true the price for the latter half of 1938 will be the same as for the first half, it nevertheless means an average increase of 22 percent in the cost of newsprint to Texas newsprint publishers."

ANNUAL MEETING OF TEXAS SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN 5-6-7

December 5, 6, 7, are the dates of the 1937 meeting of the Texas Society for Crippled Children, which will be held in Dallas, and at which time Dr. Geo. W. Truett of the First Baptist Church of Dallas will be a speaker, and Chas. F. Ashcroft, President of the Society will preside.

Other speakers will be Ernest R. Tennant, President, Dallas National Bank, Dr. Sam Whitley, President, E. T. S. T. College, William Collier, Secretary Better Business Bureau of Dallas, Miss Jane Meyer, Mrs. Billie Louise Crook, Mrs. A. Y. Trautman, Mrs. A. H. Thompson, Dr. Chas. F. Clayton, J. L. Booty, Dr. A. M. Clarkson, Miss Ruth Cortelou, Dr. L. A. Woods, Dr. E. H. Cary, and Dr. Morris Fishbein.

Murray Kendrick, instructor at C. I. A., Denton, was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kendrick, over the week end.

Mrs. Bill Hawley of Tipton, Oklahoma, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Williams Sr. and family of the Buster Community, also Mrs. R. D. Painter and other relatives near White Hall.

OLD NICK WILL BREEZE IN HERE AT 10:00 A. M. SAT. WITH PARADE

Every childish heart, from 60 to 6, literally has all appearances of high blood pressure, since each must await the much heralded coming of Santa Claus to Gatesville and Coryell county, which happens here Saturday morning at 10:00 a. m.

According to City Secretary Eland Lovejoy, "the official boy" will be in the parade which will be headed by Sheriff Joe White and an unnamed deputy.

Following these two, will be two flag bearers, beautiful girls, we are told. Then, the Gatesville High School Band under the direction of Director D. W. Diserens.

Following the band, will be the County Official cars, then the City Officials cars.

Next in line will be the floats of the representative businesses of the city, and also the floats or decorated buses from the various schools of the county which enter the parade. Closing the parade will be the Fire Department.

But, you say: "Where is Santa Claus?"

Well, now folks, he'll be there! Where and just when he will join this parade is unknown, since he hasn't been heard from, but he has advised he'll be right here in Gatesville at 10:00 a. m. that day. He will have a real surprise for his beautifully decorated float, but that isn't fair, we won't tell you any more. Except that he will have candy for the kiddies and will delight the eager eyes of the thousands who will be here on that date.

We're counting on YOU to be here!

ALVIS-GARNER "OUT-LET" STORE IS OPENED AT PEEL BLDG.

Alvis-Garner Co., have opened their first "Out-Let Store in Gatesville in the old Peel building on the southeast corner of the square, with Milton Thompson in charge.

In looking over the merchandise there are many items of interest for the people of this trade territory, and the feature of this merchandise is the greatly reduced prices at which the merchandise is offered. All of the merchandise is brand new, and the store promises to do a "land office" business during the next few weeks."

Mrs. Emma Hamilton of Bay City, Mrs. Pauline Smith and two children of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Merrell Grabbe and family of Tullia Texas were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Hamilton and family of the Buster community for several days the first part of the week.

WITH THE SHIP OF STATE

Washington, D. C.—Congress has dug in for the winter. The signs are all too evident that there will be debate and delay, oddly enough, out of this very procrastination will probably come a new alignment of forces which may develop the soundest program yet presented to the American people.

In spite of the cry for decreased Government spending and decreased taxes and increasing number of the Legislators are in accord on two points—Little business must be helped—and the buying power of the public must be raised.

For the first time in some years Vice-President Garner and his bloc and the administration seem to see eye to eye on these objectives even if they are not in agreement as to method.

The cry of big business whose spokesman seems to be Senator Vandenberg of Michigan. A republican party will need a Presidential candidate in 1940, is that big business if freed from gains tax and assured on the repeal of the Wagner Act, relieved of the threat of a wage-hour bill, and with social security ended would be ready to spend vast sums of money on expansion.

