TWO-DAY RAM AND BILLY SALE OPENS HERE TODAY

Chappell Case Opens: No Jury

Monday morning, the case of The State of Texas vs. Arthur (Red) Chappell, charged with murder, opened, with lawyers on both sides trying to outwit the other in selecting the jury. This case has been tried here before, during the July term of court last year at which time, Chappell was tried and given fifteen years.

Before this case opened, however, the John Hearn case was continued on account of the defendant being ill.

Jurors selected at 3 p. m. Monday for the Chappell case were: J. J. Glaze, L. L. Hollingsworth, John R. Baskin, Ivy Edmondson, Wayne Prewitt, F. N. Baize and B. C. Ballard.

The only other case handled since our Friday issue was the case of Roy Manning vs. Louise Manning, divorce, granted.

JURY IS COMPLETED

After writing the first part of this story on the Chappell case, the attorneys got to agreeing better, and the panel was completed with the following names, about 4:30. The other five men chosen for this case are J. C. Bunnell, W. W. Mangum, J. T. Powell, Ollie Hale, and W. W. Carroll.

Court was then adjourned.

Clover Farm Boys Attend State Meet

E. Price Bauman, along with three of his employees, will attend a state-wide meeting of the Clover Farm stores in Fort Worth Tuesday night. This is an educational business meeting, held annually by this great chain of stores, in which problems confronting the different stores and the chain as a whole are discussed.

In order that the employees might attend this meeting the local Clover Farm store will close its doors at four o'clock this afternoon.

M. E. Dist. Union Meets in McGregor

The West Side Waco District Union will meet Tuesday, tonight, in McGregor at the First Methodist Church. All young people of Gatesville are urged to attend.

There will be cars at the Methodist Church here to carry anyone who wishes to go, and will leave about 7:00 or 7:15 o'clock.

Effort to Get Fire Rate Lower, Made

City Secretary Elland Lovejoy and Fire Marshal Pleas A. Walker were in Austin last week end where they appeared before the Insurance Department in an effort to get the fire rate reduced.

At this time, the city is making some changes in the water line, and other water equipment which is designed to give better fire protection, with the idea of lowering the key rate. They appeared and presented their case before the Chief Engineer of this department. They outlined the changes being made, and further plans before the engineer.

Of course, so far, no action has been taken in this matter.

County Board To Meet, Mon. 14th

Monday, the 14th, the Coryell County School Board will again meet to take up matters pertaining to the schools, according to information from County Superintendent W. D. Stockburger's office.

At this meeting, however, the only items taken up at this time will be transportation.

Need Sunshades? New Lites are on!

"Lit to the Gills", that's silk-stocking avenue, better known as Main street, and the Square; it even includes the part of town referred to as "Little Juarez".

Anyway, the ceremonies of turning on the lights Friday night, included a band concert by the Firemen's Band, and Mayor C. E. Gandy made a few remarks relative to the new lighting system, which you, we, and all of us'll have to agree, is a credit and asset to the city.

Inside dope is that the County bought the lights on the court house lawn, the city some more, and the Chamber of Commerce some more, and, unless we're misinformed the city pays the lighting bill for all of the lights.

C. H. DAVIS TO ATTEND RURAL MAIL CARRIERS' ASS'N CONVENTION

It was learned just before press time that C. H. Davis of the local postoffice will leave one day this week for Portland, Oregon to attend the National Rural Mail Carrier's Association convention.

It was not learned the exact dates of the convention but Mr. Davis is the only representative to go from this district.

MECCA CAFE IS UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT THIS WEEK

According to information received yesterday the Mecca Cafe, located on the south side of the square, is under new management.

Formerly owned jointly by Carl McClendon and Ted Liljedahl, Mr. McClendon has bought Mrs. Liljedahl's share and is operating it under sole ownership.

The Mecca is a popular eating place and Mr. McClendon promises the same prompt and good service that has been rendered to its customers in the past.

"Treaty", "Auction", Sales

It's a big day for Coryell County Stock raisers—these two days, August 8 and 9, at which time the Fourth Annual Ram and Billy Sale will be held at the Brown Gin Shed and a large tent at the rear of the shed.

At noon, Monday, "big names" in the Ram and Billy business had already begun to arrive, and it'll be a "bleating and baaing" town by the time you read this.

Features of the show will include an auction sale the first day of the show, at 2 p. m., which will be preceded by the "show" at 10 o'clock. Various types will be shown and auctioned as has already been outlined in Friday's issue of the News.

On the second day, there will be a private treaty sale of animals offered, and this is an opportune time for breeders of this section to get stock that will increase the value of their present flocks.

For the auction of the first day, Colonel Walter Britten, who we believe is auctioneer for the State Fair at Dallas, will be the auctioneer.

Members of the staff of A. and M. of course, will be here as well as many other notables.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

SOMETIMES I wonder why kids hate to go to Sunday School. Or maybe they don't hate it. I've always heard they did, anyway. Looks like Sunday School ought to be a right interesting kind of amusement of a helpful sort, for the kids. But they tell me kids have to be fought to keep 'em going every Sunday. Maybe that ain't so with all Sunday Schools, but only where they don't give away candy or anything like that.

Anyhow, there was a kid that moved into a new neighborhood, and he was just at the age where he wanted to show folks that he didn't much approve of the way things was being done. He surely didn't want to go to Sunday School, but his folks made him go.

Very first day, the teacher asked him, "Herbert, who created all these trees and flowers and all this grass that we see when we look out this big window?"

"I dunno," says the kid. I just moved here this week."

