HIWAY 36 SURFACING APPROVED UNDER 39' FEDERAL PROGRAM

Surfacing on highway 36 in Bell county has been approved in the 1939 federal aid program by the United States Bureau of Public Roads, the state highway department announced Thursday.

The approvals included surfacing on Highway 36 between Highway 95 and the Milam County line, a distance of 12.9 miles, and surfacing Highway 95 from Temple south to its junction with Highway 36 a distance of 1.4 miles.

Other central Texas projects approved include grading and draining structures to proposed grade separations north and south of Marlin on Highway 5 in Falls county, and grading and drainage structure on Highway 7 from seven miles east of the McLennan county line to 8.7 miles west of Mexia, a distance of 7.7 miles.

The highway department also said that plans for grading and drainage structures on highway 153 from near McGregor to Belton, already on the current secondary program, have been sent to the bureau and may be approved in time for submission to bids in April. Surfacing of the same sector of Highway 153 has been recommended for the 1939 secondary program, which has not been approved by the bureau, but is expected to be shortly and which would permit the surfacing contract to be let sometime after July 1.

CONNALLY TO SUPPORT EQUALIZATION TAX

Senator Tom Connally today announced that he will support an amendment to the pending tax bill to provide processing taxes on cotton to provide additional funds looking to parity payments for cotton farmers.

"The amount available" Senator Connally said, "under the recently enacted farm bill for cotton payments and soil conservation payments to cotton farmers is just a little over one hundred million dollars. This sum is wholly insufficient to offset the loss of income to cotton farmers by reason of drastic reduction of acreage. A tariff equalization or processing tax on cotton goods is justified on the ground that the consumer of cotton goods would pay a small increase in price which would go directly to the cotton producer. If additional funds are to be obtained they must be secured by such a processing tax since the amount available from the general revenue has been limited, as above indicated. The processing tax would also include rayon a competitor of or substitute for cotton".

COUNTY TRACK STARS PREPARING FOR DISTRICT MEET

Coryell County track and field winners are busily engaged at the present preparing for the district meet to be held in Waco the coming Friday and Saturday. Coach Worley will take eight men to compete in the Waco meet while the number going from the rural schools is not known. However it is certain that Jack Petty, Dragon star, will be there, and your correspondent is looking for him to come back with a win in the 440 yard dash, and he may finish up front in the 100 and 220.

Zack Fore and James Weaver hard on the hurdles and it is a possibility that they may come thru with a win in the district. Weaver and Ingram, pole vaulters may win something in the pole vault. They will compete against an old teammate, Cub Poston, in the Waco affair. Last year Poston bearing the Hornet colors won first in that event in the district. However at mid-term this year he transferred to Rosebud and won first in the pole vault in the Falls county meet. Roy Adams and Byron Gilbreath, shot putter and discus thrower respectively, will go to the meet, as well as Joe Ned Brown high point man of the county and Lawrence Spencer, broad jumper. Badger Hinsley will throw the javelin.

ARNETT HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE SATURDAY MORNING

Saturday morning about ten o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. John Hearington's home in the Arnett Community caught fire and was completely demolished before help was obtained. According to our informer, cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Hearington, however, was able to save most of his furniture.

The house was known as the old Perryman Home and was owned by Mrs. A. R. Wilson.

STATE HWY. DEPT. TO HAVE FLOWER EXHIBIT IN WACO APRIL 23.

In line with their annual custom, the Landscape Division of the Texas Highway Department will present an exhibit of wild flowers at the National Guard Armory building in Waco, at 12th and Washington from 11 a. m. to 10 p. m. April 23.

The event is sponsored by the department as an informative display, intended to help create an application of the real beauty of wild flowers, with the idea of preserving and developing their beauty.

This Division includes Bell, Bosque, Coryell, Falls, Hamilton, Hill, Limestone and McLennan counties.

No charge will be made for the exhibition, and the public is cordially invited.

★ FOUR BOYS IN AUTO WRECK

Four Hamilton County youths of high school age had a narrow escape here last Thursday evening about 6:30 when the car in which they were riding ripped the railing off a bridge plunged into a deep ditch and overturned twice. The accident occurred on Highway 66, two miles north of town near the old Cotton Belt Railroad Crossing.

Thomas Reed Williams was driving the car, a Plymouth, belonging to his father, O. R. Williams. The boys riding with him were, Wayne Clemmer, Robert Jones, and Donald McCollum. Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Clemmer, Robert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Jones, and Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. McCollum. The boys escaped with minor injuries.

The boys stated that a dense cloud of dust, raised by a car in passing them until they could not see the road.—The Hamilton County News.

R. G. Davidson of West Columbia, is visiting his mother, Mrs. T. M. Davidson.

S. M. LAUDERDALE OF WASHINGTON CCC HDQS., HERE

Celebrating the fifth anniversary of the organization of the CCC and the SCS seven, hundred fifty or more gathered at the local CCC camp Monday morning at 11 a. m. at which time, open house was held under guidance of Army officials.

S. M. Lauderdale, Chief Safety Engineer from Director Robert Fechner's office in Washington, D. C., was present, being the only Washington official to visit a Texas camp during this celebration.

MCCRAW TO ANNOUNCE PLATFORM IN TWO WEEKS

DALLAS, April 5.—Attorney General William McCraw said here today he would announce his platform on his gubernatorial candidacy within two weeks.

The platform would be made public, he said, probably before he leaves for Miami, Fla. to renewal of hearings of the E. H. R. Green inheritance tax suit April 11. McCraw plans to open his campaign about the middle of May.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Turner and little daughter, Barbara Jean, of Waco were Sunday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Otha Thomas and children of Waco visited Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Ed McClarty Sunday.

