ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-FOUR GRADUATE FRIDAY NITE

ITINERARY OF GATESVILLE RODEO BOOSTER TRIP

Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 the band and the other added features of the Booster trips will stage a short parade in Gatesville to revive the Rodeo spirit. (Mr. Diserens requests all band members to be at the Athletic Field promptly at 4:00 in full uniform).

Leaving Gatesville May 25 at 8:00, the Boosters will make the following towns that day, staging a small parade in each town, and everyone is invited to go along:

McGregor	9:00
Temple	10:30
Belton	12:00
Killeen	2:00
Copperas Cove	3:00
Lampasas	4:00

May 26, leave Gatesville promptly at 10:00 and a short parade will be made down Austin Avenue at 11:00 at Waco.

May 29, leave Gatesville at 9:00.

Hamilton	10:00
Hico	11:30
Meridian	2:00
Clifton	3:00
Valley Mills	4:00

This is your Rodeo and your town, so go along and let's boost it!

Reminding you of the mammoth parade to be staged in Gatesville June 1 at 11:00, to be the greatest spectacle of frontiersmen, covered wagons, Indians, bands, cowboys, cowgirls, beautiful merchant floats over a mile long will parade the streets of Gatesville. This sight to see is worth your time to drive many miles and one long to be remembered if you see it.

The parade will be formed on South Lutterloh, and all participants are requested to be on time and the parade will start promptly at 11:00.

LOCAL "FERDINAND" IS FEATURED AT OGLESBY

Ferdinand is a 7-months-old, 450 pound bull living near Oglesby.

Unlike Disney's he don't sit under a tree and smell flowers!

Not this baby! Foy Walker, his trainer and owner says he's learned to do about all the tricks.

Foy turns him loose in the pasture, calls his name, and here comes Ferdinand; he rolls a barrel, and even walks on one. He walks on his knees, will kneel and hurdle a man, and lies down and plays dead. He works on the stage or inside the house, as well as outside.

He has already made a roedo at Lampasas, and is some he-cow. No bull!

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stout of Commanche were visitors in Gatesville Sunday.

INTEREST GROWING IN COUNTY LEAGUE: STATE MAY ENTER

According to reports received in this office, the State Training School would enter a club in the County baseball league if the teams would agree to play their games with this club on Saturday, as Sunday baseball is not allowed at that institution. If every manager in the league will agree to play his game with the State on Saturday, it will be a simple matter for the State to enter. But it must be unanimously agreed, for one manager's dissenting would throw the entire schedule off balance.

The "preparatory" schedule is accomplishing its purpose. Interest is increasing in leaps and bounds all over the county, and large crowds have witnessed these practice games. Interest is lagging however, at Moshier, and it is doubtful as to whether they will be able to enter a team during the regular season. Turnersville players are contemplating getting together and entering a team. This would offset the withdrawal of Moshier, if the latter team is forced to disband, and would still leave eight teams in the league.

DAVIDSON KINDERGARTEN BROADCASTS FROM WACO AND TEMPLE

The Davidson Kindergarten was on the air twice last week, from Temple Thursday at 3:45 p. m. and Waco Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the theatre. The Temple program was well rendered and consisted of three rhythm band numbers and songs, and readings by Miller Robinson, Rita Joy Lee, Ray Payne, Roger Miller, Bob Miller, Joan Chambers, and Charles Dickie. Belta Jean Patterson sang "Little Sir Echo" in a most pleasing way, Patsy Ann Painter, little 5 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oad Painter sang in her own way the "Sering Song."

The Waco program was rendered before an audience of 300 children at the Waco theatre. The band gave 4 numbers, and Ann McClellan read "Bill Jones". Joe Payne gave "My Pussy Cat", Bob Moss, Kent Biffle, Roger Miller, and Charles Dickie gave a tap dance. This number created considerable attention as little Jim Turk Brown stepped from his place and joined the tappers, although, watching the tappers closely he missed some steps, but kept to the rhythm.

Kent Biffle, called the veteran of the class by the announcer, sang "Three Little Fishes" and Bob Moss sang "Shorten' Bread", tapping a negro jig for the last chorus. Charles Dickie gave a waltz clog and Bob Miller signed off for the class.

This program was voted third place by the children in the theatre. Other contestants were 7 children from 12 to 17 years of age from Waco.

TURNERSVILLE TO HAVE BIG DAYS ON SCHOOL CLOSING

Turnersville schools which close this week end, are going to have as the principal speaker, Judge R. B. Cross for their Commencement Exercises Friday night.

Saturday there will be a picnic, with music, soft ball, and baseball games, and other forms of entertainment.

MISS MILDRED GANDY TO REPRESENT CITY AT COTTON CARNIVAL

Miss Mildred Gandy, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. C. E. Gandy will be Gatesville's representative at the Cotton Queen's Ball which will be held in the Cotton Palace Coliseum Saturday night of this week, according to Dr. Otis C. Ray, who is in charge of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce which is arranging this feature.