300 New Laws To Obey in Texas

Nearly 300 state laws will go into effect September 19, most of them local or of local application, raising local salaries, changing game laws, or authorizing expense accounts for county officials.

The law to abolish land vacancy racketeering and creating a state land board; a measure to donate one-half state taxes to counties for five years, a law imposing stringent penalties for giving worthless checks, a law granting preference to war veterans for state employment, the Harris county tax donation for flood control, are among principal 90-day acts effective September 19.

The state will return to a system in effect 200 years ago which brought many of the early colonial settlers to America, when it, after Sept. 19 has re-legalized the apprenticing of youths for training in vocation or trades.

Another licensing board will come into being at the same time, when real estate dealers will be required to have state licenses.

The law creating the new department of public welfare is now in effect, though it provides the department shall be organized and shall function from September 1.

Principal 90-day bills going into effect in September are:

- Citrus fruit quarantine regulations—H. 526.
- Licensing commission merchants and contract dealers of farm products—H. 950.
- Bad check law—H. 190
- Cities may issue revenue bonds to buy utilities—H. 580.
- Two laws relating to bonds of housing authorities—H. 832; H. 834.
- Exempt cleaning-shop boilers from inspection law—H. 419.
- General tax donation—S. 224.
- No officer removable for acts before election—H. 493.
- Unlawful to fish from bridge—H. 518.

Parks and roads in lower Colorado river district—S. 347.

Examining insurance companies—H. 626.

Voluntary apprenticeships legalized—S. 171.

Preference to war veterans in state jobs—S. 190.

Land vacancy law—H. 9.

License real estate dealers—H. 17.

Counties and cities may employ-case workers—H. 886.

Ten-dollar legal fee in social security cases—H. 132.

Multiple lists of textbooks—S. 285.

Exempt headquarters building of P. T. A. from state and county taxes—H. 466.

Substitute ROTC credits for government in colleges—H. 617.

Amend compulsory education law—H. 652.

Revise state board of embalming—S. 276.

Harris county flood control tax remission—S. 6.

Venue in state delinquent tax suits in Travis county—S. 400.

Discounts for advance payment of state ad valorem taxes, with permission for cities and counties to adopt—S. 402.

Revising inheritance tax law—H. 990

Amending optometry law—H. 410.

Penalty for "forging or reproducing" archaeological objects—H. 443.

Hotel liens, amending law—H.

Gal'stn Ordinance Gets Court Test

Test of a Galveston ordinance which levies fees on out-of-city bakeries was set for Aug. 12 after Federal Judge James V. Allred granted a temporary restraining order.

Passed by the Galveston city council July 20, the ordinance requires out-of-town bakeries doing business in Galveston to pay an inspection fee and a mileage fee.

The National Biscuit company of Houston challenged constitutionality of the ordinance and asked it be declared void.

Truck Crushes Hamilton Bridge

A wood and steel bridge spanning Pecan Creek and located on block from the Hamilton public square collapsed last week as a heavily-loaded truck attempted to cross it.

The truck overturned in the creek bed, but the two occupants, Orville Young and Dalton Cathey, escaped with a mere shaking up. Two children on the bridge footwalk at the time of the collapse were scratched.

Keep the Mower Busy

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Editor
Breeder-Feeder Association

Late summer weeds—gum weed, Sunflower, ragweed, broomweed, croton weed, and various other tribes of worthless plants which shade the grass and rob it of needed moisture—are now in the prime of blooming and seeding over a large part of the Southwest. Look down under this rank growth and we find grass struggling to survive, when if it had the ground to itself it would furnish several times as much grazing for the rest of the summer, and would be thickening up for next year's growth.

Just as weeds come into full flower is the best time to mow the pasture, but since there may be several species, which do not all mature at the same time, the practical thing to do is to mow whenever time can be spared for it rather than not mow at all, even if some weeds are not far enough advanced and others have already made seed. There is still time for the grass to derive a great deal of benefit this fall from the destruction of its weed competitors at this season of the year.

I wish every farm operator in the Southwest could see the results of pasture mowing, as it is practiced by their fellow-farmers under all conditions. It is not as easy to count the returns from a good pasture as from a cotton patch, but thousands who have had a few years experience know by their general economic improvement that good pastures pay, without keeping "books" on it.

The weed crop is not tolerated in the cotton field, and we spend hours and days of sweaty labor plowing and hoeing to give the cotton all the soil fertility and available moisture. A farmer who permits the weeds to "take" his cotton is looked upon as shiftless, and gets little sympathy from his neighbors for his low cotton yields. But grass is also a "crop" and a paying crop with the help of livestock. What kind of cross-eyed reasoning, or lack of reasoning is it, that allows the weeds to rob the pastures while fighting them to the last ditch in the fields?

As a matter of fact the same amount of labor and time devoted to improving the pastures and the care of the livestock to graze them is paying many farmers more than time in the fields. A mower will kill a million weeds while a hoe is killing hundreds, and a man and team can cover several acres with a mower in the time necessary to hoe an acre of row crops. If we Southerners were as lazy as some of our northern critics think us, we would be using more mowers and fewer hoes.

It takes a good mower in good condition to cut hay, especially of the finer grasses. A good hay mower is desirable of course, for any kind of mowing job, but that old machine with broken guards and a dull sickle will do to cut weeds with, if a better one is not available. A good many farmers are buying second-hand mowers to use in pasture work, and I have not yet seen one who kept his mower busy from one to three times a year on his pastures who doesn't think it a good investment.