Big business is probably quite sincere in its belief that this remedy would work but the present session of congress will hardly be in a position to do much about it. The concessions made, if any, will be few, and this largely because the present business recession is again focussing attention on unemployment and relief.

Reports of 'lay-offs' in industry and the demands of the mayors of cities who convened here recently indicate only too clearly that there will be no drop but an increase in federal relief expenditures this year. When the figures of the unemployment census are available the picture will be clear.

It will not be surprising to see a majority of both houses come to sudden agreement on a program which will prove distinctly disappointing to Senator Vandenberg and his followers.

In spite of the Senator's presidential aspirations the present betting odds—which are, of course, founded on information gathered so carefully that it makes the activities of the secret service and international spies seem like rank amateurs—Distinctly favor Herbert Hoover, the odds likewise favor the president for a third term. And all odds they are subject to change without notice.

It's just as well to remember that political odds are never believed by the candidates themselves. If candidate Smith-Jones heard his favorite football team quoted at three to one He'd be careful to see that the other fellow put up three dollars before he fished the single out of his own pocketbook. But Smith-Jones is always firmly convinced that in politics, no matter what the odds, he has a 50-50 chance or better.

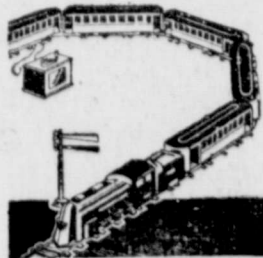

That's why you'll hear some strange speeches and see some queer cavorting as they jockey for the start in the next few years.

Motoring visitors to the 1939 World's Fair of the west will burn 6,000,000 gallons of gasoline in California alone.

LEVITA SCHOOL NEWS

We had a very interesting Thanksgiving program here Wednesday.

The Junior boys were unexpectedly beat Friday, the 16th, by the Purmela boys a very small difference was in the score.

There was a large crowd from Levita who attended the ball game at Ireland Friday night.

We are progressing nicely in tennis, and are getting our court fixed with new backstops.

The High School room is studying about a man and his relation.

The Intermediate rooms are studying Iceland, and the Quakers.

We are all preparing for our three weeks test this week.

Imagine Juanita Hill getting down on her knees to Loyd Roddler. S. E. Pendleton sprouting a mustache.

We Wonder Why Esteen Snooky likes to go to Ireland.

David Lee carries so many insurance policies.

Syble was a sweet girl; she was reading a book that gave the meaning of names. Her mother was watching her, and thinking of all the young men attracted her.

"Mother," says Syble, "it says S. E. means Boy Scouts, and Loyd means beloved. "Mother what does Dalton mean I wonder?"

"I hope my dear," said her mother, "that Dalton means, Business".

HOLIDAY COOKING

Canning Plum Pudding
Use pressure cooker. Fill number 2 tin cans about three-fourths full. Line sides of tin cans top and bottom with butter paper cut to fit. Oil the paper before placing it in the cans. Butter paper does not break as easily as oiled paper. Cover top of can with heavy wrapping paper which has been oiled. Fasten paper cover well. Steam for one hour and 15 minutes with the macecock slightly open. (Have plenty of water in the cooker, at least half way up the sides of the cans to prevent boiling dry.) When puddings are removed from the cooker remove the paper cover. Place over top of the puddings the oiled butter paper which has been cut to fit the can. Seal, return to the pressure cooker and steam one hour longer at 10 pounds pressure. Remove cans and cool before labeling.

English Plum Pudding: 3 cups flour, 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 tsp. allspice, 1/2 tsp. cinnamon, 1/2 tsp. nutmeg, 2 cups stale bread crumbs, 2 cups of seeded raisins, 6 eggs, 1 cup currants, 2 cups brown sugar 1/2 cup chopped figs, 1 cup sliced candied grape fruit, citron, orange, lemon mixed, 2 cups chopped beef suet, grated rind of 1 lemon, 1 cup grape juice or sweet pickle syrup.
Directions: Sift together the flour, salt and spices, add the bread crumbs, the raisins cut into halves, the currants, sugar, suet very finely chopped, the sliced candied peel, the figs, the lemon rind. Mix thoroughly, then moisten with the well-beaten eggs and grape juice.

