RAYBURN'S PRAISE FOR POAGE QUOTED IN SHEEHY SPEECH

A letter from House Majority Congressman W. R. Poage of Waco for his cooperation with Rayburn's leadership in the national house of representatives and for his support of President Roosevelt's policies in congress was read by John Sheehy, Waco attorney, in a broadcast over WACO Friday, according to the Waco News-Tribune.

The letter written to O. D. Graham, state democratic executive committeeman from Thorndale, was in response to a written inquiry by Graham asking Rayburn to give Representative Poage's record in regard to cooperation with the national administration. The letter follows:

"Washington, D. C. July 3, 1940.

Mr. O. D. Graham, Executive Committeeman, Thorndale, Texas.

Dear Mr. Graham: "I have your letter asking me to give you the standing of your congressman, Honorable W. R. Poage, and further as to whether he has cooperated with my leadership and with the program of the president.

"In answer, let me say that Mr. Poage, by his industry and intelligence has created a fine impression on his colleagues here. He has cooperated with my leadership in the house to a fine degree and has been a strong supporter of the policies of the Roosevelt Administration.

"You understand I do not take stock in primary elections as between democratic candidates but you have asked me Mr. Poage's standing and I have sought to give it to you as I interpret it.

"With every good wish, I am sincerely yours,

(Signed) Sam Rayburn"

Endorsement, or rather a letter of the kind written by Mr. Rayburn, as quoted above, shows that Mr. Poage is highly regarded by his Democratic colleagues, the heads of the present administration, and the Honorable Sam Rayburn, House Majority Leader and others.

Louis Robertson and wife were guests in Gatesville Saturday in the home of Press Bond and family.

Guests in the C. M. Crawford home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Huckabee and Miss Mary Elizabeth Hearn of Waco. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Maude Hearn Smedley of Waco and Mrs. Ovie Couch of Terrell, who had spent the past week with their sister, Mrs. Crawford, and other relatives.

LIBRARY RECEIVED 20 VOLUMES FROM WASHINGTON

The Gatesville Public Library announces receipt of twenty volumes of agricultural year books from Washington thru Congressman W. R. Poage.

This addition was badly needed, it is said, in the agricultural section of the library, and contains accurate, interesting and profitable knowledge for Coryell county farmers and stockmen.

Especial attention is called by the librarians to two books: "Soils and Men" and "Food Life".

All readers and thinkers of this section are invited to visit the library and avail themselves of the privileges. New books are constantly being added, and yet, more books are needed.

CONGRESSMAN W. R. POAGE TO SPEAK AT COURTHOUSE LAWN TONITE 8 P. M.: BIG CROWD EXPECTED

Congressman W. R. Poage, of the 11th Congressional District, this district, arrived in Waco late Sunday and is scheduled to speak at Gatesville on the east side of the courthouse tonight at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Poage, who came back to Texas due to the fact that Congress has adjourned for the National Democratic Convention in Chicago, and his subject will probably be along the lines of "national problems" or "what's going on in Washington."

People from every section of Coryell county are expected to attend the rally, and also many from other counties of the 11th district.

Congressman Poage has during most of his tenure of office, spent most of his time in Washington, and has been unable to visit his district as much as he would like, and only has some five or six days before he must return to Washington to continue work on matters continually arising in the capital.

During the short time Congressman Poage is in Texas, he will make appearances in each of the counties in the district, and that is just about all that will be possible.

He will probably arrive in Gatesville about noon, or shortly afterward, and is expected to spend the time between his arrival and 8 o'clock visiting with as many folks as is possible during that short time.

Coryell county's first 1940 county seat political rally will be held on the east side of the courthouse lawn, Tuesday evening July 23, at 7:30 o'clock.

This rally, sponsored jointly by the Western Auto Associate Store, with W. T. Hix as manager, and the Coryell County News.

We're making a change.

We previously announced, we'd us the announcement column in The News, but, due to the fact that some of the boys didn't announce with us, we are not going to penalize them, and are, instead, going to use the Unofficial Democratic Ballot, as was published in Friday's issue of The News. This will give a square deal to everybody, and not put the "bee" on anybody.