There is hardly a community in which one or more farmers are not demonstrating the value of mowing as a means of increasing pasture profits. If it isn't being done on the farms, the same sort of demonstration may be seen on the rights of way, where the highway departments mow the roadsides once or twice in the season. There are miles of highway in the Southwest which have better grass than the pastures across the fence for no other reason than the occasional mowing which gives the grass a chance to do its best. What the highway authorities can do as a means of encouraging grass in order to check erosion, land owners can also do, for that purpose and for increased forage.

PIDCOKE EDGES OUT WHITE HALL 9; GATESVILLE FORFEITS

Pidcoke's Cokers remained with in a half game of the Blackfoot nine in the county league standing as they barely eked out a 6-5 win over a fighting White Hall club. The jolting power of the Cokers' bats was too much for the stout-hearted hurling of little Bailey McAlister, two runs in the last of the ninth, one coming as a result of a wild throw, proved his undoing.

Eric Wiegand hurled for the winners, and pitched great ball during the early rounds, but weakened in the 6th and was in trouble from there on.

The Cokers started early, Cecil Newton, shortstop and lead off man, poled out a long triple to left Lockhart followed with a single and the first run of the ball game came across the plate. McAlister then settled down and retired the next three men in order.

The score remained 1-0 until the sixth, when the White Hallers laid down a bingle barrage to score three tallies. Crawford walked, stole second, and then advanced to third on a fielder's choice, but the man as first was safe, thereby placing two White Hall boys on the basepaths. McAlister then caught hold of one of Wiegand's fast balls, and sent it screaming into the far reaches of the outfield for a triple, and giving White Hall the lead, 2-1. McAlister scored a moment later on an infield grounder, thus giving White Hall a two-run lead.

Pidcoke came back in their half of the sixth to score three runs and push back into the lead, 4-3. The game rocked along this way until the first of the ninth, when the White Hall lads garnered two runs on three hits and a walk to again take the lead.

They were not capable of holding, however, although they fought with all the fieriness that deep-burning desire to win can generate. The veteran Cokers coolly slapped out three hits to win the game, 6 to 5.

It was a heart breaker for the White Hall boys to lose.

In the other games, Blackfoot won on forfeit from Gatesville, Pearl won on forfeit from Topsey, Jonesboro won on a forfeit from Moshem, and no report was received on the Mound-Turnersville game.

SPORT SCROLL

By POST

The annual fall grid campaign, an event enthusiastically welcomed by all sports lovers, is just around the corner. Schedule releases are appearing frequently in the larger dailies, and the noted sports columnists are beginning to discuss the chances of this or that team.

The grind will start for the local Hornets September 1. Head Mentor Worley will have five veterans returning, one lineman and four backs, which means that the Hornet eleven will be forced to rely upon another green-as-grass forward wall.

A team with an inexperienced line is unpredictable. They may come through in the finest style or they may flop miserably. They will receive their supreme test September 29, when the Hornets open their season with the always tough Methodist Home Badgers, who claim that they will have one of the best clubs in their history this fall. This bids woe for the Hornets, for the local club has always had trouble with the Orphans.

After this tough assignment, one will be able to tell the true caliber of the 1939 edition of the Hornets. The locals have the hardest schedule that ever faced an eleven sporting the Black and Gold. They tangle with seven conference teams while in their two non-conference teams they meet the Orphans and the Hamilton Bulldogs, both of whom have dealt the Hornets misery down through the years.

It is due to be an interesting season, what with the Hornets being a question mark club. In the four years that Worley has been here, his clubs have always won more than they lost, and for the last two campaigns he has had his club up in the thick of the fight for the district title. If he can keep that record intact this year he can rightfully claim the honor of being one of the leading mentors in the Hornets' golden gridiron annals. He was voted No. 1 coach in this district by the officials last year.

Six-man football is due to have a big year in this county, with six of the smaller schools of this county sending teams into action. Pearl, last year's champions, will feel the loss of Jack Petty and other veterans who graduated, while Copperas Cove, a school that has been playing football for four years, is due to be the toughest in the league.

Those battling Grand Prizers of Houston pulled the biggest upset of the year as they whipped the hot South Texas Investment team twice Sunday to walk off with the Semi-Pro championship, and win the right to represent this state in the nation semi-pro meet at Wichita, Kansas.

They whipped Rudy Woods, supposedly invincible hurler, Williford's screaming double which bounded off the right center wall with the bases loaded in the 8th being the payoff 1 thousand dollar blow, a blow which sent the high hopes of the South Texas Investment club tumbling down and established the Grand Prize Red-shirts as one of the fightingest teams ever to perform in Katy Park.

Bobby Moers, fiery Texas University athlete; Tom Angley, squat catcher who slammed out two good hits in the clutch; Melvin Duetsch, who turned the Investors back scoreless for eight innings; and Jimmy Delmar, who pulled some great strategy, were the shining heroes of the wins yesterday, which climaxed a long uphill pull of the part of the 10c Beer boys.

The numerous forfeits taking place in the county baseball league are evoking caustic comments from the critics of this section. Gatesville, Topsey, and Moshem are the chief offenders. Moshem and Topsey seemingly have given up all hope of finishing in the first division, and therefore have just quit filling their schedule, which is a bad thing for baseball in this count. The Gatesville team just fell apart, and lost interest, which hurt baseball in Gatesville.

On the other hand, however, White Hall and Jonesboro have raised themselves greatly in the estimation of baseball fans of the county by not only playing their games after they have lost all mathematical chance of finishing in the first division, but also by their hustling all the way during their contests, although a win would not advance them.