Mrs. Tom Carlton and Mrs. Ethel Ford were in Waco Sunday and heard Gipsy Smith, who is conducting a revival in that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Kay Ament, Earl Huddleston of Oglesby, Mr. and Mrs. George Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Ament, and Mr. and Mrs. Kay Ament were among those who attended the singing convention at Leon Junction Sunday.

Tom L. Robinson Jr. visited relatives in Dallas during the weekend.

Other personages of importance who attended were: Bill Heizer, CCC camp, Dublin, D. B. Needham, CCC camp, Dublin, Project Engineer, respectively; J. H. Cheek, Assistant State Administrator of CCC for Texas, and those who were on the program which started at 12:45, just after the free barbequed luncheon.

The program included: 12:30 Welcome address and comments by Army officials.

12:45 "Why Soil Conservation?", members of the Gatesville Soil Conservation Association.

1:00 "SCS-CCC Observations," E. T. Nagle, Regional Administrator, CCC.

1:15 "Soil Conservation Districts for Erosion Control", P. H. Walser, State Coordinator, SCS.

2:00 Introduction of special guests.

2:10 Field Tour of Camp work area.

6:15 Entertainment by CCC enrollees.

Farms visited in the field tour were: Dr. Clyde R. Bailey, John Taylor, Francis Caruth, John Bohne, A. J. Weber, Wallace Rabbe, H. W. Rabbe, Jacob Hodel, Albert Jacobs, W. L. Rabbe, B. H. Melbern, Leta Bennett, Monroe Blankenship, Price Graves and W. E. Britain.

The work for Camp SCS-26-T includes 800,000 acres within a 20 mile radius; 193 farms, totaling 21,710 acres are cooperating, 75 of these farms having been completed.

From "Happy Days", official publication of the CCC the national weekly, published in Washington, in the Fifth Anniversary edition under date of March 26 three prominent Texans have had the following to say in regard to this work.

Hon W. R. (Bob) Poage Congressman from this the Eleventh Congressional District says: "I think we can expect a permanent continuation of this work with emphasis on the conservation work being done. The boys must expect to give a full day's work. They must look upon the camps as a constructive agency, rather than a place they can go and have the Government feed them. Help to the men and families is important but it should be incidental to conservation work."

Senator Tom Connally "It is my belief that the Corps has rendered an outstanding service to hundreds of thousands of young men throughout the United States. The work of the Corps has received the approval and commendation of a large majority of our people."

Governor James V. Allred: "In my opinion the work of these young men has amply justified the faith behind the legislation and their accomplishments are living proof that it has been a wise investment in the youth

City "Battle of Ballots" Headliner Today! Go Vote Today

DON'T READ, IF YOU'RE NOT INTERESTED IN GATESVILLE

Today, we vote!
Today, we vote on two Candidates.

Voting on the remainder of the City Ticket is "just a matter of form." If they vote themselves, they'll be elected,—if they vote for themselves.

Down to cases! There are two men to vote for.
Mayor C. E. Gandy, for re-election for a second term.

Ex-Mayor M. W. Lowrey, again, seeking Mayoralty honors.

That's the line-up.
All the others are merely "bench warmers". However they are: Alderman, Ward 1: RUFUS BROWN.

Alderman, Ward 2: E. ROUTH (Re-election).

Tax Assessor-Collector: EILAND LOVEJOY.

YOU are the VOTERS—it's your problem.

Since there is very little opposition in the present administration, that, in itself, practically underwrites their work during the past two years. Necessarily, there have probably been some mistakes made, but—where hasn't there been?

Anyway, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, the polls will be open from 7:00 a. m. and it's up to you to do your DUTY and 'spress your self in the good old American way! VOTE TODAY!

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

VOTER'S RESPONSIBILITY

During the next four months the usual flock of candidates for office will be stumping the state and campaigning in the smaller political divisions in quest of the votes of some 1,000,000-odd Texans who are qualified to go to the polls.

By September 1, the officials of state, district county and precinct will be elected in fact although not in theory, having to submit to the formality of a general election in November.

This imposes an added responsibility upon Democrats in Texas who, in their two biennial primaries, choose not only the party nominees but also simultaneously their public officials.

The responsibility must be recognized and manifested in two ways: 1. by all qualified voters going to the polls; 2. by an intelligent choice of candidates.

It is a regrettable fact that only about 50 to 70 percent of our qualified voters cast ballots for candidates for public office. This is evidence of a dangerous and lamentable lack of interest in public affairs and in those officials who are to administer our public offices.

Such a condition is in large part responsible for the political machines which now control such cities as Chicago, New Orleans, Jersey City and Kansas City.

A highly organized minority can control a city administration or even a state government when lack of interest in public affairs keeps large numbers of citizens from the polls.

In a state as large as Texas, it is an impossibility for all the voters to personally contact candidates for Governor, Lieutenant, attorney general, railroad commissioner and other important state offices.

This results in "blind voting", that is, voting for a candidate of unknown abilities and character. Added to this evil is the fact that many voters succumb to malicious propaganda which is always injected in state campaigns.

The intelligent voter forms his own opinions by careful analysis of the platforms released by all candidates for major offices. He recognizes what is fact, what is propaganda, what is biased opinion. He changes his opinion if facts are presented to justify such a change.

Adherence to political principles—to principles of any nature—is always an admirable attribute, but stubbornness is inevitably a sign of and associated with ignorance. Yet even today, in Texas and the United States as a whole, we find masses of voters who blindly adhere to personalities and issues and who refuse to recognize the unbiased presentation of indisputable facts as being a nonpartisan interpretation of the news. These people constitute a menace to American democracy.

The surest guarantee against the spread of Fascism, dictatorship and totalitarianism in America is a vigilant mass of voters who vote at each election for the candidate best suited for public office. Fortunately for this country there is a large bloc of independent voters who refuse to be bound by party loyalty and party issues. This vote is cast for the candidates who will best serve the people.

