SANTA CLAUS MAKE CITY-WIDE DEBUT HERE AT 4:30 FRIDAY P. M.

Whether or not you know it, Christmas is coming, and dad burned fast, too.

And, for that reason, every man, woman, boy and girl, is invited—rather urged—to be in Gatesville at 4:30 p. m. Friday of this week, when the grand old man will make his official city-wide personal appearance.

Old Santa, hasn't put out as yet, just by what means he will arrive in our little city, other than that there will be Xmas lights, decorations, floats, and whatnot, to herald his coming.

His press agents, the local Chamber of Commerce, have assured us, that he'll have plenty of candy and souvenirs for the boys and girls as he always does, and that he'll see nearly everyone of them personally and will more than likely "holler" at you when he passes.

Workmen have been busy last week and this week, stringing lites and generally getting prepared for the grandest season during any year, and it's leader, Old Santa Claus.

BE IN GATESVILLE, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 8 AT 4:30, IN THE AFTERNOON.

J HURL McCLELLAN TO BE RENAMED POSTMASTER FOR GATESVILLE'S OFFICE

Congressman W. R. (Bob) Poage has announced in a letter to News, that Postmaster J. Hurl McClellan will be recommended for re-appointment as Postmaster at this office.

The letter in part states: "I have received a great many letters, many of them from our good friends, about Mr. McClellan. . . I am, therefore, recommending his appointment."

"I am pleased to find that many of the people who have written me in Mr. McClellan's behalf have referred to the fact that they understood that you are not an applicant, and that you have recommended Mr. McClellan. I have not given this information to anyone other than to Mr. McClellan himself, but I think that it is quite

FFA Boxing Here December 12-14

Under the auspices of the Gatesville Future Farmers an Amateur Boxing Show will be held at the High School gym, Tuesday and Thursday nights, December 12 and 14.

As yet no entries have been announced, but according to M. G. Slay, vocational agricultural teacher, there will be fights in all weights, and entries are open to any one in Central Texas.

Competent officials will be had

Ennis-McGregor Train Leaves 10:30

Charlie Hall, editor of The McGregor Mirror, phoned over late yesterday, and said a special train would leave McGregor at about 10:00 a. m. Friday morning to take fans to the McGregor-Ennis football game in Corsicana on that afternoon. The round trip fare will be $1.15.

Returning, the train will probably leave Corsicana about 6 p. m. and all Gatesville football fans are urged to make the trek. Reservations can be had, but there'll be plenty of room anyway.

M. P. M. HOSPITAL CLOSED FRIDAY EFFORTS MADE TO FINANCE ANOTHER

Gatesville's Milton Powell Memorial Hospital closed its doors, Friday, December first, and employees connected with the institution returned to their homes.

Drs. Dean B. and Kermit R. Jones, who opened the hospital will remain in Gatesville as practicing physicians, and the nurses were reported to have returned either to their homes, or the homes of relatives in this county.

EFFORTS CONTINUING FOR REORGANIZATION

Due to the evident need of a hospital in Gatesville and Coryell county, Dr. T. M. Hall, Reverend Edward S. Bayless of the First Presbyterian Church, and a committee of the local Chamber of Commerce are continuing their work in the interest of a hospital.

Late yesterday, in conversation with Dr. Hall, he stated that real interest was being manifest, and re-stated his request that all citizens interested in a hospital for Gatesville and Coryell County, either see him in person or drop a card to Post Office Box 266, Gatesville.

The plan for financing is said to be to sell stocks or certificates in amounts of $12.50, two to a family, to at least 400 people which would be enough money to insure the opening of an institution of this character in Gatesville. However, the plan is only one plan that they are worked on right now, and seems to be the most likely to succeed.

Rising demands of medical efficiency and service which means rising costs to the operators, are hard to overcome, since the income of families needing service of this nature, for the most part, have either remained stationary, or dropped.

B&PW Presents "Swing Out"

MISS BERNIE BERNHOLTZ

"Swing Out" a musical show, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, will be presented Wednesday and Thursday nights, December 13 and 14, at the City Auditorium, under the direction of Miss Bernie Bernholtz. The proceeds will go for the library fund.

"Swing Out" is said to be a hilarious 3-act comedy, featuring a cast of nine principals, twenty to forty chorus girls and numerous musical specialties. Two outstanding added attractions will be a baby contest and a Mexican bull fight.

Participants in the baby contest will be Gatesville children of pre-school age, plus numerous prominent business men. The "babies" will perform at both nights' showing of "Swing Out".

The burlesque Mexican bull fight will take place just before the first curtain. Colorfully costumed children of the elementary school will sing Mexican folk songs and dance the series of "Bull Fight Dances." Then one of our prominent business men in the role of the torador will fight to a finish the husky raging bull, the horns and tail of which will be represented by two of the city's most courageous citizens.

Miss Bernholtz, director, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska department of speech and has been associated with the Lincoln Junior League Children's Theatre. Also, she was instructor of speech in the Kearney schools.

Expenditures of all divisions of government in the U. S. increased from $13,152,000,000 in 1930 to $17,470,000,000 in 1938.

Residential building at Dallas is $2,000,000 ahead of last year and non-residential and engineering construction thru Oct. also were substantially ahead of their 1938 levels.

NEWS HAS BIG WEEK STERLING EDWARDS BUYS S. F. BETHEL'S PART

It comes in bunches, and certainly did last week. That's the good things as well as the bad things in life.

Friday, December 1, Sterling Edwards, son of Mrs. Price Edwards purchased the interest of S. F. Bethel, who had, for the past four years been half owner of the News since it was purchased by Jones and Bethel from Ayres Compton, now of Dallas.

Mr. Edwards, who is a graduate of Gatesville high school, and who has for the past 12 years been a member of the staff of The Gatesville Messenger and Star Forum, needs no introduction to citizens of Coryell county.

He was formerly of Osage and has been a resident of Gatesville for 16 years. Mrs. Edwards is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Gatesville, and is also a graduate of the local school system.

Mr. Bethel has not intimated what his future plans will be, other than that he will take a rest for a while but he'll probably get his hands back "in the ink" again before much time has elapsed.