These two teams have shown the spirit that every team should have, and their entry into the county league will always be welcomed.

Big Week in City Softball

This is due to be a big week in the city softball week, as the schedule will close Thursday night. The two leaders, Coca-Cola and Arnold play three games apiece, the Bottlers tangle with Red and White, Arnolds and Firemen, while the Electricians meet Highway, the Bottlers, and then close the season with the Firemen.

At present these two clubs, one a veteran club with power and the other a young club that win games on speed and hustle, are tide for the top rung in the league ladder. The games this week will be decisive, with the league championship at stake.

Plans for a big tournament here next week are well under way, with Doc Ray directing the proceedings. Doc says that an attempt will be made to obtain sixteen teams to compete in the tourney,

CITY CHAMPIONSHIP GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS: NEWS OFFERS CUP IN CONTEST

OTHER PRIZES OFFERED BY CLUB: CONSOLATION AND MEDALIST

Play will start immediately in the City Championship Golf Tournament, which will be the play-off for City Championship, with the News-City Championship Cup being awarded to the winner. Qualifying rounds will be 18 holes and the cards are to be turned in to H. K. Jackson or C. C. Sadler by Saturday night, August 19th.

Match play in the two flights will start August 29 and will be completed by September 3, the contests to run 18 holes.

Entrance fees for the tournament will be paid when the cards are turned in, and the fee is 50c which will supply the prizes other than the News Championship Cup.

The other prizes to be awarded are: Runner up, 3 golf balls; Winner, First flight consolation, 3 golf balls; Medalist, 3 golf balls; and finally, Most Birdies, 3 golf balls.

Second flight winner, 6 golf, 2nd flight runner up, 3 golf balls, 2nd flight consolation, 3 golf balls.

The News cup will have the winner's name engraved on it, and should it be won 3 years, it will become the permanent property of the winner. Like the other two cups awarded by the News in County Baseball and Soft Ball, the cup will be retained in the News window, so that all may see it.

According to C. C. Sadler, official of the club, strict rules must be observed as printed on the score cards. After ball passes the white line back of the greens, it must be played as "in the rough".

Standard caddy fees have also been announced as 20c for 9 holes and 35c for 18 holes.

The News is glad to have this additional privilege in the creation of interest in sports, and the entire club membership is expected to participate in the contests.

Texas scientists have developed a new strain of wheat they think will be resistant to leaf and stem rust when grown in the Gulf Coast region. The grain never has been grown commercially in that region because of the plant disease.

SAVING BY ADVERTISING

Those consumers who think they pay more for advertised commodities and services, since obviously the advertising expense must be added to the production cost, are dabbling in shallow economics. The truth is that advertising adds only a slight fraction to the cost of a product and that, in nearly all cases, this addition is much more offset by lower costs of production from the mass output that advertising makes possible.

Speaking at a luncheon of the Dallas Advertising League the other day, Prof Robert S. See of Centenary College cited numerous instances in which the net effect of advertising was to reduce cost to the consumer. Advertising has been one of the main features in bringing down the price of the automobile from $1500 to $600 in the last twenty years and in cutting the price of a camera in half in the same period. It has more than doubled the consumption of oranges in the United States.

These are not isolated or exceptional instances. Surveys covering a large number of products show that over a long period the advertised merchandise has been lower in price. People buy advertised products not only because the advertising makes them more alluring or otherwise desirable, but also because they know that, in the long run, it does not pay to advertise inferior goods. Sticking to advertised products is merely playing safe.— The Dallas Morning News.

We tried this very same idea, right here in Gatesville, paying a higher price for "unadvertised" product, and getting less service than we did out of three other similar items that were "advertised" products, which cost us less money. Try it—it'll work for you, too.

Kiger-O'Leary Rites Performed in Waco

In a ceremony performed by Rev. W. W. Melton, pastor of Seventh and James Baptist Church Miss Katherine O'Leary became the bride of Jack Esteen Kiger of Lubbock, Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. L. O'Leary, in Waco. Mr. Kiger is the son of Mrs. R. E. Kiger of Gatesville.

The bride wore a wine-colored costume suit with gray squirrel trim and black accessories. Her corsage was gardenias. For the traditional "something old", she carried a handkerchief that her mother, Mrs. O'Leary, and her grandmother, Mrs. Virginia Vannoy, carried when they were married.

Miss Esther Childs was the bride's only attendant, and Oscar O'Leary, the bride's brother, attended Mr. Kiger as best man.

Mrs. Kiger is a graduate of Waco High School and a Waco business college, while Mr. Kiger graduated from Gatesville High School and the same business college.

The couple left immediately following the wedding for Lubbock, where they will make their home.

Open House at Ward Home Honors Wacoans

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Adam of Waco, who were married last week in Mobile, Alabama, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ward entertained with an informal open house at their home on east Main street Thursday evening. Mr. Adam is Mrs. Ward's brother.

The back lawn of the home was the scene of the affair. During the evening punch and cookie were passed; Misses Marguerite Kelso and Gene Stinnett presided at the punch bowl.

About 30 guests attended.

SCS Club Entertained At Stewart Home

Vases of various summer flowers adorned the home of Mrs. Emmett Stewart on Bridge street when she was hostess to members and guests of the Soil Conservation Bridge Club Friday afternoon.

Winning high score was Mrs. Paul Hardy. After the presentation of the award, the hostess passed a delectable salad plate.

Attending were: Mesdames Malcolm Slay, Elmo White, D. D. McCoy, T. G. Wray, J. C. Porter, Richard Dickie, and Ray Scruggs.

