OFFICIALS GET BUSY NEXT EVENING: NEW TRUSTEES

Due to the expiration of the terms of two of the trustees on the local school board, namely, C. C. Sadler and Dan McClellan, the newly elected officials immediately began working, and Wednesday evening, J. D. Brown, Jr., was named as a new trustee, replacing Dan McClellan, and C. C. Sadler was re-named as a trustee.

GOVERNOR O'DANIEL ANNOUNCES FOR SECOND TERM

In a radio address delivered over a state-wide network Wednesday night, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel announced his candidacy for re-election.

Governor O'Daniel advocates, among other things "any tax plan" that will raise $60,000,000 for social security purposes, improvement of Texas' educational system, improvement of "fire traps" at eleemosynary institutions and wiping out the state's deficit in four years.

The Governor also called on the voters to elect senators and representatives who favor his program. This, he said, will enable the legislature to get the job done in 30 days.

To raise the money he said he favored a "one percent transaction tax, but declared he would accept any tax plan passed by the legislature, just so enough money will be raised to pay off these honest and solemn obligations of the state.

Hal Langston of Fort Worth is spending the week with his sister, Mrs. Elworth Lowrey.

BILL ALLEN MAKES FIRST STATEMENT TO VOTERS

BILL ALLEN

Friends and Citizens of Coryell County:

With grateful appreciation to the citizenship of this County for your past assistance and for honoring me with the important position of District Attorney, I now ask your consideration for a second elective term, which is a reward within the power of the people to give or withhold. During the part of another man's term which I filled out by appointment, as well as during the first elective term, I have continually worked and asked the juries to enforce the true principles of Justice, and I ask that you consider my efforts and what I have done as a basis for your judgement, for during election year there are a lot of high sounding catchwords not backed by performance.

As an Attorney with recognized ability does not require the holding of public office through long years to be successful, I will not call upon you again and again for this office, nor will I seek to use this office for personal advancement as a stepping stone in politics, for the office belongs to the people. When you feel that I have served a reasonable time I

BRO. W. D. BILLS TO OPEN REVIVAL AT LOCAL CHURCH

Bro. W. D. Bills of Waco, will open a Spring Revival at the Church of Christ, tonight in Gatesville, according to E. D. Shelton. Brother Bills was formerly with the Columbus Avenue Church of Christ until recently, when he resigned and enter the field of evangelism exclusively.

As a specialist in young peoples work, Brother Bills has done some splendid work, and several young men have become preachers of the gospel. He has also been prominent in radio work.

The Gatesville Church of Christ extends a cordial invitation to the public to attend these meetings.

Rev. Alonzo Monk Bryan, pastor at Boyce, visited friends here during the past week end.

B. M. Wollard and daughters, Miss Buchie Wollard and Mrs. Wesley Webb, spent Wednesday in Fort Worth.

Revival At Methodist Church Closes Sun.

The revival services which are in progress at the Methodist church will come to a close Sunday evening. Large congregations have greeted the evangelist during this week and the services have held unusual interest for the church going public during the past two weeks. The pastor, Rev. S. L. Culwell, reports that there have been a number of additions on profession and by letter and that even greater results are expected during these closing days.

The general public has appreciated the interesting and Spirit-filled sermons by the evangelist Rev. A. R. Wells. These great messages have gone to heart of the needs of the world at this time and created a greater desire upon those who have heard them to find the reality of Christian faith.

Many have said they were greatly strengthened and helped through these services. There will be preaching right on through Sunday at the usual hours, morning and evening, except there will be no services Saturday morning.

Plans are being worked out for another interesting service Friday evening and special attention is being given to the Sunday services.

It is expected that Sunday will climax the series of services with the largest attendance and greatest interest of the entire meeting.

The general public is showing a great interest in the revival and will no doubt fill the church Sunday morning and evening. The pastor and officials of the Methodist church extend a most cordial invitation to the people of Gatesville to all the remaining services of the revival.

Downtown Bible Class Still Meets

The Downtown Men's Bible Class continues to meet in the Palace Theatre every Sunday morning at 9:45. Cordial invitation is extended to all men of the city not in regular attendance at any other Sunday School class to be present. Men down town at that hour are urged to drop in for the class. "Come dressed as you are; no need to dress up," is the word from those who go.

Dr. E. W. McLaurin of Austin will address the class Sunday morning.