As far as is known, the personnel of the News, as well as the policy will remain the same as it did under the previous management.

Mr. Edwards just recently returned here from Hillsboro, where he had accepted a position with The Hillsboro Mirror, a small daily in that city, which position he resigned to take up his business as co-partner.

Elmo King Gets Trip to Convention Carlton Smith to Head Census Work

A delegation of 36 4-H club boys is representing Texas at the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. The Congress ends December 9.

The Texas group, with their white "10 gallon" hats, is always one of the largest and most popular at the Chicago meeting.

Included in the delegation are members of several judging teams which won the right to represent Texas in the national contests at Texas A. and M. Farmer's Short Course in July.

L. L. Johnson, state boys' club agent, and J. W. Potts, his assistant, both of the Texas Extension Service, accompanied the delegation, as did coaches and County Agricultural Agents W. D. Seals, recently transferred from Upshur to Bell County; W. M. Young, Smith county; M. U. May Lubbock county; and H. F. Kothmann, Reagan county.

Club boys making the trip include 19 outstanding county winners: Woodrow Mills, Sterling City; David Williams, Eldorado; Elton Wayne Smith, Aiken; Preston Kiel, Caldwell; Charles Bell, Pattonville; J. B. McGuire, Miles; James A. Potts, Lummock; Harry D. Rotan, Nolan; Carlie Kindt, Wheelock; Victor Peter, El Campo; Emil Olsen, Amarillo; William O. Adams, Tulia; Gilbert Watkins, Farwell; Talmage McClatchy.

Carlton Smith, Waco attorney, has just been named district supervisor of the U. S. Census District No. 11, which corresponds to this congressional district, according to announcements made Sunday.

Smith will attend the school for supervisors which will be held sometime during the week by Wilton Woods of San Marcos, area manager.

Smith said no applications for jobs as census takers will be accepted until after the school. The government will furnish the district supervisors with application blanks. Those applying for the jobs will be given a competitive examination.

The business census will be taken first, starting January 2, and for that work Smith said not more than a dozen persons would be needed. The population census will be taken starting April 2 and approximately 200 persons will be needed for that work in the district.

Bill Smith of Pidcoke, was taken to a Waco hospital Friday for an appendicitis operation.

"TURKEY TOMS" TO BE FEATURED IN SPECIAL DAY HERE FRIDAY, 8TH

It's time to trade Turkey Toms, or sell them, or exchange them for hens.

So, Friday has been set aside as the day to begin these activities and the Toms and other turkeys for raising purposes, will be on the East side of the square for you Friday if you are interested in building up your flock with better grade turkeys. Some of the much talked of "baby Beef Turkeys" will also be on hand.

Considerable interest has already been worked up for this first Turkey Tom show, and there will probably be Bourbon Reds, Black Spanish, White Holland, and Bronz turkeys exhibited for sale. The show will be under the auspices of the Gatesville Chamber of Commerce Livestock Committee, and there will be no charge for anyone bringing their Toms here for sale.

Particularly good for the sellers, of excess stock is the fact that if they cannot be sold to breeders or raisers, the Christmas Turkey market will probably be open by Friday and it will not be necessary for them to be hauled back home and may be disposed of to the poultry firms.

THE CRUCIAL ECONOMIC STRUGGLE

Inactivity of the allied and German armies on the Western front has created the illusion that this war is a stalemate, that each side is engaged in a waiting game. But an analysis of the current war policies of both sides reveals that the conflict is as much a death struggle as the World War at any phase of its four-year duration.

The allied policy of seizing all exports from Germany, including those in transit on neutral ships, is now in effect and represents one more step in the primary allied war aim of defeating Germany by strangling her economically. Germany is relentlessly pursuing her policy of destroying all allied shipping by submarines and commerce raiders and by mining the commerce routes of the Atlantic and North Sea.

Both sides may be expected to employ any further available means of weakening the economic structure of the other. For this war is essentially a conflict of rival economies the test of an island empire dependent upon sea power against a land power which depends upon its army for the procurement of raw materials in neighboring lands.

The impracticability of attack either through the German Westwall or the French Maginot Line is evident to the general staffs of both armies. Neither side is willing to inaugurate mass air attacks against military objectives or civilian centers because of the danger of equally destructive counterattacks. As long as this condition exists, this war will be fought, not on the land, not in the air, but on the sea and on the diplomatic front.

On the sea, the allies will strive to deprive Germany of all imports by rationing the imports of neutral states adjacent to the Reich and by blockading the German coast. The Germans will continue and if possible intensify their attacks upon British and French and possibly neutral shipping.

In the field of diplomacy, each side will attempt to bring within its sphere of influence the neutral states which might serve as a source of supply for the enemy. The Balkan area is the key strategic region in this respect. Germany is seeking to increase her imports from Rumania and other Balkan states. If she could secure the entire mineral and agricultural surpluses of this area, she would become economically self-sufficient and could probably continue the war for an indefinite period, if the morale of the German people could be maintained.

Britain and France won a great victory in Rumania when King Carol appointed former Premier George Tatarescu as premier to form a new cabinet, succeeding the cabinet which resigned in protest against German efforts to secure increased oil and wheat supplies from Rumania. Tatarescu, champion of the defunct Little Entente in Rumania, is pro-French and pro-ally and is expected to align Rumania with the allies in so far as is compatible with the maintenance of her neutral status.

Germany is suffering far more from the economic warfare than the British and French. Despite the increased allied shipping losses resulting from mines, the British are receiving all necessary raw materials by means of the convoy system. British merchant shipping totals over 21,000,000 tons and the French have 2,500,000 tons afloat. British shipyards are turning out vessels faster than the Germans are sinking them.

The danger to Britain is not in inadequate shipping facilities to supply her industrial machine and feed her people but in the maintenance of sufficient naval vessels to protect her merchant shipping. The Germans claimed last week to have sunk a 10,000 ton British cruiser but this report has not been confirmed in London. At any rate, we do know that the Germans have struck some terrible blows at the British navy in the few short weeks of the war.