Friendship

Mrs. S. L. Powell, Corp.

Paul V. McNutt Telling Hoosier Crowd "We Must Practice Peace"

INDIANAPOLIS. — A strong plea for peace was made by Paul V. McNutt, United States High Commissioner to the Philippines and former Governor of Indiana in response to a non-partisan homecoming reception participated in by persons from all parts of the Hoosier state.

Addressing the thousands who turned out to welcome "Paul," as most of them address him, he declared, speaking of peace in the Pacific.

He declared in connection with his plea for peace—as he has often done before—for a complete re-examination of the Philippines problem in the light of conditions sure to arise when they attain their independence on July 4, 1946, as provided in the Tydings-McDuffie Act.

"I venture to predict that so long as our flag flies over the Islands no foreign power will trespass, irrespective of the military forces stationed there. So long as our flag flies there, the Philippines will be the cornerstone of peaceful reconstruction in the Far East.

STATE SOIL CONSERVATION BOARD OF TEXAS

NOTICE OF HEARING UPON ORGANIZATION OF PROPOSED LOWER LEON RIVER SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT, EMBRACING LAND LYING IN CORYELL, BOSQUE, AND McLENNAN COUNTIES, TEXAS.

WHEREAS, on the 20 day of July, 1939, there was duly filed in the office of the State Conservation Board, at Temple, Texas, a petition signed by fifty or a majority of land owners pursuant to the provisions of the State Soil Conservation Law, as enacted by the 46th Legislature, known as House Bill No. 20, requesting the establishment of Lower Leon River Soil Conservation District; and

WHEREAS, the lands described by said petition, and other lands which will be considered for inclusion in said district, are located in Coryell, Bosque and McLennan and Adjacent Counties, described substantially as follows: Lower Leon River.

NOW, THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held pursuant to the said petition, on the question of the desirability and necessity, in the interest of the public health, safety, and welfare of the creation of such district; and on the question of the appropriate boundaries to be assigned to such district; upon the propriety of the petition, and of all other proceedings taken under the said Act; and upon all questions relevant to such inquiries. The said public hearing will be held by the State Soil Conservation Board, on the 23 day of August, 1939, beginning at 3 o'clock p. m., at Gatesville in the county of Coryell.

All persons, firms and corporations who shall hold title to any lands lying within the limits of the above described territory as owners, and all other interested parties, are invited to attend and will be given opportunity to be heard at the time(s) and place(s) hereinbefore specified.

STATE SOIL CONSERVATION BOARD,

Greed Ruins Stars, Writes Fidler

THE sole reason for the quick demise of most Hollywood stars is their own greed.

The heartlessness of producers and the fickleness of the fan public with which cinematic sob-sisters drench their typewriters is all very emotional and dramatic, but according to Jimmie Fidler, famous screen commentator, the touching picture isn't at all true.

Jimmie Fidler

"Stars simply demand bigger salaries than the traffic can bear, and producers are forced to replace them with cheaper help." Fidler reveals in the February Pictorial Review. "I believe the average star's salary ultimatums are prompted more by greed for prestige than by greed for money itself. A huge salary is the one positive proof of professional standing. It is unfortunate that movie stars fail to realize that it is also the first indication of Career's End."

Loretta Young, who has the most photographic face in Hollywood.

The well-known columnist points out that the irony of it all is that the cash difference, when federal income tax is deducted, between the salary that would keep a great star on the payroll and the salary demands that will eventually mean becoming one of Hollywood's living ghosts, is ridiculously small.

The well-known commentator slips behind sets on location in his Pictorial article and comes forth with other choice bits of "idol" chatter from the cinema capital. He believes with Cecil B. DeMille that no woman with perfect features can also have personality. Taken one by one, he says, Loretta Young's features are certainly not beautiful; but the composite is. Cameramen say that she has the most perfect photographic face in Hollywood. Every critic who picks the "ten most beautiful stars" always ranks her high on his list and men are her abject slaves.

Incidentally, Loretta Young believes in greeting all of her friends with a kiss—and she has very few enemies.

A TOOTH FOR AN EYE
 By MARJORIE CARLETON
 (From August Cosmopolitan)

LETTY was a poor relation. The fact that she had beautiful dreamy eyes and a blond mane and a really lovely figure didn't help her much, because, in addition to being the glamorous Nathalie's impecunious cousin, he was so nearsighted that she couldn't see her hand before her face without her spectacles, and you know about glasses and men who make passes. Nathalie was a spoiled brat who wasn't satisfied to be engaged to Carter Gates, but had to try to garner every new man that hove into view. That made it hard on Letty.

Nathalie wasn't above taunting Letty with the glasses situation and she wasn't above dragging Letty into questionable night spots for chaperonage, against Letty's will. Throughout this refined misery, Letty remained sweet and forgiving and unselfish, always willing to look out for the underdog - like that time at Ligretti's Inn when she rescued a poor little salesgirl from the frightening-looking men she was with and saw her safely home. Yes, Letty was docile until Carter Gates' friend Jim Abbott came to visit the town. When Letty realized that Nathalie was up to her old tricks, she did a desperate thing. She left off her spectacles for the Junior Circle dance. It turned out that Letty was a great beauty without her glasses and that didn't suit Nathalie a bit.

Then Nathalie's father took a hand. He made Nathalie wear a pair of glasses for a week, just to find out how it felt.