There'll be a 5 minute limit (go-in', speakin' and comin') and this'll protect both the candidate (who deserves a break) and the voter (who also deserves a break).

The M. C. will make no long introductions, but will only call the office and then the name. There will be a little music before but due to the length of time it will take for everyone to speak, the music will have to be eliminated for the most part.

Sound equipment will be furnished by W. T. Hix, with his technician Curtis Sims at the controls.

Everybody is especially invited, and the whole thing's free. We'll see you there!

MACK BRAZIEL AND PLAY BOYS AT COLD SPRINGS

Mack Braziel and his Play Boys will play a program at Cold Springs Wednesday evening, the 17th at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Braziel invites the general public to be present and also, all candidates.

THOMPSON FOOD STORE FOLDS: 'NOTH'R STORE GONE

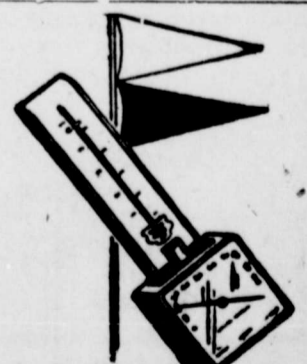

It's a calamity when a business closes here. We'd rather they'd stay here, whether we do business with them or not.

Anyway, we don't have our say about many of these things, and Thompson's Food Store closed finally, Saturday.

Why don't we like it? The reason is, board bills gone, clothing buyers, food buyers, cold drink buyers and bank accounts gone.

That's only a part that happens when a store or business closes here, and besides, some good folks have gone.

Mr. Thompson didn't give any reason for the going, but we're sure he had 'em.

YOUTH AND THE CRISIS

What is the youth of America thinking today?

Do the young people of the United States want war? Do they favor compulsory military service? What are their views regarding the foreign policy of this country?

Oddly enough, these are questions which are scarcely considered when the issues of war or peace, isolation or intervention, neutrality or nonbelligerency, are debated in public meetings, on the radio, in the halls of Congress.

What is the youth of America thinking today?

That is a pertinent and reasonable query, I submit, when the first to be called to the colors and the first to die in war are boys scarcely of voting age, when the debt incurred by the generation of today are the legacy of the generation of tomorrow, when the mistakes of a generation which has committed the most colossal and unforgivable blunders in the history of civilization must be shouldered by the boys and girls in our American colleges and universities, by those youths now beginning the great quest for success.

Lacking those articulate means of expression which their elders possess through the members of Congress, the press, the radio and civic organizations, the youth of this country finds itself deprived of means of expressing its opinions, viewpoints and ideas on the problems and issues confronting this country in such a manner as to be heard by a nation-wide audience.

That this is unjust goes without saying. That it will be remedied in the immediate future is a hope which only the foolhardy can share, a hope in which daydreamers alone may indulge. For since the beginning of the history of man—at least 6,000 years ago—wars have been generated through the ambitions and blunders of the older generation. And these wars have been fought by the younger generation.

That the youth of this country may not share the opinions of the more mature generation is a thought which has never penetrated the minds of our political leaders or, indeed, of the older generation itself. That is simple justice and fairness youth should be heard and a means of expression provided is a thought which has never reached the too-often closed minds of those of middle and old age.

A case in point is the recent furore aroused by the publication of an editorial in The Daily Texan, official student newspaper of the University of Texas. The editorial condemned compulsory military service. Therewith a member of the Texas Legislature demanded an investigation of alleged Communist and Nazi activities at the University and in particular in the staff of the student newspaper.

This writer does not know whether the expressions of the Texan editor reflected a tendency toward subversive attitudes or not, as the Legislator charge. But if this member of the Texas Legislature had bothered to read the Bill of Rights of the United States Constitution, he would have found (perhaps to his surprise) that the student editor was absolutely and unequivocally within his rights as a citizen in printing an OPINION on proposed compulsory military service for youth.

Whether the editor was right or wrong in his evaluation of compulsory military service is not the point at issue in this discussion. The question is this: Is an expression of opinion contrary to the proposals of the President, the Congress or other leaders to be regarded as treason or subversive activity?