This independent vote elected Mr. Roosevelt over Mr. Hoover in 1932, defeated Mr. Smith in 1928 and re-elected Mr. Roosevelt in 1936. This vote is today swinging away from Mr. Roosevelt (reported by a recent poll of the Institute of Public Opinion) but it is not going to the Republican party, which has neither a positive program nor personalities to offer as an inducement.

The races for governor, attorney general and railroad commissioner in Texas promise all the heated intensity and fight which always accompany them. There will be mud-slinging and attempts to obelud the true issues and the qualifications of some of the candidates in these races.

But all voters may obtain copies of the platforms of these candidates. All can read what are generally unbiased reports of campaign speeches pledges and promises in the daily newspapers. But beware of rumors, unverified reports and unadulterated gossip. Many a good candidate for public office has been defeated through such subtle and malicious mediums as these.

It is not necessary for any voter to fully choose his candidate for public office until election day, when the heat of battle has died away and facts come to light which are not known in the days of campaign stress.

Do not let a friendship for a candidate influence your vote if you estimate his qualifications are inadequate. By voting on the basis of friendship rather than of qualification and merit you are not only endangering the stability of your government but also the reputation of the unqualified candidate who foolishly desires to hold public office.

Vote! Vote right!

HAMILTON MAN KILLED IN CAR ACCIDENT

Stark tragedy struck Hamilton Sunday when Jack Durham was killed instantly in an auto-truck collision on highway 66, south, about a mile from town. The accident occurred about 6 p. m. when visibility, due to fog and mist, was very bad.

Jack was riding in a car with John Mark Williams Jr., Bob Sullivan, and Lloyd Stone. They were turning around on the highway to come back to town when a truck appearing suddenly out of the fog, struck the car. Durham and Sullivan were both thrown from the car and under the truck. Jack's head was crushed and Sullivan suffered a broken shoulder and numerous cuts and bruises about the head and body. He is now confined to the Cleveland-Kooken-West Clinic and Hospital. Williams and Stone escaped with minor physical injuries but suffered severe shock—Hamilton County News.

HORNETS WORKING HARD IN SPRING
GRID SESSIONS

Hard scrimmages continued to feature the Hornet's spring football sessions the past week. Several pee-wee backfield men have shown up excellently in these drills, with Jack Jackson and Bobby Foster, 119 and 121 pounds respectively showing surprisingly well. Both of these little men are wiry and tough, but they are not large enough to take a full 60-minute pounding, and Worley will use them only in spots. Both of these little ones are fast and shifty ball toters, fine blockers, and excellent tacklers.

The team is looking better than it did the first two days of practice, and they may not be so bad next year as many dopsters believe.

Following is a complete Hornet roster:

John Albert Lester, back, letterman; John Frank Post, end, letterman; Bayne Blankenship, back, letterman; Red White, guard, letterman; Bill Morgan, center, letterman; Duncan Kirkpatrick, back, first time out; G. L. Schley, tackle, first time out; Joe Reese Robinson, tackle, squadman; Ben McDonald, tackle, squadman; J. B. Whigham, guard, squadman; Glen Perryman, guard, squadman; Billy Mc Bride, end, squadman; Lawrence Spencer, back, squadman; Steve Lindley, back, first time out; Jan Jones, back, squadman; Sammie Horn, back, squadman; Owen Edwards, tackle, first time out; J. W. Watson, guard first time out; H. H. Perryman, back, squadman; Oran Baker, tackle, first time out; Fish Culberson, back, squadman; Jack Jackson, back, squadman; Bruce Weaver, back, squadman; Danny McClellan, end, first time out; Burl Williams, back, first time out; Francis Hodges, guard squadman; Cloyce Byrom, back, first time out; James Yows, back, first time out; Joe Kelso, center, squadman, and W. B. McBroom, back, first time out.

PRISCILLA CLUB NEWS

Members of the Priscilla Club were entertained with an all day club meeting at the club house with Mrs. Q. R. Black as hostess.

A beautiful quilt was in the frames and everyone worked diligently until their task was finished in the afternoon. Various other kinds of hand work was worked on.

At the close of the day a business session was held and all business was disposed of. Plans were again discussed for the league meeting which is to be held the second Wednesday in April. A committee was appointed for the April party to be held at the club house April 21st.

Lunch was served to Mesdames J. D. Feggette, J. C. Bunnell, R. C. Dyess, Lonnie Flentge, W. E. Hayes, A. B. Williamson, L. A. Brewer and son, Miss Estelle Cooper, Mrs. W. T. Black visitor and the hostess, Mrs. O. Black. Callers were Mrs. A. B. Chatham and Mrs. J. J. Hayes.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Brewer on April 20th.

SWINDLED AFTER 13 YEARS

Norfolk, Va.—Obeying the instructions of a clairvoyant, Louis Davis and sister, Mary, thirteen years ago sealed up their savings of $1,700 in an envelope and put the envelope in a safety deposit box, expecting, according to the clairvoyant, the money to grow to $20,000. Recently, because of illness, Davis needed some money. He found that instead of money the envelope contained torn pages from a magazine.

Mrs. Carl Wilson and daughters, Eunice, and Mrs. Robert Henderson of an Argelo are at the bedside of the mother and grandmother, Mrs. Brazzil, who is seriously ill. Mrs. Mat Thompson of Waco is also visiting her sister, Mrs. Brazzil.

SOCIETY

Ruth Warner, Bride Of Jack Malone

Miss Ruth Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Warner, became the bride of Jack Malone, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Malone in a single ring ceremony at 6:00 P. M. Saturday in Waco, with Rev. Everett O'Dowd, performing the ceremony in the presence of the bride's aunt, Miss Alma Byford and a close friend, Miss Sybil Hope, both of Waco.