FORMER CORYELL CITIZEN IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Alexander N. Boulton, Palestine and Houston insurance man sometime ago announced his candidacy for Governor on a "Boulton plan" of legalized horse racing, economy in government, a system of proper and decent care of the aged and a tax program designed to equalize the tax burden and boost the State's income.

Boulton is a native of Tennessee and moved to Coryell county when he was ten years of age, and removed to Houston at the age of 25. He will be remembered, probably, by many of the older citizens of Coryell county.

A. L. MANN IS OUT FOR DISTRICT CLERK

To the Voters of Coryell County:

In submitting my candidacy to the people of Coryell County for District Clerk, I do so feeling that I am well qualified for the office and with a desire to serve the people of Coryell County in this capacity.

I shall make this race on my own merits with no criticism for anyone. I am 40 years of age, am married and have three children.

I have lived in Coryell and Bell Counties all my life, having lived in Gatesville the past seventeen years.

I have a high school education with fifteen years of business experience, having sold Raleigh products to the good people of east Coryell County whom I consider my very best friends, and I shall always remember them very kindly.

To those who do not know me, I refer you to anyone acquainted with me, and that knows the type of character and principles I have stood for.

I earnestly solicit your influence in my behalf and if honored with this office, I pledge the friendly service to one and all alike that you have a right to expect.

Yours very respectfully,
A. L. MANN

Candidate for District Clerk.

CENSUS TAKERS "TRY TO GET ALONG": MONTH'S JOB

They started Tuesday, and they will be "out to your house", sometime this month.

They'll want to know some things, but if you'll think a minute, you'll know they are not just buttin' in our your business.

Anyway, they've been doing the same thing for 150 years, and this one shouldn't cause any more fuss than usual except that it's election year, which you'll agree, always raises a fuss.

To be successful, the census needs the cooperation of all citizens. Even under the most favorable circumstances, the task of enumerating 132 million people is a big job.

Data sought on population, agriculture and housing are vital to the interest of business, private life, and the general welfare of the country.

This is your census, as well as the census takers and the Census Bureau's.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sullivan spent Thursday in Comanche. Mrs. H. A. Sullivan, who has been at the bedside of her father, returned home with them.

The friends of Frank Mayhew will be glad to learn that he is improving satisfactorily. He suffered a heart attack last Monday afternoon.

COUNTY AND SCHOOL TRUSTEES TO "RUN" SATURDAY

Trustees will bear the brunt of the election darts to be thrown Saturday, thruout the county, when the trustees for each school will be named.

MAYOR C. E. GANDY

Also, covering a little more territory, will be a County Board of Trustees members in two beats, Beats 3 and 4.

Still bigger and better, will be the County Board of Trustees Member-at-Large, which will be voted on by all the school patrons of the county, except those of Gatesville.

According to information from County Superintendent W. D. Stockburger's office, the following names have been printed on the tickets: (where printed tickets are used):

For County Board Member, Beat 3: C. A. Graham
For County Board Member Beat 4: Hugo R. Haase
For Trustee-at-Large: A. T. Humes

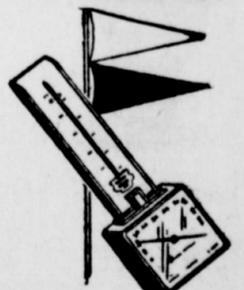

Of course, as is the usual custom in these elections, there are always write-ins, and most of the local trustees are simply written in in the respective school districts.

These school elections, too, are important to every patron of the school, and the patrons of each school are urged to take part in these elections.

Mrs. Denver Roberts and son of Pettus are visiting their parents and grandparents, Judge and Mrs. R. B. Cross.

Guests of Mrs. R. L. Routh Wednesday were: Mrs. John B. Willis and Mrs. Will McGregor of Waco and Mrs. Jim Cass and Miss Jimmie Louise Willis of McGregor.

F. A. Agar has said "Giving is as essential to Christian growth as heart action is to physical growth. If we love enough we will give enough. The most regular givers are the most regular attendants at worship. Tithing is a good thing for all, but not enough for some. We are also responsible for the use of the nine-tenths to make it build character.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Rev. E. W. McLaurin D. D., of Austin, will preach at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. Dr. McLaurin is head of the Department of Theology in Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary. Hornets To Play Pidcoke, Sunday.

The Pidcoke "Cokers", last year baseball champions of the Coryell County League, will get their first test of the season Sunday afternoon on their home diamond when they pit themselves against the local high school aggregation, managed by Red White.