In line with National Cotton Week a parade was held at 5:00 p. m. Monday, and on Wednesday morning at the Waco Theatre, there will be the eliminations in the amateur contest, with the finals being held on Friday night at the same theatre.

Saturday night the culmination of the celebration will be held in the Cotton Palace Coliseum, which, according to Lynn B. Shaw, Secretary of the Waco Junior Chamber of Commerce, has been decorated with some 15,000 yards of cotton material.

For the Saturday night Cotton Queen's Ball, Herman Waldman and his well known orchestra will both please the ears of those who like good music, and the feet of those who love "the dance".

We are informed, advance tickets may be purchased at the local drug stores, and the price is higher at the door.

SCHOOLS CONTINUE TO CLOSE HERE'S THE FINAL

Schools closing this week, are, Turnersville, Osage, Slater, Antelope, Plainview, and Gatesville.

Flat and Purlma last the longest; closing the second of June. From the County Superintendent's office it was said Flat would have no celebration, but would celebrate at the rodeo here, June 1, 2, and 3. No information was given about Purlma.

May 24, Wednesday, the Luthern School, near Copperas Cove closes, and they are to have a celebration. This is one of the 2 church schools in the county, the other being at The Grove.

E. K. FAWCETT IS NAMED W.T.C.C. PREXY

E. K. Fawcett of Del Rio has just been named president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the convention which just closed in Abilene. Perry Brothers, who are now in their new home on the north side of the square drew some 3,000 cash customers, according to Howard Franks, Manager, Saturday, when they had their formal opening.

Mr. Franks stated also that many people visited the store who made no purchases.

The store was decorated with flowers, and plenty of sales people were present to satisfactorily handle the enormous crowd.

PAINTER'S ASK FOR OLD RELICS OF FRONTIER DAYS FOR WINDOW

Painter's will install a display of any antiques or relics that have any connection with the early days of Coryell County, according to C. L. Farrell, who will handle the displays.

They also say, if you have any item you wish to display that deal strictly with rodeo and frontier celebrations, get them to Mr. Farrell, or call him and they will call for them at your home. They request smaller items, because the show window space is limited. Such things as arrow heads, guns, saddles, knives, or any Indian or cowboy relics you might have.

The would like to have them not later than Tuesday May 30.

PRAIRIE CHAPEL NINE DOWNS LOCAL HORNET NINE 3 TO 2

Prairie Chapel edged out a close hard-fought win from the local high school team Friday 3-2, as a feature attraction of the Coryell City School picnic.

The Bosque county boys scored all their tallies in the third frame after two men were out. With two men on and two men down and a Prairie Chapel slugger stepped into one of McBroom's slants and sent it over Red White for a round-tripper.

School boy Rutherford, Hornet outfielder, scored both of the Hornets' runs, one in the fourth and another in the seventh.

McBroom pitched great ball except for that one grooved pitch in the third. Lindell Trammell, pee-wee Hornet first sacker, led the Hornet attack with three bingles in four attempts, while Bruce Bomar garnered two safeties in three jaunts to the plate. Trammell also turned in some sparkling defensive plays.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF SCORE: JONESBORO 6 PIDCOKE 5

Jiggs Drake, venerable Jonesboro infielder, parked one of Shorty Lockhart's pitches against the right field fence, a distance of 375 feet and lumbered all the way to third base scoring Lemmons and Lilledahl, two pinch-hitters, ahead of him to tie of the Eagle-Pidcoke battle at 5-5 in the last half of the ninth round, and the Eagles went on to run across another tally in the tenth stanza to defeat the 'Cokers by one run for the third time in two years.

Fate seems to frown on Pidcoke every time they meet the Eagles, for last year when these two teams were engaged in a hot battle for the league leadership, Drake tripped in the ninth to send two runners across and whipped them, 4-3. Then they were edged out 6-5 later in the season at Jonesboro.

Jonesboro showed that they had the stuff champions are made of by coming from behind to win. This team seems to have an uncanny faculty of pulling games out of the fire. They have a team that plays a hustling, heads-up brand of ball, and a team that does that is seldom beaten.