Nathalie was furious but she had to do it. It made her rebellious and that was why she insisted on going to Ligretti's Inn where no one would recognize her. Nathalie found herself face to face with one of the ugly customers, from whom Letty had rescued the salesgirl, and she realized they mistook her for Letty.

She was right and a horrible thing happened. The thug slapped her. That was how Nathalie lost her front tooth and a lot of her silly ideas along with it. Carter decided he'd better hurry and marry her before she became permanently disfigured, because he had a way of keeping her in bounds.

Besides, Jim Abbott had just announced that he was going to marry Letty.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
 Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over. Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for indigestion.

Mrs. Jennie Wolf Writes of N. Y. Trip

Mrs. Jennie Wolf accompanying Mrs. Frank Young and Mrs. B. A. Young have just returned from the New York World's Fair and a sixteen day vacation.

Enroute, in Arkansas, they visited Hot Springs, Little Rock, the site of the state capitol. Then in Tennessee, they toured the tobacco country, and in Virginia, the Blue Ridge Mountains across the famous Sky-Line Drive. Other points of interest here included the home of Robert E. Lee, The Arlington Cemetery, the tomb of William Jennings Bryan, and the church where Woodrow Wilson and Admiral Dewey are buried. Also, the homes and tombs of Andrew Jackson and George Washington.

In Washington, D. C. the national capitol, they visited the Senate and saw Vice-President John Nance Garner, visited the House of Representatives, The Pan-American Union, The White House and the National Capitol.

Points in Maryland visited were Chesapeake Bay; Delaware, is was Delaware Bay; in New Jersey, on the Atlantic, they visited Atlantic City. From Jersey City, they drove across the highland drive, down thru the Lincoln Tunnel into New York City.

At the World's Fair, they visited the World of Tomorrow, The City of Lights, the Firestone Exhibit, Strange as it Seems, Sliver Streak, Wild Western Rodeo, Lucky Strike Exhibit, Wonder Bread, Central Electric Light Co. The Lagoon of Nations, General Motors, Moster of Arts, Hall of Communications, Bell Telephone Co., R. C. A., Science and Education, The Hall of Nations, and other sights.

In New York City, they visited the Empire State Building, saw the Little Church Around the Corner, The Statue of Liberty, Yankee Stadium, S. S. Normandie, China Town, Aquarium and Battery Park, drove down Broadway, and took rides on the "el" and the "sub".

Enroute home they went via Niagara Falls, crossing into Canada. Back in the U. S. they crossed the Port Jervis Bridge from Pennsylvania into Ohio, and drove down the south side of Lake Erie, and down to the birthplace of James Whitcomb Riley, then, to East St. Louis, and St. Louis, on and down thru the Ozark Mountains, and then, thru a tip of Kansas, Oklahoma and into Texas and HOME.

Of course in this brief story of the trip, many points and places of interest were visited and seen. The entire trip included 14 states and Canada.

Menus

To give that note of cool piquancy necessary to a summer meal the clever cook will often serve frozen salads.

FROZEN SALAD

- 1 pint whipping cream
- ½ pint jar mayonnaise
- 1 cake cream cheese
- 1 large can fruit salad.

Drain and cut fruit in small pieces. Cream cheese and mayonnaise together, add cream (whipped), fruit, and freeze in refrigerator trays. Cut in squares and serve with mayonnaise on lettuce beds.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

- ½ pint mayonnaise
- ½ pint whipping cream
- 3 peaches
- ½ cup grapes
- ½ cup cherries
- 1 spiced pear

Whip cream, add cut-up fruit and mix in mayonnaise. Put in melon mold and pack in ice and lots of salt for three hours.

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD

- 1 lb sharp cheese
- ¼ lb pecan meats

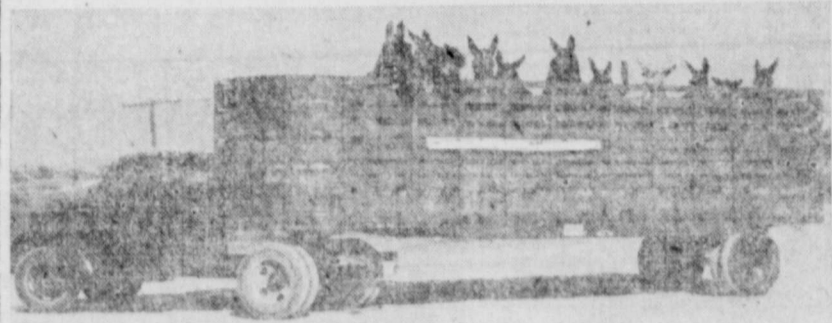

- 1 can pimentos
 - 1 cup chopped cucumber pickles
 - 2 cups whipping cream
 - Salt and pepper to taste
 - Crisp lettuce leaves
 - Mayonnaise
 - Salted wafers
- Put cheese and nuts through meat chopper, add pimentos cut in small strips, pickles and seasoning and fold in the whipped cream. Put in round molds and pack in salt and ice for three hours. Slice into rounds, place on lettuce leaves. Top with mayonnaise and serve with wafer. May also be frozen in electrical ice box.

Special State Permit Needed

Special state licenses will be required after September 1 of every dealer selling gasoline on which state tax refunds may be claimed.
Comptroller George H. Sheppard announced.

The gasoline tax-refund law was changed by the recent session to stop loopholes for tax evasion, such as now is being investigated by a house committee. Refunds have grown to nearly $7,000,000 a year.

After September 1, a record will trace tax refunds both to the dealer who sells the gasoline and the buyer who claims the refund, as a basis of checking legitimacy of the refund claim.