The bride was very lovely in a becoming navy silk crepe with a bolero jacket. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds, and her accessories were navy.

Mrs. Malone has made her home in this city with her parents for the past two years, having been an efficient telephone operator in the local office for some time. She was a graduate of Waco High School in 1935. Mr. Malone has been a resident of Gatesville for a number of years, and is employed at the J. O. Forrest Sinclair Service Station. Following a brief wedding trip to Austin the couple have returned to their home in this city at 1417 Saunders Street.

Miss Burnice Gamblin Hostess to Party

Miss Burnice Gamblin was hostess to a group of friends at a 42 party in her home on Bridge Street Friday evening.

"42" and other table games furnished diversion for the guests, after which a delectable refreshment plate of ice cream, cookies, and punch were served to the three tables.

W. M. S. Hear Book Review At Social

Highlight of the regular social meeting for the Women's Missionary Society will be a book review on "Wings" by Claudia Cranston and presented by Mrs. Eugene Alvis. The meeting will be held in the recreational room of the First Methodist Church Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Easter decorations will be appropriately carried out.

The program for the afternoon will include several musical numbers by Mesdames Byron Leaird Jr. and Emmett Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. Clay Stinnett.

Committees responsible for this nice affair are: Social Committee: Mesdames C. E. Alvis, Clyde Bailey, J. O. Potts and E. C. Lay. Hostesses are Mesdames W. E. Lasseter, Bob Stockburgar, Inez Warren, B. D. Reynolds, Ross Woodall, R. Thomas, H. T. Chapman, H. S. Compton and J. F. Wright.

Birthday Dinner Given T. M. Morgan

T. M. Morgan, in celebrating his eighty-third birthday, was honored at his home Sunday by a group of friends and relatives with a birthday dinner.

The twenty-four present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Morgan and children of Temple, Jack Clapper and family, Buford Lary and family, Mrs. Mammil Lee and daughters, Irene and Eunice, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Medlin and sons, Eugene and Bob Joe.

Popular Bride-Elect Honored Saturday

As a compliment to Miss Katherine Gordon, popular bride-elect, Mrs. Mabel Gardner, assisted by Mrs. John Thomas Brown entertained at bridge in the home of Mrs. Gardner, Saturday afternoon. Bouquets of roses and bluebonnets lent loveliness to the room in which the guests enjoyed the games of bridge. Mrs. Denver Roberts and Mrs. B. D. Reynolds were high score winners, and the honoree was presented a lovely pottery refreshment set by the hostesses.

A salad course was served to the following: Misses Katherine Gordon, Mary Brown, Maude Alyce Painter, Bess Holmes, Mamie Sue Halbrook, Sydney Gibson, Wilhemina Cayce, Mesdames Denver Roberts, Dean Jones, Kermit Jones, Charles Powell, Eugene Alvis Jim McClellan, Jack Odell Harry Plenge, Miller Stinnett, B. D. Reynolds, Byron Carroll and Floyd Zeigler.

Mrs. Mary and Emma Scott of Lipan and Denton, respectively, were weekend visitors in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Scott of Schley. They were accompanied by B. A. Young of Morgan Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton O. Thompson and children, Hulon and Helon visited her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Graham near Evant Sunday and celebrated the birthday of Mrs. Thompson, her father, S. W. Graham, and his brother, Luther Graham.

OLD YUKON CRAFT IN "THE BARRIER"

There's at least one group of men who have resisted the increasing commercialism of the age. They are the owners of the "Skagit Chief" an old stern-wheeler which Harry Sherman, film producer, wanted for scenes in Rex Beach's romance, "The Barrier" which opens today at the Palace Theatre.

Sherman wanted an authentic old ship, one that had actually been used in the gold-rush trade but found that no matter how much money he offered the owners of the "Skagit Chief" would not take her off her regular run to rent her for the picture.

Just as Sherman, defeated was walking out of the shipping office, one of the owners spoke up. "Wait a minute Mr. Sherman" he said. "You can't rent the 'Skagit Chief' for money but I'll tell you what we will do if you'll give us a print of all the scenes in which the ship appears so that we can run 'em off here and see her as a movie actress, we'll let you take her."

Sherman instantly agreed, shipped the prints the moment they were finished and added as a separate gift from himself, the latest model projection machine and screen.

The "Skagit Chief" has been used in scenes featuring the leading members of the cast including Leo Carrill, Jean Parker and James Ellison.

The film was directed by Les Selander.

MRS. BRAZIEL DIES SUNDAY A. M.

A paralytic stroke Thursday afternoon about 5:30 proved fatal to Mrs. Ida Mae Braziel Sunday morning at 4:00. She passed away in this city at the home of her son, Mac Braziel. Services were conducted in the Purmela Baptist Church, at 10:00 Monday morning with the pastor of that church and Rev. Lee of the Turnersville Baptist Church conducting the services. Burial, with Scott Funeral Directors in Charge, was in the Purmela Cemetery.

Mrs. Braziel was born in 1869, in Illinois. She was 68 years, 9 months and 16 days old.

The son and daughters that survive their dear mother are: M. C. Braziel, and Ollie Braziel of Gatesville; Arch Braziel of Los Angeles, Calif; and Mesdames Claude Giddens of Purmela; Carl Wilson of San Angelo, and one other daughter who was ill and unable to attend the services.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Loper, Mrs. B. E. McCoy, and Mrs. Mittie Bloodworth motored to Waco Sunday and attended services conducted by Gipsy Smith.

JOHN SYLVESTER SMITH

Was born in the Patton Community, January 24, 1871, died in Denton, Texas, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. George Bishop, March 23, 1938, survived by his wife, Mrs. Gussie Jarrett Smith, and four children Mrs. George Bishop, Denton; Jarret Smith Houston; Lloyd Smith, Calcuta, Columbia, S. A. Mrs. Quince Bone, Monohan, Texas. One brother, I. B. Smith, Valley Mills; One sister, Mrs. George Callaway, China Springs.