On the other hand, most of the sources of supply for Germany have been closed by the British blockade, and thus far Russia has been unable or unwilling to make substantial contributions of raw materials. The neutral states which have supplies available for export to Germany are demanding cash and Germany has precious little gold or foreign exchange.

Thus it is apparent that, for the present at least, the crucial and probably decisive phase of this war is in the economic field. This is entirely consistent with the British war objective of destroying Hitler while leaving the Germany army intact to face the Russians if Stalin continues to move eastward. Creating economic stress in Germany is the surest and quickest means of riding Germany of Hitler. And when Hitler is gone, peace will come to Western Europe.

Forty-four State legislatures enacted 650 tax measures in regular sessions this year.

TOPSEY CLUB

Mrs. J. W. Irvine was hostess to the Topsey Home Demonstration Club Wednesday, November 22.

Miss Gibson talked on flower arrangements, making several bouquets from the beautiful autumn leaves and grasses; also about home made Christmas gifts.

After a brief business session, refreshments of chicken salad, cheeses, straws, jumbles, doughnuts, brownies, and hot chocolate with whipped cream were served to 14 club members, Miss Gibson, and one visitor, Mrs. Robert Irvine.

Mrs. A. J. Loyd passed away November 14. She was one of our oldest and most loved and respected club members. She assisted in the organization of the club in 1933. Her zeal and enthusiasm never waned in pressing forward to the high goal. It was a privilege to be associated with such a lovely character.

Saturday night, November 25, the club members and families and Bro. R. M. Studer enjoyed a soup supper and social hour at the school house.

The next club meeting will be with Mrs. Ernest Fowler, December 6.—Reporter, Mrs. Wm. A. Cowan.

FORMER MUSIC INSTRUCTOR OF LOCAL SCHOOL HEARD OVER RADIO

Following is a story which appeared in The Winters Enterprise December 1:

"Feature program broadcast over KXOX, sponsored by the Sweetwater Board of Community Development, was a thirty-minute program Sunday afternoon, given by Miss Marie Hill, supervisor of public school music in the Sweetwater schools, and the high school a Capella Choir and Girls' Ensemble.

"Miss Hill sang 'Beatitudes' by Malotte, and 'Beside Still Waters' by Hambley. The a Capella choir sang four numbers and the Girls' Ensemble sang three. Many listeners in Winters heard the broadcast, which came in very clearly."

Miss Hill was former music instructor in the Gatesville Elementary school.

Amateur Night At Jonesboro

An amateur night, sponsored by the Methodist Church, will be the feature at the Jonesboro High School tonight.

A full evening of good, clean entertainment will be provided, and the public is cordially invited. All amateurs are invited to participate, and ample prizes will be given the winners.

A small admission fee will be charged.

GHS Basketball Season Starts Fri.

The Gatesville basketball teams, both boys and girls will open their 1939-40 season Friday night December 8 when they meet two teams from Pearl on the local court.

The Girl's game is scheduled to start at 7:00 and the Boys' will play at 8:00. The coaches appreciate the support the local basketball fans have given both boys and girls teams in the past and are hoping to have a large crowd on hand for their first game of the season.

A small admission charge will enable you to see both games.

State Defeats Pearl All-Stars

Playing their last football game of the season the State Juvenile Training school coached by Rabon Balch defeated a six-man squad of Pearl all-stars on the Pearl gridiron Friday afternoon by a score of 19 to 22.

The State team took an early lead and at the end of the half were out in front 16 to 0. Jack Petty former Pearl athlete, was at home for the Thanksgiving holidays and played an excellent game for his old team making one of his runs netting approximately 60 yards.

This was the last game of the season for the State team who have won five games and lost four.

Society

Boren P. Hunter and Brownwood Girl Wed

Miss Josephine Ann Richey of Brownwood and Boren P. Hunter of Rising Star were married last Thursday evening in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Dovie Boatwright, in Brownwood.

Rev. S. E. Chandler, head of the Bible department of Daniel Baker College, read the single ring ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

The bride wore a blackberry velvet frock with matching hat and accessories. An informal reception was held at the Boatwright home after the ceremony.

Mrs. Hunter is a graduate of Brownwood High School and Daniel Baker College. Mr. Hunter, son of Mrs. H. I. Hunter of Rising Star, was graduated from Gatesville High School and Daniel Baker College. He is coach at Rising Star High School.

The couple will live in Rising Star.

Chamlee's Hall Scene Of Informal Dance

Mrs. Florene Mayes and Clinton Chamlee entertained a large group of their friends with an informal dance at the Chamlee Hall Friday evening from 8:30 to 11:30. The affair was in celebration of the 25th birthday anniversary of the latter.

In all decorations the Christmas motif was used; the hall was adorned with cedar and green and red balloons and streamers. Diversion for the evening besides dancing included games of bridge and dominoes.

Sixty-three couples were present for the affair.

Birthday Party for Fay Brandon

Miss Joe Marie Tubbs and Mrs. Fred Brandon honored the latter's daughter, Miss Fay Brandon, with a birthday party Monday, November 27, at her home in Coryell City.

Several interesting games were played, and refreshments of hot chocolate with marshmallows and cake were served to the following guests: Eva Louise Mack, Eunice Holmes, Musette Tubbs, Pearl Gilmore, Ollidene Sadler, Pruett Tubbs, Robert Gilmore, Clifford Tubbs, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Culp.

Carl Floyd is Host To High School Set

A dance was the compliment given members of the high school society set by Carl Floyd, who entertained at his home on College street Friday evening.

During the evening refreshments of cookies, sandwiches and punch were served.

Courtesy for Bride-Elect Given by Mrs. Ira Taylor

Continuing pre-nuptial courtesies for Miss Carol Hibits, bride-elect of J. W. Thompson Jr. of Gatesville, a shower was held at the home of Mrs. Ira Taylor on Wednesday afternoon, November 22, when Mrs. Taylor and Mrs. Ernest Hancock were joint hostesses. The Thanksgiving motif was observed in the table decorations with the centerpiece being a large bowl of yellow chrysanthemums. Tapers burning in attractive holders with miniature turkeys on either side further carried out the table decorations where the refreshments were served. Mrs. W. R. Coston and Miss Estelle Gardner assisted the hostesses in serving the plate which held open face sandwiches, snow ball cookies tea and coffee.