Upon what possible basis could Nazi tendencies be inferred from an editorial condemning compulsory military service?

The collegiate press is the one means of expression which the youth of America has today. There youth speaks, voicing its hopes, its fears, its doubts. But some leaders would muzzle even this voice of the young people of America.

Many Americans are demanding that the United States declare war at once against Germany and throw all its resources into the task of defeating Hitler. But close analysis of these expressions of opinion reveals that they emanate from groups and individuals who would not be involved in the fighting if war ensued.

This writer is in daily contact by mail and in person with young people of college age from all parts of the country—leaders of our youth movements, of our college organizations, of our college newspapers. And I can state definitely and without fear of contradiction by responsible authorities that the young people of this country do not want war and see no need under present conditions.

They do not want war because they are infinitely more analytical, less hysterical, better informed and less prejudicial in their opinions than the average of the older people. It is a simple and unchallengeable verity that the young people of this country are better informed on questions of the day than their elders.

Do these people who are clamoring for war realize that this country is totally unprepared to wage war even on its own soil? The young people know it and they are puzzled and confused by the lack of knowledge, the crowd hysteria, that is gripping their elders.

The youth of America is thinking today. It is endeavoring mightily to rationalize a maze of conflicting facts. Such facts as these: Its fathers went to war ostensibly to save the world for democracy in 1917. But democracy was not saved and the fathers were bitterly disillusioned when they returned.

For twenty years, the older generation indoctrinated in the youth of America that never again must we fight except to protect our own soil, that Uncle Sam had been duped by subtle British and French propaganda into fighting before.

Now these same people who preached this doctrine for two decades are prepared to call upon the youth of this country again to shoulder arms and march to foreign soil when we are unprepared to defend not only this hemisphere but our own territory.

FARMER-POSTON NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED AT THE METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

The marriage of Miss Linna Beatrice Farmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Farmer of Gatesville, Texas, to Edward Aurelius Poston, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Poston, also of Gatesville, was solemnized at 6:00 o'clock Sunday evening, July 14, at the Methodist Church of Gatesville.

Palms, pastel gladioli and cathedral tapers decorated the altar before which Rev. S. L. Cullwell said the rites. The tapers were lighted by the ushers, who were Buster Cummings and Grady Dickie. Miss Marie Mathis sang "Oh Promise Me", accompanied by Miss Mamie Sue Halbrook, Organist, who also played "At Dawning", "Liebestraum" and the Lohengrin and Mendelssohn wedding marches.

Mrs. Mary Ella Walker, sister of the bride and matron-of-honor, wore a pink embroidered organdie dress, cut along princess lines, and a white lace picture hat. Her colonial bouquet was of summer flowers. The minister entered a side door near the altar simultaneously with the matron-of-honor, who entered the left aisle from the rear door. Esteen Poston, his brother's best-man, entered the aisle on the right with the groom, followed by the bride's father, who entered on the left.

The bride was gowned in a white triple sheer organdie dress, girdled with lace. Her finger tip illusion veil fell from a flowered white hat. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweetheart roses, stephanotis, and delphinium. For something old, she wore a pearl necklace given her by Miss Marie Mathis. After the service a reception was held at home of the bridegroom's parents. Garden flowers decorated the house. Miss Marie Mathis of Fort Worth presided at the bride's book. Mrs. J. A. Hampton of Dallas cut the cake, and Mrs. Hazen Ament served punch, assisted by Mrs. George Spindle of Seagoville.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

A Winter Treat - Baked Spiced Oranges

BY BETTY BARCLAY

What winter fruits lack in variety they more than make up for in universal appeal and availability. Everyone likes oranges and apples everyone can have them as Nature is generous with these fruits which are packed with health as well as flavor.

There's no better way to serve apples or oranges than just as they come from the tree—or in juice form for oranges, but there are many ways of cooking them which will be different and delight the family. For instance, these large California Navel oranges which ripen just in time for the holidays and can be had all winter are grand when seasoned a bit and baked to serve hot with meat—especially with goose, duck, pork or ham.