Francis "Schoolboy" Rutherford will be on the mound for the Cokers and will endeavor to make a monkey out of the Hornets by handing them their first defeat of the season. Otis McBroom will toe the rubber for the locals and it looks like a pitching duel with both hurlers stowing away a lot of much needed practice which is necessary to put them in condition for official opening of the county baseball league.

The Pidcoke team, managed by Virgil Lockhart is expected to be one of the strongest contenders for the 1940 Coryell County baseball crown.

tial prosecution of all offenders, rich or poor without regard to clique or clan on the principle that all men stand equal before the bar of Justice where the facts for and against them should be weighed. I do not believe in persecution of witnesses or parties, in the Court room or Grand Jury room because the true facts, and not insinuations and prejudice should determine the guilt of the accused.

All cases should be tried upon the law and evidence and trick and chicanery should certainly not be used by the Attorney for the great State of Texas which asks that Justice be done in every case. The best test whether cases are tried on the law and evidence is whether they stand in the higher Court. Every case I have tried during my term in the three Counties has stood up when appealed, and only one was reversed during the time I served by appointment, thereby saving the expense of improperly tried cases. I do not expect a record like this to stand long, for I am constantly up against the best attorneys in the State, but I give it to you as a concrete example that I have the knowledge and experience to care for the people's interests, for results count more than ballyhoo.

Full cooperation of the District Attorney should be given at all times to the Grand Juries, Petit Juries, all Peace Officers and elected officials, as well as the citizenship of these three counties, without regard to personal likes and dislikes, for every cog in law enforcement machinery must work if the people are to be protected from crime, and I pledge to continue this policy.

It is not my policy to make a record of convictions by leaving untried the cases which might sometimes result in an acquittal for a jury should determine the cases unless a defendant will accept a sentence satisfactory to all. During the two years I was out of office after serving out my appointment, I did not accept the defense of any criminal case, I have no criticism of ethical and honorable attorneys for practicing their professions and every man is entitled to an attorney, but I felt that it would have been an abuse of the confidence the jurors and citizens had in me as District Attorney and a misuse of the knowledge and experience I had gained while being paid as District Attorney from public funds. I therefore am not qualified by reason of previous employment to prosecute any case which has or may come up.

In one sentence, I am for a fair and square deal for all at the Court house without any more expense or delay than is necessary to get results that count in the protection of the people and for constant effort to turn any erring youth from crime wherever possible.

Thanking you for past courtesy and consideration and hoping that I am privileged to ask each of you in person for your support during the time I am free from official duties, I am sincerely,

Your District Attorney

CHAPTER SEVEN SYNOPSIS:
Following the kidnaping of Enid Casserly, socialite, and her fiance, Bruce Eaton, G-men Hanford, Waring and Britton suspect Steve Eddison, ranking public enemy of the job. Mrs. Thornton Casserly, Enid's mother, has been active in getting him paroled and has hired him as chauffeur. Mrs. Casserly, now aghast at what she has done, has ordered Eddison to take her for a drive while the G-men inspect her garage and Eddison's quarters. They have found mud and a pine needle, and have uncovered as further evidence some telephone numbers, one connecting them with the Owl Hotel and the other with the home of Tyler Craden, Eddison's attorney.

CHAPTER VIII

SPECIAL agents Scott Britton, Frank Preston and Ross Waring visited the Owl Hotel with a search warrant. While Preston "entertained" the fresh clerk, Britton and Waring had a look inside room number forty-two. The first clue was in the form of a bill from an installment pian jewelry company addressed to one Francis O'Donnell.

"Francis O'Donnell!" Britton mused. "Sounds like a phoney."
"Well," replied Waring, "the fingerprints won't be."

He found some. The next evidence they gathered was mud caked on the in-step of the right shoe they found in the closet. Then, with their evidence, they returned to the field offices. Stebbins, the technician, disappeared into his laboratory with it. Later, he reported:

"Sample Number One, taken from the brake pedal of Miss Casserly's roadster, matches with Sample Number Three, scraped from O'Donnell's right shoe. There are mica fragments as well as small pieces of pine needles in both samples."

He paused.
"Sample Number Two, however, which you say you dug out of the tires on Miss Casserly's car, contains no trace of mica or of pine needles."

Britton snapped his fingers.
"I think I have it! My guess is that Enid Casserly and Bruce Eaton were stopped enroute to the horse show and transferred to another car. This O'Donnell drove her roadster back to the Casserly home."
"I'll string with you on that, Scott," Waring said. He turned to Stebbins. "Where's the exact spot the mica and pine needles came from?" he asked.
"Mica and pine needles mean mountains. The nearest mountains are across the state line."
"Then that gives us jurisdiction in this case," Britton exclaimed.

