HINES SAYS HWY. 36 BEING GIVEN ATTENTION

Immediate attention is being given Highway 36 northwest of Temple to Gatesville, Highway Commissioner Harry Hines told J. T. Bonner at Temple Friday afternoon, according to the Temple Daily Telegram.

Every effort will be made to get some work started on the highway this fall, Mr. Hines said.

The following letter in which Mr. Hines asked Likaway Engineer Julian Montgomery to get work started on No. 36 before cold weather started was made public by Mr. Hines:

"Dear Mr. Montgomery:
On Highway 36 beginning at the point from connection with 153 to the Coryell county line is a section of road that is extremely important as a connection to the Northwest, as well as traversing an excellent agricultural area.

"In Bell county they have at this time, a large number of unemployed, and a relief project on this section of road would not only be of assistance to them in taking care of their labor, but would open an important north and northwest artery.

"I would be glad, indeed if you would inaugurate a relief project on this section of road before the winter weather sets in. If this is not possible, then I would like to see a state project thereon.

"Will be glad for you to investigate, and advise me what you think can be done.

"Sincerely,
"Harry Hines"

The Highway commission previously has authorized the construction of .6 mile of No. 36 from the end of the present stub northwest of town to connect up with Highway No. 153, being built now from Belton to Moody.

County Convention Underwrites New Governor-Nominee

At the County Democratic Convention, held in the county court house Saturday afternoon, Harry Flentge was named Chairman and J. M. Pancake secretary. The convention endorsed W. Lee O'Daniel and named delegates and alternates for the State Convention to be held in Beaumont, Tuesday, September 13.

Delegates were: Mrs. E. C. Slone, P. C. Jones, Flat; Luther Scott, C. F. Stockburger, Frank Farquhar, Chas. Powell, Ivy Edmondson, Glen Hendrickson, Dr. H. M. Haynes, E. T. Mayes, W. T. Hix, and Joe Tubbs, Coryell City.

Alternates were: Dave Grubbs Ireland; W. A. Bynum, Pearl; Stanley Miles, Levita; Homer Laxson, Evant; Chester Griffin, Evant; E. Routh, Happy Holcomk R. W. Flentge, Frank Mayhew, C. S. Reynolds, Pancake; George Fritz, Copperas Cove, J. O. Brown, Paul Wiley, W. Mat Jones and C. H. McGilvray.

Resolutions and Platform of Coryell County Convention:

Be it resolved by the Democratic convention for Coryell County, Texas, that we desire to publicly congratulate the Hon. W. Lee O'Daniel, Democratic Nominee for Governor of Texas. We also desire to commend him for his splendid and successful fight and victory to eliminate the professional politician in Texas. We firmly believe that with the proper cooperation of the Legislature of Texas that our aged citizens can and will be given the consideration intended by the Democracy of Texas. His fight as the candidate of the common masses is unequalled in Texas and we pledge to him as a convention and as humble citizens our united support and cooperation. We believe that Texas can and will ascend higher as the greatest state in the commonwealth with the people's candidate at the helm of our State Government.

We favor the payment of pension to the aged citizens of Texas.

We favor the abolition of the Texas Liquor Board which operates at an enormous expense to the State of Texas. The liquor law the same as all other laws should be enforced by the local peace officers.

The inspectors for old age and old age assistance administered by local government.

We favor the reduction in salaries of all State Employees now receiving a salary in excess of $1800 by ten per cent or over. The reduction to be applied towards the payment of old age assistance.

We favor the abolition and elimination of useless Boards and unnecessary employees in Texas.

We favor the revision of the Penal and Civil laws in Texas. Trials are expensive and litigants should not be compelled to wait from six months to several years before a final decision is rendered in their case.

A more stringent law regulating the practice of law should be passed. The lawyer who solicits business or encourages litigation and agrees to pay the court cost if his client's case is lost should not be permitted to practice law.

We believe that the Executive Committeeman from this District should be one who supported the Hon. W. Lee O'Daniel for Governor.

We favor a revision of the 7,000 pond truck law as same is both inequitable and unjust.

We pledge our complete support to the Hon. W. Lee O'Daniel and instruct our delegates to support him in the writing of the Democratic Platform which will aid in the governing of the destiny of Texas.

Platform and Resolutions Committee:

Ivy Edmondson, Chairman
M. W. Lowrey
J. M. Pancake

Harry Flentge, Chairman
Coryell County Democratic Convention.