Mr. Smith came to Valley Mills in young manhood, holding several responsible positions before going to Gatesville 10 years ago, where he since resided, being accountant with the State Training School until January 1, this year he resigned on account of ill health which had been declining for the past three years. He and Mrs. Smith went to Denton about middle of January to visit a daughter and his condition gradually became worse, although confined to bed on Thursday before his death.

He was a good citizen, interested in all things for the good of the community, ever loyal to friends, a faithful member of the Valley Mills Baptist Church retaining his membership, even though he had not lived there for several years. He was a good man, respected by all who knew him, and will be missed by his friends and associates as well as deeply mourned by his family.—Valley Mills Tribune.

Those from Gatesville to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. Hurl McClellan, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant, Mrs. John Bloodworth, Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Loper, Earl Nesbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Richards, Mrs. Ethel Goodall, Mr. and Mrs. Newell Hix, Mrs. E. C. Lay, W. T. Hix, Mrs. Harvey Sadler, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Bonds, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bone, Mrs. E. J. Brooks and Pauline, Mrs. H. C. Dollins, Mrs. A. D. McBride, Mrs. Daisy Hampton, and Mrs. R. T. Priddie.

DISTINCTIVE ENGLISH COTTAGE

ALTERNATE FLOOR PLANS

Classic English charm is attractively carried out in this home. It's small, but so conveniently and compactly arranged that it affords perfect comfort without great expense. It will adequately shelter a family and also give them something worthy of pride.

Alternate floor plans are provided. No. 1 calls for a basement. No. 2 is without the basement; the spaces used for the basement stairs in No. 1 is used for a utility room in No. 2. Otherwise, the plans are identical.

The front door opens into a vestibule. A clothes closet provides ample room for outer wraps. The living room was designed with three things in mind: 1. adequate wall space—to assure ample room for furniture and to avoid a crowded feeling; 2. economy in construction by making the room just the right size, not too big and not too small; 3. proper light around ventilation—which you can see was well taken care of by the inclusion of five windows and the side door. The door opens into a fairly good-sized side porch. A very desirable feature. A large opening on the other side of the room leads to the kitchen via the dinette. The kitchen is compact and convenient. It provides space for a range and refrigerator. A door opens to the basement stairs or the utility room which ever one the plan calls for. Another door opens to the outside. Note the convenience of having all the living rooms at the front of the house affords more privacy and quiet to the bedrooms in the rear.

The bedrooms and a bath are reached thru a hall off the living room. Both have ample room for furniture and clothing. One has two closets, the other one. The bath provides room for standard fixtures and a medicine cabinet.

This house and others of its type are enjoying ever growing popularity, the result of careful planning, appealing design and comparatively low construction costs. Consult your building dealer for working plans and estimates.

Consuls in San Francisco for Latin-American nations are cooperating with the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition and the Pan American Union to make the Inter American Travel Congress in 1939 a major conference.

BENEFITS OF CCC CAMP OUTLINED

The Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Gatesville is a practical job training school for the 161 enrollees who make up its membership, Mr. E. E. McAlister, Technician in charge at the local camp, said today.

In preparation for the forthcoming fifth anniversary celebration of the CCC to be held April 4, Mr. McAlister today reviewed some of the accomplishments of the local enrollees attained since the fourth anniversary celebrated last year.

"During the past year our educational program has been expanded materially", Mr. McAlister said, "not only in academic or class work but in the practical instruction given our enrollees in vocational work and 'on the job' training. They learn by doing."

About 161 of the local enrollees originally came into the CCC from farm homes, Mr. McAlister pointed out. "Some of these men at the time of their enrollment expressed no desire to return to farm work at the end of their service with the CCC he said.

"After working on the cooperating farms in the local camp and seeing what the local farmers have accomplished in the way of farm improvement by instituting soil and water conservation practices, a good many of these farm boys have expressed a desire to return to their own farm homes after their enrollment ends to put into effect similar practices", he stated.

"So instead of permitting the men to do only manual labor in connection with the work project, we are now instructing them in the 'why' of their jobs so they will acquire a complete background of the reason for various practices," he said.

Mr. McAlister pointed out that the local enrollees had worked on 103 farms and had treated 22,000 acres by assisting the farmers to put into effect erosion control programs.

The education attained by these enrollees, however, is of great importance in spreading soil conservation work to a great extent and to a greater number of farms, he stated.

Of first importance is the fact that the boys in the camp have been built up physically and mentally by providing them with healthful food and living conditions and plenty of work in the out of doors. This has contributed to the building of worth while citizens, youths who have a genuine desire to go back into their home communities and make a real contribution to society.

Attendance at classes is voluntary, Mr. McAlister pointed out, yet 87 per cent of the boys are enrolled in courses offered at the camp.

"This is an indication of the desire on the part of the enrollees to improve themselves so that they will be able to find a place in business, agriculture or the trades when they leave the camp," he said.

PEOPLES LIBRARY MOVEMENT

A handful of people have set out to persuade Texas to endow itself with the great educational, social and moral values that reside in the public library. For that purpose a movement has been launched which has been named the Peoples Library Movement whose object is to multiply county and regional libraries. They expect to do this by generating an informed opinion of the value of library service as a means of inducing the next Legislature to enact a bill which will be submitted to it.

This bill will ask for a large addition to the biennial appropriations for the State Library to be used in purchasing books to be distributed as loans among the county and regional libraries. The Legislature can make no gifts to the counties either money or books but it does have authority to buy books to loan individuals all through the state. Thus the plan is only an enlargement of an existing service which can be more effective and economically rendered through county and regional libraries than through individuals.

