FRIONA WEATHER

During the past week there has been no precipitation in the form of either rain or snow, and Friday night and Saturday were apparently the coldest hours we have had this season. Thermometers registered all the way from 2 above to five below zero Saturday morning, and it was just plain cold all day.

The early part of Sunday was milder and continued to grow gradually milder until about four o'clock in the afternoon, when another cold so cold as Saturday. Monday was so cold as Saturday. Monday was much milder and Tuesday and Wednesday night were like spring weather, and so it remains at this writing. Wednesday morning the wind is raging like a jungle full of roaring lions and considerable dirt moving.

MRS. FRED CLARK

People of this community were grieved to learn last week of the death of Mrs. Fred Clark, of Lubbud community which occurred last Friday.

Mrs. Clark was for several years a resident of Friona and community and was well known by many of the older citizens here among whom she had a wide circle of friends.

According to reports received here she died at the hospital in Plain, Tex. from an attack of erysipelas. Several people of this place attended the funeral.

Mrs. Clark leaves of her immediate family to mourn her death, her husband, two sons, Lewis and Judd, and two daughters, all four of the children being married.

The Star joins with the other Friona friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

An Oenote Coach

Is there any vehicle still in use more lavishly and variously decorated than the coach of the Lord Mayor of London? When built a century and a half ago its ornamentation was entrusted to an Italian painter. He contrived to introduce Roman trophies, figures of the four quarters of the globe, the Serpent and the Dove, Faith, Hope and Charity, Neptune, Truth with her mirror, Temperance, the City Arms, the Sword and Mace, the Scales of Justice, the Tower, and St. Paul's Cathedral. Unfortunately, as more than one Lord Mayor has complained, the comfort of the great old coach is by no means comparable with its magnificence.—Montreal Herald.

Find Mummified Dogs

The remains of two mummified dogs were found in northeastern Arizona recently, buried beside the bodies of ancient residents of that country. It is said that this civilization flourished between 2500 and 1500 B. C., which would indicate that dogs as pets or companions were known at that time. One of the dogs resembled a yellow-haired collie and the other was black and white, but considerably smaller. They were in a perfect state of preservation.

Husband Seekers Taxed

The shortage of marriageable men at Lunggen, China, has become so acute that young women must pay $5 to the city for permits to seek mates. The levy is called the "young woman's tax." If a woman marries without such a permit she is liable to fine and imprisonment.

E. F. LOKEY FOR COUNTY ATTORNEY

In this issue of the Star will be found the announcement of Hon. E. F. Lokey of Farwell, as a candidate for the office of County Attorney of Parmer county. This announcement was received last week, but a little too late for last week's issue of the Star.

Mr. Lokey has been a resident of Parmer county for many years and has formerly held the office of county attorney, which he is now seeking, and was also elected and re-elected to the office of county judge of the county, and in each of these offices he gave at all times his conscientious and faithful service to the people in the discharge of the duties of these offices, and is withal, a most worthy and public spirited citizen, and any further introduction or recommendation from the the Star will seem superfluous, for there are comparatively few people in the county by whom he is not well and favorably known.

If elected to the office of county attorney Mr. Lokey may be depended upon to continue to give the same faithful and impartial service.

Who will be the ugliest man and the prettiest lady at the P. T. A. party, Monday, February 17. Be there and see.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PARMER COUNTY:

Having decided to make the race for the office of district attorney of the 69th judicial district, I take this means of making my announcement. As some of you do not know me, I will state that I am a native Texan, having been born in This County, Texas, 43 years ago; was reared on a farm; am a graduate of the East Texas Normal College and later attended the University of Texas; was taught school, studied law, and was admitted to the bar in 1928. I am a veteran of the World War, having volunteered in June, 1917, and served throughout the war, the last five months as a commissioned officer. Believing that the suppression of crime is one of the major problems of our country, I pledge myself, if elected, to a vigorous prosecution of crime and the enforcement of the law throughout the district, without fear or favor and without regard to political expediency. I realize that a public office is a public trust, and, if elected, it will ever be my purpose to serve faithfully and always to be true to the trust reposed in me.

Four years ago you elected me to the office of county attorney, and I have endeavored to fulfill the duties of the office fairly and impartially. I deeply appreciate the privilege of being your county attorney, and shall be profoundly grateful for your consideration of my candidacy for the office of district attorney. If you believe I merit your support, I trust you will help me in making this step upward. I ask your consideration of my candidacy, and assure you that I shall sincerely appreciate your vote and influence.

Sincerely,
Perry T. Brown

Historic Gal!

Marion Rodgers, of Dallas, is the great-great-granddaughter of a Texas soldier who died in the famous "lottery of beans" after the battle of Mier in 1842. Of the 176 Texans captured by the Mexicans, 17 drew black beans from an earthen bowl and were shot to death, 159 drew white beans and were sent to a Mexican prison. Miss Rodgers, whose grandfather, Horace Isa Houston, was a first-cousin of Gen. Sam Houston, is a rangerette for the Texas Centennial Exposition opening in Dallas June 6.

Real Indian

The Comanche war ornament and ceremonial shield, displayed by Essie Lee Haynes, are from the collection of Steve Krom, of Dallas. Authentic, made by tribal feather-work experts half a century ago, these and other items of Mr. Krom's collection will be displayed at the Texas Centennial Exposition next summer.

Gun Girl

The gun which Helen Stamps, Texas Exposition Rangerette, holds, is from the collection of A. W. Discher, of Dallas. Eighteen notches on its stock attest to its efficiency in frontier Indian fighting. This, an 1827 Spencer Indian and Buffalo gun, and others from the Discher collection will be displayed during the Exposition which opens in Dallas June 6.