The comptroller is prohibited from issuing warrants on gasoline not purchased from a licensed dealer, Mr. Sheppard pointed out. Failure to secure the license will subject the dealer who attempts to provide for refunds, to criminal prosecution.

License and invoices of exemption will be furnished by the controller to all dealers free of charge.
Exemption invoices will be serially numbered, and a complete and accurate account, both of all gasoline sold, is required to be kept.

Blank exemption invoices cannot be transferred except on authorization of the comptroller. A dealer cannot lend or give away the invoices. The exemption in-voices must be issued when the tax-exempt fuel actually is delivered, not at the time of the sale.

Object of the exemption was to permit farmers to use gasoline in tractors and farmers and others to use it in equipment other than motor vehicles used on highways.

Nearly half of the accidents in Texas during the five-month survey occurred on Saturday and Sunday. Less than 34 per cent of the traffic moved on those days.

DEATH CLAIMS ROBERT EARL NOLTE FRIDAY MORNING

Robert Earl Nolte, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Nolte of this city, passed away Friday morning at 2:30 in a Waco hospital after a short illness.

The previous Sunday Robert Earl was in Waco with his parents visiting relatives when he fell from a limb of a tree, where he and other children were playing, and broke his arm in two places.
His arm was set by Waco physicians, and he remained in that city with his uncle so that he could be in their care the past week. Thursday morning infection set in, and he died Friday morning.

Robert Earl joined the First Baptist Church in this city about one year ago, and became a faithful member. He was a "Cub" Scout for several years, and recently became a regular Boy Scout. He was a cheerful type of boy, and his friends admired him for this and his many other excellent characteristics.

Surviving besides his parents are his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.
J. F. Nolte and Mr. and Mrs. J.
H. De Fur; several aunts, uncles, cousins; and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. C. M. Spalding conducting.
Interment was made in the City Cemetery.

Out-of-town people who attended the last rites were: Mr. and Mrs. Newman Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Graf, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Graf and family, Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Graf and son, Sam
Gardner, all of Waco; A. C. Bates Jr., of Belton; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Burnes and family, Miss Lula Bell Nolte, and Carl Payne, all of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Flight From Vienna

By PAUL GALICO
(From August Cosmopolitan)

It was Baron Willi von Salvator who took Hiram Holliday, foreign correspondent, out to Franzl's Inn to hear Mitzi, the new toast of a chastened Vienna, sing old Viennese folk songs. Willi wanted to cheer Hiram up, for Hiram was in the doldrums. Hiram had promised himself that he would recover little Duke Peter of Styria who had been kidnapped by Virslany, the Nazi, in Prague because he was a found sanctuary for the night in a monastery which held the crypts of many a Hapsburg ruler. Then Willi von Salvator, who was a royalist, unfolded his plan. Heidi and Peter and Hiram and Willi were smuggled out of the monastery in a bread wagon and they made rapidly for the Tirol.

They traveled far and wide, always just a jump ahead of Virslany who sought them tirelessly.
Virslany was faced with concentration camp unless he recovered Peter.
He never gave up. Finally they found themselves in the far reaches of the Alps near the Italian border.
They went up to the great Schwarzenstein Hotel on the icy slopes, and they knew they were in a trap. Only a funicular railroad ran to Schwarzenstein. One day they realized that they were at the top of it and that Virslany was at the bottom and only a few hours lay between them and capture.

It was then that Hiram hatched his most desperate plan. On the other side of the six-thousand-foot mountain lay Italy, if there were only some way to get to it. Hiram found out from Seppi, the ski guide at the hotel, that he had once made this dangerous trip on skis and Hiram made up his mind. It was the only way. Heidi and Peter were accomplished skiers. Hiram didn't think or care about himself. In the dead of night they started out on the all but impossible descent. Down the treacherous slopes they went.
Hiram fell and slipped and bruised and hurt himself. It was a miracle that he lived through it. He had never been on skis before except once—in a Fifth Avenue department store.

When they got to the bottom he collapsed but not before he found out that they were across the border into Italy. He could afford to lose consciousness then because they were safe. Perhaps it would be well to mention that Hiram Holliday, American foreign correspondent, was decorated for valor for this feat.
Princess Adelheit von Fürstenhoff, Hapsburg princess, decorated him—with her tears and her kisses.

That was only the beginning of fight. First they lost themselves in the carnival crowd at the Würstel-Prater, because Hiram knew that no one would look for them there. They

PERSONS IN HIDING

Serialized by ALBERT WHITE from the Paramount Picture

Adapted from the story by J. EDGAR HOOVER

SYNOPSIS OF CHAPTER VII
Burt Nash has been released by Dot and Freddie Martin and Matt Flagler, the kidnapers who held him for $200,000 ransom which has been paid by his millionaire brother, Pete Griswold and Dan Waldron. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, interview Burt to try to get some clues as to where he was held captive. Burt remembers that on a certain day the airplane which daily flew over the house hadn't shown up on schedule, and Pete and Dan rush off to investigate this lead.

CHAPTER VIII

THE transport plane cruised along at a regular speed. Pete, Dan, an airline official and the co-pilot sat in the cabin, studying maps spread out before them, while the co-pilot glanced at his watch. "It's now five-twenty, gentlemen," he said. "We should be over the same spot we passed this morning about eight-thirty."

Dan took a glance through the windows. "Right." He nodded. "We are."

Pete looked up at the official.

"How about your weather reports?"

"This flight was grounded last Saturday afternoon at Little Rock because of storms."

"That's right," he co-pilot threw in. "I was on that run."