The present county library law allows the Commissioners' Court of any County to make an appropriation from its general fund for the establishment and operation of free library service. The appropriation cannot exceed 5c on the $100 of the assessed valuation of all of the property of the county. The county wishing to share in the distribution of the State-bought books must have a county setup which meets the requirements of the state library laws.

It is believed that, relieved largely of not wholly of the need of buying books and left with only the financial burden of operation, counties will be quick to make use of the existing law and as a consequence county libraries will become common. It is this belief which animates the Peoples Library Movement.

Coryell County has a county-wide library operating as a WPA project. Are you willing to see this project close?

FORMER GATESVILLE BOY MADE DISTRICT MGR., OF COMPANY

W. Roy Parsons, son of Mrs. Frank Parsons, 1926 Bailey, has been named district manager for the Provident Life and accident insurance Co., at Norfolk, Va., relatives here were informed Monday. Parsons, while serving in the Navy for 20 years, made numerous trips to San Angelo to visit his mother and sisters, Mrs. L. J. Alexander and Miss Joanna Parsons.

Last month Parsons led employees of the company in volume of sales. His promotion came on the heels of this record.

Last July Parsons retired from the naval service, deciding to make his home in Norfolk. A native Texan, he enlisted, in 1917 from Gatesville. After the World War he spent four years in the West Indies as head of a naval hospital at Port Au Prince, Haiti. After four years in Washington, he was stationed in China and the Philippines for five years. He finished his service in Boston.

Indian lore, including the mystic dances and rites of the Mayans and Incas, are to be presented as a part of the Pageant of the Pacific on Treasure Island in 1939.

WORLD COMMENT

Joe Burns

Karl Crowley, solicitor general for the postoffice department, is now in the race for governor against Bill McCraw, Clarence C. Farmer, P. D. Renfro, and Ernest O. Thompson.

Crowley opened his campaign with a declaration of war against 'giantic New York and European oil, gas and sulphur monopolies (that) continue to rob Texas.'

Thompson, member of the state railroad commission and McCraw, attorney general, were indirectly attacked by Crowley for remaining in their offices while they campaign, and "being favorites of corporations that will put up campaign funds of $2,000,000 for each of them."

"If both these candidates do not resign (their present offices) an outraged public will defeat them," said Crowley, who emphasized that he is resigning his own post as solicitor for the post-office department.

Crowley is predicating his candidacy upon his belief, a belief little encouraged by his personal friends, that the voters will become disgusted with the mud-slinging campaign between McCraw and Thompson and will turn to him as one untouched by the intrigues of State politics, in which McCraw has been engaged since 1934 and Thompson since 1932.

Friends now backing Crowley point to the instance of Tom Hunter's amazing showing made in the 1932 race, in which he ran a close third to Mrs. Ferguson and to the incumbent governor Ross Sterling. Hunter, they say, was virtually unknown to voters and entered the race as late as Crowley is entering.

But such logic is not sound. The revulsion of sentiment against the Fergusons had swept Sterling into the Governorship to succeed Dan Moody in 1930. But in 1932 the electorate had lost confidence in Sterling. Confronted with two bad choices, either a discredited Sterling or a Ferguson regime, the electorate turned to a new man, Hunter.

Thompson and McCraw are entering the race with huge followings already supporting their respective candidacies. They have, one might say, entered at popular demand the contest for the highest office Texas can bestow upon a native son.

There is no such demand for Crowley or for another candidate. The bitter fight becomes between McCraw and Thompson, the more partisan will become their followers and the more determined to place their favorite in the governorship.

Heretofore it was said Crowley would not enter without the backing of the national administration, meaning Postmaster General Farley. It may be said with certainty, however, that Farley knows the strength of both McCraw and Thompson and that he will not run the risk of alienating either by supporting Crowley.

Neither of the so-termed major candidates has submitted to the voters a platform defining his start upon controversial issues which are to form a prominent part in the summer campaign.

Obviously both McCraw and Thompson are stalling, hoping the other will announce his platform. Should one announce, the other could study the public reaction to the various planks of the platform and shape his principles to suit the public taste.

The people will not wait, however, nor can the candidates in definitely postpone announcing their platforms.

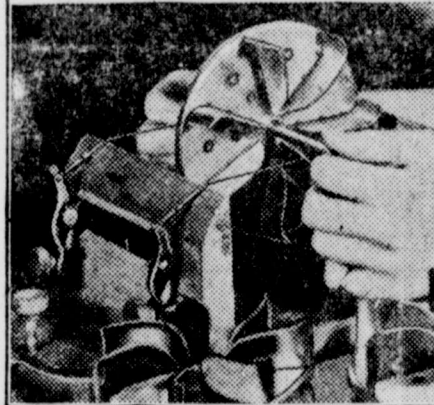

There are at least seven issues which must be included in any gubernatorial platform. A definite stand on either side of these questions is certain to provoke a storm of protest from those who disagree with the candidate.

Messrs. Thompson and McCraw should let the people of Texas know where they stand on:

1. Pensions for everybody over 65 as against pensions only for the needy.
2. Child labor amendment.
3. Sales of liquor by the drink.
4. Legalized race-track gambling.
5. Sales Tax.
6. Additional taxes on natural resources.
7. State income tax.

Trees weighing as much as 20 tons will be transplanted on Treasure Island.