Coryell Citizen Celebrates Birthday Sunday
Some seventy-five friends and relatives of Carl Niemear gathered in his home at Coryell City Sunday afternoon for a birthday celebration of his seventy-eight years of useful and active life.

Mr. Niemear came "over the Pond" from Germany in 1892 and in the past forty-five years in his new country, America, has found opportunity to secure a home and a future for his children. They are nine in number, five girls and four sons.

All were present to eat again at Father Niemear's table, as when little children. Incidents of the past were retold, games were provided for the children, but all joined around the dining table loaded with well cooked food of great variety and abundance. Rev. Korner graced the banquet, thus adding the blessings of the Lord to the happy occasion.

Pidcock Couple Have Guests Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Rogers had a number of friends and relatives as their guests Sunday for lunch. After enjoying the lunch all the guests joined in conversation, which furnished the diversion for the afternoon. Those present at the Roger's home were: Mr. and Mrs. Ira Chop and son, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Whitehead, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Whitehead and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Moore and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Rogers, and Mr. Charlie Morse and son.

Miss Maxine Lovejoy Celebrates Birthday

On Thursday afternoon Miss Maxine Lovejoy, celebrated her twelfth birthday by inviting a number of boys and girls to a party.

Various games and contests furnished the amusement of the afternoon, and Charles Francis Caruth and Charles Bailey were awarded prizes for the winners of the contests.

At the conclusion of the enjoyable afternoon, refreshments were served to the following: Bettye Jane Jones, Betty Jo

Misses Gibson and Garner Hostess to Bridge Club

Mrs. Jno. T. Brown and Miss Loucille Eanes were awarded attractive prizes, respectively, for high score following the series of bridge games played Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Prewitt, with Misses Sydney Gale Gibson and Pauline Garner as hostesses. The room was made lovely with the adornment of yellow chrysanthemums.

Refreshments consisted of cake hot chocolate and ambrosia were served to the following: Misses Mary Brown, Thelma and Traie Pearl McGilvray, Ernestine Durham Louise Hall, Aurora Young, Loucille Eanes, Jewel Witcher, Maude Alice Painter, Mamie Sue Halbrook Mary Oldham Bess Holmes, Louise Carl, Lois Grantham, Lois Scott Laura Sutton and Mademes Jno. T. Brown and Bailey Curry.

The following announcement comes from Uvalde, Texas: Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bates are announcing the arrival of a baby, Charles Morris Bates, who arrived November 23. The young man weighed ten pounds; Mrs. Bates and son are doing nicely.

Hugh Saunders and son J. R. visited Mrs. Hugh Saunders Wed. who is in Waco. Friends of Mrs. Saunders will be glad to learn that she is improving.

Mrs. L. E. Kincannon and son, Louis, are visitors with her mother and other relatives during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Margaret Melton, student at Tyler Commercial College, is now at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Melton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Briggs of Dallas arrived Tuesday for several days visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rutherford.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS

IN HIS FACE
ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love.

Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.

A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordeals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

RUB soothing, warming Musterole well into your chest and throat. Musterole is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. It penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by GoodHousekeeping Bureau, No. 4867.

gether. Shortly afternoon a short but interesting program was rendered by the school.

At the conclusion of the program, the Parents Teachers Association was reorganized with Mrs. J. B. Scott President; Mrs. Curtis Wittie Vice-President and Miss Lois Walker, Secretary-Treasurer. The program committee will consist of four ladies chosen each month by the community. Meetings will be the third Friday night in each month with the exception of December, when it will meet on Dec. 23. The Association has already begun work on a project that will be most beneficial to the school.

After a very interesting ball game, school was dismissed for the Thanksgiving holidays. The Teachers, Miss Dixon, and Miss

FIVE ISSUES FIXED FOR LABOR PEACE PLAN

WASHINGTON, —The labor peace conference outlined the principal issues between the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. under five headings on Tuesday and decided to discuss them one by one.

The C. I. O. contention all workers in each large industry should belong to one union without regard to traditional A. F. of L. Craft lines topped the list of controversial points made public by George M. Harrison, chairman of the A. F. of L. peace committee.

This industrial union issue was responsible for the split in the A. F. of L. ranks that led to the formation of the C. I. O. two years ago.