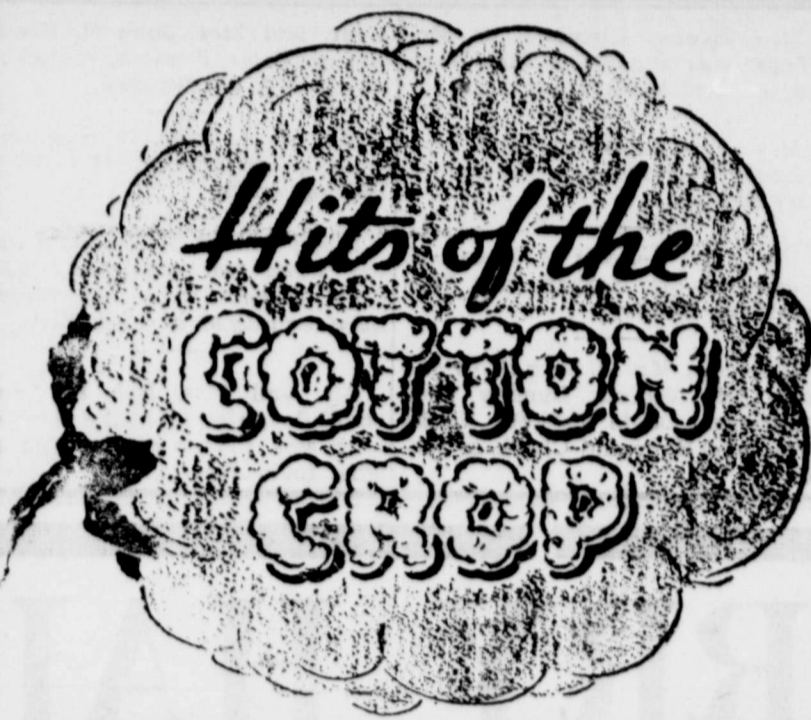

Lanky Bob Weaver went the route for the Eagles, and altho he was hit freely in the early innings, he settled down and pitched some fine baseball during the latter part of the game.

DAVIDSON BROS. & CO.

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN

Austin—Optimistic reports of a prospective early settlement of the controversy over confiscation of American and British oil properties in Mexico, as a result of negotiations between Mexican President Cardenas and Donald Richberg, were discounted here this week by Texas oil men who have been watching the situation carefully, because of its effect upon the Texas oil market.

Private information which Texas oil interests have received from Washington indicates that the foreign oil companies, whose properties involved in the Mexican seizure are valued at $300,000,000 are definitely not interested in the Cardenas-Richberg settlement for-

Maybe your car doesn't squeak

... NOW!

BUT IT WILL, one of these days, if it's not properly lubricated. And the squeak, as the doctors say, is a symptom, not the disease . . . which, in the case of an automobile, is the wear of friction . . . which results in inefficient, frequently unsafe operation of your car and sometimes heavy repair bills . . . An ounce of prevention, you'll agree, is well worth the pound of cure, so it's a good idea to have your car lubricated — properly lubricated, that is—at regular intervals. Your automobile manufacturer agrees with us in that statement, as a look at his instruction book shows . . . You will find the prescription for your possible lubrication ailments in the experience of literally thousands of fellow motorists throughout the state: at the end of every 1,000 miles of driving, on an average, take your car to the nearest Humble Service Station and have it lubricated according to the Humble chart . . . Every Humble Service Station is fully equipped with modern tools to do the work and completely stocked with the necessary lubricants, and station men have been carefully trained . . . Chances are, your car needs Humble charted lubrication now: stop at the nearest Humble sign — today — and get the job done.

mula, which involves restoring the properties to the companies which own them for a period of years, and permitting them to operate their own properties and share the income with the Mexican government, eventually giving the properties over entirely to Mexico. The American companies, it is understood here, are not enthusiastic about the Richberg proposal, but have not yet definitely rejected it.

Mexico is "Broke"

Meanwhile, there is increasing evidence that the trend of events in Mexico may force a return of the oil properties to their American, British and Dutch owners, after the forthcoming presidential election in Mexico. The economic plight of the government is described by fiscal experts as little short of "desperate", with a huge external debt that is many years default, an unbalanced budget, and financial collapse facing many costly governmental "new deal" enterprises, involving communal farm and similar projects.

Governmental revenue in Mexico has declined, since the oil seizures, since the world market to the oil from confiscated wells has been closed to Mexico, except for barter arrangements with Italy, Germany and Japan, who have exchanged manufactured goods for small quantities of oil.

Mining revenue in the Southern Republic faces a serious depression, since the purchase agreement under which the American government has taken large quantities of silver at a "pegged" price, will expire next month, and there are strong indications that the American congress will not renew the purchase agreement, in view of the oil seizure.

Fails to Keep Facts

"The difficulty with working out any settlement except a full restoration of the seized properties to their owners", said one Texas oil operator who has had extensive experience in Mexico, "is the fact that no contract or agreement which Mexico makes is worth the paper it is written on. The latest demonstration of this lack of integrity is the widely heralded settlement of American claims for lands which the Mexicans seized, some as long as ten years ago. Under this agreement, Mexico was to pay $1,000,000 to the American landowners on May 1, and other installments annually. The Mexican government didn't pay a cent, and in spite of the solemn covenant which was made and published, the outlook is that the American land owners will not probably see any payment for their land in another ten years. If the election of a new president results in a different policy in Mexico, the oil properties may be returned to the companies from whom they were taken. Otherwise, it looks to me as though the flood of oil dammed up in Mexico will remain a continued threat to a shaky world oil market, and that keeps the Texas oil situation constantly in a state of "jitters".