A complete surprise to the bride-elect was the presentation of a huge cedar chest by her mother who had it on display at the Taylor home, and inside were the various attractive gifts from her friends.

Among those who shared in the courtesy were: Mrs. Earl Ashby and Mrs. W. J. Thompson of Gatesville.—Hamilton Herald-Record.

Hibits-Thompson Nuptials Performed in Hamilton

The marriage of Miss Carol Hibits, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hibits of Hamilton, and W. J. Tompson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tompson of this city, took place at 8:30 Tuesday evening at the Methodist parsonage in Hamilton with the Rev. W. E. Shipp officiating.

The bride wore a teal blue dress with wine accessories.

Attendants were Miss Estella McFarlin and Earl Martin of this city; Miss Lillian Bryson; Arlie Hibits, and Miss Ruth Hibits, broad sister of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a honeymoon trip to San Angelo.

Mrs. Tompson graduated from Hamilton High School in 1936, and Mr. Tompson was graduated from Gatesville High School the same year.

They are making their home on East Main street in this city. The bridegroom is employed at R. E. Powell's Hardware Store.

Ace High Bridge Club Entertained

Misses Neva Parsons and Minnie Lou Witt were co-hostesses when they entertained members and additional guests of their club, the Ace High Bridge Club, Monday evening at the home of the latter on south 14th street. Centering each of the five tables were vases of chrysanthemums; bowls of autumn leaves were placed at vantage points about the rooms.

In the games of bridge, Miss Sidney Gibson scored high, Miss Leah Dale Franks second high, and Miss Thelma McGilvray received consolation prize. After the presentation of the awards, the hostesses served pecan pie, topped with whipped cream, and coffee.

Those in attendance were: Misses Christine Moran, Lois Grantham, Dorothy Culberson, Wilhelmina Cayce, Sarah Robinson, Linnie Fore, Aurora Yongue, Thelma McGilvray, Ernestine Durham, Leah Dale Franks, Doris McGilvray, Maude Alyce Painter, Bess Holmes, Ann Hill, Sidney Gibson, Nan Lazenby, and Mesdames Ethel Ford, Bailey Curry, Dean Jones, and Ernestine White.

Mrs. Bill Smith Honors Daughter

Mrs. Bill Smith honored her daughter, Billie Dean, with a party on her second birthday Sunday afternoon at her home.

Refreshments of cake, apples, red and white stick candy and suckers were served.

Those present were: Melva Jane and Joe Truitt Lighsey, Barbara Nan Wilkerson, Mary Alice and Carolyn Ann Catlett, Helon and Louise Iris, Faynell Basham, Donifa Strickland, and Ola Franks.

Callers during the afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. George Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs. Iris, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Catlett, Mr. and Mrs. Clay Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Lillard Graves, Mrs. Truitt Lighsey.

Mary Sue Walker Weds C. D. Conway

The marriage of Miss Mary Sue Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Walker of this city, and C. D. Conway of San Antonio took place last Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The single ring ceremony was read by the Rev. S. L. Culwell pastor of the First Methodist Church.

The bride's only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Cloyce Byrom of Hay Valley community.

The bride wore a dusty blue dress with navy accessories.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for San Antonio, where they will make their home.

Mrs. McCorkle Entertains Wednesday Sewing Club

The Wednesday Sewing Club met with Mrs. Otha McCorkle, November 29. The afternoon was spent quilting. Mrs. McCorkle was given a linen shower.

Fruit punch and cookies were served to the following: Mesdames L. W. Black, J. H. Woodward, Orbe Lee Beck, T. D. Estes, Vernon McCorkle, Lester Washburn, Roy McBeth, and Misses Mabel Fisher, and Rosa Lee Scheonewolf.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. T. D. Estes December 6. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

John Nance Garner of Texas Lauded in New Campaign Song

DALLAS—A swinging melody and catchy words—in a new song about John Nance Garner, Vice President, has just been published under the title: "Cactus Jack," by the songwriting combination of Rex Lampman and Jack Foy.

Amateur song-writers have deluged the Dallas headquarters of the Garner-for-President campaign with new verses, of their own writing. The song has eight verses, but only four are printed herewith, as follows:

I
In Texas down by the Rio Grande
There's plenty of work for a good cowhand
There's milk and honey and hot tamales
And the sweetest bunch of "O" by gollyes.
The sky is wide and high and blue
And you say to strangers "how de do."
There's room to breathe or to bet a stack,
There's the blue bonnet girls and there's Cactus Jack:

Chorus:
Cactus Jack, he's a-riding straight,
Riding straight for the White House gate.
Don't look away, don't look away,
You can't look away from Texas.

II
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's quick on the trigger or a wisecrack.
Just as wise as an old horned toad—
There ain't very much he's never knowed!
He can hogtie a yearling quick as you wish,
If the river ain't dry he'll catch you a fish;
He'll look right nice in that White House cart

III
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's got no time for a fraud nor a quack!
And when you see his spurs and hat,
You know there goes a Democrat!
He can uncork a speech, let freedom ring,
Slap the back of a British king!
Cactus Jack, with his larlat,
He's going to rope the White House yet!

IV
We'll tell you this about Cactus Jack:
He's hit the trail and he won't turn back;
He's riding high and he's riding straight,
And he's headed for the White House gate!
From Amarillo to San Antonio
They'll tell you Jack has never been thrown;
Ki, yi, yippeee! Cactus Jack!
He'll hang his hat on the White House rack.

The HOUSEKEEPER'S DAUGHTER

JOAN BENNETT ★ ADOLPHE MENJOU

Chapter One

The basement bell jangled incessantly in the big, rambling, old-fashioned brownstone house.

Olga, signing wearily, switched on the vestibule light and peered through the grilled gate.

"Hello, Ma!"

"Why Hilda — darling! Your rain must have been early! Come in, dear!"

The two women embraced affectionately — Olga Swanson, the hard-worked, rather faded, yet neat and attractive housekeeper, and her daughter Hilda.