Many variations in cooked oranges to accompany the meat course have been originated by Californians—perhaps because California Navels, seedless and firmer-meat than most varieties, usually grow to a larger size than other oranges and are therefore easier to work with.

For the Baked Spiced Oranges pictured, choose large or medium-sized fruit, one orange for every two persons. Cut oranges in halves. Loosen segments in each half with a sharp knife or scissors. Top each half with:

- 1 teaspoon brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon butter
- Sprinkle of nutmeg and cinnamon

Bake in moderate oven (350°) for about 45 minutes or until well heated, and butter, sugar and spices have penetrated into the fruit. Serve as a meat accompaniment. Each orange half may be decorated with a cherry or a glazed cranberry. It is important that the oranges be hot when served.

If you don't have time to prepare these spiced oranges, why not try some broiled orange slices? Choose clean, unblemished fruit. Cut the whole, unpeeled fruit into slices ¼ inch thick. Marinate 30 minutes or more in Lemon French dressing, using ½ cup lemon juice, ½ cup salad oil and seasoning. Place about 3 inches under the flame and broil for 5 to 10 minutes until edges of orange slices are slightly browned. Serve hot.

Another recipe which is delicious is for baked oranges to be served hot with meat or cold in a salad or dessert.

- 4 Navel oranges
- 2 cups water
- 2 cups sugar
- ¾ cup white corn syrup

Boll whole, unpeeled oranges for about 30 minutes or until tender. Cool. Cut into halves, quarters or ½ inch slices. Mix corn syrup, sugar and water together and cook 5 minutes. Pour this syrup over the cooked oranges which have been placed in baking dish. Cover closely and bake at moderate temperature (350°) for 1½ hours. If orange pieces are not completely covered by syrup, baste frequently. Remaining syrup may be served with oranges as a sauce.

For variation syrup may be colored red, may be flavored with spice or with maple syrup. The orange may be stuck with whole cloves before baking.

To keep for future use, seal while hot in sterilized jars. For a salad, arrange pieces of baked orange around a mound of cottage or cream cheese on bed of lettuce; accompany with any desired dressing.

For a dessert, brown a marshmallow on each quarter or slice or sprinkle with coconut.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

Why not be smart — do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys—cut down your caloric intake—eat wisely and satisfyingly—there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. If not joyfully satisfied—money back.

MOUND DEFEATS POWERFUL PIDCOKE
"COKERS" 8-7 AT PIDCOKE SUNDAY

Nine full innings of inspired baseball was unfolded before hundreds of enthusiastic baseball fans at Pidcoke Sunday afternoon as Virgil Lockhart's Pidcoke Cokers were defeated by Mound by a score of 8-7.

In the box for the dandy little Mound club was "Schoolboy" Marion Holcomb, Flat high school star who hurled the full nine innings with his mates backing every play. Rutherford, another youthful right-hander served well for the Cokers until the final stages of the game when he retired in favor of Ward who finished the contest.

No home runs were knocked, no really sensational plays were executed, just nine innings of thrilling baseball that had every man on his toes striving to put over the run that would cinch the contest. Had Pidcoke been able to tighten up a wee bit more in the rough spots of the game, the outcome might have been different, however it is doubtful if they could have done more than tie the hustling Mound crew who were playing an inspired brand of "bush league" baseball.

This was the second defeat that the Cokers had received at the hands of the Mound team this season and they were slightly favored to win. No reports on the other games played Sunday had been received at press time.

Arnolds' Lose To Coca-Cola Bottlers

The Arnold Electricians, one of the early season favorites in the City Softball Race were defeated last Thursday night by the Coca-Cola Bottlers by a count of 7-1. This was to have been one of the closest games on the schedule and the six run difference in the score was indeed a surprise. The greatest surprise of all came Monday nite, however, as the Electricians were defeated by the Red and White Food Store's team by a score of 14-8. With the loss of these two games the Electricians are now down to the third bracket with the Firemen and the Red and White team, while the Bottlers occupy the top berth and the CCC second highest.

In Friday night's games the Red and White crew romped on the NYA, 20-6 and the Firemen beat the Dixie Gas, 17-2.