LUDWIG WRITES ROOSEVELT'S STORY

An unusual portrait of the President at 7 (center). He was greatly interested in boating and is shown wearing his favorite sailor suit. Emil Ludwig, (right) famous German biographer, declares in his "Life of Roosevelt," now being published serially in Liberty magazine, that only a world war will persuade Roosevelt to run again in 1940.

EXHIBIT OF NEW YORK FAIR

NEW YORK (Special).—In illustration of the possibilities of commercial display at the New York World's Fair of 1939 through employment of ingenuity, artistry and color in new ways, the exposition has created four examples of "The Industrial Exhibit of Tomorrow". They are displayed in the Hall of Exhibits of its Administration Building at the Fair site, Flushing Meadow Park, New York City.

Four familiar but unrelated industries have been dramatized in the forward-looking spirit of the exposition. They are: Fashion and fabrics combined as one; color, its uses and importance; clock manufacture and chemistry.

"Luxury Fabrics" is the name given to the display of fashion and velvet in five shades of copper. Evening gowns designed by leading New York stylists are shown upon specially designed mannequins. Each is posed upon a slowly revolving platform to reveal the changing lights of the fabric and the richness of the accompanying costume jewelry.

Color is presented to demonstrate its major properties. That its safeguards is shown in painting moving machinery parts a warning red. Its preservative quality is illustrated by two miniature houses, one bright with paint, the other weather-worn, displayed side by side in simulated sunshine and in a succeeding downpour of artificial rain.

The decorative value of color is indicated with four completely furnished doll-size chambers, living room, bedroom, kitchen and playroom. A moving belt back of them changes the wall color nine times. The type of lighting also changes, the combination showing the alteration of a room's character through color.

The selling value of color is manifested in the display of four small identical models of an automobile painted, respectively, grey, yellow, orange and red against a grey background, making the eye-appeal of each apparent.

In one unit of the exhibit the visitor, by manipulating a lever, can demonstrate how the tones of colors are changed by placing other colors beside them.

The display called "Marktime Clocks" reveals the history of time-telling, shows the path of twilight in the world by means of a huge globe and gives the time of day in widely distributed cities in this country and abroad.

Sulphuric acid is manufactured before one's eyes in the chemistry exhibit, as is the sublimation of iodine, producing brilliant crystals of deep purple.

The exhibit has been patronized by thousands of visitors since the first day it was opened a short while ago. Other industrial displays will replace the four now shown, and be in turn replaced.

Rooms of glass are planned for the model homes area at San Francisco's 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

Forty million kilowatt hours of electricity will be consumed by the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

When Ships Pass

ABOARD the "Santa Lucia" an A.B. raises a code flag as the Grace Line ship passes a north-bound vessel. Signalling at sea is done by flags and lights. An international agreement in 1901 standardized the code flags at nineteen square flags, two swallow-tail flags, six pennants, and an answering pennant. These represent the letters of the alphabet, are shown singly, or by twos, threes, or fours and stand for complete messages, a sentence, phrase, or word; each combination means the same in all languages.

FERGUSON-ALLRED FIGHT IN PROSPECT FOR GOVERNORSHIP

AUSTIN.—Political circles at the Capitol were highly interested Tuesday in reports of a quiet Ferguson get-together party held Monday, attended by James E. Ferguson and Miriam A. Ferguson, the only husband and wife ever to hold governorship. Several well-known Ferguson friends also were present and a movement was started for Mrs. Ferguson to be liberal old-age pension candidate at next year's primaries with a State sales tax as the basis for paying $30 to persons more than 65 years old, regardless of their financial status.

At present, the monthly pension is slightly more than $14, but it can be stepped up to $30 if the State provides sufficient revenue to allocate $15 of its funds, to be matched by Federal money. The recent special legislation session failed to provide any additional funds for pensions.

—County Supt. Notes

their principals. The County Superintendent finds in his visits good interest in the Rural Schools. Some school are doing a much better grade of work than others. These schools make the student and his needs their first concern. They have well regulated programs and schedules of study. Each teacher is anxious to do his part in an aggressive active daily program. All interests are considered. Class work, Lunch periods, Play periods, and study periods along with any other activity that helps a boy or girl to become a good citizen are considered worthy of the time and interest of each teacher.