Sam Houston's "Man" Gets a Job

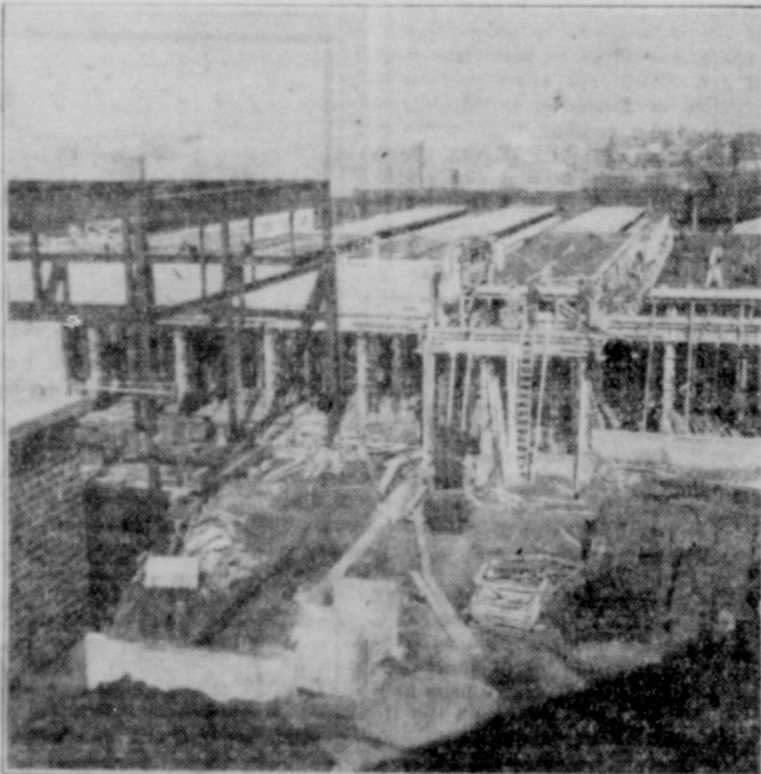

"Uncle Ro" Adams, once body servant to Gen. Sam Houston, will be 100 years old, March 2, 1936, the day Texas, where Gen. Houston ever will be a historic figure, celebrates its one hundredth year of independence from Mexico. "Uncle Ro" is shown above as William A. Webb, manager of the Texas Centennial Exposition, which opens at Dallas June 6, assures him he will have an Exposition job.

Indians Said Devil Lived Here

"The Devil's Tombstone," shown above, is in Palo Duro Canyon, near Canyon City, Texas, 18 miles south of Amarillo. The canyon is one of the beauty spots of Texas that will lure tourists in their 1936 visit to the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas and other celebrations throughout the state. The rock drew its name from an Indian belief that it was the burial marker of an evil spirit.

Exposition Livestock Building Grows

This photograph gives a realistic idea of how rapidly work is progressing on the Texas Centennial Exposition's huge lot in Dallas. All of the frameworks shown above are part of Livestock Building No. 2, one of two structures which will house the greatest stock show the United States has seen. The two buildings, their construction cost close to $400,000, will contain an ultra-modern veterinarian hospital.

Texas Exposition Gathers Speed In Exhibitors' Rush

Building Program Takes Form As 5,000 Workmen Labor 24 Hours a Day

DALLAS, Texas.—Three shifts of workmen—close to 5,000 men working 24 hours a day—are rushing the Texas Centennial Exposition's buildings toward completion by the opening date, June 6.

The Exposition's own $15,000,000 construction program is well under way. The City of Dallas has broken ground on its $3,500,000 program, constituting seven permanent buildings which will form a vast civic cultural center when the Exposition is over. The State of Texas is racing work on the $1,200,000 Hall of State, one of the show pieces of the fair. The Federal Government has its two buildings—the Federal Building and the Hall of Negro Life and Culture—ready to leave the drafting room stage and become realities.

The Midway, probably the greatest the United States has ever seen, is taking a tentative form as entertainment concessionaires fight for choice sites.

Not far from the industrial exhibits—where the latest exhibits of industry and science will be shown—the Exposition two Livestock Buildings are rising.

Here the greatest livestock show the nation ever has seen will be housed.

The buildings alone will cost $400,000, complete with a veterinarians' hospital and every modern device for the care of livestock.

The value of the stock which will be exhibited here between June 6 and Nov. 29 cannot be estimated.

DALLAS, Texas.—Baptists all over the United States will join in a religious celebration of the birthday of General Sam Houston, Sunday, March 1.

Houston's birthday falls on Texas Independence Day, March 2, but services will be held in all Baptist churches the preceding Sunday. In his letter to 2,000 Baptist congregations Rev. Howard Williams, secretary of the Texas Baptist Convention, urges union services in every community where there are two or more Baptist churches.

Special services will be held in First Baptist Church, Washington, D. C., which Houston attended when he was United States senator, at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, whose founder Dr. Rufus G. Burleson baptized General Houston and at Independence, Texas, where he joined the church.

The Texas Centennial Exposition which is cooperating with the Texas Baptist Convention in plans for this religious observance will have a $50,000 Hall of Religion, a spacious and beautiful building for free exhibits by all denominations. In the Baptist section of the structure special stress will be laid on Houston's services to his state and to the Republic of Texas of which he was the first elected president.

One Ton of Prize Horseflesh

The first exhibit to reach the Texas Centennial Exposition lot at Dallas were the six international champion Clydesdale draft horses of Thomas E. Wilson, Chicago packer.