ABOUT THE

OUT-LET SALE

To be opened Saturday Morning, May 27th, in the PERRY BROS. OLD STAND East side of Square.

Years of experience in buying has not eliminated our buyers making mistakes in purchases. It is very easy to select the wrong style, the wrong color, the wrong size and some times the wrong quality. All buyers are subject to these mistakes, the buyers of Alvis-Garner Co. and Garner-Alvis Co. are not exceptions to this rule. With our several stores through out central Texas it has been our custom to have the managers go through their respective stocks, taking out every slow moving item, every slightly shelf-worn item, every off style or even slightly off style item, all broken sizes, off colors, excessive purchases, in fact they are instructed to clean stocks. This merchandise is assembled at one central point and prices put on it to move it quickly. The original cost, original selling price or its present value is not taken into consideration, JUST ONE THING is uppermost in the whole concentration and this is to sell, close out this merchandise. PRICES are put on it that will do it quickly.

The concentration point this season is Gatesville, the location is The Old Perry Bros. Stand, east side of the square. I have been placed in charge with instructions to put prices on this merchandise to move it quickly, the time limit is short, and You may depend on me putting selling prices on every item for quick selling. I will mark everything in plain figures, I will place it on counters. You can see for yourselves the great savings, I am sure that not one item will be shown that cannot be used to great advantage at the very low prices they will carry. Dresses may be re-styled, if slightly off style, shoes may be dyed if color is not as wanted, slight changes may be made in lots of things that will be worth while in reducing your budget on your needs. Many items are strictly new but are the results of excessive purchases or lack of out-let. This is a great opportunity to save.

I don't know what all will be in the stock yet. Merchandise has already begun to come in. From what I can gather now I am sure that there will be thousands of pairs of ladies, misses and childrens white and assorted oxfords, straps and ties, Men's white and sport oxfords, men's pants, shirts, Polo shirts, for boys, men and girls, lots of laces, embroidies, piece goods, notions, some silks, straw hats, ladies and men's undies, some six or eight hundred ladies dresses, silks, gingham and prints. Friday's issue of the paper will tell you more about what we are to have in this OUT-LET SALE. You know that to clear the stocks of several stores and concentrate in one place, that there will be lots of merchandise and too you may depend on me putting selling prices on every item for quick action.

Every sale will be final, no exchanges, no approvals, no returns, No refunds. Don't forget the place. Perry Bros old stand on east side square. GATESVILLE, TEXAS, TUESDAY, MAY 23, 1939

Practically every poultry raiser is acquainted with the value of clean ground for raising chicks. Not only should the young chicks be kept in separate yards from the old birds, but the pullets should be kept on clean range until ready for the laying house, as range pullets make better growth and develop stronger bodies. Range pullets require only a simple shelter for protection, a balanced ration, and plenty of clean, fresh drinking water. The grain portion of the ration should consist of corn, wheat and oats. For a complete utilization of the range the feeders and waterers may be moved about the area. A number of pullets should be raised each year as at least 50 per cent of the laying flock should be replaced each year, or with heavy breeds approximately 75 per cent of the laying flock should be pullets. Considerable thought and care should be given to the laying flock which, on most farms in Coryell County, contributes more to the annual income than does the cotton crop.

Have you planned and planted your crop so that you will have sufficient forage crops to fill one or more trench silos? The value of ensilage (the best known substitute for green pasture) for feeding dairy cattle has long been known; however, it is equally as valuable for feeding beef cattle, sheep, workstock, etc. Advantage should be taken of the A. A. A. amendment which permits the using of sweet sorghum planted on the neutral acreage for ensilage. Trench silos may be of any desired size, based on the amount of forage available and the number of stock to be fed. The trench should be located in a well drained area, and, to facilitate filling, should be wide enough to drive a wagon through the bed. The trench may be filled with either cut or uncut forage; some men prefer chopped ensilage as it is easier to remove when feeding. Why not locate the place now for your trench, which may be dug when too wet to work in the fields or at other odd times? A trench silo is available to every farmer, as the digging and filling is inexpensive and simple.

A pecan budding demonstration was given for a group of 4-H Club boys on May 11th under the supervision of Mr. Dabney Sims of the State Department of Agriculture, with Mr. J. F. Rosborough, Extension Horticulturist, cooperating. Pecans are well adapted to various areas of the county and a reasonably good market is always available for high quality pecans; therefore, the improvement of native trees is both timely and appropriate.