Plainview Crowds
Jonesboro Sunday

The high flying Jonesboro Eagles were almost unseated from their lofty perch in the county baseball race when they came out a scant two runs ahead of the Plainview club on the Jonesboro diamond Sunday afternoon. The final score was 11-9, Jonesboro.

The re-vamped lineup of the Plainview aggregation is apparently working like a "Swiss Watch" and had these alternations been made at an earlier date they might easily have fought their way into the county play-off.

No information, other than the score on this game was reported.

Blackfoot Defeats Turnersville 20-4

The Blackfoot Indians massacred the Turnersville Buffaloes by a score of 20-4 Sunday on the Blackfoot diamond and swept closer to the Jonesboro Eagles and are almost a cinch shot to compete in the county play-off. Sparked by the heavy hitting of several slugging Indians the Blackfoot crew marched to an easy victory over the hapless Buffaloes who were only able to drive over 4 runs during the fray.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S something wrong somehow about these husband-and-wife stories that people are always telling me. In the stories the husband and the wife are generally saying wise cracks at one another, and the wife is always getting the best of the old man in the argument. Now, I don't think it's that way in real life. Most husbands can shout louder than wives, and it's the loud answer that turneth away the come-back. Leastways, that's what I've observed.

Well, some fellow told me a story where the husband gets in the wise stinger at the end, and while it ain't much of a story, it leaves a good taste for the men, so here goes. This here woman was different from most women, because she was jawing all the time. When she got real good and mad at her husband she told him, "Don't you dare to speak to me for a year."

So this here poor fellow kinda thinks it over, and then he says, "All right, Martha, if you really think you can get it all said in a year, I'll be tickled to keep my mouth shut and listen just that long, so's maybe I can mention some of my own opinions about this affair for a couple of minutes, maybe."

ROAD SHOW AT RITZ THEATRE

The story of the activities of the greatest foe of youth is dramatically brought to the screen in "Tell Your Children", which comes to the RITZ Theatre today and tomorrow.

Produced with a cast of many of the finest young players from Hollywood and a carefully chosen group of older actors, this thrilling feature daringly tells nothing but the truth about marihunan and its menace to the minds and bodies of young people of today.

No attempt has been made to color the situations dealing with the after-effects which this insiduous and cheapest of all drugs has upon the preparatory school children of today. None was necessary.

 A fictionized treatment to eliminate the real names of the people involved in cases from the files of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics, was all that was necessary for a dramatic thunderbolt which stands as an indictment of every American of whatever age.

"Tell Your Children" reproduces with detailed authenticity the ma-chinations of that low order of criminals whose wealth is created through creation in the bodies of America's high school children an appetite for marihunan.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

WHEN I was down in Virginia
 I heard some fellows talking about Southerners being kinda easy-going and not very much in a hurry. This here guy was from Alaska or somewhere where he said folks hustled around a bit.
 He was sore because it took Virginians so long, he said to get on and off an elevator.

But there was another guy there that had been around the world a bit, and he consoled my friend from Alaska by telling him how easy-going the people in Holland are. He told several instances about Hollanders taking things easy when other folks might be excited. He told about a Dutch woman that was coming along the street in some little village down by the sea, and one or two of the neighbor women got to gossiping with her about this and that. They talked for a long time about how much the babies weighed and how long it would be until there'd be another dance in the neighborhood.
 Then the woman that had been walking along the street says:

"Well, I got to be going along now. My husband is all alone in the backyard. Yes, the dike busted this morning, and he's holding the ocean out of the house with his thumb in a hole in the dike. He sent me to get a carpenter and a plumber to fix the thing up, and I suppose he'll be wanting me to kinda hurry along. Well, goodbye, and come over and see us sometime."

By BRACK CURRY

WENDELL L. WILLKIE

The Republican Party cast off the shackles of old guardism in naming Wendell L. Willkie as its nominee for the presidency. Philadelphia marked the final denouement of the personalities and influences that provoked the debacles of 1932 and 1936 and that worked mightily to maintain control in 1940.