Chas. Stockburger nominated Harry Flentge for Executive Committeeman from this district which includes a number of counties, suggesting the seven voting delegates support Mr. Flentge in the selection of the official for this office in Beaumont. Glenn Hendrickson seconded and the motion carried unanimously.

Those present at the Convention were: B. B. Garrett, John Price, Milton Graham, P. T. Brookshire, N. Pederson, John W. Scott, Elbert Sloan, C. F. Caruth, J. W. Ramsey, J. E. Chambers, A. D. Second News-Merchants' Bicycle Derby Set August 19th

Grease your bike! The Derby's Due!

'Bout August 19 the Second Annual News-Merchants' Bicycle Derby will be held in Gatesville.

Last year, some 46 entries were received and some 36 to 40 racers had lots of fun and won prizes in that big race.

Merchants as a general rule have not been advised of the 1938 edition of the race, and consequently, prizes have not been announced as yet. However,

W. T. Hix of the Western Auto Associate Store has already offered choice of a whole string of accessories for these two wheel monsters, for the "first" in each of the five divisions.

This year, in addition to the regular four divisions of last year, we have added another division,—its for those "children over 40", ladies or gents.

The other divisions are: Class I, Boys 6 to 12 inclusive; Class II Girls 6 to 12 inclusive; Class

III, Boys 12 to 17, inclusive; and Class IV Girls 12 to 17.

Entries may be made by any boy or girl living in Coryell county, within the age limit, who owns a bicycle, or in whose family there is a bicycle that they can borrow.

So you won't know how or where you're going to ride, a new course will be laid out for the 1938 race.

Watch the News for news of the Derby.

stumpin' the state

BY BRACK CURRY

There are now approximately 113,000 on the Texas pension rolls. They are paid on a basis of need, a total of about $10,000,000 a year. Official estimates are there are about 245,000 people who would be eligible for age who would be eligible for assistance if the need basis was removed. If they were paid $15 a month by the state, about $34,000,000 a year additional would be needed.

O'Daniel in proposing $30 a month pensions, figured on the state paying $15 and the federal government $15. But the federal social security act is based on payments to needy. Therefore it might not agree to pay $15 to everyone in Texas, regardless of need, but would match only such state aid as it considered went to the needy. The state constitution limits state old age assistance payments to $15.

In regard to old age assistance, the house has been considered fairly liberal and the senate quite conservative. The house last year adopted a resolution declaring against considering support by children in determining need of pension applicants, but the whole thing died in the senate. About the same time, both houses somewhat "deliberated" the pension law to make the basis of needs more definite.

In any event, all a governor can do is recommend. The final decision is with the legislature.

O'Daniel has said he expected to get along all right with the legislature because "I know how to get along with all men." Nevertheless, the senate is very jealous of its power, and has some first class rows with governors. It had one with Governor James V. Allred in the last session of the legislature, spending days berating him.

In his campaign O'Daniel denounced "professional politicians" and called on the people to help him drive them out of Austin. The question is being asked whether he will learn to compromise with the legislature, reconcile divergent views, as past governors have had to do. He admits he knows nothing of politics.

With reference to "cleaning house" among jobholders in Austin, the governor does not have a great deal of power. Some of the head of the most important departments are elected, for example, the state superintendent of public instruction, the commissioner of the general land office, the attorney general, the comptroller and the treasurer. men fill the jobs in their own department. The, there are many commissions of several members who have overlapping terms, and the governor can appoint only one member ever two years.

He does appoint the secretary of state, the labor commissioner and the adjutant general and of course, he wields considerable influence with all department heads if he gets along with them.

So far as appeared to the naked eye, O'Daniel has had little support among men who have long been in politics. He has waged war on "professional politicians." Governor Allred has, however, been friendly to him. O'Daniel does not know many members of the legislature.

Telegrams of congratulations, most of them pledging wholehearted cooperation, have been received by O'Daniel from politicians and business and professional men, however, not only from Texas, but several other states.

Several of the wired came from members of the house and state senate. These were considered significant, in view of the opinion expressed by some that O'Daniel's inexperience in such affairs might lead to friction between the new governor and the legislature.

Senator Morris Roberts of Pettus, who is considered one of the most influential men in the upper house, wired O'Daniel that "I will do all I can to help you."