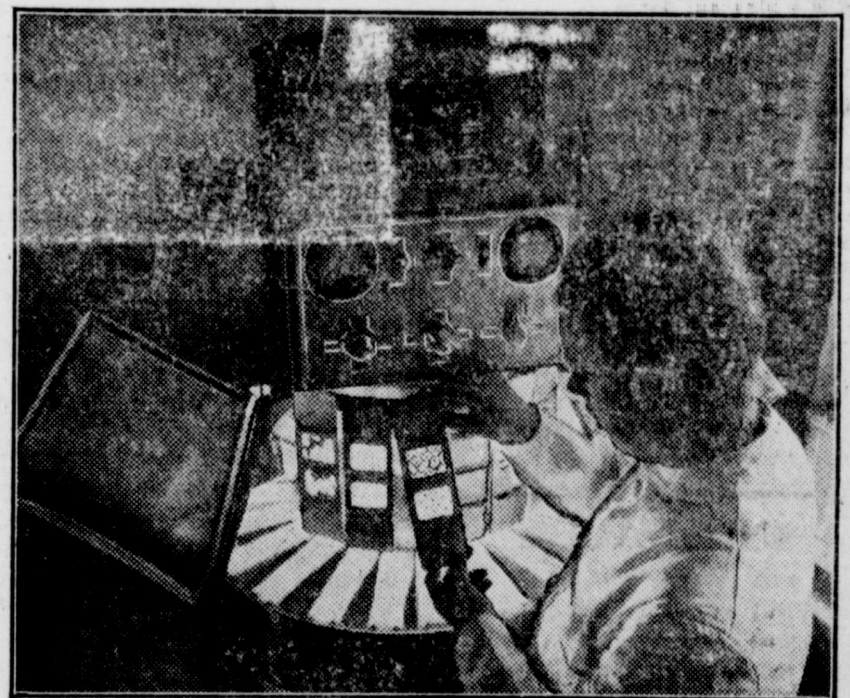

TEST, TEST AND TEST

AMERICAN industry, according to Consumers Information, surpasses that of any other country in its exact methods of testing products and so assuring maximum performance before passing them on to the user. One company reports, for instance, that 25% of its labor and cost of production goes into testing. Above are shown tests of two of the 600 different operations which go into the manufacture of their vacuum cleaners. The young lady is balancing the fan, an intricate job in which she puts tiny drops of solder on the light side until the balance is perfect. Inset, operator testing air passage, suction power and wattage, on a government test-block.

Science Beats the Sun

INDUSTRIAL engineers have now developed the device shown above, Consumers Information reports, to test color-fastness of fabrics, so that manufacturers can make sure in advance that their materials won't fade in the sun. Women never used to be sure that their dresses and draperies would retain their original brilliance until they had actually been exposed to sunlight. But through the use of this machine, developed by industrial research experts, it is now possible to tell whether dyed fabrics will hold their color. This is one more example of how industry helps the consumer.

CHAPTER I

"STANLEY," Captain Martisel laughed, "the battle is over. Sit back. Unbuckle. Drink your dish of tea and relax."

On the quarter-deck of the English slave-patrol ship, Lion's Whelp, Captain Martisel was having tea with his Lieutenant, Stanley Tarryton. Broad on the beam, the captured slaver, with a prize crew aboard, showed a hull and sails riddled with shot. Armed only with a brass swivel-gun and cutlasses with shark-skin grips, the slaver had fought savagely against fatal odds.

"Relax? With those two precious rascals forward grinning at me?" the Lieutenant muttered sulkily.

The two rascals forward were the Captain and mate of the slaver. Naked to the waist, they were hanging by their thumbs.

"As for these two rascals," Martisel said, "I make a distinction. The Captain, Taylor, is a superior man. An American, I believe but no black-bird by trade. Let's try another turn of the screw."

Captain Martisel lounged forward, and the Lieutenant trailed him. Powdah, mate of the slaver, quaked worse than ever at sight of Martisel's drawn sword, which moved as if to nick the ring from Powdah's ear. Taylor's dark eyes showed no trace of fear however.

"I got to tell 'em, Nuggin," Powdah blubbered. "It's like this, your Worships. Nuggin here is no slaver. His ship went down on the shoals of Delawan. We fished him half dead out of the water, give him a shot of rum and set him pulling on the braces. That night a nigger got loose out of the hold and rammed a shackle-bolt through our poor Captain's head from ear to ear. So I was Captain for one night, but I passed the job on to Nuggin here like a hot potato."

"Birds of a feather," Tarryton cried.

"And your advice is—?" asked Martisel.

"Drop them overboard, as they did with their human cargo."

"Don't let 'em drown me, Nuggin," Powdah shrieked.

"Drown you? They'll never drown you, Powdah," Taylor said. "Drowning is a pleasant death, but still it's murder, Powdah, for King's officers as well as slavers."

"Murder," Young Tarryton repeated, and turned pale.

"Murder as ever was. What's the law? You, my fine friend, find us with all sail set and moving westward, and you drop a shot across our bows. Good. We fight. Good again. You crumble us, and put a prize crew aboard. And what do you find? You find pots of horse beans. You find leg-irons. But leg-irons are not legs. Beans are not black men."

"You drowned them, to keep from swinging at a yard-arm yourself," Tarryton foamed.

"A laudable motive," Taylor said calmly. "I dropped them in the water, yes, but not till I had stood in close against the Coast. And I stood by till the last one had reached the shore."

"A likely story," the Lieutenant raged.

"I am inclined to believe it," Martisel said quietly.

"I say he is the Captain of the slaver Blackbird," Tarryton said.

you like to know if I was with the late Captain Granley of the Blackbird when he died? And did he for example betray any of his associates?"

Tarryton muttered, "Dead men tell no tales."

"But dying men sometimes tell the truth. And I have taken a fancy to your Captain Martisel. What if I were to tell him exactly how Captain Granley managed to dodge the English slave patrol, and so cleverly, that even the name Granley is unknown to Martisel? What if I suggest to Martisel that there may be some obliging soul in the English Navy who tipped off Granley to the slave-patrol schedule? Someone in authority on that very patrol, a Lieutenant, for instance, whose name might be—"

"Dog must I run you through?"

"Dead men tell no tales, but they make complications, Lieutenant. Live men are more obliging. Live men give advice."