Wendell Willkie personifies a new spirit of Republicanism for American political life, one that challenges the basic concepts of the new deal administration while repudiating the reactionary philosophy which dominated the G. O. P. from the time of Theodore Roosevelt to 1940.

As factors in shaping the policies of a Republican administration, or in directing the strategy of a Republican opposition party during the ensuing four years, the ubiquitous Hoover, the ambitious Pew, the somnolent Taft, are negative.

The group which supported Willkie in the Quaker City proceedings is composed largely of youthful, liberal leaders who have nothing in common with the old guard elements of the party. Governor Stassen, Representative Bruce Barton, Governor Baldwin of Connecticut, Governor Landon, Senator Vandenberg epitomize the liberal element of the Republican Party which has worked for years to direct Republican thought into new and more modern channels.

Wendell Willkie will conduct a vigorous, aggressive, thoughtful campaign. The issues which this campaign is destined to decide will be discussed; they should not and will not be submerged under a temporary war hysteria.

The Republican Party averted disaster for itself and for this nation when it repudiated the fickle Dewey and the complacent Taft and refused again to carry the cross for the discredited Hoover. Neither of these men was capable of carrying on a campaign predicated upon the real issue of the day for neither of them has discerned what those issues are.

During the pre-convention campaign Mr. Dewey changed policies as often as he made speeches. Senator Taft buried his head in the sand and refused to admit that this nation was confronted with the possibility of a foreign attack.

Mr. Willkie is not a politician. He is not an idealist. Rather he is a pragmatist who came up the hard way and has kept up to date on all the problems with which this nation is and will be confronted.

This column does not say that he should be elected in November. It does say unequivocally that the choice of Mr. Willkie by the Republicans is fortuitous both from the party standpoint and in the interest of this nation.

For this fact is certain: The people of the United States should be given an opportunity to vote upon the contrasting philosophies of government which the new deal on the one hand and the Republican Party on the other hand represent. And these philosophies and the issues which surround them should be thoroughly and sanely debated by the opposing political leaders in order that those voters who are not already acquainted with them may know for what they are voting in November.

In a national election, the people of this country never have voted for or against the government as now constituted. That is, the government and the policies for which it stands and has stood since 1937 is not the government which was voted into power in 1936.

If the voters approve of this government, its personnel and its policies, in November, then it will be right and proper for it to continue along its present lines. If the voters repudiate this government, then the new administration will have the go-ahead signal to institute its program.

It will be deplorable indeed if these issues are obscured by a presidential campaign centering around the third-term issue. For if the President accepts the nomination of the new deal party for a third term, the campaign inevitably will center predominantly around that issue.

This column favors the nomination of Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the Democratic ticket. As one of the outstanding secretaries of state in the history of this nation, as a man of liberal but sane political philosophy, as one who could unite all the factions of his party, Secretary Hull would eliminate the third term controversy from the campaign.

At a time when national unity is essential for the defense preparations now underway, the nomination of Secretary Hull would be a great step toward preserving that unity even in the midst of a political campaign.

For a Hull-Willkie contest could be without much of the bitterness, the rancor and disunity, that would accompany a contest to decide not only the continuance of the new deal program but also the much-debated question of breaking the third-term precedent.

This country could be assured of sanity in the conduct of domestic affairs and of perspicacity based upon the conduct of our foreign relations for eight years if Mr. Hull should occupy the White House for the four years beginning next January 20.

The Democrats have only to nominate Mr. Hull to equal the Republicans in convention sagacity.

F.S.A. LAND LOANS STILL AVAILABLE TO GOOD TENANTS

The period during which tenant farmers may apply for loans to buy their own farms has been extended in Coryell County to July 20, it was announced today by FSA Supervisor, Mr. George C. Moore.

"This application period has been extended," Mr. Moore said, "in order that every worthy tenant farmer in the county can apply for one of these loans. A number of farmers who are eligible for these loans did not know that they could apply for them until the period had closed."

Tenant farmers to whom these loans are made do not have to make any down payment, but those who have an adequate supply of livestock and equipment free of debt are given preference. The money is repayable over a 40-year period at three per cent interest.