To describe Hilda in conventional syllables would be not unlike trying to reproduce the Mona Lisa in black and white. Her naturally wavy hair was the color of midnight; her complexion suggested strawberry ice cream — but real strawberry! Her face was lovely, but her face was not the first thing that compelled the eye; for there was her figure, slim, erect, straight where it should be straight, and curved where the most lyric-minded sculptor would have it curved.

When she talked, she virtually cooed; when she walked, she seemed not so much to glide as to undulate; when she looked into your eyes the index of your resistance plunged like a plummet.

This was Hilda, the housekeeper's daughter — as sweet, as fair and as good a girl as any man would want to find downstairs in his home.

"The family haven't left," said Olga. "I've never seen such hustle and bustle."

Upstairs in the main hallway the Randall family, Olga's employers, were taking leave of one another to go their separate ways for summer vacation.

While Hilda changed her clothes in her mother's room a salvo of "Goodbyes" floated down as Professor Randall and his wife parted from their two scholarly sons, William and Robert.

But when the others had climbed into their taxis and driven off, Robert still stood on the sidewalk.

With a gesture of irrevocable decision he picked up his grips and returned to the house.

"I've made up my mind. I'm not going!" he announced defiantly to Olga.

"But Mr. Robert — what will your father say?"

"I'll worry about that later. Right now I've got an opportunity. I'm going to write special articles for the Globe — I'm going to be a newspaperman!"

Then Olga, with great misgivings, confessed to the young master that she had brought her daughter to live with her during the summer months when (as she had thought) the entire family would be away.

"Why, that's perfectly all right," said Robert expansively. "It'll be nice having your child in the house."

Robert lost no time in telephoning the Evening Globe, to whose editor he had been introduced by his distinguished father, and making an appointment for the following day. Mr. Wilson's attempts to insult the burgeoning young scribe out of his ambition by means of sardonic flattery were quite useless. In fact, Robert believed every extravagant compliment the editor paid him!

When young Randall jubilantly hung up, he turned to behold a vision of beauty approaching him.

"Oh, I beg your pardon. Were you looking for someone?"

"No," said Hilda. "Were you?"

"Why — why, no. I live here. I'm Robert Randall."

She leaned toward him cordially. He drew back a little embarrassed, not to say frightened.

"So you're Robert Randall," trilled Hilda happily. "I'm happy to meet you, Robert. I'm Hilda — the housekeeper's daughter."

Benny, the shabby, stoop-shouldered, slightly dim-witted flower peddler, was as much a fixture of the Lyric Theatre as its proscenium. Every night, in fair weather or foul, he was on the sidewalk selling his violets; and every night after the performance he would sidle up to the stage door to greet his adored queen, Miss Gladys Fontaine, an actress in the show.

Tonight, while he waited for her, he absently took out a phial of liquid, uncorked it, and dipped the stems of his violets into it. "It makes the violets live longer — but it kills people," he explained to the apple-selling old woman on the curb.

Benny's worshipped one, Miss Fontaine, emerged from the theatre and greeted him with her usual good-natured sally. "Are you still my boy friend, Benny?"

"Oh, yes ma'am. You sure look awfully purty tonight."

Benny hung about and listened while the dapper gentleman who emerged from the stage alley approached Gladys Fontaine, took her by the elbow, and engaged in earnest altercation with her. Still arguing, he half led, half pushed her into a waiting cab. And Benny, who was no academic swain, climbed on the spare tire in back and held it for dear life as the taxi drove off.

"I'm happy to meet you, Robert. I'm Hilda, the housekeeper's daughter."

When Gladys and Floyd, her unwelcome escort, entered the houseboat to which the taxi had taken them and began their argument, afresh, Benny crouched outside the open window and listened.

"But you don't get me!" Floyd was saying, continuing the discussion that had been going on ever since they had met. "I'm offering you your old job back!"

"But I do get you — only — well, I can't do it, Floyd."

"Don't be silly — you can't do it!" He poured a drink. "Here — have some of this — you need it."

"No, I'm going to make some coffee." He walked through the swinging door into the kitchen.

When she had the coffee started and turned back from the stove, there was Benny, crouching humbly in a corner.

"Why, Benny — what are you doing here?"

"I was afraid," he quavered. "I didn't want anything to happen to you!"

From the other room Floyd belated for her to return. Urging Benny to leave the houseboat quietly, she went back to the living room.

While they resumed the argument — Floyd pleading with her to return to her old job as come-on for his card-gambling racket and Gladys refusing to leave her hard-won success on the stage — Benny tended the coffee. And when Gladys returned to the kitchen he had already poured a cup of the black liquid, and was returning a little glass phial to his pocket.

"Give this to him, Miss Fontaine," said Benny. "It'll make him feel better."

But Floyd still wanted no coffee, and it was Gladys who drained the cup when he refused it! And Benny, skulking again outside the houseboat window, saw her waver and fall to the floor; saw the panic-stricken Floyd attempt to revive her; heard him saying wildly, "Gladys, listen — listen to me! I was just kidding, Gladys! Do you hear? I was only foolin'!"

All the results of the six-man football games played last week haven't come in as yet, but probably the biggest upset of them all was Turnersville's smashing victory over the strong Copperas Cove half-dozen who suffered their first defeat of the season. The game was played on a muddy field and the Copperas Cove lads who took an early lead in the six-man race just couldn't get going themselves and couldn't stop the Turnersville squad who drove over the goal line for three touchdowns and three extra points.

Nothing definite was heard on the Ireland-Oglesby game played at Oglesby last Wednesday but some reports stated that the Tiggers had very little trouble with the Irish and came out victorious by a large score.

Pearl didn't show up for their game with the Flat Yellowjackets and will probably forfeit the game or make arrangements to play it off in the near future.

J. W. Ramsey, one of Gatesville's most ardent football fans has handed us the following record of Coach Worley's coaching during the five years that he has stood at the helm of the Hornet football squad.

Gatesville 0, McGregor 25

According to this record Gatesville has played 45 games, won 28, lost 16 and tied 1, scoring 680 points to their opponents 437.