CHAPTER NINE SYNOPSIS:
Ruin faces Missouri mule-breeders unless Sweeney Bliss, small town bank director who has gone to London to interest the British Army in mule transportation, succeeds in doing so. Sweeney's wife, Julie, and her sister, Lola, accompany him. Julie is interested in crashing London society for her sister's sake. She decides to throw a huge party as part of her assault on society. But if Azules when her guest of honor turns out to be an ex-vaudeville villain hired by Sweeney. Lola has intrigued the eye of Capt. Brooks-Bowen of the Army staff but complications ensue when Joel, her hometown boy friend, appears on the scene. Joel had been sent by the Missouri farmers to make sure Sweeney had sold the mules.

CHAPTER X
DESPITE the sudden and unexpected success of the party, it was a mightily worried Sweeney who faced the following day. Two thousand mules had to be sold immediately!

Penitent and sympathetic, Julie

"But I only wanted to buy one mule!" Smith explained.

was trying to comfort him when Hearne announced that a gentleman was telephoning from the dock about the mules. Assuming that it was a customs inspector who wanted to discuss the red tape of quarantine. Sweeney refused to answer. Hearne rang off and added to Sweeney. "It wasn't an official matter, sir. It was only a gentleman who wishes to buy mules."

Sweeney's face was a study in concentrated consternation. "He wants to buy 'em?" he demanded. "Get Joel on the phone. He's at the dock. Tell him to keep that man till I get there. Tell him I'll be right over." He dashed out in double-quick time.

A moment after Sweeney had hastily departed, Captain Brooks-Bowen was announced. Julie explained that Sweeney had a buyer for the mules. For once Brooks-Bowen lost his poise. "Sell the mules? Why he mustn't do that," he almost shouted. "Mrs. Bliss, if they're sold before Colonel Marchbanks officially refuses them, I'll be in trouble. Excuse me, but I must see the Colonel immediately." He, too, made a hasty exit.

Sweeney found Joel, clad in dungarees, showing the mules to Mr. Smith, the prospective buyer. Sweeney promptly adopted his best salesman's manner.

"You don't know how lucky you are, Mister Smith," Sweeney declared. "Missouri mules are the smartest mules in the world—"

"You can't tell me anything about mules," Mr. Smith interrupted. "How much are you asking?"

"Well, I'm in no mood to dicker," Sweeney answered. "A hundred dollars a head."

"Oh, come, come. I'll give you fifteen."

"Fifteen dollars!" Sweeney was completely flabbergasted.

"Take it or leave it," Smith snapped.

Meanwhile Captain Brooks-Bowen was speeding to Colonel Marchbanks' office. He arrived to find the Colonel and Porgie Rowe discussing the final details of the deal for Porgie's tractors.

"You've sold me tractors, Mr. Rowe," the Colonel said thoughtfully, "but if I should need mules suddenly—"

"I'll get them for you," Porgie volunteered and extended his hand. "On the word of a gentleman."

Brooks-Bowen entered. "With your permission, sir," he said, saluting. "Mr. Bliss is about to sell his mules."

"That's all right, Captain. I've just closed for tractors with Mr. Rowe."

A subaltern who had been standing by spoke up. "Excuse me, sir, but I overheard you discussing mules. I wondered if you had seen this." He proffered a newspaper. Colonel Marchbanks' face darkened as he read:

"Peshawar, India.—An epizootic of glanders among army mules has halted construction of the new roads in the Northwest Frontier Province."

The Colonel read no further. He turned to Porgie Rowe. "We're going to need mules, Rowe, and you promised to get them. We'll want those two thousand head Bliss has at quarantine. I have your promise, remember. And you heard what Captain Brooks-Bowen just said—Bliss has another buyer who must have heard of this situation in India."

Porgie knew when he was licked. He grinned wryly and attempted an awkward salute. "You shall have them, sir," he said as he dashed out.

As Porgie reached the dock where the mules were quartered he found Sweeney arguing doggedly with Mr.

Smith. Sweeney had succeeded in raising Smith's bid to twenty-five dollars. Porgie rushed in.

"Twenty-five dollars!" he blurted. "Why, that's an outrage." He turned to Bliss. "Sweeney, we're all Americans abroad and I can't let a fellow Yankee down. I'll pay you thirty dollars."

"Thirty-five," Smith said quietly.

"Listen!" Porgie was desperate. "You want to sell your mules and I've got a customer. Forty dollars!"

"Forty-five!" This from Smith.

"Fifty!" Porgie barked.

"Fifty-five. Take it or leave it," Smith countered.

"I'll go sixty, but that's the limit," Porgie declared.

"Sorry. That's as high as I can go," Smith admitted. Behind his hand Joel whispered "Cheepskate." Smith barked. "Who's a cheepskate? I'll bid sixty-five."

"Seventy!" Porgie was thoroughly angry now.

When Colonel Marchbanks and Brooks-Bowen arrived at the dock they were just in time to hear Sweeney accept Porgie Rowe's bid of one hundred and fifty dollars per head for two thousand mules.

"Did you get them all right?" Marchbanks demanded. Porgie mopped his forehead as he handed Sweeney a check for three hundred thousand dollars.