Application blanks for these loans may be obtained at the FSA office located in Gatesville, Texas.

SELZNICK INTERNATIONAL PRESENTS

THE YOUNG IN HEART
 WITH JANET GAYNOR DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR. PHYLLIS GODDARD
 ROLAND (TOPPER) YOUNG - BILLIE BURKE

with Henry Stephenson • Directed by Richard Wallace • Produced by DAVID O. SELZNICK • Released thru United Artists

SYNOPSIS: The Carleton family, society hoboes, had rescued Miss Ellen Fortune from a French railway wreck, then had succeeded in becoming her permanent house guests in London. "Colonel" Anthony Carleton, aging actor, pretended to be an army officer, and was really charming. George-Anne Carleton had no time for her suitor, Duncan MacCrae, because she was working full time to become the heiress of Miss Fortune. Her mother, "Marmy," agreed that the Colonel and his son Richard should look for work to make Miss Fortune believe they were honest citizens. To his great disgust, Colonel Carleton, or the "Sahib" as his family called him, got a job selling an automobile called the "Flying Wombat."

Chapter Four

Parting from his father made Richard a little distraught. So when he came to an elaborate engineering office, he absent-mindedly walked in and sat down. On the wall were large murals of men at work. The tasteful sight made him shudder.

Opposite was a more attractive scene. A nice-looking girl sat at a soon... So we don't need any Adela in our lives — either of us."

George-Anne twisted Duncan's ring on her finger.

"You really think so, Rick?" Richard met the Sahib on the stairway, and borrowed a five-pound note to entertain Leslie. The old gentleman had been selling Wombats like mad, and was generously flush. After dinner, Richard and Leslie went to the zoo.

There, by the penguin pool, Richard kissed Leslie, after he had, as he said, "skipped all the approach work." Leslie seemed to like it. At home, George-Anne and her parents were playing bridge with Miss Fortune, who, with the Sahib shaking out sleevefuls of honors, won several rubbers. The game over, George-Anne took Miss Fortune to her room.

"I'm so afraid you'll go away and make a home of your own," the old lady said. "If I know you'd stay, I'd never be afraid again!" George-Anne said the Carletons undoubtedly would stay. It was the invitation they had been waiting for. But what about the will? George-Anne's work was only half done.

On his way home from Leslie's, Richard ran into Duncan MacCrae, who remarked he was off to India.

"Why don't you stop in and say good-bye to George-Anne?" Richard invited.

"She detests the sight of me."

"If you were a man I'd knock you down!" he told her.

secretary's desk, typing. She looked up, saw Richard and smiled.

"Are you quite comfortable?"

"Quite. Do you mind?"

"Planning to stay long?"

"I don't know. I haven't a job."

The girl gave Richard a sour glance. "What can you do besides sit there and look rather too handsome for your own good?"

"I'm a champion swimmer. I play first-class tennis. Fair golf. And I dance like the angel Gabriel."

"This is the British-American Civil and Hydraulic Engineering Company."

"Don't civil engineers ever dance?"

"Rarely and not well."

"Then," said Richard, "I shall fill a crying need." He walked over and sat on the edge of her desk. "I like the atmosphere of this place."

The secretary observed that the atmosphere was strictly business. Richard replied that would enable him to become an engineer all the sooner.

"I need somebody to sort the mail," she told him. "Three quid a week. Come back in the morning. Eight o'clock."

"You couldn't make it nine, could you?"

"I said eight. Good-bye."

Richard not only went to work, but he liked the job. He learned his employer's name was Leslie Saunders, that she was intelligent as well as pretty, and although his interest grew daily, he didn't concern himself with the state of her finances. This unconcern was discovered by George-Anne one evening as her brother was dressing for a date with Leslie.

George-Anne was distressed. For a Carleton to ignore the condition of a friend's bankroll was odd indeed, and she determined to snap him out of it.

"Saw Adela Jennings today," she said. "Might be smart to have tea with her. Perhaps her daddy has changed his mind — about you."

Richard was non-chalant. "We're pretty well set without her... The old girl's more in love with us every day... Bound to make a will

"Don't be silly — for all you know she may be eating her heart out for you."