Since Turnersville's victory over Copperas Cove Wednesday it is likely that the two teams will clash in the near future in an effort to determine the winner of the Six-Man Championship Trophy. Many inquiries have been received from six-man fans over the county as to the time and place of this game, but so far nothing definite has been learned. We understand that there is a move underway to have the game played in the Butter Bowl and we believe it would be an ideal location for the championship game.

The basket ball teams of the local high school start their 1939-40 basketball season by engaging two teams from Pearl on the local court Friday night. The strength of the local teams is unknown but it is likely that they will be among the top ranking teams of the county and a large number of basketball fans is expected to be on hand for the first game of the season.

There are now 337,366 Indians in the United States, as compared with 266,000 in 1900.

At one time, poultry and bees were included under the heading of "cattle" in England.

More than 48 per cent of all the taxes paid last year by the people of Texas went to the Federal Government.

A NOTED EDUCATOR
Speaks...

Dr. Homer P. Rainey, President of the University of Texas, has analyzed Texas' future possibilities in repeated public address. These statements express his thought:

"The next stage in the progress of Texas lies in the development of our great industrial and commercial possibilities."

"A program of industrial development centers around the manufacture of raw materials into finished products."

"American industry is moving closer to its raw material sources. We in Texas can capitalize on this movement if the opportunity is grasped."

"Our great highway development, coupled with industrial progress, will greatly aid the Texas farmer in his marketing problem."

"The best measure of the importance of an enterprise is the employment it creates and the income it produces."

"Our need for increased employment requires the keenest intelligence in solving the problem. Our boys and girls must be trained in highly efficient schools to meet the growing needs of farm and business."

"Our Universities are dedicated to a program of scientific training and research which will create employment and build industry to use our raw materials at home."

"Repeated failures did not stop our hardy pioneers in the building of our present empire. The same spirit must prevail for a successful future."

The Texas oil industry recognizes the soundness of these broad principles. They underlie present employment and provide for expanded future employment for our Texas people. The vital part oil plays today in putting these principles into actual practice will be portrayed in a series of advertisements to follow in this publication.

36 Years on 'The Hill,' Garner Succeeds by Reason of Seasoned Experience and Sound Judgment

John N. Garner would make a great President. He has a better practical understanding of national Government than any other living man. It is his life, and has been for 36 years.

Bassett Timmons

At the end of the three dozen years under the Capitol dome he is, according to the calendar, 70 years old. Off the calendar he is 50 years old and in tip-top physical condition. This vigor and physical toughness he would carry into the greatest office within the gift of the people and he would have the extra 20 years of knowledge of affairs, domestic and foreign. He came to his present place of eminence the hard way. In his public service there is no problem of Government with which he has not grappled.

Garner would make a great President because he has the proper temperament for the office. He knows when to advance and when to halt and take stock. He understands the Nation's legislative and administrative digestive system better than any man in the country. He would take no outposts he could not hold. He would be the best insurance against reaction, which so often follows unwise action. He has the poise and the patience to work for permanency. He would insist on sound legislation and coherent administration.

Best Judge of People's Temper

He is probably the best judge of the temper of the people and their representatives in Congress, at any given time, of any man in the United States. He has an uncanny perspective, which enables him to disregard the clamor of voluble and vociferous minorities and find the desires of the submerged majority. Perhaps this is because he is a typical American, neither radical nor reactionary, but progressive and forward-looking.

Garner would make a great President because of his gifts of leadership and his judgment of and ability to work with men. He has often said that most men he has known in public life were men of good will, patriotically interested in the welfare of their country. He has always found a zest in sitting down with men who review problems from diverse angles, men of different experiences. He believes that out of such deliberations come sound, practical, beneficial and progressive solutions. He takes to such counsel tables his own fidelity to principles, clarity of reasoning and ability to get at facts.

His judgment of men is excellent. When he became Speaker, in 1931, he demonstrated his ability to choose men for important assignments—of finding the proper man to do a job. Men were placed in roles for which they were best qualified. He has always liked to reward merit in young men, and this gave him the opportunity. Although the Democrats had a fragile majority of only three votes overnight, he welded them into a cohesive, fighting organization.

Far-Flung Network of Contacts

Because his acquaintanceship in all parts of the country is second to none I believe this far-flung network of contacts and knowledge of men would make it possible for Garner to call into service men of outstanding ability for his cabinet and other administrative places. His standard for judicial appointments would be high. He would be especially anxious to find proper men for diplomatic posts. His long experience on the House Foreign Affairs Committee imbued him with a deep and informed interest in international relations.

That Garner considers the solution of the unemployment and agricultural problems as the two outstanding challenges to the Union and that the chief attention of a Garner administration would be bent to this end, no one who knows him doubts. He likes to tackle tough problems, and here are two tough ones.

Opposed to Government in Business

If any one is supporting Garner on the theory he would be a do-nothing President, that supporter would better begin looking for a new man to support. He would be a heads-up administration. He believes modern government must meet modern needs. He has said that "evolutionary process must go forward to meet ever-changing human needs." He would not have the Government evade any legitimate function, but he would be zealous in his endeavor to see it did not encroach on functions outside its field. "Putting the Government into business is a violation of the Nation's industrial and commercial fabric," he declared in his 1932 acceptance speech.

Garner would make a great President because he thoroughly believes in our democratic system of three branches of Government. He has been called congressional-minded. It is true he has fought invasion of the prerogatives of Congress, but he is just as firmly against trespass against the executive and judicial branches.

Believing as he does in a Government of laws and not of men, he abhors unnecessary bureaucracy and would undoubtedly seek to dissolve some of it entirely, put back in Congress some of the legislative powers it exercises, back in the courts some of the judicial powers it occupies, and back in the States some of the local powers that belong there. All this would preserve the natural dignity of the executive branch, rather than weaken it.

Garner believes, as did Grover Cleveland, that the whole art of government is simply applied common sense and common honesty, with reason, justice and tolerance as handmaidens.