"Then," Pete asked, "if you hadn't been grounded, you'd have passed over this spot around five-twenty?"

"Yes, sir."

Pete grinned. "Then everything checks, he said happily."

Dan nodded. "And how were you about a thousand feet and can see nine farms from here."

"But," Pete chuckled, "probably only one of them has a dog named Toby."

When Pete drove up to the Bronson farm in his old Ford truck loaded with peddler's wares, he came slowly until he spied an old round dog squatting in the middle of the field. At sight of the dog, Pete came to a full stop. He turned and spoke to Dan and the other two agents who had been lying hidden in the back of the truck, underneath the piled merchandise. "Maybe this is it, boys."

The others dropped out of the truck, holding short machine guns in their hands. "Good luck, Pete," said Dan. "We'll follow the same routine as with the others."

Pete drove on toward the farm, taking careful note of the fact that the gate, which was open and a short length of chain hanging from it. He drove right up to the front porch, next to where Zeke was lying asleep in his hammock. But Zeke was too fast asleep to be awakened by the truck's approach; it was not until the dog had come running up to bark at Pete that Zeke opened his eyes and yelled. "Here you, stop that barkin'! Shut up!" He noticed the truck rose from the hammock and sauntered over, arriving just as Pete had jumped to the ground.

"We don't want no peddlers around here," he said gruffly. "We ain't got no money to buy anything. "That ain't no reason to be uncivil, Zeke," said Ma Bronson, who had come out of the house.

That was all the opening Pete needed. In a moment, he had gone into the house with Ma, to put up the window curtains which she had bought. Unfortunately she took him around the back way, so he couldn't test the step for looseness. Once inside, Pete lost no time in asking for a drink of water and waited anxiously while she drew water from a well with a nicely greased pulley which didn't emit a single squeak. While he was trying to figure out what to do next, he saw on the wall a new cheap mirror that showed no signs of cracks, or of having ever been a part of a larger mirror.

Pete heard a noise at his feet. He looked, and saw the hound staring at him. "Hello, Toby," he said. The dog pricked up his ears. "Come here, Toby," Pete continued, and beamed at a mattress lying on the floor before him. Dot grabbed a lighted kerosene lamp from the table, and smashed it over the mattress, which burst into flame.

Pete grinned. "So it's all the bunk about you being such a fancy shot, eh, Freddie?" He sneered. "Gunner Martin? You couldn't hit a barn door at fifty feet. That's why you won't try shooting me. You might miss. What's the heater for anyway? watch job?"

Freddie yanked his gun free, blind fury but as he fired he knocked it high into the air, the bullet burying itself into the ceiling. "You sap," she shrieked. "Can't you see he's trying to escape being tried?"

Pete shook his head. "That shot was all I wanted," he said. "The right people hear it!"

Freddie rushed to the window. "The yard's full of G-men," he yelled to Dot. "They're shooting!"

As if to prove his words, there came the staccato clicking of machine guns, interspersed with the barks of revolvers. Freddie saw Curly and Powder stretched out dead on the ground. He swung his own gun out of the window and started firing. Flagler in a sudden access of fear, threw up his hands and rushed outside to where Ma and Zeke were huddled next to the automobile.

Dan and the two agents turned their fire on the house. Freddie fired as quickly as he could, stopped shooting only long enough to take freshly loaded revolvers from Dot, passing the empty ones back for reloading.

Suddenly Dot let out a little moan and sank to the floor. With a snarl, Freddie turned on Pete and clicked the trigger. But only a dull click answered from the empty revolver. He threw the weapon away, picked Dot up and rushed out through the back door. Pete, trying to push himself away from the burning inferno which the mattress had become, upset the chair to which he was strapped and fell to the floor.

The muzzle of a machine-gun came poking in through the window. It was followed by Dan, who looked around and hastily dropped the gun to climb in and rush to Pete. Dragging his pal away from the blazing mattress, he swiftly loosened the straps and helped Pete struggle to his feet.

Pete's grimy, smoke-blackened face broke into a broad grin. "Somebody's been kidding me," he said. "about the fun traveling salesmen have!"

Freddie drove the black sedan furiously through the night. Faster over faster, while Dot, slumped half-unconscious in the seat beside him sobbed. "Mom! Mom!"

"Mom'll be all right, honey," Freddie muttered. "Just take it easy until we find a doctor."

"So it's all the bunk about you being a fancy shot, eh, Freddie?" Pete sneered.

happily as the dog came to him, wagging his tail.

Just then Ma returned with a dipper of water. "Here's your water," she said.

"Thanks," replied Pete. "Nice dog you've got there." He drank, and said, "This is swell water. Tastes like it has lime in it."

Ma nodded. "Reckon it has. You'll find limestone country for a hundred miles around here."

Pete, his carefully built-up case crumbling, tried to establish his only clue. "What do you call the dog?" he asked.

Ma shrugged. "It don't matter. Just so you call him at meal time."

Sadly, Pete picked up the bolt of cloth. "Guess we'd better measure the windows."

But he never got a chance to do any more. A sneering voice sounded behind him. "Lift your hands, G-man!" And Pete turned to see Freddie with a gun held unwaveringly at him, while Flagler took Pete's gun and Dot snarled. "You must have figured we were awful dumb to think you could get away with this! You dope! You actually thought we'd leave everything the way, Naas saw it when he was here!"

Dot and Freddie worked quickly and efficiently. Not more than five minutes later, Ma had been sent out of the house with Zeke and the two toughs, and Pete was strapped to a chair in the center of the room, with