"You don't think she is, Carleton?"

"Shouldn't wonder... Say, how about a nightcap? It'll buck you up no end."

"That's vurry decent of you, Carleton."

Some time later, singing and stumbling footsteps awakened Miss Fortune. Through her doorway, she saw Richard, assisted by Duncan and George-Anne. With a tolerant smile, she closed the door.

George-Anne was not so tolerant. After Richard was helped off with his shoes, she confronted Duncan in the hall.

"You did it on purpose!"

"I did not! How could I know one bottle of champagne and a few small brandies could make a man drunk?"

Duncan apologized further. He said he couldn't live without George-Anne, although she was "a bad-tempered, bad-mannered, outrageous female." Richard told him, he said, that she was pining away for love.

"You got him drunk and made him say it!" accused George-Anne.

"If you were a man, I'd knock you down for that!"

"I wish you would... I don't want you around..." Miss Fortune opened her door again. George-Anne hastily explained that Richard was ill, "and Mr. MacCrae was kind enough to bring him home."

Duncan denied this. "Richard is extremely drunk, Miss Fortune, and it's my fault."

George-Anne suggested that Duncan go home. He told her he might go farther than that. There was a chance, he said, that his regiment would go to India.

"Chance or hope?" angrily demanded George-Anne.

Miss Fortune shook her head as Duncan departed.

"Young people are so foolish," she said. "They don't know love never comes twice."

While plowing last week for his brother, Cordie Whatley heard the rattling sound of a rattler and stopped his team. Lady Luck was certainly with him and the team he was driving, because he stopped his team and plow in such a way that the old boy couldn't move, rattle or bite. He managed to put the snake away in a nice way. It had 14 rattlers and weighed 79 pounds.

EMERGENCY CALL COMES TO SOUTHERN AND NORTHERN BAPTISTS

No period of history has ever been so fraught with change, surprise, suffering and widespread devastation as the present. No rank of humanity is exempt. A call of the most urgent nature was presented to the Southern Baptist Convention at its recent meeting in Baltimore, Maryland. This call came from the British Baptists Missionary Society, the Society of the immortal William Carey and the oldest Baptist Mission Society in the world. This society now has 407 missionaries in India, Ceylon, Jamaica, China and the Congo. With the drastic means the British government has taken to help in support of defense the means of support for the missionaries has been almost entirely wiped out and these missionaries are facing starvation on their various fields and unless their Christlike comrades from various Christian sections came to their assistance at once their suffering will be indescribable. The scripture of the Good Samaritan cannot be more applicable than now in this stressful call which comes from these brethren.

They have asked a loan of $250,000.00 from both the Northern and Southern Conventions. But the Southern Board is recommending that we give them (not loan) $200,000.00. The Northern Board is joining in this move. Certainly it is what we should do. A liberal response is being made everywhere to this plea.

Sunday, the 21st of this month, a free will offering will be received at both services for this purpose. Every Baptist is urged to pray over the matter and come prepared to make a worthy love offering. Every boy and every girl, every person young and old will want to have a part in this most worthy cause. Remember the date, Sunday, 21st.

Will Rogers' Humorous Story

By WILL ROGERS

"ALWAYS hate to see a fellow grow up too serious. He's likely to take himself seriously if he keeps it up, and then there's no telling what might become of him. When a guy gets so serious that he can't see a joke and can't bear to have other folks have a good time, it's time to call in a grave-digger to look after him.

Well, there was a serious guy on one of these here ocean liners, and he was all the time bothered because there was some young folks on board that danced and laughed a good deal. Some youngsters just naturally will dance and laugh, you know, and all that makes some of the serious parties awful sore.

So he had complained to the stewards and the stockers and the purser several times about the light-headed carryings-on, but nobody had paid much attention to him. Finally, some inspector or other was going around examining the folks at boat drill, and he was showing some of these girls how to put on their life preservers.

"You don't have to give them no life preservers," says the sour guy. "Why not?"

"They're so darned empty-headed that they'd never sink below the chin," he says.