Has Vivid "Sense of Humanity"

Garner as President would be guided by a sense of humanity. It was he who introduced the first general relief bill in 1932. It was a pay-as-you-go measure, and carried a tax to pay its cost. He believes in an ever increasing standard of living for the working man and woman. He has a passionate devotion for the well-being of men and women who work for their daily bread. He has always fought monopoly and the concentration of wealth, and has insisted that the Government lay down rules to guarantee free and fair competition. He is for property rights because he believes them the very base of human rights. Ownership of property, he thinks, is one of the best guarantees of the dignity and independence of the individual. He is against favoritism in law enforcement.

Garner knows you cannot get something for nothing. He believes in constructive economy. He is the indestructible pioneer type who learned in a pioneer country how hard it is to make a dollar. He would be scrupulously careful with the taxpayer's dollar. He has the courage to resist fantastic proposals and boldly to meet an issue.

To continued efforts to find solutions of the Nation's problems, Garner would take to the presidency vast experience. "Experience," to paraphrase the great Justice Holmes, "is the life of administration."

Garner loves his country, believe in it, knows it is durable and wants it to believe in itself. He wants Government to do its part toward preserving freedom of opportunity. He believes economy, thrift and self-reliance are still the hallmark of the majority of Americans.

If you've forgotten what your teacher told you (yes, so have we!), here's a practical way to remember: go to the nearest Humble Station. In one pump, you'll find a gasoline called Thriftane—a good gasoline at thrifty price—that's positive! . . . In another, you'll find Humble Motor Fuel, a better gasoline at regular price—that's comparative! . . . In a third, you'll discover Essó, the best motor fuel you can buy—and there's no doubt about Esso being superlative! . . . And at this point, ladies and gentlemen, we find ourselves squarely in the middle of the story of our three LEADED gasolines: there's one for every car, every gasoline budget, under the Humble sign. One's good—one's better—one's best . . . So, whatever the car you drive, whatever the price you pay for gasoline, you'll find a LEADED gasoline for your car, at (or very near) your price under the Humble sign . . . Fill up with Humble!

TRADE EXPANSIONS IN LATIN AMERICA

For the first time since the inauguration of Secretary of State Hull's reciprocal trade program, the United States has an opportunity to make substantial trade increases in Latin America and to solidify the political and cultural ties between the two continents.

The British naval blockade of Germany has already destroyed the lucrative exchange of goods which the Nazis had built up with the Latin republics since the advent of Hitler. Likewise British, French and neutral trade with our Latin neighbors has been sharply curtailed as the industrial machines of the belligerents have become geared to the production of supplies for their war machines.

The United States is the logical successor of the European states which have competed with our goods in the Latin American trade markets for years: "Business Week" estimates that the Latin American market was worth $250,000,000 to Germany last year.

By stepping in and counteracting the German trade expansion which has usurped so many of our former Latin customers, the U. S. can deal a death blow to the flood of Nazi propaganda which has deluged the Latins since 1933.

Secretary Hull is working assiduously to conclude new reciprocal trade arrangements with the countries of South and Central America in an effort to promote the free exchange of goods in this hemisphere. Ten of the 20 reciprocal trade agreements to which the U. S. has been a party are with the Latin American countries.

The Hull program represents a recognition of the thesis that we can expand our exports to Latin America only to the degree in which we increase our purchases. And therein lies one of the two obstacles in the Hull objective of increasing trade on a two-way basis between the continents.

Latin America has few principal products of which we do not ourselves have a surplus. Argentina, for example, raises almost the same crops as our Western States.

As a result of the unwillingness of the U. S. to import Argentine beef, corn and flaxseed, Argentine importation of American automobiles has dropped about 50 per cent. Quotas are in effect upon all American importations.

The other obstacle interposing a barrier before the Hull program is the total of $1,000,000,000 in defaulted Latin American bonds owed to American investors. Negotiations are now underway between representatives of the U. S. Treasury and Latin American emissaries which may produce a solution to the debt problem, involving probably a reduction of the debts and resumption of payments on the reduced total.

If U. S. trade supremacy is to be permanently established in Latin America, it will be imperative for this country to extend reasonable credits for the purchase of American goods to those countries with the resources and willingness to repay the loans.

If a formula can be evolved to effect substantial increases in the purchases of goods from Latin America, the dollar credits necessary for the purchase of American goods will be available to the relatively poor Latin republics. This is the only means by which these credits can be secured.

Failure of American investors to recoup the sums invested in Latin American bonds during the era of prosperity should not blind us to the trade opportunities beckoning to us at present. Several of the Latin American states are confronted with the need for a complete readjustment of their trade and financial policies as a result of the war.

Brazil, for example, will suffer by the withdrawal of cotton purchases by Germany. Coffee imports will likewise be curtailed by the belligerents. Great Britain and the rest of Europe are expected to shift to New York for cotton purchases because of the more reliable standards and greater facilities for financing and shipping.

U. S. trade increases in Latin American markets made since the outbreak of war are highly significant and indicative of the trend which, if intelligently pursued by government authorities and businessmen, will bring lucrative returns to this country in the form of increased exports and closer ties of friendship with the Latin American peoples.

"Fortune" points out that we should increase our total world trade by about $800,000,000 or 12 per cent if took all the normal German business, both export and import, and half the British.

"Before the last war, the 20 republics of Latin America bought just as many goods from the United Kingdom as they did from us," "Fortune" explained. "Britain and the U. S. were neck and neck, and Germany was third. Before the end of the war, we captured practically all the German business and about a third of the English."

LAST RITES FOR MRS. W. M. THOMPSON HELD AT PIDCOKE

Mrs. W. M. Thompson, age 63, died Friday, November 24, at 9:20 p. m. of paralysis. While her health had not been good for some time she was able to be up much of the time and was at her home near Gatesville attending to household duties when the final stroke came, which lasted only 12 days.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church at Pidcoke by her pastor, Rev. Studer, Saturday, November 25, at 3 o'clock. Interment was in the community cemetery by her two infant grandchildren.

Pallbearers were: Herman Lockhart, Roy Hayes, Willie Walker, Seth Basham, Clarence Woodward, and Lilliard Graves.