Clarence R. Miller of Dallas, who withdrew from the governor's race a few days before the election and threw his support to Ernest O. Thompson wired the nominee that he would "do every thing in my power to make your administration a glorious success."

Congratulatory telegrams also were received from Robert Lee Robbitt, chairman, and Harry Hines of the state highway commission; C. V. Terrell chairman of the railroad commission and a run-off candidate for reelection L. A. Woods, state supt. of public instruction; Tom C. King state auditor; Governor Allred and Lieut. Governor Walter Wood ul.

North Texas has produced most Texas governor. All of the 11 chief executives who have served since the turn of the century, only three have been from South Texas. Sayers of Bastrop (1899-1903), Hobby of Beaumont (1917-1921), and Sterling of Houston (1931-1933) are the only governors elected from South Texas since 1900.

On the other hand, North Texas boasts Lanham of Weatherford (1903-1907) Campbell of Palestine (1907-1911), Colquitt of Kaufman (1911-1915), and Alfred of Wichita Falls. From Central Texas have come James E. Ferguson of Temple, Dan Moody of Georgetown and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Austin.

Of the five candidates for governor in 1936, three were from North Texas, one from East Texas and one from Central Texas. In 1934, in a field of seven contestants, five were from North Texas, one from West Texas, and one from Central Texas.

From the city "Where the West Begins" comes W. Lee O'Daniel, who will assume the reins of the Texas state government next January.

Attorney General William McCraw had one thing to console him as state election returns left him in third place in the governor's race. He carried his home precinct, although his margin over W. Lee O'Daniel was narrow.

Precinct 70, where McCraw votes, gave the Attorney General 161, O'Daniel 153, Thompson 69, Hunter 66, Farmer and Renfro four each.

Rutherford Knocked Out; Eagles Humble Mound

The great Schoolboy Rutherford was blasted from the mound by the dynamiting bats of those bing-banging Jonesboro Eagles, whipping of the year 11-1 at Mound Sunday. Rutherford failed to last two innings. In the very opening stanza, Jonesboro garnered four runs, and then in the second they had scored two more runs and the bases were loaded when Manager Buddy Whigham sent Rutherford to the showers. Cleo Whaley took over the hurling duties in that frame, and let two of the men Rutherford allowed to get on base to score. After that he settled down and pitched winning ball, but to no avail. Carl Liljedahl had those vaunted Mound sluggers literally handcuffed, allowing only three hits, with Sonny Hair, scrappy shortstop getting two of them. Liljedahl pitched his greatest game yesterday. He had blinding speed, and his sharp curve was working with baffling precision. He turned in the best hurling performance your scribe has seen all year in the county league.

In the second game Pidcoke walloped Blackfoot 5-1. However Pidcoke is out of the race for a position in the playoff. Newton and Lockhart handled the pitching for the Cokers, while Mill saps and Ivy pitched for Blackfoot.

ALL-STAR STAGE LAST FRAME RALLY; BEAT WOOD BROS., 7-5

Gatesville hustling All-Stars staged a sensational seventh inning five run rally to drag Wood Bros. Waco softball club down into the mire of a seven to five defeat. Strongarm Blanton, stouthearted hurler, went the entire route for the locals, and after a very shaky start, when the Waco boys scored four runs, he settled down and hurled brilliant ball.

Little Frank Morgan, pee-wee All-star short stop, paced the locals' attack with three clean singles in four jaunts to the plate, while Tackett and Thornton slammed out triples, the longest hits of the nite.

After retiring the first two men to face him, Blanton mom-

Billy Claud, entirely faltered and a double, a walk and another ringing double sent two Waco runners scampering across the plate.

In the All-star half, Morgan scored the opening Gatesville counter when he got his first single, and went home on two consecutive errors by Munroe, Waco third sacker.

However, Waco garnered two more runs in the second frame on a triple, a double and a single. After this splurge, Blanton settled down and pitched great ball, although the Wacos tallied another run in the fifth.