Sweeney looked at Marchbanks and Brooks-Bowen in amazement. "Was Porgie buying these mules for you?" he demanded.

"There was a sudden emergency, Mr. Bliss, and I commissioned Mr. Rowe to buy them," the Colonel explained. "The price is higher than I expected to pay but—"

"Oh that's all right," Sweeney cut in. He turned to Rowe. "Porgie, the deal's off," Sweeney said as he proffered the check.

"But you can't call it off—you accepted the check."

Sweeney addressed Marchbanks. "Porgie offered me a hundred and fifty dollars a mule but I'll let you have 'em at a hundred dollars a head—if you'll promise to buy all your mules from the boys back in Missouri."

"It's a bargain," Marchbanks agreed as he extended his hand. Sweeney turned to Smith. "I'm sorry, brother."

"Better luck next time," Smith said philosophically. "Will you have another shipment coming over soon?"

"Well, now, I'm not sure I can scrape up two thousand right away but I think I could promise you a thousand."

"A thousand?"

"Yeah. Maybe that would do you until I could get some more."

"But I only wanted to buy one mule," Smith explained to the flabbergasted group.

At the rail of the homeward bound ship, Sweeney and Julie indulgently watched Joel and Lola. The youngsters were obviously so much in love. Julie turned to Sweeney. She smiled apologetically. "Sweeney, if you'll forgive me for all my empty-headed capers, I'll never be flighty or silly again ever." Sweeney smiled at her skeptically. "Well, I'm from Missouri," he said.

THE STATION CREEK SETTLEMENT

By FRANK E. SIMMONS

Over to the west of Eagle Springs, and in proximity to that settlement, was Station Creek Settlement. Following the old Military Road as it courses west from Eagle Springs, over a rocky ridge, after about one mile we come to Station Creek, and it was bordering this creek up its course for three or four miles that the early Station Creek Settlement was made; however, Eagle Springs being the nearest trading point, these settlements were always closely associated.

Below where the Military Road crosses the creek the terrain is rugged limestone hills covered with dense cedar brakes. Up stream from this point a beautiful prairie land unfolds to lap over gently rising ridges that limit the valley. Its early settlers viewed Eagle Springs as primarily a Baptist settlement. Station Creek was primarily a Methodist settlement. Station Creek has its source at the town of Oglesby, and flows down a gently sloping valley until it enters the rugged, and picturesque hills that border the Leon Valley. Entering these hills it flows over many rapids, by picturesque bluffs, and wild brambly brush lands. At places the valley is only a few yards wide, presenting canyon like landscapes that are beautiful beyond description.

In the limestone bluffs in the hills bordering the valley are several rock shelters that were occupied by aboriginal people as homes, or as places to bury their dead. One of these small rock shelters was excavated by E. J. Thomasson a few years ago, and later by others, and nineteen human skulls were removed from the soft floor of the shelter. These skulls represented burials by some ancient people that once occupied this land.

Six miles from its source Station Creek pours its current into the Leon River. About a mile above the mouth of the stream, and on the Fred Acree farm, in the Leon bottom, was found a large Indian burial mound. Mr. Acree at once reported the find to Texas University at Austin, and that institution at once sent an expedition to excavate and report on its findings. Seven burials, and hundred of artifacts, were retrieved from this mound where hundreds of years ago savage man had buried their dead. All of this burial was sent, by Mr. Acree, to the University Museum for scientific study by competent anthropologists.

The name Station Creek, comes from the fact that Capt. Geo. B. Erath, while in the frontier service of the Republic of Texas maintained a military station here in the summer of 1839. The creek is also shown on official maps of Coryell County as Halberts Creek, from one Nathan Halbert, who in the exploring days located several tracks of land in this county, and made a settlement on the Leon opposite Neff Park, and opened Halbert's Crossing at that place. The creek is seldom referred to as Halbert's Creek.

White Settlement

In the early 1850's numerous white settlements were made in the prairie section of the small Station Creek Valley. By 1855 there were enough settlers that they began to plan for church services. In that year the first Methodist Church in Coryell County was organized. Here we quote from Frank E. Simmons' History of Coryell County, 1936. "The organization was perfected in the home of Chas. Karnes, the house was built of logs. The congregation having no building the members met alternately in homes of the members until they were able to erect a small building on the hill west of Station Creek, and near the present road. This first Methodist Church had for charter members, Grandfather Robinson and wife; Josh Robinson and wife; Rev. James Collard and wife; Mrs. Lorent Shook; Chas. Karnes and wife; Mrs. Frances Hartgraves; John A. Davenport and wife; and O. F. Davenport and wife. After a few years this church location was moved from the hill west of Station Creek to a small hill just east of the creek, and near where the old Military Road crossed the creek. Many years afterward the congregation moved to a building two miles out on the prairie on the McGregor road. In 1926 the congregation united with the Methodist Church at Oglesby and sold their building to John King, who used it for building a residence.