Dovie Lou Stewart, the daughter of Shadrack and Lucy Ann Stewart, was born at De Kalb, Bowie County, Texas, December 27, 1875. She moved to Coryell County in 1897, where she lived until death.

Many of her older friends will remember her always rendering services to the sick and shut-ins.

On January 6, 1907 she and W. M. Thompson were married and made their home at Pearl, Texas for 9 years. Then they moved to Pidcoke, where they resided 23 years. They had lived only one year in their last home.

She was a member of the Methodist Church, and in her death another strong Christian, understanding mother has gone after many years of loving and faithful services to her family, to all whom her life touched and to her master.

Mrs. Thompson was in the height of joy while meeting and talking with people.

She is survived by her husband; three son, Milton, Montus and Spencer; one daughter, Mrs. Karl Howell; 9 grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. C. A. Stovall of King; and one brother, B. L. Stewart of Evant. Two grandchildren had preceded her in death.

Among those attending the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Basil Stewart and Sidney Howell of Houston; Mrs. Jane Stewart and Mrs. Melvin Deckard of Port Arthur; Mr. and Mrs. Willie Walker of Copperas Cove; Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Graham of Evant; T. A. Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Groves and children, J. H. Clark, Lewis Criswell, and Reuben Lundquist of Lampasas.

CARD OF THANKS

As it is impossible to clasp hands and express our gratefulness to all our friends who were so thoughtful in expressing their sympathy in numerous ways during our sorrow, we take this method of expressing our deepest gratitude and sincere thanks.
 Especially do we thank those who sent flowers, provided and prepared food and Miss Beatty for her faithful services. When sorrow comes your way may you be so graciously rewarded.

A prowler broke into the office of O. K. Lovejoy, Gatesville cotton buyer, on East Bridge street next to the Powell and Caruth gin and confiscated Mr. Lovejoy's radio last Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning. The thief gained admittance into the office by breaking out a window glass.

The annual Fellowship Banquet of the men of the First Baptist Church of Gatesville promises to be one of the largest held during the years of its presence on the local church calendar. The special feature will be a program by the men's quartet from Baylor University. Former Governor Pat M. Neff and president of Baylor, will deliver the principal address.

Mrs. J. D. Morgan of Turnersville received painful scalp wounds Sunday afternoon en route to Brownwood, near Mullen, when the car she was driving was ditched. With Mrs. Morgan were her children and Mrs. Martin Clary, also of Turnersville, who received only bruises and scratches.

Lonnie Wharton of this city is the new owner of the southside cafe formerly owned by Ross Jaye. The cafe was purchased by Mr. Wharton from a Mrs. Wise, who only recently had bought it from Mr. Jaye. Dick Rutherford was manager under its recent owner.

Clarence Bauman, local high school athlete, suffered a severe laceration to his right wrist when the Chevrolet coupe which he was driving struck a deep rut on a slick road two miles west of Gatesville Tuesday, careening into a ditch and overturning. Young Bauman, together with Buster Cummings and a negro by the name of Kelly, had started on a 'possum hunt when the accident occurred.

The Key quadruplets, Leona, Mary, Mona and Roberta, will be Gatesville's honor guest over the week end as they visit here in the home of their cousin, Mrs. Emmett Stewart. The widely publicised "double-twin" sisters are attractive and popular co-eds of Baylor University at Waco. They are musically talented and members of the Baylor Band.

IN MEMEORIUM

The home of Mrs. S. A. Daniels, a resident of Gatesville for about 30 years, was saddened last Tuesday morning, Nov. 21, at 10:45 o'clock by the passing of our beloved son and brother, H. E. Daniels, known by everyone as Henry. He was cherished and loved by all who knew him.

He was always ready and willing to lend a helping hand to any of his friends or anyone in need of help. He loved his home and family and was truly good to his mother, father, brothers, and sisters until the last. Never did they want for anything that was in his power, that he was not willing to help cheerfully.

The passing of our beloved son and brother leaves a vacant place that will never be filled on this earth. But God prepared a place for us where we can meet all of our loved ones in Heaven. So let us not grieve too much for him; for he sleeps in Jesus' arms. But oh, how hard to give him up.—His Loving Mother.

LOCALS LIKE RECENT DROP IN AUTO TIRE PRICE

Announcement by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of drastic reductions in the consumer list price of tires and tubes has been enthusiastically received by residents of this area, according to Red Chamlee, Gatesville, Goodyear dealer.

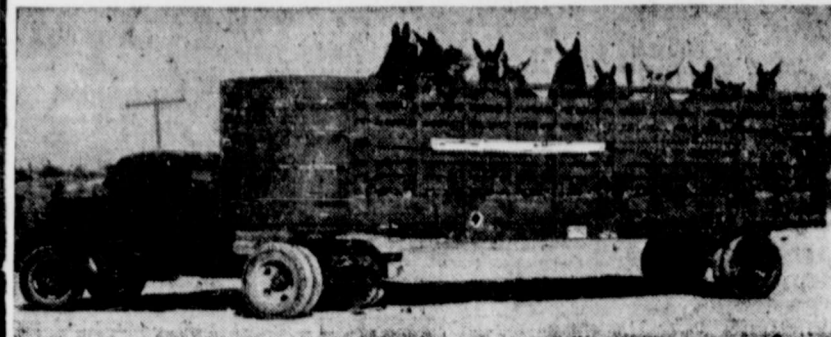

"The public seems appreciative of the fact that Goodyear has made this contribution toward price stabilization in the face of the current general upward trend," Mr. Chamlee declared. "We have received many calls of commendation, but real proof of the way local motorists feel about the reductions is seen in the increase in sales since the new prices became effective on November 1.

"Coming at this time of year, when highways in many sections of the country are wet and slippery, the price reductions are especially important to car owners who realize that new tires, with sharp gripping treads, are the best possible protection against skids," Mr. Chamlee said.

"It is the opinion of Goodyear executives that in addition to stabilizing prices to a degree unknown during the past year, the new arrangement will correct the evils of fictitious price lists, from which long discounts have been offered, and re-establish consumer lists on a valid basis," Mr. Chamlee concluded.