Gatesville scored another run in the second, when Waco's inner defense fell apart, and made numerous bobbles. But the locals really came to life in the seventh inning. Ging into that frame the score stood: Waco 5, Gatesville 2. Kirby opened with a single down the third base line and then rapped out another single, placing men on first and second. Petterson then placed a well-aimed sacrifice bunt down the first base line, advancing both runners. Morgan got his hird hit of the night when he sent a line single thru single, scoring both Kirby and Blanton. Wiggins then slammed out a long double, sending Morgan home with the tying tally. Thornton got to first on a fielder's choice, and Wiggins went all the way home on the short stop's slow throw. Tackett then shot his triple to the center field fence, scoring Thornton with the last run of the ball game.

HARRY FLENTGE THANKS VOTERS FOR THEIR CONSIDERATION

Harry Flentge Thanks Voters:
I thought I was running for District Attorney but the vote in the primary convinced me that that was a wrong opinion. However, I deeply appreciate my friends and desire to thank each and every one for their many courtesies and expression of confidence. As stated by some of my friends my record as District Attorney is comparable to the best and far exceeds some of the others. With that record to my credit, I will again engage in the active practice of law and face the future with a smile.

ALEXANDER KORDA presents
"ELEPHANT BOY"

Based on "Toomai of the Elephants" by
RUDYARD KIPLING

THE STORY SO FAR
Little Toomai, ten-year-old Hindu boy, goes for a morning ride on the back of Kala Nag, the famous and mighty elephant who has served the family since the days of the boy's great-grandfather, Toomai of the Elephants. They play various pranks on the villagers — hoisting a lovesick boy up to the balcony of his beloved in defiance of her mother; stealing melons and finery from the neighbors. Returning to his father's tent, Little Toomai is confronted by his victims.

Chapter Two

"O shameless son," cried Big Toomai, as the victim of his boy's mischievous pranks menaced the lad. "O shameless son, will you bring nothing but discredit on my house?"

Little Toomai quickly handed back to the gaudy woman the beautiful silk petticoat, now dirty and bedraggled, which he had stolen from her balcony. To the others he could not make restitution, and could only stand before them with lowered head.

"This time thou shalt be pun-a few brief questions of its owner then pronounced his laconic "Yes" or "No" from which there was no appeal.

Came Kala Nag's turn to stand before the white man. Petersen Sahib eyed his huge proportions appreciatively.

"What is the name of your elephant?" he asked Kala Nag's master.

"Kala Nag," replied Big Toomai. At the same moment there was a brief rustle among the surrounding crowd, and a small brown figure darted into the circle from between the legs of the onlookers.

"It means 'Black Snake,' Sahib," piped up Little Toomai.

Petersen Sahib took no notice of the little boy who stood looking at him with complete admiration. He inquired of Big Toomai as to the age of his elephant.

"Seventy years old."

"Served Indian Government 47 years, in the Afghan War of 1882, also in the Abyssinian War," added Little Toomai rapidly, as if he had learned it all by rote. "His mother was Radha Pyari Radha the ling, and he was caught by my great-grandfather, Toomai of the Elephants."

In spite of himself, Petersen Sahib smiled at the youngster.

"And who are you?" he de-

"Grandfather taught me never to speak to a white man until he was fed."

ished," said Big Toomai. "The rest of this day thou canst kneel hungry in the corner of the compound."

"But am I not to see Petersen Sahib, the mighty white huntsman?" cried the boy.

"No!" replied Big Toomai, to the great satisfaction of his outraged neighbors. And forthwith, he marched the boy to a far corner of the compound, placed Kala Nag on guard over him, and commanded the elephant:

"Guard him closely, my wise one — let him not move six paces."

And Kala Nag, ever obedient to his master, saw to it that Little Toomai did not move beyond the semi-circle marked on the ground by his father.

As the sun rose higher in the heavens, Petersen Sahib approached the village with his caravan to choose the elephants and men for the Keddah. And in the afternoon the caravan marched majestically into the main street, Petersen Sahib leading atop his huge elephant Pudinini, to take his stand and pass judgment on the elephants that would be offered him for the hunt. Great excitement pervaded the village; women leaned out of windows jabbering and gesticulating; children turned out in swarms to see the show; while the men, having scrubbed and curried their elephants, prepared to ride them out to be submitted to the great Sahib.

Big Toomai came to the corner where his son was being held prisoner. Paying no attention to the boy's piteous pleas to be taken along, he mounted Kala Nag and rode off toward the main street and Petersen Sahib.

"Father," wailed the boy. "Am I not to see Petersen Sahib? Father — take me with you!" He received no answer.