In 1861 Capt. O. F. Davenport organized a company of volunteers for service in the Confederate Army and gave them preliminary training on Peugh Branch. Upon starting for the war the company assembled at the Station Creek church where Devine Blessing were invoked upon their departure for the war.

Prior to this date many other settlers had built homes near Station Creek. Among them being Pat Morris and Thomas Rucker. In 1867 came the Penningtons; then Juan Lewis and Rev. W. R. Griffin, and many others.

Many of the early settlers of Station Creek are buried in the old Station Creek cemetery. We have here the birth and death years of as many as we could find the dates carved on their gravestones. N. J. Pennington 1835-1904, N. J. Freeman 1811-1874, Dr. E. R. Pat Morris, Mary F. Morris, mother of Robert and Pat Morris, 1800-1876, Mrs. Kate

Green, mother of J. M. and W. R. Green 1854-1938, Jesse Jones 1810-1873, his wife Martha Jones 1826-1858, N. M. Smith 1834-1869, Mrs. Lucy Pennington wife of Ephrim Pennington 1800-1872, Dr. I. D. Donovan, 1824-1891, E. J. Donovan 1832-1906.

In 1871 Capt. O. F. Davenport erected a cotton gin on a small branch that empties into Station Creek on land now owned by Jas. Alexander. This gin had a capacity of six or seven bales a day, and the bales were pressed by horse power.

Gunhouse Masonic Lodge On Station Creek

This lodge is really an outgrowth of a former lodge organized on Cedar Creek, in Bell County in 1869. It was later moved to the location on Gun House Creek, a small tributary of Station Creek, and organized on Sept. 18th, 1873. The original membership was as follows: Capt. J. P. Morris, W. M.; Dr. W. L. Harrison, S. W.; W. A. Henry, J. W.; S. A. Hannah, S. D.; W. B. McLendon, J. B.; Capt. O. F. Davenport, Treas., J. P. Davis, Sec., Visitors, A. J. Rose, D. D. Rosenborough, W. A. Henry.

Upon the organization of the lodge it was found, that to equip with proper regalia, would require, what at that time, would have been a great expense item.

The members agreed that the entire regalia should be hand made, by the members, to eliminate costs, and the following items, now in possession of the McGregor Lodge No. 376, were produced.

Three gravels, hand made, of native wood. Bible given by Rev. Andrew Graves. A number of jewels, hand forged, of sheet brass. Hand forged sword, made by W. A. Henry, of old musket barrel.

Square and Compass, hand forged. The Bible stand, made of heavy pine lumber.

The three stands, had candle sockets in center. The deed for the lodge property, lease contract, to cover a period of forty years, was executed by Capt. O. F. Davenport and wife, Oct. 14th, 1873. Acknowledged Nov. 29th, 1873 by G. A. Strickland, Notary Public. The lodge was moved to Comanche Springs in 1879, and from thence to McGregor in 1882.

This settlement early had the customary "Subscription Schools". Schools were taught in various homes. When the public school laws of Texas were enacted, a Station Creek School district was created, and functioned until it was absorbed by the Oblesby Independent District about 1915 or 1916.

IN THE LOOKING GLASS

Most of the cotton belt at one time or another has looked about for some convenient goat on which to hang the blame for cotton's deplorable condition. Bitterly has blame been piled on the civil war and the war in China, high tariffs, high taxes, the boll weevil, the dictators, Washington and the weather.

Yet during National Cotton Week it may be well for the cotton belt to look into a place it has neglected—it's household mirror. There it will find a very unusual figure, one who is both partially responsible for the present cotton condition, and the only one who has the power to bring about cotton's recovery.

The story of what others have done to cotton is tragic; but the story of what the cotton belt has done to it, and of what it has NOT done FOR it, is both tragic and inexcusable. Those to whom cotton means most have not bothered to be loyal to its use.

National Week offers the opportunity of the year for active and effective support of the agricultural product on which twenty-five million Americans depend for all or part of their income. In sponsoring it the National Cotton Council and other agencies have not asked for sacrifices or inconveniences in behalf of a public cause. Rather have they asked the people of the cotton belt to invest their money in modern merchandise offering full returns in style, smartness and serviceability. They ask the logical maintenance of an American market for one of America's greatest crops—a crop whose products give to every purchaser a little more than his money's worth.

EYE OPENERS--by Bob Crosby

EVEN THOUGH ADJUSTABLE TO INNUMERABLE SPEEDS PRACTICALLY NO FLAME ON THE NEW GAS RANGES TOUCHES THE BURNERS!

THERE IS NO LEAD IN A LEAD PENCIL THE WRITING SUBSTANCE IS GRAPHITE

GENERAL GRANT'S
INITIALS WERE NOT U.S.—HIS NAME WAS HIRAM ULYSSES. THE ERROR WAS MADE WHEN HE ENTERED WEST POINT!