Tarryton cast a sidelong look at Powdah, who was

"We have a new servant, Powdah," Taylor said ironically. "Garcon, bandage our thumbs."

"The Captain of the slaver was Paul M. Granley," Taylor cried.

"Now I know he lies," Tarryton said excitedly. "Granley is a rich slave-trader with a dozen trading-posts. He Captain of a single ship. Why—"

Tarryton broke off short, confused with a sense that he had said too much. His Captain's eyebrows had gone up a trifle.

"So Granley's name is familiar to you," Taylor said softly.

"Every seaman has heard of Granley," Tarryton faltered.

"I never heard of him," said Martisel coldly.

"Nevertheless, Granley existed, as all men know, who want to abolish slavery—of whom I happen to be one," Taylor said.

"An abolitionist in the guise of a slaver," Tarryton jeered.

"As improbable I suppose as a slaver in the guise of a Naval Lieutenant," Taylor jested. Tarryton's eyes showed a white flash, but Martisel seemed not to notice.

"Slaver or no, Tarryton," he said, "the law requires tangible evidence of drowning, and we lack it. But you, Captain Taylor, have at least been guilty of resisting Her Majesty's ship, and this offense will deprive you of your Captain's papers. Also, your ship will be confiscated. Lieutenant, put them in the brig."

"I will attend to that personally," Tarryton said.

He shackled his prisoners to rings hanging from the frames of the ship's brig.

"We have a new servant, Powdah," Taylor said ironically. "Garcon, bandage our thumbs."

"Who are you to order me about?" Tarryton growled.

Taylor whispered, "I am the man who knows your secret. What are you shaking for, Lieutenant? Would absorbed in moaning and licking his wounded thumbs.

"Advice . . . Such as—?" Tarryton whispered to Taylor.

"Such as how to handle Martisel, let us say. In the slaver's mail-bag is a letter of Granley's to his principals in America, Updike and Morgan. Martisel must have read it by now. It gives one Lt. Tarryton credit for his services to slavers."

"You wrote it and signed Granley's name," Tarryton snarled.

"Tut. Granley's hand-writing is easily proved. But—" Taylor held out his other thumb to be bandaged, "there's no harm done really. A Tarryton can keep Martisel's tongue from wagging."

"What do you mean?"

"When you hung me by my thumbs, you didn't stop my ears. It's ship's news that Captain Martisel will marry your sister Margaret this time home."

"My mother made the match, not Margaret," Tarryton said.

"But Margaret consents. Come, put your cards on the table with Martisel. Offer him Margaret in exchange for Granley's letter. Then—stay in the Navy and get the new slave-patrol schedule. Who issues that?"

"Captain Woodley of the Naval Commissioner's office," Tarryton said, as if mesmerized.

"Get it from Woodley in the course of duty and—give me a copy to take to America. The firm of Taylor and Tarryton will take the place of Granley, and grow rich."

"Agreed," Tarryton whispered, after a haunted look over his shoulder. He left his prisoners to their shackles.

"Powdah, you dog," Taylor chuckled. "The Lord has delivered him into my hand. We shall strike a blow at slavery at last."

KNOW TEXAS

Oil Marches On

DENTON, April 5.—Oil continues to wave its shiny black flag over Texas. Six refineries have been built in the state since April of last year, including some of the largest plants yet constructed. This makes a total of 136 refineries in operation at the end of 1937.

Furthermore the largest investments in any one group of industries have been made in the establishment of petroleum refineries producing asphalt, gasoline distillate, fuel oil and other products.

Farm Income Higher

Recession fears may be partly quieted by the quotation of farm income figures for January of this year, which showed a nine per cent increase over January of last year. In other words the computed farm cash income of Texas for January 1938, was $21,500,000 compared with $19,750,000 in 1937.

Attention Pessimists

"Building for the future" is a reality as well as a slogan in Texas if the amount of building permits is a true indication. Not including public works a total of $4,475,942 worth of permits were issued in January 1938. The largest amount was in Houston, where $1,177,795 went into construction work, and the next was in Dallas with $965,543 worth of permits.

Lets Talk about Clothes

DENTON, April 5.—Like a magnetic ball rolling along and gathering everything in its path the vogue for femininity has swept thru dresses, hats, coats and now—shoes.

It's characteristic of Miss America that when she goes in for a thing she goes, all the way. A year or so ago the outdoor girl fever hit the country and she prided herself on buying heavy ultra-comfortable shoes and masculine clothes.

Now, claim the girls at Texas State College for Women she wants grace and beauty in a shoe as well as a dress. Garbarding and suede are easy to beautify with dressmaker touches punchwork and lacing, and manufacturers are ably meeting the demand for glorified feet.

Colors are lovely and although black patent holds the lead in many places because of its ideal season changing qualities, the livelier shades are due to gain prominence. In the new alligator line one finds butterscotch Brittany rose, cornflower, amber and ebony.

Caution is necessary in matching the varied copper shades with other accessories, but most stores today will have that problem already solved.

Spring shoe lines could hardly be called feminine were they not filled with novelties. First in the roll call are the wedgesoles and next come the "patents" or shoes with platform soles while the evening sandals take the prize for fragility with net inserts.

United Air Lines is planning special flights to the 1939 World's Fair in San Francisco.

Governor Lloyd C. Stark leads the Missouri Exposition commission planning participation at the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.

An NYA work project unit employing 100 youths in Brackenpark in San Antonio assisting in the construction of a stone bridge, a bridge path span, and installing a new flooring on another bridge, has begun operation. J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director has announced.

Folks Are Funny

By E. V. White, Dean
Texas State College for Women

He is no fool who is as wise as others think he is.

Hundreds of pieces of statuary are now being modeled in San Francisco ateliers for the 1939 Golden Gate International Exposition.