Kala Nag carried his master to the main street of the village where, in the shade of a great tree, Petersen Sahib reclined at his ease on the back of Pudinini the elephant, surrounded by his retinue, and judged the elephants that were offered to him for the Keddah. With his keen, level gaze he quickly appraised each of the animals, asked manded.

"He's my son, Sahib," spoke up the boy's father. "He is a very bad boy and he will end in gaol."

Meanwhile Little Toomai gave a silent command to Kala Nag, and was promptly raised up in the elephant's trunk and held in front of the white man.

"What is your name, little one?" asked Petersen Sahib.

"Have — have you eaten, Sahib?" replied the lad in a scared voice, peeping out from the fingers of his hands held over his eyes.

"Yes, I have eaten, but what matters that?"

"My grandfather taught me never to speak to a white man until he was fed!"

When the shout of laughter from the crowd had subsided, Petersen Sahib asked: "Why did you teach your elephant that trick? Was it to help you steal green corn from the roofs of houses?"

"Not green corn, protector of the poor," said the boy innocently.

"Melons!"

Petersen Sahib, laughing with the rest, told his clerk to accept Kala Nag for the Keddah. But Big Toomai stood by, shaking his head disapprovingly at the antics of his son.

"Shall I become a hunter of yours, Sahib?" Little Toomai asked.

"You might one day," said Petersen Sahib. Now you shall come with me for the great drive and help me catch wild elephants."

And when the caravan started on its long journey, winding over the hills and across the broad plains of India, growing larger and ever larger as more elephants and men joined it on its way, Little Toomai was to be found riding solemnly behind his father upon the back of Kala Nag. And when at last camp was made in preparation for the hunt, and the elephants blessed with the burning of incense and the blood of the sacred wild fowl, Little Toomai was ever there, importantly busy, feeling himself truly a hunter among hunters.

ROY EVETTS THANKS THE VOTERS OF BEAT 2 OF COUNTY

To the people of Beat 2: I take this method of expressing my appreciation and thanks for the votes I received in the Primary Election. To those who did not vote for me, I want to thank you for your consideration, and thank everyone in the beat that I met for their kindness. It seems as tho had it not been for a rainy day, I might have won. I thank each of my opponents for their kindness shown me during the campaign and hope you will consider me your friend. And to the voters and my friends of Beat 2. I want to say I will be a possible candidate for commissioner in 1940.

Sincerely,
Roy Evetts

RAM AND BILLY SALE — ley & Son.

Goats Rams and Greenbacks were changing hand in rapid regularity, but so far, no record of the number of sales made has been released. However, there are going to be a lot of new animal on a lot of Coryell county farms tomorrow.

Total entries, according to the best records obtainable were in round number 347, but others evidently came in after this report was received.

Many breeders brought sheep and goats for sale and re-sale, which were not counted in the above, and it is safe to say there were some 450 or 500 animals at the show. No estimate of the First Monday crowd which attended was made, since most folks came and went as they pleased, but a couple of thousand wouldn't strain the attendance badly in either direction.

The show was promoted by the Chamber of Commerce and the Sheep and Goat Raisers Association in cooperation with the County Agent, Guy Powell.

MANSFIELD TIRES ARE 3 WAYS SAFER

CORD-LOCK SIDEWALL
DURO-MIX TREAD
700% SAFER BEAD

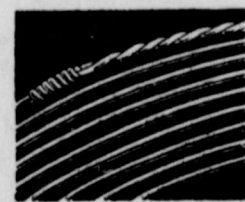

Cord-Lock construction puts more full weight cord in the sidewalls to resist destructive flexing strain.

Wide, deep channeled tread a tougher Duro-mix rubber for greater non-slip mileage.

High tensile steel wire beads — welded into continuous cables — 7 times stronger than usually needed.

● Mansfield Tires are 3 Ways Safer because they are built three ways differently from other tires.

Mansfield Cord-Lock construction puts more tough cord fabric into the sidewall. Their wide, flat treads are made of Duro-mix rubber that wears longer in grinding service. Their high tensile piano wire beads are seven times stronger than actually needed.

Mansfield Tires equip thousands and thousands of cars and trucks in every part of the country today because wise motorists wanted Mansfields and bought Mansfields—they did not get them as equipment tires.

If you, too, want extra safety and extra mileage, let us show you Mansfield Tires to fit your car. You'll quickly see their extra value.