The member of congress who made application for Grant to enter West Point, did not know his first name. He knew Grant was called Ulysses, and that his mother's maiden name was Simpson—so he wrote Ulysses Simpson Grant on the application. The error was never corrected.

Graphite was discovered in Cumberland, England, in 1565, and gradually displaced the old metallic lead used in lead pencils since the times of the Romans and the Aztecs.

Combustion takes place a fraction of an inch above gas range burners and the intense heat is directed fully on the cooking vessel. This is one of the reasons why gas burners, that give an unlimited number of exact heats, last indefinitely. With time and temperature automatically controlled, modern gas ranges are truly a marvel of science.

BIG CAMPUS, HANDCUFFED CASH UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS EDUCATION'S PUZZLER

Austin, Texas—With the dedication of its great observatory marking a major bid for international recognition as a center for research in all the sciences, The University of Texas today stands as the nation's number one educational paradox.

The paradox? It has money it can't use. It has a reputation for possessing fabulous wealth from oil; yet it is able to spend less per student than nearly every state university in the nation.

Today the physical plant in Austin is valued at $27,000,000—a 46-building campus replacing a cluster of wooden "shacks" of less than two decades ago. It was built thru that same oil money (for that's all state law would permit the money to be used for.)

University fathers found themselves with a student enrollment booming at a rate of 1,000 students per year with a depression market in which building materials could be bought cheaply. They built the 46-building campus. And to do it, they will also tell you they had to mortgage the income from their oil lands for almost 10 more years.

Nobody understands about the oil money, either, they complain. The University's "untouchable" permanent fund today stands in the neighborhood of another $27,000,000. That money represents the royalties from oil discovered on University land—but it has to be invested in full and only the interest may be tapped.

So the old "ramshackle" university now stands at an educational crossroads, they will tell you; There is a splendid physical campus grouped about such monuments to education and research as the 27-story Administration Building, the newly-opened Texas Memorial Museum, the newly-organized Texas Industrial and Commercial Research Council, and the second largest astronomical observatory in the world—McDonald.

On the other hand there is a near 11,000 student enrollment jamming the corridors and classrooms to capacity. There is a $27,000,000 fund, untouchable by law with its future interest already tapped for 10 years. There is an outlay to teach each student of less than $200 yearly, less than half that of many institutions of equal size, less than the average expenditure of almost every other state university.

On one side of the cross roads, University fathers will point with pride at: number one ranking in the South as a graduate institution; possession on its faculty of three of the South's five National Academy of Science members; number one library of the South; (565,000 volumes); membership as one of the South's four members of the Association of American Universities; ownership of the world's second largest astronomical observatory.

Their immediate objectives on the other side of the cross roads are: an outstanding Latin-American Institute to take the lead in the educational phase of this country's relations with its southern neighbors; expanded research in both industrial, commercial and medical fields; a larger staff (teaching staff is now one-fourth heavier than the average for all forty two state universities); and means

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

'PLEASE PASS THE CUSTOMERS'

THERE'S one muscle in the human anatomy which was named by a humorist with boarding-house experience. It is called the "boarding-house muscle" because it is the muscle which enables you to extend your arm—and reach.

It took its name, of course, from the dining-tables of boarding-houses, where to reach far was to get more to eat at a table where everybody was so engrossed in his plate he didn't have the time or the inclination to pass anything to anyone else. Reach won.

In business it is reach also that wins. One of the chief values of advertising to the advertiser is that it gives him a reach for customers. Every business must both reach customers and reach for them if it is to exist.

The business man whose reach is longest or most skilled is the man who brings the most customers into his store. And those who reach the best have the best stores and can give the best values.

The chief concern of every business is its customers. Who are they? Where do they live? Why should they trade with me? How can of attracting more distinguished scholars and teachers.

The answer is more money, they maintain. The problem is that of overcoming the nation-wide notion that they already have it.

Oliver Wendell Holmes had a four-word definition for an afternoon tea: "Giggle, gabble, gobble, git."

Charles Roth

I tell them of the advantages of my business? Every business man asks these questions. Every successful business man answers them. In the reach for customers, it isn't a muscle which does the trick. It is advertising.

A man starts a store. Somewhere are men and women who should buy from him. He is sincere in his desire to serve. But unless he does something about it, his store will fail before enough customers find their way to his doors.

He has to reach out for them. He begins to advertise where customers will see—in the newspaper. One reads. He is convinced. He goes to the store. He is well-treated. He buys. He likes what he bought. He returns to buy again.

Gradually, as more advertising appears, more customers come, buy, return to buy again. The reach for customers is building a great business.

But don't you see that the business man is not the only one who has benefited in the process?

Every customer who found there a better place to buy, a place where he could get a little bit better merchandise and a little bit better service at a little bit better price, also benefited.

The customer benefits as much from advertising as the business man, if not more.