Hanford entered the room.
"I've just had a call from Washington on those fingerprints," he said. "Mr. Francis O'Donnell is better known as Big Boy Bradmore!"
"That's all I want to know!" snapped Britton.
"Here's where we square things for George Mattison!" Waring exclaimed. "We'll go to the Owl Hotel and—"
"You stay away from the Owl Hotel," Hanford interrupted. "I'd like to step over there and take him, too. But we can't make a move now without tipping our hand. We still don't know where those kids are. You fellows better run down to Aunt Lindy's and cool off over a nice hot lunch."
The two men agreed with this wise suggestion. A short time later they entered the cafe. Sitting in a booth were Tyler Craden and his

"I'm afraid I can't resist it—I'd better have some—" said Craden.
Aunt Lindy, purposely careless, allowed the pie to slip out or her hand onto Craden's knee. Immediately she dropped to her knees, took her neckerchief, dipped it in water and made repairs, exclaiming:
"Ah's certainly careless! Now, jest yo' sit still an' let me clean this yere up!"
Skillfully she dumped out the dirt in his trouser cuffs, catching whatever fell out in her hand. Then she retreated.
Later that day, Stebbins reported:
"Well, gentlemen, this mud and these pine needles came from the secretary, Collette Menthe. Aunt Lindy was just finishing serving them and moving on to the next table.

"Why do you insist on eating here all the time?" Miss Menthe asked Craden.
He smiled wisely.
"Our friends of the F.B.I. eat here—"
"It's like putting your neck into the guillotine and daring them to drop the knife, isn't it?"
"It's convenient to enjoy good food and watch the enemy at the same time. I'm smarter than they are. Look—here come Waring and Britton now."
Both G-men spotted Craden and his secretary. Waring indicated to Britton that he should look at Craden's trouser leg. Britton did so. He saw the same thing Waring had seen—a tiny sprig of pine needles on Craden's trousers.
Aunt Lindy came up. Britton motioned her to bend close to him and whispered in her ear. She nodded, disappeared into the kitchen, re-

Later that day, Stebbins reported:
"Well, gentlemen, this mud and these pine needles came from the same place as the mud and pine needles you found on Big Boy Bradmore's shoe, according to the Epi polarizer."
"Everything fits," said Waring. Craden was Bradmore's lawyer. He is Eddison's lawyer."
"Yes," agreed Hanford. "we're ready for our first move."
Stebbins, Hanford's secretary, entered.
"Mr. Porter Mrs. Casserly's lawyer, to see you—"
"Send him in."
Porter revealed a carefully protected envelope.
"Here you are, gentlemen," he said. "This arrived at the Casserly estate mail an hour ago. I handled it carefully, as you told me."
Hanford took the envelope, opened it gingerly. He read aloud:
"We'll give you three days in which to get one hundred thousand dollars in unmarked ten and twenty dollar bills. When you have the money ready, put an ad in the personal column saying, 'John—everything is okay—Ethel. Then you'll get further instructions.'"
The note was signed "Monarch."
Waring asked Porter:
"Did you bring Mrs. Casserly's permission to tap her telephone line?"
Porter nodded.
"Preston'll handle that phase of it," Hanford decided. "Meanwhile we have to prepare a second kidnap note of our own, just as we've discussed it. Special delivery and all, including the phoney fingerprint. Let Eddison read the one we make after you've shown him the real one, Mr. Porter."
He gave the lawyer the note.

New MOIST-MASTER Models by KELVINATOR

maintain the right degree of humidity throughout entire food compartment

Here is an entirely new kind of electric refrigeration—that prevents rapid drying out of foods—makes it unnecessary to use covered dishes. Revolutionary new MOIST-MASTER models by Kelvinator maintain the right degree of humidity throughout the entire food compartment, retarding evaporation and keeping foods fresh, sweet and wholesome.

How MOIST-MASTER System Works
Kelvinator MOIST-MASTER Models have two refrigerating units instead of one. The first is a separate, completely-sealed double-walled freezer maintaining very low temperatures for freezing ice cubes and for cold storage. The second is a set of twin cooling coils that circulate moist, cool air to every nook and corner of the food compartment . . . and seldom frost up or need defrosting under average home conditions.
